The good work that Mr. Cose has done as a member of the Plainfield Council since 1914 is proving a big factor in building up support locally. As chairman of the Fire Board, he has done wonders in improving the department service without adding any great amount to the expense account and his efforts in other directions to hold down the tax rate have been appreciated by the small property owners who all too frequently bear more than their share of public bills. Mr. Cose's slogan, "A business man not a politician," has struck the popular fancy because of the common knowledge that the sheriff's office in the past has more than once been ridden with politics.

In the present national crisis, it is of more importance than ever that the sheriff should not be hampered by political obligations and in asking the voters to aid his candidacy, Mr. Cose has made it a special point to declare his independence in this respect. He has at no time been allied with a machine organization. If elected to the office he will enter upon the duties with a full knowledge that he has pledged himself to no one, thus eliminating the "pull" that is worked overtime when a political friend wants a favor at the Union county court house. Mr. Cose's frankness in discussing these matters has made a strong impression on the thinking voters and the latter fact is one thing that leads the wiseacres to declare he will be the regular Republican nominee for sheriff at the general election next November.

All Plans Complete For Drafted Men's Departure

With all preparations completed seventy-three of the men in the Plainfield district conscripted for the National Army will leave the North avenue station tomorrow morning. They will board the 8:28 train for Elizabeth, at which point they will transfer to the Pennsylvania Railroad and continue to Camp Dix at Wrightstown. From present indications a big gathering of relatives and friends will be on hand to wish the embryo soldiers "God speed" as they take their departure.

It was announced from the Exemption Board's office today that several changes might possibly occur in the personnel of the seventy-three men selected last Tuesday. This is due to changes either made or impending through the action of the District Board at Newark. The first of the seventy-three to be dropped is William Wendell, of 515 Madison avenue, who was exempted because of the important nature of his work on government munitions at the Scott shop. Another case now in abeyance is that of John Stopp, a married man who failed to file verification of the fact. There is a possibility that his case may be reopened this afternoon. Chairman Charles A. Reed has not issued official notice to any other accepted men to report for the purpose of making up the contingent of seventy-three but issues an open invitation to any of those who might wish to go at this time. If they report to him they will be assigned as the vacancies occur.

As predicted in the Record, several weeks ago, the executive ability of Councilman Charles A. Loizeaux has been recognized by the Board to the extent of appointing him acting captain of the squad which will leave Plainfield tomorrow. The young official has been making a study of military tactics since his acceptance following examination and his choice is considered a wise one. The following have also been named by the Board as squad leaders: Richard Harrigan, Bradford Willard, Edward E. Hoagland, Joseph E. McLaughlin, George H. Fisher, Jr., Kenneth L. Phillips, Augustus C. Nash, Herbert L. Terry and Donald Smineck.

Announcement comes from Wrightstown that the conscripts in Union county, with the exception of those from Elizabeth, are to be assigned to companies by territorial divisions in the 308th Field Artillery, Colonel C. M. Bunker in command.

Subject to the slight changes as mentioned above, the Plainfield men will assemble at the Plainfield High School this afternoon at 2 o'clock and receive final instructions before entraining. The first roll call will be made at this time. The list of men who will leave tomorrow, corrected to noon today, is as follows:

SUNDAY CALL GIVES FORT DESERVED BOOST.

The Newark Sunday Call gave Leslie R. Fort, of Cedarbrook road, a well deserved boost in its "Men of Affairs" column this week, although they got the Plainfield Daily Press mixed up with the Courier-News in speaking of Mr. Fort's journalistic connections. The article follows:

"Leslie R. Fort, son of former Governor Fort, and until recently editor of the Plainfield Courier-News, must stand pretty well in the opinion of his neighbors. Not only has he been nominated by the Republicans for councilman-at-large of Plainfield, but he has also been indorsed by the Democrats, so that his election is assured. If Leslie isn't careful he will have as much difficulty in deciding as to what party he belongs to as his father has had for several years past. It takes a many-sided man to achieve such universal popularity."

ST. JOSEPH'S EUCHRE & DANCE.

St. Jospeh's Holy Name Society will conduct a euchre and dance in St. Joseph's Social Hall on Tuesday night, October 1. The proceeds will be added to the fund of the society for the payment of sick and death benefits. The committee completing the arrangements is composed of Edmund Duchesne, Robert McCormack, James Tobin, Thomas Meaney, Nicholas Helregal, Patrick McDonough and Richard Boyce.

ANTHONY McDONOUGH.

Anthony McDonough, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McDonough, of West Second street, died Tuesday morning. The child was two months old. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

TO BECOME AVIATORS.

Edward Wallace and Charles F. Ivins, both of this city, have successfully passed the examinations for the Aviation Corps and are expecting orders at any time to report for training at one of the camps.

For the benefit of the North Plainfield Home Defense League, Col. Ferari's Shows will open a week's engagement in the borough on Monday. It will be held on the carnival grounds on Lower Somerset street and will be the largest and best that has come to Plainfield this season.

TWO MORE LOCAL DENTISTS COMMISSIONED.

Two more Plainfield dentists received word from the War Department this week that they had been given commissions in the Dental Corps, making a total of five local men who have volunteered for that branch of the service. The latest to join the corps are Dr. T. S. Davis and Dr. David B. Thickstun, both of whom as well known throughout the city and have large practices. They are momentarily expecting orders to report for active duty. They are both second lieutenants.

The other three in the service are Dr. Chalmers H. Crist, Dr. David Atwood and Dr. R. S. Stevens. The first of the trio is on active service in France with the American expeditionary forces.

JOHN CASEY HAS THREE SONS IN DRAFT.

John F. Casey, Sr., of West Third street, is one of those who has had all of his sons drafted. Of his three boys, two of them leave tomorrow for Camp Dix, at Wrightstown. They are John and James. Frank Casey, the third son, is a resident of Newark, where he will be taken in the next call unless he obtains a discharge.

FIRST STRAWRIDE.

The senior class of the North Plainfield High School will go on a strawride tonight, it being the first affair of the kind this season.

Miss Anna Doyle, of East Fifth street, has practically recovered after a tedious illness of more than eight weeks.

JAMES E. WARNER
(NOW UNDER-SHERIFF)
Respectfully solicits your vote and support in the Primary, September 25, for the REPUBLICAN NOMINATION
—FOR—
Sheriff of Union County
"He knows the work, has made good as Under-Sheriff and deserves the promotion."
PRIMARY, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25th
Always a Republican, JAMES E. WARNER has made good as Under-Sheriff. He will, beyond question, make good as Sheriff of Union County, with three years' experience under Sheriff George C. Otto (who by law cannot succeed himself) to guide him, during which time every kind of service that may fall to the lot of a Sheriff has been demanded.
—Paid for by James E. Warner Campaign Committee.

Style--Without Extravagance
The most gratifying feature of Krauthamer garments is the reasonableness of their prices—you will appreciate how low they really are, if you're already looked in the stores. And as for smartness! Well, you are going to find here the most becoming, youthifying selections of outer wear that you ever imagined could exist.
As the saying goes, "seeing is believing"—then, to prove our remarks, come and see!
FINE TAILORED SUITS
There are broadcloths of silky finish, and quiet, serviceable poplins; for variety, too, there are Poiret twills, tweeds, velours and a dozen other fabrics which have been made up into the trimmest, neatest assortment of Autumn suits in Jersey State. In all the new and staple colors, of course, and a wide range of sizes.

SPLENDID FALL COATS
A clever turn of the collar here—a broader belt, perhaps, there—little touches, it is true, but the result gives the soldierly appearanse so much to be desired, and stamped correct by those who set the fashions. The materials have been selected with an especial view to warmth without weight, so that equally good service can be had in January as in September.
DAINTY DRESSES
The frocks will prove a delight to you, as to all others who have had the pleasure of seeing them. There isn't a one which you will not want for your own—that will really be the dijeult part of shoosing!
NEW SKIRTS
There was once a time when young Miss Americs envied brother his ability to stick his hands in his pockets; the new skirts are amply provided with them. In all sizes, colors and prices.
OUR GUARANTEE: Make you selection. Pay for it and take it away. One week later, if your purchase has not proven entirely satisfactory, bring it back. We will cheerfully refund the full price, and your car-fare as well!

PERSONAL

Miss Anna W. Warnock, of Craig place, is enjoying a month's vacation from her duties in New York. She is spending the time with relatives in Brooklyn, Newburgh, and other places, returning to her position October 1.

Mrs. Joseph Clark and daughter, Miss Helen Clark, of Watchung avenue, who have been spending the summer at Midland Beach, will return home the latter part of next week.

Edward A. Vermeule and family, of Jackson avenue, returned this week after an extended stay at York Beach, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lapp, of Greenbrook road, are the parents of a son born to them a few days ago.

Mrs. V. W. Nash, Jr., of Martine avenue, who was recently so ill that blood transfusion was resorted to, has continued to improve steadily during the past week and it is now quite probable that she may be up and about within a few days.

Mrs. Amy E. Lorton, of West Fourth street, is recovering after a severe attack of ptomaine poisoning, which first became apparent last Monday. Her condition for a time Monday night was considered critical.

Mayor Leighton Calkins, who recently returned from East Gloucester, Mass., after a two weeks' stay, will leave today for the Catskill Mountains to spend a week.

Harry Scull, a former well-known Plainfielder who has been living in Memphis, Tenn., for many years but who recently located in Buffalo, N. Y., spent the forepart of the week in town with his father, Jesse M. Scull, of West Fourth street. Mr. Scull is in the wholesale produce business in Buffalo and came East primarily to attend business matters in New York city. He was prominent in Y. M. C. A. athletics for several seasons and first went South to remain about 1906.

Walter I. Firstbrook, of East Front street, returned home today after a two weeks' vacation at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove.

Miss Catherine Kane, of East Front street, has returned home after a pleasant week's stay at Asbury Park.

Miss Thelma Cook, a former resident of this city, who has been living in Sharon, Pa., for the past year, has been visiting Miss Madelyn Apgar, of Clinton avenue.

Mrs. Leslie R. Fort, of Cedarbrook road, returned Wednesday after a stay at Buckhill Falls, Cresco, Pa.

Mrs. Samuel Rothberg, of Park avenue, is entertaining her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frohsin, of Atlanta, Ga.

George Keen, of West Front street, will return to his duties as carrier for the local Postoffice tomorrow, after enjoying his annual two weeks' vacation.

Henry Hansen, of East Second street, has returned home from Toronto, Can., where he served as New Jersey delegate at the annual High Court session of the Independent Order of Foresters.

Miss Alice Ryan, of West Sixth street, left this week for an automobile trip to Connecticut, during which she will visit friends in that State. She will be away two weeks in all.

W. T. Morgan, of the Hotel Kensington staff, returned yesterday after a weeks' visit with relatives at his former home in Allentown, Pa.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Helen Rosenberg, daughter of Mrs. Nathan E. Rosenberg, of Norfolk, Va., to Harvey Rothberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kalman Rothberg, of Madison avenue. No date has been set for the wedding. The engagement comes as a sequel to a friendship begun several months ago when Mr. Rothberg was a member of the Officers' Reserve Training Corps at Fort Meyer, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Emmons of Washington avenue, who have been spending the summer at Manasquan, were in town for two days the forepart of the week but afterward returned to the shore. They will continue to occupy their bungalow at Manasquan until November 1.

Harry C. Van Emburgh, of East Second street, has been confined to his home during the past week with a severe attack of ptomaine poisoning.

Sergeant Andrew Saffron, of the local police department, returned to his duties Wednesday, after a month's absence caused by an illness with pleurisy.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, Jr., of West Fourth street, returned home this week after spending the summer at their cottage at Oak Bluffs, Mass.

Paul Whitford, of East Front street, left Monday for Marcus Hook, Pa., near Philadelphia, where he will remain for several months on a contract secured by Eaton & Company, the concern which has just completed the erection of the Post Tool Company's new office building on South Second street. Mr. Whitford has been an employe of the Eaton Company for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Garret A. Keating, who were married last week, have returned from their wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and are now at their new home at 602 Lee place.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Although ever since Labor Day residents have been flocking back to the city from seashore and mountain resorts, activities in club women's circles will not be resumed until the forepart of October, for the most part. The column of "Women's Activities" conducted by the Record last fall and winter was the first time that a local paper had made a special effort to present such a news feature. With this issue the column will again be a weekly feature, and any articles sent to the Record office will be gladly used.

Last year, under the administration of Mrs. Charles W. Stockton, the State Federation of Women's Clubs tried the experiment of publishing its own official magazine. The venture, which was distinctly successful, is to be continued this year, and is regarded now by federation officials as one of the permanent activities of the federation.

The Bulletin's second year begins with the October number, which is to be published on the 25th of this month. Mrs. Charles A. Latham, who edited the Bulletin last year, continues as editor this year. Miss Julie Ward Healy, the State Federation treasurer, is the financial manager, and Mrs. F. A. Dudley will have charge of the department of club notes.

The October number contains a letter from the new State president, Mrs. Schermerhorn; a greeting from Mrs. Yardley, the first president of the federation; an article by Mrs. Warren, a former president; a timely discussion of a live club topic by Ms. Leonard Robbins, the new president of Contemporary, of Newark, as well as department news and interesting contributions by district vice presidents and others.

Clubwomen who have not as yet subscribed to the Bulletin for the new year may communicate with Miss Healy, in order to be sure to receive the first number.

The Plainfield Belgian Relief Society has resumed its fall activities by inaugurating a campaign which will, it is hoped, furnish Christmas cheer to many Belgian waifs. Through Miss Hartridge the society has issued a call to generous Plainfielders to make donations of useful articles and play things which will be packed in big boxes, sent to Belgium and distributed at vantage points on Christmas. Mrs. Frederick W. Wallace is in charge of the collecting and things may be sent to her home on Hillside avenue until November 1.

Plans are now being made looking toward the resume of activities by the Monday Afternoon Club and for that reason a meeting of the executive board of the club has been called for next Wednesday, at which time the fall and winter schedule of meetings will be drawn up. The season will open, however, on October 8, when a reception will be held followed by a series of short talks.

The Musical Club is also preparing for the resumption of its meetings, the first to be held sometime during the forepart of October. Mrs. Albert Atterbury is the president of the club for the coming year and will probably call a meeting in the near future for the purpose of planning the season's program.

The first meeting of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the Somerset Street School on Thursday afternoon. It will be the first since last spring and plans for the fall and winter activities will be made.

The first workshop meeting of the local branch of the Women's Section of the Navy League was held in the parish house of Grace Episcopal church yesterday morning, at which time wool and needles were distributed. Meetings are to be held every Thursday morning during the winter. Letters have been received by Mrs. Rufus Delafield, the president, from Governor Edge, Congressman Capstick and Mayor Calkins congratulating the members upon the work.

Although the King's Daughters' Union has been active all summer, plans were made at a recent meeting of the trustees for the fall activities. On October 5 the annex to the Day Nursery, on West Front street, will be formally opened with a reception. It is to be used as a clinic for children and was presented to the union by T. J. Mumford. The building has been changed to suit its new use and connected with the main structure by a covered alleyway.

The trustees are also planning for a tag day to be held on October 13th in order to raise funds for the year's work. On that date the members of the fourteen circles in the union will canvass the city under the leadership of team captains to raise funds.

The College Club, composed of local graduates of the various women's colleges in the country, is planning to resume its meetings after having them discontinued for the summer.

A REAL REPUBLICAN!

In the face of opposition, direct and indirect, both within and without his own party,

ELIAS F. APPLEGATE

Republican Candidate for the Sheriff Nomination,

Succeeded in opening up the business affairs of the County of Union so that every taxpayer could see how his money was being spent.

Freeholder Applegate succeeded in having those officers of the county charged with the responsibility of government rendering to the people a strict accounting of every dollar paid out.

Applegate forced the Supreme Court probe and the Grand Jury investigation of the conduct of the people's business.

Applegate achieved what he set out to achieve—a careful and economical handling of the county's financial affairs.

Applegate has shown himself to be the most aggressive and the most fearless member of the Board of Freeholders.

He has shown himself to be the type of Republican official that every Republican voter need not hesitate to support.

He is a REAL REPUBLICAN! He will make an able SHERIFF.

FOR ASSEMBLY CANDIDATE
At the Republican Primaries

Arthur E. Warner

To the Republicans of Plainfield:

Three candidates for the Assembly are to be selected at the primaries NEXT TUESDAY

Three years ago, ARTHUR E. WARNER was a candidate for the Assembly nomination and carried EVERY WARD in the City of Plainfield. There is no candidate for the Assembly from Plainfield, consequently your support will go to those from other parts of the county.

Will you not include the name of ARTHUR E. WARNER, who is endorsed by many of the best citizens of your city, who stands honestly and fearlessly for legislation that is beneficial to the welfare of the people.

ARTHUR E. WARNER is unpledged to any candidates for appointive offices.

ARTHUR E. WARNER merited your support three years ago when every ward in Plainfield gave him a majority.

ARTHUR E. WARNER is broadminded, experienced and sympathetic with the people and can be depended on to give all a square deal.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, SEPT. 21, 1917.

THE ELEVENTH HOUR OF PRIMARY CAMPAIGN.

The eleventh hour of the primary campaign is now approaching and all that remains before the various contestants of both Republiican and Democratic parties know their fate is the decision of the voters next Tuesday. In many ways the ante-primary activity has surpassed that of previous years but it has been done in such a way that few people realize how hard the interested men have worked. Within the Republican ranks there has been an especially busy period beause of th prevalence of aspirants for each of the important offices. The Democrats have completed full slates but in only one instance is there more than one man seeking a certain nomination. This is in the State Senatorship for which Ten Eyck Beardsley, of Fanwood, and Francis V. Dobbins, of Rahway, are opposing each other. At the present time Beardsley seems to be the favorite.

The first contest in Plainfield proper developed in the Second ward when John S. Dahl announced himself a candidate for the Common Council in that district. The present representative is Levis M. Booth, who was prevailed upon to seek re-election by Mayor Leighton Calkins and his colleagues in the Councilmanic body. There seems to be no doubt but what Mr. Booth's constituents will recognize the good work he has done during the past two years by returning him to his seat for another term. The only other local contest is for the city treasurership. Arthur Crone, who succeeded the late William F. Arnold, aspires to retain the office and Clarence Vail, a newcomer in the field, has asked his friends to support him in a try for the place. Mr. Vail is a native Plainfielder and has a big following. There is a possibility that he may poll a surprising vote if not one that will make him the custodian of the city's finances. Assemblyman William N. Runyon will be the Republican nominee for State Senator as his name will be on the primary ballots without any opposition.

The big fight in Plainfield as well as in Union county will centre about two of the most important offices to be filled. They are those of sheriff and surrogate. Five men are seeking the shrievalty nomination on the Republican ticket, while four are contesting for the surrogateship. Plainfield is directly concerned in the shrievalty contest because two of the candidates come from this city. They are Councilman John H. Cose and Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur. The political connoisseurs are sincere in their belief that Cose has made a wonderful impression by a clean-cut campaign and bids fair to be successful. James E. Warner, of Cranford, who is the present under-sheriff; Elias W. Applegate, now a freeholder and the man responsible for the recent investigation of Union county's financial affairs, and John Neill, of Elizabeth, are the remaining three men who want to succeed George C. Otto as sheriff. Each one has pushed his campaign in strenuous fashion, building up strength in unexpected quarters and making it difficult to determine what the result might be. The dropping out of Peter Meisel, who entered the race in the early days of the campaign, greatly complicated matters in the Elizabeth end of the county where he was counted upon to poll a big vote. He stands very strong in Springfield, his home town, and where this strength will go no one knows. In the letter announcing his retirement from the field, Mr. Meisel made no request of his friends to support any particular man, thus leaving them free to make a new selection.

Sheriff George C. Otto, Peter J. Olde, secretary to the Union County Taxation Board, and former Prosecutor C. Addison Swift, all of Elizabeth, are in line for the surrogate nomination on the G. O. P. ticket. Beside these three a fourth man, Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, is also in the race. All four, like the shrievalty seekers, have stumped every part of the county and have left no stone unturned to establish the merits of their respective claims. How well they have succeeded is not to be told at the present time. Each one has numerous points in his favor and each one has strong backing, especially in their own election districts. It is natural to presume that each of the three Elizabeth men will get a big share of the ballots in that city, leaving the remainder of the county to make the decision.

Summing up the whole situation, it may be said that the primary campaign has been a vigorous one, so ably manipulated that the county results will be a hard problem until almost the last ballot is counted. The voters realize that this is an important year, that other important ones are to succeed because of the National crisis and each man will think carefully before making a choice for the offices to be filled.

INCREASING TAX RATES DEMAND EXPERT ASSESSORS.

Plainfield's increase of seventeen points in the tax rate is not as high as that of other municipalities in the county but nevertheless the decided jump since last year demonstrates more than ever that an expert should be employed in making assessments. Other cities, one of which is Elizabeth, have adopted this scheme of equalizing property valuations and the county seat by so doing has placed more than six million dollars' worth of realty on the collector's books that would otherwise have gone undiscovered.

Improvements now underway or contemplated in this city are going to make the taxes go higher yet. The figure of $2.08 per hundred is only a beginning of what might be expected later. Perhaps high prices may come down somewhat after the war is over but it is generally conceded that once the rate gets up it refuses to drop very low. The citizens of this community want improvements and are willing to pay for them but as we have insisted in these columns before, the small owner continues to get the worst end of the deal. Assessors who know nothing of the game before getting an appointment to the position are only human and make mistakes the same as any one else. They do the best they can but at that the act of assessing is a matter that calls for the gravest consideration, such as only an expert can give. There is many a piece of property in Plainfield that will stand a higher valuation. If these are ferreted out, the loss in new building caused by the deterrent effect of war prices will be off-set, thus keeping down the tax rate next year to something like a respectable figure. The money paid for an expert will be gladly paid by the men who want to see fair play.

Speaking of the expert plan for assessment, the Elizabeth Journal had the following to say recently:

"All property should be hunted out and recorded on the books, if justice in the matter of levying taxes is to be done all property-owners. An equitable distribution of the burden of taxation is all that any good citizen expects or demands.

"It is evident from the experience that Elizabeth has had in this connection that the levying of property valuations should be done by an expert or experts. The average board of assessors, even when doing its best is bound to muddle its way through arriving at its assessment conclusions."

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When nobody but dudes wore socks?

When every boy in town had a mania for collecting birds' eggs and legal steps had to be taken to prevent the native songsters from becoming extinct?

When the "kids" had to furnish their own school books and mother stitched a muslin cover on Monroe's readers so they could serve the family from the oldest to the youngest?

When Plainfield claimed enough active men to keep in town a manufacturing plant paying out nearly $20,000 in wages very week?

When Park avenue was Cherry street, Madison avenue was Mechanic street, lower Watchung avenue was Broadway and upper Watchung avenue north from Front street was "Stiger's Alley!"

When sedate, old citizens were knocked to one side on Front street by on-rushing crowds of boys playing "block" tag?

Fenwood Man Leaves Socialist Rank to Fight For Country

Since the outbreak of war between this country and Germany the pacifists have had their ranks greatly swelled by the addition of many who were trying to evade fighting. There has been cases, although few, where the pacifists have turned patriots and even joined the army voluntarily. One such instance has been recorded in the case of Henry Babcock, of Fanwood, who is now in France as a member of one of the engineering regiments with Pershing.

Babcock, long a follower of Hoolick White, and who gained some prominence in 1915 through trying to interfere with the big preparedness parade in New York, is the one who has volunteered to fight against Germany. For several years he was active in Socialist circles and during the preparedness parade was arrested for trying to reach the reviewing stand with anarchist banners. He studied to be an engineer at Columbia and when recruiting was started for engineering units to go to France he was one of the first to respond.

LOCAL TEACHER NAMED DELEGATE.

The annual meeting of the Union County Division of the State of New Jersey Teachers' Retirement Fund Association, was held Saturday in Elizabeth. Delegates to the annual State meeting in Trenton on Saturday, September 29, and officers for the Union county body, were chosen.

The following officers were re-elected for the coming year: President, Edwin S. Richards; vice president, Miss Isabel J. Cameron; secretary, Miss Sophie M. Braun, and treasurer, Miss Anna M. May.

Those chosen to represent Union county at the State meeting are: Edwin S. Richards, William A. Halloran, Miss Anna Forbes, Miss Katherine A. Hughes, Miss Anna M. May and Harold H. Tilton, of Elizabeth; Edward Evans, of Plainfield, and Clinton S. Marsh, of Summit.

DESIGNATES OCT. 7 SUNDAY-SCHOOL DAY.

Declaring that the wholesome teachings of the Sunday-school never deserved a higher place in the heart and affections of a disturbed and anxious world than they do today, Governor Edge has issued a proclamation designating Sunday, October 7, as Sunday-school Day. He urges that a special effort be made on that day by all governors to attend some Sunday-school personally; to interest all children of their acquaintance in Sunday-school work, and, where convenient, to make some material contribution to the Sunday-school cause.

THE PHYSICIANS ARE GETTING IT BOTH WAYS.

Physicians who are giving freely of their time to examine drafted men and are obliged to make reports upon them to the adjutant of Camp Dix at Wrightstown are under orders to send all such reports by registered mail. So they do their bit a bit more by digging down in their pockets for silver bits of a dime each to pay for the necessary registration demanded by the government for government work that is being performed as a patriotic duty.

Exemption board members who are also giving fully and willingly of their time—and in many instances it is valuable time—are also under orders to make their daily reports to military officials in Trenton and elsewhere by registered mail at 10 cents a letter. Neither they nor the physicians are complaining, but they are "joshing" each other and occasionally remarking that the government at least ought to pay its own mailing bills.

EDEL MOLDENKE ON EXTENDED TRIP.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard Moldenke, of North Plainfield, received word from their son, Edel Moldenke, that he has sailed from San Francisco for India and should by this time be nearing the Hawaiian Islands. He is on his way to Burmah to join an expedition as geologist in search of ancient lead mines that have been lost in the jungles close to the borders of Thibet.

The expedition is sent out by one of the largest lead mine concerns in the world, in hope of securing a much needed supply of lead. Moldenke has had considerable experience in this kind of work, his father being recognized as an expert, having served on government commissions.

CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Following the death of George Watts, of Chatham street, Joseph Levine, of Westervelt avenue, was arraigned before Judge Connolly at Elizabeth and released under bail to appear before the Grand Jury to answer to charge of manslaughter. Watts was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Levine on Somerset street on August 12.

FILE APPLICATIONS.

There has been two applications filed from local young men for admission to the Union county bar and their cases will be heard at the November term of the Supreme Court. Those who filed their applications include F. Otto Yinkel, of 220 West Second street, and Philip H. Moskovitz, also of this city.

Mrs. F. L. Steffins, of Netherwood avenue, has been seriously ill during the past three weeks following a stroke of paralysis.

Ask Candidates to Back College

The movement toward the establishment of a Woman's College in New Jersey is still occupying a prominent place in the minds of the people of this and other counties. Candidates for Assembly nomination have received a letter from Mrs. Cora L. Forrest, a prominent clubwoman in Rahway, in which she asks whether they will assist in securing legislation towards this end. The letter follows:

"Many people of New Jersey regard the establishment of a Woman's College as one of the most important educational movements in the State today. There being no college of general scope which grants collegiate degrees to them, young women must seek such education outside of the State. Women's clubs and other organizations have long contemplated the establishment of a Woman's College, and a movement was inaugurated years ago, but has not been brought to a successful completion. Such a college in connection with Rutgers College is most desirable.

"We are much interested to learn whether, if sent to the Legislature, you will lend your influence to aid legislation along this line."

Arthur E. Warner, one of the Republican candidates, has replied, saying that he is thoroughly in sympathy with any feasible plan to advance the cause of education, but will reply in detail as soon as he has had an opportunity to look into the matter.

Idea of Camp Life Given by a Trooper

A rather interesting letter was received this week by a member of the Record staff from one of the boys from this vicinity who is a member of the First Squadron. That there is little time for play at present is indicated from the portion of his letter printed below:

"Believe me, I don't like to complain, but I am just about all in tonight. It was my turn on mess detail and, believe me, it was a beaut. We had more pots and pans today than any time since I've been in the troop. I certainly did wish I was back North, laying under some shady trees. I have had only half an hour off since 6:30 this morning and it is now 8:30.

"I suppose you know we have been made mounted police. We are going to move tomorrow and that means pack tonight. I am getting so use to moving I believe I could get ready for Europe in fifteen minutes. Our quarters this time are about a mile and a half from Ashton proper and we are going to patrol all roads leading into and out of that city. After a month we move again back to headquarters near where we are now. Troops A and C have been made mounted police and we are going to be recruited by fifty men each from Troops D, of Plainfield, and D, of Newark. It is Major Hobart Brown's idea to have an organization that rivals the Northwestern Mounted Police, so you see what we have before us. We have been promised that if we did not live up to expectations and make good we would be made dough-boys.

"We will certainly have our hands full because the Southern boys have no use for us at all and since we have been given the preference over the Virginia and Maryland cavalry for police work they have become really hostile. Last night our men were issued five rounds for their automatics and told not to let anyone get past them."

REVIVE CENTRAL JERSEY BOWLING LEAGUE SUNDAY.

A meeting of the representatives of the various teams in the Central New Jersey Bowling League last year will meet in this city Sunday to make plans for the coming season and to draft a schedule. The towns to be represented in the league this year include, beside Plainfield, Somerville, Bound Brook, Westfield, Cranford, Roselle Park and Elizabeth. Dunellen may possibly organize a team.

SENTENCED FOR FORGERY.

Ray W. Carey, of 120 Watchung avenue, was sentenced by Judge Connolly last Friday to six months in the county jail for forgery. He was arraigned on allegations that he forged a check and passed another worthless one made out for $50 on William Appleton, of this city. A plea was made on Carey's behalf on the strength of his previous good record.

HEALTH BOARD TREATMENTS.

In accordance with Regulation 20 of Chapter 6 of the State Sanitary Code, the Board of Health of the City of Plainfield is now prepared to provide free to all residents who may apply for some vaccine against smallpox and inoculation with typhoid fever facterin; also to administer diphtheria and anti-rable treatment to indigent residents.

WILL SOON BE AVIATOR.

Guy Snyder, one of the three local boys transferred from Ft. Meyer to aviation training camps, will become a full fledged air pilot on October 6, when a class of officers will be graduated from the big school at Toronto.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN.

The Hartridge School and the Wardlaw School will open for the 1917-8 season next Monday morning. They are the last of the city's educational institutions to resume sessions after the annual summer vacation.

News of the Theatres

National Army Men Guests at Theatre

At the invitation of Messrs. Counihan and Shannon, possibly 150 Plainfield and North Plainfield young men who have been selected for the National Army attended the performance at the Plainfield Theatre last night. The program was greatly enjoyed by every one as portions of the bill were made appropriate to the occasion. Professor Harry Wetton's orchestra rendered patriotic airs and a display of flags and bunting added to the military aspect of the scene. The soldier boys showed their appreciation of the management's generosity by extending thanks at the close of the performance.

The bill seen last night opened at the theatre yesterday afternoon and will continue for the remainder of the week. The headliners are Gus Fay and Ernest Schroeder, late comedians of "The Tourists," who are appearing in an original comedy skit. Beside these there are Madame Busse's troup of trained dogs, Maxwella and Jeanette, "Whirlwind Acrobatic Dancers;" Earl and Bartlette, in a comedy skit entitled, "At the Table;" Crosby and Company, in the novelty sketch, "What Really Happened;" Brown and Jackson, in an original comedy skit, "Ahe the Clubhouse," asserted to be one of the funniest things ever seen on the stage.

Maude Adams Coming To Plainfield Soon

An important announcement comes from the office of the Plainfield Theatre to the effect that Miss Maude Adams, America's most popular actress, will come to the Second street playhouse on Monday night, October 1. She will be seen in her latest vehicle, "The Cinderella Kiss," pronounced by critics to be the most successful play Miss Adams has appeared in since her triumph in "The Little Minister." She will have the support of a company of players picked from the ranks of the foremost actors and actresses in the country. The scenic embellishment of the production is on a par with anything that has been staged in recent years.

During the week of October 1, there will be two other legitimate offerings at the Plainfield. These will include "The Sporting Widows" on Tuesday, October 2, and the Casino theatre's musical comedy success of last season, "You're in Love," to be seen on Friday night, October 5. The last named show carries a company of sixty people, many of whom were in the original cast. Two sixty-foot baggage cars are required to carry the scenery, costumes and electrical effects.

START CAMPAIGN FOR ARMY PHONOGRAPHS.

A campaign has been started by various officers of the New Jersey National Guard to secure especially constructed army phonographs for each regiment of the State in the service. Captain J. Madison Hare, of the Fourth Regiment, who was pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church until the outbreak of the war, is taking an active part in the effort. Company K, one of the two local units, has one that was given to it sometime ago, but Troop D is one of the organizations that will be benefitted.

RUMMAGE SALE.

The women of the First M. E. church will conduct a rummage sale in one of the vacant stores on East Front street next Thursday. Anyone having articles to contribute may telephone members of the committee and they will be called for Monday or Tuesday. Those in charge of the affair include: Mrs. Arthur E. Crone, Mrs. Matthew H. Ewart, Mrs. Albert Meredith and Mrs. George M. Rittenhouse.

REALTY TRANSFER.

Morris Lipkin et ux. to James T. Burkley, East Third street, Plainfield $1

H. C. Lockwood Company to Emma K. Stirling, lot 18, block 27, Fanwood $1

David Rabonowitz et ux. to Veith Rabonowitz, property in Hobart avenue, Plainfield $1

Goodhope Realty Corporation to Effie Florence Cadmus, property in Midway avenue, Fanwood $1

Henry B. Selfridge and wife to Sarah Reiss and Fein Kohn, property in Terrill road, Fanwood township $1

WOMEN'S TOURNEY.

With one win as the result of last Friday's meeting with the Cranford Golf Club, the team representing the Plainfield Country Club in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association will play the second round of the fall tourney this afternoon, with the Hollywood team as the opponent, on the Hollywood links. The Plainfield team is composed of Mrs. N. P. Rogers, Mrs. Kuller, Miss Loizeaux and Mrs. C. B. Lawrence.

LOCAL ENLISTMENTS.

Among the recent enlistments at the Elizabeth recruiting station were two from this city. They were Cyrus W. Moffett, of 652 South avenue, who joined the National Guard, and August P. Burkhardt, of Simpson avenue, joined the Navy.

Splendid Burlesque Coming Next Monday

Joe Hurtig, the producer of the famous "Bowery Burlesquers," with those two genuinely funny comedians, Billy Foster and Frank Harcourt, which is scheduled to appear at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday, has succeeded in getting together one of the best casted shows in the realm of burlesque. A new two-act musical comedy has been provided which gives these two famous comedians ample scope to display their versatility and talents. This new organization, which has been built along entirely new and original lines, is destined to hold a lasting place in modern burlesque amusement, as well as a lasting impression in the minds of burlesque lovers, because of the fact that it contains everything that is new, bright, and up-to-date, that comes under the head of novelties and sensation.

The production in its entirety represents a large investment, the costumes, scenery and electrical investments in themselves being on a par with those provided in a two-dollar attraction. The book, which is from the pen of Frank Hatch, is replete with comedy situations, witty dialogue, exquisite sets of costumes, and teems with charmingly pretty girls in the chorus contingent of thirty, each one of whom can really sing and dance.

The splendid cast in addition to the featured artists already named, is composed of several of the more prominent and capable artists in the vaudeville and burlesque firmament, and includes Edna Green, Herman Gibson, Grace Anderson, Eddie Skin, Libby Hart, Pauline Paull and a few others of prominence.

Building for September $85,335; for Year $615,476

Building figures for both the year and the month of September received an added impetus this week by the filing of the plans for a power house at Pond's to cost $75,000. As a result the building mark for the year has reached the total of $615,476 and for the month it is $85,335. The chances are now that the million mark will be reached for the year, as building shows a general inclination to be on the increase throughout the city.

The permits filed with Building Inspector Doane this week, aside from the one big one, total $8,700, and were as follows:

Frank Sheriff, 1464 McCree place, for the erection of a two and a half story frame dwelling to cost $5,000. It will be of frame construction and 40x40. He will do the work himself.

Dominick Renegri, 330 East Fourth street, for the erection of a frame barn at a cost of $100. James Craft is mentioned as contractor.

B. J. Boylan, 1124 West Sixth street, for the erection of a $3,500 frame dwelling to be 22x28. It will be two and a half stories high. B. Daniel is to be the carpenter.

Vincent A. Tunison, 325 North Front street, for the demolishing of a dwelling to cost $100.

Defiance of Death to Save Wounded Men Won Croix de Guerre for "Clem" Bechtel

Details of how "Clem" Bechtel, the young Plainfielder who is in the American Ambulance Corps in France, came to receive the Croix de Guerre, the French distinguishing mark of military honor, have been received in this city during the past few days. Word was sent officially as Mr. Bechtel himself was too modest to go into any elaboration of his own achievements.

According to the statement coming from the French War Office, the daring young Plainfielder was waiting back of the lines during a heavy German bombardment of the much battered Verdun. A large number of French soldiers were rendered helpless by bursting shrapnel and fell in a position where death was almost inevitable through a continuous rain of shot and shell. Two of the helpless "poilus" were within sight of the waiting ambulance drivers and Bechtel determined to risk his own life in getting them to safety. Ignoring the deadly fire that threatened to terminate his own existence any instant, he succeeded in bringing back one of the men by carrying him over his shoulder. Elated at his success he returned a second time and again came back to comparative safety with a grateful Frenchman clinging fast to him. The daring rescuer, is only of medium build but close application to athletics during his school days in Plainfield built up his strength in such a lasting way that he can outlift many a man of heavier proportions.

The bravery exhibited by Bechtel was witnessed by several French officers who recommended him to the War Office for the signal honor that came later. Although the winning of the Croix de Guerre is considered a great achievement the young Plainfielder gave only a meagre account of the whole affair in writing to local relatives and friends. Everybody has been anxiously awaiting the particulars and when "Clem" comes back home his acquaintances will insist on his giving the story in its entirety.

An example of how the intrepid ambulance driver can describe scenes that occur about him every day is shown in a letter received from him this week by J. A. Davey, of North avenue, a close friend. A portion of the letter is as follows:

"Our section is in repose in a beautiful little town close to the front, so close that the 'Fritzies' send in about twenty shells every evening. We are 'going out' on the 31st and expect some stiff work.

"Our last job was at Verdun and we worked for thirteen days under a terrific bombardment. I have had many thrilling night rides and not a few close shaves. A piece of 'shrap' about eight inches long went through the tool box of my car one night and I didn't know it until daylight. I opened the box and found my jack handle bent double. Have also had mud thrown all over me from an exploding 'shrap.' The gas is very dangerous at night for you can't see it. In daylight it is visible and we can drive through it without putting our masks on by holding our breath.

"I have seen the Germans many times as I have a pair of glasses given me by a wounded French officer. They are the best I have ever seen and are valued at 750 francs, about $150. I fired 46 rounds on a '75' one morning about 2 o'clock just before a big attack by the French. You know the '75' is the best gun over here. A good French artilleryman could take your nose off at five miles with one.

"I have seen a number of German planes brought down but on the 21st one was 'bagged' a short distance from us. I am going to give you the entry from my diary, August 21st, big doings in the air today at 11:30 a. m. We saw the start of the most exciting air fights we have yet witnessed. The German plane was a huge one of the battle class, carrying a pilot and a gunner. They flew over us looking for trouble and found it in the shape of a fast little 'Spad' with a snappy little Frenchman at the 'helm.' He was right to it with all kinds of 'pep,' diving at the 'Fritzies' from all sides and working his machine gun as he dove. We could see that the German plane was doomed. After a few breathless moments of watching we could see the big plane take a dip and go down, end over end.

"The little Frenchman, not to be fooled by any ruse of an expert birdman,' followed them down, sending his leaden messengers of death into the falling plane. We learned later that the pilot had been riddled with bullets and the gunner killed from the fall. I rushed over and gathered in some fine souvenirs. One of them being a big piece of the iron cross that was painted on the body of the plane. Also secured some fine pictures.

"Such is life over here, something doing every moment. I will not make this letter any longer as I am tired and we are going to have a track meet tomorrow with an English section.

"Regards to all the boys.

"FRIEND 'CLEM.'"

Clifford Cole, of East Front street, a member of the firm of Cole & High, returned Monday, after a pleasure trip to Boston and other cities in Massachusetts.

Former Danellenite Killed at Roselle

Paul Kratzel, an engineer on the Central Railroad and a former resident of Dunellen, was killed by an automobile on Westfield avenue, Roselle Park, just west of Chestnut street, Sunday night.

Mr. Kratzel, who lived at 52 Clay avenue, west, Roselle Park, left his home about 8 o'clock to go to the station to meet his wife. While crossing Westfield avenue a Reo runabout driven by William C. Cowan, of Chrome, came rolling along at a moderate rate of speed, striking him in the back and throwing him to the ground. Just how Mr. Kratzel got into his perilous position has not yet been determined, as the driver claims that he did not see him until just as the machine struck him, and the police have been unable to locate a witness, although there is a rumor current that a small boy saw the accident.

The driver stopped immediately, and picking up the injured man rushed him to Horning's drug store. From there he was directed to Dr. William R. Smith's office in Westfield avenue.

Dr. Smith, after a hurried examination, found the man suffering from internal injuries of such a serious nature that he had slight hopes of his recovery and called the Elizabeth General Hospital, to which institution he was taken by ambulance.

At that institution heroic measures were taken but the patient failed to rally and died at 11 o'clock.

Officer Shugrue arrested the driver and on instruction from the prosecutor's office held him on a charge of manslaughter.

The prisoner is 27 years old and has been accepted by the draft board of his district and had received his notice to appear Wednesday to join the national colors.

Mrs. Kratzel, unaware of the accident, when she arrived at the station looked for her husband and then leisurely walked home and was surprised when told he had left the house some time before to meet her. At about this time the police had identified the victim and broke the news by telephone.

This adds one more to the long list of fatalities already charged to Westfield avenue and indirectly caused by the condition of the westerly side of the street, which the citizens appealed to the Freeholders many times to improve.

Mr. Kratzel was thirty-seven years old and was born at Dunellen, where he always made his home before going to Roselle Park. He was at one time employed as motorman on the Main line trolley but about ten years ago entered the employ of the New Jersey Central as fireman. He became so proficient in his work that he was quickly promoted to the post of engineer, a position he had held for some time. He was greatly liked by everyone.

Beside his wife and four small children, the victim is survived by his father, Paul Kratzel; two sisters, Mrs. Henry J. Wiedenhaupt and Miss Martha Kratzel, of Dunellen, and two brothers, Grover Kratzel of North Plainfield, and Oscar Kratzel, of Denver, Col.

DEAF HEAR IN CHURCH.

Pedricktown, N. J., Sept. 8, 1917.—Through the installation of six ear receivers attached to a pulpit transmitter in the Baptist church of this village, those with impaired hearing will now be afforded the fuller enjoyment of the church's services. The work was done by Rev. F. St. John Fitch, of Plainfield, N. J., who was compelled to give up the ministry because of his deafness, when he began the conception of something that would better the condition of those similarly afflicted. Those who have seen and experinced the device, say that almost the whispering of the pastor in the pulpit can be heard in the rear of the church with the church phone.—(Philadelphia "Inquirer.")

Judge Newcorn Not To Seek Re-election As County Chairman

From letters received by the various members of the Republican County Committee it has been ascertained that former Judge William Newcorn, of this city, chairman of the Republican County Committee, will not be a candidate to succeed himself as head of the committee for the ensuing year. Mr. Newcorn has been mentioned for appointment as judge of the Court of Common Pleas for Union county.

The letter received by the members, which bears the signature of Hamilton F. Kean, member of the State committee from Union county, appeals to the members to look over whatever possible timber there may be in the county committee so that a suitable successor can be secured to Mr. Newcorn.

The letter also pays a tribute to the work accomplished by Mr. Newcorn, and urges the selection of a man who has been successful in either a business or professional career, so that the high standard set by Mr. Newcorn can be followed when his successor is selected.

Miss Beatrice B. Gardner Bride of N. J. R. Chandler

The home of the Misses Mattison and Tennyson, of Watchung avenue, was the scene Tuesday afternoon of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Beatrice B. Gardner became the bride of N. J. Randolph Chandler. Autumnal flowers and foliage predominated in the decorations. About fifty guests were present. The ceremony was performed beneath a bower of clematic by the Rev. Dr. Philip Burroughs Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which both the bride and groom are members. The double ring ceremony was used. The bride was given in marriage by William F. Von Dohlen, of Rochester, N. Y., and was attended by Miss Corinne Tennyson as maid of honor and the Misses Aileen Chandler and Evelyn Tennyson as bridesmaids. She was attired in white Georgette crepe, trimmed with fillet lace, and wore a point lace veil, caught with lillies of the valley; also a pearl bar pin, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and lillies of the valley. The maid of honor's gown was of corn-colored silk over which was draped chiffon. Her bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids wore white net and carried hydrangias. The groom was attended by his brother, Wester van D. Chandler.

Mrs. Harry F. Johnson played the Lohengrin wedding march and rendered a program of musical selections on the piano during the ceremony.

The couple were the recipients of many gifts. Mr. Chandler is the health officer of the city of Plainfield and both he and his bride have a large circle of friends to whom they will be at home after October first, at 206 East Front street.

SCOUTMASTERS MEETING.

The instruction class of embryo Scoutmasters will be held tonight at Boy Scout Headquarters, on East Front street. Scout Commissioner Duffy will be in charge.

BUILDING TRADES MEETING.

A meeting of the Building Trades Council will be held tonight in Building Trades Hall, on West Front street, at which time several routine business matters will be cleared up.

CITY LEAGUE GAME.

The regular season having ended, the playing off of postponed games in the City League are now in order. The contest for tomorrow will be between the St. Joseph's and Century outfits.

Applegate Offers Record As Pledge

Elias F. Applegate, who has been one of the most fearless and energetic member the Union County Board of Freeholders has had in years, has been in Plainfield during the past week in the interests of his candidacy for the nomination of seriff on the Republican ticket. He has personally become acquainted with hundreds of local voters who remember him particularly because of his tireless eqorts to bring about the investigation of Union county's financial affairs, an action which led to the Supreme Court hearing of last year. The proceedings were closely followed by the taxpayers of this city who have since expressed grateful acknowledgment to Mr. Applegate for his efforts in their behalf. The hearing produced numerous disclosures that showed laxity that might have continued but for the determination of the doughty freeholder who risked official oblivion by his invasion of the "ring-around-the-rosy" delegation at the county court house.

Mr. Applegate is a resident of Elizabeth where he has a splendid following. He is not a politician in the accepted sense of the word but has been interested in Union county's affairs for many years. He has always been a staunch Republican and is the type of a man that no G. O. P. follower should hesitate to place in office. In his present campaign for the shrievalty nomination he has stood absolutely on his past record as a straight forward business man, ignoring political influences in carrying out any idea he believed was for the best interests of the majority of people in his bailiwick.

Nobody doubts but what Mr. Applegate will make an able sheriff, a belief that has been winning him votes in every district. His visits to Plainfield have been of great benefit to himself as they enable the voters to see the men they have heard so much about.

LOST AT TRAPS.

While a Westfield man won first honors at the championship trapshooting meet of Union county last Sunday, Plainfield men took a prominent part in the event held on the range of the Duane Gun Club. Elmer Woodruff, of the neighboring suburb, took first place in the 50-bird shoot, breaking forty-seven of the clays. John Terry, George Ord and Percy Terry, of the Climax Club of this city, pushed Woodruff hard all the way.

Mrs. Edmund Waldorf and son, Edmund, of Crescent avenue, returned home a few days ago after a two weeks' stay at Lake Hopatcong.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST.

Rev. M. T. Shelford, of Hoboken, will occupy the pulpit of the church at the services on Sunday.

A fall rally of the various societies and organizations of the church will be held in the Sunday-school room of the church on Friday, September 28, starting at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Abbott is general chairman and is completing arrangements for the event with the assistance of a corps of helpers.

On the afternoon of Octoer 4 all the Baptist missionary societies in the city will be guests of the society of the church at a lecture to be given in the Sunday-school room by Miss Nelson, missionary among the Indians.

The missionary program of the Ladies' Missionary Society of the church includes the following items: Sona Bata appropriation, $250; foreign missionary appropriation, $266.67; and home mission apportionment, $112.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

Rev. Howard E. Clarke, the pastor, will preach at the services in the First Congregational church on Sunday.

BOY REVIVALIST.

Charles Forbes Taylor, the fifteen-year-old boy who conducted a revival campaign in the Park Avenue Baptist church in 1915, has now launched one in New York. In a big tent at 110th street and Amsterdam avenue he is preaching nightly to large audiences and has secured many "decisions," he not calling for "trail hitters" as Sunday does.

NETHERWOOD REFORMED.

Rev. Edward S. Ralston will preach at the morning and evening services on Sunday at the Netherwood Reformed church.

ALL SOUL'S.

The services at All Souls' Unitarian church on Sunday will be in charge of Rev. Leon A. Harv, of Brooklyn, who will exchange pulpits for the occasion with Rev. John Baltzly, the pastor. The reopening of the Sunday-school has been postponed until the first Sunday in October.

MONROE AVENUE M. E.

Both the morning and evening services at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church on Sunday will be in charge of Rev. J. J. Flynn. The meetings of the Sunday-school and Epworth League will be at the usual hours.

FIRST M. E.

At the morning service on Sunday, Rev. Charles Anderson will preach on "First Things" and for the evening service has chosen another interesting subject, "What Is Worth While?"

A week from Sunday the Sunday-school will observe Rally Day, at which time an appropriate program will be rendered.

HOLY CROSS.

The regular mid-week prayer meeting at Holy Cross church, which was postponed from Wednesday, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock with Rev. H. St. G. Burrell in charge.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. Charles E. Herring will be in charge of the usual services at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday. At the evening service he will start a series of studies on the "Book of the Revelations."

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

LE ROY SPEAR RADFORD.

LeRoy Spear Radford, son of Mrs. Amelia and the late Robert H. Radford, of this city, died Tuesday night in Muhlenberg Hospital following an operation performed a short time before. His death was entirely unexpected and came as a great shock to his host of friends. The funeral will be held at the mother's home, 822 Park avenue, this afternoon at 3:30 and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Radford, who was thirty-five years old, was a native of Plainfield and with one brief exception had always made his home here. After completing his education in the local schools, he studied engraving in his father's plant in New York and later entered the employ of a Newark concern. At the death of his father, which occurred about three months ago, he removed from Newark to Plainfield and had since been residing at his mother's home. The demise of the young man, coming as it did so soon after that of his father, is considered doubly unfortunate. The elder Radford was one of Plainfield's best known citizens. He was an elder and devoted worker in the Park Avenue Baptist church and was always ready to lend his aid to any local movement for the best interests of the community. He was engaged in the engraving business in New York, his concern having a country wide reputation.

In his younger days, LeRoy Radford was prominent in local athletic circles. His activities began when he was a student at the Plainfield High School and were continued as a member of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. When bicycling was at its height in the late 90's, Mr. Radford was a participant in numerous track meets and always finished in the lead or with the leaders.

Beside his mother, the deceased leaves his wife and one brother, Lester Radford, the latter also residing on Park avenue.

MRS. WILLIAM H. RANDALL, JR.

The funeral of Mrs. Marion Hull Randall, wife of William H. Randall, Jr., whose death occurred in Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday after a five weeks' illness, was held Monday afternoon at the late home on Fritz place. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, was in charge and many relatives and friends were present. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery. The pall-bearers were: James McCullum, W. H. Randall, Sr., Frank Hull and F. S. Randall.

Mrs. Randall was thirty-nine years old and a native of Belleville. She came to North Plainfield from Westfield six years ago and during her short local acquaintance had become well acquainted. Her husband has been engaged in the harness manufacturing business in the Hand building on Somerset street. Mrs. Randall's church affiliation was with St. John's Episcopal parish at Belleville but while here she attended service at the Grace M. E. church.

JOHN R. MARSH.

John R. Marsh, son of the late John R. Marsh, of Scotch Plains, and widely known in Plainfield and vicinity, died Monday after a long illness. He was born in Scotch Plains about fifty years ago and had resided in that village practically all of his life. His father conducted a meat market business that was known throughout this section. At the time of the latter's death he was one of Scotch Plains' best known citizens. The old homestead still stands at Park avenue and Front street and is now the residence of Henry C. Meyer.

The deceased is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Albert Hollingsworth, of Scotch Plains; Mrs. James Pope and Mrs. Alzert Zabriskie, of this city, also a brother and a sister; George W. Marsh and Mrs. Albert Darby, both of North Plainfield. Mr. Marsh's wife died about six years ago.

The funeral was held at Mrs. Hollingsworth's home in Scotch Plains Wednesday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. C. C. Woodruff, of Elizabeth. Burial was in the family plot in the Scotch Plains cemetery.

LYDIA ACKERMAN MURPHY.

Lydia Ackerman Murphy, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murphy, of this city, died last Saturday morning at Lake Mohonk, N. Y. She had been at the resort with her mother for the benefit of her health. A private funeral service was held in Grace Episcopal church Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson officiating. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

HENRY BURR ADAMS.

Mrs. Phoebe Mott Adams, wife of Henry Burr Adams, died last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garret DuBois, of 814 Second place. She had been ill a long time. The funeral was held Tuesday morning in charge of Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson and burial was in Woodlawn cemetery, New York.

Republican Facts From Peter J. Olde

Peter J. Olde, of Elizabeth, who is a candidate for the nomination of surrogate on the Republican ticket and who has been conducting a clean, vigorous campaign throughout the county, has written the following letter to the Record. It is given in full because it has numerous references to the coming primaries that are of vital importance to every Republican voter in the city:

"Elizabeth, N. J.,
"Sept. 19th, 1917.

"To the Editor, Plainfield Record:

"Plainfield, N. J.

"Dear Sir: As a member of the Republican County Committee, and in the interest of success for all of the candidates who will be nominated on the Republican county ticket next Tuesday, I wish to bring to the attention of the Republican voters of Union county certain facts and figures which will have a material bearing on the success of the Republican county ticket at the November election.

"At the time of this writing there is every indication that Westfield will renominate Mr. Pierson for the Assembly, Plainfield will nominate Mr. Runyon as State Senator, Cranford or Plainfield will nominate the sheriff, and Rahway an Assemblyman, leaving only one Assemblyman and the surrogate to be nominated elsewhere.

"At the election last year out of a total of 16,272 votes cast for Governor Edge, the city of Elizabeth came to the front with 6,286 votes, almost equal to the combined vote of Plainfield, Westfield, Rahway, Summit and Cranford, which totaled 6,697 votes.

"Westfield cast 1,208 votes for Governor and will be represented on the county ticket by an Assemblyman. Surely, by all rules of fair play and political justice the city of Elizabeth with its large Republican vote, is entitled to nominate the candidate for one of the more important offices, that of surrogate, particularly as your neighboring town of Cranford will possibly nominate the sheriff.

"Remember that proper geographical division of a county ticket is essential to success in election day; time and time again we have seen our Democratic friends in Elizabeth overbearingly take nearly all of the nominations for county office with the result that their ticket has been sadly over-balanced and went down to defeat because of lack of party support outside of Elizabeth.

"But this year conditions are different, the Democratic leaders have profited by their errors, have managed to overcome all discord and bring about the harmonious selection of a county ticket that is well balanced and comparatively strong. The result of their efforts will make it certain that the Democratic vote will be larger and Republican victory more uncertain.

"Picture the city of Elizabeth, with its large Republican vote, without proper representation on the ticket; what interest will the average Republican who is not active in politics take in the selection of such a ticket; remember that this is an off year; to the average voter the offices to be filled are considered unimportant and it is only by strenuous effort of the committeemen and active Republicans that any fair sized vote can be brought out.

"Give the voters of Elizabeth something to work for and Republican victory in the county will be assured; deprive them of proper representation and General Apathy will probably lead us to defeat.

"Think it over, Republicans of Union county. Give your county ticket proper balance and vote for one of the Elizabeth candidates for surrogate, not myself necessarily, but any one of the men from Elizabeth, so that the city can be assured of proper representation.

"Very truly yours,
"PETER J. OLDE."

Arthur E. Warner Is Assembly Candidate

Arthur E. Warner
Candidate for Assembly at coming Primaries.

Arthur E. Warner, of Elizabeth, is waging an active fight for the nomination on the Republican ticket for the Assembly. Mr. Warner is after the position which will be vacated by William N. Runyon, of this city, and at the coming primaries puts his hopes for the nomination on the votes of the people of the county at large.

Mr. Warner says he does not depend upon any certain political groups to help him get to the Assembly but is relying on the friends who will support him on the strength of his pledge to serve only the interests of the people of Union county in particular and the State in general.

Police Rounding Up Men Not Examined

Former Senator Charles A. Reed, chairman of the local Exemption Board, has furnished the Police Department with a list of those men coming within the draft who failed to appear for examination and they are now being located as quickly as possible. One of them turned up this week when Vernon Coates, of 508 West Third street, walked into Police Headquarters. Coats was until a short time ago a chauffeur for Dr. F. F. Wilcox, of Crescent avenue, but recently left for Boyde, Virginia, to visit relatives. He was there when he was due to appear for examination.

When Chairman Reed wrote to Coates, however, he came back as fast as he could and walked in the station house Monday morning. When asked if he was ready to meet the Germans he replied with a typical darky laugh, "Ah won't fight in dese clothes, but if ye dress me up wid a Springfield rifle or something, Ah'll go after dem."

The whereabouts of the majority of the others who did not appear has been found. With but few exceptions they were already in the service and therefore are not affected by the draft. Prosecutor Stein is really in charge of the rounding up of those who failed to appear in the three districts of the county and he has had County Detective Galatin out on the work. There will, however, be but little for him to do in this district, as the local authorities have about completed what work there was to do.

POLICE SEEKING BOYS WHO DAMAGE STEAM ROLLER.

City Engineer A. J. Gavett and members of his staff have been subjected to great annoyance recently through boys damaging the city's steam roller. On several occasions vital parts of the machinery had been tampered with and other mechanism broken or carried away. One morning a few days ago when Engineer Thomas Fay started on East Second street to work he found the steam gauge smashed and oil cup removed. It was a case of malicious mischief pure and simple and the police department has been asked to locate the offenders. Captain John Flynn is now at work on the case.

The steam roller has been damaged over night on so many occasions that the street committee is discussing an advisability of making other arrangements for housing the machine where it can be watched. City Judge William G. DeMeza has promised to deal severely with any of the offenders if they should be apprehended.

EDUCATION

Mr. Codding graduated from Yale University in the class of 1886. He entered the Columbia Law School, and was graduated in 1888, with the Degree of Bachelor of Laws, and was admitted to the Bar of New Jersey in the same year.

TRAINING and EXPERIENCE

Mr. Codding in addition to his University and Law School education, has been a practicing lawyer for THIRTY YEARS, and has had a wide and extensive experience in all branches of the law, including the highly technical practice in the Orphan's Court, of which the Surrogate is the Chief officer.

SERVICE to the PUBLIC

Mr. Codding represented Union County in the New Jersey Legislature in 1894 and 1895. He was prominent in the anti-race track legislation of that time and introduced the famous anti-race track amendment to the constitution which was adopted by the people and is now part of our fundamental law.

Mr. Codding succeeded Governor Stokes as Deputy Clerk of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, to which position he was first commissioned by Governor Voorhees and thereafter by Governors Murphy and Stokes. His executive ability in this position was recognized by the bench and bar of New Jersey and was repeatedly the subject of approval by the press of the State.

Patriotic Program At Opening of the Coming Trenton Fair

Lending its co-operation to the Committee of Patriotism through Education of New Jersey, the Trenton Fair, which will open next Monday and continue throughout the week, will have a progress of patriotic exercises on the afternoon of the opening day.

Among the speakers will be Governor Charles S. Whitman, of New York; Governor Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey; former Governor E. C. Stokes, of New Jersey; Arthur E. Bester, president of the Chautauqua Institution; Professor Robert A. McElroy, of Princeton University, and others. The ceremonies are to be held in conjunction with the National Security League and the Association of Four Minute Men of New Jersey. One of the features will be a chorus sung by the 20,000 children who will be guests of the management on that day. Edward C. Brennan, of West Nw York, is the chairman of the committee of arrangements.

For these ceremonies, Lieut. Col. Martin, of the Second New Jersey Regiment, will be present with the Second Regiment troopers, and all soldiers and members of uniformed patriotic societies, who attend in uniform and arrive in delegations, will be admitted free. The G. A. R., the P. O. S. of A., and the Jr. O. U. A. M., and other organizations will be included in this invitation.

Col. Mahlon R. Margorum, secretary and general manager of the fair, has announced that the Second Regiment men and the National Army men from Camp Dix, who attend in companies will be admitted to the grounds free both Monday and Tuesday.

With extra features planned for each day of the exposition, Col. Margorum is confident that the attendance figures for all previous years will be surpassed. An indication of the great crowds which will be present is given in the advance sale of seats for the grand stand and the weekly admission coupons.

Bookings for the open-air program have been made this year under the direction of the Amalgamated Vaudeville Agency of New York, and the assurance has been given that the numbers will be most varied and the best of their kind ever shown at the fair.

The automobile races will be conducted Friday and the entries already received from famous daredevil drivers will make one of the most thrilling cards ever scheduled for a dirt track. Mercers will be among the machines which will go after the money.

Tuesday is to have the $2,500 free-for-all pace, the largest purse ever placed for a single event of this kind in this section of the State.

ASK BOOK DONATIONS FOR SOLDIER BOYS.

The Plainfield Public Library has started upon a campaign to collect books and magazines for the American soldier boys, following a resolution of the American Association of Libraries asking all its members to help in the movement. Anyone having donations to make may leave them at the Library, Park avenue and Ninth street, or call the librarian on the telephone and they will be sent for.

Displeased With Administration, Charles H. Hand Will Leave City

After residing in this city for sixty years and doing more than any other single individual in developing Plainfield realty, Charles H. Hand, of Crescent avenue, has retired from the active business field and will shortly make his home elsewhere. His plans at the present time are not absolutely complete but he intends being next week for Atlantic City, where he and Mrs. Hand will remain until just before the holidays. During that period they will be in New York for two weeks, after which they will return to Atlantic City for a brief stay previous to departing for Florida. They will be in the latter State until April at least but just where their home will be after that Mr. Hand has not definitely decided as yet.

There are several reasons why the well-known Plainfielder is leaving the town in which he has lived practically all his life. The principal one is that he does not consider the present business methods of the administrative force at all conducive to realty development. He has been a heavy taxpayer for a great many years and he insists that the burden of the city's obligations are being piled upon the shoulders of the men who try to make real estate profitable. For a long time he has found this impossible and he has gradually been getting rid of his large holdings, preferring to let someone else take the chances that are, in his opinion, steadily growing worse.

It cannot be said that Mr. Hand has not done his duty as a citizen as he has at all times been active in municipal affairs. He has always been ready to lend his aid to any movement that would improve local conditions but at the same time protect the interests of the men who has to foot the bills. He is responsible for the bringing to Plainfield of many desirable families which first learned of the beauties of the city through his advertisements in New York and Brooklyn papers. Once he learned of a prosperous business man who wanted a suburban home, he never stopped until he had brought that man and many of his relatives to town. It made no difference what kind of a house the prospective buyer wanted "Charlie" Hand either had it himself or would procure it.

As a member of the Board of Trade of other years, Mr. Hand originated publicity methods that not only brought new residents here but also industrial plants. There is hardly a man in the city who is better acquainted with realty matters than he. He served as assessor for many terms and in all tax matters he freely gave of his experience to the Mayor and Council. When affairs did not go to suit him he was not the man to make a "kick" on the street corner or to some disinterested person. He always went straight to headquarters and what he had to say he presented in emphatic terms. He never objected to a municipal move without offering a remedy, an admirable trait that is lacking in the ordinary run of "kicker."

Although the fact is known to but few people, Charles H. Hand is not a native of Plainfield. He was born in Rahway and in his own gifted humor he declares that it is the only thing he knows of that might possibly keep him out of Plainfield. He ran the city when he was two years old and has resided here continuously from that time. Since his marriage forty-one years ago, Mr. Hand and his wife have always kept house, his present move being the first that will compel him to give up his own home. This is partly due to the fact that Mr. Hand himself has not been in the best of health for two years and Mrs. Hand feels the need of a change.

It was nearly forty years ago that "Charlie" Hand built his first house in Plainfield. Since that time he has constructed 450 buildings of all kinds within the city limits and has also erected a total of 15 in other places. Among the structures he put up are the present Plainfield Theatre building on West Second street, which he built about twenty-seven years ago as "Amphion Hall." It contained a small auditorium used as the theatre on the first floor and apartments and lodge rooms on the second and third floors. Mr. Hand afterwards disposed of the building in a trade with the late William Marsh Rice, the New York millionaire who was murdered and for which crime Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer, was twice sentenced to death at Sing Sing, afterward imprisoned for life and a few years ago given a pardon. The Second street theatre building was tied up in the Rice estate pending disposition of the Patrick case but was eventually released by the courts when Plainfield Lodge of Elks made an offer for it. The lodge held it for about a year and then sold it to the present owner, W. J. Counihan, who reconstructed the interior as the present theatre in 1905.

Although he did not build it originally, another familiar Plainfield structure which belonged to Mr. Hand was the "Rink" on Watchung avenue. The structure was erected in the early '80's by the late Mayor Evans and was intended as a skating rink, the sport being a craze at that time. It cost without the ground a total of $75,000. Mr. Hand bought the premises in 1891 and changed the place into a business and residential affair at a cost of $30,000. He sold the property to R. Henry DePew earlly in 1916 for a figure said to be $32,000.

It was in the West End of the city that Mr. Hand accomplished his greatest development. It was he who opened up DeKalb avenue, Arlington place and Mason place. In company with the late Senator Jacob Welsh, he put through McDowell street, Dudley street and other thorstreet, Dudley street and other thoroughfares in that part of town. When the Pond Tool Works first came to Plainfield, Mr. Hand "got on the job" and erected many of the houses on South Second street, Grant avenue, Lee place, Pond place, Cushing place and Monroe avenue. He afterward sold most of these on easy terms to shop mechanics. The hustling specular did not confine himself to building workmen's homes, however, as he built numerous handsome residences in exclusive sections. These may be seen on Belvidere avenue, Crescent avenue, West Eighth street and West Seventh street. He built the apartment block at Watchung avenue and East Second street adjoining the Elks' Club, the building on the Watchung avenue and Second street corner opposite the new Post-office, and the Hand row of stores and apartments on Watchung avenue next to the "Rink" building. He was always a firm believer in the business future of Watchung avenue and as a member of the Home Realty Estate Company has had a great deal to do with the development of that street in the past five years.

Mr. Hand's retirement from Plainfield, both as a business man and as a resident, will be deeply regretted but as he puts it himself he withdraws with the full knowledge that his conscience is clear and he owes no man as much as three cents to the butcher, baker or candle-stick maker." Although he has sold the greater part of his properties he still owns about twenty different buildings which will require his presence in town from time to time.

Assemblyman Runyon Urges Citizens to Make Amends to Company K Tomorrow

Editor, The Record:

Company K is scheduled to leave Trenton tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock en route for Anniston, Alabama. Thus will be removed from the State one more unit connecting us with the great war. But before these gallant boys actually depart, it may be well for the citizens of Plainfield to reflect upon one or two points.

Do you know that Company K is the only company in the Second Regiment whose home folks have failed to give them even passing recognition?

Do you know that Company K is the only company in the regiment whose local Red Cross workers have not repeatedly visited them in camp and kept their clothing in good order?

Do you know that the boys of this company, judging from the past, are inclined to believe that their going and coming is a matter of mighty little moment to the people of Plainfield.

The good folks of our city have shown a fine spirit of patriotism in countless ways since the war began. That spirit has been evidenced in no uncertain manner in the farewells extended to Troop D and to the conscripts. The boys of these two organizations can look back gratefully and gather inspiration in the memory of the acclaim which accompanied their departure from among us.

That inspiration so far has been denied Company K, and these boys, many of them performing grevious sacrifice in doing their bit, are likely to pass forth, obliged to look to strangers for that interest and kindly sympathy which should have been forthcoming from "the folks back home."

It is proposed at this late hour to make such amends as are possible, and therefore an earnest and cordial invitation is extended to every automobile owner in the city and borough to gather a full complement of friends and assemble at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Front street at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow, preparatory to moving in a body on Trenton, and giving the Company K boys the best send-off possible. Decorate your cars if possible; bring along any delicacy which you think the boys would appreciate, and beyond all things, be prompt, so that the camp may be reached by 10 o'clock. This is a chance to do a kindly and far-reaching act. Let us do it in the Plainfield way.

Yours truly,
WM. N. RUNYON.

Jack Martin, of West Fourth street, has returned home from Milwaukee.

Firemen Conducting Vigorous Campaign To Get Two Platoon

When the members of the Plainfield Fire Department launched their two-platoon campaign a short time ago, they did not sit back with the expectation of having the matter take care of itself. From the very first moment they informed the Plainfield people that they were after votes that would get them a working day such as other men enjoy, they have been busy every minute, "spreading the gospel." What they have already done is only a marker for what is to come later and if the proposition is voted down it will be through no fault of the fire laddies.

One of the most unique ideas adopted to advertise the campaign originated with William Ryder and Frank Ingraham, of Headquarters. While on a trip to Long Island recently they noticed the Government signal men flying huge kites, of the eddy type, to acquaint recruits in the signal corps with communication methods. The big kites were attracting the attention of thousands of people and Plainfielders figured that folks in this city would be just as anxious to know what was going on if one of the air contrivances was flown here, securing the services of Sancho Pandroa, a young Spaniard employed at one of the local shops who was formerly in the Spanish aviation service, they had a kite constructed that is six feet high and two wide. It is equipped with side wings and all the appurtenances that are used in making an airship stable, according to the methods taught Pandroa. Eight yards of muslin were required to wrap the frame.

The kite has been flown from the roof of Fire Headquarters on several occasions, holding a big American flag high in the air. It certainly has attracted attention and as people asked where it came from news of the two-platoon campaign spread about. The firemen are now having a banner painted with letters large enough to be read from the street as the kite is flown at a medium height. So far the flyers have had good luck with their "captive bird," although on one occasion a sudden calm caused it to drop on the roof of the Babcock building. It was found intact and rescued.

The kite is not the only thing, however, that will tell about the two-platoon. The firemen have secured reels of moving pictures, showing the life of a "smoke-eater" through his routine of work and the pictures run from the instant the tapper sounds an alarm. The pictures are taken from real life. They reveal the men scrambling to their respective apparatus, dashing down the street at top speed, forcing their way into burning buildings, braving smoke, flame and gaps in floors caused by timbers burning away, scaling walls to rescue trapped inmates, working at a blaze on a winter day with ice forming on their hands and faces and the numerous other details that make the fire laddies' lives about as "safe as a battlefield." These pictures are to be shown at the local theatres within the next few weeks.

Another idea contemplated by the committee is a big mass meeting in Columbus Auditorium or some other convenient hall. Captain Jack Clifford, of the New York department, has promised to come to Plainfield to speak, as has also Captain Homan, of the Yonkers department. Yonkers was the first city in the United States to adopt the two-platoon system and it has been successful there for five years.

The Plainfield boys are distributing explanatory literature all about the city and placards greet the eye in every direction. The entire campaign is one that knows no cessation and before election day comes every voter in the city will know all about the two-platoon system unless they deliberately close their eyes and ears to the efforts of the boys in blue.

The committee which has charge of all the publicity for the department is composed of Vincent Carroll, chairman; William C. Ryder, secretary; Harry Wierenga, treasurer; Frank Ingraham, Ray Randolph, Paul Adams and Jens Claassen.

CITY TERMINATES THE KENNY CONTRACT.

At an adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night a resolution was passed terminating the city's contract with the P. F. Kenny Company in relation to the construction of the City Hall. What is to be done toward continuing the work will be decided at another Council meeting to be held next Monday night.

It is understood that the bonding company, which furnished the backing for the Kenny firm, has gone into the hands of a receiver but this will not materially concern the city. The bonding company is a New York concern and as such must deposit a sufficient amount of money with the State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance to protect those accepting its bonds.

PICTURES IN TODAY'S RECORD LARGEST EVER PUBLISHED IN A PLAINFIELD PAPER.

On pages 4 and 5 of this issue of the Record there are printed the two largest pictures ever appearing in a local newspaper. One of them is a reproduction of a photograph taken by Paul Collier of the contingent of seventy-three National Army men as they assembled in front of the Plainfield High School last Friday. The cut used is three feet wide and eight inches deep. The other picture is a panoramic view of Camp Dix, at Wrightstown, and is eight columns wide. The Record firmly believes that everybody in Plainfield is vitally interested in Camp Dix and the young men who are to receive their military training there and for that reason is endeavoring to give every detail in connection with both. The reproduction of the two pictures mentioned is only one of the many features that will be contained in these columns from week to week. Those desiring copies of today's issue should place their orders at once as the edition is limited.

Company K Off For Anniston Early Tomorrow

Acting on the official orders received Wednesday, members of the Second New Jersey Infantry, stationed at Camp Donnelly, Trenton, have been carrying on an orderly scene of activity in preparation for entraining for Anniston, Ala., tomorrow. Everything is practically in ship-shape order at the present time and many of the boys of Company K, of this city, have been home on furloughs saying farewells before their start for the southern training ground. The leaves of absence were secured through the efforts of Lieutenant-Colonel William B. Martin, who was at one time captain of Company K.

The orders affecting the regiment call for the remainder of the troops in New Jersey to be in training camp by the end of the first week in October, and immediately afterward the work of remodeling the entire make-up of the National Guard of this State, Maryland, Virginia and Delaware into a division under the French plan will be started.

The regiment will entrain from Camp Donnelly and according to the present plans, go by way of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Numerous changes in the officers' personnel are flying thick and fast about the camp. Colonel Reading is expected to be transferred for duty elsewhere, leaving Lieutenant-Colonel Martin, of Elizabeth, in command. That change will cause a subsequent melee on down the line. Major Conrad Hall is the one most prominently mentioned as the probable successor to Colonel Martin, while his place as commander of the First Battalion is expected to be taken by Capt. Charles Peterson, of Company K. Under the reorganization scheme it is said that there will be two officers in each company holding the rank of captain, and if that turns out to be so it will cause changes in every company in the regiment. Nothing will be done concerning the shifting of men, it is understood, until after Anniston is reached.

In the event of promotions, Albert I. Littell, now on the adjutant's staff, and Lieutenant Phillips may be made captains of Company K and Sergeant George Apgar moved up to lieutenant.

CHARLES F. RANDOLPH.

Charles F. Randolph, 1309 East Randolph road, died in Muhlenberg Hospital last night, following an operation performed on September 13. He was fifty-eight years old and had lived in Plainfield practically all his life. He was a brother to Mrs. W. D. Manning, of Randolph road.

THIEVES RANSACK HOME.

During the absence of Mrs. Hugh B. Sweeney from her home on Thornton avenue, between 10 and 12 o'clock yesterday morning, sneakthieves ransacked the house and stole $400 worth of jewelry, silverware and clothing. A new suit purchased by Mr. Sweeney two weeks ago was among the articles taken. The police are working on the case but so far have no clue.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's League of St. Joseph's church will be held in St. Joseph's parish hall next Monday night, October 1, at 8:15. Very important business will be transacted and all members are urged to be present.

Initiation of Cold Nights and Limited Rations Is Followed By Complete Satisfaction As the Military Routine Begins

Local Contingent Assigned to Company A, 311th Infantry Under Captain Breen---Details of Daily Life at the Big Cantonment---Personal Mention of "Doings" Not Included In the Government's Orders

Six days have passed since Plainfield's first big contingent of seventy-three members of the National Army arrived at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, and after passing through the first initiation of cold nights and limited "eats" are now enjoying the full swing of military training in company with 20,000 odd other men from all parts of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware. The seventy-three Plainfielders, together with the other nine who preceded them by two weeks, have been assigned to Company A, 311th Infantry, commanded by Captain Breen, of Watertown, N. Y., and Lieutenants Eberlin and Vanderbilt. Uniforms began to be issued yesterday and it is expected that each man will have his full equipment by Saturday afternoon.

Like all other regiments the 311th is made up of twelve companies lettered from A to M, one supply company, one headquarters' company, and one machine gun company. Sixteen of the Plainfield boys have been temporarily assigned to machine gun quarters, but their selection has not yet been officially verified.

The official physical examination, the second the men are to receive, is now under way. So far only one man has "fallen short." This is John Mottley, of West Fourth street, who has a defect in one eye. His case has been referred to Washington and it remains with the authorities there to decide whether he shall be discharged or assigned to some other branch of the service. Three inoculations and a vaccination are to be given each man as a preventative against typhoid, small-pox and other diseases.

The first, that of typhus, was given Tuesday, and for the time being many of the embryo soldiers were knocked out. All have since recovered, although the vaccine was also applied Tuesday. The second and third inoculations are to be given ten days apart.

The sudden cold snap of last Saturday night found the new arrivals unprepared for sleeping under one blanket and hurry calls were sent to Plainfield Monday for blankets and heavier clothing. One of the first cars to be offered for transportation of bundles was provided by the Record and two trips were made, one on Monday afternoon and the other on Wednesday, with A. F. La Rock in charge. On both occasions the machine looked as if it had been chartered by Santa Claus. The boys were more than overjoyed when they discovered their "S. O. S." signals had been heard, and crowded around the car with enthusiastic shouts. Paul R. Collier, the East Front street photographer, made the trip in the Record car and snapped a picture of the boys as they grabbed hold of the sweaters and other bundles sent from home. It can be easily imagined that every fellow getting something had a broad grin on his face when snapped by the camera. The Record car will go to Camp Dix at least once a week and relatives wishing to send packages to the boys can have them delivered free of charge if they are left at the Record office, 193 North avenue.

Orders have been issued to the effect that one-half of the company at least must be on duty at all times. No passes for days of absence have been issued as yet, but it is understood that permissions for twenty-four hours off may be given out commencing tomorrow. Most of the men, however, have signified their intention of waiting a week or two when they can possibly procure passes good for forty-eight hours. The twenty-four hour leaves are of not much account to those who want to visit Plainfield, because of the time consumed in travel.

Each company is quartered in a "barracks," a two-story wooden building about 150 feet long and 40 feet wide. The lower floor is divided into two parts with a corridor in the middle, one-half is used for officers and sleeping quarters and the other half is the company mess room. The kitchen occupies a portion of the latter. Sleeping quarters take up the entire second floor. The boys from the North Plainfield dis-

Two Surprises In Local Vote

The primary results on Tuesday produced two surprises in town, one was the defeat of Councilman Levis M. Booth for renomination in the Second ward. He lost to John S. Dahl, the latter securing a majority of 46. The second surprise was the strength shown by Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, in his run for the sheriff's nomination. He was high man in tthis city out of the five contestants, polling a total of 560 votes. His nearest competitor, Councilman John H. Cose, received a total Plainfield vote of 411.

Mr. Booth's failure to be renominated is laid to the publication of his open letter in the newspapers several weeks ago in which he declared he would not be bound by any decision of the people in the coming vote on the liquor question. In consequence the leaders of the district worked against him and his former constituents went over to the opposition.

There was only one other contest of note in the city primaries. This was between Arthur E. Crone and Clarence Vail for the city treasurership. Mr. Crone won easily by a vote of 1,162 to 362. The complete list of the Republican and Democratic nominations for city offices and those of Freeholder were as follows:

Plainfielder Pinned Under Overturned Car

George Gulick, Neil Scott and Joseph Greene, all of this city, had a narrow escape from serious injury Sunday night, when an automobile in which they were riding on the Lincoln Highway near Stelton, was run into by a machine proceeding in the opposite direction. The Plainfielders' car was turned completely over, pinioning Greene underneath. Gulick and Scott were thrown to one side but escaped with a few cuts and bruises. It was some time before Greene was extricated as lifting the car away from him was a difficult job. He was in a semi-conscious condition and had to be taken to a doctor's office for treatment. He has since recovered but is unable to go to work.

The automobile causing the crash was driven by a man who gave his name as John Smith, of Delvin street, New Brunswick. He escaped injury, as did also a young woman who was riding with him but whose identity was not made known. Smith's car received but little damage. The Plainfield machine was towed to a New Brunswick garage but was practically beyond repair.

Great Inducements Offered by U. S. Navy

The United States navy offers more opportunities to the enlisted man and gives better pay, both for active service and in retirement, than any other branch of the armed forces of the Government, says the United States Navy Publicity Bureau in an official statement issued recently.

Starting at the very beginning it is possible for a young man, by work and study, to have continuous and frequent advance with increase of pay. To his base pay there is always extra pay for special duties, and with each enlistment his pay is also increased. As an instance of this, a young man enlisting in the navy receives now the following pay: Apprentice seaman, $2.60 a month; seaman, second class, $5.90 a month, and seaman, $28.40 a month. From this post he may become a petty officer receiving a present war pay of $41 for third-class; $46.50 for second-class, and $52 for first-class. Rising to a chief petty officer, his present war pay is from $61 to $83, depending on his class of skilled work.

The next higher grade is that of warrant officer, which is a life position, attainable only by promotion from enlisted grades. The pay of a warrant officer is $1,500 to $2,400 a year, depending upon length of service with benefits of retirement at 64 years of age on three-quarters pay or at any time before 64 for disability incurred in line of duty. The warrant officer's grade is composed of boatswains, gunners, carpenters, machinists, sailmakers, pharmacists and pay clerks.

Warrant officers have a still higher step in that they are commissioned as chief warrant officers in their various grades, with rank of ensign, after six years of service as boatswain, gunner, carpenter, machinist, pharmacist or pay clerk. After six years' further service from date of commission they receive the pay and allowances of a lieutenant junior grade in the navy; and after twelve years' service from date of commission they receive the pay and allowances of a lieutenant in the navy.

The advancement which is open to ambitious young men who enlist in the navy is not limited to the grade of warrant officer. There are several avenues open for promotion to commission; for example:

A boatswain, gunner or machinist or a chief boatswain, chief gunner or chief machinist, who has been in his grade four years and is under 35 years of age, may enter the examination for appointment as ensign; this examination is held every year, appointments being limited to twelve annually. A man who wins a commission in this manner is entitled to the same pay, privileges, honors and opportunities for further advancement as are open for officers who are graduates of the Naval Academy.

Pay clerks and chief pay clerks under 35 years of age may take the examination for appointment as assistant paymaster in the navy. This examination is usually held each year and is competitive.

The law provides for the appointment each year of 100 enlisted men to the Naval Academy, the requirements being that the applicant must pass a competitive examination, must be under twenty years of age at the time of appointment, and must have been in the Navy at least one year at date of entrance to the Naval Academy. Examinations for entrance to the Naval Academy are conducted on board all ships and stations wherever there are applicants. In order to give young men a chance to prepare for this examination, classes are formed at all the training stations (and on board ships), with special instructors, and the free use of the necessary text-books. The candidates who have the highest standing on the examination, and have successfully passed the physical examination, enter the Naval Academy on August 15th, and are admitted on exactly the same terms as midshipmen who are nominated by members of Congress, and, upon graduation, receive commissions in the navy.

Retiring from the service as chief petty officers of any class he may enter the reserve force, where he receives an annual retainer. Should he be called into active service he is then paid in addition to his retainer, the base pay of the regular navy for active duty, and if on recruiting duty he will receive $2.00 a day or $60 a month for subsistence.

The following schedule will show what a man will receive after retirement into the reserves. After four years of service he will receive $62.50 a year if he goes into the reserve four months after his discharge. If he waits over that time his retainer will be $50.

After eight years service, the retainer is $90.00 if after four months of discharge, and $72 after that.

For twelve years service $125 yearly retainer if after four months of discharge and $100 after that.

Reaching sixteen years of active service, a chief petty officer on going into the reserve will receive one-third of the base pay plus all permanent additions amounting to $20 to $25, and averaging a monthly income of $46. If he has served twenty years this amount will aggregate $65 monthly.

If called back into the regular service this man will then receive the regular pay of his class plus his retainer pay, and if on recruiting duty $2 a day for subsistence.

For instance, a chief petty officer drawing a regular pay of $96 monthly would receive $45 retainer and $60 subsistence allowance, making a total of $202.

If this man had retired after twenty years and was called back, he could draw $65 retainer, $105 regular and $60 subsistence, making a total of $220, which is more than a junior lieutenant's pay and nearly equal to that of a full lieutenant or a captain in the army.

FREEHOLDERS VISIT MORRIS PLAINS HOSPITAL.

Members of the Union County Board of Freeholders on Wednesday visited the State Hospital for the Insane at Morris Plains, where they received a cordial greeting from Dr. Britton D. Evans, noted alienist, who has charge of the medical department, and from O. M. Bowen, the warden of the institution.

The members expressed great surprise at some of the work being done by patients in the industrial department.

The board also visited the flower gardens connected with the institution, and were presented with some bouquets by Florist Otto Koch.

UNITED STATES WILL HAVE 1,600 SHIPS BY 1918.

By the end of 1918 the United States will have a merchant marine aggregating 1,600 ships, with a total tonnage of 9,200,000 tons. These figures compare with a total tonnage of 1,614,222 in the American overseas merchant service on June 30, 1914—one month before the war broke out. They were given out in an official statement by the United States Shipping Board recently.

PERSONAL

S. J. Tavernor, of Ballston Spa, N. Y., will return home tomorrow after spending ten days in town, coming here primarily for the purpose of casting his vote at the primaries Tuesday.

Mrs. Vincent W. Nash, Jr., of Martine avenue, has so far recovered from her recent severe illness as to be able to be out doors.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane, who attended the Fire Chief's Convention at Atlantic City last week, went from that place to Spring Lake, where he has been spending the past week as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Nash.

John Jamieson, of Arlington avenue, who has been employed at the Kensington Hotel for the past two weeks, has secured a position at the local plant of the Standard Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lawrence, of Madison avenue, have returned home from Sound Beach, Conn., where they spent the past summer.

Mrs. Henry Dresselt and daughter, of Vine street, have been spending the past week with Mrs. Dresselt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Opdycke, at New Germantown.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Minerva Wolf and Harold Burke, both of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong at his home on West Eighth street, last Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Blackman, of this city, were the attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Freed and Miss Irene Day, of Watchung avenue, returned home the forepart of the week after a two weeks' trip to Washington and points in Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. King, formerly of Glen Ridge, now of this city, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Martha Esther Kellogg, and Sloane E. Miller, of New York.

Hilaire C. Blatz, of Madison avenue, has resigned his position with the commercial department of the P. S. C., and is now employed at the Milliken Structural Iron Company on Staten Island.

Mrs. Edith B. Melick, of West Fourth street, who has been employed in the office of Marshall's Laundry for many years, has resigned to accept a position with the Calco Chemical Company at Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Laing, of the borough, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a baby daughter. The little miss was born at Muhlenberg Hospital this week. Mrs. Laing was formerly Miss Ethel Perrine, of the borough.

Don Frisble, of East Seventh street, who has been acting as government inspector at the Standard Aero Plant, has gone to Rochester, N. Y., for two weeks and may probably be located permanently at the Curtis Aeroplane factory in Buffalo.

Mrs. Andrew Muir, of West Sixth street, left a few days ago for Davenson, Ia., to which place she was called by the death of her brother-in-law, Alexander Muir, of that place. She will remain in the West several weeks.

Miss Geraldine Brooks, of West Sixth street, has resigned her position as teacher of English in the Plainfield High School, and has accepted one in a similar capacity in a private school at Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Rogers, of West Seventh street, left last week for a trip to New Orleans, where Mr. Rogers is to attend an insurance convention. Before returning they will visit several points of interest in the South.

Mrs. William B. Maxson and daughter, Miss Mabel Maxson, of Truell Court, have returned to this city after spending the summer at Cape Porpoise, Me.

Miss Helen V. D. Ryno, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ryno, of Watchung avenue, the borough, has entered Temple University, of Philadelphia, for a two years' course in domestic science.

Landrum Jennings, a former local resident who has been at Warren, Ohio, for several years, is spending the present week in town as the guest of his father, Chief A. D. Jennings, of the local Fire Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Hann, of Readington, entertained a gathering of relatives and near friends at their home last Saturday in honor of Mrs. Hann's birthday. A most enjoyable time was had. Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. George Meyer and children, Florence and Sylvester, of Muhlenberg place, this city; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hann and Fred Hann, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Hann, Herbert and Mabel Hann, of Pluckemin; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilson, Stacy and Mary Wilson, of Landsdown; Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Rude and George and Harry Rude, John Mannon, Mary Hann and Mrs. Mary A. Mannon, all of Readington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse, of Watchung avenue, are the parents of a nine-pound daughter, born to them at Muhlenberg Hospital Sunday. Mr. Morse was for several years city editor of the Plainfield Daily Press.

Frank O. Dunning, Jr., of Mountain avenue, returned Wednesday after enjoying a five days' furlough from his duties with the United States Army Ambulance Corps, now stationed at Allentown, Penn. His brother, Arthur Dunning, and Gresham Sharp, of this city, are members of the same division.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hart, of Gresham road, left Tuesday for a two weeks' trip to the Middle West. They will spend most of the time in South Dakota, but will make brief stops at Chicago and St. Paul before returning.

ARE WOMEN'S BOOTS GOING TO BE LESS BEAUTIFUL THIS SEASON ON ACCOUNT OF THE WAR?

Our "Fall Style Show" this week emphatically says "NO!"

Perhaps the styles shown are more practical, more substantial—less of the "ginger-bread"—than in the past few seasons.

But they are more than ever works of Art and things of Beauty as exemplified in our Fall Opening Window Displays.

Unique Souvenir, Made on Battle Front, Sent to Plainfielder by Dr. C. L. Crist

Charles H. Dunham, of Central avenue, has received from Dr. Chalmers L. Crist, now in France as a member of the Dental Division of the Medical Corps, a most unique souvenir. It is an automatic cigar lighter, made from a German shell thrown into the allied position near where Dr. Crist is located. A blacksmith attached to one of the units secured a portion of the shell and to show his skill as an artisan made the lighter while Dr. Crist looked on. Another soldier who was a polisher by a Paris jewelry establishment finished the souvenir and the third man who was pursuing his calling as an engraver before the war began placed Mr. Dunham's monogram and the date on the obverse and reverse sides of the lighter. The latter was done at Dr. Crist's request after the blacksmith had made him a present of the work.

To say that Dr. Dunham was delighted at receiving the souvenir is expressing it mildly. It not only comes in very useful to him but is a reminder that "Doc" Crist has the Plainfield boys in mind even though he is in the midst of all the excitement 4,000 miles away. After showing it the first few times, so many people asked Mr. Dunham for a look at the lighter that he has been kept busy pulling it out of his pocket ever since. It operates through the ignition of the gasoline wick by means of an automatic spark. Everything used in completing it was secured within the regimental ranks and evidence of how complete an equipment the field forces are carrying.

Dr. Crist has written several letters to Plainfielders, stating that he is located at a field hospital. He was given his choice of remaining at a base hospital or going to the front, and true to his word when he left Plainfield that he was "going after action" he chose the latter. The censorship prohibits him from going into details but he asserts that there is "lots doing" in the sector where he is at present and that every man in the division is kept busy every minute. In one letter the doctor tells of some wonderful dental work that has been performed, the operations saving the lives of the wounded men. The cases in question were those of infantry men whose jaws had been shattered by shrapnel and only the experience that an up-to-date dentist can bring into use made it possible for the surgeons to go ahead with their "patching." Dr. Crist was one of the first Plainfielders to be sent abroad, sailing from New York nearly three months ago. Since his departure three other Plainfield dentists, who are now awaiting orders, have received commissions.

Hugh Goodwin Weds Miss Edythe Bechtel

Miss Edythe Bechtel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles U. Bechtel, of Carlton avenue, was married last Saturday afternoon to Hugh Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Goodwin, also of Carlton avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. O. McKelvey at the manse of the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church on Grandview avenue. The only attendants were Miss Ruth Tartter, of Newburgh, N. Y., a cousin of the bride, and James D. Goodwin, brother of the bridegroom. After a brief wedding trip the young couple will make their home in this city.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin have a wide circle of friends and are extremely popular with their associates. Mr. Goodwin is employed as a traveling salesman by a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation.

MOOSE TO VISIT WRIGHTSTOWN.

A delegation from Plainfield Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, is among the many from this city that will visit Camp Dix at Wrightstown next Sunday. The members will make the trip by auto, leaving Moose headquarters at 8 a. m. It was the intention of the Moose delegation to stop off at Camp Donnelly, Trenton, where Company K has been located, but as the latter is leaving for Anniston tomorrow, this plan has been given up.

Keansbury Hotel Burned, Causing Loss of $32,000

Fire of unknown origin practically destroyed the New Point Comfort Hotel and contents at the foot of Steamboat Pier and the Broadwalk at Keansburg shortly after 12:30 Monday morning. The building and contents were valued at $32,000, but only $10,000 in insurance was carried by the owners, William A. Gehlhaus and Jesse L. Scuthorp. A building known as the Auditorium, about twenty-five feet away, was damaged to the extent of $100 on the exterior.

The hotel had been closed for the season, but Mr. and Mrs. Gehlhaus, the manager, Charles Duelcher, and Captain William Little were still there. The four were about to retire when Mr. Gehlhaus discovered fire raging on the third floor and in the attic. Keansburg's two chemical engines were summoned, as was apparatus from Red Bank, Freeport and Atlantic Highlands. The firemen arrived too late to save the hotel building, but prevented the flames from gaining headway on the Auditorium, a $40,000 structure.

Mr. Scuthorp was the owner of a hotel at Highlands damaged by fire in July with a loss of $5,000. The New Point Comfort Hotel was one block from the section destroyed by the big fire of May 27.

Club Women's Convention.

Club women of New Jersey will hold the fall convention in Trenton on October 26 when the topic for consideration will be "Our Immediate Responsibilities," and the women will learn what they can do individually and as organization to make their efforts a telling force in winning the war. Delegates from the four local clubs in the Federation will attend.

As yet the details of the program have not been worked out, but an effort is being made to secure Rev. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, National chairman of the woman's division of the Council of National Defense, and Raymond D. Fosdick, National head of recreational work in military camps, both of whom it is expected will point out to the club women ways in which they can help in the conduct of the war, particularly in camp and relief work.

The federation is eager to give its services. In the canteens of the camps by establishing "hostess houses" and work of a similar nature, and it is thought this can be accomplished immediately after the meeting.

Attention is called to the fact that the federation is departing from its custom of holding the fall meeting on Saturday, as an experiment and in response to the demands of many housewives who find Friday a more convenient day to be away from home. Whether the meeting will be held in the State House or in the Masonic Temple in Trenton has not been decided, but announcement of this and other details will be made later through the chairman of the program committee, Mrs. Frank H. Hobbs, of Hasbrouck Heights.

Mrs. John R. Schermerhorn, of East Orange, the president, announced the appointment of Mrs. C. M. Cooper as chairman of the resolutions committee. The president, with the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frank Bailey, of Leonia, and the recording secretary, Mrs. W. G. Moore, of Haddonfield, comprise the year book committee, with Mrs. Bailey in charge of the details of the distribution of the book.

Liberty Bonds Being Delivered

Delivery of Liberty bonds to subscribers commenced yesterday through the twelve Federal Reserve Banks. Considering the probable retention by many subscribers of interim certificates, now being issued, officials estimate that the work of distribution will require several weeks.

The huge issue is larger in the number of bonds required than first reports, based on more than 4,000,000 individual subscriptions, indicated. The number of coupon bonds is estimated by Federal Reserve Banks as in excess of 8,700,000 pieces, of which more than 7,000,000 are of the $50 and $100 denominations.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo repeats his suggestion that holds of interim certificates would find it to their advantage in many instances to hold the certificates, instead of exchanging them for bonds, until Congress disposes of the bill authorizing 4 per cent. interest on the next offering. The local banks are busy completing the distributing of certificates.

Employes, banks, trust companies and others are urged to aid in relieving the Government and subscribers of the trouble and expense of the delivery of bonds in small denominations by accepting and procuring the acceptance in the first instance of bonds of the largest denominations possible, and of registered bonds rather than coupon bonds, and by retaining or procuring the retention of the full-paid interim certificates until Congress shall have acted on the bond bill and rate of interest, etc., to be borne by any new bonds shall have been determined.

Site Selected For Prison Farm

At a meeting of the prison farm committee of the Board of Freeholders Friday afternoon it was decided to recommend the purchase of the Reilly farm of about sixty-five acres at the top of the mountain adjoining Bonnie Burn, the county tuberculosis hospital. The price is $6,000.

At one time the Board looked with favor on the Dixon tract, but as the purchase price was deemed too high, the committee was compelled to look elsewhere for a site.

It is now believed that the Board will, at its meeting on October 4, take some definite steps toward the establishment of the farm upon the site recommended by the committee.

The members of the Board, it is believed, are, without exception, in favor of the prison farm plan, but there remains, even after the purchase of the site, a multitude of questions in regard to the proposition yet to be decided. Many, for instance, still favor the workhouse plan even though in that system it would be necessary for the court to sentence offenders to the institution direct, whereas in the prison farm plan the matter of sending men there would be left to the discretion of the sheriff.

The committee has taken the attitude that since it was appointed to investigate the prison farm proposition, it has no authority to take any steps toward a workhouse.

There is, too, the question of housing the men who are placed at work on the farm, as it is believed that the distance from Elizabeth will preclude the possibility of transporting them morning and night from the county jail. This will probably make necessary the erection of a farm house upon the site which the freeholders decide to purchase.

Surprise Party Follows Dinner to Selected Men

Jack Force, of Richmond street, gave a party to fifteen friends at his home Wednesday night in honor of Frank J. Donnelly and Martin Mantz, both of this city, who are to go to Wrightstown next week with the succeeding National Army contingent. Mr. Force was assisted by his mother, Mrs. Hugh G. Force, in making the arrangements and a most delightful time was had. At the conclusion of the repast a thirty young women friends of the guests sprang a surprise on the gathering by arriving at the house unannounced. A genuine, good old-fashioned party resulted, during which vocal and instrumental music and dancing were enjoyed. The affair broke up about midnight.

St. Mary's T. A. B. Society, of which Mr. Donnelly has been an active member for several years, gave a reception in his honor at T. A. B. Hall Saturday night. He has been acting as drum-major of St. Mary's T. A. B. Fife and Drum Corps and his loss to the organization will be greatly felt. During the evening he was presented with an up-to-date wrist watch by the society as a whole in recognition for what he has done for the organization. Rufus Larew made the presentation speech. The society also presented a wrist watch to John Gleason, another member, who went to Wrightstown with the first contingent three weeks ago.

Mr. Mantz has also been the recipient of one of the handy time pieces which is sanctioned by the military authorities. It was presented to him Monday morning by the employes of J. A. Smith & Bro., in whose store he has been a clerk for several years.

News of the Theatres

"Sporting Widows" Coming Next Tuesday

An unusual offering is announced by Manager Shannon, of the Plainfield Theatre, for the coming Tuesday in the appearance of "The Sporting Widows," who come with the prestige of exceptionally laudatory comments by critics of other cities in which the company has thus far appeared. Nothing but novelties is the slogan of the management, and in this they have been markedly successful, for the program from beginning to end is a series of new conceits arranged in such an appetizing manner that there is not a dull moment during the whole performance. It is a girly show, too, for there is a chorus of some twenty-eight of the handsomest, most statuesque and accomplished young women that will be seen here this season. Moreover they are equipped with a costume outfit that affords opportunity for displaying their charms to advantage. They gambol about the stage like gazelles in the numerous ensembles and dance figures which are plentifully supplied in the two act musical trifle which serves to introduce the entire company effectively.

Heading a cast of brilliant attainments is that unctious comedian, Harry Cooper, who has long since demonstrated that as an extractor of fun he has no peers. In the present vehicle he is given full leeway and makes the best of his opportunities. Others who add to the general melee of fun and frolic include Drena Mack, the dashing prima donna, who has a genuine big voice; Sayo, whose comedy methods are brought into play effectively; Frank P. Cook, another funster of note; Jack Strouse, Irene Mears and Jean Pollock, a pair of accomplished singers and dancers who are new here, will have a conspicuous place in the vaudeville olio. Handsome stage settings and brilliant electrical effects provide an environment that satisfies the cravings for something out of the beaten paths.

"You're In Love" Coming to This City Next Week

"You're In Love," the latest musical comedy success of distinction, just from its brilliant run at the New York Casino, will be the offering presented by Arthur Hammerstein at the Plainfield Theatre, Friday evening, October 5, and all signs point to its reception with the same cordiality as was shown to "Katinka," "High Jinks" and "The Firefly," by the same authors, who in conjunction with Mr. Hammerstein, have used their utmost endeavors in order to lend the mark of superiority to this, his most elaborate production. "You're In Love" is heartily proclaimed by press and public as being one of the very rarest combinations of farcical flavor and melodious consequence ever concocted. Besides it is auspicious on account of having stage settings to form an atmosphere of picturesque charm, while the cast and chorus have received the most selective consideration.

"Cinderella Kiss" a Fanciful Effusion

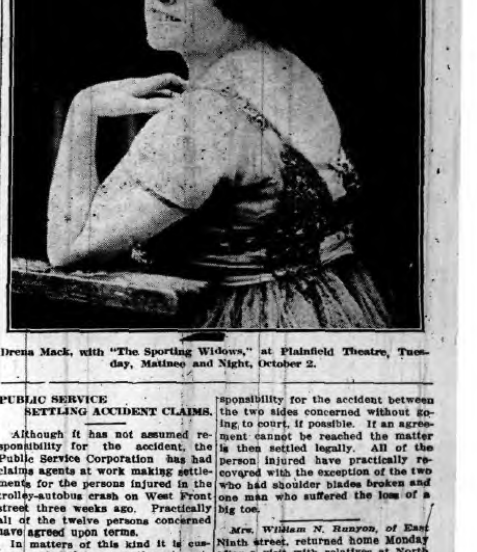
"A Kiss For Cinderella," in which Maude Adams is to be seen at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday, is one of the most fanciful and whimsical effusions that has ever emanated from the gifted brain of the Scotch dramatist, James Matthew Barrie. Miss Adams portrays the role of Miss Thing, who is a little English slavey of a most romantic turn of mind. During the day Miss Thing is a household drudge and at night she does her "bit" in war-time by taking care of four orphan children—an English blue jacket's daughter, a French and a Belgian girl, and the "littlest, her as was left over and nobody would take,"—a German baby. To these children the imaginative waif pretends that she is Cinderella, a make-believe which in time becomes a reality not only to the children but to the little story-teller herself. The fulfillment of this wartime slavey's Cinderela dream ball is the climax of a delightful story, told in the best Barrie vein of charm, pathos and humor.

"Electrical Wizard" at the Plainfield Theatre

Dr. Carl Hermann, who is described as "The Electrical Wizard," drew crowded houses to the Plainfield Theatre yesterday afternoon and last night on the occasion of his first appearance here as a headline attraction for the new vaudeville program for the last half of the week. The doctor's body seems to be surcharged with electricity and the performa numerous feats that are positively weird. He has the assistance of a company in conducting his experiments, which, with the aid of apparatus, enables him to inject humor in the proceedings. The offering is a distinct novelty and must be seen to be appreciated.

Dr. Hermann has made a study of human ills which can be cured by electrical treatment and in consequence places his wonderful gift at the disposal of the public. He received a number of callers this morning from 10 until 12 o'clock to give advice to those who are afflicted.

Beside "The Electrical Wizard," five other splendid numbers are on the program which will be continued today and tomorrow. These include LaPearl, novelty singers and dancers; Clark & Wood, "Two Dainty Misses;" in songs and dances; Cameron and Company, in the comedy dramatic sketch, "Game Gamblers;" the novelty production and song entitle, "A Study In Life," and Barret and Gardner, comedians. The Pathe News is shown at every performance with changes of pictures every Monday and Thursday.



Drena Mack, with "The Sporting Widows," at Plainfield Theatre, Tuesday, Matinee and Night, October 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Hook and children, of Pearl street, have returned home after enjoying their annual outing at the seashore.

Mrs. Bernard Cook, of Liberty street, has been confined to her home for the past ten days by a serious illness. She is now improving slowly.

PUBLIC SERVICE SETTLING ACCIDENT CLAIMS.

Although it has not assumed responsibility for the accident, the Public Service Corporation has had claims agents at work making settlements for the persons injured in the trolley-autobus crash on West Front street three weeks ago. Practically all of the twelve persons concerned have agreed upon terms.

In matters of this kind it is customary for the corporations to settle claims at once and decide the responsibility for the accident between the two sides concerned without going to court, if possible. If an agreement cannot be reached the matter is then settled legally. All of the person injured have practically recovered with the exception of the two who had shoulder blades broken and one man who suffered the loss of a big toe.

Mrs. William N. Runyon, of East Ninth street, returned home Monday after a visit with relatives at North Adams, Mass.

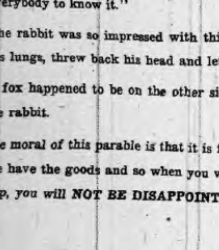
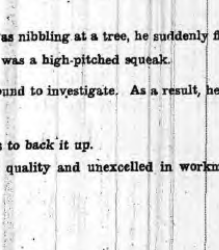
A JUNGLE STORY





A rabbit once met a lion in the jungle and asked, "Why do you go about the jungle roaring the way you do?"

The lion replied, "I believe in advertising because I've got the goods to back it up. I am the king of beasts and I want everybody to know it."

The rabbit was so impressed with this logic that the following day when the rabbit was nibbling at a tree, he suddenly filled his lungs, threw back his head and let out what he expected to be a roar. The result was a high-pitched squeak.

A fox happened to be on the other side of the tree, and, hearing the squeak, went around to investigate. As a result, he ate the rabbit.

The moral of this parable is that it is folly to advertise when you haven't got the goods to back it up.

We have the goods and so when you want furs that are exclusive in style, superior in quality and unexcelled in workmanship, you will NOT BE DISAPPOINTED when you specify KURTZMAN'S FURS.

MORE STRONG TALK FROM REV. DR. STRONG.

Not satisfied with appointing himself leader of the "lip" musicians' band, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong now insists on beating the bass drum in the same nerve-racking organization. In the first position only those near at hand could witness his gyrations, but in the latter he can attract attention many blocks away. The first opportunity to try himself out as the new performer came last Friday afternoon through his being asked to address the seventy-three men from the Plainfield district who were to leave the next day for Camp Dix. In the same swash-buckling style that has marked many of his utterances of late he gave voice to a speech that was anything but befitting to a man of his station of life. The young men who listened to him realize fully what a great crisis this country is passing through and although they are helping to make up the National Army that will subdue Prussianism, they are not filling their hearts with hatred toward the German Nation as a whole. They view the matter as President Wilson did when he declared war, that is, that this fight is against the autocratic government of Germany and not the rank and file that is compelled to uphold it.

Mr. Strong disagrees with Mr. Wilson. His whole ambition seems to be to instill hatred in the hearts of everyone within his hearing, despite the fact that he is a minister of the Gospel, a man whose duty it is to teach love and good will. In his address last Friday, he said many things that were untimely, but the "masterpiece" ran something like this:

"If there could be a gun constructed big enough to shoot all the Germans off the face of the earth, I would gladly take a hand in the construction and firing of this gun."

If an ambitious recruit had made this remark it would not be considered a second time but when it is considered that the man who enunciated it goes to his pulpit on Sunday and preaches the word of Jesus Christ, the ill-placed source can be better understood.

The speaker who followed Dr. Strong at last Friday's gathering was Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church. Although the venerated clergyman had heard not a word of what his predecessor had said, his remarks could not have been in more direct contrast if he had carefully prepared them for such an effect. They were the thoughts of a man who acts as the preceptor and guide of his people and wants them to live the sort of life God intended they should. The all-wise Creator who numbers even the very hairs of our head created the German race as well as those of other nations and His Holy Words contain no such sentiments as those formulated by Dr. Strong. It is nobody's province to send mere youths on the way to France thirsting for blood. They are going out to uphold the dignity of this nation and twenty years from now the United States and Germany will be interchanging commerce with each other as they did before 1914. Thirty years from now old relations will be established and fifty years from the present date the occurrences of today will be a matter of history.

This is what Father Bogan said, in part:

"You young men are now on the eve of your departure for the beginning of what will be your share in the great struggle that is going to liberate Germany. You should not begin your mission with anger in your heart or rancor against the German people because your mission is to further the cause of democracy and suppress an autocratic government. You are going out to exemplify American ideals, remembering that this country is the home for the homeless and that all races and creeds find protection beneath the folds of its glorious banner. You are going out for the sake of humanity and the German people are a part of humanity."

The words of Father Bogan are those born of love for his fellow man. Those of Dr. Strong were engendered by a desire to be in the limelight and if it were not for the result that might come about nobody would pay particular attention to them. It is high time that the Rev. Clergyman realized that his mission on earth is not the spreading of hatred and that the sooner he confines himself to the real calling of the cloth he misrepresents the quicker the people of this community will wish him well. We have had enough of his bass drum patriotism.

HOME DEFENSE LEAGUE'S WORK AT PAGEANT.

At the pageant, "Democracy of Labor," held at the Horse Show grounds on the evening of September 20th, the Home Defense League certainly justified its organization and fully demonstrated their ability and efficiency in handling large crowds.

On the evening in question it is estimated that there were from seven to ten thousand people present; there were no accidents, and the arrangements had been so completely worked out in detail that everybody was enabled to leave the show grounds quickly and safely. No automobiles were permitted to leave before the pedestrians had gotten out of the way, and the wise diversion of traffic at Hillside avenue prevented any congestion at Park avenue and Randolph road.

Everything worked smoothly as the result of carefully laid plans, and too much credit cannot be given to the members of the Home Defense League who have trained themselves to meet conditions like these, and who are thoroughly equipping themselves, also, to meet any emergency which might arise in Plainfield.

The members of the Home Defense League have been unselfishly and patriotically giving their time to the public service, and the city is to be congratulated in having among its people so many earnest ones who are willing on all occasions to do their "bit" and to do it cheerfully.

SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY GIVING WAY TO "PIRACY."

Alabama State and local authorities will be lax in their duty toward the soldiers encamped at Anniston if they do not at once put a stop to the extortionate practices of local tradesmen and others, who look upon the soldiers from the north as their legitimate prey, says the Camden Post-Telegram.

An example of the exploitation of the national camp was the highwayman-like action of the Anniston taximen, who, after taking thousands of soldiers into the town at twenty-five cents a head, demanded one dollar for taking them back. These highwaymen thought they had the whiphand, as the soldiers could not hike back the seven miles by the time they were required to be in camp. But the military police solved the problem by commandeering the motor vehicles. If this is a sample of southern hospitality the northern soldiers may well wish they had been sent to a cantonment north of the Mason and Dixon line.

It is difficult for the military authorities to protect the soldiers from being overcharged and swindled in the territory adjacent to the camps unless State and local authorities cooperate with them. As a matter of State comity and for its own credit in vindication of the historic record of the south for hospitality, the Alabama authorities should see to it that the troops at Anniston are protected against the gougers and profiteers who flock around every cantonment like vultures scenting a feast.

Plainfielders At Camp Dix

trict have been assigned to Co. F, of the 311th and their barracks are located diagonally across the street from the Plainfield delegation.

The rations were slow in arriving for the first few meals because of the big rush, but since then the mess accommodations have rounded out to the satisfaction of everybody. The boys not only get the ever-reliable pork and beans but on several occasions have had a chance to bite into big thick juicy steaks. The Government is not a bit stingy, either, and all hands are entitled to "Oliver Twist," that is, they can ask for more if first portions are not enough.

This is the daily routine that the Plainfielders and all others are now going through:

First call, 5.45 a. m.; revelie, 6.00 a. m.; breakfast, 6.20 a. m., followed by police duty, which means a general clean-up of barracks and streets; assembly for company drill, 7.30 a. m., continuing to 11:30 a. m., interspersed with talks on hygiene and care of equipment, these being given during the rest periods; noonday mess, 12.00 o'clock; battalion drill, 1.30 p. m. to 5.20 p. m.; night mess, 6.00 p. m.; on various evenings lectures are given on military matters between the hours of 7.00 and 9.00. When there are no lectures the evenings are open to the men to do as they please. All men must be in camp and lights out at 9.00 p. m., and taps are sounded at 10.00 p. m.

The camp is open at all times during the day, but it is poor policy for relatives and friends to arrive when the men are busy. The best time to visit them is on Wednesday or Saturday afternoons or all day Sunday, these being the times when they can entertain callers. Contrary to false rumors that have spread about town women are admitted to camp at all times.

The selected men have nothing to do with the construction work on the camp, which is still going on in anticipation of the arrival of 50,000 more recruits by the last of October. A force of 10,000 mechanics and laborers is taking care of all the building and road making.

Officials who have looked over the camp regard the work done upon it as extraordinary. Since June 1, when the Government announced the selection of the site, an army of upward of 10,000 workmen has been converting the 4,200 acres of rolling farm land into a model and ultra-modern home and school for soldiers. The work has proceeded under the direction of the engineers of the army and the National Guard. The first to take charge of the work were companies A, B and C, First Battalion, Engineers of New Jersey. They surveyed the land, mapped it out and planned the sites for the buildings, parade grounds, etc. Then A and B companies left, and C Company had the job of getting the construction work under way.

Something of the magnitude of the work is evident from figures. The camp site is 11¼ miles around. The parade grounds are 1,000 feet wide and a mile long. Something like 1,500 small buildings had to be erected as homes and offices for the men and officers. The hospital, which is now just under way, will consist of fifty one-story buildings, covering sixty acres. They will contain 1,500 beds. Bellevue Hospital, the biggest hospital in the world, has provision for 900 beds, or 600 fewer than will be installed at the base hospital at Camp Dix. The Young Men's Christian Association has also several buildings. One is an auditorium with seats for 3,500 men.

Wrightstown, the home of Camp Dix, is a tiny hamlet situated on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Neighboring places, New Egypt and Pemberton are also in the hamlet class. The nearest approach to a town is Mount Holly, the seat of Burlington county. Trenton is seventeen miles away.

In constructing the barracks and homes for officers an effort has been made toward securing as much comfort, as possible. All will be heated and provided with shower baths and sanitary sewage disposal arrangements.

Though life at Camp Dix is not yet all that could be desired, the men are in good spirits. During rest hours, between 5:30 p. m. and taps, from all parts of the cantonment come the refrains of "We Won't Come Back 'Till It's Over, Over There," "Pack Up Your Troubles In Your Old Kit Bag" and "Smile, Smile, Smile."

Side Lights on Plainfielders in Co. A, 311 Infantry

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Louis Leone has volunteered to be cook for Co. A, 311th Infantry, and the Plainfield boys are now certain of escaping indigestion.

Plainfielders have an aristocratic neighbor. He is Kingdon Gould, the son of the Lakewood millionaire, who is in Co. D, only two barracks away. Mr. Gould has already shown that he is made of the right stuff. He was on police duty this week, which puts him in the class with the white wings. His work consisted of picking up refuse, paper and incidentally he was noticed "shooting" a few "butts."

Dan Kiely, son of the Chief, says he is beginning to look like the Chief—in size.

Ralph Dilibro is making a big hit trotting about camp with a Prince Albert coat on and his mess kit sticking out of his pockets.

Renaldi Coon is in solid with the ladies and isn't missing any "mush-parties" by being in camp.

Charles Montayne is O. K., but would feel better if he could get a glimpse of his sweetheart. Won't she accommodate him?

Dick Harrigan was bragging about his wonderful physique, the doctor having told him that he had the greatest chest expansion he had ever seen. However, after considerable strutting about and throwing out his famous chest, he was obliged to drop out of ranks the other day. Cause—Inoculation.

Joe Sullivan claims he had the meal of his life the other day. The bill of fare consisted of pork and beans.

John Connolly says he can't eat the food. We don't think the fault is with the food. More than likely he longs to give an argument to the gang at Fourth and Liberty streets.

Jack Casey gets so much mail postmarked "Rahway, N. J.," that the company postmaster has asked for an assistant.

Plainfield's First Big Contingent of Seventy-three National Army Men

Herbert Bartlau says army life is all right but it will never be a success until he is allowed at least a dozen "pink ladies" a day.

Charlie Drake, through force of habit, walked up to the captain's door and in a purring voice called out, "Grocer!"

The building of a platform for Captain Breen's use turned out to be a "Perth Amboy job." George Fischer drew the plans, Charles Loiseaux inspected the lumber, Gus Nash gave legal advice, Howard Armstrong acted as timekeeper, Arthur Moore was superintendent, and a fellow whose name could not be learned did the work.

Jack Casey is very much peeved and insists on a discharge, as the regulations call for two baths a week.

Jack McCarthy has at last decided to stay at Camp Dix, after having received eight blankets, three sweaters, pair of overshoes, fur gloves and ear muffs from home.

Paul Adams, who is on the outside looking in, visited camp one day this week and picked a cot where he can see the Camp Dix Fire Department across the street when he becomes a regular boarder later on.

Ralph Delibro disturbs the slumbers of Co. A men nights by laying in bed moaning, "Who is going to take care of my houses?"

Joe O'Keefe says "it's all wrong," and roams around with a perpetual grouch and won't even say goodnight. He spends most of his time shaving—three times a day.

Gus Nash has the boudoir de-luxe. The regular layout didn't satisfy him, so he called a carpenter and had a special compartment built for himself.

Joe Sullivan frowns at the "doughboys" and yells lustily, "Bring on my machine gun."

Bill White, Jack Casey, Joe Copula and Joe Sullivan wish to thank the Plainfield Red Cross for the knives included in their kits as they came in very handy peeling potatoes.

Ken Philips is rapidly learning to talk Japanese from associating with the officers' Jap cook.

"Squint" Mottley is hoping against hope that he can "kid" the Government into giving him a discharge.

Gene McLoughlin is the envy of camp with his red and blue bathrobe. He got a red and blue blanket from home to match it, and then he had to use the red and blue bathrobe to hustle for a bath to get the coloring from the red and blue blanket off his skin.

Rev. Father McDonald Assigned to Camp Dix

Rev. Father Joseph S. McDonald, former curate at St. Mary's church and assistant rector in St. Patrick's parish, Jersey City, previous to his appointment as chaplain in the regular army, has been assigned to duty at Wrightstown. Just what particular division he will be with has not been made known as yet but there is a possibility that he might be with either the Plainfield or Paterson boys. He has a wide acquaintance throughout the entire camp as it is made up at present.

While returning from Camp Dix Wednesday after reporting for duty, Father McDonald had his first opportunity to act in the capacity of lieutenant. He came upon an automobile accident near Bordentown, in which one man had a leg almost completely severed and others were more or less injured. The former Plainfield clergyman commandeered soldiers nearby to take charge of the victims and after summoning the army ambulance rode in the vehicle with the patients to the nearest hospital. Father McDonald will visit in Plainfield tomorrow before going to Wrightstown permanently.

Defense League Arranging For Big Field Day

Plainfield's Home Defense League, which has proven itself second to none in this part of the State for hustling activity, is now completing arrangements for one of the biggest events of the fall season. It has been designated as a Field Day and will include the best parts of a military tournament, an athletic meet and a Rhode Island clambake. The Watchung Spring Water Company's grounds on Mountain avenue, which have been used extensively for a gathering of this nature in the past few years, have been secured for the purpose and a committee is now hard at work arranging the details. Saturday afternoon, October 6, has been selected as the date.

The committee in charge is composed of R. F. R. Huntsman, T. R. Van Boskerck, T. H. Keller, Charles H. Dunham, A. L. Otterson, H. W. Brower and E. A. Brown. An idea as to what is to be expected when the big affair takes place was revealed in the announcement cards mailed to the members of the league yesterday. The announcement was gotten up by R. F. R. Huntsman and is chuck full of originality. What the committee has to say is told in paragraphs and each paragraph has a most appropriate cut illustrating the point to be "forced home" to the guests. The language is breezy and if anyone receiving a card forgets the date or fails to respond it will be because he is absolutely "non compos mentos." It is safe to say that the announcements will be treasured as a most attractive souvenir.

From the time the program begins until it ends in the evening there will be something doing every minute. The eats, of course, will be all that a hungry man could desire because "Eddie" Brown has been placed in charge of this important portion. There will be a list of athletic events "a mile long" and handsome prizes will be awarded the winners. City officials will be invited to speak but what they have to say will be held right down to "brass tacks" in order to save them for something else. The league numbers about 150 members, so that all in all there will be fully 200 men on the grounds. Those who are not the "unfortunate" possessors of automobiles with all their possibilities of fire and magneto trouble will be furnished transportation in some other way. As Mr. Huntsman puts it in his first blaze of publicity: "Those who don't own flivvers will get a ride in the wagon. This will not be a new experience for some of you."

As a wind-up to the humorous "bally hoo" of the Field Day, the following statement is made and backed up by a cut showing a gentleman who has dined exceedingly well on "good eats" and has split his face into an expansive grin: "Admission 'one one,' including everything from Saturday noon until it's all over, and you are going to say 'That's the best outing I ever outed on.'"

BIG RECRUITING DRIVE PLANNED FOR THIS CITY.

With Major Bloom, of Newark, and a large staff of other recruiting officers in charge, a big recruiting drive will be held in this city from September 29 to October 1. The drive will be begun with a huge mass meeting in Proctor's Theatre, at which a number of the recruiting staff will speak, and will have as its objective, the securing of recruits for the technical troops with the new National Army.

Married applicants will be accepted, provided they can persuade their wives to sign a waiver before a notary public, or receive the permission of the regiment which he desires to join.

The recruiting office at Elizabeth, in charge of Sergeant Foster, reports the enlistment of George W. Reed, of 333 Somerset street, North Plainfield. He was assigned to the Fifteenth Infantry of New York.

EDGE PROMISES FIREMEN FAIRER PENSION SYSTEM.

Promises of a more equitable pension system through State legislation were made to the delegates attending the annual convention of the New Jersey Firemen's Relief Association at Atlantic City by Governor Edge at the closing session Saturday. He urged the co-operation of the firemen in the movement.

General Bird W. Spencer, of Passaic, was elected president for his fortieth term. Other officers named included: District vice presidents, J. Hildreth Stretch, of Salem; Lawrence G. Mindin, of Medford; Howard DeHart, of New Brunswick; William H. Black, of High Bridge; August Gerstung, of Elizabeth; Horton M. Beegle, of Newton; Charles Becker, of Haledon; Christopher Millett, of Harrison; T. M. O'Crowley, of Orange; Otto Hass, of Montclair; J. J. O'Brien, of Union Hill, and Bernard A. Coyle, of Jersey City; treasurer, T. Howell Johnson, of Bloomfield, and secretary, William Exall, of Newark, who has been on the executive board for thirty years. Atlantic City was selected for the next convention.

Activities Resumed at Local Y. M. C. A.

With the coming of William H. Baxley, the new general secretary, plans have been gotten under way at the Plainfield branch of the Y. M. C. A. during the past week for the fall and winter activities. The Boys' High School Club is the first to actively resume its meetings. A meeting of the executive committee was held in the association building recently when plans were made for the holding of a banquet on October 5, at which time speakers will be present and an entertaining program will be rendered. The club has a membership of about 125, including students from both the city and borough High Schools, and for several seasons meetings have been held every Friday evening for the purpose of Bible study, followed by a supper. Harold Loizeaux is the president, Mac Fullerton, vice-president; Howard Willett, secretary, and Sidney Dunning, treasurer.

Meetings of the Employed Boys of the city will be resumed on October 2, when a banquet will be held in the Y. M. C. A. Plans for a great time are being made. One of the features will be the presence of one of the enlisted men doing duty on the "U. S. S. Mecrut," the world's only land battleship. He will make an address and sing several selections. Arthur Walter and Chester Conkling will both make addresses.

One of the other events planned for the near future is to be the starting of the Boys' Patriotic Service League, which was described in a recent issue of the Record. An entertainment is now being arranged to take place tomorrow night and many speakers are to be present.

Various other things are being planned at the association. The rooms on the top floor, being redecorated and the pool tables are being repaired. The circulating library containing 300 books is open to members of the association.

Teachers to Convene In Elizabeth October 3

Battin High School, Elizabeth, will be the scene of a conference on the new physical training laws on Wednesday, October 3, in which superintendents, principals, helping teachers and physical training teachers from the counties of Union, Middlesex, Somerset, Warren and Sussex will take part. A general invitation has also been extended to all the people of Plainfield who are interested to attend.

The following program has been arranged for the day:

Morning—9:15, introduction, Commissioner Kendall; 9:45, address by Zenos E. Scott, assistant commissioner of education, in charge of elementary education, on "Physical Training in the Elementary Schools;" 10:30, address by Albert B. Meredith, of Plainfield, assistant commissioner of education in charge of secondary education, on "Physical Training in the Last Six Grades;" 11:30, address by William A. Stecher, director of physical training in the Philadelphia public schools, on "Physical Training in the Public Schools."

Afternoon—2:00, address by Zenos E. Scott on "The New Course of Study in Geography, History and Civics;" 3:00, Mr. Stecher will conclude his address of the morning and will answer questions.

SEEKING AMBOY POLICEMAN SLATED FOR CAMP DIX.

The entire police force of Perth Amboy is hunting for Richard F. Maher, a patrolman, who failed to go to Wrightstown Saturday with Perth Amboy's quota. A substitute was sent in his place. Maher is said to have freely expressed his fear of military service since he was drawn. It now develops that he transferred his property to his brother and drew his building and loan and other savings Friday. No trace of him since then has been found.

Martine Denies He Is Seeking Hughes' Place

For United States Senator James E. Martine will not be a candidate to succeed Senator William Hughes, according to an announcement made by him. Mr. Martine said that rumors to that effect had come to him from time to time and he wished to declare positively he is not a candidate. He said that if Senator Hughes was well enough he should be given another term without any question. Mr. Martine said he has little time for politics owing to a pressure of personal matters.

"JACK" OSWALD LAID UP WITH A BROKEN ANKLE.

John Oswald, the East Front street confectioner, is confined to his home on Westervelt avenue, suffering from a broken ankle received in an accident late Saturday night. While passing through the rear of the Elks' Club yard to go to a lunch wagon on East Second street, he failed to notice the steps descending from the Elks' tennis court to Fire Headquarters' grounds. He fell in such a way that his right leg doubled under him, snapping the bone just above the ankle.

Mr. Oswald was alone at the time and it was several minutes before his cries were heard by Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur and several other men in the Elks' Club. They assisted the injured man into a cab which took him to his home. The break was attended to by Dr. J. H. Buchanan who said Mr. Oswald would be laid up at least six or eight weeks. The injury is very painful but "Jack" is bearing his misfortune in his usual good-natured manner and is entertaining company with a smile and a joke.

BOROUGH BOY SUMMONED FOR AVIATION INSTRUCTION.

Sidney S. Pfluger, of 142 DeLacy avenue, the borough, has received orders from the War Department's aeronautical officer to report at Princeton University for instruction September 29. Mr. Pfluger will probably remain at Princeton for two months and will then be transferred to Mineola or "Somewhere in some place" for active duties in the Signal Corps.

Hon. Joseph Frelinghuysen, United States Senator from New Jersey, was sponsor for Mr. Pfluger. Everyone hopes that there are high honors in store for the Somerset county boy.

GOLDEN EAGLE ELECTION.

The Grand Castle of the Knights of the Golden Eagle has just selected William H. Bergantz, of Camden, grand chief; Robert P. Denges, Jr., Trenton, grand vice chief; Martin L. Ferris, Asbury Park, grand master of records, and Peter H. Bennett, Plainfield, grand keeper of seals. Augustus L. Gray, of Newark, for twenty-one years grand master of records, resigned, and Mr. Ferris was elected to fill the vacancy.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.

One of the largest funerals that has taken place in this city in a long time was that held in the First Presbyterian church Monday afternoon over the body of William H. Shotwell, one of the oldest and best known residents of this vicinity whose death occurred suddenly at his home on Fairview avenue last Friday afternoon. The gathering of relatives and friends completely filled the edifice, many of them coming from distant points. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the church, was in charge of the services and took occasion to refer to the exemplary life of the deceased who had been a faithful and energetic worker in the congregation for more than fifty years. Two solos were sung by L. G. Davis, bass soloist of the church. They were: "Abide With Me" and "Asleep in Jesus."

The floral tributes were unusually numerous and handsome. Set pieces were contributed by nearly every department of the First Presbyterian church and also by the directorate of the Plainfield Savings Bank, of which Mr. Shotwell was a member. Burial was in the family plot in the North Plainfield cemetery, the following acting as friends acting as pallbearers: J. Fred McDonald, Howard A. Pope, Eugene M. Cave, Dr. N. W. Currie, John Abbott and Lemuel B. Woolston.

Apparently, Mr. Shotwell was in his usual health last Friday, neither showing any signs of illness or complaining of feeling bad. According to his custom for many years past, he drove down town shortly after dinner to take care of several business matters. He had barely returned to his home when he was stricken by apoplexy and died before medical attention could be secured. His sudden demise cast a gloom over the neighborhood and was received throughout the city and borough with deep regret. He had always been looked up to as a most respected citizen and his going leaves a vacancy that will be hard to fill.

Mr. Shotwell was seventy-six years old, a native of this vicinity, having been born at Greenbrook, May 30, 1841, of the family whose ancestors had been largely interested in the early history of New Jersey, and particularly around this vicinity. In his early life he was engaged in mercantile pursuits, and in later years, previous to and after 1876, he kept a grocery on Lincoln place (then Emily street), at the corner of Duer street. For some time his home was in the same building, until twenty-three years ago, he moved to the present family home on Fairview avenue. He sold the grocery to R. W. Rice.

For some years Mr. Shotwell was associated with the Commercial Mills, on South Second street, while Mr. Cadmus was owner, but since that time has been occupied with business matters which he could handle from the office in his home.

He was a director of the Plainfield Savings Bank, and since April, 1865, was treasurer of the First Presbyterian church. In recognition of his service in this capacity for half a century the church gave him a surprise reception and engrossed set of resolutions, April 14, 1915. He joined the church in 1856, when he was fifteen years old, and had been a consistent and faithful member up to the time of his death. In his response to the testimonial referred to he mentioned the Rev. Lewis Bond, and Mrs. A. L. Cadmus, together with himself, as the only remaining members of the church who were identified with the church a half century ago.

Mr. Shotwell was generous in various ways to those in need, and always had a helping hand, but his benevolences were always secret between himself and his beneficiaries.

For the past three years Mr. Shotwell had been deprived of the companionship of his wife, who was formerly Miss Miriam Staats, of this city, whose death as suddenly as his own left him his one son, Freeman Shotwell, formerly bookkeeper in the City National Bank, as his nearest and only relative. His son had resigned his position in the bank about a month ago to help him in his business affairs.

Mr. Shotwell was executor for many estates, including the Latimer estate. Of the original three executors only one now survives. This is J. Fred McDonald, the other one being the late Nelson Runyon. The Latimer estate has had large holdings in Plainfield, one of them being a third ownership in the Netherwood Hotel, recently sold to Netherwood residents.

MRS. ESTHER L. MILLIGAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Esther L. Milligan, widow of Stewart W. Milligan, whose death occurred suddenly Friday afternoon, was held Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hubert N. Holder, of Orchard place. The service was private and was in charge of Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. Milligan was a member for many years. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Milligan was a native of this city and had always resided here. For many years her home was at Fourth and New streets, but after the death of her husband, she had been making her home with Mrs. Holder. She was a woman of kindly disposition, and had a host of friends who were greatly shocked by the news of her sudden demise. Death was the result of a stroke of apoplexy.

Beside her daughter, Mrs. Milligan is survived by four sons, Harry, of Newark; Frank, of Lebanon; William, of this city, and Lewis, in the West.

HAROLD DAHL.

Harold D. Dahl, a resident of this city for the past eleven years, died Saturday morning in Roosevelt Hospital, New York, following an operation. The funeral was held at his late home, 702 Webster place, Monday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. Howard E. Clarke, of the Congregational church, of which Mr. Dahl was an active member. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Dahl was born in Norway fifty years ago but came to this country when a young man. He was a carpenter by trade and was employed for a long time by his brother, John S. Dahl. He was a member of the Carpenters' Union and also of Plainfield Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose.

Surviving him are his widow, three children and three brothers. Beside John Dahl the brothers are: Charles Dahl, of Arlington, and Jacob Dahl, of Brooklyn.

JOHN R. VAIL.

A full military funeral was conducted Monday by members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., over the body of their late comrade, John R. Vail, of 122 Duer street, whose death occurred suddenly from an attack of heart failure. In the absence of Commander T. O. Doane, the proceedings were in charge of H. Craig Smith. The customary ritual service was conducted by Rev. Lewis Bond. Interment was made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Mr. Vail was born in this city seventy-three years ago. He first learned the trade of baiter but in recent years had conducted a retail kerosene oil route in the city and borough. During the Civil War, he enlisted in Company G, 35th Regt. N. J. Vols., at Newark, serving with distinction in the latter part of the struggle.

The deceased is survived by his widow, three daughters and three sons. The daughters are Mrs. William Mosher, Mrs. William Leach and Mrs. Elizabeth Lambert, all of the borough, and the sons are: Edward, Tunis and Samuel, all living at the parental home.

MRS. JOSEPH M. SHELLABARGER.

Mrs. Belle Van Heusen Shellabarger, wife of Joseph M. Shellabarger, died Monday afternoon at her home on West Seventh street. She had been ill for a long time but death was primarily due to heart failure.

Mrs. Shellabarger was forty-four years old and had lived in this city for long time. She was a woman possessed of many estimable traits and enjoyed the utmost respect of all who knew her. She leaves beside her husband, one daughter, Miss Katharine Shellabarger; her mother, Mrs. Isabella Charles Davis, and a sister, Mrs. Henry Clay Irons, the last named residing on West Eighth street.

A private funeral service was held at the late home yesterday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Shellabarger was a member. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

MRS. HATTIE REARDON.

Mrs. Hattie Reardon, aged seventy-six years, died Monday night at the home of her niece, Mrs. G. R. Vanderheef, of West Front street. Death was due to complications produced by old age. Mrs. Reardon was born in this State and had always lived in this vicinity. She was a member of Trinity Reformed church.

A private funeral service was held Wednesday in charge of Rev. John Y. Brook and burial took place in Fairmount cemetery, Newark, Thursday morning.

Reading Engineer Succumbs to Injuries

Walter W. Cobson, fifty-seven years old, engineer of the Philadelphia train, who was injured near Dunellen Saturday afternoon when the flange of a big driving wheel broke, throwing his engine over against a moving freight train, died Sunday in Muhlenberg Hospital. Mr. Cobson was a native and resident of Philadelphia. He had been employed as an engineer on the Reading road for many years, members of the family having held similar positions for four generations. He leaves a wife, a brother, Fred K. Cobson, and a nephew, George Cobson, both of Philadelphia and engineers on the Reading. The body was sent to the home in Philadelphia Monday.

Injuries Fatal to Man Who Sought to Aid Boy In Trouble

Following injuries received last Sunday afternoon, when he fell down the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company's quarry on the Washington Rock road, Robert Wallace, of Manson place, died in Muhlenberg Hospital Tuesday night. He had been in a semi-conscious condition from the time the accident occurred and in consequence an exact account of what had happened could not be learned. The funeral was held in St. Mary's church this morning, when a requiem mass was said by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan in the presence of many relatives and friends. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Wallace was driving along the Rock road with William Wenzel and had just reached the point at the quarry when a small boy called to them that another boy had gotten a foot caught in a tramway extending to the top of the stone facing and was unable to extricate himself. Wallace went to investigate and somehow fell down the incline a distance of seventy-five feet. The noise of the fall was heard by Wenzel, who afterward found Wallace lying prostrate at the bottom of the quarry. Manager Patrick Hickey, who conducts the Washington house at Washington Rock, was notified and summoned the Muhlenberg Hospital ambulance. The injured man failed to respond to treatment as he had suffered several internal hurts, beside a compound fracture of one leg.

Wallace was a native of Ireland, but had lived in Plainfield since a young man. He was employed for a long time as teamster by Thomas Burke, of West Third street, but later secured a position as motorman on the local street railway. He remained in this capacity for eight years, resigning about four years ago. Since then he had been working as teamster. His only near surviving relatives are one brother, Patrick Wallace, of Manson place, and a sister, Miss Alice Wallace, of Westfield.

"Home Rulers" Are Assembly Nominees

Home rule made a strong bid for power at the primaries in Newark Tuesday, and as a result all the Assembly nominations but one were secured by men indorsed by that faction of the Republican party. In the Senate the local optionists suffered their greatest defeat by being unable to defeat Charles C. Pilgrim, a former Speaker in the Upper House.

The voting was not as heavy as was expected, and a large part of the anticipated interest in the outcome was lacking.

Eight counties nominated senatorial tickets and the full complement of assemblymen—sixty—was placed in nomination by each party. The counties in which senators were nominated are Camden, Gloucester, Salem, Union, now represented by Republicans; Essex and Somerset, where there are vacancies caused by the death of Republican senators, and Monmouth and Darren, represented by Democrats.

Republican organization candidates won out easily in Camden. Joshua C. Harris, present sheriff, was named for Senator with Charles A. Wolverton, Ralph Kellan and Dr. Paul L. Litchfield, the Assembly nominees. Harry Reeves, the organization candidate, won the nomination for surrogate. There were no Democratic contests.

In Cape May county, with five districts to hear from, Mary Lane has a slight lead over C. E. Stille for the Republican nomination for Assembly. There were no Democratic contests.

Edward L. Sturris, Republican organization candidate, was nominated for Senator over Samuel S. Conover in Gloucester county. Dr. H. M. Fosder, unopposed, was named for Assembly. The Democrats had no contests.

Cumberland county nominated City Treasurer David C. Bowen, of Bridgeton, for sheriff in the Republican primaries. Raymond E. Shephard has probably been renominated for the Assembly by a slight plurality.

In Mercer county the reform element of the Republican party seems to have been successful. Frederick P. Rees, a "Billy" Sunday trail hitter, appears to have won the Republican nomination for sheriff, while the Republican nominees for the Assembly are Gill, Allison and Read, all local optionists. John H. Fetter, Republican, has apparently captured the nomination for county clerk. There were no Democratic contests.

LOCAL MEN LEAVING FOR AVIATION BASE.

A reception was tendered this week to C. Edward Hamilton and W. Rudrew Cogger, both of the Standard Aero Corporation, who expect to leave shortly for the aviation station at Fairfield, Ohio, to continue their aeronautical work.

Mr. Hamilton is an aviator of long experience, having been connected with Orville Wright in his experimental work on his early machine.

Mr. Cogger, now his mechanician, but formerly with Lincoln Beachey, will accompany him.

Their many friends regret their leaving as they were most popular during their brief stay here.

Milk Price May Be Raised Higher Soon

Further increase in the retail price of milk is regarded as almost certain. This discomforting information for the housewife is the result of action taken by the Dairymen's League, comprising members from the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Vermont and Connecticut, which met in Syracuse last week.

While Plainfield creameries have had no definite information that milk for table purposes would be increased in price by the farmer, they say they would not be surprised if this were to come. The farmer, it was explained, is paying three or four times as much for feed as heretofore, and it is necessary for him to demand higher rates to cover expenses. Some are leaving the business because of the high prices.

The increase by the farmers would be justified, said a representive of the Borden branch here, under these conditions. Many farmers have expressed the intention to quit the milk-production business unless some relief comes before winter sets in. They are unable to make expenses now, and would be better off, they contend, if they should sell off their stock over the winter. The independent milk producer is the one the wholesale milk situation hits hardest now. But if there is action by the Dairymen's League to secure a higher price it is probable the smaller, independent consumer will be benefited also.

In some place, it is understood, as much as eight cents is being received by farmers. The increase of one cent and a half which the Dairymen's League voted to demand would bring the price per quart, delivered at the creameries, to seven cents. This, it is declared, is necessary, because of the increase cost of feed, for the very existence of the dairy business.

Railroads Open Fight To Have Crews Reduced

Ten railroad companies, including virtually all the big roads operated in the State, began before the State Public Utility Commsion this week their fight for permission from the commission to reduce the size of some of their crews. Their claim is being stubbornly contested by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The companies making the fight are the New Jersey Central, Lehigh Valley, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Pennsylvania, West Jersey and Seashore, Philadelphia and Reading, and others.

The action is the result of the repeal of the full crew law by the last Legislature. The Roberts law repealing that act provides that no train crew, as provided under the full-crew act, shall be reduced without the consent of the Public Utility Commission. These railroad companies filed on August 16 their application to reduce the size of certain crews, relating chiefly to freight trains.

Many railroad officials are directing the fight for the company, including Charles A. Beach, superintendent of the New York Division of the Philadelphia and Reading; J. W. Meredith, general superintendent of the New Jersey Central, and J. J. Pierce, assistant superintendent of the Lackawanna. In addition there is a big array of counsel.

The opposition of the Trainmen's Brotherhood is in the hands of former Assemblyman John A. Matthews, of Newark, as counsel, and the officers of the legislative committee, John McLaughlin, chairman, of Newark; James Tracey, vice-chairman, of Jersey City, and John Mullane, secretary, of South Amboy.

AT THE FACTORY
In the face of sharply increased costs—materials, production—we have held the prices of Krauthamer garments at levels so low that it is still possible for you to save one-third at the FACTORY.
BUT—the time to buy is now. The stocks of new, smartly tailored Autumn things which we have prepared are steadily melting away, and as woolens bought now cost more, garments made of them must sell for more.
There is no time like the present—buy today!

DISTINCTIVE AUTUMN SUITS
Taupes are in great favor this season, as are tobacco browns, and deep greens; they are here, of course, with the wine shades, and the good old staple navy blues and blacks. Plenty to choose from. The models are absolutely right, and the size range insures a fit for every one.
HANDSOME FALL COATS
The collection is constantly kept fresh and attractive by the addition of the newest style notes, in fabrics so much in favor as velour, broadcloth, kersey, cheviot, pompom, silvertone, tweeds and the ever-popular plushes. Colors are all that Fashion has pronounced correct, and women of all sizes can be fitted. The prices? You save one-third here!
DRESSES AND SKIRTS WHICH STAY NEW
Extremes of style are avoided—one of the principal reasons why these models are still wearable when others bought later will be altogether out of date. That means much to the woman who insists upon lasting value—the sort of value which a Krauthamer garment represents. Come up and slip on one of these skirts or frocks, and you will know the answer.
OUR GUARANTEE: Make you selection. Pay for it and take it away. One week later, if your purchase has not proven entirely satisfactory, bring it back. We will cheerfully refund the full price, and your car fare as well!

John C. Cooper In Line for Surrogate Of Somerset County

Among the candidates named for the regular Republican ticket in Somerset county at the primaries Tuesday was that of John C. Cooper of Willow avenue, North Plainfield. He was unopposed in seeking the nomination of surrogate and at the general election will oppose Calvin D. MacMurtry, of Somerville, who has held office in Somerset county for the past twenty-five years. Seventy per cent. of the Republican voters named Mr. Cooper as their choice, a fact that is considered a good omen in the forthcoming battle of the ballots.

Mr. Cooper is, perhaps, one of the best known Republican standard bearers in this part of New Jersey. Ever since he attained his majority he has been a zealous G. O. P. worker, although his efforts were always for the benefit of the full ticket and not for himself individually. This is the first time he has made a try for an important office himself and he did so only at the instigation of friends who are acquainted with his work. He has already launched his campaign, meeting with undeniable success at every turn so far.

Mr. Cooper was born at South Sterling fifty years ago. His home has always been in Somerset county, most of the time in Warren township, but for the past two years it has been in North Plainfield. Mr. Cooper's family has been identified with Somerset county Republican politics since 1870. His father was one of those sturdy old G. O. P. men that put Warren township on the political map and as county committeeman gave a good account of himself at every convention. John C. Cooper's brother, Edward E. Cooper, has also been a familiar figure within the ranks of the party. At the present time he is county chairman for Somerset, an office accorded him for his initiative as a planner and director of political affairs. Edward E. Cooper served in the Assembly for two terms, 1899-1900, and was sheriff of Somerset county from 1904 until 1907. His brother John was a dependable lieutenant at all times and much of his success of the Republicans in Warren township came from the united efforts of the two men.

John C. Cooper
Republican Candidate for Surrogate in Somerset County.

John C. Cooper took up farming as his vocation in life and his place at Warrenville is well remembered by Plainfield people. It was situated just back of Washington Rock and possessed so much natural beauty that it attracted the attention of Hofheimer, of New York, as he was seeking a country place. He induced Mr. Cooper to sell and since then has added other properties to the original purchase until at the present time he has one of the most complete suburban places in this section. Mr. Cooper remained at Warrenville a short time after selling his farm but later took up his residence in North Plainfield because most of his business was either in the city or borough. He is at present devoting himself to auctioneering and real estate.

Mr. Cooper is a man who is easily approached and makes friends so rapidly it puzzles his intimates to know how he remembers them all. There is hardly a man, woman or child in the upper part of Somerset county that does not know him and in North Plainfield particularly he stands very high. In Bound Brook and Somerville his acquaintanceship extends to all classes and there is no denying that he will pull a big vote at each district. If elected to the office, the people of Somerset county will give themselves one of the most deserving and trustworthy officials they have ever had. This can be verified by reference to his energies in behalf of Warren township during his long residence there. For nine years he served as justice of the peace, for two years he was township committeeman and for three terms he was a school trustee, serving one term as clerk. He has also been a member of the county committee, standing ready at all times to aid the people of his district in securing the right kind of administration.

What Good Is a Lid?

Several otherwise excellent burial vaults have tops that are simply laid over the casket and left to their own devices. This, of course, is handier and much cheaper. But what of its safety? The Norwalk Vault leaves nothing to chance; its top is securely cemented on by hand, and top and bottom become one solid piece of masonry. Naturally, therefore, the Norwalk is sold everywhere the best is wanted; and naturally the best undertakers always recommend the Norwalk—it gives them a chance to guarantee the burial. Your undertaker can give you the necessary information.

Fourth Ward Candidate For Council Firm Believer in a Liberal Sabbath

Included among the nominations made by the local Democrats Tuesday was that of Richard Scott, of Stebbins place, named as the candidate for City Council from the Fourth ward. He was placed on the ticket by the leaders of the party who believe that he most ably represents the ideas of the people for whom he will legislate in the event of a successful candidacy.

While Mr. Scott has been prominent in the city politics for many years, he has never before sought office and his appearing in the field has already developed into a full-fledged boom that continues to gain strength every day. In many respects he is the most formidable man that has been trotted out against the regular Republican nominee since his cousin, former Councilman P. J. Reville, brought about the defeat of Herbert Buxton.

Mr. Scott is a Plainfielder born and bred. He learned the trade of machinist and at the present time holds a responsible position at the Pond Tool Works. He is best known to the citizens of this community outside of his own immediate neighborhood as an ardent lover of good, wholesome sport, especially baseball. For many years he has played on local teams, whining laurels as pitcher and other important positions on the diamond. During the past season he has been manager of the Pond baseball nine, which has the full backing of the shop management. It was this team which played Saturday and Sunday games on Crescent Oval and was stopped from playing Sundays through a complaint made to the city officials.

"One of the principal planks in my platform as a candidate for the Council," said Mr. Scott to a Record reporter yesterday, "will be that of a liberal Sabbath. I firmly believe that after a man has attended to his religious duties on Sundays, he has a perfect right to play baseball, golf or any other wholesome sport that does not interfere with the peace or quiet of any one else. I am positive that the games the Pond baseball team played on Crescent Oval Sundays were no more annoying than those played on Saturday. I stretch a point in saying 'annoying' because I fail to see where at any time a game of baseball disturbs the sanctity of anyone else's Sabbath, especially where their homes are hundreds of feet away from the diamond. I sincerely believe that the majority of Plainfield citizens, like those of any other nearby towns, believe in Sunday sports and if elected to the Council, I shall do my utmost to bring about a broader interpretation of the statutes. I realize fully that if my candidacy is successful I would only have one vote in the Councilmanic sessions, but one vote is a beginning and others may follow later."

Residents of the Fourth ward, especially the younger element which finds Sunday baseball a vent for its superfluous energy held in subjection during the week, are vigorously supporting Mr. Scott's campaign. They believe that if he is liberal in sports he can be liberal in other matters and will furnish a welcome change to some of the Councilmanic procedure of the past. The Jefferson Democratic Club, of which Mr. Scott is one of the organizers, has endorsed his entrance to the field and is working unitedly to make him the Fourth ward representative in the Common Council.

Primary Results In Union County

The results of Tuesday's primary election show that Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, won the nomination for surrogate by less than a hundred votes over Sheriff George C. Otto; that James E. Warner, of Cranford, easily captured the Republican sheriff nomination; that Ten Eyck R. Beardsley, of Fanwood, defeated Francis V. Dobbins, of Rahway, for the Democratic nomination for State Senator by 120 votes, and that Arthur N. Pierson and Charles L. Morgan and Arthur E. Warner were nominated for Assembly on the Republican ticket.

Otto and Codding ran neck and neck. The advantage one gained in one district would be offset in another. Otto went out of Elizabeth, his home city, with a plurality over Codding of 834, but the county districts gradually cut this down until the balance swung in favor of Codding by a slender ninety-five votes.

Whether the votes of the members of the National Army will swing this total back to the Otto column is a question. The votes of the National Guardsmen at Trenton are said to be practically all in, but there remain to be received by the election officers the votes of the boys at Wrightstown. There are nearly 400 in camp there, and out of this number will come the message of defeat for one candidate and victory for the other.

Codding's total vote was 3,173, Otto got 3,072. A tremendous sweep of votes for Codding was registered in Westfield, his home town.

Finishing third in the race was C. Addison Swift, who totaled 1,661 votes in the county and 280 in the city. Peter J. Olde was fourth, with 1,230 in the county and 282 in the city.

Leroy Gibby, the Democratic candidate, was unopposed. He received 2,175 votes.

Under-Sheriff Warner made a remarkably strong run for the Republican shrievalty nomination, and won hands down. Freeholder Elias F. Applegate was his most formidable opponent, the voting showed, but he was a great distance behind, Warner's advantage over him being measured by 1,262 votes. Warner polled 3,398 votes in the county and Applegate got 2,036. Applegate failed to receive the support he anticipated in Elizabeth and, without this, he was helpless when he went into the suburbs. In Elizabeth Applegate was given 966 votes, but Warner was right behind him with 887. This made it comparatively easy for the under-sheriff to show his heels to the Elizabeth man in the county districts. Plainfield gave Warner 1,009 votes and Applegate 258.

Third place in the contest went to Councilman John H. Cose, of this city, who received 1,192 votes in the county and 111 in the city. Joseph H. Neill, of Elizabeth, was fourth with 1,105; Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, finished last with 987, and 560 in the city, and Peter H. Meisel, who withdrew from the race, was given 414 votes. Howard Lapsley, of this city, the Democratic candidate, was without opposition and received 3,270.

For the Republican Assembly nomination the honors went to Morgan, Pierson and Warner without any difficulty. Morgan was high with 8,015; Pierson, second, with 7,336, and Warner, third, with 5,562. David Armstrong, of Rahway, was fourth with 3,660, and William R. Strickland was fifth and last with 3,526.

There was no opposition to the Democratic Assembly candidates. Edward McGrath was high with 3,346; Francis A. Gordon, second, 3,275, and Walter Taverner, third, with 3,249.

For the Democratic State Senator nomination Beardsley put up a splendid fight and led Dobbins by 120. In this city Beardsley received great support, polling 139 votes to 101 for Dobbins. The Republican nominee for Senator is Assemblyman William N. Runyon, of this city, who had no opposition.

Borough Women Plan For Saving Campaign

At a largely attended meeting of the North Plainfield Parent-Teachers' Association in the High School auditorium yesterday afternoon, it was decided to conduct a "fat saving" campaign in the borough. Because of the demands on fat concerns by government contractors who use fat for the manufacture of munitions, the production of soap has been greatly curtailed, forcing the price of the commodity up to a record point. By means of the campaign housewives will be instructed as to how to more economically preserve all fat and the association, under the auspices of the Home Economic Committee, will collect all savings. It will be made into soap later and the money thus obtained will be added to the Parent-Teachers' fund.

At the meeting yesterday reports were received from twenty women relative to their individual conservation of food during the past season. The Home Economic Committee had planned to conduct public canning during the season, but owing to the high prices of sugar and other necessities the idea was given up. Instead, the members of the association did their canning at home. The twenty women who reported yesterday showed a combined total of 6,351 pints of various foodstuffs put up in addition to 296 glasses of jams and jellies. The pints are equivalent to the ordinary can purchased at a store and more than half of the 6,351 pints were vegetables put up by women who had never done anything of this kind before the value of the association's work can easily be gleaned. Further reports are to be received at the regular monthly meeting in October.

The president of the association, Mrs. W. O. Taylor, presided at yesterday's session.

"Bill" Coyle "Making Good" In the Regular Army

Among the Plainfield boys who are "making good" since enlisting in Uncle Sam's service is William Coyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Coyle, of Waynewood place. He joined the colors at Fort Slocum three months ago and was assigned to the Medical Division of the Field Signal Corps as a regular. Since then he has been twice promoted, first as corporal and a few weeks ago as sergeant. The advancement came as a reward for ability displayed in the preliminary training.

After leaving Fort Slocum, Mr. Coyle went to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., where he remained about two months. On being promoted to a sergeantcy he was transferred to Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., where he is now located. Camp Lee is a conscript cantonment, allmar to the one at Wrightstown in this State, and this week there were 17,000 men received from various parts of the South. Sergeant Coyle has been detailed to assist in the training of these new recruits. Camp Lee is one of the largest cantonments in the South and when completed will be able to care for 60,000 men.

Those in Plainfield who know Sergeant Coyle, and the number is in the many hundreds, were confident that he would be heard from after he joined the army as he is of that disposition that makes the right type of soldier. He was a splendid athlete in his school days, gaining especial prominence as a daring football player. In this capacity he was one of the "stars" on the Holy Cross team. He has entered into army life with the evident determination of rising rapidly to the front and when the time comes for real action he can be counted upon to give a good account of himself. He spent a brief furlough in town a few days ago and on starting back for Virginia was given a rousing send-off at the North avenue station by a delegation of admiring friends.

ZIONISTS' MEETING.

The local Jehuda-Halevi Camp, No. 57, held a very successful and enthusiastic meeting last night at its headquarters in the Y. M. H. A. building, about one hundred being present. A very interesting program was arranged by the committee in charge, and those present enjoyed an evening of rare attraction long to be remembered. A stirring address was made by I. Carmel, of New York, in which he said that it was the duty of every American Jewry to stand ready at this time to make ever possible sacrifice by helping to rebuild the devastated lands of Europe.

Plainfield Boys Picked For Immediate Service In Corps Going to France

Two Plainfield members of the 311th Infantry regiment stationed at Wrightstown were among the first to offer their services when the commanding officers this week asked for 1,000 volunteers to go to France immediately. The two were Joseph Sullivan and Bradford Willard, both of whom had been assigned to the machine gun division shortly after their arrival. Their response met with favor and the pair was immediately placed in the 302d Engineers' Corps. The Plainfielders are still at the camp but are due to begin their trip across the Atlantic almost any day.

Sullivan and Willard had been among the most popular men in the regiment and when they responded to the call received an ovation from their fellow soldiers. The two have acquired military methods so readily that they are counted upon to do great work in their new field. More than double the thousand men asked for were received almost as soon as the call was given from camp headquarters.

There is a possibility that a large number of the Plainfielders may be home over the coming week-end. It was announced that forty-eight-hour passes would be issued commencing Saturday soon and the boys quickly made application for the coveted permits. As at least one-half the company must always be in camp it means that about forty must stay behind and wait for the following week before they can hike back to the old town to see the folks.

Practically every man in Company A, 311th Infantry, received his uniform this week. The exceptions have been where the "rooky" possessed such an extraordinary "shape" that the regulation sizes would not fit him. "Dick" Harrigan and "Joe" Kennedy are among these unfortunates.

Rifles were issued to every man in the regiment during the past few days. Three different makes are used. They are the modern Springfields, Krag-Jorgensen and the New-Enfields. The Enfields have had to be re-bored as the barrels were originally designed for the British army and would not carry American cartridges. Comforters were also issued to the men this week.

Examinations of the selected men have been going on ever since the contingents landed in camp but so far only two men from the 311th have been sent back home. One of these was Joseph Berry, of 220 Grant

Mayor Asks for Conference On Company Fund Proposition

Mayor Calkins has suggested to the local Red Cross Chapter a joint conference with the Volunteers' Auxiliary of Plainfield and North Plainfield, to determine the best method of undertaking all relief work for the men who have enlisted from this community, whether in the National Guard or regular army, or through the selective draft. He has invited Mayor Smalley to attend the conference and help formulate a practical plan. Discussing the matter today Mayor Calkins said:

"The Volunteers' Auxiliary was organized by the Mayor when Troop D went to the Mexican border sixteen months ago. It supplied comforts not provided for by the government, as well as relief for dependents at home. The Mayor called the Volunteers' Auxiliary into activity again when Company K entered the federal service, for the same object; and the relief work was undertaken by co-operation with the National Special Aid Society. Other organizations have also done good work, and are doing it, such as the Women's Naval Service.

"The local Red Cross Chapter has, however, recently been organized, and most of the local relief organizations have merged into it. I now have before me several requests to raise additional company funds, for the various groups of men from Plainfield and North Plainfield in the different branches of the army; and the conference is to be held to decide whether it would not be best, to the extent that subscriptions are solicited from the public, to have one central organization like the Red Cross Chapter undertake and supervise this entire field of war relief work. In that event the Volunteers' Auxiliary would probably merge into the Red Cross, though its active managing committee might continue to exist as a Red Cross Sub-Committee, for this particular purpose.

"Two things are highly important. Everything that can be done by Plainfield people for the comfort of the men who have gone from their homes here into their country's service should be done promptly and generously. There are not only comforts but some necessities which are not supplied as yet by the government. These for boys should have, in the matter of articles themselves, or by providing so-called company funds through which they can be purchased when needed. The other things we should decide is how best to carry on this relief work, which also includes aid for dependents requiring financial assistance. Our people have been giving generously for all kinds of war funds and objects. They will continue to do so. We therefore owe it to them to organize efficiently, and it seems very important to me that we should have a single organization to undertake all work of this character. This will prevent overlapping and duplications. If all such relief work is managed by a centralized responsible body, the various needs of the different groups of enlisted men from Plainfield and North Plainfield, in whatever branch of the National service, will be known, and will be treated alike and with that wholehearted spirit that marks the response of this community in every worthy cause. The Red Cross, the Volunteers' Auxiliary and other organizations have already done a great deal for Company K and Troop D and we now have the men of the National Army, and should therefore centralize and harmonize our community activities for these objects."

Miss Carney's Condition Remains Much the Same

A report from Muhlenberg Hospital this morning stated that the condition of Miss Sarah Carney, of 303 Central avenue, who was badly injured through being struck by an automobile on Central avenue, near her home last Friday, remains about the same. She is conscious at all times but suffers greatly from shock. She sustained a compound fracture of one limb, a severe laceration of the thigh and numerous cuts and bruises. While she is in no immediate danger there is a possibility that she may be confined to the hospital for many weeks.

The accident happened near the corner of Third street and Central avenue as Miss Carney was on her way from the Woodhull-Martin store, where she has been employed, to her home. The automobiles, one owned by Frank Carpenter, of Rahway road, and the other by William Alderman, of New Haven, Conn., met in head-on collision at the corner. The Connecticut car was much the heavier and shoved the other, a Ford, upon the sidewalk directly upon Miss Carney. She was unable to get out of the way and was pinned up against the wall of McDonough Brothers' coal yard. Another woman passing at the time narrowly escaped the same fate as Miss Carney, getting out of the way by a hair's breadth.

Alderman has been in Plainfield for several weeks having charge of the tearing down of the Netherwood Hotel.

MUHLENBERG'S AMBULANCE OUT OF COMMISSION.

Muhlenberg Hospital's ambulance, which was badly damaged in an accident at Lyon's Farms last Friday afternoon, is now undergoing repairs and may be returned to service in a week or two. While it is out of commission, the old horse ambulance and the police patrol are being used for hospital purposes.

The ambulance had been sent to Newark with a patient and was on the way back when the accident occurred. The machine was in charge of Dr. Van Liew and the only other occupant was Dr. Klorman, one of Muhlenberg's Internes. In attempting to straighten up after another car had passed him on a curve, Van Liew found his machine beyond control through a wet pavement and was unable to keep it from striking a tree. Both men were thrown out and landed many feet away from the ambulance but were unhurt. The top of the machine was knocked completely off and settled on an opposite side of the street from the chassis.

EUNICE TULLY.

Eunice Tully, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tully, of 630 East Sixth street, died last night after a brief illness. A private funeral service will be held at the home this afternoon at 4 o'clock and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Fireman's Life Saved by Table

An old-fashioned five-legged dining room table stored in the barn at 407 West Fourth street, belonging to Dr. J. C. Anderson, is probably all that saved the life of Fireman William Jaeger, as he and other members of the city department were fighting a bad blaze in the structure early Wednesday morning. With hardly a second's warning the top floor of the three-story building began falling downward. Jaeger was struck a violent blow on the helmet he wore and was thrown against the table which caught the heavy beams as they collapsed. With rare presence of mind he swung under the protection of the table but was pinned down by the lower limbs before he could get them clear.

Fireman Arthur Erber, who was handling the same line of hose with Jaeger, was trapped in a pocket by the falling debris but was in such a position that nothing touched him, although he was unable to move because of a partition back of him. Fireman Raymond Randolph, another member of No. 3 Company, to which the other two belong, was knocked against a side wall in reach of a window by means of which he was able to climb outside. The weight of the charred timbers above caused the second floor on which all three had been standing to begin to sink and the trio would undoubtedly have gone down in a mass of flame and smoke but for the support of an automobile on the first floor. The roof of the car acted as a column to hold up the weight until rescue work could be accomplished.

Randolph gave the first word of something wrong to the other firemen about the building and the cries of Erber furnished the exact location of where he and Jaeger were imprisoned. Chief Jennings satisfied himself that rescuers could be sent up to the two men with safety and six of them made their way through the blinding smoke to where the table was acting as Jaeger's protection. By exerting almost superhuman strength Fireman William Ryder managed to work timbers aside which first released Erber. After ward Ryder continued on and got to Jaeger. While the other men raised timbers, Ryder released the pressure on Jaeger's limb sufficiently for the latter to pull himself clear. Jaeger suffered considerably from inhaling smoke, besides receiving numerous bruises about the head and body, but was able to continue working after first aid treatment. He is firm in the belief that it it was not for the table ratchling the flooring as it dropped down he would have been crushed to death. This is the second time an experience of this kind has befallen him. The other was at the Letcher fire on Belvidere avenue nine years ago when he was caught by falling walls and jammed against a stairway. At that time he was taken out unconscious through inhaling smoke before rescuers arrived. Chief Jennings declares that Wednesday morning's episode was a close enough call for anybody and that the escape of Jaeger, Erber and Randolph was little short of providential.

The origin of the blaze, which practically destroyed the barn, is a mystery. The flames were first discovered about 2:45 by Mrs. Edwin Smalley, of Central avenue, whose bedroom window faced the structure. Hastily calling her husband, Dr. Smalley, the latter telephoned Fire Headquarters. On arriving at the scene Chief Jennings found the barn a mass of flames and because of the proximity of nearly half a dozen dwellings ordered a general alarm from box 41. This brought up No. 3 Company in addition to those from Headquarters and No. 1 house. It was shortly after 6 o'clock before the back fires were sounded.

The building was known for many years as "Tingley's carriage shop," having been used for this purpose at one time by the late Jacob Tingley. Dr. Anderson has used it as a garage and beside having his own car stored within it leased a part for garage purposes to Walter Quinn, who recently purchased the Plainfield Taxi-Cab business from William Willis. Dr. Anderson's car, a Lozier, was completely destroyed. It was valued at $1,000. Two of Quinn's taxi-cabs were destroyed and the firemen saved two others. The total loss is placed at $5,000, partially covered by insurance. There is a possibility that the blaze may have started from one of the automobiles in some way as everything was all right when the men brought the machines in at 2 o'clock.

Kenny Makes New Contract for City Hall

By the terms of a new contract entered into by the Common Council at the regular monthly meeting Monday night, Patrick F. Kenny, of New York, as an individual will complete the new City Hall building on Watchung avenue, instead of allowing the job to remain in the hands of the P. F. Kenny Company, which had the original contract and is now practically dissolved. One of the provisions in the new agreement declares that the structure must be absolutely ready for occupancy by December 31 of the present year. If this is carried out, there is a possibility that the big public reception marking the opening of the building may be held on New Year's Day, 1918.

The City Hall troubles relative to the contractors' failure to complete the work has been related in the Record on several previous occasions. As it stated exclusively in this paper four weeks ago the Kenny Company became involved financially and found itself unable to go ahead. Sub-contractors began murmuring when payments were held back and in order to protect itself the City Hall building committee held a conference at the offices of the architects, Lord & Bottomly, of New York. Ways and means were then devised to proceed with the job in a manner which has since been worked out.

By the new contract, Mr. Kenny will have full supervision of the work and will finish the building within the original figure of about $102,000. It will take about $22,000 before this complete sum is reached and of this it was voted at the meeting Monday night to give Mr. Kenny $2,000 at once. All payments to subcontractors will be made by the City Hall committee direct. The materials will also be paid for direct as the supply men have agreed to furnish them at the figure they gave the Kenny Company originally. If the committee had advertised for a new bid the remainder of the work would rave cost at least $50,000, instead of $22,000, because of the advance in materials and the increase in wages since the original agreement was signed. It is now quite probable that the building will be finished at practically the same figure as mentioned in the contract made with the Kenny concern last year.

The report of the City Hall committee in full is as follows:

To the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

Your City Hall building committee, to which was referred the proposal dated September 29, 1917, of Patrick F. Kenny to complete the P. F. Kenny Company contract upon the

Surrogate Vote Being Recounted

The difficult task of making a recount of the Union county surrogate vote, polled at the primaries on September 25, began in the office of the Union County Board of Elections at Elizabeth, this morning. An order giving permission for the recount was issued by Supreme Court Justice James J. Bergen, after Sheriff George C. Otto, the contending candidate, filed a bond of $3,000 to guarantee payment for the task. It will be several days before any definite figures can be given out as the ballot boxes of 111 districts in the county must be opened and each vote carefully inspected.

Final returns of the primaries showed that Charles N. Codding's plurality over Sheriff Otto for the surrogate nomination was only sixty. Because of this slight difference and the fact that many votes had been thrown out in the large number of districts, Sheriff Otto made application for the recount. He has retained Abe J. David, of Elizabeth, as counsel, to represent him during the proceedings and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city, will apear for Mr. Codding.

SEPTEMBER REPORT FROM BONNIE BURN.

During the month of September seventeen patients were admitted to the Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, according to Dr. John Runnells, reports that at the beginning of the month the number of patients was 167. There were several deaths. Of those received during the month, eleven were men and six were women. One was an incipient case, six were moderately advanced and ten far advanced.

High Honor for J. Herbert Case

Announcement has been made by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York of the election of J. Herbert Case, of this city, to the deputy governorship of that institution. Mr. Case is resigning as vice president of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company and to accept this important post with the largest financial institution in the United States but will continue to hold the office of vice president of the Plainfield Trust Company, which was organized under his efficient direction and with which he has always been connected in an official capacity. Mr. Case will take up his new duties at the headquarters of the Federal Reserve Bank at 15 Nassau street, New York, on Monday, October 8.

County Bankers Hear Governor At Shackamaxon

The Union County Bankers' Association held its annual meeting and election of officers at the Shackamaxon Country Club, of Westfield, last night, at which time De Witt Hubbell, secretary and treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company, was unanimously elected president. The other officers for the ensuing year are: J. Vanherwerden, secretary of the Rahway Trust Company, first vice president; Frederick Coriell, secretary of the Elizabeth Trust Company, second vice president, and R. W. Harden, secretary of the Westfield Trust Company, treasurer. Over ninety members were present and enjoyed an excellent dinner. Among the speakers were Governor Edge, Rev. George Adam, of London, and Major Smyth, of Montreal. The addresses were all intensely patriotic and were received with great enthusiasm, and the meeting proved to be one of the most interesting and profitable ones ever held by the Union County Association.

THE LOT OF A FIREMAN'S WIFE TOLD BY ONE OF THE SUFFERERS.

The following letter has been received by the Record from the wife of a Plainfield fireman. It shows better than anything else can who the real sufferers are under the present twenty-four hour system of work for men of the department and what it means for the husband and father to be a member of it. Read it carefully, your fathers who can play with your children every evening, and give the two platoon system serious thought: Editor, The Record:

I am the mother of two little children and I find the life of a fireman's wife at home very lonely and hard. The full responsibility of the children, practically falls on the mother. Their home training and school lessons must be looked after by the mother five days out of six, as father being home only one day in six.

I shall never forget the first time the present system dawned upon me which demands the greater part of the firemen's time. My husband, before being appointed a fireman, had his trade of carpenter and most every evening he would be at home with me. The time came when he was appointed a fireman. It was then that I realized the irregularity of the present system. Time and time again I've prepared a special dinner that I knew would be to my husband's liking, only to have it spoiled by trying to keep it warm. He having his meat hour changed at the last moment, or had to go to a fire. It is time and time again a little girl while saying her evening prayers and asking God to bless her daddy, stopped abruptly and looking up at me said, "Mother, will I see my daddy soon?"

My husband is an early meal hour man, and he only sees the children once a day, because when he comes to breakfast the children are in bed and to school at dinner, so he only sees them a few minutes at supper.

I sincerely hope that the city of Plainfield will vote "Yes" for the two-platoon, and may God bless them all, is the wish of

Company K Boys At Anniston With Other Plainfield Soldiers

The boys of Company K, Plainfield's "standby" military organization, are now in the Sunny South. They reached Anniston, Ala., Wednesday morning and are now a part of the big unit of Jersey troops that has been at Camp McClellan for many weeks. Necessary work was barely over before the K boys and those of "Troop D," now the 110th Field Artillery, had an old-fashioned "get together." The "Troop D" boys felt it their bounden duty to act as escorts for the new comers from the old town and did everything possible to add them in getting to riches.

Company K's arrival was in conjunction with the "landing" of the Second and Third New Jersey Regiments which started Southward last Sunday.

Wednesday morning both units threw themselves to the task of getting into camp side by side at the foot of the hills on which the headquarters of the Fifty-seventh Infantry Brigade are situated.

Colonel Landon and his headquarters were on the second section of the Third Regiment trains. The Third, which left Sea Girt Sunday, made the quickest journey of any of the infantry regiments, consuming only a little more than two days. The regiment detrained late Tuesday night and slept in mess halls.

The Second arrived in the environs of camp at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning and pulled into camp at 9 o'clock.

The trips were without incident, save that a delay in the second section of the Second Regiment brought the group that left Trenton last in ahead of it. Colonel Horace M. Reading, of the Second, who has been in command of the troops in the North, accompanied his regiment.

The Second New Jersey Infantry, including Company K, entrained at Trenton, Sunday, amid stirring pathetic parting scenes. From early morning the bustle and hum of preparation for departure pervaded Camp Richard A. Donnelly, where the Second has been encamped for more than a month. The camp was thronged with visitors, including the wives, mothers, sweethearts, sisters and friends of the men, scores of them being from Plainfield.

Tearful work began in the afternoon while the regimental band played "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and as the soldiers marched out to entrain, in heavy marching order. The musicians struck up "Where Do We Go From Here, Boys," while the great crowd along the line of march and accompanying the troops joined in the singing of "Over There" and other war songs.

The city commissioners of Trenton were present to give the departing men an official Godspeed and Councilmen Charles Sminck and Theodore Martin spoke for Plainfield. On every side touching scenes were enacted. Women and girls who were sending their loved ones to prepare for the "world's whirlpool of madness" tried to smile bravely, but their lips trembled and the tears glistened on their cheeks.

The soldiers, whatever their feelings over the parting, assumed a cheerful air and with confidence announced they would be back as soon as their work "was over, over there."

As the sections of the three-section train were pulling out women clung widly to their soldier relatives. Others waved cheerfully to the khaki clad men. The cheering of the crowds blended with the singing of the soldiers, while the shrill whistles of factories and locomotives punctuated the staging and cheers with sharp shrill blasts of encouragement and hope.

The first section of the train was in charge of Lieut. Curt O. Kayser, of Company B, of Freehold, and carried the forge, rations, wagons, ambulance, subsistence supplies, etc. The second section, in charge of Capt. Stephen H. Farrow, quartermaster, of Trenton, transported Companies A, B, C, D, F, I and K in two Pullman sleepers, two baggage cars and twenty tourist sleepers.

The third section was in charge of Lieut. Percy L. Dorsett, of Trenton, and carried Companies G, H, L and M in Pullman sleeper, eleven tourist sleepers and a baggage car, together with four box cars transporting the automobiles.

It was nearly 9 o'clock before the last of the three sections pulled out. The route taken from Trenton was to Washington, D. C., via the Pennsylvania Railroad; from Washington to Lynchburg, Va., over the Southern; from Lynchburg to Bristol, Tenn., by way of the Norfolk and Western, and from Bristol, Tenn., to Anniston, by the Southern road. The Second Regiment now has 1,367 men and fifty-six officers.

In response to Assemblyman William N. Runyon's appeal for Plainfield people to give Company K a rousing send-off, quite a number of local people went to Trenton Saturday, as that was the Third Regiment's departure. The Company K boys were highly delighted with the recognition shown and when Assemblyman Runyon concluded one of his characteristic "Godspeed" addresses the entire company broke into a deafening cheer for "Judge" Runyon. The man in Plainfield who is solid with the boys now it is "Judge" Runyon as everybody loves to call him. On Sunday Councilmen Martin and Sminck also showed the boys that at least a portion of official Plainfield had them in their hearts and minds by adding the finishing touches to the good-byes from relatives and friends.

When Company K marched down the street on the way to the railroad yards, Mr. Martin and Mr. Sminck were given the honored position at the head of the line. They marched straight to the train and when policemen asserted that all civilians should quit when it came to the two councilmen. The blue coats bowed to superiority and allowed Messrs. Martin and Sminck to even board the waiting train.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. McClymont, formerly of this city, but now of Bellingham, Wash., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Earl MacClymont, to Joseph Gregory Carty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carty, of Orchard place. Mr. Carty is at present serving as a member of the Naval Reserve.

FATHER CARRICK'S CONDITION.

The condition of Rev. Father Charles Carrick, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past eight weeks, was reported today as again being critical. Dr. Lindeman, of New York, gave another blood transfusion Wednesday and though Father Carrick rallied for a time he has since become very weak. The blood Wednesday was furnished by Sergeant Charles Flynn, of the local police department.

LOCAL ARTIST'S LANDSCAPES ON VIEW AT HOTEL WALDORF.

Henry Windham, proprietor of the Hotel Waldorf on East Front street, has further beautified the dining-room of his cafe by the hanging of two big oil paintings from the brush of G. M. A. Alexander, of this city. Both are landscapes and have attracted great attention. The pictures measure six by eight feet.

Mr. Alexander is a son-in-law of the late Theodore Vrooman and is rapidly making his mark as an artist. He has frequently completed landscapes that have received favorable comment from connoisseurs but has never attempted anything as large as the pictures purchased by Mr. Windham. They are hung in the rear of the Waldorf dining-room and Proprietor Windham invites the public to view them.

Fire Badly Damages Elizabeth Elk's Club

Fire which started in the kitchen of the Elks' Clubhouse in Westfield avenue, Elizabeth, at 2:15 Wednesday morning did damage placed by the club steward at about $10,000. But for the prompt action of the fire department in setting the blaze under control the entire structure would have been destroyed.

A telephone message telling of the fire reached headquarters at the same time the alarm was turned in from box 42, and when the firemen arrived the entire rear end of the building was in flames. Two lines of hose were put to play on the blaze, but it was not until 4 o'clock that it was completely out.

At the club Wednesday morning they were not prepared to say how the fire started. Chief Gerstung, of the Elizabeth department, gave out the information that its origin was in a closet located in the kitchen. That section of the first floor was badly gutted and smoke and water did considerable damage on the second floor and in other parts of the building.

The loss is covered by insurance and was placed by Steward Thomas Dick at not more than $10,000.

The work of the firemen was commended yesterday not only by the officials of the club, but by many who were attracted to the scene while the fire was in progress.

The grill, in which most of the damage was done, was completed only recently, after many months of labor and no small expense, and was reported to be one of the handsomest in the State. Many Plainfielders have dined in it since its completion. The fact that a heavy brick wall divides the grill from the main section of the building is responsible for the fact that the club was not entirely destroyed, it is believed.

So fiercely did the flames rage that the heat melted silverware that was not actually touched by the blaze.

Local War Library Committee Working To Collect $1,200

Meeting in the Public Library rooms Tuesday night for the first time, the Plainfield Library War Council, appointed by Mayor Leighton Calkins, devised ways and means for pushing the campaign to secure this city's apportionment of $1,200 for the Library War Fund as planned by the National Committee at Washington. C. B. Tyler, the chairman, was in charge and it was announced that about $250 of the necessary $1,200 is already on hand. The names of those contributing are to be published but the amounts will be withheld.

Beside Mr. Tyler, the citizens named on the committee by Mayor Calkins are as follows. E. R. Ackerman, F. K. Anderson, E. T. Barrows, J. Herbert Case, M. F. Elderton, Alexander Gilbert, Charles L. Kling, Albert F. La Rock, B. P. Mellick, W. D. Murras, W. N. Newcorn, M. C. Van Arsdale and W. N. Wherry, Jr.

The goal set by the National Committee is one million dollars and in naming the local committee Mayor Calkins referred to the project as follows:

Probably no more important work than this has been planned by the Government in its work of prosecuting the war with the greatest degree of efficiency. No part of the monies subscribed is to be used to pay the expenses of raising the fund. Every dollar given will go toward the object at hand. Although many books will be donated for these libraries, it is evident the libraries must be of a kind to meet the peculiar needs of soldiers; books calculated to interest them as soldiers, such as modern books on warfare, as well as literature of a lighter nature. It must also be borne in mind that buildings will be needed for the libraries and expert librarians to manage them. This will be by far the greatest part of the expense.

The total amount needed will be apportioned approximately at five per cent. of the population which will make Plainfield's share $1,200.

The following persons have already contributed to the fund: Miss I. M. Acken, Hon. E. R. Ackerman, A. B. Beers, L. M. Booth, Miss F. M. Bowman, S. F. Bushnell, Miss B. Campbell, S. T. Carter, S. S. Carvalho, J. Herbert Case, Willard Case, Mrs. M. Charles, R. H. Depew, Miss A. Dietrich, R. W. Everett, F. W. Frost, A. J. Gavett, J. W. Gavett, H. E. Jackson, Miss A. H. Kirby, E. H. Ladd, Jr., T. Veysey and Mrs. G. S. Wallace.

ADVICE TO INVENTORS GIVEN BY NAVY DEPT.

America's naval officers are on the lookout for inventions that will increase the fleet's fighting efficiency. Lots of ideas have been submitted, many fantastic, most of them impractical, but a few worthy and welcome. In almost all, however, there has been a common difficulty—the haphazard presentation of the plans. And to overcome this the Navy Department has issued a circular containing inventors against annoying practices in offering their ideas for consideration.

In the first place, the department advises inventors not to expect the Government to buy a pig in a poke. There will positively not be any agreements entered into until the navy's experts have had an opportunity of estimating the value of the device.

Another primary caution is: Do not send a model. Drawings are the best medium for presenting plans. A correct drawing tells more than a crude model and then, too, models are frequently broken in transit.

Write the details rather than attempt to obtain an interview, observes the circular. A letter is sure of an audience where a call in person may fail to gain. Putting things in black and white shows up what shortcomings there may be.

VALUABLE COLLECTION BROUGHT FROM CHINA

Mr. and Mrs. James Mauser, who has been in China for the past fourteen months, returned to this city during the past week and are at present visiting Mrs. Mauser's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy F. Phillips of Madison avenue. Mr. Mauser was located at Peking, China, as representative for the New York and China Ring Company and was summoned to America because of the Chinese Revolution which broke out recently. The Plainfielders were in the midst of the first turmoil, at one time being in the court yard of one of the government buildings when bullets from the Revolutionists' rivals struck against the buildings and in a perfect hail. They encountered numerous thrilling experiences before reaching a point of comparative safety.

Mrs. Mauser brought home with her one of the most complete collections of Chinese curios that has ever been seen in Plainfield. It included rare pottery, tapestries and ornaments of both ancient and modern artisanship. In order to allow her friends to see the collection, Mrs. Mauser had it displayed at Mrs. Phillips' home where it was viewed by scores of persons. The collection has since been sent to New York.

Township Protests Against "Jail Farm" At Berkely Heights

New Providence township is up in arms against the plan to have a part of its territory taken for the purpose of the proposed jail farm. The Bonnie Burn Tuberculosis Sanitarium is already located there, and the township holds that it should not be burdened with another public institution, which would deprive it of revenue from taxation and would increase its expenses for roads and lights.

Two crowded mass meetings of protesting citizens have been held, and an earnest protest against placing the jail farm there has been signed by nearly every resident of the township, and was presented to the freeholders at their meeting yesterday. The Township Committee has also taken official action by the adoption of a strongly-worded remonstrance, which, likewise, will be presented to the freeholders.

The memorial of the Township Committee to the freeholders is as follows:

"To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders, of the County of Union, State of New Jersey.

"Your memorialists, the Township Committee of the township of New Providence, respectfully represent:

"That the taking of further lands in this township by the county for public purposes, and particularly for the purpose of a jail farm or penal settlement, would be a hardship and injustice to this municipality, which it should not be required to endure.

"Always ready to bear its full share of the public burdens, this township, some years ago, acquiesced in the expropriation of a large tract of valuable land for the praiseworthy purpose of establishing a sanitarium for tuberculous patients, although by so doing the township was deprived of a considerable sum of tax revenue and was put to heavy expense for the maintenance of roads and lights for the benefit of the county, and in other ways. This burden of Bonnie Burn the township bears, and will continue to bear without demur.

"But your memorialists desire to urge that it would be a manifest hardship and injustice to add another such burden to this township, by taking from its list of tax rateables another valuable piece of property, thus further decreasing its revenues, and at the same time increasing its expenses for roads and lights. Such action would lessen the ability of the township to provide properly for its schools, roads and other public necessities, without raising the tax rate on its remaining ratables to an excessive height.

"New Providence township already has a much smaller total of taxable property than any other municipality in Union county. It would be an invidious discrimination and an injustice without its consent arbitrarily to deprive it further of realty ratables for the benefit of the county at large.

"It would also be a grave detriment to the repute of the township as a place of residence, to make it the site of so many public institutions of a character not desirable in neighbors.

"The burden of eleemosynary and penal institutions must, of course, be borne; but justice and equity require that they be fairly distributed throughout the county, and not massed upon a single municipality, and that the one of all least able to bear them.

"For these and other reasons your memorialists earnestly protest against the proposed taking of land in this township for a jail farm or other public purposes, and petition your Honorable Board to reject the proposal.

"And your memorialists will ever pray.

"PERCY G. HONEYMAN,
"ANGELO DEL DUCA,
"GEORGE WAHL,

State Normal School For Elizabeth Assured

The proposed State Normal School to be erected in Elizabeth is practically assured, according to Assemblyman Charles L. Morgan, Republican candidate for re-election, who has received a letter from Governor Edge promising support to the plan.

Because of a mistake in the construction of the language of the measure passed during the closing hours of the last Legislature session and authorizing the appropriation of $10,000 for the purchase of a site, there has been considerable delay in the project. Instead of specifically stating that the $10,000 was to be used for buying land on which to erect the school, the provision read that the money was to be used "for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of Chapter 271, Laws of 1916." The attorney-general held the language was ambiguous and, therefore, that the $10,000 could not be expended for the site alone.

"There is, of course, no question as to the intent of the Legislature," wrote Governor Edge to Mr. Morgan. "It was meant to appropriate $10,000 for the purchase of a normal school site, I shall therefore take pleasure in recommending in my budget message to the next Legislature that the $10,000 be made available for the purchase of the normal school site in Elizabeth as this would carry out the expressed intent of the Legislature and be in accordance with a policy which I have heretofore approved."

Publicity For the Presbyterian Church

Publicity for the Presbyterian Church in the United States will be the object of a committee appointed Monday by the executive commission of the General Assembly in session at Atlantic City. It will be headed by the moderator, Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, and will furnish information on denominational activities to newspapers and other periodicals.

Other action taken at the meeting included approval of a survey to be made to determine the religious culture of students in Presbyterian schools and colleges, approval of the chartering of a denominational agency by the State of New York and modernizing of mission activities. There was a report from a committee that had been named to outline the policy of the moral obligation of the church in relation to the war.

The special committee on life and work of the Presbyterian Church declared there is need for greater efficiency in the congregational activities, particularly in compiling congregational statistics and following up of members who remove from one community to another without associating themselves with other churches. There is need also, it was stated, for the infusion of new vitality into services, weekly prayer meetings and other elements of church life to keep Presbyterianism fully abreast of the times.

The stated clerk, Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, of Philadelphia, issued the following statement: "Presbyterianism is driving forward. I feel certain that at least one-sixth of the men now in the cantonments are members of our denomination. We are sending out our young men in large numbers, and it is our purpose to take care of them in the camps and in the field. We have incentive for supporting this administration aside from patriotic impulse, for the President, Vice President, Secretary of State Lansing and the Attorney General are Presbyterians."

FALLING STATUE ALMOST FATALLY INJURES GIRL

Curiosity to see what was in the outstretched hand of a casted statue in the hallway of the Evergreen Avenue School came near costing four-year-old May Curran her life Monday morning. The little girl, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curran, of Arlington avenue, is a member of the kindergarten class, and with her schoolmates was enjoying recess in the hall. The statue attracted the attention of the children and May decided to find out what was in the extended hand that stood considerably above them.

She started to climb up the pedestal holding the figure and her weight caused the whole thing to topple over. She was caught underneath, but fortunately fell in such a position that the heavy weight escaped striking her on the head. As it was she received numerous cuts and lacerations about the head and face and was held down by the shattered mass until teachers were able to extricate her.

The little girl was taken to her home after Dr. W. H. Anthony had given her treatment in response to a telephone call from the school principal. The physician found it necessary to take two stitches in one of the gashes on the side of the child's head caused by a broken piece of the statuary.

MEN OF SECOND TO BE DIVIDED.

The Second and Third New Jersey Regiments, now in camp at Anniston, will each contribute forty-five privates and four non-commissioned officers to the new One Hundred and Eleventh Machine Gun Battalion of the Fifty-seventh Brigade, which will be headed by Major Arthur Mackie, of Newark.

Mrs. Rosetta Guntzburger, of 736 Riverside Drive, New York city, today announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Beatrice Guntzburger, to Morton Hockberger, son of Solomon Hockberger, of this city. Miss Kuntzburger is a talented singer and a charming young woman. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Mary Smith, of Sound Beach, Conn., returned home yesterday after spending several weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. Cornelia M. Zabriskie, of West End avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Tallamy, of East Sixth street, are the parents of a baby boy born to them Monday.

Major Evarts Tracy, of Hillside avenue, left this week for France in company with a contingent sent from an Atlantic port.

Miss Estella Eick, of Dunellen, who resided in Plainfield for some time, is seriously ill at Muhlenberg Hospital suffering from typhoid fever. She was received at the institution early last week and it was at first thought that the disease would continue in a mild form. A turn for the worst developed about Saturday and since then it has been necessary for day and night nurses to be in constant attendance.

Howard Allegar, of Elm place, who has been employed by E. Bush for the past six years, has accepted a position as factory manager with the Norwalk Vault Company of New Jersey, which recently located in a plant at North avenue and Berckman street.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hulick, of Grove street, have returned home after a visit with relatives at Belvidere.

Henry Miller, of Watchung avenue, the borough, who has been a member of an engineering corps stationed at Port Slocum, was recently transferred to a conscript cantonment in Illinois.

William Lewis Phillips, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Phillips, of Oak Park, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Phillips, of Madison avenue. The little fellow made the trip East in company with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Manger, as the latter were returning from China. He will remain in Plainfield until the holidays.

Mrs. Frank Martin, of Martine avenue, is recovering after an operation performed at her home last week.

Mrs. Bernard Cook, of Liberty street, who has been seriously ill for more than two weeks, continues to improve but her progress is not rapid. On several occasions her condition has been critical.

Mrs. [illegible] L. Bratchley, of the Bancock Building, is recovering after a long and tedious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy, of West Fifth street, are the parents of a baby daughter, who arrived at their home a few days ago.

Mrs. Frank Lamy and children, of Chatham street, have gone to Redmond, Wash., where they will remain for several weeks as the guests of Mrs. Lamy's sister.

James J. Casey, of West Third street, is able to be out Tuesday for the first time after nearly a week's detention at home by an attack of grip.

John Donnelley, of West Fourth street, who has been foreman for several years on one of the "push-cars" engines operating between Dunellen and Graceland Hill, has been transferred to the Jersey Central yards as Communipaw.

Miss Marion L. Greene, of East Seventh street, returned to her position with the Plainfield-Union Water Company at the North avenue office Tuesday after five days' illness with a heavy cold.

Miss Mary Donnelley, of West Fourth street, has resigned her position at the Standard Aero plant to accept one in the local office of the American Express Company.

Mrs. Fred Zweifel, of Grant avenue, who has been at Mt. Pocono during the past summer, has been at her home this week but will return to Pocono within the next few days.

Frank Glau, of Fairview avenue, has been confined to his home for nearly three weeks with an infection of the foot that has been very painful and prevented him from walking.

Elston H. Davis, formerly of this city, but since recently of Orange, where he was manager of the Western Union Telegraph office for four years, has returned to Plainfield and is making his home on West Fifth street, near Prescott place. He has associated himself in business with his brother, Barton K. Davis, at the latter's market on West Fourth street.

W. L. Wright and family, of 1211 Evergreen avenue, left this week for Long Island, where they will make their home in the future. Mr. Wright having purchased a large suburban home near Patchogue.

Miss Dorothy Hubbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, of West Fifth street, left Monday for Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y., to resume her studies.

H. M. Shapler, of Media, Pa., has leased the residence at 935 Madison avenue, and will take possession next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Morrison, who have been residing on West Third street, left this week for Harrisburg, Pa., where they will make their home in the future.

Pushing Work On Plant for Local Concern

Improvements at the old Stephenson Car Works at Elizabethport, now being made by the Standard Aero Corporation, of this city, which will occupy the establishment with one of the largest airplane manufacturing plants in the country, turning out airplanes at the rate of sixty a week, are fast nearing completion. From present indications the company will be able to occupy the Elizabeth plant about October 25. It is expected that the plant will be set into operation about November 1.

The force which will be put to work will number between 1,000 and 1,200, and will be steadily increased as the development of the plant progresses. As was announced some time ago the employment of female labor will be one of the features of the new airplane concern. A large part of the force will be composed of girls and women and the Standard Corporation intends using female labor in more processes of aeroplane making than ever before attempted.

At present there are about 150 women employed at the local plant. When the Elizabeth plant is set into operation the greater part of this force will be transferred to that city. The opening of the new plant, which occupies the largest area of any plant of its kind in the United States, is a problem that will require a mass of detail which makes uncertain at this time a definite announcement of the date the establishment will be in full operation.

The force of men has been augmented so as to finish the buildings contract on time.

War has emphasized the need of women in manufacturing plants to fill the places of men who have gone to war. The Standard Corporation realizes this and has worked out plans by which it will evolve a system that will permit of female labor in many departments of the airplane work. Any paucity of male labor the corporation encounters will probably be taken care of by the adoption of the plan to employ women and consequently cause no delay in the contracts which the corporation is now handling.

The Elizabeth plant is a beehive on the grounds a casual glance discloses one that the renovation contemplated is fast nearing completion of industry at present. Though a strict guard has been thrown about the corporation, and other officials tion, Harry B. Mingle, president of the company are personally, supervising the work in progress at the Stephenson works.

Watch towers have been built inside the big enclosure. The new system of guarding the plant, details of which have not been made public, will be in operation as soon as the plant is opened.

Preparations for the testing field, which includes approximately sixty acres, for immediate use is one of the phases of improvement slated for early completion.

Governor Confers On Road Work Near Camp

Following a personal investigation of the roads leading to Camp Dix and after conferring with the State Comptroller's department regarding the amount of road appropriation available, and with State Highway Engineer H. A. Meeker, of Plainfield, Governor Edge has presented all the facts he inquiries disclosed to the State Highway Commission.

The Governor has ascertained that there is $145,000 available from the Federal rural post road appropriation which, with the Government's approval, could be used on a fifty per cent. basis, the State furnishing that amount of money.

The Governor has suggested to the Highway Commission that a committee go to Washington, point out the necessity for the road improvements caused entirely by the requirements of the cantonment, and endeavor to have the Federal authorities co-operate to bring about the immediate improvement of approximately four miles of road which would complete a stone road surface approach to the camp.

The camp will be practically isolated, so far as access to it by wagon is concerned, this winter, if the roads are left in their present condition, it is pointed out.

The strong St. Joseph's baseball nine, which has completed the championship City League, will meet the Home Guard team on Hyde Oval tomorrow afternoon. The Hope boys are putting in the strongest lineup at their command and it will include Jack Martin, who has just returned home after his season with the Milwaukee team. Jack will play short stop.

Not to be outdone, the strong St. Joseph's aggregation will bring its best men into play. Everybody is looking forward to one of the best contests of the season and a big crowd is expected. The game will be called promptly at 3 o'clock.

President Besler Tells How Railroads Are Aiding in the War's Big Problems

What the railroads are doing, through effective organization, to handle the greatest transportation problem in the history of the country was outlined in a comprehensive address given a few nights ago at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark, by W. G. Besler, of this city, president and general manager of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Mr. Besler had as his guests at a dinner and conference New Jersey newspaper publishers and editors.

At the outset of his remarks Mr. Besler explained that he desired to acquaint the newspaper men with some of the existing transportation conditions and to tell them something about what the railroads were doing to "help win the war." The get-together, he said, was suggested to him by a letter received from an editor in which the latter said: "If there ever was a time in the history of the railroad business when newspaper publishers, National and State Legislators, the public and labor organizations could be taught something about the difficulties under which railroad organizations are operated, it is right now."

Mr. Besler reviewed briefly the steps taken by a committee of the American Railway Association, comprising all the great trunk systems in the country, to prepare to meet the present problem of transporting troops and supplies. How the railroads took care of the shipment of enormous quantities of materials necessary to erect the various cantonments, how great bodies of troops, regulars, volunteers and selectives, were moved to training camps, how hundreds of locomotives and thousands of passenger coaches, freight and flat cars were assembled at the order of the Government with a rapidity and dispatch that was hardly believed possible six months before the breaking of diplomatic relations with Germany, was interestingly told.

Mr. Besler pointed out that not only had the American railroads to take care of the abnormal transportation demands brought about by the war, but that the rehabilitation of the railroad systems in France and Russia, was a matter depending absolutely upon the brains and energy of the American railroad heads. The roads in the United States, he explained, have been and now are concentrating their efforts on meeting the situation in Europe, sacrificing their own very urgent needs in this country in order to strengthen the Allies in the war-ridden countries. He proved conclusively that without adequate facilities for the movement of troops, food and ammunition on the west front in France it was impossible for the Allies to hold the enemy in check. And the problem, he pointed out, was one depending entirely upon American railway organization for solution.

Among the Central Railroad officials and newspaper men guests of Mr. Besler were:

Maxcy Applegate, C. K. Armstrong, C. H. Bateman, F. S. Bergren, L. W. Berry, Benjamin B. Bobbitt, Benjamin F. S. Brown, L. M. Campbell, R. D. Carter, B. E. Chapin, D. D. Clark, Jr., J. Logan Clevenger, John P. Coakley and Augustus S. Crane.

George W. Day, Joseph A. Dear, Walter M. Dear, C. H. Frost, M. F. Elderdon, Arthur Hamilton, Louis Hannock, H. B. Hart, Hugh Hearon, Frank Higgins, C. R. Hoagland, W. C. Hope, Tracy M. Hoskins, G. Kempson, J. Lyle Kinmouth, T. B. Koons, Walter J. Lee, James Logan, John McCormick, W. B. R. Mason, J. W. Meredith, John A. Mitchell and B. M. Prugh.

C. A. Ruhlmann, L. T. Russell, Leonard F. Sawvel, C. H. Stein, W. A. Sweeney, C. W. Thorn, L. E. Travis, J. B. Verley, William Von Katzler, Ira E. Whyte and S. B. Zartman.

Uncle Sam's Demands for Men May Put Holy Cross Club Out of Running This Year

Heavy inroads made on the available material, through the selection of men for war purposes, has left Plainfield poor prospects of seeing the Holy Cross football eleven on the gridiron this year. The former "stars" who made this organization one of the strongest elevens in North Jersey for five seasons are now in Uncle Sam's service and so far the gaps left by their going have not been filled. A meeting was to have been held a few nights ago to decide on some course of action, but when the losses were counted up they were found to be too great to be overcome right away. Thomas Ricketts, the present manager, declares the task of getting another team together is almost beyond him and has practically turned the work over to the former manager, "Doc" Doyle, the man who really made the club what it was. If anything can be done "Doc" is the boy who will do it.

The names of the former Holy Cross football players are familiar to every enthusiast in town and a perusal of the following list will show what an awful wallop the European War has given the outfit: "Jack" Caulfield, George Trust, "Ed" Brenable, "Pete" Benson, "Eddie" Hannon and "Jim" Margentini, all at Anniston, Ala., with Troop D; "Lou" Brown, at Anniston, with Company K; "Joe" Carty, George Howe, "Walt" Wilson, now on the U. S. S. "Granite State," as members of the Naval Militia; "Bill" Coyle, now a sergeant in the Medical Division of the Signal Corps stationed at Petersburg, Va.; "Stump" Cumming and "Shakey" Clarke, stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard as members of the Naval Militia, and Norman Ancerman, now at Camp Dix as a member of the National Army; George Gage, in the Aviation Corps at Mineola; Sylvester Rhinehart, in the Regular Army. Anybody who knows anything about football in Plainfield can understand about how much of the old stock is left after the above have been listed among the missing.

Beside Manager Ricketts and "Doc" Doyle the only ones left of the old bunch are Secretary "Joe" Greene, "Jack" Ricketts, Cliff Smith, Douglas Cowin, "Jack" Wilson, Leo Wilson, "Jerry" Manning, "Dan" McAfee, "Dutch" Hohenstein, "Andy" Stiltz, "Goat" Nash and "Mike" Moran. Of these fourteen, five are positively not to don a uniform this year, thus reducing the chances of a start toward a new eleven. Only a few of the remainder have signified their intention of "kicking" in should action be taken.

The original Holy Cross team was organized from among the boys in the Catholic Association of the Church of the Holy Cross. It ran several years under the Association's auspices, but in 1912 was reorganized as an outside club. "Doc" Doyle, "Joe" Greene and Norman Amerman were the instigators of the new move and worked hard for the success of the team up to the present time. During 1912 the Holy Cross boys were the champions of the State of New Jersey and held the title until 1915, when the Dexters, of Perth Amboy, defeated them in a championship game on Thanksgiving morning by a score of 6 to 0. The contest was witnessed by a crowd of more than 2,000 people. Much of the success of the team is due to the efforts of "Doc" Hamilton and "Eddie" Stallings, who acted as coaches in the early days. Beside the Dexters, other teams that opposed the Holy Cross eleven in memorable contests were: The Franklins, of Newark; the Vikings, of Bayonne; the Fircones and Cupids, of Brooklyn; the Triangles, of Orange, and the teams representing the crews of the U. S. Battleships "Wyoming" and "New Jersey."

The "Wyoming" boys came to Plainfield on six different occasions, bringing the ship's band and a big delegation of marines and bluejackets with them. Each visit stirred up more excitement than can be found in town on a holiday and drew capacity attendances to the gridiron battles. The series of six games ended almost equal. The Holy Cross boys won three, the "Wyomings" two, and the other one was a tie.

It will be hard, of course, for the local lovers of clean football playing to have the Holy Cross team off the field this year but then it's all for a good cause and no one will make complaint. However, when the old crowd gets back again if somebody does not get busy for reorganization a howl will go up from the sports all over town.

Ackerman Trustees Ask Court Direction

Former Senator Ernest Ackerman, Marion A. Ackerman, of Plainfield, and Jonathan A. Coles, of Scotch Plains, surviving trustees under the will of Warren Ackerman, who died in Scotch Plains August 26, 1893, have filed a bill in Chancery at Trenton stating the properties are operated at a loss; that the complainants are in doubt whether the deficit should be charged wholly to the income or in part to the income and part to the capital, and they ask the court to direct in what manner the deficit shall be charged. It is also asked that the complainants may be allowed and directed to make an accounting to the court and receive their commissions.

It is stated that from the time of Warren A. Ackerman's death to December 16, 1916, there had been realized from sales of property of his estate $956,236.64, of which $903,-684.23 represented proceeds of sales made prior to March 31, 1913, on which the accounting of the complainants was allowed by Chancery decree.

LOCAL SOLDIERS NAMED.

Lieutenant Colonel Martin has submitted to Governor Edge the names of ten members of the Second Regiment from which the Governor will select three to take the examination for appointment to West Point. Included in the number named are Corporal Ralph Bodenweiser and Walter McCabe, members of Company K.

RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT.

Mrs. Mary Davis Tomlinson, head of the W. C. T. U. in the county for the past thirty years, was again elected president for another year at the annual convention in Elizabeth last week. She is one of the most prominent figures in the women's temperance field and has held offices in the national organization for many years.

Food Saving Week To Begin October 21

The week of October 21-28 will be observed throughout the country as a special food crusade week. Herbert C. Hoover, food administrator, issued this week a personal appeal to the country to join during that week in a huge movement for food conservation. A house-to-house canvass of the 22,000,000 families in the United States will be a feature of the campaign, and every man and woman will be asked to enroll. The slogan will be "Food Will Win the War."

Nearly 2,000,000 women already have taken the pledge to save food according to Mr. Hoover's suggestions, and already this country-wide conservation movement has resulted in a visible increase in the available supplies. It has been pointed out by Mr. Hoover that the whole problem of feeding our own overseas armies and the Allies will be solved if the American people will eat less of the foods which, because of their concentrated nutritive value, must be sent broad, and more of other foods which, there is abundance. The foods that must be saved are wheat, beef, pork, dairy products and sugar; those that should be used generously are fish, poultry, fruit, vegetables and all cereals except wheat.

Mr. Hoover's appeal follows:

"The week of October 21 to 28 has been selected for a nation-wide campaign to complete the enrolment of our forces in conservation of our food supply.

"The harvest is now in hand, and we can measure the world's food resources. The available supplies this harvest year are less than last year; the demand upon us is greater than last year, and from the last harvest we exported more than we could really afford. We can only meet the call upon us next year by savings and by substitution of commodities which cannot be transported.

"The Allies are our first line of defense. They must be fed, and food will win the war. All Europe is on rations or restricted supplies. Only in our own country is each one permitted to judge for himself the duty he owes his country in food consumption, although the world depends upon us to guard and provide its food supply.

"This is a duty of necessity, humanity and honor. As a free people we have elected to discharge this duty, not under autocratic decree, but without other restraint than the guidance of individual conscience. On the success of this unprecedented adventure in democracy will largely stake the issue of the war.

"We are seeking every householder, every hotel, restaurant, and dealer in foodstuffs in the nation to become a member of the Food Administration for Conservation and to pledge themselves to follow, in so far as circumstances permit, the suggestions that will be offered from time to time as to measures of food saving.

"For us there is no threat of privation. We wish only that our people should eat plenty, but wisely and without waste. Wisdom in eating is to make possible such adjustments in our food consumption, shipping and war necessities as will allow us to fulfill our duty in exports to our allies. By elimination of waste we serve ourselves economically and morally.

"Therefore appeal to the churches and to the schools for their assistance in this crusade; to all the organizations for defense, local and national; to all the agencies, commercial, social and civic, that they join the Administration in this work for the fundamental safety of the nation.

"HERBERT HOOVER."

Jersey to Figure In Big Powder Output

New Jersey is to figure heavily in the plans of the Federal government for increasing its output of powder for war needs and for the vastly increased quantities that will be necessary for some time after the war. Contractors are already figuring on a large amount of building work on New Jersey government reservations already devoted to powder making. Men of different trades are being informed of the work that is in prospect and plans are being laid for a quick beginning and rapid work from the instant the government gives the official starting word.

It has been said recently among men in the building trades hereabout that the government job of construction work on its powder plant near Dover alone will run into expenditures of enormous sums. One figure mentioned was over $25,000,000 and it was added that steady work will be provided for a year for a large force of men and that they will be worked in double shifts, so that as much progress as possible may be made in each day of twenty-four hours.

War Department and other officials in Washington will not admit that any such elaborate plan of powder plant construction in New Jersey has been prepared or is actually in the making. Inquirers about the matter, however, have gained the impression that there is a great deal more to the prospective work in the Morris county hills than is indicated by the carrying in the urgent deficiency bill before Congress of an appropriation of $40,000 for the Picatinny plant.

News of the Theatres

"New Bon Ton Girls" Coming Next Week

The famous "Bon Ton Girls," the king-pin of all musical extravaganzas, make their first appearance in this city next Tuesday at the Plainfield Theatre. This attraction is beyond a question the most original, unique and up-to-date organization of its kind. The pick of extravaganza. The comedy element is superb and the burlettas take advantage of every opportunity to create a laugh and are written to suit the people.

Emma Kohler, with "New Bon Ton Girls," at Plainfield Theatre, October 9.

The numerous laughable situations are never failing hits and are ridiculous in extremes. The gorgeous costumes are works of art and the scenic effects excel anything heretofore presented by any similar company. "The New Bon Ton Girls" stands supremely alone and all lovers of good clean shows will be amply repaid by a visit to this edge house of Momus during the ensuing week.

"You're In Love" At Theatre Tonight

Rarely lightning strikes twice in the same place, and more seldom still does it happen that a combination of producer, author and composer of musical comedy hit the bull's eye of popular approval more than once with the same degree of accurate judgment. It is, therefore, a matter of singular and agreeable surprise to find that in "You're In Love," Manager Arthur Hammerstein measured the genius of Otto Hauerbach, and Rudolf Friml to such a nicety that "Katinka," "High Jinks" and "The Firefly" admirers, whose name is legion, found another entertainment upon which to lavish unstinted praise.

Mr. Hammerstein will offer "You're In Love," with all its fine elements of subtle comedy, entrancing melodies and delightful novelty, at the Plainfield Theatre tonight, and it goes without saying that a wholly dependable cast and chorus of special distinction are features to be counted upon without reservation.

Plainfield Murder Case Among Charges Being Heard by October Grand Jury

With a total of nearly 100 cases to consider, the Union County Grand Jury assembled at the court house in Elizabeth, Tuesday morning, to begin the deliberations for the October term of court. It will be one of the busiest sessions in many years as the causes include four murder charges and eight manslaughter cases. One murder case, that of Harry Williams, the Rahway man who killed his wife, has already been acted upon and preparations made to extradite him from Philadelphia, where he has been in custody.

Another of the murder cases is the first which has come from Plainfield in many years. It is that of Grant Miller, the colored man who was arrested for the shooting of Sylvanus Johnson at Fourth and Liberty streets last July following a quarrel the pair had over a girl. Miller's case will probably be among the first to be tried and it is understood that his counsel will enter a plea of self-defense. Another case of special interest to Plainfielders is that of Jacob Jonas, motorman of the Union Line trolley car which crashed into an auto-bus on West Front street, Saturday night, September 8, killing Jeremiah Lant and injuring fourteen persons. The local police entered a charge of manslaughter against Jonas.

The Grand Jury panel was brought into court by Sheriff Otto and the following men were selected as the Grand Jury for this term:

Charles H. K. Halsey, banker, foreman; Rev. Winfield S. Baer, minister; Peter M. Erickson, superintendent, Garwood; Rev. Francis G. Merrill, minister, Rahway; Eugene M. Laing, retired, Plainfield; John B. Hicks, painter, Westfield; Van Wyck Lott, real estate, 143 West Grand, Elizabeth; John C. Tull, agent, 207 Cherry, Elizabeth; Charles H. Lord, insurance, Westfield; Edward Brewer, shipbuilder, 335 Marshal, Elizabeth; Ambrose Powell, real estate, Summit; Charles Affick, printer, Westfield; William T. Avery, accountant, 526 Pennsylvania avenue, Elizabeth; Oscar C. Peck, glassware, Roselle Park; Henry C. Meyer, retired, Scotch Plains; W. A. Bourdon, real estate, 130 Marshall, Elizabeth; W. M. Hager, assistant to president, Roselle; William G. Heine, carpenter, 38 Niles, Elizabeth; Henry Leahy, florist, 530 Jefferson avenue, Elizabeth; Stacey Bender, publisher, Westfield; Frank E. Binns, railroad agent, 65 Hillside road, Elizabeth; Frank C. Manley, engineer, Roselle, and William T. Kirk, retired, Plainfield.

The balance of the panel of thirty-five was then excused.

In his charge to the Grand Jury, Justice Bergen took occasion to call attention to the liquor law. He said that the liquor law must be enforced in this State; it was upon the statute books, and being there, it must be upheld by the courts. He cautioned the jurors that no matter what their personal feelings might be regarding the law, it was to be enforced as it stood. One cannot excuse a violation of the law because he does not happen to like the law, the Justice added.

He called attention to the numerous manslaughter cases brought before the Grand Jury. In cases where it can be reasonably shown that reckless driving was the cause of the death of a person, the Justice said the jurors must bring in a verdict of manslaughter. Eight manslaughter cases growing out of auto accidents were presented to the Grand Jury.

As regards the murder cases the Justice reviewed briefly the circumstances in each case and said if a reasonable amount of evidence was presented tending to make out a charge of murder, the jurors should so present it to the court. He reviewed the cases of Williams, Kieley, Miller, Zaclajues, and Miss Filomene Unfrio, held for the action of the jury. All are in custody.

Justice Bergen cautioned the jurors regarding a discussion of their deliberations outside of the jury room. He said their doings must be held sacred.

He then ordered the jury to retire to deliberate upon their cases.

Justice Bergen then returned to the calling of the cases, stating that the first ten cases marked ready would start for trial on Monday.

It is expected that the Grand Jury will take a week or more for their deliberation owing to the large number of murder and manslaughter cases to be presented to them.

The trials of cases will begin at 10 o'clock Monday, October 8.

NEW JERSEY MAKING BIG SHIPMENTS OF APPLES.

New Jersey is shipping more apples just now than almost any other State. During the week ending September 17, forty-seven car-loads were sent out of the State, besides thousands of packages in less than car lots. Up to the present time more than 3,000 carloads have left the State. The crop is fair, but the quality is excellent, and growers are receiving satisfactory prices. Bushel hampers are bringing $2, and barrels of good stock are selling for $5 and $6 in the wholesale markets. Apples to reach these prices, of course, are the results of good care.

"DOUBLE-CROSSING" THE FIREMEN IN SEEKING "TWO PLATOON.

The argument over the two-platoon system is now going on, pro and con. The members of the local fire department, who began the campaign to secure a decent working day for themselves are making every effort to acquaint the citizens of Plainfield with the absolute facts but it seems to be the evident purpose of numerous moss backs to misrepresent the true particulars. Naturally enough, the taxpayer gets excited when persons deliberately give him the idea that a two-platoon system would greatly increase his bills in the future and it is only a natural course of events for him to vote against the plan. Nevertheless, we believe there are enough humanitarians in Plainfield to give the fire-laddies what they should have and if only facts instead of mis-statements are sent abroad there would be an overwhelming majority in favor of the question next election day.

It is asserted by some of the "antis" who are spreading the false propaganda without letting their identity be known that the two divisions will mean an increase in fire department expense of perhaps $20,000. This is not so but even if it should be true it makes no difference in the long run. It can cost $20,000, $40,000 or even $60,000 and the main idea will be the same. The firemen of this and every other town have got to have a "whiteman's" hours for working. The very people who make slurring remarks about the firemen having nothing particular to do all day and should be satisfied with the present system are the very ones who consider themselves horribly treated if the boss asks them to stay an hour overtime. They are also the people who want Saturday afternoons to themselves and would consider it a personal affront if anyone should ask them to do a few minutes' work on Sunday. Yet they want the firemen to work twenty-four hours every day in the week, keeping them confined to within fifty feet of their respective buildings on all but one day in six. Even when they get the sixth day to go home to their wives and families they are supposed to respond to an alarm if one should be turned in. It makes no difference if the firemen are not kept busy all the time. That is the silliest of all the silly arguments that have been advanced. The city does not hire firemen to mop floors or shine brass poles. It hires them to fight fires and if there are no fires the citizens can congratulate themselves. Nobody can say the Plainfield fireman is not on hand when he is needed, in fact, our department has held an enviable reputation for years for speed and efficiency. At the present time the department needs six more men and they are going to be appointed whether the two-platoon comes in or not. The people might just as well vote to have fourteen men appointed and bring about the two shifts because a good part of the expense is going to come anyway. The two-platoon does not mean a doubling of the present force, it does not mean decreasing the efficiency of the department nor does it mean an advance in insurance rates. These are all "bugaboos" that have been started to off-set the honest campaign of the firemen. If anyone wants to know the facts in the case he can have them by asking any member of the department or by directing his query direct to the Record.

All the boys of the Plainfield department ask is a square deal but so far they have not been getting it. One of their double-crossers is the Courier-News. This paper has adopted the short-sided policy of pretending to help the cause and at the same time doing everything it can to mis-represent the plan. One way it has of doing this is to refuse to print letters from citizens who are in favor of the two-platoon. Another is to print comparisons made by insurance companies in cities like Philadelphia where conditions are vastly different than they are in Plainfield. Comparisons are odious at any time and especially so when the whole idea is to conduct a one-sided argument. The Courier-News may think it is getting away with its game of straddling a fence but it is vastly mistaken. The people want to know all about the two-platoon, for and against, and they are going to get it. What's more, the Plainfield fire department is going to get the two-platoon system. If it does not come this year it will come later on. There is nothing that can be said against the plan except the expense and if taxpayers are going to vote "No" on this account they should take a look at some of the other propositions in town that are costing thousands of dollars without exciting any outward disapproval.

USING DISCRETION IN SOLICITING FUNDS.

In appointing local citizens to serve as members of a Plainfield Library War Council Mayor Calkins carried out an idea advanced by someone at Washington but we do not favor the proposition. These are the days when new schemes for raising funds crop up almost hourly and while all are for a good purpose a point is being reached where the contributing public asks for discretion. We do not doubt for one moment but what this city's apportionment of $1,200 will be in hand soon, yet it seems as though the money could be applied to some better purpose.

The national committee, of which the Plainfield branch is only a very small part, proposes to collect one million dollars. All of this is to be spent in the purchase of books, the erection of libraries at the various cantonments and the engaging of expert librarians to aid soldiers in selecting reading matter. A very laudable effort indeed, but why should so much energy be expended in this direction when religious and fraternal organizations are already doing the work. Take Wrightstown for instance. Camp Dix now has ten Y. M. C. A. buildings and three Knights of Columbus homes, each one in charge of competent attendants. The buildings are open to any man in the camp and he can secure books, periodicals, newspapers, writing materials and numerous other requirements for reading or correspondence. Tons upon tons of literature are pouring into these centers and there are already on hand more books and papers than any one man could read in a year. Despite this matter of common knowledge the well meaning individuals at Washington come along with the War Library Plan, practically asking for the enduring public to duplicate something that has already been purchased.

There are lots of things the National Army soldiers want besides reading matter. A Plainfield lad at Wrightstown hit the nail on the head when he said: "For heaven's sake give us something else beside books and magazines. We want newspapers, sure enough, but we have to go some to get time to read even these. If there are any book worms around the place all they have to do is say so and they can have a library all their own. What we do want though is a piano or a phonograph for our barracks, some extra money for a special dinner now and then or little necessities that the government does not provide. I doubt very much if the people who started the library campaign asked a soldier about it before the scheme was launched."

These words came from one of Uncle Sam's boys who is not a bit out of the ordinary. He recognized the good intent of the committee seeking a million dollars but spoke for thousands like himself when he asked for music, a change of food and other things in preference to literature. As we said before, the Plainfield Council will probably secure the $1,200 in a very few days because the local public is quick to respond to any appeal in behalf of the boys serving their country but it might be well to give them a respite once in a while.

THE "COMPANY FUND" THE BEST PLAN YET.

An interview with Mayor Leighton Calkins printed in another column of this issue, calls for careful perusal on the part of every citizen of the city and borough who wishes to help the boys preparing for action at the front. The chief executive outlines a plan for raising a "company fund," in other words, securing the necessary money to look after the comforts of the local soldiers who went out with Troop D and Company K or were called to Wrightstown. There is great need of this supervision and the proposal coming from the mayor points the way to prevent any feeling of discrepancy as entertained by Company K previous to its departure for the South. The boys of this organization were not given proper recognition but they will never have cause for complaint in the future if the "company fund" is constructed along the proper lines.

Lots of individual giving has been going on in behalf of the enlisted or selected men. It has so happened at times that some have received more attention than others and consequently the "partiality" belief gained ground. By the mayor's plan there will be none of this. The folks at home will centralize the furnishing of comforts and necessities not included in the government's allowances. From the "company fund" will come extra articles of clothing, "smokes," musical instruments for camp recreation, football, basketball and baseball supplies, extra money for Sunday dinners and a score of other things. Trenton was one of the first cities to start a "company fund" and its officers kept in constant touch with the home boys at the camps. On one occasion the sleeping tent of two Trenton recruits burned down. As the government issues no extra tents the boys would have had to replace their shelter out of their own pockets but the "company fund" supplied the necessary amount. This is only one instance of taking care of something that would be overlooked if it were not for a concerted plan of supervision.

Mayor Calkins believes that it would be best for all concerned if the local Red Cross chapter assumed charge of the "company fund." The work could be merged with that of the Volunteer Auxiliary of Plainfield and North Plainfield which has been organized for the past sixteen months. This auxiliary has spent many thousands of dollars in places where it was best needed for the benefit of soldiers and their families. Various sums were expended for interests on mortgages, insurance payments and house rents. Nobody hears about these things but they have been going on every day. By the new plan the Volunteer Auxiliary can continue along these lines but work in harmony with the Red Cross which has devoted its attention mainly to providing comforts for the men at the camps. A combination of effort is bound to enlist the sympathy of the local public as it has never been before and every khaki clad lad will be given to understand that someone is looking out for his interest while he is doing the real work in this great crisis.

The money for the "company fund" will not be all solicited in Plainfield. It is proposed to ask for aid from any town which has men in the 311th Infantry at Wrightstown, Troop D or Company K, according to the percentage of representation. Westfield, Roselle, Linden, Elizabeth, Summit and other places. There is no doubt but what each one will enter heartily into the plan as soon as it is fully formulated. We earnestly ask that every one interested in the mayor's proposition attend the first conference and thereafter lend his or her support to the best company provision scheme that has yet been worked out.

STRAIGHTENING OUT THE CITY HALL MIXUP.

The latest phase of the city hall jumble came Monday night, when the Common Council cancelled the original contract with the P. F. Kenny Company. A new one was made out with P. F. Kenny as an individual and the latter proposes to complete the work by December 31.

It seems queer to some people how the mixup could be thus straightened out but as a matter of fact it is the only way to proceed. The city hall committee had no means of knowing that the P. F. Kenny Company was destined to meet with financial difficulties and when the concern found itself unable to proceed it brought about a serious proposition. To collect the guarantee bond from the insurance company is a costly and slow procedure and to go into the open market for new bids at this time is out of the question. Material and labor have advanced in cost to such an extent that the figures would be prohibitive.

That was the situation the committee faced when the Kenny firm found itself unable to go on. Mr. Kenny offered to proceed as an individual and his proposition was accepted. He will lose money personally but intends to keep on until the big structure is ready for the people. He deserves the encouragement the Council is giving him.

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When no home was complete without a hassock?

When the grocerymen thought nothing of putting a potato on the spout of the kerosene oil can?

When the young ladies entertained their gentlemen callers by showing them the old chromos and the daguerreotypes in the family album that always reposed on the parlor table?

When nobody but the circus men who needed lights and the clothes cleaners worried about the high price of gasoline?

When you could go downtown with a five-dollar bill Saturday night and return home with an armful of groceries beside the heavier stuff that was left for wagon delivery?

When the city's telephone service numbered 100 instruments and the New York and New Jersey Company's tower stood on the City National Bank building at Park avenue and Front street?

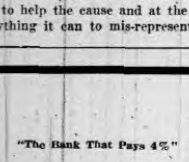
When appendicitis was only plain ordinary every day "inflammation of the bowels" and could be cured for a few $1.50 visits from the doctor instead of a $100 operation at Muhlenberg Hospital?

When political campaigns were made active by torchlight processions and the old man joined the marching clubs in order to get a fancy suit that could be cut down for the kids after the votes had been counted?

"Save and Have"

—Benjamin Franklin

"The Bank That Pays 4%"



Never before has saving been so necessary. Our soldiers and sailors alone cannot win the war. Our soldiers and sailors backed by thrifty people at home are an invincible force for victory and peace. The future of the United States, after the war, will be more secure if every American will spend carefully, save carefully and invest carefully.

Saving requires no technical knowledge, no large capital. It requires only the WILL to save and the CHARACTER to keep at it.

avenue, this city. The other man was Arthur Doolittle, of Elizabeth. The small number of men rejected is a testimonial to the high calibre of men of the recruits sent from Union county to the cause of democracy. The rejections in most of the regiments so far have been because of defective eyesight or bad teeth. How many more Plainfield men are slated for return has not been made public as yet. Company A now has a total of 250 men and because of its being brought up to full war strength a third lieutenant was added this week. This makes four commissioned officers, the captain and three lieutenants.

After a strenuous morning's work on the drill field the boys were given the usual holiday on Wednesday afternoon. Friends and relatives of the many of the selectives have learned Gould announced that he would only of the Wednesday afternoon off and this day is bringing more visitors to the cantonment each week. Scores of automobiles were parked about the barracks Wednesday. A large number from Plainfield were among them.

Kingdon Gould Gets Promotion In 311th

Kingdon Gould, wealthy rookie of the 311th Infantry, a son of George J. Gould, was one of nine recruits given promotion at Wrightstown Tuesday. It is understood Private Gould will have a warrant as sergeant and will be assigned to important duties with Major General Charles W. Kennedy and other officers of the General Staff there.

Private Gould's next superior will be Second Lieutenant Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, of New York.

Princes alone won the promotion for Private Gould. He speaks several languages fluently and is regarded as a very valuable addition to the unit. Some time ago young Gould's promotion on his merit. It was then rumored he was slated for a commission in an engineers' regiment.

In speaking of his promotion Gould said: "I am glad to be of service wherever I am placed."

"We Are A All Brothers"

(By Dudley M. Wilcox)

Dudley M. Wilcox, of Watchung avenue, who won distinction as a writer of essays while a student in the Plainfield High School, is a member of the Plainfield contingent at Camp Dix. Because of a temporary indisposition the forepart of this week he was sent to the regimental hospital for treatment and while there found himself among a cosmopolitan group of convalescent conscripts.

They furnished such a remarkable study in the "Melting Pot" formation of the great National Army that the discerning young Plainfielder penned the following impressions for the columns of the Record:

"We are a all brothers," asserted Demetrius Soppas to the group of raw rookies who found themselves interned in the ward on the second floor of the infantry hospital. We were all experiencing our first nights in camp. As I looked about me from my cot I recognized among the group boys of German extraction, Lithuanians, a Bohemian, Italians, a Greek, a Swede and an East Side Jew.

Demetrius, the Greek, came over to my cot one day and asked me to write the "Star Bangler Banner" out on a sheet of paper so he could memorize it. Several times I had noticed him displaying a small silk American flag. Two years ago Demetrius (or "Jim" as the boys call him) left the island of Mytilan to seek his fortune in the land of the free and the home of the brave. Quick to grasp opportunities "Jim" soon found he had a nice business in fruits and vegetables and he told me before coming to camp he averaged about twenty-five dollars a week peddling. His army pay of $30 a month worried him but he soon commenced to canvass the rookies to find out how many would agree to buy three skins for a quarter. Soon I sent a partner to help me sell fruit to the brothers." Demetrius has adopted America as his home and feels proud at being called to defend its Government, laws and the ideals of the red, white and blue.

Several days after Louis, of Hester street, arrived in camp he appealed with success to the doctor and to his captain for a furlough to return to the Ghetto to celebrate Yom Kippur. Louis is a likable chap, full of fun and outwardly impervious to the frequent jibes directed his way. He redecorates by reciting amusing stories and singing songs at the expense of his race. Louis exuberates brotherly love and curiously enough his will somehow manage to fill a place in the National Army but he hopes he will never have to actually get into the thick of the fray. He says, "The pickins ought to be good on the battle fields after all is over," and Louis ought to know for he is the king of junk dealers.

Carlson, the knotty muscled, blonde Swede, is another type of recruit. His bronzed arms when bare tell a secret. This Scandinavian is a deserter from the Swedish navy and should he return and remain in his native land for more than twenty-four hours, he is liable to arrest which, as he says, would mean three years in prison followed by three years' service in the navy. So it is easy to understand why the "Swede" prefers to earn his living as a chauffeur to a well known millionaire in this country. Carlson will make a good soldier and is satisfied at being conscripted.

"Dutch" made himself known to me the first night as he reclined on his cot shivering, for it was a raw evening. "Dutch" wasn't enjoying his first night in camp and complained of his lot as a drafted man. "Dutch" had spent several years in Germany when his folks returned to the Fatherland. Four of his uncles are fighting in the German army. It is not necessary to take the lid from the penetralia of his life to find out whether Dutch will be a good American soldier when he faces across "No man's land." "Dutch" gets riled at occasional rough slurs on the German race but withal he is genial and buoyant by nature. He has related to me many experiences of the tough life he has led as a tramp, prize-fighter, truck driver and factory hand. It is understood Private Gould will have a warrant as sergeant and will be assigned to important duties with Major General Charles W. Kennedy and other officers of the General Staff there.

Private Gould's next superior will be Second Lieutenant Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, of New York.

It is understood Private Gould will have a warrant as sergeant and will be assigned to important duties with Major General Charles W. Kennedy and other officers of the General Staff there.

Private Gould's next superior will be Second Lieutenant Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, of New York.

Princes alone won the promotion for Private Gould. He speaks several languages fluently and is regarded as a very valuable addition to the unit. Some time ago young Gould announced that he would only accept promotion on his merit. It was then rumored he was slated for a commission in an engineers' regiment.

In speaking of his promotion Gould said: "I am glad to be of service wherever I am placed."

"We Are A All Brothers"

(By Dudley M. Wilcox)

Dudley M. Wilcox, of Watchung avenue, who won distinction as a writer of essays while a student in the Plainfield High School, is a member of the Plainfield contingent at Camp Dix. Because of a temporary indisposition the forepart of this week he was sent to the regimental hospital for treatment and while there found himself among a cosmopolitan group of convalescent conscripts.

They furnished such a remarkable study in the "Melting Pot" formation of the great National Army that the discerning young Plainfielder penned the following impressions for the columns of the Record:

"We are a all brothers," asserted Demetrius Soppas to the group of raw rookies who found themselves interned in the ward on the second floor of the infantry hospital. We were all experiencing our first nights in camp. As I looked about me from my cot I recognized among the group boys of German extraction, Lithuanians, a Bohemian, Italians, a Greek, a Swede and an East Side Jew.

Demetrius, the Greek, came over to my cot one day and asked me to write the "Star Bangler Banner" out on a sheet of paper so he could memorize it. Several times I had noticed him displaying a small silk American flag. Two years ago Demetrius (or "Jim" as the boys call him) left the island of Mytilan to seek his fortune in the land of the free and the home of the brave. Quick to grasp opportunities "Jim" soon found he had a nice business in fruits and vegetables and he told me before coming to camp he averaged about twenty-five dollars a week peddling. His army pay of $30 a month worried him but he soon commenced to canvass the rookies to find out how many would agree to buy three skins for a quarter. Soon I sent a partner to help me sell fruit to the brothers." Demetrius has adopted America as his home and feels proud at being called to defend its Government, laws and the ideals of the red, white and blue.

Several days after Louis, of Hester street, arrived in camp he appealed with success to the doctor and to his captain for a furlough to return to the Ghetto to celebrate Yom Kippur. Louis is a likable chap, full of fun and outwardly impervious to the frequent jibes directed his way. He redecorates by reciting amusing stories and singing songs at the expense of his race. Louis exuberates brotherly love and curiously enough his will somehow manage to fill a place in the National Army but he hopes he will never have to actually get into the thick of the fray. He says, "The pickins ought to be good on the battle fields after all is over," and Louis ought to know for he is the king of junk dealers.

Carlson, the knotty muscled, blonde Swede, is another type of recruit. His bronzed arms when bare tell a secret. This Scandinavian is a deserter from the Swedish navy and should he return and remain in his native land for more than twenty-four hours, he is liable to arrest which, as he says, would mean three years in prison followed by three years' service in the navy. So it is easy to understand why the "Swede" prefers to earn his living as a chauffeur to a well known millionaire in this country. Carlson will make a good soldier and is satisfied at being conscripted.

"Dutch" made himself known to me the first night as he reclined on his cot shivering, for it was a raw evening. "Dutch" wasn't enjoying his first night in camp and complained of his lot as a drafted man. "Dutch" had spent several years in Germany when his folks returned to the Fatherland. Four of his uncles are fighting in the German army. It is not necessary to take the lid from the penetralia of his life to find out whether Dutch will be a good American soldier when he faces across "No man's land." "Dutch" gets riled at occasional rough slurs on the German race but withal he is genial and buoyant by nature. He has related to me many experiences of the tough life he has led as a tramp, prize-fighter, truck driver and factory hand. He is understood Private Gould will have a warrant as sergeant and will be assigned to important duties with Major General Charles W. Kennedy and other officers of the General Staff there.

Private Gould's next superior will be Second Lieutenant Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, of New York.

Princes alone won the promotion for Private Gould. He speaks several languages fluently and is regarded as a very valuable addition to the unit. Some time ago young Gould announced that he would only accept promotion on his merit. It was then rumored he was slated for a commission in an engineers' regiment.

In speaking of his promotion Gould said: "I am glad to be of service wherever I am placed."

are trying to have him released from service, but if he says he will prove one of the sturdiest men in the great new army which will be sorted, trained and welded into a formidable fighting unit to do its part in upholding the principles of democracy.

As the lights in the nearby barracks gradually go out after taps, some one here in the ward starts a snatch of song such as "We're Here Because We Are Here," until "Shorty" puts in his appearance and silence reigns until another reville.

Demetrius is right. "We are a all brothers." That is in the army.

BLAZE AT CAMP DIX ASCRIBED TO INCENDIARY.

Unable as yet to establish the cause of a fire that destroyed a big barracks at the eastern end of the cantonment at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, last week, but with all evidence pointing to incendiarism, the headquarters of the Seventy-eighth division will tighten the guard system and improve fire fighting arrangements. Sentries were doubled this week.

Evans F. Benners, of Moorestown, president of the Burlington County Firemen's Association, will confer with General Kennedy today on a workable system for cooperative fire fighting work.

Men from the burned barracks have been quartered temporarily in other buildings. A new building will be erected at once.

Sub-Rosa Stuff From the 311th

"Pop" Mottley has gotten sore eyes watching for his discharge from Washington. Stick to it. "Work." It may come yet.

Some swagger sticks don't carry who carries them. Ralph Dilibro has one now and he twirls it just too cute for anything when he goes down to Wrightstown to see the girl who gave him a free meal the other night.

The sorest lot of boys in camp are the boys from Linden. The folks back home seem to have forgotten all about them. Every time a car rolls in with a new load of "good things" from Plainfield the Linden boys "groan in the spirit," because they don't come from a regular town. But the old assertion that "one touch of nature makes the whole world kin" holds good at Camp Dix and Linden is always let in on the Plainfield packages of eats. Maybe some day the stay-at-homes in Linden will find out the war is going on, although one of the boys was heard to remark, "They don't know Washington is dead yet."

The boys say if Jack McCarthy doesn't stop talking in his sleep they will surely kill him. As soon as he hits the bunk every night he goes over on his back and starts to jibber about going to France. On the other hand, Jack says he will do some killing himself if the gang keeps on using one side of this "downy couch" for a park bench and sagging it down so low he has to lay on his back or roll out of bed.

It seems hard to believe that Charlie Lolzeaux is getting "cold feet" but we have proof that he sent home for all the woolen socks the folks could find.

Force of habit is a wonderful thing. When the boys sat down to mess the other night, Jack Casey unconsciously rapped on the table and said, "See what the rest of the boys will have."

Dick Harrigan is reducing so he can go to France. He has already fallen away to a ton.

Charlie Drake has changed his claim for discharge from chronic dandruff to acute rheumatism.

The boys want to express their thanks to W. D. Thickstun, of Plainfield, for two fine big bunches of bananas which he sent down this week. They came in mighty good.

John Connolly claims he is raising a moustache, but he hasn't proved it as yet. John is also greatly surprised that the Standard Aero is still in business since he left.

Benny Coon is the figuring trick. He felt the need of a rest so worked up a stomach ache that bluffed the Captain into sending him to the hospital. "The patient is doing as well as can be expected."

Gus Nash is just crazy over his new army shoes, because they are so different. They have square toes, bob nails and are a mile too big. He has had to adopt a new style of walking in order to navigate.

Mike Waldron received his gun the other day and after his first drill declared it was a better weapon than a brick. "By gorry," says he, "whin I got that gun in me hands I could see the Germans droppin' by the doozens."

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

The Plainfield Chapter of the Red Cross received permission Saturday from the Atlantic Division headquarters to supply knitted comfort sets to the Plainfield men at Anniston.

Fritz Kreisler, violinist, will give a concert at the Plainfield High School October 26, under the auspices of the Charity Organization of Plainfield.

Miss Noel J. Bullock, who for more than 20 years has been principal of the Franklin Public School, Saturday announced her retirement because of ill health. During the last year Miss Bullock had charge of the Evergreen School.

The Ransome Concrete Company will entertain its representatives from all parts of the country in this city October 12, 13 and 14.

The Newark Paving Company, while excavating North avenue Tuesday, discovered one of the old fire wells, used in the days of the volunteer fire department.

Rev. Dr. George W. Osmun, brother of Arthur H. Osmun, of this city, will leave this week for France to engage in Y. M. C. A. work among the American soldiers. Dr. Osmun preached in the First Methodist church Sunday.

The new paving work about town has progressed rapidly during the past week. North avenue has been completely excavated by the steam digger and the work of laying the concrete base will probably begin next week. Contractor Bentley's men are now putting in the base on Madison avenue, and it is probable that this portion of the work will be completed by the middle of the month. One half of West Front street between Madison avenue and Washington avenue is now torn up in preparation for the concrete base.

The Plainfield and North Plainfield Home Defense Leagues have been invited to attend the service at the First Baptist church next Sunday night. Rev. Dr. Phillip B. Strong will preach an appropriate sermon.

Miss Anna Nelson, of Arizona, addressed the women of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, telling of her work among the Hopi Indians.

The Plainfield High School football team will play Morris High, of New York, on the local gridiron tomorrow, opening the season.

The first social event of the season at Mt. Saint Mary College, North Plainfield, was held Tuesday night, when a reception was given to the freshman class by the seniors.

The Open Aid School of Plainfield, which is conducted by the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis Society, will hold a donation tea this afternoon at the school.

The Plainfield Belgian Relief Society is preparing to ship Christmas boxes of clothing, cocoa and canned milk to Belgium.

Mrs. John Constable Moore, of Plainfield, is one of several beneficiaries of the $20,000 estate of her cousin, Maria Theresa Major, who died on September 24 in New York. The will was offered for probate Wednesday.

Newark Exemption Board Denies Claim of Prospective "Student"

Continuing its sessions in Newark the past week the Federal Exemption Board for the second New Jersey district considered 100 claims of which twenty-six were granted and twenty-four denied, the others being held in abeyance. Of the twenty-four denied, five were from Plainfield and one from North Plainfield. The Plainfield cases included that of Egbert Fountain, son of George H. Fountain, of West Seventh street, whose claim has attracted considerable attention. When first examined by the local Board at the Plainfield High School he asked for exemption on the ground that he was to become a divinity student. There is nothing in the draft rules which cover this contention and Chairman Charles A. Reed refused the claim. Fountain carried the matter to the Newark Board and the announcement of this week shows that selected men who proposed to be divinity students had no standing in the class of exemptions outlined by the Government. Fountain will now have to hold himself in readiness for call as a conscript. He is a brother to Rev. Charles A. Fountain, who is an ordained Baptist minister.

The other Plainfielders whose claims were denied and the reasons they advanced are as follows: Harry Ashton, dependent wife; Sandy W. Carter, dependent parents; Cuptal J. Elkess, dependent wife and child, and Charles W. Nagel, dependent wife. The North Plainfield man whose claim is denied is Rudolph B. Salin, who asked for discharge on the grounds that he had a dependent wife.

The Plainfield Exemption Board issued a new list of names Tuesday, detailing exemptions and discharges following consideration of claims. The following men were announced as exempted because of previous entrance to the military or naval service: Louis B. Strong, Nicholas Zelmas, Robert Turrell, George F. Rauschen, Hugh M. Cook, James F. McInnes, William S. Outwater, Fred Murray, Charles O. Dean, Burnett C. Doane, Robert J. Johnston, Kenneth E. Runyon, Alex P. Schenck, Thomas M. Day, 3rd, and John S. Lindsbury.

The following have been discharged because of having dependents or for other causes: John Drop, George Trifilds, John Davico, Takayoski Itotayawa, Henry J. Steerland, Wasig Bezbathchenko, Antonio Mancione, Earth McDonnell, Jr., William F. Meyer, Ellis Johnson and Nick Sulmonetti.

The AEOLIAN-VOCALION

The Phonograph of Richer Tone That You Can Play

THE Aeolian-Vocalion is a phonograph of such superior musical quality that it is virtually a new type of musical instrument.

Tonal richness and fidelity distinguish the Vocalion. Deep voices of the orchestra that the talking machine intones but dully, high notes of the human voice that have sounded so thinly from your records—these and all the tonal beauties with which music is enriched, the Aeolian-Vocalion re-voices undimmed in splendor, unchanged in subtlest quality.

AND THE WONDERFUL

GRADUOLA

This remarkable invention, second in importance only to the invention of the phonograph itself, has made the Vocalion truly a musical marvel. Through the delicate tone-control which this ingenious device provides, you literally may sing with the voices of the greatest artists—play with the skill and technique of the greatest instrumentalists.

All Models of the Vocalion Are Sold on Liberal Charge Terms

The Aeolian-Vocalion is on exhibition and sale, on New York, only at Aeolian Hall. Whether or not you are a possible purchaser, you are cordially invited to hear the instrument demonstrated

Second Draft Will Not Be As Stringent

Representatives of the Provost Marshal General's staff who directed the draft for Governors in the various States have been asked to confer with army officials over regulations for the second draft and are expected at Washington within a few days. The conference, which was called by Gen. Crowder, will take up changes in the regulations as they have appeared necessary from the first call.

Examination of the remaining 7,000,000 men will proceed as soon as the new regulations are completed. They are expected to take the personal interests of the men more into account than the regulations so far have done. Numerous cases appeared in the first draft where men had to close out business because they were called to service. Owing to the haste necessary in preparing the men for the first camps, the War Department did not have opportunity to discriminate between bona fide claims for exemption on the ground of undue hardship and selfish claims.

Although definite arrangements have not been made for the second draft, the War Department will have a reserve list of recruits who may be called to the colors as necessary. The President is authorized under the Draft Law to make three successive calls of 500,000 men each, but he may call in addition as many as are necessary to fill up gaps in the National Guard and regular forces, and officials at Washington expect the next call will be for men to fill out these organizations to war strength.

With the entire first draft 95 per cent. completed, the War Department and other Federal agencies have begun the work of running down slackers and men who have violated the Draft Law are being cornered and arrested all over the country.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

ALBERT VAN V. HIBSON.

Albert Van Veisor Hibson, aged 38 years, son of the late James A. Hibson, died at his residence, 38 Elizabeth avenue, Cranford, at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. Mr. Hibson had complained of not feeling well for several days, and Wednesday morning he decided not to go to New York to business.

Mr. Hibson was born in Cranford and attended the local schools. He was active in civic and religious affairs of the town and an enthusiastic member of several lodges, clubs and other organizations. He was a corporal in the Cranford Home Guard, a member of Cranford Council, Royal Arcanum, and Plainfield Lodge, B. P. O. E. He was also a member of the Cranford Canoe Club and the Sons of the American Revolution. He attended the Presbyterian church and was the chairman of the social committee of the Men's League last season.

Mr. Hibson was at one time active in the affairs of the Cranford Casino Club and served on its board of directors. He was a member of the Ad Club in New York. He was engaged in business in New York city as the sole owner of the advertising agency of Hibson & Brothers, one of the oldest advertising firms in the city, which business he assumed upon the death of his father. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Marea and Carol Hibson.

MRS. JAMES CASSIDY.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Cassidy, the wife of James Cassidy, of West Sixth street, who died on Thursday, was held yesterday afternoon at her late residence on West Sixth street, the Rev. Howard E. Clarke, pastor of the Congregational church, officiating. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends, and there were many beautiful flowers. The interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

MRS. ROBERT GESSEL.

Mrs. Robert Gessel, whose home was at 1341 South Second street, died in Muhlenberg Hospital Wednesday afternoon. She was received at the institution for medical treatment on September 26. The family has resided in this city only a short time. Besides her husband, Mrs. Gessel is survived by one daughter. The funeral was held at the late home last night and burial was made this morning in the Lutheran cemetery on Long Island.

MRS. LESLIE MATHEWS.

Mrs. Annie M. Mathews, wife of Leslie Mathews, died Tuesday evening at her home on Lee place following a long illness. She had been ailing for several years and in the hope of benefitting her health had been spending the entire summers at Lake Hopatcong. At times she seemed to get very much better but for the past six months she had been failing gradually.

Mrs. Mathews was a native of Morris county but had resided in Plainfield about twenty years. She was an earnest Christian woman and as a member of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church had been active in its work. She had a wide acquaintance in the city and borough. Beside her husband she is survived by one daughter.

The funeral took place at the late home on Lee place at noon today and was in charge of Rev. J. W. Flynn, of the Monroe Avenue church, assisted by Rev. Dr. D. W. Skellenger, of Hope chapel. Burial will be made in the cemetery at Dover this afternoon.

CHARLES JANNUZZI.

Charles Jannuzzi, of Codington avenue, who, with his brother, John Jannuzzi, conducted the local produce business of Jannuzzi Brothers, died last Saturday night in Muhlenberg Hospital, following a brief illness with typhoid fever. He had been ill only a few days when the disease took a very serious turn and despite every medical attention the patient sank rapidly. The funeral was held in St. Joseph's church, of which he was a communicant, Friday morning, the requiem mass being said by Rev. Father Hart in the presence of many relatives and friends. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Jannuzzi was thirty-eight years old and was a native of Italy. He had made his home in Plainfield for the past seven years. Beside his brother John, he leaves his wife and three children, all living on Codington avenue.

WILLIAM T. KEECH.

William T. Keech, a resident of the borough for a number of years, died Monday at the home of his niece, Mrs. James Lawler, of 25 Race street. He is survived by one son living in New Brunswick. The funeral was held at Mrs. Lawler's home Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 and burial was in the Piscataway township cemetery near Stelton.

Proceedings in Chancery Court Reveal "Prodigality" on Part of Plainfield

During Chancery Court proceedings at Newark a few days ago, light was thrown upon the prodigality with which Harry G. Runkle, of West Eighth street, this city, assigned away his inheritance and, to a considerable extent, the inheritances of his son Daniel and daughter, Mrs. Mary G. Helberg, under the will of William Runkle, of Orange, who died several years ago, leaving an estate that eventually inventoried at approximately $2,000,000.

Argument concerning an issue of usury, raised by Frederick N. Eberhard, of Hoboken, in behalf of the Second National Bank of that city respecting a claim for $73,000, plus interest, put in by the Logan Trust Company, of Philadelphia, furnished the occasion. The Hoboken bank itself holds an assignee claim for $5,000 and another claim of $40,000 based on a judgment it obtained against Harry Runkle.

It was Mr. Eberhard's contention that there should be deducted from the Logan Trust Company's claim the sum of $7,300, since that amount admittedly represented a premium charged by the claimant for the loan. According to a statement read by Mr. Eberhard, Mr. Runkle, an assignor, got only $50,025.25 out of the transaction. True it was that another check for $7,300 was made out to Mr. Runkle by the Logan Trust concern; but he immediately indorsed it over to the company, and it was Mr. Eberhard's contention that the money represented by that check never left the company's coffers.

But this was not the end of the story, for on Mr. Eberhard's statement there was set down also a check for $430 made out, to Mr. Runkle and indorsed back by him in payment for "legal services," incurred by the trust company in the making of the loan; another for $980.85 also indorsed back to cover "general disbursements" in connection with the assignment; still another for $4,380, indorsed back by way of paying a year's interest on the $73,000 in advance, and still one more for $2,257.20, representing a year's premium on an insurance policy on Mr. Runkle's life.

In addition to the foregoing, three other checks served to complete the transaction. One, for $3,000, went to a Mr. Queal "for introducing the assignor and arranging the loan;" another, also for $3,000, was paid to a Mr. Perawson, who figured in the deal as "broker;" while the third, a check for $386.70, was paid to a surety company.

The accounting filed by the executor, William E. R. Smith, showed Co. that after payment of almost $1,000,000 to religious, educational and charitable institutions and to servitors in the family of the testator, one, the housekeeper, coming in for a legacy of $5,000; Harry Runkle's share of the residue amounted to about $125,000. In addition the will gave him a one-third life interest in a trust fund of $750,000, the remainder of the income going in equal shares to his son and daughter.

When Mr. Eberhard got through with his detailed statement of the alleged usurious transaction, the Vice Chancellor remarked that he was beginning to see how Mr. Runkle, with only $125,000 of residue coming to him, managed to assign an aggregate of some $600,000. Most of the assignments, however, cover not only the residuary legacy, but Mr. Runkle's share of income from the $750,000 trust fund, and a good part of them also the incomes of Mr. Runkle's son and daughter from that fund.

It was argued by counsel for the Logan Trust that under the usury laws of Pennsylvania, in which State the assignment was made, the transaction could not now be attacked.

Upon conclusion of argument the Vice Chancellor reserved decision, but remarked that if there was any way under the law by which he could deprive the Logan Trust of the $7,300 bonus he would do it, saying that the transaction could not be "too severely condemned."

LEAVES FOR CALIFORNIA.

John Watson, of Sherman avenue, left Monday for a combined business and pleasure trip to California. He will be gone about two months in all and will visit Chicago, St. Louis and other large cities on the way back. Mr. Watson is a nephew of Michael F. Watson, of Grant avenue.

Local Board Upheld In Rule On Aliens

The position which the State authorities take on the question of aliens who fail to comply with the selective service law and thus obtain exemption, is reflected in a bulletin which has just been issued, dealing with reopening of cases. Maj. Harry Kramer, of Camden, the officer in charge of enrolment in the adjutant general's office, said yesterday:

"The proceedings which must be followed by a man who seeks to avoid the common duty which mankind owes today, are set forth plainly in the regulations and the proceedings of the local boards who have certified men into camps, are absolutely correct. To remove 2,000 foreigners from Camp Dix, who are there today, would be to compel the local boards to send 2,000 Americans to take their places. There will be enough need of those Americans later.

"It is inconceivable that aliens who know what the need for their services is, will attempt to avoid doing their share of the world's work and local boards will be relieved of the burden of reopening cases through the medium of Bulletin No. 91. There is unquestionably a great flood of public indignation rapidly arising against the exemption of the nationals of other countries, simply because they are not present in their own homes to do duty, and it is only a question of time when attempts to make Americans do the work which a foreigner also should bear, will become so unpopular that the question of alien exemption will cease to be agitated."

Bulletin No. 91, sent out to the local boards, is as follows:

"In order that there may be a complete understanding on the subject of reopening cases, the following is published for the information of all concerned:

"'A man is inducted into the military service from and after the day and hour specified by the local board, or the adjutant general of the State, for him to report for military duty. (The reference to the adjutant general means that those men who have been reported on your pink sheet, and who are notified by the adjutant general to report for duty).

"'After a man is inducted into the military service the local and district boards have no authority to discharge him from the military service.

"'Before the district board has certified back to the local board the name of a man, the local board may reopen the case upon its own motion or upon a request from the adjutant general, but it must immediately notify the district board that it has reopened the case and extend the time for filing proof. This enables the district board to keep its docket accurate on each man's case.

"'After a person has been certified by the district board to the local board and before the local board has fixed the day and hour for a man to report for service, the case is closed except where a local or district board may request permission from the adjutant general of the State or receive a request from him to reopen the case. In such case the adjutant general, upon granting or requesting such permission, will notify the local and district boards.'

"Continuing the bulletin says:

"'It is the purpose of the selective service law to build an army. Men will be encouraged to enter the service and not encouraged to avoid service. We need every man possible regardless of birth or nationality, and local boards are relieved by the above rulings from the continuous requests for the reopening of certain classes of cases.

"'Of course, the main idea of exemption is to avoid leaving suffering behind or in any way encourage the body politic with the support of any one who would be a public charge in the event of a man being chosen as a soldier. In these cases be generous, to others be firm.'"

"TROOPER JACK" PHILLIPS WINS A CORPORALSHIP

Word has been received in Plainfield of the promotion of "Jack" Phillips, who went out with Troop D and is now located at Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala. Mr. Phillips has been an ardent "trooper" from the beginning of his enlistment and gained recognition from the officers for the readiness with which he took hold of everything in the daily routine. When Troop D was dismounted as cavalry and made a part of the 114th New Jersey Field Artillery, the young Plainfielder was made corporal in Battery F. All the "Troop D" boys are highly elated at "Jack's" selection for the place and when he first stepped into his new place was given an ovation.

Mr. Phillips is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy F. Phillips, of Madison avenue, who have another son, Kenneth Phillips, now at Camp Dix. The latter held a responsible position position with a motor concern at Menominee, Mich., when he was selected for the National Army. He immediately came East and went to Wrightstown with the big contingent of September 23. Both "Jack" and "Ken" have hundreds of friends in Plainfield who are watching their progress with great interest.

TAYLOR—CHRISTOPHERSON.

Announcement was made this week of the marriage of Miss Eleanore M. Christopherson to Edward V. Taylor, both of this city. The ceremony was performed at St. Mary's church by Rev. Father Walter Hennessy. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are living in Elmwood place.

New Leaders Named By County Parties At Re-organizations

Both Republican and Democratic County Committees held organization meetings at their respective headquarters Saturday night. Donald H. McLean, of Elizabeth, was chosen chairman by the G. O. P., while the Democrats selected former County Clerk Abram P. Morris to head their organization.

Mr. McLean, at the meeting of the Republicans held at their rooms in Broad street, Elizabeth, was nominated by P. J. Olde. The nomination was seconded by former Postmaster Palmer Charlock. The secretary was instructed to cast the ballot for Mr. McLean as chairman, as there were no other nominations.

J. J. Carroll, city clerk of Plainfield, was unanimously elected vice-chairman. He was nominated by John W. Cliff, of Summit, and the nomination was seconded by ex-Chairman William N. Newcorn.

Robert C. Plume, of Cranford, was named as treasurer, and Thomas Searles, of Elizabeth, as sergeant-at-arms.

Charles A. Otto, the present secretary, was renamed to that office.

In accepting the chairmanship of the Republican committee Mr. McLean made a speech in which he sounded the keynote of the coming campaign. His remarks were greeted with applause. In part he said:

"The committee of a political party should fill an important place in the affairs of the State. Nowhere in the constitution is there to be found any provision made for political parties, yet they are considered a necessary element in our system of government, and recognized by law.

"We must expect differences among ourselves. We cannot hope for unanimous thought on every issue of the day, or the means by which given results are to be attained. In the recent primaries, although it was not generally known, there were several hard-fought contests for membership in this committee. This is as it should be, for without discussion, without criticism, we cannot hope to develop what should be the principles we should advocate, and the men who should be elected to further them.

"This is not going to be an easy campaign for two reasons:

"Our large majorities are apt to result in overconfidence, the result of which to the seasoned campaigner spells defeat. Then, too, we are living under abnormal conditions. Our opponents have all of the advantage which goes with an administration during war times. The minds of our people are bent on one object, and freedom of the world from hypocrisy and selfish tyrannical autocracy. We, as Republicans, while giving our earnest support to the principles of the party and its candidates, must and do feel that patriotic duty requires us at this time to sink our party feelings in devotion to the interests of the State and the Union.

"The end of the war is not in sight, and there is much for New Jersey to do to assist the Government in its great task. We are fortunate in having as candidate for Senator and Assemblymen men suited to the times, three of whom have already voted for legislation which made it possible to contribute of New Jersey's resources and who can be depended upon to co-operate with an aggressive Republican war governor in upholding the hands of the President, as it is the duty of all good citizens and loyal Americans to do."

BIG FIVE TEAM PLANS BASKETBALL AND DANCES

The Plainfield Big Five basketball team which has been organized by Douglas Cowin has arranged for a series of combination basketball games and dances to be given in Saengerbund Hall during the coming winter season. The first one will take place on Wednesday night, October 24, and the succeeding ones will be on each Wednesday thereafter.

For the first game on October 24, Manager Cowin has secured the strong Greenville Catholic Club five of Jersey City. This contest will be called about 9:30 but will be preceded by a match between junior teams. The dancing is to commence on each occasion at 8 o'clock, giving way to the basketball games afterward and resuming when the matches are completed. The program will terminate at 12 o'clock on each occasion. Music will be furnished by Hallstoengster's orchestra of Elizabeth. The Plainfield big five is composed of the following big players: "Dummy" Metzler and "Benny" Rosenson, guards; "Chic" Lanstein, center; Douglas Cowin and Harry Moulton, forwards; Arthur Kyle, substitute. The well-known Shannon brothers, who have played big league baseball for several years are on the Greenville Club five which will come here for the opening game. Mayor William L. Smalley, of the borough, is one of the men who are greatly interested in the support of the Big Five.

WAR DEPARTMENT NAMES WRIGHTSTOWN CHAPLAINS.

The War Department yesterday announced the following assignments of army chaplains, the first, to Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J., with the rank of first lieutenants:

Rev. George N. Murphy, Rev. John A. Farrelly, Rev. Joseph S. McDonald, Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman and Rev. Edward P. Kirk.

Rev. Father McDonald was formerly assistant rector of St. Mary's church, this city.

Consular Service Offers Good Jobs

"Wanted: Trained young men to serve their country abroad as consuls, diplomats and business men."

That is a sign which should be posted in every university in the country this fall. To the man who is now beginning his college education foreign service offers a career in a profession that is not overcrowded, is sure to grow in importance and the size of its rewards, and is essential to that development of international relations which is to be the keynote of civilization after the war.

For the war has convincingly demonstrated that the age of conquest by arms is over. We may have wars in the future, but they will not be wars of conquest; the conquests of the future will be by "peaceful penetrations"—by diplomacy and trade. Even this war will be settled primarily by diplomacy, and Germany has already lost more in prestige by her bone head diplomacy than she has won in territory by her brilliant arms.

Long before the European war the nations were striving with each other to gain spheres of influence by peaceful means. In Africa and the Orient, and in South America, all of the principal world powers strove to gain the trade and influence in undeveloped countries. Only the United States lagged in the struggle, letting the European nations quietly bar her utterly in Africa and the Orient, letting Japan gain a leech-like hold upon unwilling China, even permitting European culture and trade to dominate some of the Latin-American countries.

The war has given us an unfair advantage—a handicap chance to catch up—and we have made some use of it in Latin-America. But all of the European nations perceive that the great struggle of commerce and diplomacy will begin as soon as a treaty of peace is signed. They are training men for commerce even when men are needed so urgently for war. Their salesmen and consuls and diplomats have already been superior to ours. Export has long been a science to them; to us for the most part a haphazard process. Only by putting more men and trained men into the field can the United States maintain the prestige which this war will bring her as a power, gain her fair share of the trade of the world.

The Government is planning an expansion of the consular service by adding paid vice-consuls; and it is establishing new consulates every year. Business in America is awakening to the opportunities of foreign trade. According to James W. Farrell, president of the National Foreign Trade Council, before the war nearly all of the export trade of the United States was in the hands of a score of big corporations, while now thousands of firms are preparing to enter the foreign field by adding export departments and modifying their products in accordance with foreign demand.

These firms need trained men—men educated for foreign trade. The consular service needs men educated in foreign trade and international law. Both need men who can write and speak foreign languages. The diplomatic service is probably more in need of help than either of the others, but since a man must have political influence and wealth to enter this field, it is not worth the consideration of the young man who has only his brains and energy to rely upon.

This demand for trained men must be filled by American universities. The Bureau of Education, realizing this fact, called not long ago a conference of college presidents and professors to discuss the subject of training for foreign service. Under the direction of Glen Levin Swiggett, the Bureau's specialist in commercial education, a meeting was held at which the need for trained men and means at hand for training them were fully discussed.

This conference brought out the facts that only a few of the American universities had offered any courses specifically intended to fit a man for foreign service. It also showed that there is something radically wrong with their methods of teaching foreign languages, since men who have studied French and German four years in college are quite commonly unable either to read or speak it.

It has been suggested that a special institute should be founded by the Government for the training of consuls and diplomats, just as soldiers and sailors are trained at West Point and Annapolis. Wilbur J. Carr, Director of the Consular Service, told the conference that he was not in favor of founding such an institute because the number of new men yearly required is not now large enough to justify it. The number of men required is steadily growing, however, and unless American universities meet the demand for scientific training along this line, such as European universities offer, the Government will doubtless be compelled to supply the need.

Mr. Carr believes that the situation can be met by the establishment in our leading universities of courses which will train men for service as export managers, and salesmen in foreign countries to meet the growing demand of commercial firms for trained men, and by the addition of a few other subjects, make the course also fit the needs of a man who wants to enter the consular or diplomatic service. For a consul, especially needs a good commercial training as a basis. Commercial geography and foreign languages are needed both by the salesman and the consul; while the international and commercial laws which are required of the consul would interest the man who wanted to thoroughly fit himself for commercial service abroad.

The first step is therefore the establishment of courses of training in the universities. But another difficulty lies in the fact that young Americans of ability do not care to go abroad for long periods. They believe that opportunity is better at home, they do not like to expatriate themselves; they are lonely without American society. Hence if the courses are offered, they would not at first be well patronized. But the whole difficulty is one of getting started. In course of time, more men would take the studies, Americans would become more numerous in all foreign countries, as they are now multiplying all through Latin-America. Furthermore, important positions in this country for men with commercial and consular experience will increase; the man who goes abroad as a sales man will look forward to returning some day as an expert manager.

So the American college man who now sets out to fit himself for commercial or consular service abroad may well regard himself as a pioneer. He will have to study the requirements of the busines and get the necessary knowledge where he can—partly in business schools, partly in colleges, partly by reading. He will carry the products and the spirit of America into countries where they have never been before.

ANNISTON BOYS HAVE SHIVERY NIGHTS, TOO

Shivering, cool nights, which natives declare are typical of Alabama weather at this period of the year, have detracted somewhat from the comfort of Twenty-ninth Division soldiers, but the issuance of additional blankets and warmer wearing apparel give promise of relief. The Government authorization for a stove for each tent, and 2,000,000 additional feet of lumber for building tent sides, has also been received with open arms, especially inasmuch as it has come on top of the recent announcement that two and one-half feet of the boards had been appropriated for tent floorings. Five thousand sibley stoves are available at once, and enough to supply every canvas canopy will be on hand shortly. These two orders are indicative of the winter's stay in the South for the division men, and now that they have gotten used to Alabama camp life the soldiers are generally inclined to be in favor of it.

Major Charles L. Dulin, who has had charge of the cantonment construction, will begin work on the tent floors and sides at once. He has also announced plans for the straightening of the Anniston-Jacksonville turnpike, which will cut off more than a mile of the long trip from the camp to Anniston. The work of improving the thoroughfare has already started.

Officers' tents have already been fitted up with electric lights fixtures and similar conveniences are now being installed in every dwelling on the reservation.

Captain W. A. Carleton, of the United States Army Quartermaster Department, has reported to Camp McClellan, and will have charge of the division quartermaster corps. He will be assisted by a number of newly-commissioned second lieutenants from Camp Meade, Annapolis, Md. These men, who had from New York and Philadelphia, have reported to divisional headquarters and registered as follows: Elmer F. Thomas, John C. Cope, John J. Hellft, John Mael. Smith, Walter J. Newman, Warren C. Hurst, Edmund von Gerichten, Mortimer Hellft, Aaron Armour and Theodore D. Goulde.

Details regarding reorganization under the new National Army plan are expected to be announced at any minute. Although several moves have been effected no official announcement has been authorized.

An effort is being made by divisional headquarters to curb the spread of rumor-bound reports in the papers up North caused by the submission of news matter in letters from enlisted men to relatives and newspaper acquaintances. It is not unlikely that a censorship of soldier mail will have to be resorted to in order to wipe out the annoyance. One instance of trouble caused by a letter sent to a Hoboken, N. J., newspaper by an enlisted man came to light yesterday when Joseph Ortlieb, Sr., a wholesale meat dealer, left his business and hurried from Hoboken to Anniston. After he had read reports of a serious injury sustained by his son, First Lieutenant Joseph Ortlieb, of the Fourth New Jersey Infantry, and would not be comforted by letters from his son explaining that the latter had had only a slight mishap. The result was his wild goose chase to the South.

MISS ENGH'S ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Brown, of Bayonne, gave a delightful dinner party at their home this week, during which they announced the engagement of their niece, Miss Agnes Engh, of Bayonne, formerly of this city, to Cornell Clapp, also of Bayonne. No date has been set for the wedding. Miss Engh lived in Plainfield for several years and has a wide local acquaintance.

RUSTY NAIL WORSTS SOLDIER.

Sergeant William Coyle, of this city, who is in the cantonment at Petersburg, Va., as a member of the Medical Division of the Signal Corps, is in the hospital at that place suffering from a badly infected foot. The trouble came about through his stepping on a rusty nail which penetrated the flesh to the bone. In a letter received by a friend yesterday, Sergeant Coyle declared the injury was very painful but that he considered dangerous by the surgeon in charge.

House Takes Up Moratorium Bill

A practical moratorium for soldiers and sailors, to save them and their families as far as possible from financial loss or suffering as result of inability to meet their obligations at home during the war, is provided under the civil rights bill, debate on which began in the House Wednesday. The bill is certain to be law before adjournment.

In the interest of the fighting men the bill is little less important than the insurance bill, which has already passed the House and is now in the Senate.

The civil rights bill prevents eviction of the wife or children of a soldier or sailor from any property renting for $50 per month or less for non-payment of rent unless a court finds that their ability to pay has not been affected by his absence.

On a petition for such eviction the court is directed to stay proceedings for not exceeding three months and then make such adjustment of the situation as may seem proper. The Secretary of War or the Secretary of the Navy may order an allotment of the soldier's or sailor's pay to go for payment of such rent in their discretion.

Any person attempting to evict a soldier's family without a special order of a court after hearing, as provided in the act, is subject to one year's imprisonment, or $1,000 fine, or both.

No mortgage or land contract can be foreclosed against a soldier or sailor during the war or six months thereafter without a special court order.

Where necessary to protect property interest of others the court may order repayment of the money paid by a soldier as instalments on the purchase price or real estate, or it can make such other order as is necessary to conserve the interest of all parties.

Policies of insurance up to $5,000 for each soldier or sailor written before the war must be continued in force even though premiums thereon are unpaid, unless it is shown that the insured is equally as able to meet the premiums as though he had not entered the military or naval service.

In case of death, such lapsed policies must be paid, less the accrued premiums. Provision is made for remuneration by the government of insurance companies for loss suffered as result of continuance of insurance policies in force without payment of premiums.

In order to secure the benefit of the insurance moratorium the soldier or sailor must make application therefor on a special blank to be supplied by the government.

Foreclosure of the property of any soldier or sailor for non-payment of taxes during the war or for six months thereafter is forbidden. It is provided that unpaid taxes interest at the rates of six per cent may be collected but no other penalty shall be assessed.

Any soldier or sailor who is homesteading public land when he enters the service is protected against loss thereof through failure of residence or failure to pay taxes.

No judgment against a soldier or sailor in any suit at law can be entered because of failure of appearance, unless a court finds that his interest is not affected by his absence. Any person bringing suit during the war or for six months thereafter must filean affidavit showing that the person sued is not in the military or naval service. In default of such affidavit no judgment can be entered until the court has appointed an attorney to represent the interest of the defendant and the court may require a bond of the complainant to insure the defendant against any loss as result of his absence.

A soldier or sailor defendant is not bound by any action of an attorney appointed by a court to represent his interest and in no event is his right to bring suit for recovery of a judgment entered against him prejudiced by any court action during the war.

At any stage of a court action to which a soldier or sailor is a party the court may order a stay of proceedings until six months after the war.

New City Hall Contract

terms stated in said proposal, has during several weeks past given the subject matter thorough consideration and investigation.

The committee has had the benefit of the advice and experience of the architects and others familiar with the building operations and is satisfied that no better offer or lower price can be obtained. Mr. Kenny who was identified with the corporation to which the contract was originally awarded and the employment whereof has been terminated under the contract by reason of its failure, is, we are convinced, actuated by a laudable desire to make good as an individual so far as lies within his power, the failure of the corporation which bore his name to peform its undertaking to the city. He is so intimately familiar with the operation that he is better qualified than any stranger could be to supervise the completion of the work. He bears an excellent reputation and seems to have the sympathy of the creditors of the defunct corporation. This is evidence by the fact that sub-contractors on our City Hall building who may have lost money by the failure of the Kenny corporation, have expressed their willingness to make new sub-contracts with Mr. Kenny individually and thus enable him to carry out the proposal under consideration. In view of the constantly rising prices of everything connected with the building trades the fact that these sub contractors are willing to now give him the benefit of prices of a year or more ago for work or materials which they could now dispose of to others at prices now current is illuminating. Mr. Kenny in offering to complete this contract without a dollar profit to himself is displaying, we think, a commendable spirit.

Our architects have communicated with most of those who have suffered or may suffer financial loss in connection with the building from the failure of the Kenny Company, explaining to them the present proposal and asking if they saw objection thereto. The architects report that no single objection has been expressed to them, but on the contrary, several interested have expressed approval of the plan. If the proposal is accepted and carried to a successful conclusion the building will be completed practically on time and within the contract price. Whatever may remain above the actual cost of completion will inure to the benefit of the creditors of the B. F. Kenny corporation. In the judgment of your committee this offer should be accepted and action taken as promptly as possible since winter rapidly approaches and delay will create expense and loss.

The committee further recommends the payment of five hundred dollars ($500) to Miller & Brady on account of their heating contract with the city, as per Architect's Certificate No. 22.

The committee further recommends the borrowing of three thousand five hundred dollars ($3,500) for the City Hall account in order to provide funds to take care of current payments.

CITY HALL BUILDING COMMITTEE.
Leighton Calkins, Chairman.

What Good Is a Lid?

Several otherwise excellent burial vaults have tops that are simply laid over the casket and left to their own devices. This, of course, is handier and much cheaper. But what of its safety? The Norwalk Vault leaves nothing to chance; its top is securely cemented on by hand, and top and bottom become one solid piece of masonry. Naturally, therefore, the Norwalk is sold everywhere the best is wanted; and naturally the best undertakers always recommend the Norwalk—it gives them a chance to guarantee the burial. Your undertaker can give you the necessary information.

Federal Order Makes Coal $8.22 a Ton Here

Commission Will Be Appointed to Adjust Differences Between Plainfield Dealers and Consumers

By complying with the strict letter of the law as drafted by authorities at Washington, following the investigation of coal conditions through out the country on the part of the Federal commission, Plainfield dealers find they are entitled to charge $8.22 per ton for the ordinary household grades of the comodity. This is only a fraction over than the figure held for some time as they have been asking $8.25 per ton on a cash basis.

The extreme dampness and cold on Tuesday of this week, resulted in heavy demands on the local yards and although some of the dealers had portion out certain grades very sparingly there proved to be enough on hand to satisfy everybody. From Elizabeth and other nearby cities come stories of a shortage now and a possible famine later but such a condition does not exist in Plainfield.

It is true that some dealers do not care to accept any more orders except from regular customers because one may be shy of what is wanted. The dealer, for instance would be unable to furnish nut or egg grades at present but would have a sufficient quantity of stove and pea. On the other hand another yard might be found lacking in pea and egg grades but would have stove and nut, and so on through the whole list.

In fixing the retail price of coal, the government secured conditions and figures from all parts of the country. After making allowances for the increased cost of everything during the past two years the commission fixed upon 1915 charges as a basis and allowed the dealers to make 25 per cent more than the net profit of that year. It was the general impression in Plainfield as well as in other places that the dealers would be antagonistic to this standard but as a matter of fact the writer believe it is a good proposition. One reason for this is the fact that the government wants to get the coal selling placed on a cash with a plan that is considered feasible. When this is brought about it will be a means of further reduction as present charges are based on the credit system. An idea of what this means will be gleaned through the information that a conservative estimate places the $2,000,000 at the total of bad debts on the Plainfield dealers books within the last few years.

The government's plan for supervising the retail selling of coal includes the appointment of a commission for every state. This commission will name a state committee and the state committee will name a committee to care for conditions in every municipality of more than 2,500 inhabitants. Below 2,500 the district will be cared for by the nearest local committee. The committee for each city like Plainfield, for instance will hear all grievances from consumers and also arrange such matters as the dealers as may arrise from time to time. The New Jersey committee will be named today, according to current report.

Arthur Goodenough of the firm of Sadler and Goodenough, the Madison avenue coal and supply dealers, has been in Washington during the past few days acquainting himself with every detail of the commission's instructions in behalf of the Plainfield dealers. He has been in conference with Commissioner Garfield and has been reporting back to this city by telephone. He returned home last night and today, his partner, Mr. Sadler, will take his place at the capitol, so this way the very latest details will be received by the Plainfield coal men in a full and concise manner, enabling them to deal with the local public in a manner best calculated to carry out the idea of the commission.

Mr. Wadley was interviewed at his office by a Record reporter yesterday and gave the following excellent view of the coal situation in this city: "While the coal situation in this city is not quite as bright as it might be, still I feel it is far from serious. All dealers are more or less short of some sizes of coal, but they have enough coal on hand to supply the immediate needs of their customers. It is true that in some parts of the country the shortage in coal is so bad that it really looks as if there would be a coal famine, however it is a fact that at this time of the year there is always a great demand for coal and it is impossible for the Operators to meet the demands made upon them for immediate deliveries. Just at the present time most of the coal is being shipped to the Great Lakes in order to supply the Northeast. H. A. Garfield, the U. S. Fuel Administrator stated under date of October 10 that as soon as navigation closes on the Great Lakes shipments will be diverted to the Eastern points and distributed where most needed. He further states that he anticipates there will be a sufficient supply of coal available for all necessary requirements.

Regarding the Government regulation of prices, Mr. Godenough, of our firm, has spent most of the week in Washington and has been in touch with the Fuel Administrators office. He is getting the necessary data in order that we may adjust our prices to meet the Government regulations. We have gone carefully into this matter and as far as we can now determine, there will only be a decrease of three cents per ton from our regular cash price, which was $8.25. We have adjusted our prices in order that we may comply right to the letter of the law and we are now selling coal for $8.22 per ton. All coal is being sold for cash only as the Washington authorities are very desirous of getting the coal business on a cash basis. This will enable all dealers to pay cash for their coal which will tend to help in the production of coal.

There seems to be a general feeling that coal dealers are not taking kindly to the Government regulation of their business. I want to state in the most emphatic way possible that all coal dealers who are awake to their opportunities are more than delighted with the way the Government has taken hold of our business. If there were no regulations in effect there is absolutely no question but there would be a most serious shortage in all domestic sizes of coal. We feel that we can not give too much credit to those who have had charge of this matter for the efficient way in which this big proposition has been handled. I know that there have been some hardships to bear, because it is impossible to adjust every little detail in a moment's notice, but the coal dealers throughout the country are confident that the Government will give them a fair deal and they are content to wait until such time as the Local Fuel Committees have been appointed, at which time the minor difficulties they are encountering will be adjusted."

MISS CALLAHAN IN FRANCE.

Thomas Callahan and family, of East Second street, received word this morning that Miss Helen Callahan had arrived in France as a member of the Red Cross division accompanying a medical unit from Brooklyn. The date of her sailing was not made known, and no information as to her whereabouts came until the message of this morning. The many friends of Miss Callahan will be delighted to hear of her safely reaching the war zone after passing through the submarine infested waters about Great Britain.

The condition of Rev. Father Carrick was reported by Muhlenbergs Hospital today to be unchanged.

Red Cross Headquarters Asks Larger Attendances

Although the activities of the local chapter of the Red Cross Society are going on with most gratifying success, the officers of the organization feel the need of large attendances at the headquarters on Watchung avenue. Sessions are held there daily and while the response on the part of Plainfield women has been most encouraging the facilities are such that much larger numbers would be appreciated. Much has been accomplished in the past three months, yet not nearly the amount that could and should be done if every one would realize the need and would give a part of each week to work at headquarters. There have been many hearty workers but these need the inspiration of the presence of many others who have not yet been at headquarters. A hearty welcome awaits everyone. Eight auxiliaries to the Plainfield chapter have been organized during the past three weeks and each one of these is now well under way and proving a splendid help. Attendances at the auxiliaries have varied from sixteen to sixty-four. The members busy themselves during certain hours in knitting, sewing and making surgical dressings. The Auxiliaries are as follows: St. Mary's, North Plainfield; East End, West End, Washington Park, Watchung, New Market and South Plainfield.

A new feature of the Red Cross Work is the Junior Red Cross activities in the schools. This work has been started at the High School and Grammar School, at the Hartridge, Seminary and Wardlaw Schools, Miss Hartridge, chairman, and Dr. Maxson, treasurer. Various kinds of work are being arranged for the boys and girls. The former have already done some carpentry work and the latter will do sewing, knitting and surgical dressings. The little children will also have a part.

The knitting committee would appreciate it very much if those who are knitting on wool from the Red Cross would return the finished article as soon as possible. Notice of the arrival of a consignment of wool which is expected any day, will be given in the papers. In addition to the allotment of five hundred sets of knitted garments to be sent through division headquarters to the military camps and abroad, the chapter is hoping to provide for the men who went south with Troop D, Company K and other enlisted men and the members of the National Army at Wrightstown. Contributions for the wool fund will be much appreciated. Odds and ends of wool, of any kind and color are in demand for the knitted squares to be made into covers for invalids, children particularly like to make these.

Major Irwin Seeks to Curb

Radical steps will be taken by Probation Officer Charles W. Irwin, of this city, to solve the juvenile delinquency problem and put an end to the large number of cases of young offenders arraigned in police court.

Major Irwin announced this week that in the future he intends to take advantage of an act passed by the 1915 Legislature, which permits him to proceed against the parents of juveniles who frequently break the laws.

Under this law, "Any parent, guardian or person having the custody or control of any child or children, who shall abuse, abandon, be cruel to or neglectful of said child or children, shall be deemed to be guilty of 'cruelty and neglect of children,' and upon conviction thereof, be fined not to exceed $100 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year."

It is also provided that the judge may place such children in the temporary care of a society having as one of its objects the prevention of cruelty to children. In this case the court can order the parents or guardian to pay a certain sum for maintenance. If the defendants fail to pay the money they can be arrested and the original sentence imposed.

Major Irwin is clearly of the opinion that this law gives him power to proceed against parents. The solution of the juvenile delinquency problem has been hampered because the parents escape punishment, he declared to a Record reporter, and when they can be apprehended for the wrongdoing of their children, he believes they will exert considerable more influence in keeping the youngsters out of mischief.

"If a man is fined $100 for the criminal tendencies of his son, he is much more liable to be interested in sent to an institution, where they have to be supported by the State.

"I believe this plan will cut down the number of offenders materially, and at the same time save the State the expense of maintaining a number of boys at the State Reformatory at Rahway and the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg. Many of them encounter evil influences in the home, and their confinement does them no good, with the result that soon after they are released they are on our hands again.

"Parents are responsible for their children's welfare, but this law will have to be invoked before some of them can be made to realize it to the fullest extent."

A law of 1912 also permits the authorities to proceed against the parents of juvenile delinquents. Under this act the parents can be found guilty of a misdemeanor.

Laborer Killed at Scott Press Works

In full view of a score or more of workmen who were powerless to aid him, Gaetano Copobianco, an Italian laborer employed at the Scott Press Works, was killed at the plant yesterday morning. The man had been doing some painting near the main shafting and in a manner not known his clothing became entangled on a protruding part. He was whirled about and killed almost instantly. The body was terribly mangled before the power could be shut off.

County Physician F. W. Westcott was summoned and gave permission for the removal of the body to the undertaking rooms of J. & C. A. Hicks. The funeral will be held there tomorrow morning and later from St. Joseph's church in the borough. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Copobianco was thirty-three years old and was known at the shop, where he had been employed for the past year, as "Tom" Whitehead. He lived with his wife and two children, one of them an infant, at 142 Duer street. He is also survived by his parents and two brothers residing at Bernardsville.

Chairman Reed Resigns From Draft Board

Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, who has been chairman of the Plainfield district draft board since its appointment by Governor Edge last summer, yesterday tendered his resignation from further incumbency of that office. Notification to this effect was sent to the State House at Trenton together with the name of former City Judge William R. Codington as a possible eligible for filling the vacancy. The Governor immediately wired an inquiry to Mr. Codington and the latter responded in the affirmative. His appointment was accordingly announced and from now on he will preside over the sessions of the local board.

The other members of the Plainfield body are Charles W. Runyon, of this city, and County Physician F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood. In retiring from the office, Mr. Reed gave out the following statement:

"In retiring from the Exemption Board, I wish to publicly express my appreciation of the generous and efficient help which was freely and patriotically given to our board by both men and women. Plainfield's corp of physicians and dentists, both general practitioners and specialists, have demonstrated their high value by the result of their work in connection with this draft. They cheerfully contributed day after day, their valuable time and services, as did also busy laymen, stenographers and others. In the early stages of the work we were without experience or system. We were like sailing without a chart and under forced draught; unknown without landmarks. Constant changes by Washington of rules and regulations and natural misunderstandings by the public added greatly to our troubles. We proceeded as best we could, actuated solely by a determination to perform our duty without fear or favor and confident that time would justify our actions. Every decision made by our board has been unanimous. If we have made mistakes, they will be rectified. In every case where a claim for exemption was filed it was granted to the citizen had the right of appeal. In every instance where we granted a discharge the case, with all papers on which we based our action, is automatically appealed by the United States Government to the District Boards which will carefully review our action and reverse it if we were wrong. In retiring after over three months of service, during which I have devoted almost my entire time to the work, I am satisfied that on the whole it has been well done and that those who take it up will find the channel charted and the beacons aglow to guide them on their way. It is not a cheerful task nor one to be regarded lightly, and those who perform it will deserve the sympathy and support of our citizens.

"I feel greatly relieved by my release and will be glad to devote again my whole time to the affairs of my clients who have shown me great consideration during my absence from their service."

"Opening Gun" in "Dry" Campaign Next Sunday

Every man and older boy in town is invited to atend the big Mass Meeting for men which will be held in the Plainfield Theatre this coming Sunday afternoon, October 14, at 4 o'clock, which will be the "opening gun" in the Church Cooperative Association's Anti-Saloon Campaign.

Dr. Charles Steikle of international reputation will be the speaker. The committee believes it could not have made a better choice if it had search the country over, as it is claimed Dr. Steikle never fails to make a hit matter what his subject may be. On Sunday he will speak on "Liquor, Labor and Personal Liberty." Dr. Steikle is a member of the International Association of Machinists, Local No. 434 of New York City. During the past twelve years he has attended every convention the American Federation of Lables and has written hundreds of articles for the Labor Press of the United States, every year during the past ten years. Recently he made a World wide study of the liquor problem and is prepared to answer all the arguments of the liquors dealers. A. N. Neil is chairman of the committee of arrangements and has secured a fine soloist for the occasion. The doors will open promptly at 3.30.

Seven Plainfielders Now Discharged From Camp Dix

Charles Drake, of Richmond street, was discharged as a member of Company A, 113th Infantry, at Camp Dix yesterday, making the seventh Plainfielder who has failed to pass the rigid physical examinations conducted by the army surgeons. The work of final acceptance is still going on and although several more from this district are being held for possible developments there is a probability that no further "returns" may be made from the remainder of the eighty-two selected men sent to Wrightstown as the first part of the local quota. The other six men who were discharged previous to Drake were: Joseph Berry, James G. Munro, Stanley Hansel, John C. Mosley, Daniel P. Kiely and Harry B. Woodruff.

A total of about forty of the Plainfield boys were given permission to return home over the past week end and tomorrow those who did not get away last week will be given the same privilege. The time off begins at 11 o'clock Saturday morning and the limit is 10 o'clock Sunday night, making a thirty-six hour stretch. Many of the boys made arrangements to get home by automobile while others not so fortunate were compelled to take the long trip over the railroad via Elizabeth, or Trenton.

Plainfielders who make automobile trips to the camp for visiting purposes will be pleased to learn that the State Highway Commission voted yesterday to appropriate $100,000 to repair the main roads leading to the cantonments at Wrightstown and at Tenafly. There was some question as to whether the government or New Jersey should make the expenditure but after Governor Edge had made a plea to regard the interests of Jersey people who would visit the camp the commission voted to go ahead without further parley.

Company A has formed into permanent squads and will begin the more intensive military training in an organization which will likely remain unbroken during their service.

The soldiers, who present six feet of brawn and muscle are allotted to squads where the members are of like physical proportions and the smaller ones are banded into squads by so arranging the fighters a uniformity is attained. It is the usual idea that comes when the rejections and transfers from an organization have been about completed. This will mean more barracks chances for the boys, a re-arranging of their bunks, so as to have the squads together.

Advising all the members of the National Army to procure swagger sticks as the best means of preventing their thrusting their hands in their pockets, Captain Breen Tuesday gave a lengthy lecture to the men at Camp Dix.

It is seems that the soldiers, until recently clerks, factory and mill hands are unaccustomed to the biting winds which have begun to sweep across the camp, and their first impulse is to put their hands in their trousers pockets. This is unbecoming a soldier, and it prompted the captain to dwell for some time on the subject.

There is nothing so unlike the soldier than a man with his hands in his pockets, said, and to some it may be difficult to grow out of the habit. The best remedy, he suggested, would be to get swagger sticks which they could carry at all times and this method would provide a reminder of the rule prohibiting the hands in pocket fashion.

Intensive training was begun this week, and Captain Breen in addressing the men, pointed out the rules of the system and urged the soldiers to pay the closest attention to the teachings of the officers.

While the world's series was being played in Chicago the boys at camp felt right at home, inasmuch as the scores were flashed to headquarters there almost as quickly as they were received in the cities.

The boys who remained in camp Sunday—that is those who failed to receive passes to go home—were not without entertainment. Aside from the host of visitors at the camp, there was "amateur night" at the Y. M. C. A., in the evening and several rattling boxing bouts were staged. A ring of war between members of the 312th machine gun company and the headquarters company of the same regiment, excited interest. The machine gunners won the match.

Religious services were held Sunday at 10 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A., being conducted by the chaplain, Harry P. C. Cressman. Four Masses for Catholics were held on Sunday. Three of the Masses were held in the Knights of Columbus hall at 6.30, 9.00 and 10.00 o'clock. A 9.00 o'clock Mass was also held in the Y. M. C. A. There are are present four Catholic chaplains incamp besides Father Walsh, who is in charge of Knights of Columbus hall. The chaplains are Father McDonald and Father Murphy of Jersey City, Father Kirk, of Hoboken and Father Farrelly of New York.

The Knights of Columbus hall will be dedicated Friday night. Columbus Day, with a dance for the officers and their friends, and by an enterment for the men on Saturday night.

Sunday's visitors were especially profuse in their gifts and the men were supplied with plenty of edibles.

Formal Opening Announced for King's Daughters "Infirmary"

Announcement has been made by the City Union of King's Daughters that the new building on West Front street adjoining the Day Nursery property, which is to be used as a children's infirmary, will be formally opened next Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 16. On that occasion the Union will be hours of 3 and 6 a reception is to be held in charge of the executive officers of the King's Daughters organization. Tea will be poured by the members of the Loyal Daughters and Charity circles. A cordial invitation is extended all interested, to be in attendance.

The new building is a commodious two story affair and was presented the King's Daughters by Thomas J. Mumford, whose generosity has frequently been extended to the organization in other ways. The purpose for which it is to be used is that of taking care of convalescent babies, those that cannot be given the proper attention at home and yet are not sufficiently ill to be sent to the hospital. It is a work that has long been needed in Plainfield and will not only take a great burden from the tired mothers, but may also be the means of saving many tiny lives. A competant attendant will be in charge of the little patients at all times caring for them until they have been absolutely restored to health.

On three afternoons each week a "well babies' station" will be conducted for the purpose of examining children. In some respects it will resemble a clinic. Where it is found that the health of the child can be bettered by a change of diet the proper formula will be furnished the mother. If the child is in need of expert attention it will be assigned to the convalescent ward for the proper treatment. This work will be in charge of Dr. Howard Pratt and Miss Sidney R. Titsworth, assisted by Miss Ethel Humphrey of the city nursing bureau.

The King's Daughters have been conducting a splendid work for many years at the Day Nursery which is located on West Front street directly opposite Liberty street. At this institution children whose mothers have to work out by the day are cared for by the attendants from early in the morning until late in the afternoon. This worthy object was started on a small scale in a building on West Third street but grew so rapidly that larger quarters soon became imperative. Mr. Mumford interested himself in the project and made the King's Daughters Union a present of the fine big building now occupied. Since his original gift he has made numerous others including the complete furnishing of the various rooms and large tract of ground in the rear used as a playground when weather conditions permit. On numerous occasions the facilities of the Day Nursery became crowded and very frequently children were found to be in need of medical attention not always accessible. It was this problem that resulted in the plans for an "infirmary" and Mr. Mumford again made it possible for the City Union to develope its noble efforts. This new department designed to promote the health and proper growth of infants will fill a long felt want and no doubt prove as equally successful as the nursery plan.

According to its annual custom the King's Daughters will conduct a "tag day" tomorrow for the benefit of both its institutions. Young women will solicit contributions in all parts of the city and the money thus secured will be applied to meeting the expenses of the nursery and the infirmary. In the past years the people of Plainfield always responded nobly to the King's Daughters importunities and although numerous demands have been made upon the public for war purposes it is believed the additional work that is to be carried on will result in a most ready response.

Splendid Work of the C. O. S.

How to carry the family unit through these times of high prices of food and clothing, and the disorganization of war is the present problem of the Charity Organization Society. In September, 1915, before war orders had given every man a job, the Charity Organization Society had 131 cases under care; this September, when men and women everywhere are working to capacity, there were 165, of whom 80 required material relief.

Irresponsibility, discontent, desertion, non-support, separation, all these ills loom large in the record, along with insufficient income, sickness, the widow, the orphan and the aged. The September report shows twenty-five cases of desertion and non-support, eight couples who had divided or separated; six unmarried mothers, and seventy-two married couples who were unable to keep going without the advice or relief or both of the Charity Organization Society. Intemperance was the cause of the trouble in only ten of these disintegrating families; in twenty-nine the cause was tuberculosis; other illness was the factor in thirty-two families; the high cost of living, and the unrest and discontent of the times seem to have played havoc with the rest.

In September the Charity Organization Society helped twenty-four widows; nine aged people were supported in part, and four were cared for entirely. Five children were placed in private homes, and four in institutions. The Charity Organization Society was able to place fifteen of its ill in sanatoria, and fifteen received mental or physical treatment from doctors and trained nurses.

There were six court actions brought, five of which were for non-support. The loan department gave its practical aid to five applicants.

During the month there were 43 cases investigated. The number of volunteer workers reached 30. There were three meetings, and at attendance of fourteen at committee meetings.

The Board of Trustees decided to hold the annual meeting on November 13 at the home of the president, S. T. Carter, 940 Woodland avenue. W. M. Wherry and Henry L. De Forest were asked to take charge and make the evening even more interesting than usual to the public which supports the Charity Organization Society.

Dr. Zelie's Action Mystifies Friends

The resignation of Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, as pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, announcement of which was made last Sunday morning, is still an absorbing topic for discussion in local religious circles. While Dr. Zelie's determination was known to the session of the church, the congregation had no intimation of what was coming and was accordingly taken by surprise when the clergyman read his resignation just previous to the benediction at the morning service. Why Dr. Zelie is leaving or what his plans are for the future have not been made known in any way. A Record reporter asked him yesterday if there was any further statement to be made beyond that given at the church and was told that there was "absolutely" nothing. The resignation is to be acted upon at a congregational meeting of the church next Wednesday night.

Dr. Zelie came to Plainfield from Schenectady, N. Y., in 1903. He was called by the Crescent Avenue church to succeed the late Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, who had held the pastorate for many years and who resigned to become pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church of New York, considered the leading Presbyterian congregation in America. Dr. Zelie prepared for the ministry in the Yale Theological School and first began his duties as minister in a church at Cleveland, O. He remained there for seven years and then went to Schenectady, N. Y., as pastor of the Dutch Reformed church. He had been serving the congregation for two and a half years when the call from Plainfield was received and accepted.

The fourteen years of clerical activity in this city have been fruitful ones for the Crescent Avenue congregation. Dr. Zelie is possessed of unusual progressive characteristics and has labored hard for the various branches of the church and other parts of the city. These include the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church, which was Warren chapel when he came here; Hope chapel and Bethel chapel. The congregations of these institutions regret as deeply as does that of the parent congregation that Dr. Zelie is leaving. He made regular visits to the chapels and was at all times ready to aid the respective pastors in any undertaking.

The resignation read by Dr. Zelie at the service Sunday was strictly formal and was as follows:

"In accordance with the form of government, the session of the church calls a meeting of the congregation to be held on Wednesday, October 17, at 8 o'clock in the chapel for the purpose of acting upon the request of the pastor that the congregation unite with him in an application to the Presbytery to dissolve the existing pastoral action."

TRINITY C. E. ELECTS AND HOLDS ANNIVERSARY.

At a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity church held Monday at the home of Miss Edna Dilts, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Miss Myra Dunavan; vice president, Oscar Dilts; second vice president, Miss Elizabeth Brokaw; corresponding secretary, Miss Edna Dilts; recording secretary, Miss Lulu Trewin; treasurer, Harold C. Gayle. The retiring president, Miss May Randolph, made an appropriate address, in which she urged the members to continue giving good support to the executive officer and the new president. Miss Myra Dunavan, also spoke. Reports for the year were read and a social hour was enjoyed in conclusion.

The society celebrated its thirty-second anniversary by conducting a special program at a gathering in the Bible school room of Trinity church, Tuesday night. The speaker for the occasion was John T. Sproull, the State president.

HARVEST HOME SUPPER AT NETHERWOOD REFORMED.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Netherwood Reformed church conducted a Harvest Home supper at the church last night. It was well attended and a substantial sum was cleared for the benefit of the church coal fund. Following the serving of the supper a program was enjoyed which included vocal selections by Mrs. Joseph E. Edgar and addresses by Dr. William Bruce, of Yonkers, N. Y.; Rev. John Y. Brosk, of Trinity Reformed church, and E. J. Baxley, the new secretary of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A.

POND ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION PLANS BENEFIT DANCE

Members of the Pond Athletic Association are working hard to make a complete success of the big dance and reception to be given in Saengerbund Hall, next Friday night, October 18, for the benefit of the Pond A. A. Basketball team. Halbdoerster, of Elizabeth will furnish music and decorations have promised to attend from athletic organizations in Plainfield and vicinity. The Pond men have conducted dances before but they declare the coming affair will be the biggest event of the kind they have ever had anything to do with.

The committee in charge of the arrangements is composed of: Richard D. Scott, chairman; Douglas Cowin, Albert Jaeger, Samuel Bowden and Thomas Higgins.

Nuggets of Church News

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The directors of the Association were very enthusiastic over the program of activities which W. H. Baxley, the new secretary, presented at the recent meeting. All of them agreed that if only one-half of the program could be put into effect this season, that the Association would have the best year's work on record. They pledge Mr. Baxley their hearty support in all of his plans and went on record as favoring a thorough study of the cost of building materials, etc., for the proposed new building. The majority of the directors are of the opinion that the price of materials will go higher, or certainly will not be any cheaper for many years to come. The best authorities of the International and State Committees of the Y. M. C. A. have been consulted, as well as many well-known business men, and all are agreed that some definite provision for the new building should be made in the near future if the Association is to keep pace with the splendid work which is being done by the Y. M. C. A. in the Army and Navy in this and other nations. Every soldier and sailor will come back home on enthusiastic supporter of the "Y." If the Association is to take care of these men in an adequate way and at the same time promote an aggressive character building work among the young men and boys who remain at home, then the need for the new building is imperative.

It is very likely that an industrial secretary will be added to the Y. M. C. A. staff. His work will be entirely with the men of the shops and factories in town. Every employer and employe will gladly welcome the practical work of such a man. In other cities where similar work has been conducted for a number of years, the results have been way beyond expectations and there is no reason why it cannot be done here. A conference will be held in the near future, between the directors of the Association and representatives of the various shops, at which time the matter will be discussed and definite plans presented.

At the last meeting of the board, the directors of the Y. M. C. A. passed a motion indorsing the movement which is making a fight to rid our city of the saloon business. They feel that they not only wish to voice their disapproval of the saloon business, but they are ready and anxious to do their utmost to see that every man lines up on the right side of this all-important question. The Y. M. C. A. can never do its best work in the building of Christian character while the saloon exists.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL BEGINS AT MONROE AVE. CHURCH.

A session of the religious training of children was opened at the Monroe Avenue church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. J. W. Flynn was in charge and was greatly pleased with the large attendance. Fifty-eight pupils were enrolled at the outset and more will be added later. A fine corps of teachers has also been secured to aid in the undertaking.

The school is divided into ten grades and the curriculum will include instruction in the Bible, the catechism, church history, missions, the practical privileges of the Christian life, the place of the church in the Christian's life, and in practical daily Christian living.

MR. HOLMES' NEW POSITION.

William Holmes, of Sycamore avenue, who is bass soloist at the First Baptist church for many years, has been engaged to act in a similar capacity for the Washington Heights Baptist church, New York. He will enter upon his new duties next Sunday. The Washington Heights church has a very large congregation and has always had a splendid choir.

GAVE OYSTER SUPPER.

Class No. 2 of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school held an oyster supper and a "parcels post" sale in the lecture room of the church last night. The supper was served from 6 until 9 o'clock and was enjoyed by a large number. Beside the social features an informal program was enjoyed before the affair came to a conclusion.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mrs. Bertha M. Dorber of Park avenue, to James W. Meeker, of East Front street. The ceremony was performed on August 28 by Rev. Dr. D. W. Skellenger, pastor of Hope Chapel at the latter's home. The only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. James N. Fenner of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Meeker are making their home on East Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook of Grant avenue have gone to Allentown, Pa., where they will make their home in the future.

Arthur McVoy, of West Fourth street, returned home this week after a two months' trip to Michigan and other states in the Middle West.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stewart, who have been recently occupying their home on West Eight street, have gone to New York for the winter. They have taken possession of their apartment at 903 Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Rand, of Crescent avenue, will leave today for Atlantic City where they will remain until the holidays after which they will go to Florida for the winter. Theor home at 155 Crescent avenue has been leased by Mr. Rand to A. V. Searing, Jr., who will take possession about the middle of the month.

Louis Chevrolet, the well-known automobile racer whose home is at 1242 Park avenue, this city, has announced the engagement of his sister Miss Martha Chevrolet, to Albert H. DesNoyers, of Watchung avenue and Johnston's Drive, the borough. The wedding date has not yet been set. Mr. DesNoyers is one of the North Plainfield young men accepted by the Somerset county draft board and is now awaiting call to the National Army.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lindeman, of West Third street, are entertaining the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Long, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, who have been making their home at 802 Second and Washington street, have removed to their new home on East Sixth street, near Park avenue.

Miss Sarah Carney, of Central avenue, who was badly injured in an automobile accident two weeks ago, was reported from Muhlenberg Hospital today as improving steadily. Although it will be many weeks before she is able to be about again she has now passed the danger mark.

Harry Seader, a former borough resident, who is now a member of Company E, 22nd U. S. Infantry, left yesterday for Fort Niagara, N. Y., after a visit with his sister, Mrs. Amos Woodruff, of Chatham street.

John Oswald, who has been confined to his home on Westervelt avenue with a broken ankle received several weeks ago, was able to be out yesterday for the first time. It will be able to return to business in about three weeks.

Corporal Donald Paterson, of the U. S. Marine Corps, is enjoying a ten days' furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Paterson, of Central avenue.

Gustave Frederick, formerly of the Hotel Kensington, who left the city a month ago to assume the leadership of the orchestra in a New York hotel, is spending a few days with friends in town.

Miss Daisy Compton Terry, daughter of Daniel C. Terry, of East Front street, was married Sunday afternoon at the home of her parents to Oliver Jackson, of Oakland, Cal., now in the Naval service of Uncle Sam on the Battleship North Carolina. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. D. W. Skellenger, pastor of Hope Chapel and was witnessed by many relatives and friends. Miss Florence Terry, sister of the bride and William Jackson, brother of the bridegroom, acted as bridesmaid and best man respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Dunavan, who have been residing at East Front street and Watchung avenue, have removed to 942 Park avenue.

Mrs. V. W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, was reported today as being greatly improved and giving every evidence of complete recovery.

Edward Scorb, formerly of this city, but more recently of Denver, Col., is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Scorb of East Fifth street.

New War Tax Law Affects Men Whose Wages Are $1,000 a Year

Preparations are already under way for the collection of the war taxes provided by the war revenue act, which became effective when it was signed by the President on the fourth of this month. Activity is pronounced at the offices of the collector of internal revenue for the Fifth District of New Jersey, which embraces Essex, Union and other North Jersey counties and has its headquarters in the Kinney building, Newark.

If you have an income in excess of $1,000, if you deal in any or several of the many articles taxed under the new law, if you are the responsible officer of a corporation or other organization for profit, or if you do any of a number of other things, you have a direct interest in these preparations and are likely to find it an unpleasant matter if you prove remiss in performing your part of the duty placed upon you by the act and its prescribed methods of collection.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue, which has followed the bill through its various stages of construction and enactment, has examined the law, and although there are points that must be made the subject of careful study and legal interpretation, the bureau is able to give a general idea of the law and to furnish valuable information as to the manner in which it will be administered and what every citizen must do to comply with its requirements.

The new law affects not only all individuals receiving incomes above $1,000 a year, but also all corporations, joint stock companies and associations, all distillers, rectifiers, wholesalers and retailers, holders of distilled spirits intended for sale or to be used for manufacturing purposes, and all dealers in fermented liquors or malt liquors, wines, cordials, domestic and imported; all dealers in soft drinks, table waters and carbonic acid gas; all manufacturers of and dealers in cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, snuff and cigarettes, tobacco, snuff and cigarettes tobacco, snuff and cigarette papers; all carriers of freight, express or passenger and operators of pipe lines; all dealers in life, marine, inland, fire and casualth insurance; all manufacturers and wholesale dealers in motor vehicles of every kind, music instruments, motion picture films, jewelry, boats, sporting goods, perfumes, cosmetics, medicinal preparations, chewing gum, cameras; all proprietors of amusement places, including cabarets all persons executing legal documents of any type; all traders on produce or stock exchanges and boards of trade; all importers of merchandise; and all manufacturers or imporgers of playing cards.

In addition to original and additional taxes that will apply to articles or commodities manufactured, imported or produced on and after October 1, 1917, the law provides for a "floor tax" on certain articles. This is a tax upon articles or commodities held in stock or in storage by manufacturers, dealers and holders. The "floor tax" is in the nature of an additional tax on tax-paid articles or commodities, and is an original tax upon articles for commodities that heretofore have not been subject to the internal revenue tax.

In some instances, the "floor taxes" are at different rates than the rates prescribed for the same kind of articles manufactured or produced on and after October, 4.

Collectors of internal revenue and other revenue officers have been fully instructed as to the requirements of the law and the procedure to be followed in assessing and collecting taxes. All persons affected by the law should communicate with the nearest internal revenue officer and ascertain specifically how they are affected and what they must do to comply with the law.

The law makes it the duty of every person, firm or corporation, whose possessions or income are taxable, to make true and correct returns upon which the tax may be assessed and collected. This information is of vital importance to every citizen because, notwithstanding that the Bureau of Intarnal Revenue is the agency charged with the administration of the new law and the collection of the taxes, it is not regarded that the bureau shall find out and inform persons, firms or corporations of their responsibilities. Such persons, firms and corporations must for themselves make returns, which in the course of admistration the bureau will verify.

Sever penalties are provided for failure upon the part of any person, firm or corporation to make the correct inventories and returns required.

In the collection of the tax that will apply to articles or commodities in stock on October 4, it is the purpose of the bureau to make, through its field force, preliminary inquiries of every person liable to tax to ascertain his possessions in the way of taxable goods and the amount of tax he is liable to pay. This preliminary inquiry will be conducted over a period of probably a week. Within thirty days from the date of enactment of the new law every person, firm or corporation liable to "floor tax" must file with the collector of internal revenue a true and correct inventory, under oath, of goods in his possession subject to this tax. Attached to the inventory must be a synopsis of the inventory and a statement of the amount of tax to be paid on the goods covered by the inventory.

DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA DANCE

Court Watchung, No. 281, Daughters of Isabella, have issued invitations for a masquerade Hallowe'en dance to be given at Columbus Hall on Wednesday night October 31. No particular style of costume is to be worn but all persons on the dance floor are expected to be masked. Miss Bessie Parent is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Fritz Kreistler, the Great Violinist Will Play Here For "Sweet Charity"

A concert by Fritz Kreistler is to be held at the High School on October 26 for the benefit of the Charity Organization Society of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

A concert by Kreistler is a rare event, no matter how frequently one may hear him, and the Committee in charge has spared no pains to make this one of the finest appeals to music lovers which has been made in this city, but have also endeavored to consider in the program the great public who do not claim to be musical, but who enjoy music. The Committee in charge has endeavored to provide an entertainment which will be well worth the price asked, and at the same time will bring in a handsome sum for the poor and needy whose problems are always with us and need solution in war time as well as in peace. During the past year the number of cases handled by the Charity Organization Society has been more than in former years, and the higher cost of everything, together with the increased competition of other appeals to the generosity of this community has made the question of financing the work more than usually difficult. Few people realize how much is saved to the taxpayer by the activities of this society, nor of how much the services of this society have been to the Aims Committee of the Common Council in its work during the past two years.

Kreistler first came to this country as an infant prodigy of fourten years. America has done so much for the success of his career that American audiences have always felt a proprietary interest in him. It was Kreistler who was the first among modern violinists to revive the work of the early Italian composers and this is one reason why his work has had such an appeal for the general public as well as for the connoisseur. Tickets are now on sale at Miller's Drug store.

Home Defense Men Told They May Be Called to Service

That many of the men now constituting the Plainfield Home Defense League, would be in the active service of Uncle Sam before the present international crisis is settled was one of the numerous pertinent statements made by Captain L. R. Breen, commander of Company A., 311th Infantry in an address before the Home Defense League Saturday afternoon. The occasion was the first annual Field Day of the semi-military organization and not only included practically a full quota of the "defenders" but also comprised Mayor Leighton Calkins, Members of the Common Council and other municipal officers. Captain Breen's presence came in a pleasant surprise as it was not known he was in the city until he appeared on the Watchung Spring Water Company's grounds on Mountain avenue, where the gathering was held, in company with Councilman Charles A. Lofgeaux, now a private in the 311. This regiment includes practically all of the eighty-two Plainfield young men sent to Wrightstown as this city's first contribution to the National Army.

Captain Breen was introduced to the gathering by Mayor Calkins and after a few introductory remarks in which he declared he was a soldier not an orator, said:

"Having spent six years in Germany, I believe I am in a position to say that this country has a most formidable opponent and every man must realize what a tremendous task is ahead. Before Prussianism is absolutely and irreparably crushed for all time most of you men forming this Home Defense organization will be bearing arms in your country's service. At the present time Germany has 6,000,000 trained soldiers in the field and can call on reserves as young as sixteen years of age who are versed in military tactics. The man power of France is exhausted, that of England is nearly depleted, Italy is on the verge of bankruptcy and Russia as an active ally is lost because of the hopeless entanglement of internal troubles. England and America have agreed that no peace terms will be considered until the menace of Teutonic militarism is swept from the earth. The task has devolved upon the United States and the people of this nation have already entered into the maelstrom with a determination that is bound to bring about success and forever earn the gratitude of the peacefully inclined peoples of the earth."

At the conclusion of his address, Captain Breen received a rousing ovation. He is a clean cut man and a splendid type of the American soldier. His home is in Watertown, N. Y., but he has had years of experience in travelling and in military matters.

Mayor Leighton Calkins also spoke and remarks were made by officers of the league and prominent men. During the dinner, which was a feature of the program, the Mayor presented a silver police whistle and searchlight to Captain J. Whitney Baker, whose efforts have brought the league to its present high state of efficiency. The gifts came from the members of the organization and were intended to convey the feeling of appreciation which the men hold toward their leader.

It might be said that the Field Day was a complete success in every respect. There have been other outings of this kind conducted locally in past years but none of them "held a candle" to Saturday's demonstration. Too much credit cannot be given the committee for the manner in which every detail was handled and succeeding committees will have a hard job meeting the standard set by the leagues first effort.

The members of the organization and their friends first met at Police Headquarters on Sycamore street from which point they proceeded to the grounds on Mountain avenue. This spot, situated as it is just at the base of the mountains is an ideal one for an outdoor "get together" of red-blooded men. The air was a trifle chilly at times but nobody minded this in the rapid succession of events. First came the dinner. It was gotten up by "Eddie" Brown with the assistance of J. A. Staats and Horace G. Adams, a trio of connoisseurs who know just what healthy individuals like and the way to put it up. Here is what was on the menu fish chowder, stewed clams, broiled chicken, southern yams, white Murphys, rolls, gingerbread, coffee, cigarettes and cigars.

After every diner had had three or four "second helps" and a period of speech making had given them an opportunity to come back to earth, the program of athletic events began. A feature of this was a tug of war between teams captained by Paul R. Collier and J. Whitney Baker. Collier's team was not composed of Herculean gentlemen especially but those he did have were there with the science and figuratively pulled Baker's men "out of their boots". The two teams were made up as follows: Colliers—Walter Manning, Jeremiah Manning, George B. Zimmer, Charles Dutcher and Harry Johnson; Baker's—Samuel Sabbacher, J. R. Edgar, R. Blake, Charles Lant and Leslie R. Fort.

A three legged race was won by Walter Siegrist and George E. Leiche, Cory Adams and Charles W. Collins being second, and Ralph Schoonmaker and Claude Roseberry, third. Walter Siegrist also won a jumping event, Walter Long and Henry Brower being second and third. A shoe race was won by Jeremiah Manning, Charles Kinney and Douglas Anderson finishing second and third.

Jeremiah Manning won further honors by taking first prize for batting a baseball the greatest distance. Edward Craig finished second and George Andrews third.

Prizes of rosettes and suitably marked ribbons were awarded in each instance. These were presented by "Maurice", a sleight-of-hand performer who was the "headliner" of an array of entertainers engaged for the occasion. "Maurice" is exceptionally clever in card tricks and palming and had the boys guessing as to whether or not they were going to get their prize after they won it. Most of them caught hold of the trophy as if they expected it to disappear in the thin air and were greatly relieved to find they had it in their grasp. Besides "Maurice" other numbers on the program were furnished by Lawrence Sharkey, the "Irish Senator", who told a string of yarns about "Pat and Mike" that created roars of laughter and Butler and Owens, colored banjo and guitar experts. It was sundown before the fun came to a close and if any man in the crowd did not get his money's worth the Home Defense League will gladly return the "one bone" assessment.

The committee which arranged and conducted the outing and to which unstinted praise is given was composed of R. F. Huntsman, Chairman, T. R. Van Boskerck, T. H. Keller, Charles H. Dunham, A. L. Otteson, H. W. Brower and E. A. Brown.

News of the Theatres

Leo Hayes Star of Irwin's "Big Show"

The announcement that Leo Hayes is the chief comic of Fred Irwin's "Big Show," which will be the attraction next week at the Plainfield Theatre, is almost enough to guarantee the comedy efficiency of that production. Hayes has scored many triumphs in the big musical comedy successes and is even better known to the audiences who frequent the New York theatre, where musical comedy is presented than he is in burlesque. He has a long list of successes to his credit but one of the pieces which enjoyed a phenominally long run, and in which he made a notable hit, was "The Newlyweds," a musical comedy. Hayes is a particularly good acquisition for burlesque as his talents are very broad and can be adapted to almost every line of comedy. His comedy methods have little about them to suggest the work of other comedians, and he prefers to cut loose into new comedy by-ways rather than stick to the beaten track in which so many comedians are plodding along. That is why—or one reason why his work is found acceptable to burlesque audiences everywhere he is seen. Hayes possesses among other qualifications some very nimble feet and is rated as one of the very best of dancing comedians in the present production Hayes is seen as the Spirit of Rag Time, who came to Bill Shakespeare and wises him up as to the reason why his dramas are today pronounced a drug on the market. He tells him what the public wants and it is through his suggestions that Shakespeare tunes his muse to a modern demand and becomes wealthy. Hayes appears in grotesque guise and a laugh greets his first appearance. From that time on he and the laugh current are constantly mixed up and he does all that could be expected of any comedian to make a show a big laughing success. When Hayes sings a song he gets a punch into it which just makes you laugh until the tears trickle down your face and you hold your sides. Hayes also figures as the district attorney in the big laugh riot, "Who's Who in Court," which comes as the finale scene of act one. Here he is grotesque and his attempt at dignified court-room procedure shows him in an altogether different line of comedy from the rest of the program. This show is guaranteed to please and to furnish laughter in generous quantities to those who are not accustomed to give themselves up much to laughter.

Fine Vaudeville at Plainfield Theatre

In addition to "Joe" Belmont and his unique novelty offering, "Birdland," the bill opening at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday for the last half of the week contains many surprising offerings. Closely following the Belmonts in popularity with the audience yesterday afternoon and last night was Miss Anita Johnson, styled "A dainty maid with dainty songs." The young lady lived up to the designation both ways and by her charming personality and well rendered catchy airs received five encores at each appearance. She is one of the best single performers appearing at the house this season.

"Joe" Belmont, whose work is known to everyone through phonograph records, is assisted in his act by Marie Belmont. The latter accompanies Mr. Belmont's whistling in the flute and harp. The production must be seen to be appreciated. Other numbers on the program for today and tomorrow are Jimmy O'Brien and Adele, whose comedy and songs found instant favor; Pearl and Haroun, in the comedy sketch, "Before Breakfast;" Biss and Gagne, acrobatic novelty, and W. E. Whittle, ventriloquist par excellent, carrying special scenery.

The schedule for the first half of next week at the theatre includes vaudeville Monday afternoon and night. Fred Irwin's "Big Show" Tuesday afternoon and night, and a mass meeting on Wednesday in behalf of the Plainfield Liberty Loan "Drive." Manager Shannon has donated the theatre for use on this occasion and in consequence there will be no vaudeville either Wednesday afternoon or night. The last half of next week will be given over to a vaudeville entirely.

PLAINFIELDER SHARES IN THE PARISH ESTATE.

New Jersey property is disposed of and New Jersey residents made heirs under the will of Henry Parish, for fourty-four years president of the New York Life Insurance & Trust Co., who died September 18 at his summer home on Long Branch. Two-elevenths of its estate, after the deduction of specific bequests, goes to a daughter, Mrs. Edith Coolidge *Kingsford, of Short Hills, and a simi*lar inheritance to Henry Parish, Jr., a son, of Llewellyn Park, West Orange.

The proceeds of a life insurance policy, believed to have been large, are willed to Seymour Parkins of 134 East Sixth street this city. The Long Branch home, The Moorings, goes to a son, Edward Parish, of New York.

"HUB" STINE QUALIFIES AS "SKEETER" KILLER

The State Civil Service Commission announced yesterday that Herbert A. Stine, 11 Mountain avenue, North Plainfield, had qualified first with an average of 87.83 for the position of assistant superintendent of the Union County Mosquito Extermination Committee.

THE COMMUNITY'S THANKS TO CHAIRMAN REED.

Only those in a position to know the workings of the Plainfield Draft Board can appreciate the loss this city has undergone in the resignation of Charles A. Reed from that important organization. It has, indeed, been a splendid service he has rendered this community and there are those of us who appreciate the personal sacrifice he has undergone without so much as a murmur of complaint. Even when disgruntled relatives of selected men poured in biting sarcasm by means of unsigned communications he stuck to his arduous task, neglecting his private practice and working day and night to fulfill his accepted obligation of mediator between the Government and the individual. That he performed it with distinction no fair-minded person can deny and he should go out of office with the heartfelt best wishes of every believer in American principles of democracy.

The workings of the Plainfield Draft Board, like those of other districts, cannot always be appreciated by the fickle public all too frequently swayed by sudden impulses. A word dropped thoughtlessly in a chance conversation is sufficient to start unjust criticism and it has so happened locally. People who made remarks or wrote anonymous letters forgot that it is the authorites at Washington who are responsible for the conscription laws and not Mr. Reed. They also lost sight of the fact that the board had certain rules to go by and there could be no deviation from them. Where there was any shadow of a doubt about the acceptance of a registrant, the decision was reached by the unanimous vote of the board. In cases of dispute over physical fitness the examining physicians had the say. Where the dependency clause was offered in claim for exemption, decision was reserved until a full investigation could be made. If there were any of the latter nature that failed to place the shirking claimant in the ranks it was because the Government gave the opportunity and not through any partiality on the part of Mr. Reed.

Many other districts of the State have not fared so well as Plainfield in getting a hard working, painstaking group of judges. The best evidence of this is furnished by the number of accepted men discharged by the higher boards or returned from Wrightstown. The instances here have been remarkably few, furthermore there was never a time in the first big rush that Mr. Reed was too busy to hear the plea of a father or mother, believing they had special privileges or unwilling to aid an accepted man prove his contention of exemption rights. We mean no slight of either Mr. Runyon or Dr. Westcott when we say that Chairman Reed has accomplished the most difficult part of the draft proposition in this city and that the going is deeply regretted throughout the entire district. Judge Codington may prove a worthy successor but he will not have to undergo the problem of organization, systematizing and educating that confronted the retiring official. He has gone but his labors have paved the way for further dispensation of justice and democracy.

WINNING BACK THE WAYWARD BOY.

County Probation Officer Irwin, whose home is in Plainfield, has given out that he intends to make drastic use of the juvenile delinquency act passed by the Legislature which permits him to precede against the parents of boys who continue to make their appearance in the police courts. By imposing fines or inflicting punishment in some other way on the father or mother, he believes it will act as a great deterrent on the culprit's future law-breaking tendencies. In an interview the Major says:

"If a man is fined $100 for the criminal tendencies of his son, he is much more liable to be interested in the boy's future welfare."

The Major may be right and then again he may be wrong. Of course, the General Assembly made the law and he has a right to enforce it but nevertheless it seems as though some other method might be adopted by which any youth of normal mind could be placed in the straight and narrow path and kept there without mulcting the helpless parents to the extent of $100 or more and who are not in a position to pay that sum. Just as soon as any Plainfield father contributes a fine as large as $100 because his boy has been bad, that same boy is going to get a fearful drubbing that will make him an enemy against society for the rest of his time. Boys are susceptible to moral influences and if the right idea is adopted he can be made a good citizen. There's always a route to a bad boy's heart, and the teacher or one in authority who has the power of choice to select the right route has a measure of happiness assured and the consciousness of doing the full part toward reclaiming the boy.

In one of the public schools of the Kansas town of Wichita was a boy who was considered the worst boy in the school, if not in all the schools. He ran away from school and lied about it and swore like a pirate. There was never a fight at school or on the way to or from school that he wasn't mixed in it to a finish. The days he was in school there was generally trouble of some kind and it was always blamed on him. He robbed birds' nests and killed birds and was cruel to dumb animals. He was headed for the reform farm, which is half way this side of the penitentiary.

Now it happened that this boy came into one teacher's charge and to her he became a problem as big as he had been for other teachers to handle, who, if they did spare the rod, thought nevertheless they were helping further to spoil the boy. This teacher who found the route to the bad boy's heart loved birds. She interested the boy in birds, taught him the names of the different kinds, pointed out the difference in birds, pointed out the difference in plumage, song, habits and ways of building nests. She found that the boy wasn't bad after all, but just bubbling over with life and human nature and for lack of an interest in him undertook to make it both interesting and uncomfortable for others about him. She found the way to reach his heart and he became a different boy; from a truant he was transformed into a model pupil with a fine credit for attendance and scholarship. The teacher simply got him to turn about without his ever feeling that he was the subject of reform effort. There was no lecturing him on the duties of good behavior. He was interested in something worth while. He learned bird life, and learning he tramped about the woods and fields and got close to nature where few can possibly go wrong, so wholesome is the influence and surrounding.

The reclaiming of this one boy started a whole school on a study which spread through all the schools of Wichita in which bird clubs were organized and the children became so interested in one form of life that they were more alive to all other school activities.

*What was done in Wichita can be done in Plain*field and if Major Irwin and his associates find out what each wayward boy has a particular fancy for, the $100 fines will be mighty few and far between.

WRITING ARTICLES WITHOUT THE FACTS.

The two-platoon argument is now proceeding upon its merry way. Several prominent citizens have entered the discussion during the past week and from indications more will be rushing into print before another seven days have passed. Some of the articles that have been written have merit, some of them have not. It is quite apparent that those who seek to oppose the granting of a decent working day to the firemen are anxious to enter their protest at the beginning of their communications and then end up by asking that they be given more details. We ask them in all fairness why they don't acquaint themselves with facts before placing themselves on the negative side. Their argument puts us very much in mind of a fellow who said he was "again' the government" just because it was a government and for no other especial reason. Any man in this community who wants to know the particulars of the two-platoon system down to the very last detail can have it by application to the firemen who are asking for it. All the information is at their finger tips and a few moments' conversation will suffice to find out what is what.

One of the men who came before the public during the past week is William G. Besler, president and general manager of the New Jersey Central. Mr. Besler is a very able man and as the world views him, a very successful man. He rose from the ranks, as it were, to his present position as head of one of the greatest railroad systems in the United States. We take it for granted that when Mr. Besler was a young man working at laborious tasks on a western railroad there were times when he wanted more pay, if he did not he is in a class all by himself. When he wanted the additional piece of money in his envelope he knew the company would never give it to him unless he did ask for it and he also knew if he allowed the big officials to tell him that the time was not opportune for any raise in wages he would still be getting *his fifteen or twenty dollars per week in*stead of $500 a week or thereabouts.

Mr. Besler devoted a large part of his communication to quoting Secretary McAdoo and other Washington officials on the question of inopportune enterprises or innovations. After that he explains that he is not fully informed on the two-platoon subject and wants more information. If he is not acquainted with the proposition how can he justly use the words of Secretary McAdoo or Secretary Baker for argument when he is in ignorance of the merits of the two-platoon system. The firemen who are in a position to know say it will increase the efficiency of the department and we believe they are telling the absolute truth. Would it not have been better for Mr. Besler to have asked one of the firemen about the matter before he took occasion to influence the public against it through his own recognized standing in the community. It would only have been fair play and that is all the lads who are asking for a working day enjoyed by other men want. The boys at headquarters and the fire houses in town have not the opportunity of reaching the public the same as Mr. Besler has and as the head of a big corporation his word naturally goes further.

Regarding the portion of Mr. Besler's letter in which he refers to Secretary Baker's remarks about every resource being brought into play for the country's service at this time there is only this much to say: The firemen of Plainfield have been doing their bit in the great crisis and have never been found wanting at any time. They have contributed liberally to every financial plan in this city and stand ready to offer their services when the time comes. There are no shirkers in the fire department and by asking for the two-platoon they are only doing what other people have done before without endangering the safety of the nation. Play fair, Mr. Besler, the next time you write on a subject with which you are not acquainted.

PRISON FARM PROJECT PLEASING TO CITY JUDGE.

The purchase of the Roberson tract in New Providence township by the Union County Board of Freeholders, to be used as a prison farm, is a source of great satisfaction to one Plainfield man especially. This is City Judge William G. DeMeza, who as far back as five years ago, advocated a plan of this sort as a method to make habitual county jail "residents" pay a portion of the expense incurred in their keeping. The idea was not taken seriously at first but it gradually developed until every municipality in this district agreed that it should be done. It is no rash statement to say that from now on Judge DeMeza's docket in the city court will show a decrease in the number of "boarders" booked for a visit to Elizabeth at county expense. The kind of offenders the prison farm seeks to cure will give Sycamore street a wide birth.

The Roberson farm is a tract of sixty-five acres. Some of it is timberland while other acres are tillable soil. The amount expended in the purchase was $6,0000, a very fair sum when prices of land in New Providence township are considered. It is asserted by some officials who have visited the place that the wood on it will alone pay for the cost in time. The people of New Providence township and vicinity made a vigorous protest against the location of the farm in their midst, alleging that the presence of prisoners would jeopardize the safety of women and children and also that the township had already lost considerable taxable property through the location of Bonnie Burn directly next the Roberson place. These arguments are a natural sequence to a plan such as the Board of Freeholders has worked out but there is little likelihood of the complaining township suffering any great danger or financial setback. In course of time the farm will be an asset instead of a detriment as it has been in need of development for a long while. The farm had to be located somewhere and the present site is most adapted to the purposes outlined.

Warden Augustus Hughson, of the Union county jail, is very enthusiastic over the prison farm project. He has only to throw open his cell doors to give a good argument for a prison farm. What to do with the prisoners usually confined in that institution is a problem. At present eighty are harbored and with a prison farm at hand they will be made to work. The produce can at least go toward reducing the cost of their keep.

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When the younger portion of the family had to fall in line for the washtub Saturday nights?

When the fire laddies of one company felt sore for a month if the boys of another company got "first water" at a blaze?

When the boys about town made lots of money on rainy afternoons by "sweeping the crossings" and asking pennies from ladies whose skirts were saved from ruin?

When you could throw ashes on your own or your neighbor's sidewalk?

When the boys spent all their spare nickels for yellow-backed novels in which "Dare Devil Dick, the Avenger," slew at least 100 Redskins before breakfast every day?

"The Bank That Pays 4%"

"Save and Have"

Never before has saving been so necessary. Our soldiers and sailors alone cannot win the war. Our soldiers and sailors backed by thrifty people at home are an invincible force for victory and peace. The future of the United States, after the war, will be more secure if every American will spend carefully, save carefully and invest carefully.

Saving requires no technical knowledge, no large capital. It requires only the WILL to save and the CHARACTER to keep at it.

Charles Lolzeaux and five of the Plainfield boys had the honor of being members of the first guard to be thrown out in camp. Some honor—Nit. Reason—Temperature about 10° above.

"Fat" Harrigan reduced considerably this morning in the new game called swat. The game is played by getting behind a man with a one-quarter inch strap and swatting the man in front of you till he gets in line. The Captain says it is to develop speed. Harrigan says it develops a sore spot.

Mac Carthy is the champion loafer of Company A. He has never been known to drill more than an hour at a time without getting sick leave and sleeping for about twenty-six hours per day.

Since Farrel got kitchen detail for a week he has developed a fine pair of soft, silky white hands from scrubbing floors and pots and pans.

Hinvest got a company bath last night. Someone discovered the needed one and a committee of five was formed to do the job. He said he lost twenty pounds after the job was completed. The committee was: First Brush J. Casey, Second Brush J. McCarthy, First Mop J. Connolly, Second Mop Gus Nash, Chief Inspector G. Fischer.

Bartlau is not progressing very good in drill. His mind seems to be always on the ten pink ladies he left behind him.

Rene Coon was sent to the base hospital yesterday. He evidently thought it was down South, as he made several farewell calls before leaving. Rene has been in the hospital so much of late that we are inclined to believe he is making a hit with some nice, sweet, little Red Cross nurse.

Gus Nash is contracting St. Vitus dance from shivering. He has no underwear and the supply sergeant has none either—that is to give him.

Jack McCarthy has been placed in the awkward squad, due to the fact that McCarthy says if you learn too quickly you will have to go to the front.

Joe Kennedy is very busy on his new duties serving meals and spends all his time doping out new menus.

Jack Casey is trying very hard to be transferred to the Medical Corp as he wants to use his knowledge in that branch of the service.

J. Sullivan cannot get used to army cooking and after meal retires to his own pantry composed of boxes from home and finishes his meals.

The Plainfield boys heard when home that the Plainfield Red Cross were donating sweaters, wristlets, and mufflers and are interested due to cold weather down here.

Private Wilcox has been released from the hospital and is drilling all alone trying to catch up with the rest of the boys.

Ken. Phillips and Elston Haviland leave tomorrow with several boys from other towns to join the engineering camp at Tenafly, N. J.

COUNTY OFFICIALS GET INCREASE IN SALARIES.

Announcement of salary increases granted to several county employes made by Judge Connolly was made at the last regular meeting of the Board of Freeholders.

According to the new schedule, Chief Probation Officer Charles W. Irwin, of Plainfield, will receive $2,200; Chief Clerk George Beck, in the sheriff's office, $1,000; Deputy County Clerk Z. K. Norman, $1,800; Assistant Deputy Neil McLeod, $1,800; Second Assistant Charles W. Runyon, of Plainfield, $1,800; Filing Clerk John Busch, $1,200, and the two stenographers, Frances McCabe and Lucretia Sneed, $80 and $75, respectively.

A resolution that a committee from the board meet with a committee from the Somerset board to examine the bridge on Leland avenue, this city, over Greenbrook, was approved. The committee will report its findings to the board at its next meeting.

To replace Edward M. Wallace, who has returned to school, Elmer Packard was appointed to a position in the office of the county engineer, at a salary of $4 per diem.

The board also decided to replank the bridge on the Raritan road at Robinson Creek, at a cost not to exceed $150.

The committee on grounds and public buildings was authorized to purchase typewriters, fixtures and other office equipment for the various offices in the Courthouse. The appropriation will be fixed so that it will hereafter include a sum sufficient to cover that expense.

To cover the expense at the prison farm proposition, bonds will be issued for $6,000, payable in annual installments of $500 each from October 15, 1918, to October 15, 1930.

437,050 Auto Tags For State Next Year

Under a contract awarded some time ago a Chicago manufacturing concern is making rapid progress in turning out the automobile license number tag plates for New Jersey for 1918. The number of pieces covered by the contract is 437,050.

The output includes 180,000 sets of two plates each for pleasure cars, 20,000 sets of two plates each for commercial motor vehicles, 1,400 sets of two plates each for use of dealers' cars, 15,000 sets of two plates each for motorcycles, 1,500 sets of two plates each for use on trailers, 500 sets of two plates each for livery cars, fifty sets of five plates each for the use of manufacturers.

For 1918 the body of the number tags will be solid white and the letters and figures will be raised and a bright blue. At the top of the tag will be "N. J., 1918." On the last year's tags the State and year designations were on the side, at the right of the registration number. This so restricted the space for the numbers that it was necessary to issue the numbers in letter serials. For 1918 this will be done away with, the serial letters being used in constructive order throughout the year, there being ample space for this on the new style of tag.

On the tags for commercial vehi*cles the word "Commercial" will ap*pear under the license numbers. On the tags for dealers will appear the letter "D" and on those for manufacturers the letter "M" will be retained.

Under the terms of the contract the tags must be delivered to Motor Vehicle Commissioner William L. Dill on November 1. Advices from Chicago received by the latter last week were that the tags would be ready for delivery at the specified time.

The War Department has no plans for the building of a second cantonment in New Jersey.

This was Secretary of War Baker's answer today when shown a dispatch from Atlantic City to the effect that it was rumored there that the government was planning to erect a cantonment in Atlantic County. It was also stated at the War Department that there are no plans for the erection of any cantonments except those now nearing completion.

War Department officials say that the camp at Wrightstown is large enough to handle the selective service men as they will be called to the colors.

A MOTHER'S PRAYER FOR HER SOLDIER SON.

O God of infinite mercy, hear the mothers of this land as we plead before Thy throne for the loved ones we are sending forth to battle for the Right. Though our hearts are bowed with sorrow, we pray not for ourselves; all our prayers, O God of love, are for them, the priceless treasures of our lives. We are willing to suffer, and, if need be, to die, for our country.

We would gladly give our lives to save these loved ones, dearer to us than life itself, who are going out to fight unseen and unseen, to face all the horrors of the battlefield, and some perchance to die, that others may live, but by no word or look will we hold them back when duty calls them to save others.

Give them the manhood to meet this supreme test of life, give them strength of body, of mind and soul to do battle for the Right, and to succor the women and children. Arm them with Divine power to smite evil; keep them in Thy loving arms; yea, though they walk through the Valley of the Shadow of Death may Thy Presence banish every fear and Thy road and Thy staff comfort them.

For three long years the men of our allies have battled for us as for their own homes, and their loved ones have endured the sorrows which now we must face. Our men go forth to help save us from ruin and the world from barbarism. We suffer, but we glory in their manhood. We dedicate our lives to this Great Cause that we may serve behind the lines while they carry forward the flag of civilization.

The prayers of a world in agony, for whom these loved ones are fighting, are lifted up to Thee for these men. They are offering all that earth holds dear, because they have heard Thy voice calling them to the noblest work to which lives were ever consecrated. Thy love, O God, our Father, excels all human love, so we leave them with Thee. To Thee have we committed them.

Into them Thou hast breathed the breath of life in its largest and divinest sense.

In their sacrifice, offering their lives that others may live, they are following in the footsteps of the Son of God Himself who died to make men free from the power of evil. We trust them, O God, to Thy infinite love, and to Thy ever watchful eye. Hold them as in the hollow of Thy hand, for they are doing Thy work and fulfilling the teachings of Him who spake as never man spake, when He taught that greater love hath no man than that he is willing to lay down his life for others.

THE WEEK'S ACTIVITIES IN BUILDING PERMITS.

Among the applications for permits filed with Building Inspector Doane this week was one from the Plainfield Ice and Supply Company for a large addition to the concern's planing mill at North avenue and Berckman street. A great increase in orders has made the present quarters inadequate and the company is more than doubling its capacity in order to care for future work. One of the orders coming in lately is for 300 aeroplane boxes used by the Standard Corporation in the manufacture of Government flying machines. The new addition is to be a one-story frame structure, eighty-six feet long and forty-eight feet wide. It will be ten feet in height. Cliff-topper Grab has the contract for the carpentry work and the company will do the remainder.

Among the other permits filed within the past few days were three granted to Frank Sheriff, the East End contractor and builder. He proposes to erect a three-story business and apartment building at 1464 McCrea place at a cost of $6,000, another three-story dwelling at George street and Watson avenue at a cost of $6,000, and a third building, a dwelling at 1460 McCrea place to cost $1,400. Mr. Sheriff will do the contracting himself and is putting up the buildings for speculative purposes.

J. S. Brodhead, of 1009 Park avenue, has been granted a permit for the addition of a "sun parlor" to his residence at that address. The estimated cost is $550.

John McCollough, of West Seventh street, has been securing estimates for the erection of two dwellings on Darrow avenue, near West Seventh street. One is to be a two-family affair with a single entrance to cost about $6,000, and the other will be a single structure costing in the neighborhood of $5,000. The mason work has been awarded to Howard Huff and the carpentering will be let within a few days.

MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO COLLIDE ON FOURTH STREET

A motorcycle driven by Alden Bubolt, of Duer street, and carrying the owner of the machine, Jacob Josephson, of West Front street, on the tandem, collided with a Ford automobile driven by William Ransome, colored, at Plainfield avenue and Fourth street at 10:30 this morning. The former machine was badly damaged but the only result to the auto was the loss of a rear tire, which was ripped off. All three men escaped injury.

The matter was reported to Police Headquarters and Lieutenant Higgins was sent to the scene. After making an investigation he ordered all parties concerned to appear in the city court tomorrow.

UNION COUNTY WOMEN AIDING LIBERTY LOAN.

After an address by Mrs. H. Otto Wittpenn of Jersey City, women of Union County, meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at Elizabeth, made plans to wage a vigorous campaign in behalf of the second Liberty Loan. It was decided to make a house-to house canvass in every municipality in the county, besides approaching commuters on the trains and passengers on the trolleys. The co-operation of the school children also will be enlisted and mass meetings will be arranged.

Mrs. Robert S. Huse of Elizabeth, who is county chairman, announced leaders in some of the municipalities as follows: Cranford, Mrs. L. B. Mason; Garwood, Miss NeNie Cook; Plainfield, Miss Margaret Meade; Rahway, Mrs. A. B. Brearly; Westfield, Mrs. Paul Q. Oliver. Others will be appointed before the end of the week.

"JACK" TODD IN TOWN.

"Jack" Todd, who has been "somewhere and everywhere" in the United States and Canada since last spring, blew into town last night for a short stay. He is still a member of the Oklahoma land company outfit which pilots a "real estate" car all over the country selling Oklahoma farms.

Four of Seven Men Injured In Auto Crash Still at Hospital

Four victims of the frightful automobile crash on North avenue, between Westfield and Garwood, last Sunday morning, are still at Muhlenberg Hospital, where they are resting comfortably with the exception of one man whose condition continues to be serious. This is George Peth, of 51 South Sixth street, Newark, who sustained compound fractures of both legs and numerous contused wounds about the head and body. The other three are gaining rapidly and may be able to return home within the next few days. They are Leonard Vandervell, 168 South Orange avenue, Newark, who received bad lacerations about the head and body; Robert Marthe, 178 Bergen street, Newark, fractured bones of the wrist, and Adolph Brandt, 36 Norwood street, Newark, lacerated scalp and arm. Those who have previously been discharged out of the seven received at the institution shortly after the accident were: John Redden, 186 South Orange avenue, Newark, scalp wounds; Louis Shapiro, 501 Main street, Paterson, compound fracture of both legs, and Frank Aber, 301 Caldwell avenue, Paterson, fractured wrist. Shapiro was sent to his home by ambulance.

Beside the seven injured, two men were killed, Charles Meyers, driver of the touring car which crashed into a furniture van owned by Shapiro Brothers, of Paterson, and Alexander Bockie, a passenger in the former vehicle. Meyers and Bockie both lived at Harrison. The former was married and leaves his widow and five children.

According to the Westfield police, who were on the scene shortly after the collision occurred, the members of the touring car party were responsible for the accident. Meyers was chauffeur for L. J. T. Castle, Jr., of Irvington, the well-known ice cream manufacturer, and had taken Mr. Castle home early on Saturday evening. In a statement made later Mr. Castle said he had given Meyers orders to place the automobile in the garage for the night but he evidently had gathere up his friends for a "joy ride" to Plainfield. There were six in the party beside himself, all being between the ages of twenty four and thirty-two years. After spending some time in Plainfield the start back to Newark was made at 12:15 Sunday morning. Louis Shapiro and Frank Aber were on the furniture van, the latter driving, when they noticed the touring car approaching. They allege that it was zig-zagging from one side of the road to the other and sought to escape by running their own vehicle to the extreme right of the road. They had almost come to a full stop when the crash occurred.

According to the survivors best able to tell the story, the impact was terrific. The nine men of both machines were hurled in every direction with the exception of Meyers, who was caught under his steering wheel as the machine turned over and was crushed to death. Bockie had been sitting alongside of him and landed on the hard macadam with force enough to crush his skull. The other men lay strewn about dazed and helpless when the first assistance arrived.

Leonard Happ, of Westfield, who, with his wife and two children, were starting out on an automobile tour to New York State, came upon the gruesome scene within a few minutes after the collision occurred. He telephoned the Westfield police for help and then with his wife gave first aid to the men most badly hurt. Afterward he took three of the victims in his car to Muhlenberg Hospital. The bodies of Meyers and Bockie were removed to the undertaking rooms of J. J. and C. A. Higgins on West Fourth street, this city, where they were viewed later by County Physician F. W. Wescott previous to granting burial permits.

The receiving of the seven injured men at Muhlenberg Hospital met with prompt response on the part of doctors and nurses. It was the largest number of persons needing immediate operative attention that was entered at one time since the Westfield wreck in 1903, but all the necessary help was on hand at the required moment. A large number of patients was received at the hospital after the trolly car-autobus collision on West Front street last month, but their injuries were of such a nature as easily remedied for the time being. Not only the local officials, but those of Westfield as well, have since extended appreciative words to Manager Smith for the manner in which the hospital took care of the seven victims.

CITY HALL SITUATION REMAINS UNCHANGED.

No change occurred today in the strike situation at the New City Hall building. Inquiry revealed the fact that no one was working at the structure and there is no prospect of immediate resumption of activities.

The cessation of work on the hall came about through action taken by the Monahan Stone Company, of Newark, which held a sub-contract under the P. F. Kenny Company and which alleges there is a balance of $13,000 due it for labor and materials. A walking delegate from the unions represented on the job ordered all men out Tuesday. This caused a suspension on the part of the other contractors, who are Den. E. Galbraith, plumber; Ryder & Graves, electrical work, and I. F. Miller, steam heat. The argument is now being threshed out in a three cornered discussion between the city officials, P. F. Kenny and the Monahan Stone Company.

In the event of the tie-up continuing a further delay in the completion of the building will result. The other contractors on the job have already placed their men on other work and if the building should be declared "clear" it does not mean that they can begin operations right away.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

The coming winter's session of the City Evening School will commence at the Plainfield High School building next Monday evening at 7:30. No classes in High School subjects or mechanical drawing will be conducted because of a lack of funds, but *special attention will be paid this sea*son to the instruction of foreign born pupils in the rudimentary subjects.

The Standard Aero Club, an organization formed of employes of the Standard Aero Corporation, will give a farewell reception and dance in Debele's Auditorium Friday night, October 19, in honor of Standard folks who are to be transferred from the Plainfield plant to the new one at Elizabeth. The committee who has charge is composed of: J. C. Rolfe, chairman; J. H. Marks and J. A. Steenson.

Mayor Leighton Calkins and Union County Republican Chairman Donald McLean were among the speakers at a meeting of the Republican City Committee in the offices of Reed & Hetfield Tuesday night. The gathering was called mainly for the purpose of giving the Plainfielders a chance to express their preference for local men for members of the county executive committee. Those selected were Frank H. Smith, West End civic Association Township leader, John J. Carroll, James E. Warner, of Cranford, the Republican nominee for sheriff; Arthur E. Warner and Charles L. Morgan, candidates for Assembly, were also present and spoke briefly.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, at a meeting Tuesday night appointed Francis J. Blatz, J. J. Varley, A. E. Kenny, J. J. Carty and F. L. McCarthy as a committee to further the sale of Liberty Bonds among the members of the organization.

Dr. Henry Maxson, superintendent of the local public schools, addressed the Home and School Association of Scotch Plains at the Scotch Plains school last night. The meeting was largely attended and Dr. Maxson's talk was greatly appreciated by the parents of school children.

Having completed the excavation work on North avenue, the Newark Paving Company has removed its steam digger to Watchung avenue, where it is now excavating the block between Fifth and Sixth streets. East Fifth street, between Watchung avenue and Richmond street, is still closed to traffic as it has been for several months, but the finishing touches are being added to the brick paving and the thoroughfare is expected to be opened in about a week. The double tracking of the trolley road has been responsible for the long period the street has been kept closed.

NEW JERSEY CABBAGE WILL BE PLENTIFUL THIS YEAR

As is so often the case, cabbage is comparatively cheap this year after a year of extremely high prices. During last winter it brought as *high as $200 a ton. It has frequent*ly sold other years for as low as ten to twenty dollars. Since the first early shipments from Florida last April, it has been a poor paying crop to producers.

New Jersey growers consider it one of the poorest crops this year. Ever since June, it has netted New Jersey farmers from fifty cents to $1.25 per barrel of about 100 pounds. If, this cold weather the more staple crops advance in price those who have stored away their cabbage will be fortunate. Cabbage can be "put down" easier than most other vegetables. The late keeper varieties are larger and have more solid heads than do the summer kinds. Late flat Dutch and Danish *ball head varieties represent two ex*cellent types of winter cabbage.

New Jersey produces a good many cabbages early in the season, but is not noted for its late crop. New York and Wisconsin are the greatest producers of late cabbages.

D. W. LITTELL, JR., WEDS MISS EDITH A. McCOLLUM.

Miss Edith Anna McCollum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Eugene McCollum, of Short Hills road, Millburn, was married on Wednesday afternoon to Daniel Webster Littell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Littell, of West Seventh street, this city. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. James W. Vaninger, and was witnessed only by the relatives of the two families. There were no attendants.

Following a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Littell left for Norfolk, Va., on a wedding trip and at its conclusion will make their home in Plainfield. The bridegroom is business in New York. Mrs. Littell has a wide acquaintance in Millburn and also in this city. She has been active in Red Cross work in that place and has been treasurer of the auxiliary.

OLD TIME GATHERING AT ELKS' CLUB TOMORROW.

Plainfield Lodge of Elks will inaugurate the fall and winter season of social activity tomorrow night when an old time "get together" will be held at the Watchung avenue club house. The entertainment committee has prepared a program which will include the Van Eps brothers, banjoists; the deLisle Jazz Band and the naval quartet, which appeared at the Plainfield Theatre the forepart of the week. The club chef will serve a hot roast beef lunch in conclusion. All members are urged to attend.

Tax Collector William R. Townsend has announced Monday, November 5, as the date on which he will conduct the customary legal sale of all Plainfield properties on which taxes remain unpaid. The sale will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The number of parcels this year is smaller than at any time since 1912.

In passing sentence on Wendell Loeffler, of 528 West Thirty-ninth street, New York, in the city court Monday morning, Judge William G. DeMeza took occasions to express his opinion of the prevalence of reckless automobile drivers in this city and other parts of the county. He declared he would take the matter up with Motor Vehicle Commissioner Dill for the purpose of conducting a State-wide campaign against drivers who have no regard for the life or limb of other people. Loeffler was arrested at Front street and Park avenue Sunday afternoon by Patrolman Conway, who charged him with exceeding the speed limit. The defendant was fined $5 in addition to receiving a severe rebuke from the magistrate.

Officers were elected and a large amount of routine business was transacted at the annual meeting of the West End Civic Association Tuesday night. Representatives from the Plainfield Fire Department attended the session and spoke in behalf of the two-platoon system.

John J. Kenney, who for the past thirty-two years has conducted a shoe store in this city, sold his business this week to Joseph Lukacs, of New Brunswick. The purchaser took possession Wednesday. Mr. Kenney first opened his store at 138 North avenue in 1885 and three years later removed to the Corey building at Front street and Park avenue, which he made famous as "Kenney's Korner" and where he remained until his retirement this week. He has as yet made no plans for the future but may go on the road as salesman for a big wholesale concern.

The Queen City Social Club, at a meeting this week, made plans to conduct a dance in Doyle and McCormack's studio on West Front street, Wednesday night, October 17. This will be the first social event of the season for the popular organization and a large attendance of young people from the city and borough is expected.

Many young people from Plainfield enjoyed the annual social of the Brotherhood of Drop Forge Workers in Washington Hall, South Plainfield, last night. Music was furnished by Squier's orchestra, of this city. The Plainfielders made the trip to South Plainfield by auto-bus.

DUNELLEN YOUTH MAY BE FATALLY INJURED.

George Durisbo, eighteen years old, of Schwartz place, Dunellen, was received at Muhlenberg Hospital at 12:30 this morning suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries. He was reported at noon as being in a critical condition. Durisbo was discovered lying between the railroad tracks at the Green Brook tanks by the crew of the train reaching this city at 11:45 P. M. How he came to be there has not been learned as yet. He was brought to the North avenue station and the police had him conveyed to the hospital.

HOME MADE CANDY WANTED FOR CAMP DIX BOYS.

A friend of the soldier boys at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, has sent the following plea for home made candy for the Plainfield contingent with the request that it be printed:

"Home made candy contributions for Plainfield boys at Camp Dix are solicited. Leave packages at M. A. Brown's Dyeing and Cleaning establishment, 218 West Second street, on Friday or Saturday. Put your name on the box and it will be delivered Sunday and distributed among the boys from Plainfield. This is one thing for which the boys are homesick. Remember candy destroys the taste for alcohol."

NORTH PLAINFIELD MEN ACCEPTED FOR SERVICE.

The Somerset County Draft Board has been holding sessions at Somerville during the past week and the men accepted for service include the following from North Plainfield:

Eugene P. Spencer, Albert H. Desnoyers, Frederick Cain, Brown Ralston, William Sweet, Carl Romberg, Michael Frezza, Hans L. Larson, Pietro Raelo, Norman C. Williams.

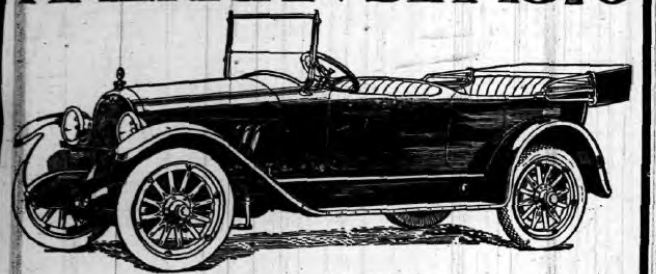
Roy McCutchen, son of Charles W. McCutchen, was called for examination and was accepted, but was afterward discharged because of his working in a munition factory.

ARRESTED ON THEFT CHARGE.

Elwin Marsh, who gave his age as forty-eight years and said he lived in Somerville, was arrested by Lieutenant Higgins last night on a charge of breaking into George T. Finger's store room on the second floor at Finger's haberdashery on West Front street, last night. Finger had discovered that someone had gained entrance to the place and Higgins was on watch when he discovered Marsh emerging from a rear window in the city court this morning the prisoner was remanded for further examination.

George C. Van Horn, of Summit avenue, has returned home after a trip through New York State.

AMERICAN SIX $1375



Built RIGHT In Plainfield.

Embargo or no Embargo—you can get your AMERICAN SIX now.

There's no freight to pay—no delay. The plant is right here in your own city.

That is one reason why this car must appeal to folks nearby. But after all that is the least reason.

Here is an automobile that is a revelation in road comfort. The car is long—122" wheelbase. It is hung low. The scientific distribution of weight gives each of the four wheels the same burden. The result is remarkable BALANCE. The AMERICAN SIX clings to the road.

It is economical in operation. Sixteen miles to the gallon of gasoline. Tire mileage exceptional, owing to the same distribution of weight, and the light weight of the car.

You can't go wrong on an AMERICAN SIX.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

DANIEL CASHIN

Daniel Cashin, aged thirty-five years died in Muhlenberg hospital Wednesday afternoon following a brief illness. His home was on West Fifth street where he boarded with a private family. He was employed at the Pond Tool Works previous to the time his illness began. Cashin had only been in Plainfield a short time and while it is known that he leaves a sister, she has not been located as yet. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus but not of the local council.

The funeral will be held in St. Mary's church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

MATILDA RIGNEL.

Miss Matilda Rignel, who made her home with her brother, George T. Rignel, of Norwood avenue, died Tuesday afternoon in Muhlenberg Hospital. She was born in England in 1847 and had lived in Plainfield for the past fifteen years. Besides her brother in this city, she is survived by two other brothers and a sister living at Lockport, N. Y.

The body was sent to Lockport Wednesday and the funeral was held in that city yesterday afternoon. Burial was in the family plot in Coldspring cemetery, Lockport.

MRS. HENRY TRITSCHLER

Mrs. Florence Tritschler, wife of Henry Tritschler, died Wednesday morning at her home at 716 South avenue after a brief illness. She was thirty-five years old and came to this city from Elizabeth about a year ago. Beside her husband she leaves her father, Frederick H. Volker, three sisters and a brother, all of whom live in Elizabeth.

The funeral will be held at the late home on South avenue tonight at 8 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. E. C. Conover of the Temple Baptist church, of which Mrs. Tritschler was a member. Burial will be in Rose Hill cemetery, Elizabeth, tomorrow morning.

McCLELLAN STAATS

McClellan Staats, a native of this city and widely known in both Plainfield and North Plainfield, died Tuesday afternoon at his home on Netherwood avenue following an illness of about two months. He had been in Detroit during the past summer in the interests of the Scott Press Works by which concern he was employed as erecting machinist, and became indisposed soon after his return home He continued to grow worse until complications brought about his demise.

Mr. Staats was twenty-seven years old and was the son of Isaac Staats, of Richmond street. He learned the trade of machinist at the Scott Press works and was extremely popular with his associates there. He was a member of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and also of the Netherwood Reformed church. Besides his father, he is survived by his wife, who was Miss Maud Morris, and who he married a little over a year ago, one sister, Mrs. Louis Hall, and two brothers. The latter are Isaac Staats, Jr., and John Staats, both of this city.

The funeral was held at the late home on Netherwood avenue yesterday and was in charge of Rev. E. S. Ralston of the Netherwood Reformed church. The attendance was large and the floral tributes numerous. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

MRS. HANNAH SULLIVAN

Mrs. Hannah Sullivan, widow of William J. Sullivan, died suddenly Wednesday morning at the Hotel Kensington, of which her son, John J. Sullivan is proprietor and where she had made her home for the past two and ahalf years. Although she was eighty-six years old she had been in fairly good health during the few weeks and the end was not at all expected. She was up for a time early Wednesday morning but feeling somewhat tired went back to bed. Shortly after seven o'clock it was noticed that she was breathing heavily and before her condition was fully realized she had passed away.

Mrs. Sullivan was a native of County Kerry, Ireland and came to this country fourty-seven years ago. She made her home at Jamesburg where she resided for a period of nearly forty years. Her husband who was a school teacher, died in 1872. At one time he taught school at Boonton and later at New Brunswick. Mrs. Sullivan was a woman of pronounced business ability and after her husband's death she conducted a laundry at Jamesburg which came to be one of the best known in that part of Monmouth county. It is still operated by other parties. After leaving Jamesburg, Mr. Sullivan lived at Point Pleasant for a time and came to Plainfield in 1915.

Beside her son, John J. Sullivan, she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Julia Breen, also residing at the Kensington and one brother, Richard Pierce of Brooklyn. There are also four grandchildren and five great grandchildren. The grandchildren are, Miss Margaret Breen and William Breen, who reside at the Kensington; Mrs. Ralph Wagner, of Roselle and Mrs. Stanley Henry of Keanburg.

The funeral was held in St. Mary's church, this morning in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends. The requiem mass was said by the rector, Rev. Father B. M. Bogan. Following the service the body was taken to Jamesburg where the burial will take place this afternoon in the family plot in St. James' cemetery. Those who acted as pall-bearers were Thomas Healey, Gustave Fredericks, Joseph Freed, J. Howard Dyke, Donald Cradle and Knight Faucett.

MRS. CAROLYN SCHUYLER.

The funeral of Mrs. Carolyn Schuyler, whose death occurred at her home on Third place last Friday, was held at the late residence Monday afternoon. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a member. Many relatives and friends were in attendance. Burial was in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: Joseph W. Gavett, George Place, W. M. Sandford, W. J. Voysey, J. C. Evans, Howard Williams.

Mrs. Schuyler was the widow of Frank Schuyler and was in her fifty-fourth year. She had been a resident of Plainfield for a long time. She is survived by her mother and one son, the latter being Philip Schuyler, of Third place.

ALGRETHA JEROLOMAN.

Algretha Jeroloman, the five-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Jeroloman, of Steiner place died Sunday. The funeral was held Monday and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

One of Last Two Teams of Horses Soon To Be Discarded By City Fire Department

Another step in the direction that will finally lead to the complete removal of horses from the local fire department will be taken within the next few days when the Common Council will award a contract to the International Motor Company for a service hook and ladder truck. The machine is to be delivered in about thirty days and when it comes it will take the place of the old horse-drawn aerial ladder truck which has done duty at fire headquarters on East Second street for nearly twenty-five years. The latter is at present one of the only two vehicles in the city's active service requiring the use of horses. When it is placed in the discard, the last piece of apparatus not motorized will be the combination chemical and hose wagon located at No. 1 house on West Second street.

The International Motor Company, which includes the Saurer plant on West Front street, submitted the lowest bid for furnishing a service truck. The figure was a little short of $3,000. It is a source of satisfaction to Plainfield people as well as the Common Council to have the contract go to the International concern because it means that the apparatus will be a Plainfield affair as most of it is to be constructed in this city. Portions of it are to be turned out at the Front street factory and the remainder will be done at the Mack shop in Allentown, Pa. This will be a great convenience in the event of any breakage as a new part can be secured within a few hours.

The new truck is to be the "last word" in equipment of this kind and will supply the city's needs for many years to come. Beside carrying all manner of paraphernalia in the way of axes, crowbars, scaling ladders, life net and hooks, it will have service ladders capable of reaching the top of the average Plainfield building. They can be taken off the vehicle and raised for use within a moment of two. The motor is to be of the "AC" type turned out by the Mack factory and will give a speed of thirty-five miles an hour.

When the new truck is placed in commission, the old one is to be sent to No. 1 house for reserve purposes. The team of horses thus discarded is to be sold as there is no use for the animals within the department. There is a possibility that they may be turned over to the street department as was done with several other horses. At No. 1 house at the present time, there is stored the old steam fire engine which is also being kept for reserve purposes. It is in splendid shape as far as working is concerned and in the event of any motor apparatus going bad at a fire can be brought up for use in a very short time.

The city now has four motor vehicles located in the various houses in addition to the automobiles for the chief. One of the four is the Knot running engine which is located at Headquarters and which is temporarily out of service. The city has made a contract with the Wisconsin Motor Company for the installation of a new motor and work upon it is to begin shortly. The other motor apparatuses are the American-La France pumping engine at No. 4 house in Netherwood, the Mack combination chemicals at headquarters and the Mack chemical at No. 3 house.

What Elizabeth Debaters Had To Say of Two Platoon System

The Elizabeth firemen, like those of Plainfield, are conducting a two-platoon campaign. The merits and demerits of the proposed system are being argued pro and con by all citizens and the Elizabeth firemen are endeavoring to bring out every side of the question. One of the first civic organizations to take the matter up was the First Street Merchants' Association, which decided upon a public debate as one way of bringing out the numerous points for and against. Accordingly the merchants secured Attorney John Connolly, one of Elizabeth's ablest lawyers to speak in favor of the two-platoon as he has made it a very close study and is one of its advocates. Mayor Victor Mravlag, who is opposed to the plan, consented to speak for the negative side.

The debate was held in a public hall one night last week and was heard by a gathering of nearly 200 representative men. Mr. Connolly made a splendid plea in behalf of the firemen, giving facts and figures that had not been brought out before. Mayor Mravlag spoke in rebuttal and thought he had cause for argument at various points some of the reasons he advanced for not favoring the system did not meet with approval on the part of the listeners. Following the addresses by the two men the matter was discussed informally by the association.

The statements by Mr. Connolly and Mayor Mravlag are given in full from the notes of Frederick W. Greene, of this city, an expert stenographer, who attended the gathering in company with a large number of Plainfielders:

MR. JOHN CONNOLLY'S ADDRESS.

This act was passed in the year of 1915. The officers and men of the uniform fire fighting force in every city of this State, except cities of the first class. The hours of the day force shall be from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. The hours for the night force shall be from 6 p. m. to 8 a. m. Every four days they shall alternate. In case of serious conflagration the officers of the Board of Fighting Firemen shall have full authority to summon on duty, any or all members of such fire fighting force while such fire continues. When the night force is on duty, the chief of the fire department would have the authority to call the day force in order to quell such a conflagration. Both forces are actually on duty all the time. This act was passed by the unanimous vote of the House of Assembly, and Governor Edge, who was then a Senator, recommended it. It has been adopted in the following cities: Omaha, Kansas City, Butte, Pueblo, Springfield, Los Angeles, Paterson, Newark, Atlantic City, Bayonne, Oranze, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Chicago and Scranton.

You are here this evening, Gentlemen, to listen to this discussion in favor of or against the two-platoon system. You are men of toil. You came home to your families, put on your Sunday-go-meeting clothes and now you are here for social or educational purposes. You have come to learn something about the duties of a citizen. That is why you are here. How many firemen do you see here this evening? Are there any. I could pick them out. Ask them why and how they are here. Because this is their day off duty. The first day in eight. The other seven they have been working 24 hours continuously, less three hours per day for meals. You men, as I say, work eight, nine or ten hours a day. You have your families and have their society tonight. But how about the fireman? He got up the same time that you did, but his duty ends tomorrow morning.

Man to man, will you deprive the firemen of this city of the same rights that you demand for yourself. Will you say to him that he must work twenty-one hours per day, seven straight days, while you demand the right to work eight hours. I say, the fireman is not getting a fair deal. For he is denied the right to work the same number of hours per day as you. He has to hire someone to express his demands and needs to you. You are here and feel secure about the safety of your wife, children, furniture and property, because you know the firemen will take care of them. He asks from you the right to work ten hours per day. Nothing more. You may say he is sitting down tweedling his fingers, but how about the watchman. He might be smoking a cigar or talking to a friend, but at the same time he is there waiting for an emergency, and that is the question of service. The fireman is also there and when duty calls with the first sound of alarm he answers it. They sleep in bed with their shirt on ready for that emergency. If awakened in his sleep, slides down a pole and is ready for duty. He is obliged to get out of his bed to see if he must go. His sleep is broken. He has to go no matter what the day has been.

At home what is it. Most of the firemen are married men. Every man has the right, and should be married. A fireman has the same privilege as you have.

A fireman arises at 6 o'clock in the morning. One hour for breakfast. Suppose a man in this neighborhood was assigned to Number 7, takes a car to get home. Twenty-five minutes to get to his house. "Good morning, Wife. Where are the children?" "They are in bed." "Where is the breakfast, got only eight minutes to eat and to start back to the house. Good-bye." The wife then prepares breakfast for the children. They ask, "Where is Daddy?" "Oh, Daddy is back to the engine house already." Children are dressed, books put under their arms and sent off to school. Wife washes dishes, and cleans up. Husband will be home again at 11 o'clock for lunch. He has eight to ten minutes to eat in. Comes home. "How is everything? Are the children well?" He inquires about the high cost of living, the cost of flour and other similar questions.

This is the condition of the firemen of today. Four o'clock. Husband will soon be home again for supper. Children probably meet their father at the night meal. But children have the right to play. The only time they have to play is after school hours. That is, after 3 of 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The father has eight or ten minutes to be home with them. If during the night, wife or one of the children gets sick, a neighbor must be called in to assist them. The father is not at home. The city denies him the right to be home with his family. He must be at his post of duty twenty-one hours out of every twenty-four, for seven days out of every eight days. The children can play tricks on their mothers, and sometimes the son or daughter lives a wayward life, while the father is serving the city as a tax payer and citizen at his post every day. Can you imagine such conditions, and it is not an uncommon thing to happen, and many families cite the fact that their son or daughter has been ruined by the absences of their father, or husband from the home.

No one can gainsay the fact that if a man works a normal number of hours during a day, he will be a better man physically, mentally and his efficiency will be increased. You are well aware that during the past fifteen to twenty years, the hour of labor has been reduced from sixteen hours per day to a standard of eight hours a day for five and one-half days a week. Eight hours a day. We are progressing. We recognize the fact that progress has demanded that men be permitted to work a certain reasonable number of hours, in order that he may have sufficient time for relaxation, enjoyment and perhaps to pursue some educational study that might fit him for some responsible position in the years to come.

The firemen of this city have to work twenty-one hours for seven days out of every eight, and the average man works eight hours per day for five and one-half days or forty-four hours per week. Eight hours per day, excepting Sundays and holidays, and I will allow a week's vacation. The average working man works 2,188 hours in a year, or 91 1-6 days out of a total of 365 days. The fireman works 365 days, with the exception of his day off in every eight which amounts to 45 days. He gets an eight-day vacation. He works 274½ days in the year as against 91 1-6 days that an average man works. The fireman works three times as many days.

The average labor in the market today is 35 cents an hour for 91 1-6 days. The fireman gets $960 for the first year; $1,060 for the second year and $1,200 for the third year. The average pay for the fireman per hour for his 274½ days in a year is 18 cents per hour. Our labor in the open market is hard to get at 35 cents per hour.

The tax rate. The net valuation in this city for the current year of 1917 was $77,500,000.00 and the rate of taxation 2.06. For local purposes, schools and other expenses $1,590,016.14. The rate which will produce this $1,590,016.14, or should have, is 2.05. At that rate, the city would be short in the amount that they would receive from taxes $890. That is all. But they asked for a 2.06 rate, which gives them $6,771.37 more than they needed. They would not consider the 2.05 rate, because it was $890 less than the amount that they needed, but the 2.06 rate gave them $6,771.37 more than the budget called for. They are very careful about the tax payer, still they make you put up nearly $7,000 more than they need. They could have got along with the 2.05 rate, and we would have saved money.

We have in the department at present 75 men. Seventy-five men includes two chiefs, and a secretary of the fire department. In other words we have what I would call 72 active men. One of them is a relief engineer, and another engineer; two chief drivers, two firm alarm workers that repair wires; three extra men for headquarters. Mr. Connolly at this time stated what Chief of Police Jennings had to say about the two-platoon system. I do not know what the chief of the fire department of Elizabeth has to say about this question, but I know one thing, he lives the two-platoon system. He works during the day, and sleeps home at night. I judge men by actions, not by words. The relief engineer, the department mechanic lives it, the two fire alarm men live it, the three extra men live it, and the other sixty men work twenty-one hours.

We have ten companies in this city and three trucks. The sixty-three men are divided into the different houses. We have seven men for each company, no six men. You know we have a day off in six days. The Fire Commission, with the knowledge that a petition favoring the two-platoon system was being anticipated, granted the men more time off—a day in six. This did not come into effect until October 1st, 1917. This is October 3d. We have in the city six men to a company, with a man off one day in six, that leaves five men to a company every day. I told you before about the firemen going to their meals, therefore between the hours of 6 to 9; 11 to 2; and 5 to 8; there are in every company in this city three men in the house ready to answer a call. That is the situation at present. I told you that money was appropriated the Fire Board to provide for eighteen more men. There are now sixty-three men plus the additional eighteen (which are already in your tax rate although you have only five, which make 81 men. Ten companies, eight men to a company. Divide them into the two-man platoon, and you will have four men to the day shift and four men to the night shift. The four in the day would work from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m., and night shift from . . p. m. to 8 a. m., with no time off for meals. They would then be able to live like human beings. They are asking of you the right to live like you do. They will see their families and friends as you do. Every four days they will alternate—those on days will go on nights.

Under this plan we would have more men without a penny increase. Suppose we add nineteen more men that would make 100 men, 10 companies; we would have 10 men to a company. Five to the night shift and five to the day shift, amply sufficient for a town of this size. Salary for the first year $960, $1,060 for the second year; $1,200 for the third year. This would add one point to the rate tax or equal to $7,750, if we increase our expenses $18,240. The first year the increase in the rate tax would be less than 2½ points. The second year at $1,060, the expenses would be $10,140. At the same valuation as the present time would mean an increase of 2½ points, and for the third year it would cost the city $22,800 more than the city is paying at the present time, or an increase of less than 3 points. Can you tell me where the $100,000 is that they are talking about? First year, $18,240; second year, $20,140, and the third year, $22,800, or three points.

Last year General Collins discovered five million ratables, and if he finds one million more next year, and the two-platoon system is adopted, it will exceed by far the amount of running the city.

It is nothing less than a question of dollars and cents against humanity. If you want to know what the life of a fireman is, go and live it; take a 30 days' vacation and find out for yourself just what the conditions are, and you will not fall in love with it. It is to the people that the final outcome of this question is to be decided. And the firemen are for the people, and if you vote against them you are denying them what you yourself demand—time for relaxation, for pleasure and for religion. Every man should worship his Creator, and the firemen are even deprived of that right in a certain way. The present war that has involved every nation almost under the very heavens, is being fought for humanity and mankind, and there are other fights too for the same purposes and principles. The two-platoon system. I say to you men, who are members of labor unions, can you refuse to give to the firemen the right to work a certain number of hours; can you have the heart and the audacity to tell them you must work twenty-one hours out of every twenty-four? I am sure, and I know, that when the time comes for this question to be settled by voting, that the men who are honest in their own convictions, not biased or prejudiced, will vote in favor of the adopting the two-platoon system, so that other men might enjoy the rights and privileges for which their Creator has made them for.

MAYOR MRAVLAG'S REPLY.

I do not think that I can equal the eloquent appeal of the attorney for the fire department; nor do I think that I would jump right off and speak of war, religion, sociability and danger to women and children. Those references do not amount to anything and do not prove anything. Yet, with all due respect to the attorney, I have just as big a heart for the sufferings of the people, and I would not stand in the way of giving to them what belongs to them, for the sake of dollars and cents. Mr. Connolly would like to have you believe that the fireman is the only man who works twenty-four hours with no time for anything else. But he is not the only man so I can use that for an argument. The Mayor then referred to the life of a lighthouse keeper off Sandy Hook, and of an experience of his own, being called up early one winter morning to attend a sick man. His car was not in condition to be able to use it, and he had to walk.

I only refer to these as an offset to Mr. Connolly's statement that the fireman is the only man that works twenty-four hours. I do not think that a fire breaks out every night. Mr. Connolly refered to a man who is assigned to a certain engine house, and who lives in another part of the city. I do not think there is sure a case in existence in the fire department. If there is it can easily be remedied. Those things are only figurative speeches.

I call the attention of Mr. Connolly to the fact that the Fire Commission gives the men one day off in six. Mr. Connolly states that the firemen work 274½ days, but under the present one day off in six he only works 258 days. If you look into the fire house, he is sitting on a chair, but he has the right to entertain himself. To walk out of the fire house. In other words, he has not the hard life which Mr. Connolly speaks of. It does not concern us what an average man gets. Whether he gets 35 cents an hour, and if he can get more, he ought to have it. The average working man arises the same time that the fireman does, gets his breakfast and goes off to work in the factory, not returning until night. If he works overtime he gets pay for it. But he does not see his children all day. So you can see that the workingman also is deprived of those things which Mr. Connolly states so eloquently that the fireman should have as well as other men. If a man wants to be a fireman or a doctor, he must be obliged to put up with the conditions that surround such vocations.

I have obtained from the Fire Board a statement as to what it will cost the city to have the two-man platoon. For the first year $6,680, second year when the salaries automatically increases for the next men, $72,800; for the third year $80,000. Those figures are a little different from Mr. Connolly's. The fact is this: if you vote for the two-man platoon system you are voting for an additional $80,000 a year. But if you want the two-man platoon system you are the ones to decide as you must pay for it.

As for the benefit to the men: They are doing nothing for three months in the year, and they are paid for that time; they have one day off in six. What other trade of labor gets paid for time when they are not working?

The Mayor, speaking in reference to the tax rate, said: "We had gotten it for five if we could, but had it not been for the ingenuity of Gen. Collins the people of Elizabeth would be paying 2.25."

The Mayor said the firemen do not work twenty-one hours every day, as they are not always fighting a fire, and their life is not as hard as the attorney would want to make us believe it.

New Yorkers Paying Tribute to "Water"

Commencing today and continuing tomorrow and Sunday New York city will pay a tribute to Water. It will be in honor of the completion of the Catskill Aqueduct, which has been in the process of construction for eight years. Plans are being formulated which will, it is expected, make this celebration second only in splendor to that of the Hudson-Fulton jubilation of 1910. In point of decoration the city will even excel that historic occasion, as the most comprehensive that has ever been undertaken. This will be particularly true of the illumination of the city which will be ablaze with various colored lights, while water will be proclaimed King.

Pronounced by Theodore Roosevelt to be a greater engineering feat than the Panama Canal, the city is making preparations on an extensive scale to make the taking over of this water supply system an historical event, as it will mean, it is said, the solution of the vexatious problem that has menaced the city for years. The observance will take the form of a festival in which thousands of school children and others will take part. The program will include exercises in the five boroughs, in which schools churches and civic bdoies will be prominent.

OCTOBER ACTIVITIES OF THE MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The Monday Afternoon Club announces the following program of activities for the month of October, beginning next Monday:

Oct. 15—Civic department; lecture, "American Citizenship and Some of Its Problems," (illustrated) John Lester Carr, Director of Immigrant Publication Society of New York; preceded by a paper, "Who Are Our Citizens?" Mrs. W. M. Ailing.

Oct. 22—Literature department; paper, "History of Our Island Possessions," written by Mrs. Charles A. Selden, read by Mrs. Allan Cowperthwait. Oct. 29—Art department; lecture, "Our West Indian Possession: an Historical Sketch," Prof. Philip B. Brown, Princeton University, former Minister to Honduras.

MERCER

A highly-developed four-cylinder motor that hurls its power to the rear wheels through a short, rigid crankshaft and sturdy transmission explains the extraordinary might and smoothness of Mercer performance. More cylinders and a longer crankshaft would be a burden. And the charm of Mercer grace and appointments has identified it closely with social distinction. Deliveries at once.

What Good Is a Lid?

Several otherwise excellent burial vaults have tops that are simply laid over the casket and left to their own devices. This, of course, is handier and much cheaper. But what of its safety? The Norwalk Vault leaves nothing to chance; its top is securely cemented on by hand, and top and bottom become one solid piece of masonry. Naturally, therefore, the Norwalk is sold everywhere the best is wanted; and naturally the best undertakers always recommend the Norwalk—it gives them a chance to guarantee the burial. Your undertaker can give you the necessary information.

Thousands Pay Tribute At Father Carrick's Funeral

An assemblage representing every walk of life and denomination in city, together with many visiting priests and dignitaries from various parts of the country, was in St. Mary's church this morning, when a funeral service was conducted for Rev. Father Charles L. Carrick, the well combined for the occasion in charge of Miss Mary Smith, the organist, and the "Pie Jesu" was sung as an offertory by the church quartet. The attending priests who assisted in the chant were Rev. Fathers Hart, Campbell and Baldwin, of North Plainfield; Rev. Father Dunphy, of Dunellen; Rev. Fathers Lundy and Carty, of Roselle, and Rev. Fathers Watterson and Reilly, of Westfield.

Rev. Father Charles L. Carrick, died in his twenty-fifth year after a brief struggle against the ravages of disease had enlisted the sympathy of the entire community and those who had not known him personally felt that he had been numbered among their acquaintance and paid homage to his memory today.

The body lay in state in front of the sanctuary from 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon until 10 o'clock last night. During those hours a continuous procession of mourners passed by the casket for the purpose of seeing the beloved features for the last time. At one period last evening there were nearly 2,000 persons in the edifice and Rev. Father Peter Guilday, who was a college mate of Father Carrick at Louvain, Belgium, and is now professor of history in the University of Washington, took occasion to speak of the young priest. His theme was that of one who knew the deserted priest intimately and was able to tell of characteristics known to his newer acquaintances. In part Father Guilday spoke as follows:

"When I came into the church this morning and looked upon Father Carrick for the last time, I could not help remembering the first time I saw Father Carrick. It was at Louvain, where he was a student at the American College and I was at the Holy Ghost University. A message came to my room that someone wished to see me, I went down and was greeted by a young man, who said he was Charles Carrick, of Limerick, Ireland. He asked me to show him the graves of the Irish exiles at the Franciscan Monastery, and when I took him to the spot I can see him, as he knelt and prayed for the souls of those buried there.

"Since that day the word 'exile' has had special significance for me, so much so that when I received news of Father Carrick's death the thought occurred to my mind that he had studied as an 'exile,' and died an 'exile.' I have since found that he did not die an 'exile,' as the hearts of everyone here went out to him and he passed away among thousands of friends who loved him as though they had known him for years.

"What was done for him here will never be forgotten, especially the grand sacrifice in his behalf by the men who gave of their own blood that he might live and the scores of others, Catholic and Protestant alike, who volunteered to be transfusion subjects.

"That purpose Almighty God had in taking away the young life is not revealed to us, but it exemplifies very convincingly than ever that the lesson of Death is Life; that we are only going to the frontier, only crossing the bar; that God has put us here to prove ourselves and that the lesson of life is Death.

"The first and greatest commandment is Love of God and neighbor, and Father Carrick has lived that Commandment. In the eight years I knew him I realized that his whole being was one of love. It may be that God still requires something more of Father Carrick. We cannot see beyond the closed doors. He may be in Heaven, perhaps his soul is in Purgatory. It is the duty of those who are left behind to offer prayers in his behalf, that his soul may be released and that he may receive his eternal reward.

"After the war is over, I shall return to Louvain, where the professors will ask of me 'what of Father Carrick?' I shall answer that he is dead, that he died among friends, and I shall ask each one of them to invoke God's blessing upon every heroic in Plainfield."

The service this morning began at 9 o'clock with the chant of the office for the dead by fifteen priests. This continued until 9:30, when the solemn high mass of requiem began. Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, of Washington, was the celebrant; Rev. Father Peter J. Hart, deacon; Rev. Father J. Byrne, of the San Francisco Cathedral, sub-deacon, and Rev. Father Walter Hennessey, assistant rector at St. Mary's, master of ceremonies. The senior and junior choirs

At the conclusion of the mass, the casket was borne from the church by six men who had either furnished blood for the transfusing operations in Father Carrick's case, or stood ready to do so in the event of further efforts to save the young life. The three who gave blood were Captain John Flynn, Sergeant Charles Flynn and Patrolman John J. Kelly, of the city police force, and those who had been examined and were in waiting were Captain James Fitzpatrick, Martin Connaughton and John Guinee, of the city fire department. These men served as pallbearers until the body had been placed on the 11:16 train for Washington. Arriving at the latter place the casket will be opened at the University at Washington for the benefit of Father Carrick's friends in that city. A further service is to be held tomorrow morning, when church officials and members of the University faculty will conduct a second High Mass of Requiem. Burial is to be made in the priests' plot connected with the University cemetery.

The death of Father Carrick came after a scientific battle of ten weeks, during which the entire community became interested in the efforts of the surgeons to restore the gifted young priest to health. He was first taken ill on August 9, but he himself did not realize the serious nature of the complaint. He became worse the following day, suffering such acute pains that it was deemed necessary to call Dr. Howard Krans. It required only a brief examination to show the physician that the trouble was appendicitis and he ordered Father Carrick removed to Muhlenberg Hospital immediately. An emergency operation was performed by Dr. B. Van D. Hedges and for the next week the young priest's condition had been successful, although the appendix was removed in very bad condition. A few days later abscesses developed which eventually necessitated a second operation. Again the patient rallied and there was every indication of complete recovery when complications developed which occasioned deep concern on the part of the attending doctors.

It appeared that septic poisoning had developed from the decaying appendix and the clergyman's entire system became infected. In many respects the trouble was similar to that experienced by Dr. Albert Pittis last winter and which was overcome by blood transfusions. This latest phase of modern surgery was decided upon for Father Carrick and Doctor Howard Lindeman, of New York, considered to be the most expert operator in this process, was called into the case.

Dr. Lindeman agreed with the local physicians on the course to be adopted, to the extent of immediately calling for volunteers from whom the necessary blood might be taken. The response was so spontaneous on the part of local men who wanted to aid in the battle for the young priest's life, that it became a question of almost partiality to decide upon subjects. The applicants included all denominations and nearly a score were found to possess that of the necessary specific gravity. To Captain John Flynn, of the local police department, fell the honor of being the first volunteer used. On two occasions he gave a quart and a pint of his own blood for the benefit of the clergyman. After each transfusion, Father Carrick showed unmistakable signs of improvement that encouraged all who were depending so much on the operation. Later he would fall back into a more critical state and again the injection of blood was undertaken. The third time, Sergeant Charles Flynn, brother of Captain Flynn, gave up a quart and a pint of blood, an amount necessary to sustain the patient's vitality for nearly two weeks.

On Tuesday afternoon last, it was again apparent that Father Carrick was in grave danger. A consultation of the physicians resulted in a fourth transfusion as a last hope. Patrolman John Kelley, of the city police force, was called in and the transfer was made late that afternoon. Once again the infusions of rich red corpuscles strengthened the weakened vitality and for a time Tuesday evening the priest became fully conscious. Shortly before 11 o'clock he informed the nurse in charge that he could take nourishment without any assistance, following the remark with the action. Half an hour later he took a very decided turn for the worse and it was plain to be seen

Standard Plant To Remain Here During the War

Negotiations that have been under way several weeks between the army officials at Washington and the officers of the Standard Aero Corporation, of this city, have ended in an agreement whereby the latter will continue to operate their Plainfield plant for the manufacture of aeroplanes, at least during the period of the war. It had been the intention of the Standard Corporation to remove from Plainfield entirely when its new big shop at Bayway, Elizabeth, was ready for a small army of workmen. This was originally set for October 15, but as the alterations and installation of machinery took longer than expected it has been extended to November 15, at which time about 1,000 men and women will begin their task of building aeroplanes for foreign service.

News that the company had planned to leave this city was received with deep regret as the working force had risen in a little more than a year from barely fifty men to more than 900 men and women. In one sense of the word it has gotten to be the largest local industrial plant and the loss to all lines of business in this district meant the diversion of many hundreds of thousands of dollars. When the company first came to Plainfield it leased the former Kenny vacuum factory on upper North avenue, and when the facilities there became cramped took over the old Chase machine shop at North avenue and Berckman street. Even then there was not enough room and numerous temporary additions were built to both structures. Neither was properly equipped throughout for cold weather and with the demands of the Government daily becoming more pressing, it was decided to move to another location where all the work could be done under one roof with comfort to the hands in either summer or winter. It was this determination that resulted in the purchase of the big factory at Bayway which is known in that district as the Stephenson works, having been erected originally for the John Stephenson Street Car Company, now out of business.

The moving proposition came to the attention of the Government and as the number of aeroplanes to be built for the Signal Department has been increased from time to time it was realized by the Federal munitions men that the output could be increased by operating both the Plainfield and Bayway plants. As a result, the conference was held which ended in the Standard concern deciding to remain in this city while the war was in progress. When everything is ready at Bayway possibly 100 or more of the skilled mechanics will be sent to that place to superintendent operations but in general way the force in Plainfield is not to undergo no great change. The number of employes at the two North avenue buildings is in excess of 900. Good positions are open to the right kind of workmen at the present time, and special stress is laid on the fact that young women can secure congenial employment at the factories. There are about 150 in the various departments now, these including the drill press, wing, turnbuckle and shipping departments.

At the present time the Standard plant is turning out about twenty aeroplanes a week, the majority of them being of the instruction and observation type. This is about the limit that can be reached here but when work is under way at Bayway it is hoped to turn out an additional fifty machines, many of them of the "battle type." Contractors are now engaged in putting in heating plants and sealing up the temporary walls of the building additions made last summer. This means that everything is being done to facilitate the work at the local shops and that for the time being Plainfield will not lose the industry that has meant such a great deal to the citizens during the past year.

JOSEPH SWEENEY CHANGES POSITION IN PHIDADELPHIA.

Joseph M. Sweeney, a former well-known Plainfielder who has been manager of the Philadelphia branch of the Charles E. Miller Auto Supply, resigned his position last week in order to take a similar one with the Pierce Auto Supply Company, with headquarters at 1427 Fairmount avenue, Philadelphia. The change brings Mr. Sweeney into a much larger business and added responsibilities but because of his seven years in the "game," he is counted upon by his friends to make good. On first entering the employ of Mr. Miller, the young Plainfielder served his apprenticeship in the New York headquarters at 924 Eighth avenue, New York, of which his brother, Matthew D. Sweeney, is manager. After that he went to Boston as manager of the branch in that city, then to Springfield, Mass., and lastly to Philadelphia.

Mr. Sweeney's home was recently brightened by the arrival of a fine baby boy and local friends have been extending congratulations.

"Blue Coats" to Hold Big Dance On November 18

Local No. 18, Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, which includes members of the police forces in Plainfield, North Plainfield, Westfield and Somerville, has fixed upon Wednesday night, November 14, as the date for its annual reception and ball. The affair will take place in Columbus Auditorium and the committee is already at work arranging the numerous details. This always proves to be one of the biggest dances of the season in Plainfield and this year the patrolmen are hopeful of exceeding all previous efforts. In addition to the chiefs of the various departments the officials of Plainfield, North Plainfield, Westfield and Somerville are to be among the invited guests.

The committee appointed to complete all arrangements is composed of Arthur McGinley, general chairman; Fred Baader, treasurer; Tobias Nolan, Charles Wicht, Thomas Flatley, Thomas Bebout, William Russ and John Wurth, of the Plainfield force; John Herman, of North Plainfield; Harry Deter, of Westfield, and Joseph Hand, of Somerville.

Tobias Nolan is president of Local No. 18, but will retire from the office next month, when the annual meeting takes place. It is quite likely that he will be succeeded by Fred Baeder. The proceeds derived from the annual ball are used in making payments to members who suffer illness and also in paying claims to the widows of deceased patrolmen.

Barn Dance To Open Local Elks' Season

The dancing season of 1917-18 at the Plainfield Elks' Club will be ushered in on Tuesday night, October 30, when the lodge will give a Hallowe'en "Barn Dance" to members and their friends. As this is the opening affair of this kind after the summer lull, the committee is working extra hard to make it a complete success.

Dancing is to commence promptly at 9 o'clock and continue until 2 music for the occasion being provided by DeLisle's Jazz Band. This combination of musicians is a Plainfield organization and has gained an enviable reputations as providers of dancing accompaniments. Every member there is to be about the "craziest" thing imaginable and it is impossible for people nearby to keep their feet still. As it is to be a "barn" dance, formal evening clothes will be about as popular as a weasel in a hen yard. The committee makes it its duty to see that costumes peculiar to rural regions will be the only thing. These include overalls and jumpers for the men and gingham gowns for the women as a standard. After that the attendant can don anything he or she pleases in order to carry out the effect. Masks are to be worn and those who care to discard the character costumes can do so after 11:30. In keeping with the occasion, the refreshments will consist of cider and home made crullers and doughnuts. The committee will also distribute souvenirs and has several surprises in preparation not to be made known until the dance takes place. The decorations will be included in the latter.

Those in charge of the arrangements comprise Frank R. Emmons, chairman; Hillaire Blatz, Thomas A. Moore, Herman Kling and Herbert C. Hetfield.

Plainfield Woman, Ill, Seeks Long Lost Son

Word reached here today of the critical illness of Mrs. Seraphina Kernell, formerly of this city, now a patient in Bellevue Hospital, New York city. Additional interest attaches to the news of Mrs. Kernell's illness from the fact that she is most anxious to find her son, whom she has not seen in eighteen years. When he disappeared he was learning the jewelry trade at Fourth avenue and Fourteenth street, Manhattan.

Firemen Check Bad Blaze In Front St. Store

Prompt work on the part of the city fire department checked what promised to be a most disastrous conflagration in the heart of the business section early Tuesday morning, when flames began sweeping through the bicycle store of Leo Zeisel on the ground floor of the three-story building at 222 West Front street. Although the apparatus was on the scene within three minutes after the alarm was turned in, the cellar beneath the store proper was a roaring furnace that was rapidly forcing its way into the adjoining stores of Leo Slonim, the jeweler, and A. E. Willard, the piano and phonograph man. Chief Jennings instantly realized what possibilities there were in the hungry flames and sent his men into the building with five lines of hose. They worked under great difficulties for half an hour before the blaze was checked and were not in a position to retire until three hours later. Mr. Zeisel places his loss at $8,000, while a small amount is credited to the Slonim and Willard stores through smoke and water, which made their way through the walls.

The blaze was discovered shortly after midnight Tuesday morning by Robert Dents, of Duer street, who notified Patrolman Arthur McGinley. The latter turned in an alarm from box 12 that brought all the downtown companies almost before he had time to return to his precinct. Smoke was pouring out of the building in great, thick volumes and as entrance could be effected only from the front and rear Chief Jennings men had to work in gradually toward the center of the blaze. It seemed to be started in the cellar, possibly through spontaneous combustion and had sped to the rear stairway in the back part of the first floor before the first water was thrown in. Quantities of goods wrapped in paper and burlap and cans of oil furnished ready food for the flames that made the heat all the more intense. Because of the blinding smoke, which is a difficult matter to move about in, several of the firemen had narrow escapes from serious injury. Two of them, William Kelley and Joseph Mitchell, had falls which resulted in cuts bad enough to require a doctor's attention. It was not until after 3 o'clock that Chief Jennings satisfied himself that the last spark was out and sent in the back taps.

Mr. Zeisel has been receiving his holiday stock of goods doing the past month, a fact which explains the extent of his loss. He has been busy taking an account of stock since Tuesday and there is a possibility that his damage might run even higher than the $8,000 figure. He is only partially covered by insurance. The building, which is owned by Leo Slonim, was damaged to the extent of about $500.

Another blaze in the business district occurred shortly after 6 o'clock Monday night, when a building at 172 East Front street, owned by Dr. Albert Pittis and occupied by the store kept by the Misses Meyer and O'Connor, proprietoress of a ladies' lace and furnishing store, was found to be ablaze. It was discovered shortly after the place had been closed for the night and as there had been no furnace or stove fire in the place in the store during the day the origin is a mystery. The damage was kept down to a total of $1,000, divided evenly between the building and contents. The loss in each instance is covered by insurance.

Mrs. Crist Asks Sale of Hackettstown Hotel

Upon the complaint of Mrs. Chalmers L. Crist, of this city, one of the heirs of the late Jacob W. Welsh, of German Valley, a petition has been filed in the Chancery Court by her counsel, Prosecutor William A. Stryker, of Washington, asking that the American House at Hackettstown be sold at master's sale.

The hotel has been owned jointly for many years by R. S. McCracken, the proprietor since 1879, and the Welsh estate has been endeavoring to dispose of its interest in the property without court action, but has failed to bring about a satisfactory adjustment.

Loan Subscriptions Here Not Up To Expectations

Announcement came from the Plainfield Liberty Loan committee this morning that the actual subscriptions now in hand for this district, which includes North Plainfield, was between six hundred thousand and seven hundred thousand dollars. This amount is very much below what should be in hand now as the quota for Plainfield is $3,459,000 and Friday, October 27, is the time limit set by the Government. The committee expected at least one million by this time. North Plainfield has been allotted $400,000 as its particular portion and of this amount has secured $130,000.

The local committee has determined to continue the big "drive" commenced Wednesday night by the meeting in the Plainfield Theatre and hopes to have a much better showing the forepart of next week. North Plainfield is also redoubling its efforts, and to that end will hold a mass meeting in Debele's Hall next Wednesday night. Francis Sill, chairman of the North Plainfield committee, will preside and a prominent speaker will make an address. Mayor William L. Smalley and leading borough residents will also give brief talks.

Rector Talks on Posters And the Saloon Question

On Sunday at St. Mary's church, Father Bogan permitted himself a diversion from the Scriptural sermon he had prepared—a diversion which, though parenthetical, left in his hearers a desire that he had followed the line of thought further into the channels he most pertinently indicated. At the 11 o'clock Mass he referred to his solicitude for the younger members of his congregation against whose lives of gullelessness the tempter's most deadly darts were hurled, and bespoke for their protection a watchfulness from their parents that would surely be rewarded in the manliness of their sons and the womanliness of their daughters from whom the flagrant dangers of the day would be deflected. "So long as the human race shall last," he said, "there will be tendencies downward, and so long as the belief in Christianity shall mould the mind of humanity there will be heavensent influences to stay those tendencies, uplift the sinking mind and reconstruct human society on lines worthy of the Divine influences exerted. None better than the devil knows the value to his cause of the soul of childhood. Malign as that influence is and reparable as the loss entailed by submission to its allurements, its insatiable hunger for victims of its foulness follows the years of childhood through the opening years that succeed on and ever on until grey hairs are bowed over the wreck of human joys and blasted hopes look back on a prospect as foul and remorseful as hell itself.

"To avert so far as possible these horrors from the lambs of the flock who first are sought for their blighting influence, is a duty to the household and to society. To accept with docility and use with confidence the heavenly helps of religion is the bounden duty demanded by conscience whose final accounting shall soon, very soon, be heard by saint and sinner alike from the lips of the Judge Divine. When flaunting sin pandering to human passion beckons from every poster board and points to its lively and living seductions giving the time, the place and the paltry price of admission, indignation surges to the lips and demands a hearing for its protest. Frightened innocence catches the angry tone of the demand and by the very force of its champions and in the very protest learns that the garrish allurement only garbs the sin that 'like Dead Sea fruit, tempts the eye but turns to ashes on the lips.' I have been invited at times to lend my influence to the uplifting agitations and have willingly joined the forces for betterment wherever in so doing I recognized the opportuneness and the need for the unfortunate poor or the more direly unfortunate rich. Wrong and reform misfortune sits not in rags in its hovels but too frequently wallows in unappreciated wealth and worse defying the known laws of God—made for the rich and poor alike—flaunts its contempt under the approving canons of 'society.'

"In company with the time-worn entertainment that seemingly enjoys putting the Catholic friends high up among the shelved absurdities as image-worshippers, indulgence-traffickers, treason-stratagists and, if the flag be near at hand, unAmerican interlopers, is the piece de resistance that 'gets the gallery,' their prevalence for infidelity and divorce. That is in our city a respectable element to whom these reiterations have long since become repugnant, and who, though sharing not in my religious belief would feel genuine regret were I to accept a recent and most urgent invitation to speak at least once my 'much frequented' arena of politics. Much as I deplore the sin of drunkenness and genuine as my sympathy is in the proper sphere of priestly activity with any movement that makes for the lessening of the prevalence of drunkenness and its mistakable ills as my warnings have been in the arena where its denunciation is in keeping with the dignity of my pulpit, I have yet to learn that the morality of temperance—the only dependable temperance—will be so inculcated in the arena of politics, for such Prohibition is.

"It has been urged that a definite statement is needed to save me from being 'lined up with the saloon forces.' For such a challenge I do not allow myself the indulgence of contempt. Drunkenness is a deadly sin—as likewise is adultery, the kultured eugenists to the contrary notwithstanding. Yes, the world may relegate sin to the absurdities of superstition. It yet remains at least a very grave inconvenience to torture remnant conscience. You, my dear people, believe it to be any willful thought, word and deed or ommission contrary to the law of God.' Were it in my power by moral influence to win humanity to temperance, I should feel myself a chosen one of God should I with my dying breath pronounce the seal of its security. With the deservedly jealous protection thrown around the license to saloon-keepers—in the accredited, or discredited black-list of drunkards given to them, and in the list of unfortunates voluntarily agreed upon by saloon-keepers themselves, in the infrequency of drunkenness as seen about us, we have indeed reason to be proud of the combination of cooperation that already places Plainfield the best governed city in the state. If the genuineness of the sinner who rejects the command of God within the sacred duties of marriage,—hold in righteous contempt the pandarer to the convenience—then, in God's name rest in the conviction that the pulpit has not expended its influence in vain for God as for humanity."

Great Cost of The World War

The second Liberty Loan of $3,000,000,000 will be applied to the $20,000,000,000 war bill of the United States to June 30, 1918. This vast total of American expenses, however, is only one-fifth of the cost of the war to the other belligerent governments.

The actual cost to date, based on figures to the first of this year and the daily rate of expenditure since then, is $92,815,875,000. This includes Uncle Sam's $2,000,000,000 Liberty Loan.

Great Britain has been the biggest spender, with $22,939,375,000 to her credit. This does not include Canada's $645,700,000, nor the $763,800,000 spent by Great Britain's other colonies.

The other Entente Allies have spent: France $15,114,000,000; Russia, $12,868,000,000; Italy, $5,911,000,000; Belgium, $763,000,000; Serbia, $603,000,000, and Rumania, $796,000,000.

The Central Allies have spent much less, according to the figures available. Germany's expenditures are estimated at $20,333,000,000; Austria's, $8,003,000,000; Turkey's, $1,059,000,000, and Bulgaria's, $784,500,000.

Christine Miller Invites Music Folk To Private Hearing

A number of prominent musicians and music lovers have received cards of introduction to a private hearing to be given by Christine Miller, the eminent American contralto, at the Plainfield High School, November 6, 1917, at 8:30 P. M.

This charming artist has risen to great popularity on the concert stage through sheer ability and personality, and has achieved remarkable success for one of her years.

She has appeared as soloist with Boston, Handel and Hayden Society at a number of occasions; with the New York Oratory Society, the Toronto Choir, the Chicago Appollo Club, Pittsburgh Mozart, Boston

Christine Miller

Symphony, New York Symphony, Chicago Symphony, Cincinnati Symphony, and Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, as well as in many of the important musical festivities.

Miss Miller was selected as the representative American artist to illustrate at San Francisco (The World's Fair) on Edison Day, October 21, the success which Mr. Edison has attained in his research work in acoustics and toward the recreation of sound without distortion.

Miss Miller will present at the High School the same interesting series of scientific experiments and comparisons of tone values that were presented by her in San Francisco. Miss Miller will be assisted by Jac Glockner, a capable 'cellist, who comes from the Edison Laboratories, to assist in these experiments.

Cards of introduction may be received by calling, 'phoning or writing to Vogel & Briggs, Edison Diamond Disc Studio, 310 West Front street, this city.

New Jersey Hotelmen Plan "Meatless" Days

The New Jersey hotelmen met at the American Hotel Exposition, in the First Regiment Armory, Philadelphia, Wednesday afternoon, with Charles J. Fury, of Trenton, president of the New Jersey State Hotel Association, presiding. The hotelmen at this session went a step further than any of the other States in the Union, declaring for an absolutely meatless Tuesday as long as the war lasts, in a resolution which reads as follows:

"Whereas, The United States Food Administration has asked the hotels, clubs, restaurants and dining cars, to conserve foodstuffs and particularly meats; therefore be it

"Resolved, That in a spirit of patriotism and desire to cooperate, the New Jersey State Hotel Association, beginning Tuesday, October 23, and continuing every Tuesday throughout the duration of the war, will refrain from serving beef, lamb, mutton, veal, pork and other meat products; and be it further

"Resolved, That in such business circles of New Jersey, Tuesday shall be known as a meatless day."

State Bulletin Reports Big Onion Crop This Year

Throughout the country in general the acreage planted in onions this year was more than fifty per cent. greater than that harvested last fall, says Alexis L. Clark, chief of the bureau of markets of the State Board of Agriculture, in his weekly news market bulletin issued today. The condition of this crop on September 1 last for the entire country, it is stated, is reported at 85.4 compared with 82.3 as the average of the past ten years. The bulletin announces that New Jersey is not a great onion bearing State, but the native product can be bought now, which is grown in a limited way by nearby farmers.

Referring to sweet potatoes, the bulletin says:

"New Jersey people do not realize the value of this great food crop. It is one of the leading crops of the State and Gloucester and Cumberland counties are among the leading counties in the country producing 'sweets.' As a food this crop has much to recommend it and it pays any household diet. 'Sweets' can be bought now by the basket or bushel direct from farmers in sections south of Newark and Trenton."

Referring to cooperative buying, the report says:

"Many factory owners and employers are carrying out the plan of buying potatoes by car lots for their employes. Other products are reported as being bought from nearby growers by wagon loads. It has been said that it cost our poorest people the most for their food. Small quantities on credit have doubtless often some foundation for this statement. Surely an employer who makes it possible for his helpers to get such things as potatoes, turnips and onions at wholesale prices is doing a service worthy of war times.

"One cooperative potato growers' association has sold several carloads to employers and a carload to a public market committee in a Union county city."

Not Satisfied With Ground Dangers "Clem" Bechtel Will Now Try Aviation

When it comes to writing war letters with real, sure enough "atmosphere" in them you have to "hand it" to "Clem" Bechtel, the Plainfield young man who was one of the first from this city to enter the American Field Ambulance corps in France. He has been in the middle of all the turbulance marking the terrible struggle between the allies and the Central Powers on the western front and, naturally enough, sees lots of incidents worth telling about. "Clem" was always a fellow for observing and having the gift of description can put the occurrences in a most absorbing, readable form.

On several previous occasions the Record has given extracts from the young man's letters to local friends. We now give below one that was written in September but which only reached Plainfield this week. It was addressed to Thomas M. Muir and beside telling of an aeroplane fight which he described previously and which was printed in these columns, he tells of numerous other things that give one an idea of the danger he goes through each day. However, there is no such word as "danger" in "Clem" Bechtel's lexicon. When he was at home previous to the beginning of the hostilities he was always ready to "take a chance," letting the consequences be what they might. This is a failing that is pardonable in wartimes and makes the best kind of a soldier.

Driving an ambulance close to the trench lines and dodging bursting shells to get a wounded man ought to be excitement enough for anybody but not so with "Clem." He now proposes to take up aviation and if he gets his commision, which we have no doubt he will, Plainfielders can rest assured that "Pilot" Bechtel will put Carleton avenue on the map of Northern France. It may also be possible that the German aviators will ask their headquarters many, if they get back there just what sort of a place Plainfield, N. J., is when it produces such daring "birdmen."

"Clem's" letter is so replete with red-blooded incidents that we reproduce it in full as follows:

"Somewhere in France,"
"September 17.

"Dear Tom:

"I suppose by this time you have learned that I am over here in the the American Red Cross Ambulance Service, and no doubt you have often wondered why I did not see some of my Plainfield friends before leaving. The fact is I signed up on a Thursday and left the following Saturday, May 26.

"Came over on the Rochambeau, of the French Line, and of course was looking for U-boats all the way over. Did not see any, however, the Paris papers stated that we had been chased by no less than three, slept out on deck the last three nights and it sure was great sport. Life preservers on and life boats out.

"Made Bordeaux on June 4 about 6 P. M. Stayed over night and went on to Paris the next day. Reported at headquarters on the 6th, and was in camp on the 9th. After three weeks' training was placed in a section with forty-four other fellows and left for Dyon, where our cars awaited us.

"A section consists of forty-five volunteers, a leader, French lieutenant, three French sergeants, two cooks and three mechanics. We have twenty Fiat ambulances, a Fiat cameon and a Vermorel touring car for staff use. I was chosen to drive the latter and did so until a few days ago. I asked to be given an ambulance as I am going in for aviation and wanted to try the ambulance for a time.

"Well we left Dyon on the fourth of July in a driving rain. An English woman gave me a beautiful bouquet to place on the staff car and of course we led the convoy. I could not help thinking what a strange thing is war. In 1776 we gave John Bull a man sized slap on the wrist and there we are in 1917 teamed up with him on the little fellow that helped to administer the slap. As the French say, "C'est la Guerre."

"The night of the Fourth we spent in a beautiful little village. Did not forget we were Americans and had a real old-fashioned blow-out at the town's hotel. We were quartered in a private house and it is the last I have seen of a bed since then. However, we have cots that are tip-top.

"Well we arrived at the front on the 9th of July and since that time have seen all kinds of service. I have been through gas, up to the first line of trenches, had a peep at the Germans and have had their damned shells break everywhere but in my coffee.

"We worked four posts for twenty-seven days and then went back for a short repose. Are now back at the same posts. I am on duty tonight or rather this morning and am sitting on an 'abri' (bomb proof) just about a mile from the lines. Right over my head there is a battery of the famous 75's and a little to the right, one of, 155's. When the latter goes off my candle goes out. By the way, Tom, where does a candle go when it goes out?

"I am going to try a description of a fight in the air. I have seen many German planes brought down but the fight I am going to write of was a sure enough 'humdinger.' Our camp was in the ruins of what must have been at one time a beautiful village. One morning about eleven o'clock a large German plane of the battle clan carrying a pilot and a German came on us, looking for trouble. They soon found it in the shape of a speedy little French 'Spad' with a cocky little Frenchman in the middle. They went to it and after a few moments of breathless watching we felt sure the Germans were making their last flight. After a very daring dive by the Frenchman the German dipped and started down end over end. The little plane, not to be fooled by any ruse of an expere 'birdman,' followed it down in dizzy spirals, finding its leaden mesmake of death into the falling plane. It was no trick, however, for the Fritzie came to earth with a crash. We ran over and I secured some fine pictures, also souvenirs. One of these is a large piece of the 'Iron Cross' that was painted on the body. It was the Frenchman's first catch and he sure was cocky and proud. The soldiers carried the German plane off piece by piece as souvenirs, leaving nothing but the motor. The aviator was then went up for an exhibition flight. He was a wonderful flyer and did the 'falling leaf,' which is to turn the plane over and over like a corkscrew and is much harder than looping the loop. Well enough of the air.

"Yesterday four of us went out to the first line trenches and I am here to tell you I have some pictures that would make any war correspondent green with envy. Two of us climbed up over the trench and took four pictures each. The damned Germans fired on us and my last picture is of a shell bursting less than twenty yards from us. The German planes have visited our camp for the last three nights. We have three large white tents and they make us a fine target. The night of the 5th they were very active. Another chap and I have a little hut on a hill overlooking the tents. I was sitting in the window looking out over the front at the various artillery signals and rockets for the planes when a German plane dropped five bombs at our tents. I saw two hit less than 100 yards away (87 to be exact), and throw the dirt high in the air. The other three landed about 300 yards away. These bombs make a hole 30 feet in diameter when they land in soft ground. I have seen the same bombs hit a building and leave nothing but ruins. They got one of the hospitals that we use to take wounded to and killed about 200 persons, including some nurses. Well, Tom, this letter is assuming the proportion of a book so I guess I will turn in for a few minutes' sleep. Give my regards to all the boys and send me one of your papers.

FRIEND "BECK."

Dellevie's Tours Plan Excursions to Camp McClellan

Plainfield parents who have sons in Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala., as members of the former Troop D and Company K units will have a splendid opportunity to visit their boys at the Southern cantonment through arrangements now perfected by Dellevie's Tours, of New York, which conducts personally conducted trips to all parts of the world. Plans have been completed whereby week-end trips will be made over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at greatly reduced costs and beside permitting a full days' stay at Camp McClellan will enable the sightseers to make stop-overs at Washington, Mt. Vernon and other places of interest by special arrangement. Two special holiday excursions are also being arranged to take place over the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday period. Special arrangements for clubs, lodges and societies to visit the camp in a body can be made. The train each time is to be made up of Pullman sleepers. Owing to the almost utter impossibility of getting hotel accommodations at Anniston and Spartanburg because of the great rush at these points, the tour lists can retain their berths in the sleeping cars which will be parked or "side-tracked."

The Dellevie Tours is also conducting special trips to the New York State Camp at Spartanburg, South Carolina, under the same conditions as those to Anniston. There are numerous Plainfield people who have relatives or friends in the Spartanburg camp and this will give them an opportunity of making a visit there. Another plan of the touring concern is to make the trip down South by boat to Charleston, S. C., and thence by either train or automobile to the two camps. As the accommodations are to be limited each time, those intending to make the journey are requested to communicate with Dellevie's Tours at once. The head office is in the Long Acre Building, 1476 Broadway, New York. 'Phone, Bryant 7170, Special Tours Department. A representative of the company will be in Plainfield each week to furnish all information desired. His headquarters will be announced in the advertising columns of the Record, the first advertisement appearing today.

As there are nearly 400 Plainfield young men located at Anniston and number of others at Spartanburg as members of New York divisions it is believed that a large number of persons in this city will be quick to take the chance to see just what sort of surroundings the boys are in. The two camps themselves are a scene never to be forgotten as they are among the largest ever constructed in the world and beside shaking hands with the Plainfield lads there is the opportunity of making a trip through the beautiful South.

Engine and Car Take Big Drop

Locomotive No. 174, known as the Plainfield pusher, and a big steel gondola ran off the end of a side track into the excavation being made for the new Central Railroad underwestfield avenue, Westfield, at 3:10 o'clock, Monday afternoon. Engineer William Bodine, of Roselle, and Fireman Bernard McGovern, of Dunellen, jumped from the locomotive just before it plunged headlong into the twenty-one-foot hole and dug its nose in the soft mud. Twenty men working in the excavation also had narrow escapes from being killed.

William Becker, of Railway avenue, Westfield, the driver of a dirt cart, was seated on his rig. When the locomotive started over the opening he jumped between his horses and ran out of danger. The heavy locomotive fell on the dirt wagon, but failed to hit the horses, which escaped without a scratch. Fifteen laborers working in the excavation climbed up the embankment and under the tracks and thereby saved their lives. An inclined plane and hopper being used in the excavation was wrecked by the falling locomotive, and two Italians at work on the top of the hopper were thrown into the excavation. They received several scratches, but were not otherwise hurt. All of the men at work on the undercrossing are in the employ of the Cadmus Construction Company, of New York.

The Plainfield pusher crew was in charge of Conductor Edward Manning, of Bayonne, and the crew was engaged in drilling cars into Tuttle Brothers' coal shed when the accident happened. The locomotive was being operated backward on the siding and was pulling two empty gondolas. A pile of railroad ties and a red flag were at the end of the track but the locomotive slid into them and when it reached the end of the track the tender fell first, followed by the locomotive and the car. The car hung half way over the end of the track and into the opening. Engineer Bodine claimed that his brakes would not hold the heavy "hog" type locomotive and that it skidded into the hole.

When the locomotive struck headon in the mud at the bottom of the excavation, the wheels whizzed around and a cloud of steam obscured the scene. Arthur D. Tuttle, of Tuttle Brothers, telephoned for the police and fire departments. The firemen drew the fires from under the boilers of the locomotive. Chief of Police John C. Rosecrans detailed Sergeant Edward Nelson and Officers Joseph Beck, J. Mixner and Harry Detter to the scene, to which over 1,000 persons were quickly attracted.

Only a short time before the locomotive fell into the excavation a steam shovel was at work on the spot where it fell, but this machine had been moved out of the course of the locomotive. Wrecking crews arrived quickly on the scene and soon had the gondola and tender of the locomotive on the track. The wrecker was unable to raise the locomotive until Tuesday, owing to the difficulty of lifting the heavy weight such a long distance.

Scarcity of Sugar May Curtail Candy

Warning that there would be a temporary shortage of sugar in the Eastern and Southern States and that consumers must cooperate to meet conditions, was given Wednesday night by Herbert C. Hoover, food administrator. Unless the consumption of candy and sweets is cut down at least one-third, he said, it might be necessary to place these articles on a rationing basis.

Mr. Hoover said prices should not go up to the consumer, and under agreements made with the industry New York should buy its sugar at a retail price of eight cents. He asks consumers to join in refusing to pay exorbitant prices. Retailers are requested to sell only in small quantities to consumers. A recent appeal made for sugar conservation, Mr. Hoover said, had not been met generally. He again requested the public to aid him in his effort to supply America and still make shipments to France, where renewed supplies were necessary.

FANWOOD GIRL APPEARS IN PITTSBURGH BENEFIT.

The New York Winter Garden's success of last season, "The Show of Wonders," which is now appearing in the largest cities of the country, conducted a benefit ball and entertainment in the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh last week. All the performers in the company took part as did those of other theatrical organizations in the city. The proceeds of the affair going to purchase tobacco and other needs of soldier boys from Western Pennsylvania.

Among the members of the "Show of Wonders" who had a prominent place on the program was Miss Virginia Lee Clover, of Fanwood, who is known professionally as "Virginia Lee." She is a clever dancer and received a tremendous ovation following her contribution to the benefit entertainment. Miss Glover is featured in the dancing number of the "Show of Wonders" and is rapidly rising in the professional ranks. The company is appearing at Baltimore and Washington this week. Miss Glover is the daughter of Mrs. J. L. Glover, of Fanwood, who travels with her.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

John G. Freund, editor of the Musical America, will address the Monday afternoon Club of Plainfield at the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church next Tuesday afternoon, on "Musical Independence of the United States." He will also speak on the same day at the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools.

Frank Carpenter and William Alderman, drivers of automobiles which collided at Central avenue and West Third street on September 28, resulting in a serious injury to Miss Sarah Carney, who was passing at the time, were arraigned in the city court this week but the case went over one month owing to the condition of Miss Carney, who is still in Muhlenberg Hospital.

The headquarters of the Plainfield Exemption Board were moved this week from the law offices of Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, who resigned as chairman, to those of William R. Godfrey, who has been appointed chairman in his place.

Under the direction of a committee comprising Joseph W. Gavet, Herman Schyed and Adolph Tepper, a rally of the merchants of Plainfield was held at noon Monday at the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of arousing the business men's interest in the Liberty Loan campaign and to discuss plans for making a canvass. Judge Henry J. Crane presided and outlined the plans.

At a meeting of the Common Council Monday night, the salary of Fire Chief Andrew D. Jennings was advanced by unanimous vote to $2,000 per annum. He had previously been receiving $1,800.

Copies of a "chain" letter, received Monday by members of the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church pretending to be in favor of the Red Cross, led Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, chairman of the North Plainfield Chapter, publicly to warn people to ignore such letters.

Mrs. Nellie Kenyon, district deputy of Newark, visited Princess Mary Lodge, Daughters of St. George, of this city, Wednesday night, when plans for aiding war relief work were discussed.

Walter Freeman, of 1008 South avenue, lost control of his automobile on Park avenue, near Randolph road, Wednesday afternoon, and collided head-on with a trolley pole. The impact was so hard the trolley wires were broken from their moorings and the auto was badly smashed. Patrolman Henry placed Freeman under arrest on a technical charge and he will be given a hearing in the city court tomorrow. He suffered slight abrasions and was treated at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., gave a "ladies' night" at the Junior Clubhouse on East Front street, Tuesday evening. Progressive euchre and dancing followed by refreshments were features of the program.

C. H. Lippincott, who has for some time conducted a fish and vegetable market at 107-109 Somerset street, has disposed of the business to George V. Vegite, of Jackson avenue, the deal being made this week.

Miss Harriet Connolly, of Park avenue, who was recently accepted by the Red Cross Society for a nursing unit, will leave next Sunday for Columbia, S. C., where she will join a hospital corps at Camp Jackson. Miss Connolly is a graduate of Muhlenberg Hospital and formerly lived at Easton.

The "Tag Day" conducted by the City Union of King's Daughters last Saturday realized more than $1,250, the goal set by the society. The money is to be used in defraying the expenses of the Day Nursery and the new children's infirmary.

Contractors Walter Agar, carpenter, and Howard Huff, mason, have been engaged this week in changing the front of the West End fire house on West Fourth street, opposite Darrow avenue. The arched entrances will be changed to ones of square design and new swinging doors are to replace the ones that have been doing service since the building was erected twenty years ago. The work is being done under the supervision of the Fire Board and is to cost about $500.

Miss Helen Besler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Besler, of West Seventh street, will give a musical concert in the Hartridge auditorium Thursday night, for the benefit of the Plainfield boys at Camp Dix.

The Saurer Mutual Aid Society, composed of employes of the International Motor Company at the West Front street plant, has purchased $500 worth of Liberty Bonds. This is the first organization of the kind to aid in financing the war problem.

Tony Lombardi, a member of the city street department's laboring gang, was overcome by gas while working in a trench at Third street and Clinton avenue Wednesday noon. He was rescued in an unconscious condition and was rushed to Muhlenberg Hospital in the police patrol. He responded to treatment and was able to go home later in the day.

Owing to the illness of Judge William G. DeMeza, no sessions of the City Court have been held the past week. All cases booked for trial have been held over until the magistrate can return to his desk.

The new street paving work has progressed rapidly during the past week. Contractor Bentley completed Madison avenue, between Front and Second streets, Monday, and it was opened to traffic Tuesday. The concrete is now being laid on North avenue in preparation for the laying of brick and this thoroughfare may be completed in about two more weeks. The Newark Paving Company began work on Park avenue Tuesday, starting at West Seventh street. The men will work north to Fourth street in preparation for brick paving. The work of double tracking the trolley line on Watchung avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, and the installation of a Y at Fourth street and Watchung avenue has impeded the paving work on Watchung avenue, although on that thoroughfare for the block below Fifth street the men are making good headway.

Governor Walter Edge commenced a tour of the State, Wednesday, in behalf of the State Republican nominees. His itinerary will include North Plainfield, where he will speak on Saturday night, October 27.

Joseph Mercer, of West Fourth street, and Thomas Lappin, of Watchung avenue, have been appointed probationary members of the city fire department. They began their new duties this week.

Vivid War Films From Italy Coming To the Plainfield

Whatever impression is to be gained from seeing the first official war films of the Italian Government, called "The Italian Battlefront," which will be shown at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, matinee and evening, there is one truth that strikes home from the very start, and it is this: When the time comes for the history of the great European conflict to be written, Italy will be credited with furnishing invaluable assistance to the Entente during the early stages of the war, despite the fact that popular opinion is not of that complexion at the present time.

Historians writing dispassionately and at a time when they will have the proper prospective, will record in their pages that the part Italy played in the war even in the fall of 1914, before she had declared war on Austria, was of paramount importance to the Powers aligned against Prussian militarism. In August, 1914, Italy declared her neutrality. It was a benevolent neutrality, however, and France knew it. Italy withdrew her 500,000 soldiers stationed on the French border, thus enabling France to withdraw an equal number of trained fighting men to send them to the succour of Paris. It is now conceded by certain military experts that this act on the part of Italy was the saving of Paris. As it so happened, the Germans came perilously near taking the city. Would they not have taken it if the French army had not been reinforced by the splendid fighting organization from the Franco-Italian border? Von Kluck was thrown back and the credit of saving Paris must be given to Italy for her neutrality was responsible for the necessary balance of Power on the part of the French.

Again it will be shown by historians how Italy helped the great push of the Muscovite armies in the summer of 1916. In May of that year Archduke Frederick launched his great offensive from the Trentino against the Italians on the plains below, the Italians in this sector, as in all others, being obliged to go up, whilst the Austrians had only to come down. The Austrian army, with its great 42 centimetre guns rolled down on the cheerful plains of Venetia.—they appeared irresistible. The Italians, resisting, fought tenaciously and determined to make them pay dearly for whatever ground they won. For some reason, which has still to be made clear, when victory was in their grasp, the Austrian horde stopped. It may have been the urgent call for divisions on the Eastern front. They then determined to fall back on positions in the mountains prepared for them, which they could leave garrisoned with comparatively small numbers of soldiers and rush division after division to Galicia. General Cadorna determined, however, to circumvent them. Inside of a week he had gathered 500,000 soldiers at the Trentino front. This feat of transportation of troops itself, together with the apprehending thereof, the munitioning, and the arrangement and carrying to tuition of all the other important factors attendant upon a successful campaign, must ever remain one of the crowning achievements of the great General Cadorna's career. Cadorna did his work quickly and so well that the Austrians could not retreat as they had planned, but had to fight all the way. The result was they had to retain their 400,000 troops for quite a time, and could not send them to Galicia. The Russian general, Brusiloff, was enabled to make great headway in Galicia, thanks to the diversion caused by the counter-offensive effected by General Cadorna against the Austrians in the Trentino.

CITY HALL STRIKE NOT A "SQUARE DEAL."

It is quite difficult to figure out just what sort of tact the Monahan Stone Company is taking in holding up the work at the City Hall. Officials of the concern admit that Plainfield owes it no money, that its dealings in the Plainfield contract were purely with the P. F. Kenny Company and that the building committee has already paid for the stone work, yet they refused to call off the strike that was ordered more than a week ago. Nobody doubts but what the Monahan people have a "come-back" to the main contractor but why make this municipality the "goat?" The executives in charge of the work have done everything possible to finish the structure to the best interest of all concerned and they deserve encouragement rather than opposition. So far as the Monahan Company is concerned, the city does not know of its existence in a legal sense and yet without any claim that would hold in the court of law, the Monahan representatives call a strike that has already been a serious addition to the troubles of the building committee.

Plainfield cannot pay the $13,000 to the complaining company even if it wanted to, because there is absolutely no reason for it. The suggestion that "the rich men of this city go down in their pockets" for the amount is little short of a "hold-up" scheme. The only one to "dig down" is the Kenny Company and if this concern is unable to pay its obligations it is no excuse for trying to grab the amount away from the Plainfield people who supposed that Mr. Monahan knew enough about business to protect his own interests. The time for him to have taken a stand was when the regular payments to the subcontractors were held up. That was enough to show him that something was wrong. If he wanted to he could have found out from the city clerk or the city treasurer that Plainfield is handing over the cash just as soon as the supervising architects certified work and when a contractor who is getting cash holds up payments to sub-contractors or gives notes for what is due them, it is a sure sign that all is not right.

As the matter stands at present, the ordering of the strike takes all union men off the job and consequently ties up the other contractors who are not at all concerned with the general contract. As long as the strike continues the hall cannot be made a "fair" job. The city has no desire to finish the structure with non-union labor but it does seem as though it has not been given a square deal. The only recourse for the municipality is to appeal to the Federation of Labor and we entertain the belief that that organization will refuse to sanction the action of the local unions in continuing the tie-up.

MANY LOST VOTES THROUGH CARELESS MARKING.

The recount of the Republican primary votes for surrogate has disclosed a number of striking instances where the voter, even though his intentions may have been all right, lost his vote. In the minute inspection of the ballots by the Board of Elections there came to light many peculiar features in the markings, many of which were from the Plainfield districts. In some instances the primary election officials passed the vote in good faith, but with a recount the inspections naturally became more detailed and all ballots were thoroughly scrutinized.

In a majority of the cases of rejected ballots the chief error consisted of making a long string of X's wherever a name appeared, regardless of the instructions as to how many were to be voted upon. These ballots are void on the face of them. For instance, but three Assembly candidates were to be voted upon and five names appeared. The voter, for good measure, in many instances voted for all five. The entire ballot is therefore void.

The next error consisted of making a three line X, that is, giving an extra line to the original X. The courts have held that this is a marked ballot, indicating the voter intended the extra line as a distinguishing mark.

The writing in of names invalidated many votes. In many instances the writing in was apparently done as a joke. Constable is the favorite office of the jokesters and no less than forty-two names were written in on different ballots. Justice Bergen has held that where the name is given in full, such as John J. Jones, it can be counted, but where Jones is simply written in the ballot is void. In one instance the name O'Brain appeared. The capital O and the rest of the letters "brain" were separated. The board counted the vote for O' brain. If the man ever appears he can claim the distinction of getting one vote for constable. Dr. in front of a name is not permitted, neither is M. D. or Dem., Rep., Soc. in written names.

One instance of DR. was found and the letters being separated the initials of the man were officially recorded by the board as D. R. This they regarded as a strict interpretation of the law. The fact that these ballots were counted gave the surrogate candidates a vote, as the names usually written in were for other offices.

Coroner is also a favorite office for the jokesters. They write in names of candidates for important offices in the coroner column. If the full name appears the vote is counted, if not is is rejected.

The making of the X plays an important part in the vote. A great many voters were rejected because they looked like a Y and the lines did not actually cross within the box, as the law states. Some make their X like a V. This is also void, the lines not crossing.

As many as 200 ballots were rejected because there was no X in front of the name of any candidate. This is due to the fact that many appear at the primary booth for the purpose of registering only. Why they go to the trouble of going into the booth without marking their ballot is inexplainable.

About 100 ballots with names written in for other candidates affected the surrogate result. They had to be rejected because not complying with the law.

The voter, however, is becoming more proficient in the use of the ballot and the surrogate recount showed a marked improvement over either the Kelly-Parrot, Excise or Capstick-Fowler recounts in the matter of intelligent voting.

AIDING THE SOLDIERS IN CORRESPONDENCE.

There is one thing the great Government of the United States should not forget. There is nothing that will keep the soldiers and sailors of the republic wherever they are located, in France, in some training camp or on duty, in good spirits and satisfied with their lot as to facilitate the means of correspondence between them and their friends and loved ones at home.

There is nothing that eases the strain of sacrifice and duty of those away from home so greatly as to allow them, as often as they are able to do so, to pour out heart and soul to those at home who care and understand. Congress should take action at once to extend the franking privilege to the enlisted men. It should also be allowed them to write home what is in their thoughts. The correspondence of the enlisted men, it seems, should only be censored enough to prevent their letters giving out military secrets that would be of use to enemy spies and sympathizers into whose possession they might happen to fall.

It is impossible for the general American public to understand why it should be necessary to keep the fact of the landing of military contingents sent to Europe, and who are safely in the country of their designation, from their friends on this side of the water. Why should waiting, anxious parents and relatives of American enlisted men be kept in ignorance of their whereabouts after they are safely landed in Europe?

The relatives of eligible sons would be much more willing to let them go into the service of their country if they were permitted to keep more closely in touch with them. Is there any real need of so much military red tape as is being used to safeguard the contingent of the expeditionary force? Canada has not found it necessary to employ so much secrecy and has not lost any men en route for English ports.

WHERE MERE MAN'S VIEW FALLS FAR SHORT.

What does a mere man know about knitting? Nothing at all. Yet a mere male being may have ideas about the economic value of American women spending valuable time knitting for the soldiers in a crisis like the present when everyone is called upon to do his or her best.

"Spillane," who writes a business letter from New York for the Philadelphia Public Ledger, contends that the knitters are operating at an economic loss. He says:

"For misapplied patriotism there probably is nothing in America today comparable to this work of knitting. One small automatic knitting machine can do more work than 100 women. Much of the yarn purchased by the women who knit is bought at a price which makes the article the woman turns out much more expensive than if it were made by machinery."

"Spillane" says, moreover, that the knitters, who are purchasing yarn in small quantities, are paying as high as $6.75 a pound for a product that is not actually valued at more than $2.50 a pound."

This business writer points out, moreover, that the mothers and daughters could accomplish much better patriotic service by releasing the servants in their homes, or some of them, to enter productive industrial tasks. It could be done, he points out, by their taking the place of a servant in the home tasks.

But what about the army of women who do both the knitting and the home tasks? The average mother or daughter who is really accomplishing good work knitting is more apt than not to be of the vast number of independent American women who do not employ servants. The knitting they do is work added to their other duties.

NO ROOM FOR HYMNS OF HATE.

The Hudson Observer, at the risk of bringing an avalanche of criticism down upon its defenseless head, notes that there are some persons whose patriotic ardor leads to the doing of things that are un-American. For instance, some who formerly patronized citizens of German birth or extraction, have ceased to do so since the declaration of war.

The fact that these business men are American citizens and have been for many years, the Observer observes, is forgotten because we happen to be at war with the county of their forbears. Inasmuch as they were in sympathy with the Fatherland before America entered the conflict, it is taken for granted that they must be of the same mind now. Americans worthy of the name will not discriminate because of accident of birth against those who have come to this country from other shores and showed themselves to be true Americans.

Only recently Mayor Mravlag received a communication asking for his opinion of a movement to melt up all metal works of art done by German hands, the metal to be used for relief work. The suggestion strikes as responsive a chord in the real American as would one that all the scientific text books, in many instances the best in the world, by German authors, be converted into wadding for guns, or that the German opera scores be destroyed.

We have frequently heard of "Hymns of Hate" in other countries now engaged in the great conflict. But here in America, where Americans are full-minded and their outlook unrestricted, these cannot be. There should be no room and there is no room for "hymns of hate" in America.—Elizabeth Times.

FACTS MR. BARROWS MIGHT LIKE TO KNOW.

Writing an anti-two platoon letter, this week, Elliot T. Barrows assumed that the life of a fireman in Plainfield was not hazardous. Wonder if Mr. Barrows heard of the two members of the department who were nearly killed by a falling floor at a blaze two weeks ago, of the captain who was badly hurt at headquarters last winter as he was jumping on the apparatus answering an alarm, or the driver who was sent to the hospital some months ago suffering from a broken ankle received by sliding down the pole too fast in his anxiety to answer duty's call? There are many other instances we could relate if Mr. Barrows is interested enough to want them, but we presume he is too busy expostulating the time is not opportune for giving the firemen a decent working day.

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When Plainfield had at least two streets that were not torn up?

When onions built you up physically but were not supposed to drag you down socially?

When old "Kaspar" went through town jingling a bell and shouting: "Auction, by Gillies, tonight!"

When there were no anti-germ fanatics to keep a thirsty mortal from getting a drink of water on a Jersey Central train?

When John Clark was Plainfield's lone cop and earned his salary chasing the boys home?

When gas or electricity meant nothing in our young lives and kerosene could be bought for nine cents a gallon?

When Park avenue or "Cherry street," as it was then known, was paved with tarred wooden blocks?

When the family was considered socially eligible if it possessed horse-hair furniture?

When Mr. Fleischmann had not invented his compressed yeast cakes and mother sent us to the bakeshops to get two cents' worth of fresh yeast in a pitcher?

Kreisler Concert Patronesses Named

The sale of tickets for the Kreisler concert, which will be held in the High School on October 26, has progressed so well that the success of the concert is assured. The Charity Organization Society is very anxious that people should realize how important this concert is to its work. The past year has seen the demands on the society increased many fold, no only because the poor of the community have had more difficult problems to meet on account of the high cost of living, but because the society has used the services of the society to a greater extent than ever before. This concert was chosen as a means of raising funds for two reasons, first, because Fritz Kreisler is one of the greatest violinists of the age, and second, because the society will not have to guarantee any specific amount to him, but gets a very large percentage of the gate receipts.

For those who heard Kreisler before, this is a great opportunity to compare his new program with that which he gave last year. His program is one of exceeding attractiveness and is drawn from sources of the best violin music of the 17th and 18th centuries.

The following is a list of those who have agreed to be patronesses of this concert:

The Misses Maud Van Boskerck and Alice Corey; the Mesdames Leighton Calkins, Ernest R. Ackerman, E. H. Booth, Isaac Schwed, Ellis W. Hedges, R. W. Everest, William B. Tyler, William L. Smalley, H. D. Hibbard, C. H. Frost, William G. DeMeza, DeWitt Hubbell, E. J. Patterson, C. E. Ryder, Leo Slonim, Frank C. Ard, L. V. P. Randolph, R. W. Charles, T. M. Day, H. E. Butler, Pierre Mali, Leslie R. Psychological Tests For Embryo Soldiers

Psychological tests for the rating of soldiers on the basis of mental aptitude were begun yesterday at four training camps, including that at Camp Dix, Wrightstown. About 160,000 men are to be graded under the new system devised by a committee of psychologists that includes H. H. Goddard, director of research of New Jersey State Training School, Vineland.

The work is undertaken, first, to supplement the medical examination, and, second, to give line officers estimates of the mental ability of their men. Reports of the psychological examinations will be made to the chief surgeon of the camp or the psychotic officer in order that mentally incompetent or psychotic men may be considered for discharge, and to the regimental company commanders in order that they may use this additional information concerning their men for the improvement of the service.

The National Guard mobilization camp at Sea Girt was the scene of one of the preliminary trials of the system of tests that has been adopted. Twice the psychologists tried out the systems they devised and the one to be applied is the result of experiments with more than 5,000 men.

Staffs of doctors trained in the administration of psychological tests have been assigned to each of the four camps in which the rating of the men will begin. At Camp Dix there will be four first lieutenants of the army medical corps and six civilians.

S. H. Spinney, of Providence, R. I., who has been stopping at the Hotel Kensington for the past two months, has leased the residence at 58 Manning avenue, the borough, and with his family will occupy it this winter. Mr. Spinney is a Government employe in charge of the munition work at the Scott shop on South avenue.

Miss Sarah A. Carney, who was injured in an automobile accident several weeks ago, continues to improve at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Mrs. Bert Cook, of Liberty street, who has been seriously ill with complications for the past month, was able to be out this week for the first.

Second Hit Hard By Transfering

Union county soldiers in the Second New Jersey Infantry have been hard hit by the National Army's program of reorganization which calls for the transformation of the First, Second and Fourth New Jersey Infantry units into the 113th Regiment of the Fifty-seventh Brigade under Colonel John D. Fraser, Jr., of the old First Infantry. Captain Charles C. Gordon, of Company F, Elizabeth, is the only captain of the three Elizabeth companies retained under the rebuilding plan, and he will command Company H, of the Second Battalion in the 113th Infantry. He will be assisted by First Lieutenants Albert I. Littell, of Plainfield; William Drake, of Trenton, and Andrew G. Koehler, of Somerville, and Second Lieutenant Charles F. Burr, of Trenton, and Wilfield S. Emmons, of Elizabeth.

First Lieutenants Drake and Littell have been taken from the regimental field and staff role, where they served as battalion adjutants, and attached to one of the new companies. Three first lieutenants, two second lieutenants and an enlisted personnel of fifty men are required for the National Army companies.

Captain Charles A. Peterson, of Company K, Plainfield, has been retained to captain Company F, of the new battalion, and he will be assisted by the following: First Lieutenants Charles R. Bohn, of Elizabeth; Basil Bowles, of Elizabeth, and J. H. Phillips Marbach, of Trenton, and Second Lieutenants Charles F. Ditmar, of Freehold, and James B. Conkling, of Plainfield.

Second Lieutenant Francis V. Lowden, of Elizabeth, is assigned to Company E, under Captain Howard W. Bodine, of Trenton, and First Lieutenant Arthur R. Phillips, of Plainfield, is assigned to the same unit as first lieutenant. Second Lieutenant Harvey C. Robins, of Elizabeth, goes to Company G, under Captain C. Frank Burr, of Trenton, and Second Lieutenant Wilfield S. Emmons, of Elizabeth, is transferred to Company G, under Captain Gordon.

The four companies of the new battalion will be formed from men from the following present companies of the Second Regiment: Men from Companies D, of Trenton; E, of Trenton; M, of Somerville, and headquarters company will form Company E; men from Companies E, of Trenton; C, of Elizabeth; K, of Plainfield; M, of Somerville, and headquarters, will form Company F; men from Companies A, of Trenton; C, of Elizabeth; I, of Elizabeth, and headquarters will form Company G, and men from Companies F, of Elizabeth; H, of New Brunswick, and M, of Somerville, will form Company H. C. L. Hyde, G. Megrew, Henry L. de Forest, Eugene H. Hatch, Richard Boardman, J. H. Case, H. Buxton, J. A. Peterkin, D. H. Rowland, F. D. Warren, Arthur B. Jones, William H. Murray, M. D., Cornelius B. Tyler, Walter Scott and William M. Wherry, Jr.

The commissioned officers in companies E, of Elizabeth, and K, of Plainfield, are included in the reorganization of the regiments, this being a compliment to the standard attained by these respective units. The men of Companies C and I, of Elizabeth, not included in the make-up of the new infantry regiment, will be assigned later to the depot brigade or field training along with Lieutenant-Colonel William B. Martin and Major Conrad Hall.

The Second Infantry units have already undertaken the task of breaking camp, and within a few days the new companies will be ready to take up the intensive training schedule on a new basis.

The site selected for the Second battalion of the 113th Regiment is just below that now occupied by the Elizabeth and Plainfield companies and the reorganization may therefore be completed with a minimum amount of moving.

New Jersey's five regiments of infantry and Delaware's one regiment have been combined in the following lists and this will hereafter be the official status of the Jersey and Delaware soldiers:

Fifty-seventh Brigade, consisting of five New Jersey regiments and one Delaware regiment, known as the 113th and 114th National Army regiments, commanded by Brigadier General Charles W. Barber.

"MIKE" COONEY FIGURES OUT THE ENDING OF THE WAR.

Michael Cooney, of West Fourth street, is a machinist by trade and consequently is called upon to use mathematics in figuring out problems that arise in his daily work. He became especially proficient in calculating while acting as foreman of the Vitaphone shop on North avenue and his success at working out difficult propositions concerning phonograph machinery led him into other channels. In a spare moment one evening not long since, the world was crowded into his thoughts and he began some tall figuring. When he got through, he had the following jotted down on a piece of paper for the edification of his friends:

"Add the year of birth to the year of taking oath of office or ascending throne, the number of years in office or length of time of reign, and the age in 1917 of the rulers or presidents of the nations at war, and the total will amount to 3,834 in each case, which, divided by 2, will be 1917."

"Mike" does not want to be placed on record as saying so, but nevertheless he confided to a Record reporter that he believes the 1917 means the date for the end of the war. The fact that the Government is going ahead with plans for a big campaign next year does not enter into the proposition, "Mike" says, because the figures he has worked out mean something and figures never tell falsehoods."

305 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N.Y.

Dear Sir:

I have your letters of July 13th and 20th, and replying thereto beg to say that I received a pair of "Dolighboy" shoes, and have worn them sufficiently long to be satisfied that they are well adapted to army purposes and especially to the rough usage of war.

Very truly yours,

Major General, U.S.A.

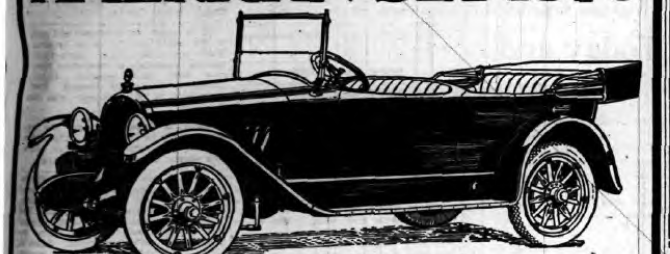
AMERICAN SIX $1375



SAFETY

When we set out to build the AMERICAN SIX, we had in mind an automobile of remarkable road comfort—a car, necessarily light, for economical advantages, yet with all the "cling-to-the-road" qualities that had formerly made the heavy car desirable.

We wanted a motor car that was easy riding at all speeds, that could take corners at a sensible speed without any skidding or overtoppling tendency, and still this car must be light.

After much effort we found the answer to be "scientific distribution of weight." By reducing the weight in the rear we were able to set the motor a trifle farther back on the frame, which has an amazing effect on the car's ability to hold the road.

The result is—we have attained in the AMERICAN SIX a Balance that is remarkable, ensuring Safety on the road, and this, after all, is the most essential feature of an automobile.

P. COWLEY GIVEN SURPRISE BY TWENTY-FIVE FRIENDS.

Peter Cowley, of Bergen street, was given a surprise party at his home a few nights ago by twenty-five of his friends, most of them being from the West End. He was totally unprepared for the coming but after the first "shock" was over helped to make everybody feel at home and join heartily in the fun.

Several hours were passed delightfully in the enjoyment of an informal program of music and dancing. While everyone joined in the singing of popular songs, solos were given by Miss Marie Dacey and piano selections contributed by the Misses Eileen Fraser, Mary Coulter and Daisy Cowley, while Peter Cowley entertained with violin numbers. Supper brought about a pleasing conclusion at midnight.

The affair was arranged by August and William Schlick, who had the assistance of the "victim's" mother, Mrs. Andrew Cowley, in springing the surprise. Among those present were the Misses Helen Bray, Marie Dacey, Florence Brick, Helen Kane, Eileen Fraser, Beatrice Dacey, Anna Kelly, Mary Coulter, Elizabeth Mottley, Marion Kane, Ester Hogan, Daisy Cowley, May Hart and Esther Miller, and Messrs. Thomas Bray, Edward Dacey, William Messler, August Schlick, Peter Cowley, Cyril Poling, William Coulter, Leo Keating, John Connors, James McCarthy, William Schlick and Thomas Moore.

Fr. Carricks Funeral

that the end was approaching. Rev. Father Hogan and Rev. Father Hennessey, who had been with Father Carrick almost constantly from the time his condition became critical, were at his bedside when the end came shortly after 12 o'clock. News of the demise was received with deep regret throughout the city, whether or not Father Carrick was known personally to the individual, making no difference. It was generally understood that he had no relatives in this country and that fact alone was sufficient to draw everyone to him. In addition to this there was the thought of the brilliant career before him and a knowledge of the part he had taken in the battle for life himself and to have the defeat come was a kindred sorrow.

Rev. Father Carrick first saw the light of day at Limerick, Ireland, where he was born in 1882. His parents were of a most respected family in the community but died when Charles was only a mere boy. His father passed away when he was but nine years of age and his mother's demise occurred two years later. The boy showed a most unusual aptitude for study, so much so that his uncle, Michael O'Regan, still residing at Trim, where he is the head of the County Meath Model Schools, lent every effort to give him a complete education. The boy advanced from one course to another with seemingly absolute ease, no subject proving too difficult for his comprehension. At the age of sixteen, he expressed his desire to study for the priesthood and those nearest him aided him in his determination.

The young man had practically finished a course in theology and philosophy at the University of Louvain in Belgium, when the advancing German army in 1914 caused him to leave the country in company with thousands of other refugees. He decided upon America as a new field of endeavor, arriving on this side of the Atlantic late in 1914. He immediately went to Washington, where he made application for admission to the priesthood. He was then but twenty-three years old and it required a special dispensation from Rome before his request could be granted as the Church decrees that an applicant must be twenty-five years of age before submitting to examination for Holy Orders. In Father Carrick's case every requirement was met and the Papal Order was issued. He passed all examinations with the highest honors and was ordained by Archbishop Bonzano, of Washington, the present Apostolic Delegate. The strange circumstance of a youth two years below the customary age of becoming a member of the priesthood attracted a large gathering of dignitaries of the church to the ordination ceremonies.

Father Carrick was assigned to the San Francisco diocese for his first parishional work, serving under Archbishop Hanna. He desired to complete his interrupted studies however and returned to the Catholic University at Washington within a few months after he had reached the Pacific coast. His ambition was to received the degree of Doctor of Divinity as quickly as possible, an ambition which kept him studying almost too studiously. In order to relieve his mind from the strain of work during the summer vacations, he insisted that he be sent to some outlying parish as curate and he was assigned to St. Mary's. He was immensely pleased with conditions in this city and returned in the winter for the Christmas holidays. Again in the summer of this year he came back to St. Mary's, where he was pursuing his work and studies when the fatal illness terminated his activities. One task that he had undertaken the present year was the authorship of a book entitled "The Militaristic View of the War" and he was to be examined in this as a part of his fitness for the degree of D. D. Those who have read the completed chapters of the essay are enthusiastic in their praise as to his manner of giving his opinions on the complex subject. He was the author of numerous essay of decided literary value that were lost when he was compelled to flee from Louvain. The Prussian advanced guard was only two days away and the hurried flight gave him no time to gather up even an extra bit of clothing. For certain mastery he displayed in certain subjects at the Catholic University, this institution awarded him the degree of "S. T. L.," Licentiate of Sacred Theology.

As curate in St. Mary's parish, Father Carrick endeared himself to every member of the congregation. He was frank and open at all times and though hampered for time because of his studies and clerical duties, was never too busy to give advice or consolation to one who sought them. His constitution was none too rugged but nevertheless he enjoyed outdoor life and interested himself in all the recreations of the young folks in the parish. The progress he had made at such an early age was a matter of common knowledge, not through his own telling, and when he was first stricken it was the fond hope of everyone that the promising career and life of usefulness should not be taken away.

Besides the uncle mentioned, the only near surviving relatives of the departed priest are two brothers and a sister. The latter is in a convent in Ireland but the two brothers are members of the British army forces in France, having enlisted soon after the declaration of war in 1914.

John A. Conway Weds Miss Mabel E. Farlee

Miss Mabel E. Farlee, daughter of Mrs. Nora Farlee, of Watchung avenue, the borough, and John A. Conway, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Conway, of 920 West Seventh street, were married in the rectory of St. Mary's church Wednesday morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan in the presence only of the immediate relatives. The couple was attended by Mrs. David B. Thickstun, of Central avenue, an intimate friends of the bride, and James L. Conway, brother of the bridegroom.

Following an informal reception Mr. and Mrs. Conway left for a wedding trip to the Middle West and Canada. On returning they will make their home in Plainfield. Both young people have been life long residents of this vicinity and have a very wide acquaintance. The bridegroom is salesman for a Jersey City manufacturing concern.

"Granite State" Seaman Advanced to Engineer

Walter Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilson, of West Third street, who has been on the U. S. training ship, "Granite State," for the past two months, was this week promoted to the rating of engineer. He entered the service as apprentice seaman in company with several Plainfield young men and because of his aptitude in mechanics was given an opportunity to take the necessary examinations for advancement. He passed in nearly every instance with marks of one hundred per cent.

As a result of his promotion, Mr. Wilson has been retained on board the ship, which is located in the Hudson River off Ninety-sixth street, New York, to aid in the operation of motors and machinery. Mr. Wilson is also an expert automobile man and has been made official driver of the vessel's automobile in its business trips through New York city. The machine is given the way of war at all times, no matter how busy Broadway or any other big centre might be.

Silas Guttridge, of South avenue, another Plainfielder who entered the service on the "Granite State," is in line for the rating of engineer. He passed his examinations this week. George Howe, of Codington avenue; William Meade, of Fairview avenue; Joseph Carty, of Orchard place, and James Kyle, of West Sixth street, all entered the "Granite State's" complement as apprentice seamen and have recently been transferred. Howe was placed in the crew of the "Leviathan," formerly the giant Germant liner "Vaterland." Meade was sent to the battleship "North Carolina" and Carty and Kyle are now at the Brooklyn Navy Yard awaiting assignment.

SERGEANT "TOM" KENNEDY GOES TO CAMP McCLELLAN.

One of the 6,000 selective men who left Camp Dix at Wrightstown this week for Camp McClellan at Anniston, Ala., was Sergeant Thomas Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris J. Kennedy, of 981 West Fourth street. He has been a member of the 312th Infantry, made up mostly of Essex county boys, but in his new location will probably be assigned to the "Depot Squad." The latter is to be moved to France at an early date and will have charge of all incoming packages and supplies for the men in his particular brigade.

Mr. Kennedy was employed at the Thomas A. Edison works at Orange, a position which he held for several years prior to the selective draft. He had risen to the responsibilities of office manager of one of the seven divisions of the big plant, when the national drawing called him into service. He registered at Orange and was in consequence consigned to the 312th, which has been located only a short distance from the 311th, to which all the Plainfielders have been members. Soon after his arrival at Wrightstown Mr. Kennedy was made mess sergeant and after that was advanced to "top-sergeant." He has entered into the work with typical American determination to raise and bids fair to get a commission before his service is completed.

Mr. Kennedy's brother, Joseph Kennedy, registered in Plainfield and was also made a member of the National Army. He went down to Wrightstown with the contingent of seventy-three Plainfielders and is located there at the present time.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

MRS. THOMAS S. WHEELER.

Mrs. Thomas Sherman Wheeler, a prominent resident of Plainfield for many years, died last Friday evening at her summer home at Lake Cobbossee, near Augusta, Me., where she and her husband have been sojourning since last spring. Their return to Plainfield was delayed by an illness which Mrs. Wheeler contracted two months ago and as she became worse it was decided to remain at Lake Cobbsee in the hope that the climate might prove beneficial. She continued to sink, however, and although it was known to the friends of the family for several weeks that her condition was serious they were greatly shocked at news of her death.

The body was brought to Plainfield and the funeral was held at the family home at 1023 Park avenue, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. It was in charge of Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church, of which the deceased was a communicant. A quartet, composed of Miss Grace Cantrell, Miss Etta Rayhert, William Holmes and William J. Tallamy, sang two selections, "Lead Kindly Light" and 'Abide With Me." Many relatives and friends were in attendance. Burial was in the family plot in Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Wheeler was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gilford Mayer, whose home was on Park avenue, and who were among Plainfield's best known families of recent years. Mrs. Wheeler was a woman of unassuming disposition but possessed a strong, Christian character and was a faithful worker in Grace church, as her mother had been before her. Her activities of a charitable nature were very numerous but known only to those of her immediate relatives. She and her husband were fond of travel and although they frequently made long trips in this and other countries they always maintained Plainfield as their home. In many ways Mrs. Wheeler was a representative resident and her going is deeply deplored by everyone of the hundreds numbered among her acquaintances. Her only surviving relative is her husband.

MRS. RALPH YOUNG.

Mrs. Helen Maria Young, wife to Ralph Young, died Monday night at her home at 443 West Fifth street. She had been suffering for nearly five years with an incurable malady which became acute during the past few months.

Mrs. Young was a native of Centreville, Hunterdon county, where she was born sixty years ago. She resided at either Centreville or Neshanic until about fifteen years ago, when the family moved to Plainfield. Mrs. Young was a member of Trinity Reformed church, where she was a regular attendant until her illness prevented. She had a wide acquaintance both in Plainfield and that part of Hunterdon county about her birthplace.

Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, the Misses Ethel and Minnie Young, and three sons, Charles, Clarence and Goldson.

The funeral was held at the late home on West Fifth street yesterday in charge of Rev. John Y. Brock, and later a second service was held in the First Reformed church in Somerville. Burial was in the Somerville cemetery.

MRS. MARY C. ISENMANN.

Mrs. Mary Catherine Isenmann, widow of John Isenmann, died last Saturday night at the home of her son, William F. Isenmann, of Lyman place. She was seventy-five years old and had been ill a long time, suffering from complications produced by the infirmities of age. Mrs. Isenmann's husband was a wholesale butcher in Washington Market, New York, for many years. The funeral was held at the son's home on Lyman place on Wednesday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. John Y. Brock, of Trinity Reformed church. Burial was in the family plot in Fairview cemetery, Westfield.

MRS. JOHN M. CRANE.

Mrs. John M. Crane, who resided for a number of years on West Eighth street this city, died suddenly Friday night at the home of her son, Clifford Crane, of Rutherford. The funeral was held at the son's residence Monday morning and burial was in the family plot in Cypress Hills cemetery, Brooklyn. Mrs. Crane's husband, who was a well-known insurance man, died at Rutherford about a year ago. Beside her son, the deceased is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Caspeh Kirkner and Mrs. Alexander Dueth, both of Rutherford.

MRS. C. R. LANGWORTHY.

Mrs. Frances Adelaide Langworthy, aged 81 years, wife of Charles R. Langworthy, and aunt of Mrs. Thomas Sherman Wheiler, of Park avenue, whose death occurred at Augusta, Maine, last Friday, passed away yesterday following a short illness. The death of her niece was a severe shock and in her weakened condition was unable to rally from its effect.

Mrs. Langworthy was born near Lake George, N. Y., and after residing in Brooklyn for a time removed to this city forty-four years ago. She was a communicant of Grace Episcopal church and interested in all its activities. She was a sister of the late Mrs. Gilford Mayer, for many years a resident here. She is survived by her husband.

The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, officiating. Burial will be made in Hillside cemetery.

MRS. MICHAEL MADDEN.

Following an illness of two years, during which she was confined to her room most of the time, death came last Saturday morning to Mrs. Michael Madden at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Harding, of John street. A stroke of apoplexy was the immediate cause of death.

Mrs. Madden was eighty-six years old and had resided in Plainfield since 1898, at which time she and her husband came from Jersey City to make their home with Mrs. Harding. Despite her advance age, she was very active up until the time her last illness began, two years ago. She lived to see four generations of her family, the youngest being great-grandchildren who reside in Jersey City. Her husband, who is eighty-six years old, is still hale and hearty and gets about better than other people many years his junior.

Beside Mrs. Harding, the deceased is survived by two sons, William Madden, of this city, and James Madden, of Jersey City.

The funeral was held in St. Mary's church Tuesday morning, when a solemn requiem mass was said by Rev. Father B. M. Hogan. The floral tributes included several large set pieces from relatives and friends of the family. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following four grandsons acting as pall-bearers: Thomas, John, Walter and Frank Harding.

MISS BARBARA M. MILLER.

Miss Barbara Maria Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, of 219 Richmond street, died Saturday night at the home of her parents, following a long illness from a series of troubles. She was twenty-six years old and had resided in Plainfield since 1910, coming here from New Providence with her parents. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church and a faithful attendant until her illness began. Beside her parents, she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Charles Irving Van Winkle, of East Fifth street, and the Misses Ethel and Bertha Miller, residing at the parental home.

The funeral was held at the family residence Tuesday noon at 12 o'clock and was in charge of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring. The body was afterward taken to New Providence, where a further service was held in the Presbyterian church at that place. Interment was in the New Providence cemetery.

MRS. HANNAH HUFF.

Mrs. Hannah Huff, widow of Andrew Huff, died Sunday at her home on Chatham street, the borough, after an illness of about a week with complications. She was born at Martinsville in 1837, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Watts, but had resided in North Plainfield the greater part of her life. She was a sister to the late George Watts, the well-known butcher, who died in Muhlenberg Hospital from the effects of injuries received when he was run down by an automobile at Park avenue and Front street two months ago. Her only near surviving relatives are several nephews and nieces, among them Rev. George Angleman, of Weehawken; George F. Watts, of the borough, and Mrs. George Clickener, of Bound Brook.

The funeral was held at the late home Wednesday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson. Many relatives and friends were in attendance and there were numerous floral tributes. Burial was in the family plot in the Bound Brook cemetery.

MRS. MARY J. VAN NEST.

Mrs. Mary J. Van Nest, widow of John C. Van Nest, died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Conover, on Elwmood place. She had been ill seven weeks, during which time she was a great sufferer from complications. Prior to her last illness Mrs. Van Nest was remarkably active for one of her age, which was 81 years, retaining all her faculties.

Mrs. Van Nest was born in Newark, but spent the greater part of her life in Plainfield and vicinity. She had resided here forty years. She was one of the oldest members of the First Baptist church, and a faithful attendant at all the services until ill health prevented. She leaves a son and daughter, Mrs. Conover and George B. Van Nest, of Mariners place. The funeral will be held at the late home at 8 o'clock tonight, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong officiating.

The interment will be private.

MISS CATHERINE BONAVIGLIA.

Miss Catherine Vonaviglia, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Bonaviglia, of Hunter avenue, Scotch Plains, died Sunday morning. She had been ill a long time with a pulmonary complaint. She is survived, beside her parents, by one sister, Mrs. Lena Diecito, of Scotch Plains. The funeral was held in St. Mary's church, this city, Wednesday morning, when a requiem mass was said by Rev. Father Mahoney in the presence of many relatives and friends. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Doctor and Merchant, "Nursie" and Clerk, All on Equal Putting at Camp McClellan

Lawyers, doctors, ex-office clerks, butchers, bakers, chauffeurs, cooks —they all look alike to the National army commander. Men who commanded famulous salaries back home are in some instances drawing the private's $30 per month at Camp McClellan; others have been fortunate enough to secure a commission which brings them "pin" and 'smoke" money.

Men who were lionized by the "400" as civilians do not attract any more attention in "blue and gray division" circles than the young American who threw up a job peddling newspapers to fight for Uncle Sam. "A democratic army fighting for democracy" is the slogan.

Men who boast of a family tree with limbs that would reach from coast to coast; ex-urchins who just "dropped" from no place in particular and who couldn't tell you their family name if their life depended upon it; patriots who three months ago commanded big forces in the world of industry, and born soldiers who just couldn't repress the flow of Civil War and Revolution blood in their veins, have today cast their lot with the Twenty-ninth Division and are undergoing a course of intensive training that demands the same from all.

The War Department's prescription for modern warfare training is being followed out to the letter by Twenty-ninth Division commanders, and the 30,000 men now stationed at Camp McClellan have settled down to the grind that will eventually fit them for action on European battlefields.

No longer a part of the National Guard or individual States the ex-militiamen are training as regular army guards. The program of instruction is one of the most inclusive and most interesting ever mapped out for the military unit. Night work will be a specialty, and nature will play a prominent part in the schedule of events at Camp McClellan.

The rolling land, natural fortresses, ideally appointed spots for entrenchment and the open country for a radius of many miles will give the commanding personnel an opportunity to test out some genuine movements. Grenadiers will be developed by the thousand, every man will be proficient in the use of bayonets, there will be a balloon corps to direct the fire of the artillery, nights will be spent in the trenches, long hikes over rough country will take the place of short, snappy marches, hands that a few months ago wielded pens will become hard, and calloused by rough work, and gas helmets will replace the campaign hats.

Hundreds of thousands of rounds of artillery ammunition and millions of rounds of rifle fire will arrive at Camp McClellan in a few weeks to be use on the ideally-appointed ranges. Mountain slopes will form natural targets for millions of rifle balls and shrapnel pieces.

French and English army officers —men who have become specialists in modern warfare phases through experiences on Europe's battlefronts —will spend weeks directing the "manufacture" of fighters at Camp McClellan.

Americans Building 20,000 Aeroplanes

Contracts have been let by the War Department for the construction of 20,000 airplanes for use in the war against Germany. This is practically the whole number of airplanes for which provision was made in the $640,000,000 aviation bill. One-fourth, or about 5,000, of these will be built abroad, the other 15,000 being built in this country, one of the largest contracts being held by the Standard Aero Corporation, of this city.

Aviators are being trained in twenty-four flying schools and in a number of grounds schools. Their final training will be on foreign soil. The plans of the army contemplate the delivery of motors, plans, equipment and men so that all may be available as rapidly as one is ready for the other.

A great number of American aviators have been sent abroad, where they are now undergoing extensive training behind several of the battle fronts. More than thirty allied air experts are in this country composing what may be called an international aviation general staff, in connection with the development of America's great military aerial force. When the first American military airplane is sent to Europe, and Secretary Baker says this will be done within reasonable time, it will be of American manufacture, from the tip of its propellers to the engine, machine gun and camera.

These are some of the facts that stand out in a statement issued by Secretary of War Baker summarizing, as far as it can without giving away military secrets, the progress thus far made with the aviation program adopted under the $640,000,000 appropriation.

What the Church Men Say of the Saloon

"The world cannot be made safe for democracy while the virus of alcoholism is in its veins."

BISHOP DOWLING.

"A cancer knawing at the very vitals of American manhood, threatening the very existence of our national independence and individual liberty."

BISHOP JOHN H. VINCENT.

"The saloon is the deadly enemy of the health, of the home, of the family, of the Country, and of God. America demands that the saloon shall disappear from the face of our fair land."

ARCHBISHOP JOHN IRELAND.

"Where saloons are licensed how many live up to the law? Not one. Vested rights. Has the community no rights? There is no reason for the existence of saloons. Blot them out and thus prevent the evils they cause."

BISHOP CONATY.

"The saloon is a blot on our national honor, a scourge to the community in which it exists, a scorpion in the home, and a ruthless destroyer of law, order and morality."

BISHOP DOANE.

"Bullets have slain thousands but the saloon has slain tens of thousands. The saloon is the monster who kicks away the safeguard of morality, the monster who paralyzes ambition and stifles pity; if that monster could be abolished you would see far more money spent for the necessities of the home, far less for that which only brings sorrow, woe, disgrace and death. The best prevention of intemperance is the extirpation of the liquor traffic."

BISHOP J. J. MILAN.

"I blame the Church people in many communities for the existence of the saloon. If the Church united, as its conscience should dictate, in an honest effort to abolish the saloon, these breeding places of vice and immorality would be abolished within the next few years."

REV. CHARLES F. AKED.

"The saloon is a great menace to society and will not be governed either by national or State laws, nor city ordinances or police control. Regardless of God or man, it boldly leads its procession of unfortunate victims through our very midst, down to their temporal and eternal destruction. My mission is to teach men right morals and to lead them to a knowledge of God, and thus save them. I must confess that in the thirty-seven years of my religious work, the greatest obstacle to my success has been the saloon."

BISHOP P. J. CARRIGAN.

Remarkable Document Found in Germany
Tells of Beginning and End of World War

While razing the old Monastery of the Holy Ghost in Wismar, Mecklenburg, Germany, two months ago, an old Bible was found which contained a remarkable prophecy regarding the present world war. It was written in 1701 by one of the monks on parchment that is now yellow and seared with age. It is now on exhibition in a glass case in the City Hall of Wismar. So much publicity has been given to the prophecy in the papers of Germany that thousands have flocked to Wismar to see it.

The prophecy not only gives the cause of the war, but also indicates the countries engaged. Up to the present it has been amazingly accurate. It does not exactly state that Germany will be victorious, but indicates how long the war will last, when the decisive battle will be fought, and where and when peace will come, and adds that Germany will continue to exist as a Power for many years. A translation of the writing on the parchment is as follows:

"Lord, have mercy on Thy people despite the fact that they are turning more and more away from Thee; that they are destroying Thy monasteries and cloisters and forgetting Thee. A time will come in Europe when these people will feel the weight of Thy hand, when malignity and hatred will rule. It will be at a time when the papal seat will be vacant, and the conflagration will come as the result of the murder of a prince. Seven nations will rise against the eagle, with one head and the eagle with two heads. The birds will defend themselves furiously and victoriously with their talons, and their wings will protect their peoples. A prince from their very midst, a sovereign who mounts his horse from the wrong side will be encompassed by a wall of enemies. His slogan will be 'Onward with God!' The Almighty God will lead him from victory to victory and many will meet their death.

"There will be wagons without horses and fiery dragons will fly through the air dropping fire and sulphur and destroying cities and villages. The people will turn to God. This terrible war will last three years and five months. The time will come when food can neither be sold nor bought and bread will be carefully distributed. The seas will be tinged with blood, and men will lie in wait under the waves for their prey."

Here follows a reference to America, which was in those times often referred to as the "country of the seven stars."

"The people of the Seven Stars will attack the ring of steel and suddenly fall upon the bearded nation in the rear and rend it in twain. The whole of the lower Rhine will tremble, but nevertheless will endure to the end.

"The land in the west will be one vast desolation, and the land in the ocean will, with its King, be crushed and suffer all the pangs of hunger. The land of the bearded people will still endure for a long time to come, and following the war the world will be united in one great brotherhood.

"The victors will carry a cross, and between four small cities and four staples of equal height the decisive battle will be fought. Between two linden trees the victor will fall upon his knees before his army, lift his hands to heaven and thank God. Following this all ungodliness will disappear; the indecent dances that prevailed before the war will be seen no more, and God will reign in Church, State and

"The war [illegible] when the strife is [illegible] will reach its height when [illegible] cherries bloom for the third time. Peace will be consummated by the Prince in time for the Christmas mass."

All German newspapers have commented on this amazing prophecy.

"It is remarkable," says one paper, "how accurately the monk has predicted events as they have thus far occurred. We sincerely hope that the longed for peace will come, as he says, in order that we all may breathe freely again."

Plainfield Women Helping to Complete
Suffragette Club House at Wrightstown

The Soldiers' Club House at Wrightstown, which is to be opened by the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association about October 25, is a scene of great activity this week. One group of women is busily wielding scissors and running sewing machines as they convert a hundred yards of material into window curtains, hangings, and chair covers, another, armed with paint brushes, is carrying out a pleasing scheme of interior decoration, while others are doing the hundred and one things necessary to transform the house into an attractive, comfortable and homelike place for the soldier boys and their friends.

The committee directing the work is composed of Mrs. E. P. Folckert, of Plainfield; Mrs. Wells P. Eagleton, of Newark; Mrs. Henry C. White, of Plainfield; Miss Helen Lippincott, of Riverton, and Mrs. A. L. S. Doughty, of Mount Holly, and squads of vounteer workers come each day from Mount Holly, Pemberton, Riverton, and other towns near Camp Dix.

The general recreation rooms on the first floor are to be furnished with mission and leather furniture which has been contributed by Mrs. George Gould, of Lakewood. Mrs. Joseph Larocque, of Bernardsville, is giving the kitchen furnishings, and many other things have been contributed by women all over the State, including a piano, two Victrolas, a refrigerator, sofas, chairs, pictures and books.

Much interest in the club is being shown by the men at Camp Dix and several have volunteered to come in and help with the work of getting to rights.

One of the features of the Club House will be informal parties to be given by groups of women from various towns to the soldiers from their towns. West Orange has already raised the money for its party and very soon after the Club House is opened it will give an informal entertainment there for the thirty-seven boys from that place. Flemington also has plans under way for a party for Hunterdon county boys, and there will be at least two or three entertainments of this sort at the club every week.

Before deciding to open a Recreational Club at Wrightstown, which was included in the war service program of the women of the State, a committee from the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association held a conference with Major General Chase W. Kennedy, the officer in command at Camp Dix, and laid their plans before him, asking for advice and criticism. General Kennedy heartily endorsed the plan and said the only suggestion he wished to make was that the Club House be opened as soon as possible. Many other officers at the camp have assured the Club House Committee that the work will receive their heartiest support.

Mayor Calkins Issues Proclamation
For Proper Observance of "Liberty Day"

President Wilson's designation of October 24 as "Liberty Day" has resulted in plans being made for its proper observance in all parts of the country and in keeping with other executives, Mayor Leighton Calkinds has issued the following proclamation for the people of Plainfield:

"Whereas, The President of the United States has designated Wednesday, the 24th day of October, as Liberty Day, on which the people of the country are urged to assemble in their respective communities and pledge to the Government the fullest measure of their financial support, in order that the might of this great liberty-loving nation may be aroused to strike hard in the cause of peace and humanity;

"Now therefore, as Mayor of the City of Plainfield, and in furtherance of the President's purpose, I hereby designate The Plainfield Liberty Loan Committee to arrange an appropriate celebration by meetings of the people or other events, as it deems best, that Liberty Day may have a real significance in our city. And I call upon our local business and social organizations of every character and upon our patriotic citizens generally, to join heartily with the committee in whatever plans it may make for the appointed day. Let it be an occasion upon which the people shall once more resolve to do whatever they may be called upon to do, that the brave men who have gone forth to fight America's battles shall not make their sacrifice in vain but shall be cheered and encouraged, and financially supported to the utmost, by those who are waiting at home in confident expectation for them to achieve the victory which is to make the world safe hereafter for law abiding and peace pursuing peoples.

"LEIGHTON CALKINS."

NO SEIZURE OF HOME CANNED GOODS BY GOVERNMENT.

The following statement was issued yesterday by former Governor Fielder, Federal Food Commissioner for New Jersey:

"There seems to have been a deliberate enemy effort in this State to circulate rumors to the effect that the Government would seize all home canned supplies in excess of one hundred quarts.

"ALL SUCH STATEMENTS ARE ABSOLUTELY FALSE.

"The Government does not intend to interfere in any way with home products or home supplies of any sort. What you have raised on your land is yours. What you have canned is yours. The Federal Food Law gives the Government no authority to take it away from you.

"The more food you provide for the needs of your family, without buying it from stocks of food produced by others, the more there will be left to be shipped to our Allies.

"JAMES F. FIELDER."

PERSONAL

Pers..... FNARH...

Mrs. Charles Flynn, of Central avenue, and the Misses Katharine and Clara Flynn, of West Fourth street, have returned home after a week's stay at Atlantic City. They were registered at the Hotel St. James.

C. W. Spicer and family, of Central avenue, returned home recently after an extended automobile trip to Niagara Falls and other parts of New York State.

Mrs. Howard Huff and children, of West Fourth street, leave tomorrow for Mt. Vernon, N. Y., where they will spend two weeks with relatives.

Mrs. M. C. Barkelew and daughter, Mrs. R. G. Ralli, of Duer street, the borough, returned home recently after a visit to Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., where her son-in-law, R. G. Ralli, is located. Mrs. Ralli is now at Petersburg and may remain there for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wierenga removed yesterday from 334 East Third street to the Keenan apartments at East Fifth and Richmond streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stodd, of Halsey street, have been receiving congratulations over the arrival of a young son who came to their home a few days ago.

Herman Kling, of Sandford avenue, was able to be out yesterday for the first time since he underwent an operation in St. Luke's Hospital, New York, nearly three weeks ago. Mr. Kling has taken examinations for the Officers' Reserve Corps and expects to be commissioned very shortly.

Mrs. Homer Hendrickson, of Chatham place, has been spending some time with relatives at Syracuse, N. Y.

Mrs. W. Lawrence Marshall, of Watchung avenue, is a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital, where she has been undergoing treatment for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Wisch and son, Edward, of Mercer avenue and Mr. and Mrs. George Passmore, of East Second street, motored to Winthrop Beach, Mass., recently, and spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gow, formerly of this city, but who have been making their home at Winthrop since the first of September.

Patrolmen Fred Baader and George Muir, the last of the policemen of the local force to enjoy their annual vacations, are now on their twelve days' leave of absence. They will return to duty next Tuesday.

George Luhr and family have removed from 742 West Front street to East Fifth street, near Franklin place. Mr. Luhr is superintendent of the local trolley division.

City Judge William G. DeMora has been detained at his home on Sandford avenue by illness during the past two weeks. He is improving steadily and will shortly be about as usual. His trouble has been threatened appendicitis.

Miss Mildred Boyle, of Somerset street, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at Muhlenberg Hospital, is reported as improving steadily. Miss Boyle is a *member of the office staff at the hos*pital.

Adolphus Lliebau, a former well-known local resident who left last spring to make his home at Sorel, Quebec, near Montreal, returned to Plainfield this week for an extended visit with friends in the West End. He may remain during the fall and winter.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Emma Voehl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Voehl, of South avenue, to Charles Gold, of Broadway, Bayonne. The ceremony took place Monday at the Forty-sixth Street Methodist church, Bayonne, and was performed by the pastor, Rev. Dr. S. Rechnitzer. Following a wedding trip through New York State, Mr. and Mrs. Voehl will make their home at 911 Broadway, Bayonne, where a completely furnished home awaits their coming. Mr. Gold is in the employ of the Standard Oil Company at the Bayonne plant.

Sergeant William Coyle, who is stationed at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., as a member of the Medical Division of the Signal Corps, spent several days in town the past week-end.

Otto Considers Codding Winner

At exactly 3:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Sheriff George C. Otto announced through his counsel, Judge Abe J. David, that he would abandon the recounting of the votes in the surrogate contest by the Board of Elections and concede the nomination of Charles N. Codding for that office on the Republican ticket.

The hopes of the sheriff went glimmering, starting Tuesday morning, when his gain of thirty-two votes in the recount was steadily reduced to sixteen, at which figure the Board of Elections abandoned its work.

But eighteen districts remained to be counted, and as the percentage of gain for the sheriff had been less *than one vote a district, it was read*ily seen it would be impossible for him to overcome the sixty plurality officially determined in the surrogate Republican primary race.

The board had been at work on the 111 districts of the county for ten days and their compensation is $10 per day. The members are: Chairman, Frederick Zlor, Secretary Geo. J. Stewart, Frank Pfaff and Andrew McCordell, of Plainfield.

Sheriff Otto had as his counsel Judge Abe J. David and Charles A. Otto, Jr., while Attorney Walter L. Hetfield, of Plainfield; Walter Tenney and Louis Messing appeared for Mr. Codding.

The report of the Board of Elec*tions will go to Justice James J. Ber*gen, of the Supreme Court, under whose order the recount was held. The plurality will officially stand at sixty, the same as returned to the county clerk's office after the canvass of the primary vote.

No errors of great consequence were found among the ballots. Several hundred voters neglected to mark their ballots in any way, and the no-vote column was very large. In the cases of changes from the ballots of one candidate they were due more to the careless manner in which the voter marked in his X, or the use of blue ink, or writing in a candidate's name without marking a cross before it. Some pasters were also used by voters, and these, when found, were counted.

Sheriff Otto put up a cash bond of $3,000 under direction of Justice Bergen when he applied for the recount.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Comerford, of West Fourth street, left today for Washington, D. C., where they will spend a short time as the guests of Mrs. Lutz, formerly of this city.

What Good Is a Lid?

Several otherwise excellent burial vaults have tops that are simply laid over the casket and left to their own devices. This, of course, is handier and much cheaper. But what of its safety? The Norwalk Vault leaves nothing to chance; its top is securely cemented on by hand, and top and bottom become one solid piece of masonry. Naturally, therefore, the Norwalk is sold everywhere the best is wanted; and naturally the best undertakers always recommend the Norwalk—it gives them a chance to guarantee the burial. Many Organizations Endorse Firemen's Two Platoon Plan

Organizations with the combined membership of nearly 1,000 voters have taken a decided stand in favor of giving the Plainfield firemen the two-platoon system while allied trade councils representing an additional 2,000 or supporting the movement individually, by-laws alone preventing them from officially endorsing the plan. In every part of the city the campaign for a decent working day for the fire laddies has met with cooperation and indications at the present time point to a big majority in favor of the proposition.

One of the organizations endorsing the plan is the West End Civic Association, which has more than 150 of the third and Fourth ward voters on its roster and has been influential in bringing about many improvements in the section of the city it represents. When the matter was brought up at the annual meeting there were practically no dissenting voices to a resolution pledging the firemen their sympathy and support. Many of the association members are large taxpayers but this was given no consideration in the discussion. Since the endorsement a number of those at the meeting have given up their hours of recreation to perform "missionary work" in behalf of the campaign.

Iron Moulders' Local, No. 305, agregating nearly 500 members whose votes are mostly all cast in Plainfield, has also passed resolutions supporting the movement. This organization is one of the strongest unions in the city and is lending every influence to bring about a change of hours in the local department. The moulders are men who work hard for every dollar they get and those who own their homes will pay a direct tax for the two-platoon system, but no protests were made when the favoring resolution was acted upon. The Plainfield Athletic Club, a West End organization whose 150 members are mostly all of the mechanic class, showed no hesitancy in endorsing the two-platoon proposition and has offered the firemen its aid in whatever capacity it can be used. The responses on the part of the above mentioned organizations has been a source of great satisfaction to the anxious firemen who are asking the citizens for a chance to be at home with their families and has had much to do with the rapidly growing sentiment favoring the plan.

Other Plainfield organizations whose members say they will vote "yes" for the two-platoon on Election Day but which cannot place endorsements on their minutes are the International Association of Machinists, Local No. 167; the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators, Local No. 480; Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local, No. 155; Plumbers and Steamfitters, Local No. 103; Bartenders, Local No. 377; Typographical Union, No. 399; International Electrical Workers, Local No. 262; Sheet Metal Workers, Local No. 469; Journeymen Barbers' Union, Local No. 315, and Plainfield Letter Carriers' Association.

During the past week, several of the city's largest taxpayers have come out flat-footed for the two-platoon. One of them is Dr. Albert Pitts, who owns many business buildings on Front street and to whom the new system would mean an additional tax expense of considerable proportions, but who asserts that the firemen are absolutely entitled to the request they are making. Letters have been received by the committee in two-platoon cities from chiefs of departments in other cities where the plan has been adopted and each one declares it is working to the full satisfaction of the communities they are in. Among the chiefs who wrote are: Chief Alfred Taylor, of Bayonne; Chief William H. Matthews, of Orange; Chief William J. Black, of Atlantic City, and Battalion Chief Charles Nolan, of Paterson.

Liberty Loan in Plainfield Now Near Two Million Mark

With practically only twenty-four more hours before time limit expires, Plainfield's purchase of Liberty Bonds was announced at noon today as being approximately $2,000,000. This is $1,459,000 short of the allotted quota but in view of the high amount fixed for this city and the difficulties under which it works, the total so far is considered most commendable. There is a possibility that an additional half million dollars may be subscribed before the grand finish as requests are coming in from all sides and numerous organizations which have voted to take the bonds have not yet reported.

In designating quotas, the Federal banking authorities fixed the figure for each district upon its banking resources. Practically no allowances are made for local conditions and as a result of this Plainfield suffers a severe handicap. Scores of its wealthiest citizens who are in a position to subscribe to the loan do so through their business houses in New York, thus taking that amount away from their home town. There are other difficulties on the banking end which are not figured from the starting point, consequently the purchase of $2,000,000 worth of the second Loan Bonds is considered a good showing for this city. As many purchases will be made at the last moment, the local banks are planning to keep open tomorrow afternoon and the receiving of subscriptions. The Liberty Loan meeting held at the Plainfield High School Wednesday night gave a big boost to the subscriptions. Before the gathering came to a close a total of $190,000 worth of bonds were called for. Assemblyman William N. Runyon acted as chairman of the meeting and the principal addresses were made by Robert McNutt McElroy, of Princeton University, and Dr. George Adams, of Montreal, Can. Music was furnished by the Dutch Arms Band. One of the features of the evening was an announcement made by Commander T. O. Doane that Winfield Scott Post, oN: 73, G. A. R., had decided to appropriate its entire savings account of $400 for the purchase of bonds.

North Plainfield has done splendidly in the subscription campaign. Following a Liberty Loan meeting in Debele's Hall Wednesday night the figures soared above the borough's quota of $400,000. North Plainfield now enjoys the unique distinction of contributing the largest amount to the Liberty Loan of any municipality in the country which is without a bank in its immediate confines.

Elks Will Try Out Amateur "Actors"

Plainfield Lodge of Elks has planned for a novel entertainment feature for its members to take place in the Watchung avenue clubhouse tomorrow night. An old time "amateur try-out," such as used to pack the Plainfield Theatre a few years ago, will be the attraction, entries being open to any young men in the city over eighteen years of age. The committee in charge has already received four entries, one of them a song and dance team, another a "coon shouter," a third a harmonica player and the fourth a Jazz Band of three pieces.

The "amateur night" was decided upon as a drawing card for the series of Saturday night socials which began two weeks ago. If the one proposed proves successful, others will be held on succeeding weeks. The members are to act as judges for the various acts and cash prizes will be awarded on the same plan as at the theatres. At the conclusion of the program tomorrow night the club board will provide refreshments. The committee in charge of the arrangements is composed of James Hart, M. L. Shannon, J. Howard Pyne.

The annual roll-call of the lodge will be held at the regular meeting next Wednesday night. Members are requested to answer to their name in person or send a message of some sort to be read at the gathering.

Business Building Invades Hitherto Exclusive Section

Work on a one-story building to cost $25,000 and to be occupied by the Packard Motor Company as a salesroom was commenced this week for Mayor William L. Smalley, of the borough, at the northwest corner of Park avenue and West Seventh street. The location is the well known Doctor Penfield tract, which Mr. Smalley purchased for speculative purposes several years ago. The completion of this building will mark another step in the southward trend of Park avenue business and practically invades what was for many years a portion of Plainfield's most exclusive residential section.

The new building will be fifty feet in width by 125 feet in depth. The foundation and side walls are to be malle extra heavy for the purpose of adding two more stories at some future time. The interior will be finished off with white tile trimmings and in every way the structure will present an ornate appearance. Only the very best pressed brick are to be used on the outside. Charles Smith is the architect and Talbany Brothers are doing the mason work. The contract for the carpentering has not yet been given out.

Wilson Denies Mrs. Linke's Appeal for Son

Following the provisions of the selective service act having exemption on the ground that other members of the same family are with the colors, President Wilson has sustained the decision of the Second New Jersey District Board in the case of Linke, of this city, who made a fight for exemption because his three brothers have given themselves to government service.

Linke's mother, anxious to keep her fourth and last son at home, appealed successively to the Plainfield local board, the District Board and the Washington authorities. Word that the claim had been finally denied by the President was received today from Acting Adjutant General Gilkyson at Trenton.

One of Linke's brothers, George Linke, went to Anniston, Ala., with Troop D, First Squadron, New Jersey Cavalry. Another, Gerald Linke, is at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., and the third, Julius Linke, is taking a course in chemistry to equip him for service in the navy. Mrs. Linke went to Washington and made a personal appeal to War Department officials in behalf of her fourth son, the others having been given willingly to the service. No industrial or dependency claim was made.

The ruling of the provost marshal general for cases of this kind says: "The fact that more than one person is selected from a single family is not itself ground for exemption or discharge."

The case aroused the sympathy of the district board, and when it was appealed to Washington Chairman O. H. Pitney sent a letter to the President, saying that the board considered the case one of great hardship and expressed regret that the claim could not be entertained.

Local Theatre Men Open New Play House

William J. Counihan and Michael L. Shanon, proprietors and managers of the Plainfield Theatre, added another theatrical venture to their list this week when the beautiful new Stand Theatre at Perth Amboy was opened to the public. The house is one of the most up-to-date and commodious in New Jersey and represents an outlay of $150,000. The opening on Monday night was attended by an audience which packed the building to the doors and which included a large delegation of Plainfielders.

During an intermission in the performance Mr. Counihan and Mr. Shannon were called to the stage where each was presented with numerous floral horseshoes and other flowered emblems of good luck. The pieces came from Plainfield Lodge of Elks, of which both proprietors are members; the Perth Amboy Elks, the Perth Amboy business men, George M. Cohan and Sam Harris, the widely-known theatrical producers, and from the office of Abe Erlanger, the New York firm of managers and producers. At the conclusion of the performance the two managers of the new house gave a dinner at the Packer House at which the staff of the Strand and numerous friends were guests.

The Strand Theatre was built by a syndicate of Perth Amboy business men and is located on Smith street in the heart of the town. The orchestra seats 1,200 people, and the balcony 700. There is no toy gallery but a wide space at the orchestra foyer permits standing room for 200 persons on special occasions. The decorative scheme, which was planned by Mr. Counihan, is said to be one of the most attractive of any playhouse in the metropolitan district. The stage equipment is complete in every detail, embodying the very latest improvements for the handling of large productions. For the time being the managers will devote the house to high class pictures.

C. A. Loizeaux Gets Commission As Lieutenant

Councilman Charles A. Loizeaux, who went from Plainfield to Camp Dix at Wrightstown as one of the National Army men from this district, received word yesterday that he had been commissioned a first lieutenant in the ordinance department. The official notification came in the customary manner from the War Department's office at Washington and followed a recommendation from superior officers at Camp Dix after the young Plainfielder had passed all the necessary examinations. While no definite information can be given on the subject, it is rumored that Mr. Loizeaux will go to France in about eight weeks. His work will consist mostly of supervising the reconstruction of wooden parts on portable gun mounts and the repairing of rifle stocks.

The promotion of Mr. Loizeaux is a source of great satisfaction to the councilman's friends as it was believed from the start that he would make a rapid rise from the ranks. When he was called to the colors he could have claimed exemption but declined to do so, stating that he believed it his duty to go. Following his acceptance after physical examination he entered into the spirit of the work with such zeal that Charles A. Reed, chairman of the local draft board, appointed him leader of the first big contingent of seventy-three men sent to the South Jersey cantonment. With all the other selectives from this district, Mr. Loizeaux was first assigned to Co. A, 311th Infantry, but shortly afterward was transferred to the 309th Machine Gun Company, where he is located at the present time. He will probably go South within the next few days to undergo the required extensive training before starting overseas.

Captain Breen, who is in command of Co. A, 311th Infantry, took a great interest in all the Plainfield men and started several of them on the way to promotion. He has personally helped each one in preparatory studies to meet the mental examinations. Councilman Loizeaux was the first to take the test and others are expected to follow shortly. One of the latter is Augustus C. Nash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, who was also transferred from Co. A to 309th Machine Gun Company.

Mr. Loizeaux is the son of J. D. Loizeaux, of Hillside avenue, and was the manager of the east end yard of the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company. He has a thorough knowledge of the lumber trade besides being conversant with wood planing and mill-work, the Loizeaux firm having conducted a department of this kind for many years.

NEWARK MAN FINED FOR "RIGHT OF WAY" VIOLATION.

Tony Damico, of 36 Market street, Newark, was fined twenty dollars in the city police court this morning after he had been found guilty of violating the "right of way" automobile law at Central avenue and Third street, Wednesday noon.

Damico was driving a Ford truck for a Newark firm, going east on West Third street. As he approached the Central avenue corner an automobile owned and driven by Mrs. E. T. Booth, of Myrtle avenue, the borough, was proceeding north. A crash occurred in which both vehicles were badly damaged. It was clearly shown that Damico was to blame and the twenty-dollar fine was imposed in consequence.

Judge DeMeza announced that he wanted the police to rigidly enforce the "right of way" law, asserting that he wants the practice stopped. As a result Charles Harris, colored, was arrested for a violation of this kind at Park avenue and Second street yesterday afternoon. When arraigned in court later he was allowed to go with a warning.

Voters Puzzled By Wording of Saloon Ballot

Local voters are trying to figure out whether or not someone attempted to "slip something over on them" when the wording for the saloon question to be placed on the ballots for next Election Day was framed up. So far, practically every man who has read the phrase has had to get a lawyer's opinion as what it all meant and even then there was a shadow of doubt as to which was the right way to vote for or against.

Here is the way the question will appear on the regular ballot: "Do you favor abandoning the present Plainfield policy of granting a limited number of liquor licenses in a limited zone and adopting a new policy of not granting any liquor licenses at all?"

A Record reporter dissected the legal verbiage, but fearing to trust himself called in a counsellor-at-law and a professor of languages. With this help the following was gleaned:

If you want Plainfield to continue having saloons, you vote "No."

If you want Plainfield to abolish the saloons and make the town "dry" you vote "Yes."

Just why the wording for the ballot has been put together in such a confusing form no one has been able to find out. Rumor has it that the saloon-keepers believe it was a political trick on the part of the Church Cooperative Association, while the Church Cooperative Association secretly believes the phrasing originated with the crafty brewers. Both sides are thinking of holding evening classes before election comes around for the purpose of teaching the heliless citizen how to prepare his ballot. At any rate, every man who is going to vote on November 6 is asked to prepare himself before-hand so that he will vote "No" if he wants saloons and "Yes" if he doesn't want them.

Twenty years ago the same saloon question was put up to the voters and at that time scores of citizens cast their ballots the wrong way both for and against. The wording was very simple, one brief sentence reading thusly: "Let the Council continue to license the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors." The explanation on the ballot was "that a ballot not marked was a vote for continuing the licenses. A ballot marked was a vote against continuing licenses."

It was said after the election that many neglected to mark the ballot as they intended to and others did mark it when their choice was the other way. The proposition at that time was defeated by a vote of 1,573 to 817.

Borough Young Men Certified at Newark

Ralph Judson Smalley, son of Mayor and Mrs. William L. Smalley, and Brown Ralston, son-in-law of Edward S. Hooley, formerly of North Plainfield, were among the North Plainfield young men certified by the District Board at Newark, yesterday, for military service. The registrants had previously been passed upon by the Somerset County Board at Somerville. Beside Messrs. Smalley and Ralston, these borough men were also certified yesterday:

James Blumette, Herman Reupert, Carl Rix, Edward Mobus, Eugene Pierre Spencer, Albert Henry Desnoyers, Frederick Cain, William Sweet and William Hand.

More Men Soon For Camp Dix

Activities at Wrightstown Indicate That Second Big Contingent Will Leave At Early Date

Information coming from Camp Dix today indicates that another contingent of selected men will soon be on its way from Plainfield to the cantonment at Wrightstown. The probable number is not known but as thirty per cent. has been specified as the next allotment of the complete quota it will probably mean that at least sixty more men will drop civil duties to begin military training. General Crowder has been ordering out contingents from various parts of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland during the past week and Plainfield may be called upon any time.

The idea of the move for new men at this time is the result of activities which are sending many of the recruits of September 23 to the southern cantonments. It was rumored today that 5,000 would leave for either Camp McClellan or Camp Jackson early next week and an additional 5,000 would follow a few days later. In the past two weeks fully 10,000 men have left Camp Dix for various parts of the country. Every delegation that went out carried Plainfielders with it and the original eighty-two who have gone from here have been widely scattered. There was a time when most of them could be found in Company A, 311th Infantry, but this has been so depleted that the Plainfield aspect is gone.

In order to maintain the quota of 202 men from this district, Chairman W. R. Codington, of the local board, has notified 108 more Plainfield registrants to appear at the Plainfield High School next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock for examination. This has been found necessary because of discharges of accepted men by army surgeons, following the physical tests at Camp Dix. The previous number of men called before the local board was 866 and the additional 108 will make 925 called to Plainfield. Those who are to appear at the High School next Monday afternoon are the following:

Mayor Appeals On Liberty Loan Subscription

This Liberty Loan will be a success. The people will lend their dollars to the Government. They have needed to be awakened and aroused because we are far from the horrors of the war, and disaster has as yet hardly touched us. There is need still, in these two remaining days, to exert ourselves to the utmost to bring the loan up to the magnificent maximum at which we aim, and which will have a more crushing effect on a losing and desperate enemy than the loss of a whole division of its army in the field.

But my appeal to the men of Plainfield, and the women, and even the children now that the campaign draws to an end, if more especially a plea that no patriotic American shall permit himself or herself to lose this great opportunity to invest in this fight for human rights and to make an end of such wars, once for all.

The time is short, but if you, Mr. Plainfielder, have not yet bought a bond, do it now. Buy one, anyway. You do not need money to do it, that is not more than a dollar. Borrow the money, if necessary. Go to any of our banks. They will help you to get your bond so easily that you will hardly feel it. When this war is won, as it will be, just as sure as the sun rises and sets, you will wish to feel that you have been a partner in the enterprise. You can't fight for your country. But you can back it up. The success of the Liberty Loans does not depend on your small subscription. But your country depends on you,—and it makes no difference whether you are an American by adoption or by birth. If you are an American you will wish later on to be able to be in a position to make but one answer when you are asked, "Are you a Liberty bondholder? Did you help win the war? When your country asked you, not to give, but just lend some of your money, did you do it?"

Let these last two days bring in everybody who has not yet subscribed. No one can afford to stay entirely out. Plainfield has been allotted a quota which may be hard to reach, but Plainfield can at least show in the total number of subscribers that all her people have a real personal interest in the war, and are back of the Government, and will continue to back the Government until the civilized world at last emerges from this frightful nightmare.

Dan Coleman With The Hastings Show

The Harry Hastings Big Show, featuring Dan Coleman, the unique comic, will be the attraction for the Plainfield Theatre on Tuesday, matinee and night, October 30. Bright, snappy, colorful, with abundance of catchy music, pretty dances and a succession of laughable scenes, fittingly describes the performance. Hastings is a manager of long experience and he has been unsparing in his expenditures in putting on an entertainment that will be pleasing to both the ear and the eye. It is said that the costumes and scenery are on a par with the more pretentious Broadway productions and the frequent changes of costumes gives opportunity for some gorgeous displays in color blending.

To the lovers of burlesque, plenty of opportunity is given to laugh over absurd episodes, witty sayings and burlesque situations. Dan Coleman, long popular in vaudeville, and until recently in musical comedy, appears in the two burlesques on the bill. Droll and unctious, he is resourceful in introducing business that keeps the audience in high good humor throughout the performance and is said to be one of the few comedians who can exploit droll and ridiculous humor without appearing silly. He is essentially a character comedian and his mannerisms accentuate his humor. Phil Peters proves a good foil to Coleman's work and will play eccentric characters. Esther Higbee, who leads the female contingent as prima donna, is dashing, good to look upon and possessed of a keen perception of the true spirit of burlesque. It is said that no woman in this field of amusement displays handsomer costumes and in greater variety than Miss Teet. The character comedienne is full of the life and go necessary for her line of work, and named Hazel Lorraine. She is versatile, a good dancer and singer and a capable actress. The chorus is one of the best to be seen at this house so far this season. All in all you do not want to miss this show. It is great.

Lapsley May Use Aeroplane to Aid in County Campaign

An airship bombardment of Plainfield, but upon political lines, may be the treat instore for this section within the next two weeks. Such is the announcement made by Democratic candidate for sheriff, Howard G. Lapsley, of this city. Mr. Lapsley is not making the announcement in any spirit of assumed bravado, for he has already accomplished enough flights to gain him a place in Uncle Sam's aviation corps but for his age. He is over 25, and that bars him.

Lapsley says the political campaign, for the present at least, is too tame. He wants to liven things up, and, being an experienced airman, he wants to deliver a personal appeal to the voters from the dizzy height of about 7,000 feet over Union county. Now, like all good Democrats in these economizing times, Candidates Lapsley has taken out pad and pencil and figured—cost of flying a dollar a minute—cost of airplane if it should unwillingly drop, $3,000; some little figure, in fact too much for a Democratic candidate on an economy platform.

That's the only reason it probably won't be done and Mr. Lapsley may decide to deliver his appeal via the auto or by shoelearher express. The idea, be considered, was good, but the Democratic larder is nearly empty. If patriotic Democrats, however, want to see their candidate up in the air55 they may provide the necessary withdrawal and he's willing to fly.

Mr. Lapsley has already gained distinction in the flying field by making a record flight on March 29, of this year, over Long Island Sound, from Hell Gate to Oyster Bay. It was in search of some reported U-boats, which turned out to be only overturned barges. At that time he attained an altitude of 7,900 feet, and came through rain, hail and snow. He gained enough stamina then to feel eager to do the stunt over Union county. It's only the funds for the cost of the trip that are lacking.

Mr. Lapsley has also passed all the Government requirements as an aviator, but he is over 25, the age limit set by the Government for the aviation corps. He has been retained as an instructor and will assist the French officers at present in this country to develop young aviators. He says the Government thinks a man under 25 years of age has more nerve than one somewhat older. If Lapsley should fly over Plainfield he would disprove this, he believes.

Mr. Lapsley may also make a cross-country flight soon, which is one of the Government requirements to become a full-fledged member of its corps of aviators.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR SOCIALIST AGITATOR.

Frederick Kraft, of Ridgefield, Socialist candidate for Governor last year, was on Monday fined $1,000 and sentenced to five years in Federal prison by Judge Davis in the United States Supreme Court at Trenton on a conviction of disloyalty to the Government in inciting soldiers to mutiny in Newark.

It was charged that Kraft questioned the right of the Government to send troops to France.

NINE PLAINFIELDERS ON THE PRESENT PETIT JURY.

Nine Plainfielders were included in the members of the petit jury drawn by Sheriff George C. Otto and the Jury Commission, Monday. The men are to serve for the coming two weeks during which several important cases are to be heard. Those drawn from Plainfield, Scotch Plains and Fanwood are as follows:

Plainfield—Charles P. Bechtel, 728 Carlton avenue; Thad. Doane, 313 West Fourth street; Frederick A. Burr, 924 Kensington avenue; Joseph C. Burd, 112 Richmond street; August L. Laggren, 1406 Putnam avenue; Fred T. Ostrom, 126 Crescent avenue; L. T. Dougherty, 29 Netherwood avenue; Arthur S. Campbell, 943 East Second street; E. H. Tinsman, 1470 East Second street.

Fanwood—George C. Eberle, Martine avenue.

Scotch Plains—H. E. Butler.

Y. M. H. A. LECTURE TONIGHT.

The second of a series of lectures under the auspices of the Y. M. H. A. to be held on Friday nights in their large auditorium on Front street will take place tonight. The last lecture given proved a great success both in attendance and in interest aroused, and the committee feels very much encouraged to carry on this cultural work for the Jewish community. The subject for this Friday night will be "The Bible and its Influence On Modern Civilization," followed by a fifteen minute discussion and the lecturer will be H. Kaplan, the principal of the Hebrew School. All interested are urged to attend. The lecture starts at 8:15 sharp.

Build By Plans

and avoid the expensive difficulties of haphazard construction.

Building by plans means that your buildings will be exactly as you intend them to be—every piece of lumber has its place—you know exactly where it belongs—you know in advance just how much lumber will be required.

Our plans, specifications and complete bills of material for all types of farm buildings are practical. The buildings have all been built time after time until all guesswork has been eliminated. They enable you to check up on the work at any stage in its progress and know that it is right.

We are making no charge for our plan service—it is a part of our new method of selling. We are offering it because it enables us to make pleased and satisfied customers.

We prefer to sell buildings rather than bills of lumber because we are then in better position to recommend the best wood and the proper grade for each use.

The responsibility of pleasing you rests with us.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

A jury in the Circuit Court at Elizabeth late Tuesday afternoon returned a verdict in favor of former Judge William Newcorn, of this city, against Mrs. Bertha Livingston, nee Weinberger, for $993.41. The plaintiff sued to recover $1,000 for legal services rendered and presented his own case to the court. William R. Wilson, of Elizabeth, represented the defendant.

Two Plainfield automobile drivers paid fines in out of town courts this week for violations of the speed law. Martin Milliner, of Church street, employed by John Kline, of East Second street, was mulcted $25 in Commission Dill's court at Newark because he sped through Metuchen at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, bringing a party of Plainfielders home from Wrightstown. William Deidy, of West Fourth street, employed as driver by the Standard Aero Corporation, handed up $10 in the police court at Roselle Tuesday because he attempted to pass through that town at the rate of thirty miles an hour.

Leo Bartle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bartle, of Lee place, former well-known Plainfielder, married Miss Nellie McEvans, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, at the latter city Wednesday. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McEvans, and the young couple will make their home at Badger, Man. Mr. Bartle went West to assume a responsible position at Winnipeg.

The work of paving Plainfield's streets goes "merrily" on and the town's people are now beginning to breath a sigh of relief as one block after another assumes proportions. The north side of West Front street, between Madison and Washington avenues, was completed this week and the Newark Paving Company is now taking up the south side. The bricks have all been laid on North avenue and this thoroughfare will be opened to traffic in about another week. Progress on Watchung avenue still continues to be slow because of the double-tracking of the trolley line and on Park avenue from Fourth to Seventh streets the excavating is well under way.

When Walter Merrill, of this city, was apprehended by the local police on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife, the customary search at headquarters brought sixty-seven dollars to light that had been tucked away in the prisoner's pockets. Judge De Meza turned the money over to Mrs. Merrill and compelled the defendant to furnish bonds to insure the wife a payment of seven dollars additional each week.

Wellesley College's announcement of young women students who have won positions on the athletic teams include the names of two more Plainfield girls. They are Miss Marjorie Burtis, Class 1920, who has "made" the basketball team, and Miss Alice Joy, who will be a member of the coming season's hockey team.

Clan Mackenzie, No. 204, O. S. C., will give a masquerade dance in Debele's auditorium tonight. The sale of tickets indicates a large crowd will be in attendance and the entertainment committee of the clan which will be in charge has arranged a number of novel features.

Genevieve Moffett, Florence Green and Lawrence Drake engaged in a quarrel on Liberty street Tuesday and became so noisy that Patrolman Walsh was attracted to the scene. He placed all three under arrest and they were arraigned before Judge De Meza in the city court Wednesday morning. Sentence was suspended on Drake and Miss Green but the Moffett girl, who was found to be the aggressor in the argument, was fined ten dollars.

All plans have been completed by Plainfield Lodge of Elks for the first dance of the present season to be held at the Watchung avenue clubhouse next Tuesday night. It will be a Hallowe'en affair and will be replete with novel decorations, costumes and appropriate refreshments.

St. Mary's Holy Name Society has planned for a big euchre and entertainment to be held in Columbus Auditorium on November 5. The proceeds will be devoted to the fund of the society which maintains a member of St. Mary's parish in St. Peter's College at Jersey City. Edwin J. Sullivan is chairman of the committee of arrangements and has announced that a splendid program for the entertainment is now being put in shape.

Arrested for using insulting language to women on Park avenue on Saturday night, Patrick Waldron, of this city, was given his choice of paying ten dollars or going to jail for forty days when arraigned before Judge DeMeza Monday morning. He paid the fine.

Mrs. Margaret McGinley, of this city, has been granted a divorce from her husband, James McGinley, formerly of this city, but now living in theW est. Suit was brought by the complainant, through her counsel, Robert Newton Crane, on the grounds of desertion. Mrs. McGinley was formerly Miss Margaret Burke, of High Bridgke.

Frank Rowley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowley, of Grove street, is confined to his home with a broken bone in one foot. The injury was received in the gymnasium of the North Plainfield High School.

Douglas Cowin, Richard Scott and "Doc" Doyle have reorganized the Holy Cross football eleven and are planning on playing Sunday games. Avon Oval, near the Plainfield Country Club grounds, which was used by the T. A. B. baseball nine, has been secured as the gridiron and it is planned to hold the opening game on Sunday, November 4. The idea of Sunday football is new in this section and will undoubtedly prove highly popular with the local sporting element.

The Y. M. H. A. conducted a highly successful dance in the association building on West Front street Tuesday night. A large number of young people were in attendance and a substantial sum was realized for the welfare work in behalf of Jewish boys in the United States Army and Navy.

Notice has been given by the local theatres that the Government tax on tickets for theatrical amusements will be commenced on November 1. From that time on ten per cent. will be added to the price of every ticket purchased at the box offices, for instance, ten-cent tickets will hereafter be eleven cents, fifteen-cent and twenty-cent tickets will be seventeen and twenty-two cents, twenty-five-cent and thirty-cent tickets will be twenty-eight and thirty-three cents and so on up to the highest price charged for theatrical amusements here, which is two dollars. After the tax goes into effect the two dollar tickets will be two dollars and twenty cents.

One of Collision Victims Still in Critical Condition

A report from Muhlenberg Hospital at noon today stated that Frank Szobod, one of the two young men injured in a collision at East Second and Washington streets between a motorcycle and auto truck, early Tuesday morning, was still in a precarious condition. The outcome of his injuries, a fractured skull and a broken leg, continued to be in doubt. Szobod has been in a comatose state since first received at the institution. The young man lived with his parents at 224 Rushmore avenue.

Herman Overland, of 340 Hunter avenue, was the other victim of the accident. He was more fortunate than his companion in that he escaped with a fractured leg and numerous contused wounds. The doctor in charge of his case said today that there was no doubt as to his complete recovery in course of time.

Both Szobod and Overland had been employed at the Standard Aeroplane plant and had reached the works shortly after 7 Tuesday morning, when one of them felt the need of getting some postage stamps. They started down town on Szobod's motorcycle and were speeding along East Second street in a westerly direction, meaning to reach the postoffice and return in time for work. They were about to cross Washington street, when an auto delivery truck owned by the Ward Baking Company, of Newark, loomed in front of them. The motorcycle crashed headon into the side of the heavier vehicle, throwing both young men with terrific force squarely against the truck. The driver of the latter machine was Sidney Reach, of 213 North Thirteenth street, Newark, who claims that the two cyclists were riding at a high rate of speed. He escaped unharmed in the crash and did all possible for the victims previous to the arrival of Dr. Albert Pittis. The physician discerned that Szobod and Overland were badly hurt and had them rushed to the hospital in the police patrol.

Reach was held on a technical charge by the police and furnished bail to await the outcome of Szobod's injuries.

Presbytery Severs Relations With Dr. Zelie

The relations of Rev. J. Sheridan Zelie, D. D., as pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, this city, and Rev. Michael Toth as pastor of Magyar church, Elizabeth, were dissolved by the Presbytery of Elizabeth at a special meeting in the Second Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. Dr. Zelie requested that his pastorate end with next Sunday and former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, Augustus V. Healy, Howard McWilliams, James W. Sandford, G. H. Condit and J. Everett Kimball, the commissioners representing the Crescent Avenue congregation, acquiesced with tributes appreciative of Dr. Zelie's fourteen years' work with the Plainfield church. The majority of the pastors in attendance took occasion to speak in commendatory terms of Dr. Zelie and his achievements.

Entered as second-class matter December 29, 1916, at the postoffice at Plainfield, N. J., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Plainfield, New Jersey, Friday, October 26, 1917.

THE RECORD'S SUCCESS IS THE PEOPLE'S VERDICT.

With this issue of the Record, the management takes great pleasure in calling the attention of the public to the fact that the publication is one year old today. The first anniversary may not be a tremendously important epoch in the lives of people who are beset by the great happenings of the world war but to us it is worth more than passing comment.

When the present lusty infant appeared in the local newspaper field on October 27, 1916, it outlined a policy that has been adhered to strictly and left the wisdom of its choice to the approval of the people. We are happy to say that the people have co-incided with our views of that time and in the twelve months just completed the citizens of Plainfield have shown their appreciation by substantial support, thus enabling us to carry out the enterprise that was first approached with trepidation and self-conscious appreciation of the task ahead. Unforeseen obstacles arose from time to time but each has been overcome in turn. Other obstacles will develop later and whether or not they are to be met and passed as safely as were their predecessors again rests with the thinking public that has stood by us so nobly up to the present time. So far that support has spelled success.

When the Daily Press suspended publication last October, the statement was made that Plainfield was not big enough for two newspapers. This may be so if the newspapers are not of the right sort. They may chronicle the town's happenings in a mediocry sort of way but fail to give the people what they want, consequently two have just about as much excuse for being as is necessary for one. Where a paper sets out to mold public opinion, give the news in attractive style and tell it truthfully, however, the case is vastly different. The publishers of the Record took this view of the matter and it was sufficient reasoning for launching the Record enterprise. Those who have followed its columns, and we are happy to say they are numbered in the thousands, are fully cognizant of the breezy style that proved such a welcome relief in the desert of dry local reading. The big feature has been the editorial comment. This department has been conducted on absolutely fearless and independent lines, but ever alert to the importance of the subjects under consideration. There was never any intention of making the editorial columns the mouth-piece of a "town's scold" but there have been times when criticism has had to be directed in certain quarters. There have been numerous cases where the Record has lost hundreds of dollars' worth of business for expressing its opinion but it only made us all the more determined to show Plainfield what it had lacked in the past—a newspaper that was not gagged by dollars and cents. The loss of business was frequently followed by personal threats and "wire pulling" in supposedly influential circles but the policy of absolute independence and unhampered opinion was continued. We can say for the benefit of the scoffers of the Record that we would rather have their opposition than their support and they might as well understand it first as well as last that this publication will continue exposing the fallacies that have blinded the people in the past. A newspaper without virile comment is not worth the labor exerted in its get-up. The people want to know the truth about municipal subjects, they want news without a coat of misleading varnish and above all they want an editorial policy that has back-bone and not the physical qualities of a jelly-fish.

One instance of what it means to have a live newspaper in the town occurred when the national draft was made last July. There has never been such an important happening as this since the days of the Civil War yet it remained for the Record to give the anxious relatives and registered men the details of the great drawing at Washington. To many of the youths of our city it meant a complete change in the course of their lives. To mothers, wives and sweethearts it meant a sacrifice that was to be willingly given but which each one wanted to know if it was to be made. On this memorable day, the Record was the only newspaper in this district which sought to give a complete and comprehensive report of the Federal selection, not only publishing the numbers as they were picked from the bowl at the country's Capitol but publishing the names of the men who held them. The office of the paper was besiged from the time the drawing began until it came to a close. Men and women crowded and jostled each other in an effort to get the latest bit of information from the ticker and when the special edition was placed on the streets the copies were grabbed up quicker than the newsboys could hand them out. Price was no object and the presses were kept running far into the first night after the excitement began. More than 8,000 copies of the special edition were sold on Friday and 4,000 copies of the special edition were bought up on Saturday. Since that time the Record has attempted to give complete accounts of all military happenings of local interest, paying special attention to life at the camps. The increased circulation that has followed the innovation is substantial proof that the people want to know what the home boys who are in the service are doing.

The draft "scoop" is only one of the dozens of big features which the Record has "put over" on its contemporary. It was the first to give a truthful account of the City Hall muddle, the first to tell of the Standard Aero Corporation's removal plans to Elizabeth and the subsequent halt ordered by the Government, the first to tell of the numerous big realty deals in the business section last spring and many others too numerous to mention.

The year-old Record is now completing its creeping stage. In the twelve months to come it intends to be walking and walking fast. The first year is always the hardest in a newspaper's career and as ours has found us many times stronger than when we began we can promise greater things for the future than were set forth in the salutatory of the initial issue. While the complex problems of the war make it rash to plan any great business undertaking at this time, we still entertain the hope of being with our readers six days a week instead of one. The success of the Record when it began on October 27, 1916, rested with the people and the verdict has been all that we could ask.

LOOKING THE SALOON QUESTION SQUARELY IN THE FACE.

Before the voters of this city cast their ballots either one way or the other for the vitally important saloon question next election day, they should ask themselves the following queries:

Do you believe in abolishing the present well-regulated excise conditions in Plainfield and placing the community in the position of a Sahara surrounded by convenient drinking places?

Do you believe in adding $13,605.70 to the tax budget, making a raise of 4.16 points, without securing anything in return?

Do you believe in making Plainfield the only city in New Jersey to abolish its saloons conceded to be the best regulated in the State?

Do you believe in depriving a working-man of his right to enjoy a glass of beer while his rich neighbor keeps his wine cellar filled with the choicest beverages brought to his door by express or New York delivery wagons?

Do you believe in promoting "speak-easies," with all the evil influences they engender, thus hiding from the police the traffic that is now conducted in such a manner as to permit of absolute surveillance?

Do you believe in sending men to North Plainfield, Dunellen, South Plainfield, Piscataway township, Fanwood and Scotch Plains for the social drink denied them at home, thus fostering the habit of spending half the night away from their families instead of an hour and acquiring a taste for liquor by carrying back the convenient "half pint" which acts as a stay until another trip can be made?

Do you believe in returning Plainfield to the deplorable conditions of 1889, when the city went legally "dry" but illegally was "wet" in scores of places where liquor had never been sold before, this state of affairs resulting in a complete reversion of conditions the following year and inducing the Common Council to grant more saloon licenses than Plainfield has had at any time before or since?

The interrogations as given above are only a few of the many that could be directed toward this momentous subject. The merest suggestion of a statement in behalf of the liquor traffic in Plainfield means condemnation by people who see only one side of the question and for that reason no voice is lifted against the proposed abolition of the saloon. Nevertheless, we sincerely believe that a large portion of the citizens do not want to see the licensed drinking places done away with. They know that there is always a certain element which cannot handle alcoholic beverages but feel that they should not be deprived of their own right to enjoy a glass because some unfortunate individual carries things to excess. They understand that the cry of the prohibitionist is sincere but understand that America has not yet discovered any prohibition that prohibits. They know also that every man, woman and child in the community is being taxed as they never were before and that it is poor satisfaction to increase the burden for the benefit of the hotel men just over the city line. All this they comprehend fully but for fear of personal criticism refrain from making any protest.

There is not a man in Plainfield who can deny the fact that the saloon question in this city has been handled as well, if not better, than in any town in the United States. The community has a population of 30,000 people, yet has only eight licensed retail places for dispensing malt and spirituous liquors. New Brunswick, with an equal population, has eighty saloons; Perth Amboy, with thirty-five thousand inhabitants, has 133 saloons, and towns with half Plainfield's population have three and four times the number of drinking places. The license fee in Plainfield is the highest in the State with possibly one exception and is the only city which restricts its saloons to a certain area. Each Plainfield liquor dealer knows that the slightest infraction of any of the rigid regulations imposed by the Common Council means the loss of his license. The dealer has always worked hand in hand with the authorities, adhering strictly to the police "black-list" as well as compiling one of his own. There are no dives, no selling after hours or on Sundays, no throwing of dice for drinks, no gambling or slot machines and even no music of any kind permitted within the confines of the saloon quarters. We ask in all fairness to those who have sought to regulate the sale of liquor in Plainfield if similar conditions can be found in any other city? If so, we have yet to hear of it. The Bishops' bill was passed in New Jersey ten years ago and had for its primary objects the prevention of Sunday selling and the removal of the disgraceful "side rooms," which caused the ruin of so many young women. The idea of the bill was all right but has it been enforced anywhere in the State and at any time since it was passed? We say "anywhere in the State" because Plainfield was already ahead of the Bishops' bill and had no side rooms or "family entrances" for the Sabbath. Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk was appointed the head of a commission to investigate Sunday selling in New Jersey a year or more after the Bishops' bill went into effect and the condition of affairs he unearthed made it plain that the law so far as its enforcement was concerned was almost as big a farce as the so-called prohibition of Maine. There are many other rigid laws on the statutes of this State that were intended to regulate saloons but nobody, not even the present Legislators, know anything about them. The conduct of saloons depends on the municipal officers and in this particular respect Plainfield can doff its hat to its executives and police department.

Citizens who were here in 1889 recall vividly the deplorable conditions that existed at that time. Plainfield went "dry." North Plainfield remained "wet," and so did all the other towns, boroughs and villages in this vicinity. The saloons in North Plainfield, Dunellen and Scotch Plains reaped a harvest and Plainfield had to contend with the drunken men who drifted back home, the men who got drunk in their effort to imbibe enough drinks to "keep them" until they could get back to the "oasis" again. The crowd which went east on the New Jersey Central Saturday afternoons and dropped off at Fanwood or Westfield reached such proportions that the local was familiarly known as the "jug train." At that time a distillery was in existence in Fanwood township which sold liquor in wholesale quantities and the men who visited the place never failed to bring back a jug of whiskey, hence, the jocose name.

It was in 1889 also that the "speak-easies" flourished like weeds in a lazy man's garden. They were to be found everywhere and the difficult legal knowledge necessary before the proprietor could be arrested prevented the police from stamping out the practice. If it so happened that one of the illegal resorts was put out of commission, there were always two more to take its place. So went the "dry" year and when 1890 came around the citizens were only too glad to have the legal selling places reopened. In 1897 when an attempt was made to again make the town "dry" the proposition was defeated by a vote of nearly two to one, the exact figures being 1,573 to 817.

Plainfield now faces the proposition of going "dry" again. If it could be done with any certainty of bettering conditions there is not the slightest doubt but what the vote in favor of abolishing the saloons would be almost unanimous. As it is, we believe the citizen who understands the question and who knows that Plainfield in the past twenty-seven years has handled the problem in a most commendable manner, will cast his vote to continue the present well regulated conditions. There are hundreds of men who can enjoy a social glass without becoming one of the "sots" so vividly pictured by imaginative brains, many scores who do not drink at all but appreciate the fact that legal saloons are better than illegal dives and others who believe in letting well enough alone. Plainfield has handled the problem and handled it well. Why experiment during these troublous times?

Plainfielders Mourn Death of "Grand Old Man of the Ring"

The news which came from Chicago early Monday morning that Robert J. Fitzsimmons, the greatest gladiator of modern times had been "counted" out by the Grim Reaper, caused more than unusual comment in Plainfield because "Bob" had been considered a local resident for more than ten years. Although he gave up his home at Dewey Park early in 1915 he refused to sever his Plainfield relations and "blew back" whenever there was any possible excuse for his coming. His acquaintances here were numbered in the thousands and he considered several well-known Plainfielders among his closest and most cherished friends during the days of his waning career. If Chicago were not so many miles away, it is probable that the funeral service would have been attended by not scores but hundreds of Plainfielders who knew "Bob" and liked him for what he was.

It was back in 1906 that the "grand old man of the ring" decided it would be a splendid idea to establish a sanitarium somewhere near New York on the same plans that built up "Billy" Muldoon's place at White Plains. In casting about for a suitable location, he visted Plainfield and eventually decided to purchase the splendid property at Dewey Park, then owned by the late Edward White, of this city. In every way it was ideal for the old fighters' plans but somehow or other he never got to the point where he could carry ou tthe project. At one time he became too interested in the fighting game again and on later occasions a lack of sufficient capital kept him from making the alterations necessary before the buildings were ready for patients. Finally, the mortgage was foreclosed and "Bob" was compelled to seek other quarters.

From the time that Fitzsimmons first added himself to the complexity of Plainfield he became a sort of "idol." Those who had followed his ring career through the newspapers wanted to be numbered among his immediate circle because of what he had accomplished in the profession he had adopted. Others who knew little or nothing of the squared arena appreciated the fact that he was a world's champion and paid him the homage due a man who had accomplished something. Lastly there were people who liked the freckled fellow because of his frank, genial and warm-hearted disposition. In many ways he was like a child, interested in little things and ready to make friends with anyone who appealed to him. He took great delight in collecting little tricks and stories on his theatrical travels and when he came back to Plainfield each time he would work them off on his admirers. There are many who remember his sportiveness at Thiele's restaurant where he took great pleasure in "meeting" the boys and at the Iroquois Hotel, where he made his headquarters when in town and where he listed Proprietor Jerome Leary as his "standby." He derived great satisfaction in dropping in to Frank Hand's blacksmith shop to make a souvenir horseshoe for friends, the number of these good luck mementos now hanging in Plainfield homes running into the scores. When he embarked on his first vaudeville tour with his second wife, Julia Gifford, the action of the drama called for "Bob" shaping up a horseshoe, just as he used to do it when he was a poor blacksmith working at his trade. The first shoe he turned out in this manner on the stage was gold plated by the big fellow and presented to Assemblyman William N. Runyon, who "Fitz" always declared was "one of the finest men" he had met in all his travels." The name of the vaudeville sketch was "A Man's a Man For A'." That "Fitz" and Mrs. Fitzsimmons used it as a vehicle for nearly five years, during which they appeared in nearly every principal vaudeville house in the country. "Bob" was never much of a scholar and whenever he received a curtain call or was asked to make an address he used speeches prepared for him by Assemblyman Runyon and which, in course of time, he delivered almost as glibly as William Jennings Bryant could talk on "Free Silver."

It was while Fitzsimmons was living here in 1907 that he undertook to whip the ex-champion, Jack Johnson, the colored heavy-weight who claimed the world's title. Although "Bob" had a crippled arm through the development of a boil which had to be lanced by Dr. A. H. Dundon, he insisted on facing Johnson in the ring at Philadelphia. More than a hundred Plainfielders went down on the trip with him and it was one of the sorriest spectacles they ever had to witness. "Fitz" was no match for the colored giant and with the added handicap of the bad arm he went down to defeat in two rounds. It was the last battle of any consequence he ever fought until he began struggling for life in the Chicago hospital last week following his contraction of pneumonia.

In 1906 the lanky fighter accepted a challenge from "Tommy" Burns, who was Noah Brusso in private life, and who was climbing up the championship ladder. "Fitz" had no manager at the time and he selected William J. Counihan, the well-known theatrical man to act in his behalf. Counihan completed all arrangements for the big match with the assistance of Samuel Cunningham, also a Plainfielder at the time. The contest was to have taken place before a crowd of many thousands at an immense auditorium in Essington, a suburb of Philadelphia, but at the last moment was stopped by the Pennsylvania constabulary on orders from Governor Pennypacker. "Tom" O'Rourke, the foremost promoter of the day, made every effort to have the fight go on but Pennypacker was firm and declared the admission of a single person to the building would result in the arrest of all concerned. After a conference at the office of O'Rourke in the Land Title building in Philadelphia, in which Fitzsimmons' interests were represented by Counihan, Cunningham and Thomas M. Mule, the match was declared off. A telegram to this effect reached Fitzsimmons as he was boarding a train at the North avenue station and he decided to remain in Plainfield, leaving the aftermath to his representatives. All the big dailies in the country issued sporting extras to tell of the affair and the ringside followers who had anticipated a championship contest and were in Philadelphia by the many thousands wended their way out of the city in deep dejection.

During his stays in Plainfield, "Fitz" always stood ready to aid any aspiring pugilist in acquiring points of the game. At one time he had a class of ten to whom he gave boxing lessons and one became so adept he won ten dollars from "Bob" when the latter declared that none of them could "tap him on the nose." The young Plainfielder not only reached Fitzsimmons' proboscis but also drew away a pint or more of the old fighter's rich red blood. "Bob" frequently appeared at local entertainments given for charitable purposes, one of which was at the hospital carnival on West Fourth street when he wrestled with his "pet" lion for the edification of huge crowds. This lion was given to the champion by Frank Bostock, the world famous animal-trainer, and was kept by "Bob" on a "trolley" chain at the Dewey Park property. It was only an intermittent cub when first received but soon became a massive brute with all the instincts of its jungle forebears. There were several occasions when it threatened to "cut loose" with consequent serious results but "Bob" laughed at warning until one day it broke from its moorings and sprang upon a team of horses being driven past the place by Michael Gallagher, of Dunellen. One of the animals managed to free itself but the second one was felled to the ground and almost torn to pieces by the lion before "Bob" could reach the scene. He rendered the lion unconscious by a blow on the head with a hammer and then dragged it back to a cage. The next day the beast was sent back to Bostock's Wild Animal show at Dreamland, Coney Island, where it attracted thousands of curious sightseers who had read of the Dunellen circumstance in the metropolitan papers.

The last time that Fitzsimmons was in Plainfield for more than a chance visit was last spring, when he remained for several days. Up to the time when he went to Chicago with his wife to fill a vaudeville engagement, he had been making his home in Newark, where his two children, Robert, Jr., and Rose, have been residing with friends. These children are by his first wife, Rose Julian, who died about fifteen years ago.

Red Cross Chapter Designated to Care For Relief Work

In order to prevent the overlapping of relief work for the Plainfield boys in the various branches of the military or naval service, Major Calkins conducted a conference of the various local organizations at his office Tuesday night. Representations from each society doing this service were in attendance and after a long discussion decided to place all the relief work in charge of the Plainfield chapter of the Red Cross Society. As soon as possible, the chapter will appoint a special committee to handle all departments of the relief work.

As soon as the new Auxiliary of the Red Cross has been appointed to manage and administer this work, there will be established in Plainfield an organization to which the Mayor will refer every request and suggestion coming to him from State and Federal sources for the appointment of committees of citizens to raise moneys for war relief objects. In other words, instead of appointing separate committees each time, the Red Cross Chapter, through its executive committee, will decide whether the money is to be raised and how, and will then turn the matter over to its sub-committee or welfare Auxiliary, which will be in charge of the collection of contributions. All moneys thus collected by the Auxiliary will be placed in a special fund and will be administered by the Red Cross for the special relief objects; that is, furnishing comforts and necessities to men in the military and naval branches of the service, looking after members of their families where necessary and furnishing company funds, and like objects.

The local organizations represented at the conference and those who spoke for them were as follows: The Volunteer Auxiliary League, Judge William Newcorn; The Red Cross Society, Mrs. Charles A. Reed; The Plainfield Executives' Club, W. T. Ayer, and the Woman's Naval Service representative by the Executive Committee.

SNEAK THIEF PURLOINS MR. BRESSAN'S SUIT CASE.

Returning from a business trip to Washington, Wednesday afternoon, A. J. Bressan, of Chatham place, the borough, met Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur at Front street and Watchung avenue and stopped for a little chat. The display of Hudson cars in the new Pittis building attracted their attention and the two men walked over to get a closer view, leaving Bressan's suit case near the curb. When they looked for it a few moments later the case had disappeared. Bressan thought some of his friends from the Elks' Club had taken it in a joke but when it failed to show up yesterday he notified the police.

The case contained a set of pearl studs valued at $100, a dress suit valued at $75 and other articles making the grand total about $200. So far the police have been unable to get any trace of the missing case.

JUDGE CRANE GIVES VERDICT.

Judge J. Henry Crane in the Plainfield District Court, this week gave judgment for $164 to Zagoria Brothers, of this city, against Andrew V. Renberg, of Westfield, the action growing out of an accident at Westfield, when the defendant's automobile struck a produce wagon owned by the palintiff.

Dire Doings Of "Dix Dare-Devils"

The following personal paragraphs relating to Plainfield boys at Camp Dix has been contributed by one of the privates in Co. A, 311th Infantry:

"Joe" Sullivan was up to 331-A yesterday showing off a new mustache he is trying to raise. The only part you can notice is a black spot on his lip.

John Connelly has all the crowd yelling cut it out. He awakes all the bunch figuring out the angles of aeroplane flying. He also hawls the crowd out for throwing cigarette butts under his bed, as he claims he will not get a pass.

"Jack" McCarthy got in Dutch with the entire company by getting up at 4:00 a. m., singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

"Ed" Farrel received a transfer recently and is real glad as he will get away from kitchen police duty, scrubbing floors and tables and from his friend, Lt. Eberlin.

George Fisher, who is too tall for trenches, has been working in the hospital pushing a broom and pulling cobwebs from under Rene Coon's bed.

Hinvest is rapidly gaining weight as he is to be transferred and wants to fit a size 40 uniform.

Wilcox received a welcome pay and started spending right away by giving 25 cents for a shine on his "Hobby" shoes.

Byron Meek has asked for a larger size hat due to a transfer to 311th Headquarters Co.

Ralph DeLibro, who is trying to learn everything, has been transferred to "Baker's" School and received grapes from home to experiment with in pies.

"Gus" Nash fell sound asleep in line, thinking of the girl he left behind and dropped his new rifle, for which he was put in the awkward squad.

"Dick" Harrigan and "Charlie" Loizeaux come up every day visiting the boys. Hate to break away from Co. A.

"Jack" Van Ness is constantly worrying about being sent away and carries a perpetual grouch.

Donald Sminck has about made up his mind to ask for a pass, having refrained as he did thinking he was not dolled up enough in cotton uniform.

"Bill" Hozan claims camp life is nothing like looking out of the North Plainfield fire house, although he feels much better today after a visit of friends from home.

The Mundy Brothers have the record for silence down here. They go about work like regular deaf and dumb men.

Lots of attractions down here to amuse crowd—Six three-round bouts held at K. of C. building: "Freddie" Welsh, "Joe" Welling, "Young" Rector, "Roy" Rivers, "Joe" Jeannette, "Soldier" Burke.

WEDS IN BROOKLYN.

A number of friends from this city were in attendance Wednesday night at the wedding of Miss Isabella Boller, of Brooklyn, to Herman M. Winter, Jr., of Plainfield. The ceremony took place in St. Mark's Lutheran church, Brooklyn, and was performed by Rev. Dr. Frey, the pastor. Following a wedding trip the couple will make their home on George street, this city. The bridegroom is employed as chief engineer of the auto plate department of the Wood Newspaper Machinery Company, on South Second street, formerly the Potter Press Works.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

WILLIAM ADDISON HOUGHTON.

William Addison Houghton, one of the best known Latin professors in America and authority on many classical subjects, beside holding numerous degrees from leading universities, died in this city at the home of his son, William M. Houghton, of 4 Park place, Netherwood, Monday night. Death came suddenly after a brief attack with heart trouble.

Mr. Houghton retired from active educational work about ten years ago, since which time he had traveled a great deal. It was his custom to spend the summers in New England and the winters in Florida, stopping in Plainfield on the journey either way. He came to this city last week and had practically completed arrangements to start South when the fatal attack ended his career. The funeral service was held at the son's home, yesterday morning, and was in charge of Rev. Francis L. Frost, of West New Brighton, S. I., an intimate friend and associate of the deceased for many years. The burial is to be made today in the family plot at Hollistin, Mass.

William Addison Houghton was born at Hollistin, Mass., on March 10, 1852. His parents were Silas and Eliza Houghton, both of whom were of leading colonial families. The son was graduated from Phillip Academy at Andover, Mass., in 1869, and received the degree of A. B. at Yale in 1873. In 1889 Yale accorded him the degree of M. A. Professor Houghton continued his studies in classical subjects even after he had taken chairs at American institutions of learning, and in order to perfect himself in certain branches entered the University of Berlin, 1872, remaining for one year.

The trustees of Olivet College, Michigan, appointed Professor Houghton principal of the preparatory department in 1873, remaining there for two years. From 1884 until 1887 he was professor of English literature in the Imperial University, Tokio, Japan, and from 1887 to 1892 served as associate professor of English literature and, later of Latin at New York University. In 1892 the professor accepted the appointment of Latin, language and literature instructor at Bowdoin College, where he remained for fifteen years. While at Bowdoin he gained National prominence as a writer and lecturer. His published works include miscellaneous poems and articles on educational subjects. He was a member of the managing committee of the American School of Classical Studies since 1894, a member of the American Philology Association and a member of the Society of Colonial Wars.

On July 11, 1876, Professor Houghton married Miss Charlotte Morris, of New Haven, Conn., who survives him. There are also surviving a daughter, Miss H. Cecil Houghton, of Boston, and one other son, beside the one n Plainfield, C. A. J. Houghton, of West Medford, Mass.

MARTIN BRANDT.

Martin Brandt, a well-known resident of the borough, whose home was on Harmony street, died Sunday in St. Rose's Hospital, New York, shortly after he had been received at the institution to undergo an operation. He had been suffering from cancer for a long time but did not give up work until about nine weeks ago. During the past eight years he had undergone several operations, two of which were performed at Muhlenberg Hospital and another in St. Peter's Hospital in New Brunswick.

Mr. Brandt was born in Germany fifty-four years ago but had resided in this vicinity the greater part of his life. He was employed for many years as mason's helper by local contractors, but more recently had been one of the hands at the International Motor Company's plant on West Front street. He was a member of the Saurer Mutual Aid Society and the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's church. The latter organization met at the late home in a body Monday night and conducted the customary services of the order.

Mr. Brandt is survived by his wife, a step-son, Louis Fulton, of the borough; a sister, Mrs. Mary Smith, of Bound Brook, and a niece, Mrs. Sophia Bernard, of Dunellen.

The funeral was held in St. Joseph's church Tuesday morning, when a requiem mass was said by Rev. Father Campbell in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The floral tributes included a set piece from the Saurer Mutual Aid Society. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pall-bearers: James Canary, James Whalen, George Smith and Edward Groome.

GEORGE D. PATTEN.

George Deneale Patten, whose home was at 327 East Seventh street and who had been a resident of this city for the past thirty-three years, died Monday at Muhlenberg Hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment since September 9. A brief funeral service was held at the family residence Wednesday morning in charge of Rev. John Baltzly, of All Souls' Unitarian church. Burial was in the family plot in Philadelphia.

Mr. Patten was born at Philadelphia on March 7, 1841, and came of New England stock, the first Patten having come from England and settling at Vambridge, Mass. Mr. Patten served with distinction in the Civil War and at the time of his death was a member of George G. Meade Post, G. A. R., of Philadelphia. He came to Plainfield in 1884 and followed the business of broker at a New York office. At one time he was quite prominent in local politics and with Bernard Gray and Vincent W. Nash was instrumental in directing the affairs of the Second ward. These three men frequently placed men in office who rendered splendid service to the city and county. Although of a quiet unassuming disposition, Mr. Patten readily made friends and had an acquaintanceship that extended to every part of the city. He was a 32nd Degree Mason and a Knight Templar. He was also a loyal and faithful member of All Souls' Unitarian church, and served for a long time as trustee and as treasurer.

Mr. Patten is survived by his wife, a son, Henry Ayres Patten, of New York, and a daughter, Mrs. Louisa P. McKay, of Cleveland, Ohio.

SIDNEY PERRIN LODGE.

Sidney Perrin Lodge, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Lodge, of East Second street, died Tuesday morning, after a brief illness. The child was two years old. The funeral service was held at the family home in charge of the Brethren, Wednesday afternoon, and was private. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

MRS. MARY S. CLARKE.

Mrs. Mary S. Clarke, a resident of this city for many years and mother of George J. Clarke, of Arlington avenue, died Tuesday night in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Elizabeth. She had been ill for some time. The funeral was held at the son's home, this morning at 8:30, and later in St. Mary's church, where a requiem mass was said by Rev. Father B. M. Bokan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Plainfield Lodge of Elks Urges Home Folks To Write Letters to Boys In Service

Keeping in mind the hardships of the boys who are in the training camps preparing for their country's service, Plainfield Lodge of Elks has issued an urgent appeal to its members to do all possible in behalf of the young men who are doing the real work in the national crisis. Twenty members of the local organization are among those at Camp Dix, Camp McClellan, various forts and even in Northern France and the exalted ruler has asked that each man at home show his interest in them by writing a letter or contributing something for the "comfort" funds. The appeal was made only a few days ago but has already met with a hearty response. It is safe to say that more than 100 letters have been written that would not have been penned otherwise and the contributions for little "delicacies" like sugar and milk have grown into the many hundreds of dollars.

The Elks do not mean to give the impression that only B. P. O. E. members are to write letters. They want everybody in Plainfield to send along a few words to the boys who crave a word or two from the home town, no matter on what subject. If you are not already communicating with the soldier boys, consult the following list of Plainfield Lodge members who have obeyed duty's call and if you know any one of them, drop him a line:

Esteemed Leading Knight Chalmers L. Crist, 1st Lieut. D. R. C., American Expeditionary Forces, France; Secretary Edward L. Starker, Troop D, Anniston, Ala.; Capt. Lewis E. Waring, Quartermaster's Department; Dr. Frank W. Cornwall, Capt. U. S. Hospital; Milton D. Dilts, Corp. Troop D, Anniston, Ala.; John H. Logan, Mosquito Fleet; Benj. A. Cole, Jr., Ambulance Corps; George E. Trust, Ambulance Corps; Le Roy Woodhull, Quartermaster's Department; Frank D. Chapman, Naval Reserves; Emil Jahn, Fort Niagara, N. Y.; Frank O. Webster, Co. B., 11th Engrs., (Railway) American Expeditionary Forces, France; Fred D. Schuck, Naval Reserves; Kenneth E. Runyon, Quartermaster's Department; Augustus C. Nash, 311th Infy., Co. A, Camp Dix; Charles E. Lolzeaux, 311th Infy., Camp Dix; Richard J. Harrigan, 311th Infy., Camp Dix; George F. Hall, National Army; William D. Hogan, 311th Infy., Camp Dix.

FIRSTBROOK OPENS CAMPAIGN.

Walter I. Firstbrook, of this city, candidate for assembly on the Prohibition ticket, opened his campaign Sunday afternoon at a meeting of the W. C. T. U. He also spoke at Hope chapel Sunday night.

FOSTER JOHNSON SECURES A FINE NEW POSITION.

Foster Johnson, of Grant avenue, who has been employed at the Pond Tool Works for the past twenty years, left last week for Watertown, N. Y., where he will assume a position as supervisor for the manufacture of gun mounts at the plant of the New York Air Brake Company. The new place is a distinct advancement for Mr. Johnson and came to him because of his knowledge of heavy machine work. He expects to make his home in Watertown, where Mrs. Johnson will join him in that city very shortly.

Mr. Johnson has been a resident of Plainfield for a long time. At the Pond shop he was an expert lathe worker and in recent years has been foreman of one of the departments. He stood very high with all of his associates and his going is deeply regretted by all who know him.

Freeholder Wilbur Tells Board's Side of County Road Work

Discussion, both inside and outside county official circles, regarding certain road contracts let by the Board of Freeholders has led to the report of a possible investigation by the October Grand Jury. The roads understood to be involved are the Mountain avenue road running from Mountainside to Springfield, and a part of the Terrill road, which is in Plainfield.

It appears that the contract on the Mountain avenue road was awarded to C. H. Winans, of Elizabeth, at a figure approximately $104,000 for the east end portion, after bids had been rejected for the entire road. James McAvoy, of New York, was the lowest bidder at $110,000 when the original bids for the entire road were called for.

Complaint was made at the time that McAvoy did not include all the specifications in his price, and upon this complaint the matter was taken to the Attorney-General's office in Trenton. Assistant Attorney-General Backus ruled that the bids must be thrown out. The road was again advertised and Winans was the successful bidder. This contract, however, it is stated, did not include the entire road, as was done when the first bids were called for, and called for different material to be used.

On the Terrill road the question arises over a payment of approximately $1,100 for ninety-six tons of top dressing. This was paid above the contract figure.

Chairman of the roads committee of the freeholders, S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, when asked about the contracts, said that the McAvoy bid under the first call did not cover the cross drains. The matter was taken up by County Attorney Francis J. Blatz, County Engineer Bauer and Mr. Krouse, of the committee. They, with Chairman Wilbur, went to Trenton and laid the matter before the Attorney-General and were told to throw out the bids. They then readvertised with the result that Winans was the lowest bidder and got the work.

Mr. Wilbur explains the difference in the price under the two bids of Winans by stating that the last time it was advertised it was decided to widen the road four feet. He said this was done upon his advice, as he had counted the number of autos and horse-driven vehicles which had gone over the road and found that 121 autos and two horse-drawn vehicles had passed a given point, all within seven minutes. The specifications were also changed as regards the top dressing and filling, the idea being to gain a better roadbed.

Mr. Wilbur expressed some indignation that such a matter should be made the subject of any investigation. He said: "I have been fourteen years on the board and it is just this sort of thing that makes a man resign." He is not a candidate for reelection this year.

Regarding the procedure in this, as well as in other road matters, Mr. Wilbur said it had always been his custom to consult the county attorney, who is paid $3,500 a year to give advice, and he believes the county attorney should be called in when such questions arise.

Charges of a political move were also made by Mr. Wilbur, who said that a certain element had been trying for years to have the board membership reduced to seven men, two for Elizabeth, two for Plainfield and three for the rest of the county. "It may be," said Mr. Wilbur, "that this thing is in motion again."

As regards the extra material delivered on the Terrill road, the chairman explained that by stating that about ninety-six tons were delivered after the inspectors had quit for the night, or before they got around in the morning. "I know it was put there and can vouch for it." The item was paid by the board.

As for his actions as chairman of the road committee, Mr. Wilbur said the minutes will show that the entire board voted for each and every contract. They all had opportunity to make personal investigations and so far as he was concerned in the matter there is nothing to investigate.

Director Teller, of the Board of Freeholders, said that on four previous occasions matters pertaining to the freeholders' work had been under fire by the Grand Jury and that once a commission undertook to attempt to show something was wrong. In each and every instance the freeholders were exonerated. He believed that everything was fair and above board in this instance and saw no reason for an investigation.

County Attorney Blatz stated it was news to him regarding any investigation of the freeholders' acts. *Regarding the Mountain avenue con*tract, he said: "The board was threatened with certiorari proceedings if we awarded the contract to McAvoy. I took the matter up with the Attorney-General's office at Trenton and was told we should throw out all the bids and readvertise. This was done, and on the specifications as modified Winans was the lowest bidder. The road was made wider and other material was adopted as the standard."

"Efficiency" Classes Under Way at Y. M. C. A.

The Plainfield Young Men's Christian Association in putting on "The Emerson Course in Efficiency" has made an excellent beginning with the educational work that is being planned by the new secretary, W. H. Baxley.

Some of the biggest corporations in the country have paid thousands of dollars to get this course, and some of this country's most prominent men have sat in the different Y. M. C. A. classes where this course has been given. Efficiency is for everyone. The course is based on the thirteen fundamental principles that govern the success of all business. The student is taught these principles and how to apply them to his own particular work; so that with the knowledge he already possesses of his job plus the application of these principles he is able to produce the maximum results from any given effort.

The Emerson Institute of New York has sent A. Davidson, one of their special representatives to Plainfield to organize the class for the Y. M. C. A. The association has set aside an office for him on the first floor rear. He or Mr. Baxley will be glad to furnish further information to any of our readers interested in taking such a course if they will apply either in person or by 'phone. Mr. Davidson can be seen at the Association building any evening except Friday and Saturday from 7 until 10 o'clock.

MR. VAN NESS' NEW LOCATION.

Harry Van Ness, who has been in charge of the repair work at Fred Endress' garage on Madison avenue, has purchased the repair department at Steengrafe's garage on Somerset street and will hereafter be located there for all kinds of automobile repairing. Mr. Steengrafe will devote his time to the storage and sales end of the business.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Pyne, of West Fourth street, have gone to Dorchester, Mass., where they will make their home in the future as Mr. Pyne has secured an excellent position with a manufacturing firm in that city.

Adrian Weed, of Sherman avenue, left this week for Jacksonville, Fla., where he will remain for an indefinite period. He has been connected with the I. C. S., in this city.

Walter Foster, Jr., and Charles Foster, of Newark, have been spending the past week as the guests of their grandfather, Charles Foster, of West Sixth street.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Emeline Townsend Manning, daughter of Mrs. Aretta Manning, of Madison avenue and Fourth street, to Jeremiah Leland Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Manning, of Madison avenue. The wedding will take place in the First Baptist church, Tuesday afternoon, November 5, and will be performed by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong. The young couple will make their home in a completely furnished residence which the bridegroom-elect recently erected on Compton avenue.

A number of persons from Plainfield and North Plainfield attended the funeral of Mrs. E. Louise Neighbour, widow of Lemuel W. Neighbour, whose death occurred at her home in Middle Valley last week. The service took place Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the late home. Beside a son and two daughters residing at Middle Valley, she leaves a brother, James Trimmer, of Washington street, this city, and also three nieces, all residing here. They are: Mrs. Chauncey F. Colthar, of Duer street; Mrs. William Wyman, of East Front street, and Mrs. John F. Van Horn, of South avenue.

George H. Fisher, of Manson place, has been confined to his home for the past three weeks by an illness of a serious nature.

Mrs. Lewis R. Ross, formerly of East Sixth street, this city, but now of New York, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Carolyn Ross, to George Herbert Dockstader, of New York city. No date has been set for the wedding. Mr. Dockstader, who is a member of the class of 1918 of Dartmouth College is now in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Miss Mary Doyle, of Raritan, has returned home after a visit with Miss Anna Harrington, of West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Besler, of New street, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a young son, who came to their home a few days ago.

Miss Sarah Carney, of Central avenue, who has been a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past four weeks, following an automobile accident at Third street and Central avenue, continues to remain in about the same condition. The fractured limb is mending very slowly and it will be many weeks yet before the full extent of her injuries will be manifested.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jaeger, of Lee place, are the parents of a son, born to them last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Daniels, who have been residing on Park avenue, have removed to the new apartment house on Duer street, next to Green brook.

John McIntyre, of North avenue, returned home this week after spending three months in the Presbyterian Hospital, New York, following an operation. He will remain at home for some time and will later return to the institution for further attention.

Miss Elsie Frazee, of East Second street, left this week for Chicago, where she will spend the winter with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robin S. Hamilton, of Verdon street, the borough, were week-end visitors at Lake Hopatcong, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Slockbower, of Halsey Island.

Frank L. C. Martin, of Park avenue, returned to business in New York this week following a severe attack of pleurisy.

John Watson, of Sherman avenue, returned home a few days ago after a trip to California lasting a month. On the return journey he stopped for a brief time at several of the cities in the Middle West.

The Misses Beckwith, of Second place, entertained Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Adams, of Passaic, the past week-end.

Fred Zweifel, of Grant avenue, has returned home from Harrisburg, Pa., where he has been for the past few days on a business trip.

Mrs. Charles M. Wilson, of Lennox avenue, returned a few days ago after an enjoyable visit at the home of her son, Augustus Wilson, of Rye, N. Y., formerly of Plainfield.

Miss Estella Eick, of Dunellen, who has been in Muhlenberg Hospital suffering with typhoid fever, showed considerable improvement the past few days and is now well on the road to recovery.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Eva Baker, of Scotch Plains, to Lewis M. Hummer, of St. Mark's place, this city. The ceremony took place last Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. Hummer's uncle, Andrew Lutkins, of Somerset street, and was performed by Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, of North Plainfield. Owing to the illness of the bride's mother, only a few immediate relatives were present. The couple will make their home in this city. Mr. Hummer is a printer by trade and has a wide reputation locally as a musician.

Harry J. Maher, of Richmond street, left Tuesday for Washington, D. C., where he has been assigned to an aviation corps preparing to go to France. Mr. Maher has had a wide experience as a flyer and during the past few months has been superintendent of an aeroplane factory at Newark. Previous to his departure he was given a farewell party by his sister, Mrs. Frank Squire, at her home on Sycamore avenue.

William A. Townsend, son of former Mayor and Mrs. Samuel Townsend, of Myrtle avenue, the borough, left Tuesday for the Frankford Arsenal, Philadelphia, where he will begin his duties as captain in the ordnance department.

A party composed of Captain George Mehl, of No. 3 fire house; Charles F. Debele, of Rock avenue; Postmaster an Willard Apgar and Fireman Gise, of Dunellen, enjoyed an automobile trip to Wrightstown, Tuesday, where they visited the Plainfield and Dunellen boys at Camp Dix.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Evans, of 910 George street, are the parents of a son, born to them at Muhlenberg Hospital, Tuesday morning.

Miss Ruth Kenny, of West Third street, has returned home after a visit with friends in Philadelphia.

Morris Bussel, of Manson place, has returned home from Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala., where he was a member of Company K, Second New Jersey Infantry. He was discharged because of a dependency claim filed by his mother.

Mrs. Frank Runyon, of North avenue, who has been a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital for several weeks, has recovered sufficiently to be discharged and is now convalescing at the home of her daughter in Westfield.

Musical Comedy Hit Coming Here Monday

Henry W. Savage's alluring musical comedy, "Have a Heart," comes to the Plainfield Theatre on Monday evening, October 29, with a fine cast and beautiful equipment. Everybody who keeps posted about musical plays—and everybody does that now-adays—knows that the New York hit of "Have a Heart" last winter is stage history. One enthusiastic reviewer of the Guy Bolton—P. G. Wodehouse—Jerome Kern composite was moved to implore: "Oh, Colonel Savage, 'Have a Heart.' Stop putting so many of our musical comedy producers to shame with the taste, the daintiness, the all-round efficiency of your offerings. You provide for 'Have a Heart' a cast that makes the average city company seem fit only for tank towns. You stage your plays magnificently and artistically. You insist that your singers be able to sing, and your dancers to dance. And you fill your stage with fresh and lovely young personalities." All this sounds promising. And so does the mere hint at a plot which builds around the amusing mishaps of a young couple, separated through unfounded jealousy, who elope for a fresh honeymoon upon the very eve of their divorce. A big department store—or its piquant lingerie section—is pictured in the first act, with salesgirls, shoppers, and a very funny elevator boy. And then the character are whirled away to a seaside hotel at Blueport, R. I., where all ends as musical comedy should.

It Costs Less--At First

To bury in a wooden box, a slate or brick cistern or even a cement vault with an unsealed lid costs less than the Norwalk. A heavy top lowered and sealed by hand is naturally more expensive. But once you have seen with your own eyes the workman cement the top and bottom of the Norwalk Vault together into one solid piece of masonry you are satisfied; and that comfort is worth any price you could pay. Elks Pay Last Respects to "Father" of Plainfield Lodge

A gathering which almost completely filled the main auditorium assembled at the Elks' clubhouse on Watchung avenue yesterday afternoon, when an impressive funeral service was conducted over the body of Alexander D. Findlay, regarded as the "father of Plainfield Lodge," No. 385, and well known in all parts of New Jersey as one of the most enthusiastic upholders of the B. P. O. E. principles. Death came to Mr. Findlay at his home in Madison Tuesday morning and though it had been expected by his hundreds of friends here the news was not without depressing effect. The mourners at yesterday's obsequies included many former Plainfield associates in addition to scores from nearby cities.

The service was in accordance with the Elk ritual. Exalted Ruler Francis J. Blatz, of Plainfield Lodge, was in charge and Lecturing Knight W. W. Nash, Jr., delivered the eulogy. Rev. J. E. Scarbaugh, of Crescent, a friend of the deceased, offered prayer and read scripture and the Elks' quartet sang several selections. The quartet was composed of William J. Tallamy, Bertram F. Tallamy, Elmer D. Cutting and Joseph C. Martin.

The number of floral tributes reflected the wide acquaintance which Mr. Findlay had throughout this district. Beside large set pieces from the Elks there were others from Masonic organizations and business men in this city, Madison and New Brunswick. Burial in Hillside cemetery, the following friends acting as pallbearers: B. Frank Coriell, Fred Ivamy, Elias H. Bird, James F. Buckle, William Townley and George O. Stevens, all of Plainfield.

Previous to the ceremonies at the clubhouse, a short service was held at Mr. Findlay's late home in Madison for the benefit of the friends in that place. It was conducted by Rev. Mr. Morey, of Madison, and the Plainfield Elks' quartet sang. The pall-bearers mentioned for here acted in the same capacity at Madison.

Mr. Findlay's death came after a three or nearly two years during which at no time did he submit to the slowly overcoming power of the malady from which he was suffering. This was a cancerous condition of the throat that brought about numerous complications. On several occasions it was feared Mr. Findlay's condition became quite serious but just at the time when it was feared that his end had come he would rally and seemingly become better than for a long time previous. He refused to admit the true nature of his complaint although he accepted the advice of physicians and took the radium treatment for the cure of cancer, making frequent trips to a New York hospital in the early stages. It was soon last week, however, that the fatal termination was close at hand. He kept up his bed almost constantly and suffered a number of hemorrhages that left him in a greatly weakened state. Monday morning he rallied to the point of attending to numerous pressing business affairs and at night sat in his room and enjoyed his favorite pastime—reading for nearly an hour. At 4 o'clock Tuesday morning his nurse understood that a decided change for the worse had occurred and physicians were summoned. The latter found that there was nothing they could do and the demise occurred at 6:20 Tuesday morning.

Alexander D. Findlay was a native of Scotland but had lived in this country practically all of his life. At the time of his death he was about seventy-two years old. His exact age is not known as for some unexplained reason he would never reveal it, not even to his closest friends, and because of the sensitiveness he displayed when the subject was broached no one ever pressed him for a direct answer. When only a boy, Mr. Findlay learned the tailoring trade in New York but after continuing it for some time entered the hotel business. He was engaged in this capacity at Hamilton, Ontario, for a brief period and later on returned to New York to become clerk at the Holland House, then considered one of the largest and most ffashionable hostelries in the country.

From New York Mr. Findlay went to New Brunswick for the purpose of conducting the well-known Mansion House. He left this place up to be a fire-class hotel and made it known for many miles outside of New Brunswick. About twenty-one years ago he decided to quit New Brunswick and selected Plainfield as his abidinf place. Coming here he purchased the cafe on East Second street, then conducted by Charles Bock, which he managed successfully for eighteen years. The place was closed in 1913. Three years ago Mr. Findlay purchased the hotel business at Madison, which he was conducting at the time of his death. It is one of the only two places in the town and is among the oldest stands in Morris county. The deceased had many personal traits which adapted him for the hotel game. He was always congenial and enjoyed sociability, had a fund of knowledge gained through personal contact with men and affairs and had the happy faculty of drawing the best men of the community to him. On the other hand he was strictly business at all times and anything that tended to lower the tone or lessen respect for the place would meet with opposition on his part that brooked of no interference. His will was of that indomitable Scotch character that is so frequently misleading referred to as "stubbornnes," yet which made him the successful business man that he was. They was never a time when A. D. Findlay did not command the respect of his friends and acquaintances and when he gave his support to any proposition it was done so after careful deliberation and a determination to "do or die."

It was this energy that led Mr. Findlay to organize an Elks' Lodge for Plainfield. When he first came here from New Brunswick he was a member of the organization in that city and took steps to collect all the available "antlered" material there was in this district. He met with numerous difficulties at first but with the influence and co-operation of George O. Stevens and Henry Pedefious kept at work until everything was in readiness for the grant of a charter. It is a noteworthy fact, however, that very few of the employes working in local shops have gone elsewhere to try their luck, principally because of the favorable conditions in this community.

Another move on the part of the Pond management to aid its men in meeting the greatly increased cost of foodstuffs was taken the past week when the concern began a movement to buy flour and sugar in wholesale quantities. The men were notified that the company would buy flour by the carload and sell it to the Pond men at a quoted price of $11.25 a barrel, delivered. Richard Scott was made chairman of a committee to take charge of the matter and within a few days received deposits on 40 barrels. This approximates about a carload and a half, but the order already sent in to a concern at Minneapolis is for two carloads as there is no doubt but what all of it will be sold. The same idea applies to the purchase of sugar which will be contracted for by the company at a wholesale price of nine cents per pound and perhaps eight cents. This is to be sold to the men in bag lots from ten pounds up. When the familiar retail figures for flour and sugar are taken into consideration it can easily be realized what a thing the Pond management is doing to help the work men bear the great taxation burdens of the war.

Pond Employees Get Wage Raise

Machinists at the Big Plant Now Making From Thirty to Fifty Dollars Weekly

Without any request on the part of the working men, the Pond Machine Tool Company this week gave an increase of ten per cent. in wages to the employes of practically every department of the big shop. The only exceptions are in the foundry, where the moulders work under a separate scale and the draughting room, where straight salaries are paid. The advance means an added expense of many thousands of dollars to the concern but is given voluntarily on the part of the management which has a full appreciation ofg the valued assistance of the men in turning out big contracts and the increased cost of living.

The Pond pay roll numbers about 1,000 hands, most of whom are in the machine shop. In this department the minimum rate for a machinist has been forty-seven cents an hour, although many of the experts have recently been receiving as high as eighty cents. Under the new scale the minimum will be fifty-one cents, with a corresponding increase up to a maximum of eighty-eight cents. Practically all the men are putting in two hours overtime each day so that the machinists are now making from thirty dollars to fifty dollars per week. The best the trade has ever received.

Other industrial plants in Plainfield have also been paying a good scale of wages but there is a possibility of a similar increase being *granted to correspond with that giv*en by the Pond management. There are four factories here manufacturing munitions and it is absolutely necessary that good men be kept at work if contracts are to be turned out properly. Concerns in other parts of the country continue to offer inducements to men in this section as it is generally known in the trade that Plainfield is the home of skilled mechanics. It is a noteworthy fact, however, that very few of the employes working in local shops have gone elsewhere to try their luck, principally because of the favorable conditions in this community.

Serious Mix-Up In Soldier Vote

An oversight on the part of Secretary of State Thomas Martin in not placing Plainfield's two questions, the two-platoon and the anti-saloon, on the soldiers' ballot, has caused a serious mix-up in the local situation. The men at Camp Dix, Camp McClellan and other places had received their blanks and were preparing them for mailing as required by law when the discrepancy was discovered. Secretary Martin admitted over the telephone from Trenton that he was at fault and advised that duplicates of the ballot be prepared with the two questions appended. This was being done when word came from Anniston that the soldiers from this city had used the original form and were sending their votes along with their ideas of the two-platoon and anti-saloon written in. Similar word came a little later from the select men at Wrightstown.

The problem that faced the local parties interested directly in the all important queries was how to hold up the voting until representatives could reach the camps with new blanks and the necessary instruction to prevent rejection of the ballots if not locally marked. Very little satisfaction could be gotten by wiring Anniston so Councilman John H. Cose was dispatched to the southern camp with a bale of the freshly printed blanks. As he was not due to reach Anniston until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the belief exists that the trip may be in vain. If the boys have sent their votes away by mail there is no way of intercepting them and they will be counted Election Day whether or not the local questions have been touched upon. No additions can be made after the letters arrive in Plainfield.

In reference to Camp Dix the al*tuation is not much better.* A representative reached the cantonment Wednesday only to find that most of the ballots had gone on their way. Some of the men said they had written in their opinions while others said they did nothing because they were ignorant of the situation. A few were discovered who still had vote and these accepted the complete blanks.

As there are about 200 Plainfield votes at Camp McClellan it is easy to see how serious a matter the oversight has been in reference to the local result. With the sixty votes at Wrightstown the two-platoon or anti-saloon could be carried or defeated. There is some talk of an appeal to the court in the event of the decision not being satisfactory.

HOLDS $1,200 VERDICT TOO SMALL; APPEALS.

An appeal from a verdict of $1,200 was yesterday granted the plaintiff in the case of John H. Adams, of Elizabeth, against Mrs. Sadie H. Drayton, of this city, by Judge Silzer of the Circuit Court. The appeal was made on the ground of insufficient damages.

Adams was injured in an auto accident when the machine that Mrs. Drayton was driving crashed into his. It is alleged that Adams has been permanently injured as the result of the smash.

Big "Shrinkage" In Liquor Cases

DeMeza's "Seventy-Five Per Cent." Narrows Down to Six and One-Half Per Cent.

In connection with its campaign in favor of the anti-saloon referendum, the Church Co-operative Association has been advertising a statement credited to City Judge William G. DeMeza, in which he declares that seventy-five per cent. of the cases in his court are due to the liquor habit either directly or indirectly. A reporter for the Record, believing that the percentage seemed unusually high, spent an afternoon at Police Headquarters this week going over the records as kept by Chief Kiely and his assistants. The first nine months of this year were taken as an example and by allowing a fair possible instance or cases due to the liquor habit, the percentage was found to be at the surprisingly low figure of six and five-tenths per cent.

The police have their own way of listing the different defendants appearing before Judge DeMeza but make it plain when drink is connected with their arrest. Usually the report card makes it "drunk" or "drunk and disorderly." A third listing brings all cases that might have resulted from alcoholic indulgence under a separate class. A certain addition of all the cases in the city court from January 1, 1917, to October 1, 1917, show a total of 1,279. Of this number, according to the arresting officers' charge only 199 were credited to drink. This gives the percentage of six and five-tenths per cent. instead of the "seventy-five" per cent. as claimed by Judge DeMeza.

An examination of the record shows a surprising number of arrests for violations by automobile drivers. A wide stretch of the imagination might construe some of these as having been brought about by visits to road houses but there is nothing on the dockets to indicate it. The automobile cases include overspeeding, glaring headlights, failure to display license tags in the proper manner and failure to observe the "right of way" law. There is also listed on the police books a generous sprinkling of cases where citizens were haled to court for not cleaning snow off their sidewalks, refusing to pay dog license and other petty offenses vastly remote from the liquor habit. Again there are numerous cases of juvenile transgression, most of them which call for nothing more than a reprimand from the magistrate but which are listed as a "case," just the same as is done with a "drink and disorderly." Judge DeMeza did not specify any year on which he based his figure of "seventy-five per cent.," but, according to the police, the nine months mentioned can be taken as a fair average.

In the advertisement published by the Church Co-operative Association another quotation was credited to Recorder Fred W. Hand, of North Plainfield. This made him say that "eighty per cent." of the cases in the North Plainfield court were due to the liquor habit. The records kept by the borough police have not been checked up but it is probable that Recorder Hand's figures are the result of guess work.

Mother of Five Kills Self By Swallowing "Rough-on-Rats"

During a temporary fit of insanity brought about by imaginary family troubles, Mrs. Ella Brokaw, wife of Arthur Brokaw, of Codington avenue, the borough, swallowed "rough-on-rats" at her home late Saturday night. She died in great agony a short time afterward and before physicians who had been summoned could administer any antidote.

Mrs. Brokaw, who was only thirty-four years old, had not been in the best of health for several weeks. Her physical troubles were made worse by continual brooding over fancied wrongs and late last week Dr. Albert Pittis gave medical treatment. She was apparently in a normal condition Saturday afternoon when the physician called but during the evening became depressed and continually talked of matters of which the family knew nothing about. Shortly after midnight her husband discovered that she was suffering great pain from something she had swallowed. She refused to tell what it was but the evidences about her mouth and the symptoms indicated the rat poisoning. This acts fatally in a very short time and although Dr. Pittis and his assistant, Dr. Morris, reached the bedside within a very few minutes after being notified, the sufferer was beyond aid. The doctors established the real cause of the death.

County Physician Long, of Somerville, was notified of the case and gave a burial permit. The deceased leaves five small children, two boys and three girls. The oldest child is about nine years old and the youngest an infant of six months. The family has resided in the borough for many years.

The funeral was held at the family home at 13 Codington avenue on Tuesday afternoon and was in charge of Rev. C. S. Gillespie, of Grace M. E. church. Many relatives and friends were in attendance and numerous floral tributes were extended. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Three Cent Rate For Letters Placed In Operation Today

Today marks the beginning of the Government's new rating for postal service, in accordance with the war tax act passed on October 3 of this year. From now on all two-cent letters intended for delivery outside of the Plainfield district will be three cents and all postal cards going out of Plainfield must bear a one-cent stamp. Within the district, which means all points in Plainfield, North Plainfield or suburban territory covered by either Plainfield letter carriers or rural delivery men, the rate will remain the same as heretofore for both letters and cards. These are known as "drop letters" and can be mailed in the boxes about town the same as usual.

Postmaster Hoagland wants everyone in the city to become acquainted with the new regulations as failure to append the necessary stamps will cause a great deal of annoyance to the Postoffice staff in addition to holding up mail. It is quite probable that in a short time the Government will provide three-cent stamps to promote expediency in preparing letters but at the present time a two and a one-cent stamp will have to be used for out of town letters. The chances are that scores of persons will neglect to remember the increased postage and in consequence a large amount of mail matter will be held at the Post office until properly cared for.

Following are the regulations received by Postmaster Hoagland from the department in Washington relative to the increased rates:

"It is of the utmost importance that every patron of the postal service become familiar with the increased rates of postage provided for letters, postal and, postcards by the War Revenue Act, as set forth in Order No. 755 of October 3, 1917, amending sections 399 and 400 and 402, Postal Laws and Regulations, appearing on page 81 of the October supplement to the Postal Guide. Failure to prepay the proper amount of postage will delay the dispatch and delivery of mail, cause confusion, annoyance and inconvenience, and impose upon the postal service unnecessary labor and expense. The following feature should be particularly emphasized:

"The increased rates become effective November 2, 1917.

"Letters and other first-class matter (except drop letters and postal and postcards) will be subject to postage at the rate of three cents for each ounce or fraction thereof which should be fully prepaid. If less than three cents is paid on a letter, or other first-class matter, it shall be returned to the sender, if known, for the deficient postage. If the sender is not known, it shall, if prepaid at least two cents, be rated with the deficient postage and dispatched to its destination for collection of the amount due upon delivery to the addressee. Letters and other first-class matter prepaid less than two cents shall be treated as prescribed by section 545, Postal Laws and Regulations.

"The rate on drop letters on and after November 2, 1917, will be two cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce. This applies to all letters mailed for delivery within the postal district of the office whose box collected, including delivery by the city, rural or other carriers of such office. The two-cent drop letter rate also applies to offices which have no free delivery service.

"Postal cards, whether they bear written messages or are entirely in print, must be prepaid two cents each and therefore the one-cent postal cards must have a one-cent postage stamp affixed to them in addition to the one-cent stamped impressed on such cards.

"Postcards or private mailing cards bearing written messages will also be subject to two cents postage each.

"The rate of postage is not affected on printed cards bearing the words 'post card 'or 'private mailing card,' which do not bear any written message or additions unauthorized on third class matter but, according to the provisions of Section 453, printed cards still being subject to postage at the third class rate. Printed cards mailed at the third class rate are not be forwarded, from the office of original address to another postoffice without a new prepayment of postage.

"Postmasters are requested to give the foregoing the widest possible publicity by means of notices displayed in their offices and distributed to their patrons, through the local newspapers as an item of public information, and in such other manner as may be practicable.

"The attention of postmasters is called to the provisions of Paragraph 3, Section 591, Postal Laws and Regulations, which prescribes that when they have no postage due stamps on hand they shall collect the amount of postage due, and as soon as they obtain such stamps an amount equal to the postage collected shall be affixed to a sheet of paper, canceled and forwarded to the third assistant postmaster general with a statement of the facts."

Fiftieth Anniversary Of Y. M. C. A. Tonight

The fiftieth anniversary service of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in the First Baptist church tonight at 8 o'clock. Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, in whose home the Association was organized on October 28th, 1867, will make a short address as will several of the other charter members. Charles R. Towson, of New York, who is the senior industrial secretary of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., will deliver the address of the evening. There will be special music by the choir of the Baptist church.

All interested, ladies included, are cordially invited to attend this special service and by their presence signify their willingness to stand with the Association in this the beginning of another fifty years of Christian service for the boys and young men of Plainfield.

Mrs. James B. Conkling, of the Madison apartments, left yesterday for Anniston, Ala., where she will remain for some time. Her husband, Lieutenant Conkling, is attached to the 13th Infantry, which includes most of the members of the former Company K, Second Regiment.

John Donnelly, Jr., of West Fourth street, who has recently been living in Jersey City because of his work with the Lehigh Valley Railroad, has returned to Plainfield and is back at his former position of fireman on one of the Plainfield "pushers."

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Plainfelder:

The Record is a weekly paper with the progressiveness of a "live" daily. It has been serving the citizens of this community for the past year, telling the local news as it has never been told before. It has given Plainfield the most independent editorial comment it has ever had and has presented civic, social and military doings in that concise form demanded by the reading public of these busy times. In every way it seeks to be an up-to-date paper in an up-to-date town.

For the past three weeks the Record has been left at your door. We trust you have pored over its columns and enjoyed what they contained. If you have and are not already listed as one of our regular readers, why not favor us with your subscription? The cost is but $2 per year. By entering our circle you not only keep yourself posted on activities of the city but lend your aid in our determination to show Plainfield what it has missed in not having a real, wideawake newspaper not afraid to express its opinion. Our battles are your battles and you can help us win them by filling out the subscription blank below and sending it to us with the specified $2. Do it now.

No More Conscription Examination at Present

Announcement comes from W. B. Codington, chairman of the Plainfield Draft Board, that no more registrants will be called for examination at the resent time. Of the 109 who were examined at the High School, Monday, twenty-two were accepted and this number will be sufficient to keep up the necessary reserve force to maintain the quota. A special examination will be held at Muhlenberg Hospital tomorrow morning at 10:30 to pass upon five young men who were summoned previously and could not appear because of being out of the country with one exception. The exception is Harry Bellows, and the others are: Louis G. M. Timpson, W. Edwin Browne and James E. Mauger, all of Plainfield, and George Benjamin Howell, of Fanwood.

Judge Codington also announces that he has received no word from General Crowder about sending the next contingent to Wrightstown. The belief exists, however, that an order may come at almost any time as selected men are being moved from other points at regular intervals, taking the places of the Camp Dix men who are being sent South.

PROSECUTOR ORDERS RELEASE OF JAMES FOSBRE.

James Fosbre, of Emery street, who was arrested several months ago by the local police on a serious charge, was released from custody by the county prosecutor yesterday. The Grand Jury failed to return an indictment against the accused and his dismissal was immediately ordered. Fosbre was a member of Troop D and may possibly go South to join one of the detachments which took over the Plainfield Cavalry unit.

MR. CASE EXPLAINS.

Editor, Plainfield Record:

The Courier-News in printing the list of voters of the Fourth district, Second ward, placed the name of Charles A. Cases as living at 702 East Seventh street, when it should have been Charles A. Case. I wish to have this correction made so people will known that Charles A. Case still resides at 702 East Seventh street.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

MISS ELIZA W. B. TAYLOR.

Miss Eliza W. B. Taylor, who had made her home in this city for the past two years at the residence of her nephew, Percy F. Phillips, of 921 Madison avenue, died there Tuesday morning. Death was due to old age, being in her ninety-third year, but even at that advanced period she was unusually active and maintained all her faculties to a remarkable degree up to the last moments of her life.

The funeral was held in the Church of the Messiah, Brooklyn, of which she was a member and where her father had been organist, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Sinclair Hester, the rector, was in charge and burial was in the family plot in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Miss Taylor was born in Brooklyn, January 9, 1824, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Priestly Taylor. Her father was one of the most proficient musicians of his day and gained a wide reputation as church organist. He acted in this capacity at the old South church of Revolutionary fame in Boston; Trinity church, New York, where he played at the services of many revolutionary war veterans buried in the church yard facing on Broadway, and other well-known churches in various parts of the country. The father is credited with being the originator of chanting at Episcopal services, a fact which Miss Taylor took delight in telling friends and of which she was very proud.

The Taylor family belonged to the Church of the Messiah in Brooklyn and as a member of the congregation Miss Taylor was active in the various departments for considerably more than half a century. At the time of her death she was the oldest communicant. She was especially interested in the Needlework Guild in which she served as an officer for many successive terms. As a young woman she joined the movement in behalf of the colored race in the ante-bellum days and continued her efforts for their betterment as long as she was able to do a deed or speak a word.

Miss Taylor had a remarkable memory which, with her taste for reading, made her a perfect "encyclopedia" of historical facts. It afforded her great pleasure to recount the customs and dolmes of the early days of the nineteenth century, tinceing her stories with personal anecdotes that held the rapt attention of her listeners. The progress of the world was was a matter of of the world war was a matter of deep concern with her from the day hostilities began in 1914. She made it a point to read the papers studiously and she was fully conversant with every printed detail. As an ardent and loyal American she hoped and prayed for the success of this country and used her influence wherever possible for the support of President Wilson.

Miss Taylor's only near surviving relatives are five nephews and two nieces. These are: Percy F. Phillips, of Madison avenue; Thomas Phillips and John D. Lawrence, of Brooklyn; Edgar Fassett, of New York; L. T. Fassett, of White Plains, N. Y.; Mrs. Ausburn Towner, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Fuller Tomes, of Brooklyn.

MRS. CHARLES K. LAKE.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah E. Lake, wife of Charles K. Lake, whose death occurred suddenly last Saturday afternoon, was held Wednesday noon at the family residence, 410 East Second street. Rev. E. C. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, was the officiating clergyman and there were many relatives and friends in attendance. Many floral tributes were in evidence as an outward expression of sympathy from the friends of the family. Burila was in Elmwood cemetery, Lebanon, where Mrs. Lake resided when a girl. Only a short commitment service was held at the grave in charge of Mr. Conover, but many old friends of the deceased from Lebanon and vicinity were present. The pall-bearers were George Clarke, Charles Fisher, George C. Andrews and C. W. Quint, all of Plainfield.

Mrs. Lake's death came as a great shock to her relatives and friends. She had been more or less indisposed for some time but was about the house as usual during all of last week until the fatal attack came. Mrs. Lake was born at Washington Crossing, Mercer county, sixty years ago. A part of her younger days were spent at Bloomsbury, Hunterdon county, and also at Lebanon. She removed with her family to Plainfield from the latter place thirteen years ago. Mrs. Lake had made a most of local acquaintances during her residence here and her death is greatly deplored. She was a member of Trinity Reformed church and in this organization was a devoted worker from the time of her affiliation with the congregation.

Beside her husband, Mrs. Lake is survived by one son, Jesse J. Lake; two granchildren, two nieces and a nephew.

MRS. ANN E. THOMAS.

Mrs. Ann E. Thomas, widow of Philander Jenckes Thomas, died Saturday afternoon after a long illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward W. Robinson, of Evergreen avenue. The deceased was born in Massachusetts but lived most of her life in Wickford, R. I., from which place she came to Plainfield in 1912. She was a member of Grace Episcopal church.

FACTS
NOT
Misrepresentation

The organizations making an effort to abolish the saloons from Plainfield are purposely misleading the people as to what will be the result. Instead of giving facts and revealing the true nature of consequences they are attempting to blind the voters with a mass of unreliable statistics misrepresenting the results of voting the city to a so-called dry condition and carefully avoiding the full truth of the question. Before you cast your ballot on November 6 we want you to consider the following absolute facts:

Plainfield will not be "dry" if the vote is against the saloons. The vote in no way concerns North Plainfield, Dunellen, New Market, South Plainfield, Fanwood, Scotch Plains or any of the other suburbs within easy reach where drink is to be had. Beside this, the city has once before been defeated at great legal expense in the attempt to keep New York department stores from delivering liquors in the city's confines.

Judge William DeMeza's quoted statement paid for by the Church Co-operative Assocation as an advertisement in the Courier-News "that at least seventy-five per cent. of the cases which come before me in the City Court are due to the drink habit, or are the result, directly or indirectly, of the liquor traffic," is an absolute untruth. An examination of the records at Police Headquarters shows that in the nine months beginning January 1, 1917, and ending October 1, 1917, there were 1,279 cases, of which 199 are charged by the police to liquor drinking, thus making a percentage of six and one-half instead of seventy-five as stated by the Judge. The biggest percentages of violations of city laws include automobile cases, petty infractions by juveniles, failure to clean snow from sidewalks, non-payment of dog licenses and many others which had no bearing whatsoever on the saloon question.

Voting the saloon out of Plainfield means the depriving of the poor man of a chance to buy a glass of beer but permitting the rich man, who is the user of higher and more costly stimulants, to stock his cellar the same as before.

Voting the saloon out of Plainfield means depriving the city of $13,605.70 of revenue and an increase in the tax rate of 4.16 points, just at a time when the burden of taxation due to the great war is the heaviest the working man has experienced in more than fifty years.

Voting the saloon out of Plainfield means the loss of all the work that has been accomplished in the past to bring about the present well regulated conditions. Once the citizens remove the present ordinance, State regulations will prevail the next time the question comes up. There will be no more "Tyler zone," which confines drinking places not only to a certain section of the city but to a certain building: No more limiting the number of saloons but making it possible for the Common Council to grant one license place for every 500 inhabitants: No more 11 o'clock closing and no more individual "blacklist."

Voting the saloon out of Plainfield means a return of the well-remembered disordered conditions during the no-license year of 1889, when as many as five "speakeasies" flourished in one block, when the famous "jug" train carried hundreds of Plainfield to nearby towns Saturday afternoons and when North Plainfield saloon-keepers reaped a rich harvest at the expense of Plainfield taxpayers.

The police are authority for the statement that there were a total of sixty "speak-easies" in Plainfield during the year of no-license and not a single arrest was made. This was because the evidence required by the corporation counsel is of such a nature that it is almost impossible to obtain. Outside detectives were hired at great expense but were unable to make any headway except to live highly at the cost of Plainfield taxpayers. The loss of license money amounting to $13,605.70 will only be the beginning of increased taxation if there are to be no saloons after this year. Outside men demanding from ten dollars a day up will have to be engaged to secure evidence against the "speak-easies," if it is possible, and the legal battles that will follow will run into the thousands of dollars of added cost.

Voting the saloon out of Plainfield means the making of Plainfield the only city in the State to be without a licensed drinking place and affecting the business conditions to the extent of many thousands of dollars a year: making it impossible to maintain a first class hotel for the transient public and throwing fully 100 men out of work, many of whom own their own homes and are model citizens.

Voting the saloons out of Plainfield means an open invitation for men to become addicted to the liquor habit. Beer is not easily carried from one place to another but whiskey is, hence the popularity of the "half pint."

Voting the saloon out of Plainfield will compel the city to establish relief stations in the centre of town. The original cost of these is estimated at $5,000 and the upkeep will call for a large expenditure each year.

The saloons of Plainfield stand above all others in the State of New Jersey for the absolute observance of State and City laws. In the past twenty years not a single Plainfield saloon-keeper has had a complaint entered against him to the police, a statement which can be verified by consulting the dockets at Police Headquarters. It is quite probable that a record of this kind is not duplicated anywhere in the United States.

Last but not least, voting the saloon out of Plainfield does not mean any curtailment of the drinking habit but turning it into other channels: doing away with regulated conditions and substituting illegalities; the teaching men to go elsewhere than in the city for sociability and acquiring the habit of bringing "half pints" back home with them until they can make another trip.

These are facts that must not be overlooked when you vote on the saloon question next Tuesday and which have not been given you by the organizations which are pretending that Plainfield will be absolute "dry" and a place of "joy forever."

PLEADING GUILTY TO BEING AN "ORGAN."

Finding itself unable to frankly discuss the proposition in a fair and square manner, the Church Co-operative Association has resorted to the low, political trickery of ward "heelers" in a last effort to excuse itself for trying to do away with Plainfield's splendid method of handling the saloon problem. Not content with deliberately misrepresenting facts in the matter and crediting men of other days with things they never said, the association has assumed the task of telling the citizens of this community that the Record is "an organ" of the saloon. This assertion was contained in a paid advertisement in the Courier-News of October 30, which also gave a childish droll as an "answer" to certain undeniable facts about the liquor question in Plainfield as told in the Record of October 26. The gentlemen who combined their weight of brains for the purpose of framing up the dirty slur had no intention of advocating their cause. They simply wanted to be nasty on the same lines familiar to mud slinging job-seekers who have no argument to support their aspirations.

We challenge the Church Co-operative Association or any other organization to prove the Plainfield Record an organ of any body or any thing. What this paper had to say about the saloon question was for the best interests of everybody in the community. We seek to speak for the people, not a business or an association, church or otherwise. If standing up for the rights of taxpayers makes us an "organ," we gladly accept the appellation. If spreading the truth about a civic question instead of falsifying statements is what constitutes "organism," we plead guilty in the first degree. This, however, was not the kind of organ the shining lights of the Church Co-operatice Association wanted to make us out. The point they wanted to convey was that the Record was a mouthpiece for the saloon men, that it wanted to mislead the voters because its palm had been crossed with silver and that it was working against the best interests of a municipality which could not think for itself. If the Church Co-operative Association does not know it, the people of Plainfield have brains that are in full working order and we think the result of their malicious calculations will prove a boomerang when the votes are counted on November 6. The citizens do not have to have a few narrow-visioned individuals tell them the difference between an independent newspaper and a subsidized sheet.

The first piece of fabrication which the Church Co-operative Association failed to "get away with" was its asserted quotation of the immortal George Washington on the subject of liquor. Ordinarily no one would have challenged the statement but it remained for Albert H. Atterbury to give the truth. He not only made it plain that Washington never said the things the Church Co-operative Association said he did but made it plain that the "father of his country" spoke in an entirely different manner on the liquor question. So far the association has failed to let Mr. Atterbury know where its information came from.

The second sly little fib which the C. C. A. turned loose on the unsuspecting public was the advertised statement of Judge William G. DeMeza that "Seventy-five per cent. of the cases appearing before me in the city court were due to the liquor habit, either directly or indirectly." If Judge DeMeza said any such thing as this he is either poor at figures or has unpardonable flights of fancy. The Plainfield police have three ways of listing cases due to liquor and a careful perusal of the docket at Headquarters for the nine months beginning January 1, 1917, reveal a fearful arraignment of the magistrate's declaration. In these nine months there were 1,279 cases passed upon by the Judge and of this number the police say only 199, or 6.5 per cent., are the liquor kind. The difference in percentage is only a matter of sixty-eight and five-tenths but a little thing like that meant nothing in the lives of the men who want to tear down Plainfield's splendid regulations of excise matters. They simply paid to have a very poor guess flung in the faces of the Plainfield people, trusting to Providence or something else that they would not find out the truth of the matter until election day had passed. Truth will out, however, and the "seventy-five per cent" canard will take its place with the relegated words that George Washington never spoke.

The uncovering of these two falsifications did not deter the merry little band of modern Munchausens. Instead, they decided to go further. They picked out the Record as a direct target and because it had the temerity to speak the truth they selected a publication which derives a portion of its income from the advertising of liquor, to carry on its evil machinations. Thus did the "organ" attack first become known. Since then, other malicious statements about this paper that have been not for the purpose of helping out the anti-saloon crusade, mind you, but a down right deliberate attempt to injure a business which stands upon its merit. We are very glad to say that each one is doing more good than harm and the Record will continue to have its say, whether the Church Co-operative Association likes it or not.

The Record is no hireling, no mouthpiece, no tool, simply a newspaper that speaks for the people without fear or favor. If that entitles us to a place in the "organ" class, we make no denial to the charge.

A HALF CENTURY OF Y. M. C. A. ENDEAVOR.

Plainfield's splendid Y. M. C. A. completed its fiftieth year of service in this community on October 27. Tonight the officers and members of the association will conduct an anniversary meeting in the First Baptist church in commemoration of this half century of noble effort for the betterment of young men's spiritual and physical welfare. An open invitation has been extended to everyone, women included, to attend the gathering and we trust that there will be a capacity audience. Those who have labored in the Y. M. C. A. field for so long a time need encouragement and in looking forward to greater endeavors in the future there is nothing more inspiring than the hearty co-operation of the public By your personal presence you show that you are interested to the extent of giving up at least one evening to the great cause.

The Plainfield associaiiton was organized at the home of former Mayor Alexander Gilbert at West Eighth street and Central avenue, October 28, 1867. Of the small band of men who were present on that occasion only a few remain today. One of them is Mr. Gilbert himself and he has been given the honor of principal speaker. He will probably relate the trials and tribulations that beset the organization when it first began its religious and physical uplift. Others will tell of what it proposes to do in the days to come and when the meeting is over we feel confident that it will mark a new epoch for Y. M. C. A. endeavor in Plainfield. The new building is only one of the many things to be made a reality and the bigger the outpouring tonight the greater the enthusiasm will be manifested in the accomplishment of difficult tasks.

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When the politicians wore "stove pipe" hats?

When no well regulated home was without a boot-jack behind the kitchen door?

When mother sent us to the bakery with a batch of dough to be baked into loaves?

When the "gang" used to gather Sunday afternoons under the old "button-ball' on Plainfield avenue?

When every man who owned a "nag" hustled up East Front street after the first snow fall and tried a "brush" with his friends on the improvised speedway that ended at Bennett Brittons'?

When the members of the letter carriers' "Wing-Wang Society" invited the unwary stranger to sit down on the logs at the head of Fairchild's alley and then gave him an initiation that frequently led to threats of a law suit?

"Baby" Rosetta To Entertain Admirers

The novel idea of holding a reception on the stage of the Plainfield Theatre in order to permit admirers to meet a dainty young actress will be introduced at the Second street play house tomorrow afternoon. The "hostess" will be "Baby" Rosetta Burrows, the "big little star" of Rutan's "song birds," a musical offering on the vaudeville program for the last half of this week. "Baby" Rosetta is only nine years old but is an accomplished singer and possesses the stage presence of an artist many years her senior. She never fails to make a tremendous "hit" at every appearance and in the "song birds" she is given exceptional opportunities to display her talent. After the matinee tomorrow afternoon, the little actress will be pleased to welcome to her juvenile admirers on the stage of the theatre and will give each one a photograph of herself. She will also be pleased to talk to the old folks, extending a special invitation to everyone to attend her "reception."

The "song birds" are the headline feature of a fine vaudeville program which began yesterday for the first. Closely following the feature number is Miss Mable McKinley, niece of the martyred president, William McKinley, who is appearing as a singer of her own songs. Miss McKinley has written numerous popular compositions and besides her own has several other catchy songs in her repertoire. She has been appearing recently in the leading theatres in the country and this is her first time in Plainfield.

The remaining numbers on the card for today and tomorrow are: John Bingwall, levitation expert in a novel seance; Dobson and Sherwood, comedians; Kirk Brown and Margaret Fields, in the comedy sketch, "The Amateur Husband;" Lucier Sisters, "Those Two Funny Girls." The Pathe News review and Pathe comedies and dramas are always retained as features at the Plainfield and never fail to please the "movie fans."

"Hadassah" Branch Is Formed Here

Hadassah, the woman's Zionist organization in America, formed a branch in Plainfield Wednesday evening. A number of Jewish women met at the Y. M. H. A. headquarters to listen to Miss Selma Cohen, of New York city, who explained in detail the aims and purposes of Hadassah. The double purpose is to promote Jewish institutions and enterprises in the Holy Land, Palestine, and to foster Zionist ideals in America.

Among those present who became members were Mrs. Julius J. Newmark, Mrs. Isadore Cashdin, Mrs. Morris Zimmerman, Mrs. Max Bernstein, Mrs. Leo Zeisel, Mrs. Samuel Schwartz, Mrs. Jacob Schwartz, Mrs. Samuel Rosenbaum, Mrs. Morris Fiedler, Mrs. Arthur H. Richards, Mrs. Henry Rosenbaum and the Misses Gollison and Shrager.

Good Reliable Shoes

COST THE LEAST IN THE LONG RUN!

More and more people, nowadays, have stopped looking around for cut-prices, "Bargain" Shoes—because they're too expensive. The cost per pair may be low, but the cost per year is high.

Folks who buy wisely eventually find out that the good, reliable "Van Arsdale" Shoes—at their regular prices—are the most economical.

And, at that, our prices are moderate—very much so—because we buy intelligently, at the right time, and in large quantities

Every day is the day to test the Leadership of the "Van Arsdale" Shoes!

"By Heck," the Elks Had a Great Dance

The heavy downpour of rain on Tuesday failed to damped the spirits of the young people invited to attend the Hallowe'en dance of Plainfield Lodge of Elks in the clubhouse on Watchung avenue Tuesday night. It was the opening affair of the kind for the present fall and winter season and the gathering which responded filled the main auditorium to its capacity.

The dance was one of the "country" variety with costumes to match the occasion. Men appeared in the outfits generally seen about the barnyards and hay fields, while the girls were garbed in the simple gingham frocks supposed to be worn by the unsophisticated maids of the rural region. Many of the outfits displayed great ingenuity on the part of the wearers. De Lisle's Jazz Band furnished music of the "Hickville centre" style that made a big hit. One of the features of the program was the Virginia reel which took place at 11 o'clock and in which everybody in the gathering participated.

The decorations were among the most extensive that has been seen at the Elks' Club in many a day. Broad streamers of vari-colored crepe paper were strung from the dome in the centre of the room to the side wall and grinning Jack-o'-lanterns faced the spectators frow every corner. There were also shocks of corn stalks and bundles of straw in order to carry out the full country effect in celebration of Hallowe'en. Further memories of the days "down on the farm" were recalled by the refreshments, which consisted of "pumkin" pie, crullers, doughnuts and sweet cider.

The dance has been voted a complete success in every way and full credit is given the committee which worked so hard to bring it about. This was composed of Frank R. Emmons, chairman; Hillaire Blatz, secretary; Herman Kling, Thomas A. Moore and Herbert L. Hetfield.

County Candidates In Quiet Campaign

The good taste shown by the Republican candidates in the conduct of their campaign up to the present time is an indication of what may be expected of them when in office. They have refrained from injecting partisan politics at a time when the attention of the average citizen is engaged with a multiplicity of perplexing problems that transcends party issues and policies.

In fact the campaign has been devoid of all the old features with which the public has been so long familiar. The changes wrought by the war necessitated a different method of canvassing for support. That the G. O. P. candidates adapted themselves to this delicate task with tact and diplomacy can not be gainsaid. There has been no hint of obstructive tactics, or suggestion that they considered self, party, or local affairs before the Nation's interests.

The ticket offered to the voters for their acceptance next Tuesday is an exceptionally strong one. Not a man on it but who is qualified in all respects to fill the office to which he has been nominated. The need of the hour is for trained, experienced men.

William N. Runyon, for State Senator; Arthur N. Pierson, Charles L. Morgan and Arthur E. Warner, for the Assembly, comprise a quartet of legislators that will make Union county a factor in the next session of the Legislature when it is inevitable that many important measures will be considered. Charles N. Codding, for surrogate, and James E. Warner, for sheriff, are men who know the law and have the courage and ability to enforce it.

J. M. Senior Weds Miss Dahlia Henriquez

In the presence of only a few near relatives, the wedding of Miss Dahlia Henriquez, of New York city, to J. M. Senior, of Martine avenue, this city, took place Wednesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at the bride's residence, 117 West Forty-ninth street, by Rev. Dr. Perera Mendez. Following an informal reception the couple left for a wedding trip of two weeks that will include stays at Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Lakewood. At its conclusion they will make their home in this city at 124 Madison avenue, where a completely furnished apartment awaits their coming. They will be "at home" to their friends there after November 15.

With the exception of a brief period, during which he was in Southern France, Mr. Senior has resided in Plainfield since 1901. His home for a long time was on Union street but more recently has been with his step-son, Leopold Wolfe, of 1203 Martine avenue. Mr. Senior went to France in 1913 for the benefit of the first Mrs. Senior's health and though she improved for a time she passed away there in 1915. Mr. Senior returned to Plainfield in May, 1915. He has a wide acquaintance in this city and the best wishes and congratulations are extended by all who know him. His bride is of Spanish descent and has been residing in New York since the death of her parents.

Explains War Tax On Phone Messages

The War Revenue Tax of 5 cents on certain telephone messages became effective yesterday, and A. B. Wilson, local manager, said today that plans for collecting this tax had been completed by the New York Telephone Company.

The new law levies a tax of 5 cents on each message for which the charge is 15 cents or more. The law directs that this tax shall be collected from the person paying for the message and places the responsibility for its collection upon the Telephone Company. This tax must be paid in addition to the regular charge for the call.

The law applies not only to all messages on which the initial rate is 15 cents or more per message, but also to all messages on which the total charge, including overtime, amounts to 15 cents or more. Thus, while a call at the initial rate of 5 cents or 10 cents bears no tax, should the conversation be prolonged over a period which would make the aggregate charge 15 cents or more, it would be subject to a 5 cent tax.

As in the period from December 1st, 1914, to September 8th, 1916, when a war tax of 1 cent was imposed by the Government on certain messages, the Telephone Company will bill subscribers each month for the tax on their messages. The toll service statement accompanying monthly bills will show the messages on which the tax is levied, the total number of such messages and the amount of the tax in addition to the regular charges for toll calls. On calls from coin box stations on which the tax is levied, the total charges quoted by the operators will include the 5 cent tax and the tax will be collected in the regular manner along with the others.

Boy Scouts Good Work In Bond Subscriptions

The Plainfield Boy Scouts who started out to raise $100,000 for the Liberty Loan, passed their mark early in the race, reaching over $258,000.00.

Troop 5 tops the list with 383 subscriptions for a total of $103,000.

Great credit is given to Assistant Scoutmaster Benj. L. Kriney, with 294 subscriptions, amounting to $97,600; Herbert Schreiner, Alvin Dunn and Reading Van Doren receiving honorable mention.

Troop 18 is second with 122 subscriptions for a total of $73,000, and Troop 8 third with 193 subscriptions totaling $28,350.

AUTO SMASHED IN COLLISION.

A Ford touring car owned and driven by Albert Finch, of New Market, crashed into the rear of a Ford truck loaded with lumber at Grant avenue and South Second street shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. The truck was in charge of Louis B. Lamoreaux, of Somerville. Both men escaped injury but the touring car was almost completely demolished. The truck suffered no damage. Finch and Lamoreaux were taken into custody by Lieutenant Higgins and Patrolman Walsh. They were afterward released for appearance in the city court tomorrow.

STANDARD AERO PLANT CLOSED UNTIL WEDNESDAY.

Because of the necessity of taking an inventory, the Standard Aero Corporation closed its plant down yesterday until next Wednesday morning. A small portion of the employes will be kept busy on the inventory but the remainder will have an opportunity to enjoy the five days' vacation at half pay. The payment of this amounts to many thousands of dollars but the corporation realizes that work is plentiful at this time and does not wish its hands to go elsewhere.

Civil War Cavalry Men In Annual Session Here

The fifty-fourth annual reunion of the Second New Jersey Cavalry was held in this city Saturday, at which time Captain Theodore Vandergrift, of New York city, was elected president, and A. E. Appleget, of Trenton, was chosen secretary and treasurer. Captain Vandergrift has just completed fifty years of service with the American Express Company in New York.

The regiment was mustered in October 5, 1863, at Trenton, 1,500 strong. At present there are not more than 100 members living. Following the business session the members present were guests of Captain William C. Smith at dinner.

Motor Tags Ready First of December

Owners and drivers of automobiles are urged to take notice that the New Jersey State Motor Vehicle Department will be prepared to issue 1918 registrations for cars on and after December 1 of this year.

This change will give ample opportunity for the making of early applications and thereby escape participation in the annoyances, the inconveniences and the rush that is invariably obtains during the last few days of December because of the requirement that on the first day of the new year every motor vehicle in operation in the State must display its 1918 registration tags.

It is urged by Motor Vehicle Commissioner William L. Dill that owners aid his department and serve their own best interests by seeking their registrations at the earliest possible minute, beginning Saturday, December 1.

Hunters Elated by Game Prospects for the Coming Season

Sportsmen in various parts of the State are anxiously awaiting the opening of the upland game season on November 10, in the belief that this year there is more game than in any season within their recollection. Hunters who live and are engaged in business in the cities and other populous centers of New Jersey, but who take several days in the woods and fields during the general shooting season in the fall, are buying new dogs, or training young ones, or arranging for the use of field-broken dogs for rabbits and for birds with men who live where they expect to do this hunting. They are also getting their guns and other equipment into the best possible condition, and have planned, if they live in the cities, to start the night before the season opens for their favorite hunting localities.

Cumulative results of the persistent stocking in every section of New Jersey with pheasants, quail and rabbits by the State fish and game commission are said to be in evidence in every county. Many birds were killed last year, but many survived the open season and have multiplied. Added to these are many quail and more than four thousand preasants that have been distributed by the State game authorities during the last three months. Every county has received its share of strong young birds.

Rabits have been raised by the thousand in the warrens on the State game farm at Forked River this year, and thousands of them have been turned loose in the forests and fields in every corner of the State. Among them are 2-year-olds of large size and in prime condition. In addition to the younger ones. The stocking with rabbits has been going on since spring, and observation has shown that they have taken kindly to their new surroundings and have gone to housekeeping. That bigger bags of rabbits will be made generally this year than in previous years is said to be certain by those familiar with the conditions, and the game will be found wherever it is sought instead of only in a few sections of the State.

That there will be many birds and rabbits still in the woods and fields at the close of this season is equally certain. That there will increase rapidly has been shown by experience. Besides preparations for providing even more upland game for next year are already under way. At the State farm in South Jersey approximate. 2,000 pheasants of the hatchings of last spring, and many quail and rabbits, have been held. These will be distributed around the State by county allotments immediately after the close of the gunning season and will become soon accustomed to their new environment, and will be in an actual wild state when the spring breeing season arrives and able to rear families of their own under natural conditions.

"EFFICIENCY" CLASSES STILL RECEIVING APPLICANTS.

Applications are still being received at the local Y. M. C. A. for entrance to the "Efficiency" classes in the Emerson course now being formed by Mr. Davidson. The classes have not been started as yet but the process of formation is well under way and will be commenced very shortly.

Those who are anxious to avail themselves of the opportunity offered by the Emerson course to perfect themselves in efficiency are requested to see Mr. Davidson at his office in the Y. M. C. A. building. He can be seen any evening except Friday and Saturday, from 8, not 7 as stated in last week's issue of the Record, until 10 o'clock. Further details of the plan will be announced next week, and it is suggested to readers interested in the classes to hold open the date of November 15.

SUDDEN DEATH OF SAMUEL FITZ RANDOLPH.

Samuel Fitz Randolph, a life long resident of this city, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home on Randolph road, the same house in which he was born. Death was due to heart trouble brought on by rheumatism. Mr. Randolph was seventy-eight years old and was a member of the family which at one time owned all the farm land on Randolph road now occupied by Muhlenberg Hospital and the horse show grounds. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, the Misses Amanda and Mable Fitz Randolph; a brother, Alexander Fitz Randolph, of New Durham, and a sister, Miss Carrie Fitz Randolph, of Watchung avenue.

The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. Edwin Shaw, former pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

GUS HILL'S MINSTRELS COMING HERE SOON.

The Mammoth Minstrel Show, recently organized by Gus Hill, the veteran theatrical manager and producer, has been booked by Manager Shannon for appearance at the Plainfield Theatre on Tuesday night, November 13. The company numbers fifty comedians, singers, dancers and specialty artists. The big first part has been arranged by James Gorman, the veteran minstrel man of Gorman Brothers fame. It Costs Less--At First

To bury in a wooden box, a slate or brick cistern or even a cement vault with an unsealed lid costs less than the Norwalk. A heavy top lowered and sealed by hand is naturally more expensive. But once you have seen with your own eyes the workman cement the top and bottom of the Norwalk Vault together into one solid piece of masonry you are satisfied; and that comfort is worth any price you could pay. That's why every modern undertaker is glad to use the Norwalk—he can guarantee his work. Your undertaker can give you the necessary information.

H. T. Treacy Endorses Firemen's Two Platoon

With, perhaps, not a single exception, the most interesting letter on the two-platoon question that has yet been received by the Record, came to this office yesterday. It was written by Hugh T. Treacy, of Darrow avenue, a New York insurance broker, who owns his own home here and is a taxpayer in every sense of the word. His views on the two-platoon proposition are presented in a most scholarly manner yet the points in favor of the proposed system are discussed from the viewpoint of a man who is willing to bear his share of the expense. Mr. Treacy also touches on the "patriotic" side of the question, much the same as it pleased Richard A. Claybrook, E. T. Barrows, W. G. Bosler and others to inject into the discussion, only he presents it in a vastly different light. Read Mr. Treacy's letter and read every line of it if you want to learn what an unbiased, altruistic American thinks of a plan to accord the Plainfield firemen a "square deal:"

610 Darrow Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.,
October 30th, 1917.

Editor, The Record,
Plainfield, New Jersey.

Dear Sirs:—

This beloved Country of ours, from the greatest metropolis to the remotest hamlet is engaged in the noblest act of ancient or modern times for the liberation of mankind, and the freeing of humanity from the shackles of despotism and autocratic domination. The hearts of all true Americans are beating in unison and pulsating in common for the uplift of the peoples of the world, freed from the domination of autocracy and imperialistic pride, and the people of this Nation will never rest, until democracy and the liberty and freedom of humanity prevails, and imperial despotism is dethroned and driven from the face of the earth forever.

The people of this Nation are a peaceful, law-abiding, God-fearing, Christian people, and because of these things, peace was a passion with them. But there comes a time in the lives of men, as well as Nations, when peace becomes abhorrent, and there can be no peace when the liberty of mankind and the well-being of humanity is jeopardized, then there is only one course to pursue; right must prevail over might, and the autocratic despot and tyrant, and all that he represents must be crushed to earth, in order that peace, good-will, and the respect for human life and freedom may prevail in the world.

This great land of ours has taken up arms to defend and perpetuate for all mankind the liberty it so well loves, and that it is demanding for all peoples.

This Nation has impressed into its service its young manhood, to the end that the world may be a safe and desirable place in which to live. These young men, as well as all true Americans will not hesitate to pursue to the end the cause which claimed them as its defenders, and we, the American people will not rest satisfied, until we have conquered and overthrown the most barbarous power of ancient and modern times, whose only goal is self, the perpetuation of imperialistic arrogance and the upholding of Hohenzollernism.

We promise that the efforts of this Nation to wipe out forever the greatest blot in history affecting the freedom of mankind shall never cease until that is accomplished, and accomplished in full measure it is going to be.

That we are in earnest in the overthrow of Imperialistic Hohenzollernism, there surely can be no doubts in the minds of any true American, and I do not believe that in the world's history has there been accomplished by any Nation in so short a time, so much efficient preparation for the carrying on of successful warfare, as has been accomplished in the United States of America since the declaration of war.

It would seem that in what I have stated above, I have wandered afar from the real subject about which I wish to speak; but such is not the case, as the subject of our entering upon this war is for the cause of humanity and the freedom of peoples from serfdom and slavery, and that being so, if we are consistent in our love and desire for the freedom of mankind in general, we surely should be no less concerned when it involves the freedom of those intimately and closely associated with us in our everyday life.

The cause of humanity is just as dear to the people of Plainfield on behalf of its citizens, as it is of the world at large, and how anyone can cry out to save the humanity of the world, and lose sight of it at their own door, is beyond my understanding.

We have read a great deal about this not being the opportune time to create any additional expense by the operation of a two-platoon system, so that the liberty of these men is to be relegated to a more propitious occasion, and they are asked to continue to be slaves and be deprived of the right due to themselves as human beings, and to their families, who have a legal and moral right to their actual presence among them during a reasonable part of every 24 hours.

It is my opinion, that if those who oppose the two-platoon system were asked to devote themselves to 24 hours of every day in the week; except one, to their business, even though they had nothing to do, except to be on duty, they would be the first to vigorously complain against the injustice of any such ordinance or regulation, and if they should be called upon to act as firemen and be obligated to a 24-hour duty, I am afraid that the whole of Plainfield might burn up before they would take the job.

I am as much interested as anyone in keeping down the taxes or other expenses of this city; but when in the doing of it, I am involving the liberty of my fellow man, and doing what I consider an inhuman act, I refuse to be a party of it, and I will gladly pay my share of whatever taxes are imposed upon me as a result of the institution of the two-platoon system of the firemen of Plainfield.

When the petition was first presented to me for my signature by a young fireman, I must confess, I was somewhat dumbfounded; because I did not know at the time that they were obliged to be on duty 24 hours of every day, except the short time for meals, and the one day allowed off. I readily signed the petition, and I intend on Election Day to vote "yes" that these men, if possible, be given the right to live, as you and I desire to live.

It is said that these men have very little to do;—I do not care if there was not a fire in the city of Plainfield for the next 10 years, the fact that they are obliged to be on duty, fire or no fire, for a period of 24 hours of each day, except as indicated above, is sufficient to warrant me, or any other right thinking person, in voting for the two-platoon system, and I sincerely hope that the people of Plainfield will neither consider the additional cost to them or the existing war conditions, as affecting the rights of these men to a reasonable time for work, and recreation and association with their families.

HUGH T. TREACY,
610 Darrow Avenue.

Letters received from the International boys in the service indicate that the effort is highly appreciated.

Dr. Swaffield Accepts Park Avenue Baptist Call

Announcement was made this week that Rev. Dr. Walter J. Swaffield, of Mariners' Temple, Boston, had accepted the call to the Park Avenue Baptist church, this city. It is expected he will begin his pastorate here the second week in December. Dr. Swaffield was formerly pastor of the Summit Avenue Baptist church, Jersey City, for ten years. He will succeed Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, who resigned to take a pasorate in Portland, Me.

Dr. Swaffield had his first introduction to Plainfield twelve years ago when he spoke at a series of meetings in the Park Avenue Baptist church at the time Rev. A. E. Finn was pastor. Since then he has spoken here on a number of occasions, several of them quite recently. He was in Plainfield Tuesday making arrangements for the removal of his family from Boston to the Park Avenue Baptist parsonage on East Ninth street.

"Joe" Lane, who has been in the South as manager of a theatrical company, came up from St. Augustine, Fla., last Saturday and has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Stout, of East Front street, will leave shortly to rejoin his company in the Middle West.

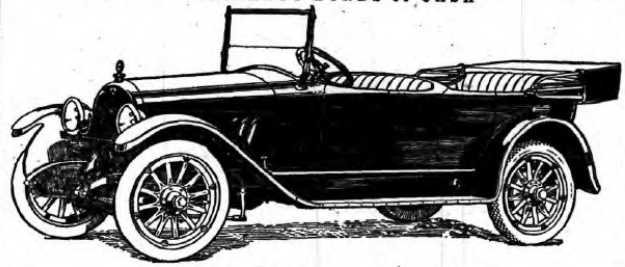
AMERICAN SIX $1375
LIBERTY BONDS or CASH



As George M. Cohan Says
in this month's AMERICAN MAGAZINE—

"Every city has its motto, and Detroit's is 'f. o. b.'"
How well aware of this fact are local people who, at any time u'their lives, have interested themselves in the purchase of an automobile.
And if it wasn't Detroit that had "f. o. b." between it and the catalogue price of the car, it was some equally far distant city.
But—"Time changes customs" and Plainfield people haven't been forgotten in the progress of the ages.
Today an automobile prospect in this city can still listen to "f. o. b. Detroit," but he can also hear "f. o. b. Grant Avenue and Front Street. Yes, sir, it's made right in your own home town."
"Drop in at the factory and look us over."

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

Ferdinand Rockafellow, the thirteen-year-old son of Mrs. Annie Rockafellow, of 215 New street, is a patient in Muhlenberg Hospital with a compound fracture of the right arm. The injury was received a few days ago as the boy was playing with a number of companions on the First Baptist church property at Front and Grove streets. In attempting to catch hold of a tree limb by making "a run and jump" the boy made a miscalculation and fell in such a way as to double the arm under him. Employes at the Manning stone yard saw the little fellow's plight and summoned Dr. Pittis. The physician ordered his removal to the hospital, where he will be confined for about three weeks.

First Lieutenant "Bert" Littell, of this city, who was formerly adjutant of the old First Battalion of the Second New Jersey Infantry, but is now attached to the 113th National Army Regiment, has been appointed chief of the Second Battalion's fire department at Camp McClellan. Lieutenant Littell was call man in the Plainfield department for nearly twenty years and has had a wide experience in fire fighting.

The local police have issued a warning to householders to beware of unprincipled crooks who are going about the State stealing canned goods under the guise of being government inspectors. They call at the home and by exhibiting cards gain admittance to the cellar to look over the "good wife's" supply of preserves and then with the aid of an accomplice get the most valuable jars of fruit and other things out of the cellar windows. The Government is conducting no inspection of home preserve foods and strangers should not be admitted to the cellar under any circumstances.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. held an all-day session at the Association building Wednesday in behalf of the work for soldiers and sailors. The women brought their materials for knitting and sewing and also prepared puzzles and scrap books for convalescents. Luncheon was served at noon. This meeting took the place of the regular gathering which was to have been on Election Day.

At the meeting in the local Y. M. C. A., Wednesday night, plans were discussed for the formation of a colored branch of the association. About thirty young colored men of the city met with General Secretary Baxley, who already has a colored Bible class underway. This class meets at the association every Wednesday night and will be the nucleus for the new branch.

Plainfield commutation tickets will not be affected by the war tax levy which went into effect yesterday as this city is within the thirty-mile limit. Lincoln is the western boundary from New York at which point the old rate will remain. Bound Brook and all stations west must pay the tax. The regular tickets from Plainfield to New York, however, will have to stand the tax of eight per cent. which the ticket agent at the local stations will collect.

The Belgian committee of the Red Cross will make the autumn collection of paper on Saturday, November 17, weather permitting. Last year a very small percentage of the citizens saved for the collections and in two collections over a thousand dollars was realized. If everyone will help by systematic saving, and have all newspapers tied to gether in bundles, and magazines and pamphlets separately tied, a far larger sum may be realized. The committee calls attention to the plan for having representatives of the Red Cross who will look over all magazines, and select such as seem good for our soldiers.

The plan is in line with the work of conservation and should recommend itself to all as a means by which a waste product may be turned into dollars, which will go for food for starving children. Under the auspices of the Red Cross a collection of iron and old rubber was commenced today and will be continued tomorrow. The proceeds from this collection will be devoted to the Armenian and Syrian Relief fund.

Abram I. Elkus, former ambassador to Turkey, addressed a large gathering in the Plainfield High School last night in the interests of the Armenian and Syrian Relief work. He gave first hand information about conditions in Armenia, Syria and Palestine, picturing the sufferings of the people in such a vivid manner that many contributions for the relief fund were pledged. Mr. Elkus came to Plainfield under the auspices of the Red Cross.

Max Maximoff, who is known as "Maximus," returned to his home on Park avenue, Tuesday, after an automobile trip of 6,500 miles. The journey was undertaken in company with two friends from New York and included New York State, the White Mountains and a portion of Canada. No mishaps of any consequence occurred during the entire journey.

Mischievous boys, rehearsing for Hallowe'en, stole two large iron gates from Hyman Adelberg's property on East Second street, Tuesday night. The matter was reported to the police and the missing gates were found on the premises of A. W. Anderson a short distance away. The boys threw the gates on the front porch of the Anderson home, giving a bad fright to a maid and child who were the only occupants in the place at the time.

Syman Hirsch, owner of the property at the northeast corner of East Fifth street and Watchung avenue, has given the city permission to set the curb at that point in connection with the new street paving work. The addition of two feet to the roadway is a big improvement and is especially beneficial to drivers of vehicles on account of the trolley curve at the corner. The trolley cars make a wide sweep at this point and because of the narrowness of the turn has been the cause of numerous accidents.

A sale of useful and fancy articles will begin in the Irving School at West Fourth street and Monroe avenue, this afternoon, under the auspices of the Irving-Jefferson Parent-Teacher Association. The sale will be continued tonight and the Dutch Arms orchestra will provide music as an added attraction.

Orville James, of 255 Somerset street, the borough, and August Hirsch, of Watchung, both young men, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning, charged with breaking into the Globe shoe store on East Front street, stealing a number of pairs of shoes. The pair was held in bonds of $200 each to await the action of the Grand Jury. The alleged act occurred on October 26 and the suspects were arrested Tuesday night. James was picked up by Lieutenant Higgins as he was leaving the theatre and Hirsch was taken from bed at his home by the same officer. Higgins found four pairs of shoes in Hirsch's room that are said to have been taken from the Globe store.

West End Hose Company, No. 3, was sent out on a telephone alarm Wednesday for a slight fire in a garage at 922 West Front street. There was practically no damage.

The will of Miss Ellen Corbett Stevens, a New York resident who died recently, was filed with the surrogate in New York this week. The testator bequeathed several large amounts to Plainfield relatives as follows: Otis Corbett, of Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, $25,000; William Phelps Corbett and Amelia Phelps Conklin, of North Plainfield, $5,000 each, and Julia Phelps Warr, of Plainfield, $5,025.

The Men's Club of Grace Episcopal church will hold the first social dinner of the season at the parish house on Monday night, November 12. The speakers for the occasion will be C. A. Brooks, of this city; Roberts Edmonds, of Philadelphia, Pa.; and Rev. C. E. Block, who has been in charge of the Episcopal church work at Camp Dix at Wrightstown.

The regular monthly meeting of the Common Council will be held in the city chambers Monday night. A number of important matters will be brought up for discussion, one of which will probably be a proposition regarding the City Hall tie-up.

The double tracking of East Fifth street, between Watchung avenue and Richmond street, has practically been completed and the thoroughfare will be opened to traffic either today or tomorrow. The street has been closed for several months, although the portion east of Franklin place has been opened about two weeks. The work of grouting the brick on North avenue has been finished and this thoroughfare will be open for traffic some time next week.

Plainfield Driver Hurt In Auto Race

After missing instant death by the proverbial hair's breath, Gaston Chevrolet, the daring auto driver who makes his home on Park avenue, this city, and his mechanician, Salvatore Barbarino, are patients in the hospital at Uniontown, Pa. Both men suffered their injuries when Chevrolet's car crashed into the guard rail during the running of the annual automobile race on the Uniontown speedway Monday.

Chevrolet narrowly missed a smash-up on the thirty-first lap. Turning from the track to his repair camp he applied the brakes too quickly and the car went smashing into the pit wall. Only a few minutes were required to repair the damage done, and Chevrolet was shortly back on the track traveling a pace close to 100 miles an hour in his effort to make up lost time. Suddenly the car skidded and before Chevrolet could bring it under control, dashed for the side of the track. Chevrolet was extricated from the debris suffering from injuries to his left side, left hip and back, while Barbarino was hurt internally. About 100 feet of the guard rail was torn away.

Eddie Hearne was the winner of the feature event, covering the 168 miles in 1:49:2.85. Tom Hilton raced into second place and Earl Devore and Ira Vail, driving relays, were third. The fifty-mile consolation race and also the three-cornered match race for Uniontown Speedway championship trophy were won by Fred McCarthy, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fahn, who have been at Needham, Mass., since the Baird Surgical Instrument works removed from Plainfield to that city, have returned home and are again living on Berckman street. Mr. Fahn was employed by the Baird Company for many years, but decided that Plainfield is a far nicer place than Nedham and came back to the old town. He has secured a new position with the Star Automatic Alarm Company, which is located in the former Baird factory at East Fourth and Washington streets.

Charles A. Lolan, of West Fifth street, is able to be about the house after an illness of three months with rheumatism. It will be some time yet, however, before he is able to return to work.

Miss Marguerite Woolston, of Fairview avenue, returned home recently after a trip to Albany and other parts of New York State.

Mrs. Vincent W. Nash, of Prospect avenue, has practically recovered after a severe attack of pleural-pneumonia. Mrs. Nash's daughter-in-law, Mrs. V. W. Nash, Jr., of Martine avenue, has also recovered after her recent severe illness during which she was subjected to blood transfusion.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Daisy Cowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cowley, of Bergen street, to Elmer Bollard, of the West End. The ceremony was performed on October 26 by Rev. Dr. Skellenger at his home on West Sixth street. Mr. and Mrs. Bollard will make their home at 336 Bergen street. The bridegroom is employed at the Pond Tool Works.

Mrs. Albert I. Littell, wife of Lieutenant Littell, now of the 113th Infantry, left Wednesday for Anniston, Ala., where she will remain until her husband's command is moved from Camp McClellan.

Fred MacDonald, of Sandford avenue, returned Tuesday after a visit with friends at Freehold.

Miss Isabelle Godown, of West Second street, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Godown, and Charles Edward Tovell, of Grant avenue, were married on Saturday, October 20. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Flynn at the parsonage of the Monroe Avenue church. The young couple are making their home in Newark as the bridegroom is employed in that city as toolmaker. The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Elizabeth DeForest, of West Second street.

Miss Mary McCauley, of West Third street, is able to be about again after a severe illness of three weeks beginning with grip.

Mrs. Robert Gow, who removed from this city to Winthrop Beach, Mass., last September, is spending several days in town with friends. She came especially to attend the Elks' Hallowe'en dance Tuesday night and her appearance was a big surprise as she gave no previous intimation of her coming. She will return home the forepart of next week.

Cornelius Murray, of West Front street, who has recently been in Washington taking examinations for a commission in the army, is spending a few days at his home on West Front street. Mr. Murray was formerly a member of Troop D.

John W. Murray, of Madison avenue, one of Plainfield's oldest and best known citizens, celebrated his eighty-third birthday Wednesday. A family gathering was held at the home in observance of the event.

August Ressler, of Monroe avenue, who has been conductor on the Fourth street trolley line for several years, has resigned his position to accept one at the Standard Aero Corporation plant.

Mr. Murray is very active for one of his years as is also Mrs. Murray, who is only a very little his junior in age. Mr. and Mrs. Murray have been married sixty years.

C. William Bingeman, former boys' secretary of the Plainfield and Madison Y. M. C. A., is now in charge of the secretarial work at the Y. M. C. A. building in Anniston, Ala. A letter received yesterday by local friends state that he has recovered after an illness of several days that confined him to his bed.

Herman Overland and Frank Szobod, the two West End young men who were badly injured on the morning of October 26, when a motorcycle they were riding crashed into a Ward Baking Company auto truck, were reported from Muhlenberg Hospital today as recovering rapidly. Szobod sustained a fractured skull and did not recover consciousness until last Saturday. It is now certain he will recover completely although for more than forty-eight hours it was believed his injuries would prove fatal.

Miss Marjorie Schmidt, of Manning avenue, entertained thirty of her young friends at a Hallowe'en costume party Tuesday night. The young folks wore many grotesque garbs and some appeared in various character representations. An informal program of music and games was enjoyed previous to the serving of refreshments.

Application To Be Made For Referendum Recount

One of State's Ablest Lawyers Advises That "Wets" Have Ample Legal Grounds to Support Contention

Acting on information furnished by the highest legal authority in the State, the Plainfield Liquor Dealers' Association will make application to Justice James J. Bergen in the Union County Court for a recount in the Plainfield excise referendum vote of Tuesday. It is stated that there are several counts on which the matter may be gone over again, principal among them being the fact that many ballots were thrown out that should have been counted. In addition, it is claimed that Governor Edge has decreed that soldier votes arriving late can be accepted after the polls have closed. A number of them came to Plainfield a few minutes after 7 o'clock Tuesday night.

In the event of Justice Bergen permitting a recount to be taken the Liquor Dealers' Association will file a bond to insure the expense of the proceedings. A recount may possibly cost $1,000.

The result of the referendum vote was one of the most peculiar ever recorded in election annals. A total of 3,035 votes were tabulated by the various city boards and of these 1,518 were for and a continuance of Plainfield's present policy of licensing saloons while 1,517 were in favor of the present plan. The First and Fourth wards gave "wet" majorities, but these were overcome by the returns from the Second and Third wards.

The Plainfield lawyers have expressed the opinion that a recount could not be granted as the referendum was merely an expression of opinion for aiding the Common Council in arriving at certain conclusions. A Newark lawyer, however, who has had many years' experience in State and civic matters, declares that the recount can be given as a decision will eventually concern thousands of people. The matter will now rest with Justice Bergen.

Five Hundred Guests Attend Church Wedding

In the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends numbering nearly 500, Miss Emeline Townsend Manning, daughter of Mrs. Aretta Manning, of Madison avenue, was made the wife at 5:30 yesterday afternoon of Jeremiah Leland Manship, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Manship, also of Madison avenue. The ceremony took place in the First Baptist church and was performed by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, the Episcopal service being used. The church was elaborately decorated with stabding palms, white and lavender chrysanthemums and other flowers.

Miss Manning entered the church leaning on the arm of her cousin, Arthur H. Serell, of Brooklyn, who gave her in marriage. She wore a becoming gown of ivory satin, with court train of brocaded velvet chiffon, trimmed with rose point lace and pearls. Her bouquet was of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley. She was attended by Miss Elsie Marguerite Moore, of Yonkers, N. Y., as maid of honor, who wore orchid radium taffeta and silver lace, also a picture hat of purple panne velvet. She carried a silver walking stick to which was attached a bouquet of violets and orchids. There were two bridesmaids, Miss Edna Beardsley White, of North Plainfield and Miss Mary Fisher, of Somerville, who were gowned in yellow radium taffeta set off by picture hats of purple panne velvet faced with cloth of silver. Each carried a silver walking stick and bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

Leland Manning, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man and the ushers were William Briggs, Fred Lotzeaux, George Endicott and James Manning, all of this city.

As the wedding party proceeded up the aisle to the front of the church an orchestra composed of harp, violin and 'cello rendered the Lohengrin march, and during the ceremony played Schubert's "Serenade." As the party withdrew, Mendelssohn's march was the accompaniment.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother on Madison avenue, which was attended by a large number of relatives and friends from this city, Newark, New York, Brooklyn, Somerville, Bound Brook and other places. Day, of Newark, was the caterer. All the decorations, both at the church and the home were by Charles L. Stanley, of this city. At the close of the reception Mr. and Mrs. Manning left for a wedding trip, the destination of which was not revealed. On returning they will make their home on Compton avenue, where the bridegroom recently erected a residence. Mr. Manning is a building contractor and is widely known in Plainfield and North Plainfield. He has always resided in this city. His bride is also a native Plainfielder and is extremely popular in a large circle of friends. Both young people were remembered with a beautiful assortment of gifts, comprising silver, cut glass and furniture.

City Voting Quiet But For Referendums

Had it not been for the two-plantoon and anti-saloon referendums Tuesday's election in Plainfield would have been as interesting as a cold flap-jack. It seemed as though very few people knew who the local candidates were and the voting was more or less perfunctory along party lines. The total registration was about 3,700, more than 1,100 less than last year which, of course, was big because of its being the presidential year. Of the 1,100 voters who were not registered, 400 are explained by the soldiers in various camps or naval service. The other 700 failed to get in on the election because of their own listlessness but when they realized what a big fight was on the referendums many of them "ate crow" in silence.

Of the candidates for local office, the biggest vote was polled by Arthur E. Crone, who was endorsed by both Republicans and Democrats for city treasurer. He received a total of 2,672 ballots. Leslie R. Fort, candidate for Council-at-large, was also endorsed by both parties and polled 2,270, a majority of 1,267 over Hugh T. Treacy, Democrat, who was the Democrat candidate nearest him. A contest developed in the Fourth ward between Charles C. Graves, Republican, and Richard Scott, Democrat, for ward councilman. Scott was at first an unknown quantity but developed strength so rapidly that when counting started it looked for a time in several districts as if he might prove a winner. It was eventually learned that Graves had secured his re-election by a majority of 303.

One of the greatest of all surprises in the day's results is the great complimentary vote given Walter I. Firstbrook, candidate for the Assembly on the Prohibition ticket. Vote after vote marked "No" on the saloon referendum was found to have a cross opposite Firstbrook's name, indicating that the voter was giving the Prohibition a friendly ballot. Firstbrook secured a total of 335 votes in the four wards, the largest amount a "water wagon" candidate has ever secured in Plainfield.

The full returns for local candidates were as follows: City treasurer, Arthur E. Crone, Republican-Democrat, 2,672. For Council-at-large, Leslie R. Fort, Republican-Democrat, 2,279; Peter J. McDonough, Republican, 2,063; Chauncey L. Hight, Republican, 2,014; Hugh T. Treacy, Democrat, 1,003; Samuel Kelsey, Democrat, 942. Ward councilmen: First ward, Charles S. Smineck, Republican, 541; Second ward, John S. Dahl, Republican, 654; Third ward, Thomas F. Hylan, Republican, 638; Fourth ward, Charles C. Graves, Republican, 601; Richard D. Scott, Democrat, 278.

AUTOS IN COLLISION; OCCUPANTS ESCAPE HARM.

A Ford automobile owned by Frank Hedden and driven by Alfred Bain, collided with another machine belonging to Barry Brothers and driven by Edward Heath at Third street and Plainfield avenue at 9:40 last night. The Hedden car was turned completely over and badly damaged but Bain and two passengers, a woman and a child, escaped with only scratches and a shaking up. The Barry car had one wheel dished and minor breakage. Heath also escaped unharmed.

Patrolman Nolan appeared on the scene shortly after the accident occurred and ordered both drivers to appear in the city court today.

Motorman Jonas Goes on Trial

Faces Charge of Manslaughter as Result of Trolley Car-Auto Bus Crash

Jacob Jonas, of this city, motorman of the Union Line trolley car which on September 8 last crashed into the rear of an auto bus at West Front street and Lafayette place, killing one person and injuring fourteen, was placed on trial on a charge of manslaughter in the Court of Quarter Sessions at Elizabeth yesterday. An indictment was found against him by the present Grand Jury on evidence furnished by the local police and nearly forty witnesses had been summoned to prove that the defendant was criminally negligent in not proceeding with more caution than he did.

The case is being heard by Justice James J. Connolly and a jury with Assistant Prosecutor Martin O'Connor appearing for the State. Edward McGerry, of Newark, of counsel for the Public Service Corporation, is appearing in behalf of the defendant. The case was called at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and after proceeding for three hours was adjourned until either tomorrow or Monday, as Friday is given over to sentencing in the Court of Quarter Sessions.

Of the witnesses placed on the stand yesterday, the most important testimony was given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bogert, of 669 West Front street, this city. They were the passengers for whom the bus stopped to let off just before the crash occurred. Both asserted that the tail lights of the "jitney" were lighted and so were those inside the vehicle. They also declared that the trolley car approached at a speed of about thirty miles an hour and that they heard no bell or other warning sound.

Other witnesses placed on the stand were Harry C. VanEmburgh, Paul R. Collier, C. A. Higgins and Dr. Raymond Muncer, who were called in for details and corporation; Harold Rockefellow, driver of the auto bus; Benjamin Dauncby, conductor of the car; George A. Chapman, a passenger on the trolley, and Thomas Watt, who was leading a horse down West Front street when the accident occurred a short distance from him.

The jury hearing the case includes Frederick A. Burr and August Lagren, of Plainfield.

Confirms Report of Diphtheria Epidemic

The October report of the Plainfield Board of Health, issued yesterday, confirms the statement that the city is at present undergoing an epidemic of diphtheria. Just what is the cause has not been ascetained as yet, but it is being communicated to a startling extent. The health report shows that fifteen cases were reported up to the first of November and since that time there have been many additional contagions reported. The isolation ward at Muhlenberg Hospital is filled to its capacity and the "sun" parlor of the building is being used to house the little patients. At the present time there are seventeen diphtheretic cases being treated at the institution, the ages ranging from a few years up to grammar school age. Two deaths have occurrred in ten days, but at the present time no others are in serious condition.

The Board of Health is making every effort to check the spread of the disease and the officers believe they have succeeded. The cases have not been confined to any special quarter of the city but seem to be pretty well scattered. As near as can be learned at the present time, the first cases originated in one of the schools and several that followed were of pupils who had been in the same building.

The Board of Health's full report for diseases and inspections during the month of October is given as follows:

Communicable disease—Residents, diphtheria, 15; diphtheria carrier, 1; chicken pox, 5; tuberculosis, 1; cerebro spinal meningitis, 1; whooping cough, 1; total, 24. Non-residents, diphtheria, 3; tuberculosis, 1; total, 4.

Twenty-one disinfections were done in fourteen houses during the month, in which thirty-three rooms were disinfected. In addition four carriages were disinfected.

Diagnostic work—192 cultures were examined during the month, as follows: Tuberculosis, 16, of which 2 were positive; diphtheria, 173, of which 20 were positive; malaria, 1; typhoid fever, 2.

The following is a summary of the inspections made during the month: Milk supply, 82; food supply, 252; nuisances, 398; general work, 798; communicable disease, 248; disinfection, 51; plumbing, 33; total, 1,862.

W. N. Runyon Third Senator From This City

Running ahead of his ticket in practically every district in the county and receiving a total of 12,542 votes, Assemblyman William N. Runyon was elected State Senator from Union in the election of Tuesday. The popular Plainfielder, topped his opponent, Ten Eyck Beardsley, of Fanwood, by a majority of 5,105, one of the largest ever recorded in this district. Beardsley had made an extensive campaign and was counted upon to make a much better showing than he did. In Plainfield, Beardsley received only 524 votes, while the successful candidate was given 2,290.

Assemblyman Runyon's election has been a great source of satisfaction to his constituents in Union county as he has been considered the ablest of the Republican timber sent to the legislative hall in the last decade. He is the third Plainfielder to secure this honor, the first being Robert L. Livingston, who served one term from 1885 to 1888, and the second, Ernest R. Ackerman, who was elected in 1906 and was then re-elected for three years in 1909. The coming session of the Legislature will find many perplexing problems facing the State solons and as a member of the Upper House, Mr. Runyon is counted upon to accomplish great things by reason of the experience gained from three terms in the Assembly.

William Nelson Runyon was born in this city on March 5, 1871, the son of the late Nelson and Wilhelmina Trow Runyon. He was graduated from the Plainfield High School in 1888 and four years later from Yale University in the class of '92. While at the university he was a member of D. K. E., and "Scroll and Key," senior society. Mr. Runyon selected law as his profession and completed his study of Blackstone in the New York Law School in 1894. He was admitted to the New York bar the same year. For a time he devoted his efforts to practicing in New York but in 1898 was admitted to the New Jersey bar and entered partnership with his father, one of the best known legal men in this section, using the firm name of Nelson & William N. Runyon. The senior member of the firm died in July, 1915, since which time the son has continued the business alone. He was made counselor in 1901.

The Senator-elect's first introduction to office was as a Plainfield councilman. He was elected in 1898 for two years, but resigned after serving twelve months in order to become city judge, having been elected in 1899 to succeed George W. DeMeza, who died in office. He held the city judgeship for twelve years, establishing one of the most commendable records of any man ever holding the place. Through his originality, many innovations were introduced in the handling of city cases that have since been a big help to officials and defendants alike. Mr. Runyon was to have been elected again in 1910 but declined the unopposed nomination to become the Republican nominee for Congressman in the Fifth district. At the September primaries in that year the Plainfielder defeated Charles N. Fowler by an overwhelming vote, but was in turn defeated by William P. Tuttle, the Democratic nominee. He again ran for Congress in 1912 but lost out to Mr. Tuttle a second time in the big Democratic "landslide" that gave Mr. Tuttle a second term in the House of Representatives. Mr. Runyon declined to become a Congressional candidate in 1914 but in 1915 consented to run for the Assembly. He was leader of the majority in the Assembly at the 1915 session and discharged the duties of the position with marked ability and uniform courtesy. He served as chairman of the committee on judiciary and rules. On this occasion he headed the Republican ticket and by reason of his faithful fulfillment of obligations in the office was honored with a second and third term.

Senator-elect Runyon is a member of Arbor Lodge, F. and A. M.; Plainfield Lodge of Elks and Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, all of this city, and in which he has been a zealous worker. Much of the present success of the Plainfield Elks reverts back to the days when he was the exalted ruler and aided in putting the organization on a sound financial and membership basis. Mr. Runyon is also a member of the Yale Club, of New York, and the Graduate Club, of New Haven.

ELKS' INFORMAL DANCE.

Plainfield Lodge of Elks has announced an informal dance to be held in the Watchung avenue clubhouse on Thursday night, November 22. It was intended to have the dance Thanksgiving eve, but this date has been given over to the regular Thanksgiving "stag" for the members. On this occasion there will be a professional entertainment and a turkey supper.

Auto Victim's Mother Here

Mrs. S. Koons Arrives From Chicago to Arrange Funeral of J. E. Steurwald

In response to telegrams sent to various cities in the West, Mrs. S. Koons, of Cleveland, O., arrived in this city last night to make arrangements for the funeral of her son, John Edward Steurwald, who was killed in an automobile accident near West Front street Monday afternoon. She had been in Chicago and did not receive any message until late Wednesday. She was accompanied by another son, who made the journey with her.

The funeral will be held in the Watchung avenue clubhouse of the Plainfield Elks tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. It will be in charge of Exalted Ruler Francis J. Blatz, assisted by V. W. Nash, Jr., and the Elk officers. The body will be placed temporarily in the receiving vault of Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Steurwald had been a member of Plainfield Lodge of Elks for more than ten years and was very active in the organization when here. When his identity was first learned, the local Elks were notified and George O. Stevens, a close friend, sought to locate relatives of the dead man. Mrs. Koons had gone from her home in Cleveland to Chicago and no satisfactory replies to telegrams were received. It was believed that the funeral arrangements would have to be made without family assistance when Mrs. Koons appeared at the Elks' Club last night. In speaking of her son, she stated that his death had occurred on his birthday.

The fatal accident occurred late Monday afternoon in front of the home of Harry Roy, at Northfield, near Orange. Witnesses say the machine, a big touring car, was traveling at a speed of fifty miles an hour, and reached a turn in the road with no noticeable slackening. Failing to make the turn, the heavy vehicle zigzagged for several hundred feet and then crashed into a stone wall. A complete somersault followed but in some peculiar manner the car swung about, righting itself in the middle of the road. Steurwald was thrown from his seat when the crash first occurred and landed on his head with such terrific force that he was immediately killed.

Mr. Roy notified Chief of Police Bamford, of West Orange, who rushed to the scene of the accident with an ambulance. It was found that there was no possible chance for the unfortunate man and the police officer had the body removed to Kunz's morgue at West Orange. An Elks' membership card furnished the identity of the victim. The officers of Plainfield Lodge were notified and the latter informed Steurwald's relatives. The body was brought to the undertaking rooms of J. J. and C. A. Higgins, in this city, Tuesday. Mr. Steurwald was forty years old and first came to Plainfield in 1906. He was an expert automobile man and for a time was employed by the F. L. C. Martin Company at the Park avenue garage. Later he established a business of his own on West Sixty-second street, New York, where he was very successful for a long time. In recent years he had been traveling representative for the Peerless Motor Car Company with headquarters in Philadelphia. In this capacity he was recently sent to Europe and returned but a short time ago with contracts for Peerless trucks aggregating more than a million dollars. The machines are to be built for the British and French governments.

During his residence in Plainfield, Mr. Steurwald made his home with the late A. D. Findlay at his residence on East Second street. Last Monday was the first time he had been in this city in five years. He dropped in at the Elks' club on Watchung avenue and informed the many friends with whom he exchanged greetings that he was on his way from Philadelphia to New York. He was about an hour and a half after he left the building that the telephone message was received by Steward Edward Searing giving information of the fatal accident.

REV. MR. GULICK TO LECTURE.

Rev. Sidney Gulick, who is well-known in Plainfield and throughout the United States as an able lecturer, will speak before the Monday Afternoon Club, in the Congregational church next Monday afternoon, beginning at 2:45. His subject will be "Oriental Immigration." Through Mr. Gulick's acquaintance with the subject, he is bringing about a better understanding between the United States and the Orient. His lectures will be both interesting and helpful. The admission fee for the lecture will be twenty-five cents, and to this will be added the war tax of ten per cent., making the total twenty-eight cents.

International Union Will Not End City Hall Tie-Up

Organization's Head Declares Both Sides At Fault and Suggests Matter be Taken To the Courts for Final Adjustment

All hope that the International Union of Bricklayers and Masons would refuse to sanction the strike on Plainfield's City Hall, as ordered by the New Jersey State representative at the request of the Monahan Stone Company ended yesterday when word came from headquarters at Indianapolis that the governing organization would "stand pat" in the controversy. This means that the Plainfield officials must fight the matter out in the courts, unless they prefer to pay over $13,000 to the Monahan Company or make an attempt to complete the job with non-union mechanics. No matter which is decided upon, the matter is now in a more serious condition than it has been at any time since the argument began.

Word of the International Union's decision was forwarded to Gustave Meissner, special representative of its Masons and Bricklayers' Local No. 14, of this city. The communication stated that the matter had been given every attention by the president, William J. Bowen, on information furnished him by Second Vice President James Thornton, who was sent to Plainfield for the purpose. Mr. Thornton, Mr. Meissner and Gottlieb Hermann, representative of the Newark district of the State union, conferred with Mayor Calkins, Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed and Councilman Thomas F. Hylan, of the City Hall building committee, on October 2, when the details were considered from every viewpoint. A full report of this discussion was sent to Indianapolis.

In a partial explanation of its stand, the communication from President Bowen states that both sides in the argument have made mistakes. The executive declares that the Monahan Stone Company was lax in not insisting on its payments when it knew that the P. F. Kenny Company was receiving its money from the city. On the other hand he claims that the city should have kept in touch with the work better than it did and could then have learned that the Monahan Company was not being paid. Futhermore, he says, the action of the city in taking the contract away from the P. F. Kenny Company and giving it to P. F. Kenny as an individual, was not the proper procedure and should call for full investigation. In conclusion, he asserts it would be a good thing to take the matter to the courts, as the city has declared it will do, as this will bring out the full truth of the entire controversy.

Boroughites Re-elect Mayor Smalley; Give John C. Cooper a Flattering Vote

Mayor William L. Smalley was re-elected as the borough's chief executive in the North Plainfield election Tuesday. He was unopposed and received a full vote of 950. The election was very quiet as unlike Plainfield, the sister on the other side of the brook had no referendums to excite the populace.

John C. Cooper, whose home is in North Plainfield, made a big run for the surrogateship of Somerset county, but lost out in the other districts to his Democratic opponent, Calvin D. McMurtry, of Somerville. Julius J. Stahl and Frank Mobus were returned to the North Plainfield Council. Judge Clarence C. Case, of Somerville, who was elected State Senator on the Republican ticket, received a majority of 265 in the borough. John S. Amerman, Republican, for Assembly, received 382 majority. The following are the votes that each candidate received in the five districts:

Ackor, Pro., for Senator, received a total vote of 62; Hoagland, Proh., for Assemblyman, received 76 votes; William Lunger, Proh., for surrogate, received 57 votes in five districts.

Plainfielders Lax In Affixing Postage

A large part of the mail going through the Plainfield postoffice addressed to other offices has been delayed the past week because of insufficient postage. It is not thoroughly understood, as yet, that a letter intended for delivery beyond the limits of the Plainfield postoffice must bear postage amounting to three cents.

One day a third of the outgoing mail had but the old two-cent stamp and these letters had to be returned to the writer if their addresses were on the letter or rubber stamped postage due. In the latter case the extra penny has to be collected from the person receiving the letter.

A letter intended for delivery in Plainfield within the limits of the postoffice is carried for two cents, but the letter going outside the limits of the local office to Boston, Newark or elsewhere must now bear three cents in postage stamps.

The Plainfield postoffice was rushed the last days of the old two-cent rate of letter postage. Especially did the politicians hurry their letter-writing in order to catch the mails before the letters had to bear an extra penny's worth of postage.

Postmaster Hoagland also asks that it be remembered that post cards now must bear two cents in postage. The card with but a one-cent stamp cannot go through the mails since the new rates became effective November 1.

Holy Name Society Gives Big Benefit

A card party and entertainment was given by the St. Mary's Holy Name Society last Monday evening at the K. of C. Hall. The winners of euchre, five hundred and pinochle games received very appropriate prizes. About two hundred people were in attendance, and it was a financial success.

Something new and novel was introduced by the chairman of the committee, a play, "A Modern Mix-Up," in which three young men who are members of the Holy Name Society took the parts: Fred Greene, Charles Ward and Joseph Gallagher. It was pronounced by all to be one of the best comedy plays ever staged by amateurs. One of the particulars of the performance was the fact that although "the undertaking business is a dead one it takes a live person to run it."

The committee in charge of the affair was: Edwin Sullivan, chairman; Jerome Leary, Edward McCann, J. Guttridge, Charles Ward and John Powelson. The Holy Name Society plan to give another play in the near future, but at present have not decided just what it will be.

Ban On Trivial Camp Criticism

Selectives of Camp Dix are being cautioned by their officers against writing home and voicing complaints over trivial matters in their camp routine, and which result in letters of objection from the relatives with whom they correspond.

An order has been issued by the War department to the adjutant of the cantonment and the information is being sent to regimental officers. Such methods as will best spread the desire of the department regarding such objections are being adopted to caution the men against any undue complaint from them.

No end of trouble and inconvenience is caused the army officers in the receipt of letters from relatives of soldiers, many of whom have been misinformed regarding conditions as painted by the men. The men create such impressions innocently, little thinking their relatives will take the matter further. The officers of Camp Dix have received numerous letters from irate mothers and fathers, who take exception to things in general that they are told exist.

The appeals, if any the soldiers have to make, should be taken to company commanders, the order says, and the cases disposed of without bringing inconvenience to the officers "higher up." The men should be admonished to bear such slight discomforts and inconvenience as their camp life may entail and to keep their letters free from any information that might misguide impressions of their relatives back home. The evil results of such unjust complaints, sometimes largely magnified by the men, are strongly emphasized by the order.

Company C loses more of its men. Three of them have been taken from the company and have left for Greenville, S. C., where they will be attached to a hospital. The men going on the Southern trip are Robert Keimer, Samuel Lowe and George J. Mauthe.

How Soldiers Talk In Their Own Language

"The following slang dictionary is printed in the Camp Grant "French and Camp," published by the Y. M. C. A. publicity bureau:

Bellyache—To complain.

Blind—Sentenced by court-martial to forfeiture of pay without confinement.

Bootlick—To flatter.

Bowlegs—Cavalrymen.

Bucking for Orderly — Giving clothing and accoutrements extra cleaning so as to compete for orderly.

Bunkie—A soldier who shares the shelter of a comrade.

Bust—To reduce a noncommissioned officer to the grade of a private.

Butcher—The company barber.

Cit—Civilian.

Crawl—To admonish.

Dog robber—Name by which the enlisted men call a soldier who works for an officer. (An offensive term, the use of which generally results in trouble.)

Doughboy and Crusher—Infantryman.

Goat—Junior officer in post, regiment, etc.

Guardhouse lawyer—A soldier with a smattering knowledge of regulation and military law; loquacious and liberal with advice and counsel to men in the guardhouse or other trouble.

Hobo—The provost sergeant.

K. O.—Commanding officer.

Mule skinner—A teamster.

Old file—An old officer.

Orderly room—Company office.

Regimental monkey—The drum major.

Sand rat—An officer or soldier on duty in the rifle pit at target practice.

Sawbone—The doctor.

Shavetail—A new second lieutenant.

Slum—A meat or vegetable stew.

Sowbelly—Bacon.

Striker—A soldier who works for an officer.

Top sergeant—First sergeant.

Wagon soldiers—Light or field artillerymen.

Windjammer—A trumpeter or bandsman.

BUILDING AND LOAN, GOVERNORS GET INVITATION.

Building and loan associations throughout New Jersey have received letters from H. R. Heydon, secretary of the State League, requesting the nomination of one person from each of the twelve Congressional districts to serve during 1918 as a member of the governing committee of the league. It is desired that the nominations represent the popular choice of the associations in every section of the State. The official ballot will be cast at the ninth annual meeting of the league in the rooms of the Newark Board of Trade on Saturday afternoon, November 17.

The chief feature for discussion will be the part of the State League is to take in the United States League meeting in Newark next summer, and in the preparations for that event. The State League meeting will be open to the public, and associations in all parts of New Jersey are urged to send as many delegates as possible.

Horses Still a Big Factor In Waging War

One doesn't hear much of the horse in war now. The brilliantly swooping airplane, the lumbering but efficient tank, the bitter rushes of infantry and the roaring of giant guns have made the thrilling "hell for leather" cavalry dashes of former wars, which aroused delighted to paint, merely a memory.

But occasionally in a meager report or a letter from some one at the front one finds a passing reference to roads choked with dead horses and an allusion to a brief cavalry action which is buried in the soldier's memory. And dimly one wonders what part the horse is playing in this struggle of the nations.

That this four-footed servant of man is playing his part in the fight, a part important beyond the conception of any one but a trench soldier, is evident when one takes the pains to inquire about the humble beast who does his work and gets killed without the chance of honor or a war cross. On a food supply sometimes too scanty to keep him in condition the horse inconspicuously breaks his heart in the mud of Flanders, toiling at the heavy guns which make the victories of the British and French possible.

For, despite the overwhelming impression that this war is one of mechanics and machines, no way to dispense with the services of the horse and the army mule has been found.

They can go through streams that would block any machine man has devised, can struggle through the choking muck that would stall the best tractor ever built, and can tear through storms of shell fire which daze the imagination.

On them in great part depends the continuous supply of ammunition and food to the front line trenches. Automobiles are often impossible to use in the torn up conditions of the battlefield, and where trains and motors are helpless without tracks and fair roads the horse will struggle on.

So valuable are they that special units have been formed in France and Italy for the rescue and care of wounded and sick horses, and hospitals have been built where they are treated, operated on and brought back to health with all the consideration the nations give to their wounded men. Thousands of horses, broken down under the terrific strain or wounded in battle, are constantly rescued in this way. A visit to a horse hospital is one of the interesting sights in France.

Many of the horses and mules have come from the United States, which has been the horse market of the world for the last three years. So serious indeed has been the drain upon the American horse that a bill was introduced in Congress to provide $200,000 for the breeding of army horses, and a campaign has been started by Reginald C. Vanderbilt, president of the Association of American Horse Shows, to stimulate breeding throughout the country. The war had hardly started before England and France sent agents here in swarms to buy all the horses they could get, and it was estimated recently that 920,000 horses and 330,000 mules had been bought here and shipped abroad since August, 1914.

The United States has still about 22,000,000 horses, a little more than one-fifth of all the horses in the world, but many of them are unfit for army use, being either too wild or not up to the weight and height requirements for the rough army work. The good army horse is a valuable animal, the average price for one last year being $214. The valuation of the horses shipped abroad during the three years just passed was $194,000,000, and of the mules $66,000,000.

France apparently bought the best of the lot, for she paid an average of $237 for her horses, Great Britain paid $218 and Canada $148. The average valuation of horses jumped highest during the first year of the war, when the extraordinary demand raised the price to $221 a head.

It makes it somewhat easier to realize the part horses are playing in this war when one learns that the British army needs from 900,000 to 1,000,000 horses constantly, and when one recalls that the time a horse lasts under modern battle conditions is only a few weeks the call for horses and yet more horses becomes more understandable. They are trained as carefully as the men, and a good team of artillery horses in action is a delight to the eye.

They have arrested the attention of the war artists, and the English magazines sometimes have several pages devoted to pictures of eager eyed, low running animals tearing down roads with spots facetiously termed "Suicide Corner," "Shrapnel Alley" or some other name which denotes the sudden death which lurks there for anything which may attempt to pass. Great shells that rip roads out of semblance fo what they were intended to be and gas shells which spread subtle death over the land, do not stop them, for the explosives merely make them gallop faster, and they wear masks like the men to protect them from the gas. Indeed, a team of wildly galloping horses, animals and lashing drivers wearing the grotesque masks, look like a team out of hell itself.

The men who work with them and are dependent upon them for their ammunition and food speak of the horses with undisguised admiration. The horses seem to catch the desperate energy of the men and strain at their harness when dragging the guns through the mud in a way that would be heartbreaking if it were not so necessary. It is very common for a horse literally to break his heart at his work and drop dead from the exertion of moving forward, always forward.

The rapid advance of the English artillery would be impossible without their aid, for nothing can move guns so rapidly. The more artillery is used in the battles in which the massing of guns has gone beyond anything imagined by soldiers before the war the more horses are needed, and when the American forces get into action with the great parks of artillery which they will need the demand for horses will be greater than it ever was before.

It is no wonder that they are continually breaking down under the strain, and when a horse falls it is necessary to fill the gap immediately. The sick horses are turned over to the Army Veterinary Corps to be nursed back into effective fighting animals. So effective has been the work of these units that the losses amount to only thirteen per cent. of the total animal strength at the present time. The mules are much hardier, their rugged constitutions enabling them to stand trials that would kill a horse. When a horse or mule becomes ill or is wounded no one at the front can be spared to attend to him, but word is sent to the nearest veterinary station and a man is detailed to get him and to take down a fresh horse to fill the gap. These transfers are made at night.

The effect of battle upon the horse is as interesting as upon man, for the savagery of warfare seems to fill the animal with all the viciousness of his wild ancestors. The mules are particularly fractious patients, but their trouble making ability lies in a constitutional aversion to doing what they are told, not in viciousness.

Army men believe that when the war is over veterinary science will have greatly increased its store of knowledge, for in the big horse hospitals where animals are treated for all sorts of obscure diseases which have never been studied before the doctors are getting experience that they would not have taken the time and trouble to acquire before in the days when it was not necessary to conserve the horse. Careful records are being kept of all these studies, and many important discoveries have been made.

As for the cavalry, that branch of the service is more or less of a mystery. That there is a great reserve of British cavalry behind the lines in France every one believes, men and horses waiting for the great day when they can sweep through a hole in the enemy lines and turn what might be an ordinary retreat into a rout.

PERSONAL

Samuel J. Taverner, formerly of this city, but now of Boston Spa., N. Y., has been spending the past week with friends in town. He will return to New York State the latter part of next week.

Richard Harrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harrigan, of South avenue, who is now attached to the Machine Gun Company of the 309th Infantry, has been advanced to corporal. He has just returned to Wrightstown after a visit home.

Thomas A. Moore, of East Second street, has been confined to his home by illness during the past week. He was stricken with an acute trouble while attending a performance at the Plainfield Theatre and was in such a condition that it was first thought he would have to be taken to the hospital.

Henry B. Richards, a former resident of this city, who has been living in Massachusetts recently, is now a first lieutenant in the 303rd Machine Gun Battalion, stationed at Camp Devens, Mass. Mr. Richards is a son of the late Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, once pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church in New York at the time of his death.

Herman Kling, of Sandford avenue, underwent an operation in St. Luke's Hospital, N. Y., a few days ago. This is the second he has undergone in the past month. Mr. Kling recently enlisted in the Twenty-third Engineering Corps and had expected to be called for duty some time this month.

Charles Wendell, a member of the U. S. Medical Corps, returned to Camp Merritt, at Tenafly, Tuesday, after several days' visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wendell, of Madison avenue. Mr. Wendell was on the transport which had to put back to an American port after going out sixteen hundred miles. The ship's engines were found to be in bad condition and it was deemed inadvisable to continue the trip to Europe. Albert Bryalarki, of Duer street, another member of the Medical Corps, was on the same transport.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kinkle and family, of Lincoln place, and Mrs. Henry Dressell, of Vine street, have returned home after a visit with relatives at New Germantown.

Lester Hamilton, of Verdon street, has been confined to his home during the past ten days by a severe attack of rheumatism. Mr. Hamilton recently resigned his position with the Interborough Railway Company to accept one with the local office of the Prudential Insurance Company.

Michael Higgins, of Perth Amboy, has returned home after a visit with his brother, Hugh Higgins, of West Front street.

Fireman William Jaeger, driver for No. 3 hose company, has been ill for the past week with congestion of the lungs. He is still under the doctor's care at his home on West Fourth street.

Miss Ethel Humphrey, of Park avenue, is entertaining her sister, Miss Mabelle Humphrey, of Oneida, N. Y., and cousin, Miss Grace Huntley, of Marshalltown, Iowa. They will remain until the latter part of next week.

Miss Sarah Carney, of Central avenue, continues to improve at Muhlenburg Hospital, where she has been confined since being crushed by an automobile several weeks ago. For a time last week Miss Carney was not so well but this relapse has been overcome and her full recovery is assured, although it will be a long time yet before she is able to be about.

Mr and Mrs. Edward J. Vernon, of West Third street, have gone to Columbus, O., for a two weeks' stay with relatives.

Miss Ina Rudd, of East Front street, returned home this week after a brief stay at Albany and Troy, N. Y.

Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, Rev. Father Walter Hennessey, of St. Mary's church, and Rev. Father Thomas Campbell, of St. Joseph's church, motored to Camp Dix, Wrightstown, Wednesday, to spend the day with Rev. Father Joseph McDonald, chaplain at the camp who is a former curate of St. Mary's.

Mrs. David Rogers, of Park avenue, has been spending the past two weeks with relatives at Washington, Warren county.

The marriage of Miss Helen Lundlegud to Carl Carlson, of this city, took place Wednesday evening, October 30, at the home of William Johnson, 711 West Fourth street, Rev. Gottfried Sjoblom, pastor of the Swedish Pilgrim church, officiated. Only the immediate friends of the couple were present.

Mrs. John P. Reynolds, of Brooklyn, formerly of North Plainfield, has been spending the past week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Aretta Manning, of Madison avenue.

Mrs. Charles D. Wheeler, of Mountain avenue, has been confined to her bed the past week, as the result of a fall at her home.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Jean Mae Guttridge, daughter of Mrs. James B. Guttridge, of South avenue, to W. Homer Reeve, of New York city, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Reeve, of Atlanta, Ga. The wedding date has not been set.

Miss Elsie Moore, a pupil nurse in St. Francis' Hospital, Yonkers, N. Y., has been spending the past few days as the guest of her sister, Miss Amy L. Moore, of Park avenue.

Miss Bertha Margaret Hendrickson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Hendrickson, of West Third street, was married on Saturday evening to Charles Herbert Montayne, son of Bertram Montayne, of Elizabeth street, by the Rev. Edward S. Ralston, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, at his parsonage. The bridegroom is a soldier in the National Army now stationed at Camp Dix.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGeegan, of South Second street, are entertaining the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McKay, of Dundas, Ont. The visitors will return home after Thanksgiving.

Bert. Wilson, of West Front street, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Muhlenberg Hospital, Monday was reported today as doing nicely.

George Anderson, of Putnam avenue, will leave tomorrow for an extended trip to the Pacific coast in the interests of a New York firm by which he is employed.

P. C. Garretson, of Rockview terrace, the borough, has returned from an extended trip to Washington and other parts of the Pacific coast.

Mrs. Homer Hendrickson, of Chatham place, returned this week from a month's visit with a sister in Syracuse, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram J. Hooley, of the borough, who had planned to leave for California some time ago, but were compelled to postpone the start ,left for the Pacific coast yesterday. They will be away from Plainfield perhaps a year or more.

Expert Says "Spuds" Will Remain High

Alexis L. Clark, chief of the bureau of markets of the New Jersey Department of Agriculture, in the market news service issued this week devotes considerable attention to "potato week."

He says:

"The latest estimate of the crop this year shows a decrease of 10,000,000 bushels over the estimate of the month previous and yet we are assured of a large yield, somewhat over 400,000,000 bushels. The central States are the sections responsible for the increase over other years. Growers in the East are storing a little more than usual this year and it is probable that they will never go back to the old practice of selling everything to speculators early in the season at a price hardly equal to production costs.

"With the country at war and with all other foodstuffs high in price it is impossible that potatoes will not remain as high as they are at present. As the season advances the extra cost of storing and rehandling will add something to the market price. People are buying potatoes in five bushel lots this year as never before."

One Hundred and Forty-eight Names In Plainfield High School Honor List

A compilation of all the graduates or former members of the Plainfield High School now in the service of Uncle Sam demonstrates that the Plainfield institution has one of the biggest "honor rolls" of the entire State. As far as can be learned, 142 young men have entered the various branches of the army and navy and it is believed there are many more who, for various reasons, have not been listed. In addition to the young men there are also six former High School girls who are doing their "bit" by serving as Red Cross nurses in the field or base hospitals. These young women are: Evelyn Manley, Alice Stryker, Elizabeth Maclay, Mae Cahoone, Madeline Evans and Hazel Humble.

The 142 High School boys, together with their class year, their branch of service and other data as far as obtainable is given below:

Protests Delay In Calling Out Selected Men

"If the obstinacy or inability of a contracting firm, being well paid, is the reason for this inexcusable delay, pardon the suggestion, it would seem to me there is an immediate remedy," declared Governor Edge in a letter today to Provost Marshal General Crowder at Washington, protesting strongly against the continued delay in sending to Camp Dix the balance of New Jersey's quota under the selective draft.

The Governor said the delay is seriously affecting several thousand Jerseymen, many of them Plainfielders, many of whom gave up their positions weeks ago, expecting to be sent to the camp. They are forced to remain in unprofitable idleness caused by the uncertainty as to when the Government will call them. The Governor said this is unjust to the men, and in many cases to their families, and is apt to affect their morale.

The Governor calls attention to a flood of protests which are daily reaching the office of the Adjutant General at Trenton from drafted men against this condition, and the Governor explains his letter to the Provost Marshal General by stating that in a way he feels personally responsible to take a strong hand in behalf of the men.

"I feel it is imperative that the proper authorities take the proper action to insure either a withdrawal of the contract from the hands of the present contractors, if they are unable to complete the same, or to take such necessary action as will relieve the situation and provide accommodations for the men drafted into the service months ago," the Governor states in his letter. "It has been about six weeks since we sent the last detail, and surely in six weeks, if the contractors were doing their duty at all, sufficient extra quarters should have been completed to receive another contingent.

"So far as my observation goes, many other States of the Union have had a considerably larger percentage of men sent to cantonments than has been taken from New Jersey; i. e., 45 per cent. The only reason for this, as I understand it from General Kennedy, is, first, the slow process of completion of the encampment and, to some extent, the failure of the Government to supply uniforms. Perhaps the latter could be remedied if the quarters were ready, and this latter, therefore, would seem the most serious phase of the situation."

Want Recruits For Old 2nd Regiment

There is a great demand for recruits in the National Guard regiments, particularly the former Second Regiment, of which Company K, of this city, was a unit and which now is known as the 115th infantry, at Anniston, Ala. Sergeant William Foster, of the local army recruiting station, yesterday said that word had been received that there are needed 556 men to fill the ranks of the National Guard companies, which now are under direct federal supervision. He said yesterday that this is a splendid chance for Plainfield young men to join companies which are composed of boys from this city.

There also are vacancies in the engineer companies of the National Army at Camp Dix, which also is populated partly by Plainfielders. Stenographers, horseshoers and mechanics of all kinds are urged to become members of the engineering corps by Sergeant Foster.

Two regiments of miners are being organized, one to be made up of underground workers and the other of quarrymen. Even those who have only one eye are eligible. They may be ineligible for marching, but will be valuable in view of their knowledge of mining. They also may enlist at the local station.

Recruiting for the air service is now open and motor experts are eligible to join at once. Chauffeurs may enlist for the Twenty-ninth train division.

Rat-Killing Snakes Aiding Conservation of Food

The bench show of the American Snake Fanciers' Association, slated for Rochester next January, has been canceled because Peter Gruber, "Snake King," says it is unpatriotic to take them away from their tasks of killing food-destroying rats.

"At army cantonments it has been found that snakes are better than cats for ridding the place of rats, and a busy snake in a granary is worth a dozen rat traps. It would be treason to deprive the country of this great food conservationist, and I'm glad the Forestry Association has attested to the value of the snakes."

Governor Edge To Make Inquiry In Militia Transfers

The fact that Governor Edge has a definite purpose in stopping off at Anniston, Ala., when he goes later in the month to Memphis, Tenn., to attend the wedding of several relatives was made known today, when he admitted that one of the official objects of his visit to Camp McClellen will be to inquire into the reasons for the transfer of certain New Jersey officers and units at the camp of the former New Jersey National Guard. Protests have come to the executive offices as the result of the separation of some of the commissioned officers of the National Guard from their old commands, and while the Executive realizes that consolidation of units as they formerly existed was necessary in order that the War Department might carry out its plans of reorganizing along lines suggested by army experts, he is looking forward with keen interest to his visit to Anniston to test the merit of some of these protests and to make sure that everything possible has been done for the New Jersey commands and officers.

A statement from the Governor was issued at the Executive offices today as follows:

"Of course this is primarily a Federal matter and my only excuse for personally investigating, and offering suggestions is my continued interest in the welfare of the New Jersey troops. Even though they are not within the State, or under State jurisdiction or authority, the State most assuredly feels an interest in them.

"In this connection I might say that we recognize the necessity for changing the identity of units and reassigning commands and officers under the new army plan, but at the same time we should like the opportunity to offer suggestions because from long experience and elbow-rubbing with the New Jersey troops and officers we know something about their special qualifications, which, of course, should have important bearing upon any transfers of units or, assignments of officers. Of course I know General Barber has ably represented New Jersey's interests and any position I would take would be in harmony with his experience and wishes."

WOMEN'S HOME MISSION CONFERENCE AT NEWARK.

The annual meeting of the Newark conference Women's Home Missionary Society will be held in Paterson at Wesley Methodist church on next Wednesday and Thursday, November 14 and 15. Mrs. A. B. Street, of Washington, D. C., is expected to be present and speak each afternoon. Miss Grace Roraback will give the address at the meeting on Wednesday evening in the interest of the young peoples' work.

ENJOYING HUNTING TRIP.

Thomas Brantingham, of Park avenue, and Raymond Jackson, of the Miller-Jackson Auto Company, are enjoying a hunting trip at Janelew, W. Va. They will return to Plainfield the latter part of next week. A letter from them yesterday stated that game was plentiful but that they had been experiencing cold weather to the extent of a snow storm.

RECOUNT NECESSARY FOR HONEST OPINION.

If Plainfield's councilmen are to receive an honest opinion from the voters on the excise referendum, it is absolutely imperative that the Union County Court grant a recount. Fully one hundred and sixty ballots were thrown out because of various technicalities in no way connected with the answer of the men making the trivial mistakes. Beside these, there are said to be a large number of soldier votes which came too late to be considered, although in several instances it was through no fault of the sender. A difference of one ballot is too small a margin for the City Fathers to take the drastic action that is adverse to so many citizens. Application is to be made to Justice James J. Bergen today for the purpose of going over the votes again and passing on the ballots that were thrown out. The belief exists that he will grant the request.

Those in a position to know declare with every assurance that the complex wording of the referendum question was absolutely responsible for the big negative reply. Man after man appearing at the polls asked for information on the subject, and even when told how to answer was unable to comprehend what seemed to him to be direct contradiction of his own idea. An instance developed in one district of the First ward where the "wets" received the advantage of the puzzle. The ballot came out of the box that was absolutely that of a Prohibition. The voter marked the regulation cross after every Prohibition candidate, but when it came to the referendum his answer was "No." It stands to reason that any man who wants nothing but "bone dry" men in office would not sanction the continuance of Plainfield's saloons.

Further than this, there comes a story from Newark to the effect that one of the ablest lawyers in the State knitted his brows and became engaged in deep thought when asked to read the referendum query. After he had concluded his meditation, he remarked:

"I cannot understand why Plainfield's corporation counsel allowed the question to go on the ballot in such a form. It is perplexing, to say the least."

There has been considerable talk as to whether or not the councilmen will be guided by the answer of Tuesday in the event of the majority standing as it is. That remains with the councilmen themselves. It may not be binding legally, but nevertheless those already in office said that they would accept the opinion of the majority and the others who will take office in January will undoubtedly follow suit. We do know of a certainty that one of the councilmen insists that he will stand by Tuesday's vote no matter whether the majority for dry was one or one thousand, the same stand to be taken if the decision should go the other way on a recount.

In this connection there is another viewpoint of the situation. Councilman Sminck, of the First ward, went on record as saying he would accept the will of the people. The voters of the First ward expressed a wish to continue the present policy, and the question arises, shall he accept the verdict of the people who elected him to office or shall he accept the view of the entire city? The same idea might be applied to the Fourth ward, which also went strongly against the referendum. Now, will Mr. Blatz and Mr. Graves coincide with the wish of their constituents or will they accept the opinion of the Second and Third wards? This may be all theoretical, but still it is a topic for discussion and may have some merit.

In direct contrast with the vote in Plainfield comes the news from Asbury Park that the popular summer resort wants to be "wet." The city has supposedly been "dry" for many years and now it declares for saloons. The ballots on Tuesday contained a referendum similar to that of Plainfield's, only not quite so puzzling, and it was carried by a majority of more than five hundred, or about two to one. There is a fly in the ointment, however, as an act of Legislature enacted many years ago decrees that no municipality in New Jersey can establish drinking places within one mile of a recognized camp meeting ground. As Ocean Grove is only a stone's throw from Asbury Park and has one of the best known camp meeting auditoriums in this part of the country, Asbury Park again faces a problem. Several of the big hotel proprietors declare they will carry the matter to the courts in hopes of getting a decision on the legality of the camp meeting act which up to this time has never been tested on such grounds as are now afforded.

The manner in which the selling has been carried on in Asbury Park is one of the instances which makes legalized places the better way to meet the proposition. Of course, there have been numerous arrests and fines imposed but a thirsty visitor to the shore resort never had any difficulty in getting his favorite beverage. "Speak-easies" plied their secret trade in the rear of fruit stores on the main streets and some of the hotels sold almost openly, yet Asbury Park was pointed out as one of the summering places that was getting along without harboring cafes. It was to legalize the business that the citizens voted on a referendum.

It is to be regretted that Plainfield did not arrive at a definite conclusion Tuesday. As it stands now a legal battle might result, and no matter which way it goes dissatisfaction will exist. That it will mean a big change in Plainfield for the saloons to go out need not be mentioned again. Already one hotel proprietor whose hostelry is considered the leading establishment of the kind in the city will close up its place immediately, keeping only the cafe part. This is only one of the changes that will mean a big difference in the business life of the town. When told that his license was for an "inn and tavern," which meant that he had to conduct a hotel in order to have the saloon part, he is said to have remarked:

"I do not care. My license expires in March, any way, and the Council can revoke it now if it wants to."

As the Record stated before, there is absolutely no defense of liquor. Practically every man who voted Tuesday realizes this fully, but like this paper, wants to selling of stimulants legalized and properly conducted. A so-called "dry town" is without exception an absolute farce, and as long as beer or whiskey is made it will be disposed of somehow. With Plainfield surrounded by "wet" places and the big metropolis to draw upon by means of wagon delivery, we fail to see where the prohibition referendum will prohibit.

TWO-PLATOON NOT A "DEAD" ISSUE.

The failure of Plainfield's firemen to have the two-platoon referendum carried at the polls Tuesday should not be considered by them as an opposition for all time. It was unfortunate that the matter should have been taken by some people in the light that it was, as we verily believe if the citizens had given it their personal and undivided attention they would have cast a favorable ballot. The cry of "not the opportune time" and "patriotism," as advanced by some of the opponents to the measure, were not without their effect. Today is just as good a time as any other day to give the men a decent working schedule and the injection of patriotic talk into the argument was a last resort by those who had nothing else to offer.

The men of the department conducted a clear-cut campaign, making no assertions at any time that they could not back up. The committee was honest, courteous and within its rights at all times and the attempt of the Courier-News to cast discredit upon the men for alleged electioneering flashed in the pan. The story as printed in Wednesday's issue of that publication was simply another evidence of the vindictiveness of this paper which smugly maintains that it gave the fire laddies a "square deal." If that is what they call a square deal we don't want to be around when the perpetrators line up on judgment day. The Courier-News not only held up letters favoring the proposition to give space to those against it, but also stuck a knife in the firemen's backs by crude editorial arguments at the bottom of each pro-communication. If, as the newspaper alleges, the election law was disregarded by the two-platoon advocates on election day, the election officers and Home Guard men who were at the polls would have been the first to know it. That is what they were placed there for and if the Courier-News knows that they were lax in performing their duties, it should prefer the necessary charges.

Plainfield will continue to make the firemen the "step child" of its municipal employes, but we hope not for long. Four other cities, Elizabeth, West Hoboken, Irvington and South Orange, all saw fit to give the faithful members of their fire departments the requested two-platoon and several other places granted substantial increases in pay by popular vote. Plainfield was the only city to turn against the men but though the proposition was defeated last Tuesday, we believe that in the very near future it will be carried with twice the majority that was checked against it this week.

WORKING HIS WAY TOWARD THE GOVERNOR'S CHAIR.

Plainfield may justly be proud of the elevation of Assemblyman William N. Runyon to the Upper House of the State Legislature. For the past three years he has given a splendid account of himself in the lower branch and it was fitting that he should be given the recognition he so richly deserves. He should have been Speaker of the Assembly last year and would have been but for his independence, a quality not to the liking of Essex and Camden men who do much as they please at Trenton when working together. In his new capacity, Plainfield's favorite son may be counted upon to continue the same spirit of loyalty to the people that has marked his official career in the past.

It was generally conceded that Mr. Runyon would secure his Senatorial toga by a big majority, but no one was prepared for the flattering vote that came from every part of the county. It is another indication that others beside the "home folks" appreciate his worth and are doing all possible to speed his steps toward the governor's chair. What better man than he could be picked to succeed the State's chief executive two years hence?

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS.

From now on he should be known as "Atta-Boy Atterbury."

—o—

Since Judge De Meza has asserted "seventy-five per cent." of the cases in the city court are due to liquor and the town should go dryer. Wonder if he would object to a cut in salary when business falls down to one-fourth of what it is now?

—o—

The two most important questions in town seem to be "What's to become of the city hall?" and "Whose was that one vote that is making all the trouble?"

—o—

There is another proposition in the "dry" question that few people have stopped to consider. With no saloons in town and no place to get a drink how are disappointed lovers going to drown their sorrows?

—o—

"Most pedestrians who travel on Park avenue will be glad when the paving is done, and the unsightly long pile of brick is removed from the sidewalk. It would not be so bad if the obstruction were lighted at night, for the walking would be less dangerous. One person has twice narrowly avoided spraining an ankle by stepping off the edge of the flagging in the deep shadow thrown on the narrow pathway by the pile of bricks. How many others had the same experience is not stated."—Courier-News.

MR. MORGAN'S TEN "DEMANDMENTS."

As a mine operator in the Pennsylvania anthracite region, W. T. Morgan, of the Hotel Kensington, was the employer of many men. They were of all ages, nationalities and dispositions, a mixture which called for a master mind to keep them as a productive working factor. A friend of Mr. Morgan's who knew what he had accomplished and who recently purchased a large business at Chester, Pa., wrote the Plainfielder for advice on the proper way of handling a large force of clerks and other employes. Mr. Morgan accordingly prepared a list of ten "demandments" which he forwarded to the applicant in the form of instructions. The "demandments" are so full of wholesome suggestion for both employer and employe that we have secured the privilege of printing them as follows:

1. Don't lie. It wastes my time and yours. I am sure to catch you in the end, and that is the wrong end.

2. Watch your work, not the clock. A long day's work makes a long day short, and a short day's work makes my face long.

3. Give more than I expect and I will give you more than you expect. I can afford to increase you pay if you increase my profits.

4. You owe so much to yourself you cannot afford to owe anybody else. Keep out of debt or keep out of my shop.

5. Dishonesty is never an accident. Good men, like good women, never see temptation when they meet it.

6. Mind your own business, and in time you'll have a business of your own to mind.

7. Don't do anything here which hurts your self-respect. An employe who is willing to steal for me is willing to steal from me.

8. It is none of my business what you do, but if dissipation affects what you do the next day, you'll last half as long as you hoped.

9. Don't tell me what I'd like to hear but what I ought to hear.

10. Don't kick if I kick. If you are worth while correcting you are worth while keeping. I don't waste time cutting speeks out of rotten apples.

Plainfield Man's Trial For Murder Begins Nov. 13

Justice James J. Bergen, sitting in the Union County Court, Wednesday, announced that he had set down next Tuesday, November 13, as the date for beginning the trial of Grant Miller, colored, the Plainfield man who shot and killed Sylvanus Johnson at Fourth and Liberty streets, June 30 last. Miller entered a plea of not guilty following his indictment by the Grand Jury last week and William R. Wilson, of Elizabeth, was assigned as counsel. Mr. Wilson will also represent James Kiely, Jr., an Elizabeth young man, accused of beating his aged father to death with a rocking-chair and whose trial will also begin next Tuesday. Justice Bergen stipulated in accepting pleas of not guilty from the two defendants that he would that he would hold trials as speedily as possible.

Miller, who is only a young man, engaged with Johnson in a quarrel over a colored girl named Elizabeth Johnson, to whom both men had been paying attention. It is alleged that Johnson first attempted to shoot Miller but though he pulled the trigger of his revolver twice it failed to explode. Miller in the mean time had drawn his weapon and sent a bullet through Johnson's heart. It is understood that Miller's lawyer will offer self-defense as the reason for the shooting.

Plainfield Case Will Be Heard in Supreme Court

The certiorari proceedings brought by Plainfield, North Plainfield, Dunellen and the Borough of Middlesex to set aside the valuation fixed by the State Board of Taxation of the joint sewage disposal farm in the Borough of Middlesex, is one of the cases listed for argument during the present session of the New Jersey Supreme Court, which opened at Trenton, Wednesday. The disposal property aggregates ninety-three acres of land, once known as the Darling farm, and the complaining municipalities contend that the State assessment is entirely too high and should be set aside. Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed will be in charge of the plaintiffs' side.

There are a total of 177 causes listed for the present Supreme term. Two of the most important are tax on the Edge Road Act brought by Board of Works Commissioner Charles J. Gillen, of Newark, and James Bowen, a citizen of Jersey City, who attack its constitutionality. Both make the same contentions, namely, that the act is not in harmony with respect to its title and sections, and that it excludes certain classes of property, such as corporation franchises, bank stock, and second class railroad property. Gillen is making the additional contention that the law by applying only to property on which taxes are levied and collected in municipalities is setting up arbitrary classifications contrary to the constitutional requirement that taxes must be fixed by uniform laws and regulations.

Big Sweep For Republicans In Union County

The most sweeping Republican victory in the annals of Union county politics was piled up Tuesday. The party elected all of its county candidates by a vote of approximately two to one and carried the city of Elizabeth, into the Republican column. The Democrats did elect a coroner, but this was due to the fact that the Republicans forgot to nominate a candidate.

Probably the only unusual thing in connection with the unprecedented victory was what may be termed a freak coroner vote. Dr. J. Edward Rayne, Democrat, ran more than 3,000 ahead of his ticket; William M. Van Cise, Prohibitionist, polled more than 3,000, way and beyond the fondest expectations of his party, and Rudolph Koller, Socialist, topped off the unique coroner balloting by also exceeding the 3,000 mark.

William N. Runyon, Republican Senator-elect, could have given his opponent, Ten Eyck R. Beardsley, Democrat, 5,000 votes and still have won out. A present of a similar amount of votes could have been given by James E. Warner, Republican candidate for sheriff, to Howard G. Lapsley, Democrat. Charles N. Codding, Republican, along with the senatorial candidates, went well over the 12,000 mark in piling up a record vote in the surrogate vote.

While the three Republican Assembly candidates, Charles L. Morgan, Arthur N. Pierson and Arthur E. Warner, ran several hundred votes behind Runyon, James E. Warner and Codding, they had several thousand votes to spare when their totals were compared with those of their Democratic opponents.

The showing made by the Republican county candidates in Elizabeth is one of the interesting features of the election for it proves, as the Elizabeth freeholder vote also proves, that the city has lost its identity as a dependable Democratic unit either in a city, county, State or National election.

Elizabeth went over to the Republicans Tuesday. It has gone over to the Republicans on other occasions, so frequently, in fact, that the city may truthfully be said to be beyond the control of the Democratic organization. Not so many years ago the Democrats held that Elizabeth could always be depended upon to carry their party candidates in an off year. They did not vouch for what might happen in a Presidential year, having had concrete instances of a lack of strength in the face of Republican Presidential landslides.

Wolverton May Be Next Speaker

With the Republicans in control of the Assembly, Charles A. Wolverton, of Camden county, is regarded as the man most likely to be chosen speaker for the session of 1918, but other counties will have candidates for the position. Union has the name of Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, to offer, while Bergen Republicans would like to see Walter G. Winne wielding the gavel. John E. Gill, of Trenton, has Speakership aspirations. The Republican leadership is dependent on the selection the party members make for Speaker.

If Mr. Wolverton obtains the seat on the Speaker's rostrum, Mr. Pierson may be chosen leader. His friends are pointing to his qualifications by reason of his experience and his acquaintanceship particularly with the financial affairs of the State, while as a debater he has shown abilities during several sessions.

On the Democratic side, Alexander Simpson, of Hudson county, is looked upon as the man for leader, by reason especially of his powers of debate and his acquaintance with parliamentary procedure. It is probable that Alonzo D. Herrick, of Warren county, will be the Democratic nominee for Speaker.

Who will call the Republican caucus has not yet been determined. This is generally done by the member who has served longest. Mr. Wolverton and Mr. Pierson have each served since 1915 and the duty will devolve upon one of them. Mr. Pierson is the older in age and he may be asked to do so but it is understood that any plans will be arranged amicably between them.

The Democratic caucus will be summoned by Mr. Herrick, who is the senior member of his party in the House. Like Mr. Pierson and Mr. Wolverton he has been a member of the House since 1915. He will call the caucus at a date that is to be fixed after consultation with other Democratic members.

If the intentions of Governor Edge are followed by the Legislature the coming session will be one of the shortest in the history of the State. While he was in Newark last week the Governor stated that he hoped the session would not last more than eight weeks. It is understood that he will suggest to the Assembly and Senate measures conferring upon the executive some extraordinary powers in view of the war situation and the uncertainty about developments due to the outbreak of hostilities.

Plainfield Laundry Changes Ownership

Announcement was made today of the purchase of the Plainfield Steam Laundry, the oldest establishment of its kind in the city, by Walter H. Sharkey and Harold S. Sharkey, of this city, who will take over the business on November 24 with the former as manager. The change of ownership, it was announced, will not involve any change in the personnel of the working force, which will continue under the personal supervision of Horace G. Young, of Fanwood, who has been proprietor for the last eight years. This will be an assurance that the high grade of work for which this laundry has been noted since it was started nearly half a century ago will be fully maintained.

A. Compton Vail began the business, and, by an odd coincidence, he was located at the corner of Richmond and East Third streets, where Sharkey's grocery store now stands. Mr. Vail was succeeded by John A. Vetterlein, who conducted the business until 1876, when he sold out to Albert G. Thorn, of East Front street. The building burned the night before Mr. Thorn planned to take possession, and, deciding not to rebuild on the old site, he erected a new building on East Third street, at the head of Fillmore avenue, where the business has remained ever since. Mr. Thorn carried on the business for thirty-three years, retiring in 1908, when Mr. Young, who had up to that time had a seat in the New York Produce Exchange, bought the plant.

A. C. Vail, after disposing of the business he had started became a partner of the well-known firm of Gardner & Vail, which laundry grew to be one of the largest in the United States.

Both the new owners have been life-long residents of Plainfield. W. H. Sharkey has been associated with his father in the grocery business. Harold Sharkey was formerly engaged in local newspaper work as sporting editor of the Courier-News and later of the Daily Press. He has been on the staff of the Newark Evening News for the last two years.

Plainfielders Win From Staten Island

The Plainfield Big Five administered a crushing defeat to the Holy Name Quintet, of Staten Island, on Wednesday evening, at Saengerbund Hall by the score of 63 to 29. The local five put up a great offensive and defensive game throughout the battle and had their opponents completely demoralized after the beginning of the second period. Not once during the battle did the Richmond County Boys threaten to do any great damage to the Queen City Five, who outplayed them in a masterly fashion.

On next Wednesday evening, November 14, the Holy Cross Five, of New York, will visit this city in an endeavor to hold the well established reputation that they have held for the past five years of being one of the strongest basketball teams in Greater New York. This game will be well worth witnessing, and the management anticipates a large gathering of local basketball enthusiasts.

Manager Cowin, of the local five, announced that owing to the fact of a previous rental of Saengerbund Hall on Wednesday evening, November 28, that they will play their usual weekly game on Friday evening, the 30th, at which time St. Peter's Quintet, of New Brunswick, will be their opponents. On this occasion dancing will continue until 2 a. m., instead of the usual closing hour of 12 o'clock midnight.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

THOMAS CALLAHAN.

Following an illness of about a month, death came at 3:30 Wednesday afternoon to Thomas Callahan, of East Second street, a resident of Plainfield for nearly fifty years and one of the pioneer business men in the East End of the city. He had been ailing for a long time with a form of paralysis which continued to advance until complications ensued. One of them was pneumonia, which developed a few days before the end and which assisted in bringing about the demise much sooner than the family had anticipated.

Mr. Callahan was a native of County Limerick, Ireland, where he was born in September, 1847. He was possessed of that determination which makes men leave home and friends in pursuit of success and through that end made up his mind to go to America before he had attained his majority. He located in Plainfield early in 1868 and from that time began making the circle of friends that never stopped growing until his death came. It is quite probably that he ranked with the leading officials of the city in the number of his acquaintances. For the first fifteen years that he was here, Mr. Callahan was employed by the late Lawrence Myers, of East Front street, but in 1884 he embarked in the grocery business. His first location was in a part of what is now the Kensington Hotel, his store being in the present dining room side of the hostelry. After a year and a half at this address, he removed to Richmond street, occupying a building which he had erected especially for his needs. It was midway between Second and Third streets and was the first store on that thoroughfare. At the time Mr. Callahan opened its doors there were practically no business places east of Watchung avenue. From the day he first went to Richmond street, the Callahan grocery developed rapidly and twenty years ago the proprietor erected the commodious structure at Third and Richmond streets, which the business has occupied since and where it is located today. For more than half his business career, Mr. Callahan had been associated with his eldest son, Jeremiah Callahan, trading under the firm name of Callahan & Son. For the past year or more, Jeremiah Callahan has been in charge of the business, thus allowing his father to devote more attention to his real estate operations. These have been of an important nature, as the senior Callahan had great faith in East End realty and has been instrumental in building up the section near his store.

Mr. Callahan was frequently besought by friends to enter local politics but though there never was a time when he did not have a large following he preferred to remain in private life. He was always ready, however, to lend his support to the men he thought were best fitted for local, county or state offices. His only fraternal affiliation was with St. Mary's Holy Name Society, of which he was an ardent and zealous member.

A sad feature in connection with Mr. Callahan's death is the fact that one of his daughter, Miss Helen Callahan, went to France six weeks ago as a Red Cross nurse. She is now located at a base hospital with a Brooklyn unit, recruited from among the doctors and nurses of the Brooklyn City Hospital, from which she was graduated. At the time of her departure, the serious nature of her father's illness had not become apparent and the cablegram message dispatched to her Wednesday night will prove a great shock.

Beside the son and daughter mentioned, Mr. Callahan is survived by three other daughters, and one son, these are Mrs. John P. Owens, Miss Nora Callahan, Miss Anna Callahan and John Callahan, all living on East Second street. The deceased also leaves two sisters, Mrs. John Walsh, of Madison avenue, and Mrs. William Leahy, of Brook avenue, the borough.

The funeral will be held from the late home on East Second street tomorrow morning at 8:30 and in St. Mary's church, of which Mr. Callahan was one of the oldest parishioners, at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

ALBERT J. MATHEWS.

The funeral of Albert J. Mathews, of 448 West Third street, whose death occurred early Tuesday morning after an illness of six months, was held in St. Mary's church yesterday morning, when a high mass of requiem was said by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan. A large gathering of relatives and friends was in attendance as the deceased had an unusually wide acquaintance. The musical portion of the service was rendered by the regular choir of St. Mary's church, Mr. Mathews was a soloist for a long time. The floral offerings, which were numerous, included several set pieces from fraternal organizations. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Those who acted as pallbearers were: Michael Devine, John Hurley, Edward J. Harding, Bernard Kenna, Harry Shirley and Patrick Higgins.

Mr. Mathews was a native of this city, having been born here forty-nine years ago. When a young man he entered the Potter Printing Press shop to acquire the machinist's trade and remained with the concern until his health failed. When last employed he was foreman of the gear-cutting department, a position he had held for many years. He was great-ly liked by the men in the factory and his long and tedious illness, due to a pulmonary complaint, was a source of sympathetic display on the part of each one. Beside being a communicant of St. Mary's church the deceased was a member of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus; Division No. 4, A. O. H., and the Potter Mutual Aid Society. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Katherine McCann; one brother, Arthur Mathews, of Mariners place, this city, and a sister, Mrs. Bertha Cox, of Lynchburg, Va.

JOHN FLYNN, JR.

John Flynn, Jr., the seven-year old son of Police Captain and Mrs. John Flynn, of West Front street, died in Muhlenberg Hospital, Wednesday morning, following a few days' illness with diphtheria. How the little fellow contracted the disease is not definite but the belief exists that he may have taken it from his father, who has had the malady in a slight form for the past week. Captain Flynn, previous to election, spent many days investigating the registry of the city which led him to the foreign settlements of this city. He has been confined to his home but may be out in a day or two. The contraction of diphtheria by an adult is of rare occurrence and the present case has attracted much attention.

The funeral of the little boy was held at the parents' home yesterday afternoon and was private. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Paid Tribute to "Fitz" Memory

Final tribute was paid to Bob Fitzsimmons at Campbell's Funeral Church, Broadway and Sixty-sixth street, New York, Sunday afternoon. The hall was crowded with men from many walks of life, among the number being many friends from this city. James J. Corbett, Sam Fitzpatrick, Kid McPartland and Joe Humphries were there.

Among those who spoke at the services was Dr. Charles Hendrick, of Dunellen, the former home of Fitzsimmons, in praise of his conqueror, whom he pictured as the greatest fighter that ever lived. Dr. Nathan Seagle, rector of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal church, also spoke, taking as his text "The Hero." The life of Fitzsimmons, he said, was a lesson. Several hymns were sung by the choir of St. Stephen's church.

Among those who attended were: Jim Mitchell, once amateur world's champion weight thrower; Dr. Joseph Mc Kelpe, former amateur heavyweight boxer; Frank F. Fulgraff, New York A. C.; Peter Golden, a six-day pedestrian of the eighties; Dick Schell, of the old Manhattan Athletic Club; George M. Lawrence, the Australian promoter; John D. Bonilla, of Bonilla & Bro.; John J. Hickey, New York Police Department; J. K. F. Jacoby, New York A. C. amateur boxer; Charles S. Alexander, William J. Bell, D. A. McIntosh, Bill Brown, of the Garrison training camp; Charley Reed, A. J. Redfern, A. Boutelle, J. Sullivan, Dr. Harry K. Guerin, New York A. C.; William McMarry, Lewis J. Smith, Howard R. Cleveland and R. P. Murray.

Methodists Frown Upon "Sundayism" In Religious Revivals

Sensational evangelism of the kind preached by "Billy" Sunday and his imitators was indirectly condemned by the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church at the closing session of the semi-annual meeting at Atlantic City Saturday. A return to the old style of evangelism was strongly favored, with the pastors in charge of the work and in church buildings.

The board vetoed the proposal from the general conference to appoint professional evangelists at large, and, in its stead, demanded that the ministers should be awakened to this responsibility. A country-wide campaign of revivals was outlined.

For the better growth of the extensive program mapped out for the new council work the board selected Bishop Homer C. Stuntz, of Omaha, and Bishop Theodore Henderson, of Detroit, as heads of the works. With them will be associated a committee of six other bishops, of which Joseph F. Berry, of Philadelphia, is chairman.

Bishop Henderson is well known by Plainfielders as the evangelist who conducted a big revival in this city fifteen years ago. At that time the bishop was pastor of a church in Brooklyn, but went into evangelistic work at regular intervals. The revival here drew the largest crowds to the First Baptist and First Methodist churches that stood as records for religious gatherings until the Biederwolf campaign of 1916. It was through Bishop Henderson's influence that Rev. Francis E. Whiteside, then a newspaper reporter, entered the ministry and later acted as assistant for Mr. Hendrson. At the present time Mr. Whiteside is editor of one of the Methodist publications.

Miss Christine Miller Heard Here In Recital

Miss Christine Miller, the famous contralto, was heard at the Plainfield High school auditorium Tuesday night, in a very unusual recital to which a number of prominent musicians and music lovers had been invited and in which she was assisted by Arthur Walsh, an accomplished violinist from New York, and special representatives of Thomas A. Edison. Mr. Fuller stated that the purpose of the recital was to present examples of Mr. Edison's New Art-Sound Re-Creation. Mr. Fuller explained that Mr. Edison, the original inventor of the phonograph, had cherished for years the ambition to perfect a musical instrument which would re-create music without the characteristic tones of the talking machine.

Miss Miller's appearance was the means to illustrate that Mr. Edison has realized his ambition. She sang a number of selections which were re-created at the same time from records that she had previously made for Mr. Edison. Miss Miller paused from time to time, thus permitting the re-creation of her voice to be heard alone, in comparison. So far as the quality of the tone was concerned, it was impossible to distinguish the living voice from the re-creation. Miss Miller possesses one of those rare voices, which are always pure and colorful, and with no metallic or hard quality, a voice, in fact, which is about as different from the familiar tones of talking machines as anything could well be. Mr. Edison's re-creation of it had the same beautiful texture and tone quality and carried no suggestion of being an imitation. It was the same voice. The result was that, while the recital was undoubtedly a demonstration of the New Edison, there was no less aesthetic enjoyment for that reason.

Arthur Walsh played obligatos and in unison with several re-creations of Albert Spalding. The comparison proved that the re-creation of the tone is possible for, allowing for the difference in tone between Arthur Walsh playing and the sounds that issued from the New Edison were identical.

In addition to the selections rendered by Miss Miller and Mr. Walsh, the program was rounded out by re-creations of performances by full symphony orchestra, by piano and male voice, thus covering the entire range of modern music.

Fine Vaudeville For Plainfield Patrons

At the head of the new bill coming to the Plainfield Theatre yesterday for the last half of this week is one of those refreshing musical numbers presented by pretty young women with fresh voices and the ability to carry the effect of a song direct to the listeners. The number is styled as the "Eight Liberty Girls." Each one of the young women taking part is an artist by herself and in the aggregate the combination makes a most pleasing diversion. The act has a special scenic setting and is handsomely costumed.

There are five other good numbers on the program, which is to continue today and tomorrow. "The Liberty Girls" are closely seconded in popularity by Kellar and Company, in the novelty production, "Bobby at the Seashore." This offering is full of originality and wholesome comedy. "Tommy" Hoyer and Estelle Wheelock entertain with singing, dancing and "patter;" Gerard and West, two really funny comedians who have a line of "stuff" new to local vaudeville, keep the crowds laughing; Helen Richmond and Company present a comedy sketch, "The Baseball Fan," and Jackson and Dare display great talent in a musical number. Altogether the bill is one to be highly recommended and has been drawing big crowds since the first performance.

In addition to the six vaudeville acts, a considerable portion of each performance is given over to moving pictures for the delectation of film lovers. Everybody appreciates the Pathe Weekly Review, which is a regular feature at the Plainfield Theatre and every day sees some new Pathe comedy or drama. Manager Shannon has several photoplay surprises in store for the patrons that are to be announced in the near future.

Vaudeville will hold the boards at the play house all next week with the exception of Tuesday afternoon and night, which is to be given over to Gus Hill's big minstrels. The same bill presented Monday will be held over until Wednesday, but for the last part of the week there will be an entirely new program.

Former Plainfield Girl A Bride In California

Friends in this city have received cards announcing the marriage of Miss Bernice McClintock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Ellsworth McClintock, former residents of Plainfield, but now temporarily residing in Los Angeles, Cal. The ceremony was performed in St. James church, Los Angeles, on October 21, the bridegroom being Arthur Emil Martin, of Los Angeles. The rector of the church officiated and a reception followed at the Leighton Hotel, where the parents of the bride have been making their home for the past two years. Mr. and Mrs. Martin will continue to reside in Los Angeles.

The McClintock family resided in Plainfield for many years at West Front and New streets. They removed from there to Fairview avenue, the borough, from which location they went to Chicago about six years ago. Mrs. Martin was attending the North Plainfield High School at the time her parents went West and completed her education at a Massachusetts college. She has a large acquaintance in Plainfield and has frequently returned here for visits. Her last trip was about a year ago when she was the guest of Miss Marguerite Woolston, of Fairview avenue.

New Market Firemen Planning Third Fair

Big preparations are being made by the New Market Fire Department for the annual fair and bazaar to be held in Friendship Hall, New Market, Friday and Saturday nights, November 23 and 24. The proceeds are to be added to a general fund of the department which is now one of the best organized in Piscataway township.

This is the third fair the "Vamps" have conducted. On the two previous occasions many Plainfielders were in attendance and a special invitation is extended them now. All kinds of useful and fancy articles will be on sale at the various booths, there will be music and dancing both nights and various games will help young and old pass a pleasant hour or two. The side attractions will include a fish pond, cane rack and grab-bag. Ice cream and refreshments will be served each evening.

New Market is only three and one-half miles from the centre of Plainfield. The firemen are a sociable "bunch" and will do everything possible to give visitors a good time in the quaint old town.

Camp Dix Boys Will "Break In" 10,000 Horses

Training 10,000 horses for the various work an army demands, teaching selection to conduct blacksmith shops and break broncbos fresh from the ranches in the West, will be the tasks of the extensive remount station of Camp Dix, which is now about completed.

Ten thousand horses—do you realize what a task that will be?

A battery of artillery is in need of mounts. A call is sent to the remount station. From the lot of beasts penned in the mile and a half of stables for horses—there are separate mule sheds—the jaded animals that will most meet with the requirements of the heavy guns must be set aside. Sturdy, stocky and sound horses must be had. And they must be broken to the needs of hauling caissons and cannon.

A wagon train needs mules. The remount station must give the long-eared beasts of burden without delay and they must be of a character that will stand the strain of hard work at the cantonment.

All this work is under the direction of a former Plainfieldan—a native of this city who forsook a business in New York to enter the service of his country. He is Captain A. Svenson, U. S. A., who is now on the ground supervising the work of construction making preparations to receive the first lot of horses at the remount depot.

The training site for the horses covers 500 square acres, including the portion covered by thirty or more building.s corral and barracks. Only men who have some knowledge of horses will be put in service at the remount depot. But Camp Dix contains hundreds of such men, many of whom have followed the track or were workmen at livery stables, before entering the army, while there are some who in private life had their riding horses, and followed the hounds regularly.

The work at the Camp Dix remount station will not be without Wild West features. Mustangs from the ranges of the far Western States will be secured by Uncle Sam. They are tough, obstreperous little creatures, and, besides making fine riding animals, they are fitted for other service in the army. The larger of the Western breed of horses will be received in big lots. But breaking broncboes is no task for the inexperienced horseman, or the selective methods at the remount station, who has only a knowledge of riding and driving as pursued in the Eastern half of the country. Someone who has fought the fractious beasts that come from the ranges, men who are able to lasso, throw and halter the wild horses, must handle that part of the work, when the ponies are unloaded from their cars.

To meet this need the Government has secured three expert broncho busters from the West. These cowpunchers will have a chance to learn the art, if they desire, but it is not without its dangers, and only those with unusual fortitude and grit will likely undertake to learn broncho busting. A corral of extensive area has been provided for the riding ground for the circus stunts of broncho busters.

Eventually the remount station will be manned by 1,000 men. At present the number of men in the barracks is about 200, but this will be increased as additional mounts are received. The first big shipment is expected at any time.

Local Amusement Tax About $500 a Week

It is estimated that $500 will be paid to the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue each week by the theatres of this city as their share of the tax under the new war revenue bill, which went into effect November 1. Moving picture house and legitimate play house will both be called upon to pay the taxes, which will be equivalent to ten per cent. of the selling price of tickets.

Five-cent tickets will be exempt from taxation. Tickets sold to children under 12 years of age, no matter what the cost, will be taxed one cent. This latter feature will necessitate considerable extra work on the part of the theatre staffs, and the managers have hit upon varying schemes for handling it. The effect of the law will be to make necessary the keeping on hand of a large supply of pennies, whereas previously the copper coins were practically unknown at the box offices. It may necessitate the employment of additional help in some of the theatres that cater to children.

EXEMPTION CLAIM DENIED.

The Newark District Draft Board has denied the exemption claim of Lawrence French, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Frank French, of Washington avenue, the borough. The young man is employed by the Somerset County Board but took an appeal on the ground of being a divinity student.

DRAWN FOR PETIT JURY.

The following Plainfielders have been called to serve on the new petit jury drawn by Sheriff George C. Otto to serve for the November term of Union County Court: Frank T. Clawson, Charles H. Burnett, Adam C. Blair, T. F. Carty and James P. Burke. There were also drawn: Edwin C. Bancher and Nelson M. Davis, of Fanwood; Fred Chase and Grover A. Steveas, of Scotch Plains.

Move to Reclaim Jersey Woodlands

There is a great deal of woodland in New Jersey, which is of little value for lumbering and which could be made arable if the clearing could be done at a reasonable cost, according to a statement issued recently by the New Jersey State Department of Agriculture. The statement goes on to say that the expense of clearing by hand in most cases is prohibitive, but in order to reduce this cost other methods are employed, such as dynamiting, the use of stump pullers and burning with the aid of combustible materials. Recent experiments in various parts of the country, it is said, the statement continues, that a combination of explosives and stump pullers often provide the most economical method of removing the larger stumps.

The statement concludes by stating that "the market being of timely and considerable local interest, the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station at New Brunswick has arranged with the Du Pont Powder Company to give demonstrations that will involve the use of both explosives and stump pullers, and that the undertaking will be on a large enough scale to allow of a careful statement of costs of the operation. The demonstration will be conducted in one of the woodlots of the college farm at New Brunswick, November 7, and it is desired that a large number of the farmers of New Jersey and adjoining States take advantage of this opportunity to see up-to-date clearing methods in operation. A cordial invitation to be present is extended to all persons who are interested.

Hill's Minstrels Here Next Tuesday

Gus Hill's Big Minstrels, headed by George Wilson, "Waltz Me Again," who has been at the New York Hippodrome for fifty weeks, will be the next attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, for Tuesday, November 13, matinee and night.

The musical numbers of the entertainment are said to be of singular beauty and musical excellence and the entire organization has been produced on a scale of, munificence and bigger and better than any similar organization ever assembled. Among the song hits introduced by George Wilson are "When the Boys Come Marching Home," "I'm Going to Take the Germ Out of Germany," and several others. Eddie Mazier, one of the finest and funniest of funmakers in burnt cork, is an added feature.

The great success of Gus Hill's Big Minstrels, lies in the one word, "Class." Always drawing upon his own original ideas to make his minstrels superb, Mr. Hill, this season, comes forward with a most pretentious offering which is said to be the best ever offered in minstrelsy.

Associated with Mr. Hill this season are George Wilson, Eddie Mazier, William H. Thompson, John F. Rogers, Jack McShane, Herbert Crowley, John Burke, James Corrigan, Arthur Gros, John and William Kramer, and a company of sixty singing and dancing comedians.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

The North Plainfield Food Commission announced yesterday that during the campaign just closed 1,487 householders' cards and 1,400 individual pledges were signed. Out of 2,600 people solicited less than 100 refused to sign the pledge cards.

Dr. Henry J. Koeckel, of Cranford, former instructor in advanced chemistry at New York University, has been appointed biologist and chemist in charge of the Craig A. Marsh laboratory of the Muhlenberg Hospital.

Beginning last Wednesday night, Professor J. Graham Machen, of Princeton University, will give a series of weekly talks at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on the "Epistles of Paul." The lecture Wednesday night was attended by a large gathering.

Miss Margaret McCutchen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, sailed last Saturday for France, in company with fifty other young women who will engage in canteen work.

Miss Janet Richards, of Washington, D. C., who has kept the people of Plainfield posted on current topics for the past few years, began another series of talks at the Hartridge Auditorium yesterday afternoon. She was heard by a large and appreciative audience. Her main topic of discussion related to the present war troubles but she also devoted considerable attention to world happenings for the preceding six months. The talks this season will comprise a program of ten, each one taking place on Thursday afternoons.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, the annual fair and bazaar of St. Peter's Lutheran church was held Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. There was a large attendance on both occasions and a substantial sum was netted for the church fund.

Howard H. Williams, chairman of the local Armenian-Syrian relief fund, announced Wednesday that Plainfield people had subscribed $3,058 for this worthy purpose. This amount does not include the money to be derived from the sale of iron and old rubber collected last Saturday, and which is now being sold. The generous sum announced became larger as a result of the mass meeting held in the Plainfield High School and included thirty dollars donated by the primary department of Bethel chapel Sunday-school with the expressed stipulation that it be used to maintain an orphan child. The amount will care for a Syrian or Armenian child for one year.

Charles Young, colored, of 508 West Third street, was arraigned in the city court this morning on a charge of allowing ashes and refuse to drop from his collecting wagon as it was passing through the business streets. He admitted his guilt but was allowed to go by Judge DeMeza after promising not to let the nuisance occur again.

Superintendent George Luhr, of the local trolley division, has announced a new schedule for the Plainfield lines, exclusive of Union cars. Hereafter the last car over the Fourth street line will leave Front and Somerset streets at 12:30 a. m., instead of 12:00 midnight. This will give a 12:45 car from the Monroe avenue terminus for inbound passengers. The last cars over the Netherwood and Arlington avenue lines will hereafter leave at 12 o'clock instead of 11:45 p. m., as has been the custom for many years. The change is already in effect.

The International Association of Machinists has opened a local headquarters office in the Babcock building, this city, for the benefit of district No. 47, which includes New Jersey, with the exception of Newark, Jersey City and Hoboken. Hugh B. Reilly is in charge of the local office, which is in rooms 204 and 205 of the Babcock building, and has Miss Harmon, stenographer, as assistant.

The Climax Gun Club of Plainfield will hold a testimonial shoot this afternoon in honor of its president, C. F. Foster, who will soon join the colors.

The fire department was called out at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on an alarm from box 39, but the men found only a grass fire on West Seventh street to give their attention to. There was no damage.

Owners of vehicles, especially the cabmen who occupy the stand opposite the west bound railroad station, were delighted this week to have North avenue opened for traffic after being closed more than a month to allow brick paving. The street makes a splendid appearance and the paving is considered one of the best jobs in the city. Work is now progressing on the paving of Park avenue and West Front street, but seems to be more or less at a standstill on Watchung avenue.

The student body and the alumnae of Mt. St. Mary's College on Monday night presented Rev. Father John Walsh, post-chaplain at Camp Dix, the money to be used for the benefit of soldiers in camp. The college chaplain, Rev. Father Baldwin, made the presentation, and Father Walsh made a response in which he told of many interesting details of his work at the big Jersey cantonment.

Mrs. James L. Parker, who is better known to her Plainfield friends by her maiden name of Adele von Ohl, has been spending the past few days with relatives in town, when not appearing at the New York theatre. She has just returned after a long stay in California and is presenting her own active western life in the leading vaudeville houses of the East. The production calls for the services of twelve people and ten horses. While on the Pacific coast, Mrs. Parker organized units of horsewomen to be affiliated with the American Red Cross.

Government Adopts New System of Classifying Men for Draft

The new system of classifying drafted men, which divides the remaining 9,000,000 registrants in the nation in five groups, announced from Washington this week, is shown in the following schedule:

GOVERNMENT WILL ISSUE A THIRTEEN-CENT STAMP.

The Postoffice Department is planning to issue a thirteencent postage stamp for registered and special delivery letters. Heretofore a twelvecent stamp has been in use, but the increase in postage makes necessary the printing of a new denomination. The stamp will bear the head of Franklin and will be of the size and border design of the current issues about seven cents. The color has not been selected.

New Training Camps For Officers Open To Men In January

Only men already in the service of the United States and a limited number of college men will be accepted for the third series of officers' training camps, which, it has just been announced, will be opened January 5, 1918, and will continue until April 5. There will be 2,490 college graduates and undergraduates who will be allowed to take the training.

Applications will be received between today and December 1. The applications must not be sent to War Department authorities, the designated places in this State where they may be sent being Princeton University, Princeton, and Rutgers College, New Brunswick.

Camps will be established at each regular army, former National Guard and National Army division in this country, the Philippines, Panama, Hawaii and in France. There will also be camps at Fort Bliss and Fort Sam Houston, Texas, and at Chickamauga, Ga.

Graduates and undergraduates of fifty-five colleges and twenty military schools selected by the War Department will be between 21 and 31 years of age, are eligible to make application for admission. They may be married or unmarried, but examining officers will give preference to unmarried men.

Graduates and undergraduates who are eligible can apply on a blank furnished by any of the designated institutions forwarding the completed application to "The Instructor in Military Tactics" of the institution from which the applicant is graduated. Letters of recommendation are not wanted, but only the names of three responsible citizens who know the applicant best. Each applicant must be examined physically at his own expense by a reputable physician, who will fill out the physical report forming part of the official application blank.

The normal strength of each training school will be about 440 students, organized into one infantry company and one light artillery company. Enlisted men of the regular army, former National Guard and National Army will be carried on detached service while students, receiving the pay and allowances of their grade.

Graduates of the selected institutions will be required, upon reporting at the school, to enlist for the duration of the war. If after completing the three months' course they are not recommended for commission they will be required to remain in service and finish their enlistment. While students they will receive the pay and allowances of privates, first class, which is about $36 a month, plus food, clothing and quarters.

All men who successfully complete the three months' course and are so recommended will be carried on a list as eligible for appointment as second lieutenants only. They will be commissioned as vacancies occur, in the order of merit determined by performance while at the training school.

The training camps thus described are primarily for men to be commissioned in the line. The Quartermaster-General, Chief of Ordnance, Chief of Coast Artillery, Chief of Engineers and Chief Signal Officer have been authorized to organize such schools as they may deem necessary for the training of men to be officers in their particular branches of service.

UNION COUNTY'S TAX RATE LOWEST IN THE STATE.

That the tax rate of Union county is the lowest in the State was the statement made recently by County Collector Leavitt, of Elizabeth, who has been diligently awaiting the official returns as made by the various county boards in Trenton. Mr. Leavitt, in speaking of the low rate maintained by Union county, which is one of the twenty-one counties of the State, said:

"We not only have the lowest rate in the State of New Jersey, but we have accomplished the almost impossible by reducing the rate for 1917 from the rate of $3.70 of 1916 in direct contrast with the other counties where, in almost every instance, the rate has been increased.

"We have the lowest rate in the State, notwithstanding all public improvements have been maintained and new necessary improvements made. The low rate is the direct result of the economy practiced by the Board of Freeholders of the county."

The comparative table of tax rates of the counties follow:

Atlantic	$3.91
Burlington	7.18
Bergen	6.63
Camden	3.79
Cumberland	4.04
Cape May	6.96
Essex	4.85
Gloucester	6.76

Plainfield Will Add Working Quota to Big Ship-Building Plant on Newark Bay

New York might be termed a city of steel, and it seems right that a yard where ships will be manufactured of steel should be erected in the district, and visitors to the tall buildings of Lower New York can gaze down on the plant that is being erected on Newark Bay. Its great advantage is that it is within the metropolitan district, where there are 7,000,000 inhabitants, and the steel workers, who have in the past been a roving crowd, carrying on their work in one city and then in another and moving to all parts of the country, will be able to settle in their homes in the City of New York, where they can have comfort, some pleasure and live more economically than in any other city. Plainfield is also within the radius that will be tapped for employes of all kinds and many of them will reside in this city.

This yard will employ 12,000 men, and they will be drawn from New York City and parts of New Jersey, because the location of the yard makes it easier of access and the railroads will run right onto the plant.

Henry H. Carse, for many years prominent as president of a leading bank, has taken up this work to help the country and is now president of the Submarine Boat Corporation, which acts as the agent of the Government in the management of the yard, and is devoting all his time to bring the works to a successful end.

The general manager of the yard is B. L. Worden, who was president of the Lackawanna Bridge Company. He is one of the most experienced engineers on bridges and structural work in the country and has given up all other interests to build ships. George T. Horton, who was president of the Chicago Bridge and Iron Company, is another engineer who has given up his interests in other concerns to devote his time to the work that is to be done on Newark Bay. Daniel H. Cox will be the resident engineer and constructor, representing the Emergency Fleet Corporation. In addition to these men many capable engineers have been obtained to carry on the big work.

The vessels to be built are of 5,000 tons. Some criticism has been made that they are too small and too slow. To build larger ships and faster ships would have taken much longer. The crying need now is for ships and these 5,000-ton ships will suit the present want and are so designed that they will be stanch, safe and economical vessels. When the war is over they will be well adapted to carry trade of this country into all parts of the world.

The plant of the Submarine Boat Corporation is now rapidly growing on a piece of property that fronts on Newark Bay, Port Johnson Bayonne, and it is so well suited to shipbuilding that it is a wonder that it has not been developed before. This will be the first real shipbuilding plant in the metropolitan district, and here the first steel vessels built by the standardized methods of fabrication are to be turned out in large quantities.

The contract for building fifty vessels of 5,000 tons each was signed by the United States Shipping Board last month. It will be followed by another for 150 more vessels. The keels of these vessels, which are to play such an important part in the war by carrying supplies to the Allies and to the American soldiers in France, will be turned out at the rate of one vessel every three days. The first keel will be laid December 1 and others will follow rapidly until twenty-eight steel vessels are under construction at the same time. Then as soon as one vessel is launched another will take its place on the ways.

At present, work is being rushed on the erection of the plant where this fleet of vessels is to be built. The site is known as the Port Newark Terminal land is part of the City of Newark. The water front is on Newark Bay, which connects with Upper New York Bay through the Kill van Kull, and there is ample water from shipyard to sea for vessels of reasonably deep draft.

The yard occupies 125 acres and in it will be fifteen miles of standard gauge railroad track, connecting the many shops, slips and ways. These tracks will connect with the Pennsylvania and Lehigh Railroads and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, so that there will be no trouble about transportation and bringing the thousands of tons of steel parts to the yard direct from the steel mills and bridge shops where the material is now being rolled and fabricated.

On one side of the property is a slip 700 feet wide and a completed wharf 4,400 feet long by 50 feet wide, on which three lines of tracks are laid, where large vessels may be moored. On the front of 2,700 feet twenty-eight sets of building ways are now being built and the sound of the pile driver is music to those who are interested in the building of the ships. These ways are in sets of two.

There are to be twenty-eight fixed steel derrick towers, founded on piles, each equipped with two or more steel derricks, and forward of the ways are to be fourteen guyed derricks, these derricks with the building ways adjoining, will make an imposing picture from the water front and give some slight idea of the immensity of the undertaking.

The whole property has been well laid out and the avenues crossed by streets, which are already paved with gigantic blocks. Under ground are water mains and a complete sewerage system. The buildings are of steel and concrete. They are substantial, but simple. Everything is being done to make the plant up to date in every detail, but nothing is wasted. Standardization in the main idea of the engineers planning this work, and in every possible way time and labor will be saved.

The whole arrangement of the shops has been with the idea of efficiency. The material will practically be brought into the yard at one point and the ships complete will leave at another.

The buildings now being erected are many. They include an administration building, 196 feet long, a hotel and restaurant, 90 ft. by 75 ft., two fabrication shops, 360 feet long, a tehmina building, a hospital, two garages, two principal storehouses for the fabricating plant, three paint storage buildings, storehouse for heavy machinery, 300 ft. long, a machine shop, an office building, a main sub-station and meter house, a sub-station, a transformer station, an engine house, a yard master's office, an oil storage building, several cottages for emergency employes, and a small office and covered platform for team deliveries.

In addition, there will be bins for rivet and bolt storage and other buildings. There will be twenty locomotive cranes of from fifteen to twenty-five tons capacity, with booms thirty to seventy-five feet long. There are to be fourteen electrically driven compressors, each of sufficient capacity to supply air tools for two hulls. There will be tugs to handle the hulls, a patrol and despatch boat, ferryboats and automobile trucks and passenger cars.

By next spring these vessels will be ready for their cargoes, and will replace vessels sunk by submarines.

All the machinery in this yard will be driven by electric power and is the most modern that can be obtained. The tools, too, are of the very latest pattern and the equipment will be better and more complete than is to be found in any other shipyard.

Y. M. H. A. WILL HOLD ANOTHER "PACKAGE" PARTY.

The Y. M. H. A. is keeping the ball rolling. Its members and the community as a whole are enjoying its pleasant entertainments. The recent dances, lectures and whists have met with great success, and to lend even more variety to the next entertainment a "package" party and dance has been planned to be held Wednesday, November 14. An affair of this kind creates much fun as the lunch packages which are brought by the ladies and bought by the gentlemen, who then shares it with the lady's name therein contained.

The first affair of this kind was held in the old Y. M. H. A. quarters and proved a great success. It is expected that this year it will even be greater, as it will be held in the new Y. M. H. A. building and prizes are to be awarded for the most attractively wrapped packages. Music will be furnished by Eddie Mark's Jazz

Jersey Seed Growers Fear Shortage This Year

The vegetables seed growers of Southern New Jersey are being eagerly sought by representatives of seed companies. The supply of seeds is expected to be very short next spring because vegetables of all kinds have been selling for such high prices that the growers have found it even more remunerative to sell their products for table use than to produce seed for the increased prices offered by seed dealers.

Since many of the vegetable seeds retain their vitality quite well for from two to eight years, it is the custom of seedsmen to carry over from year to year enormous quantities which may not have been sold. At the present time, however, there is no surplus in the seed storage houses, because the home gardeners depleted the supply last spring.

As a severe shortage of vegetable seed is expected for next season, the extension division of the New Jersey State Agricultural College at New Brunswick is urging growers to save seed from their most desirable products. Saving seed is easily done and is fully explained in "Farmers' Bulletin 884." This bulletin can be obtained free by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

PRINCETON MEN IN UNCLE SAM'S SERVICE.

A detailed report has just been issued at Princeton which shows that, as far as is known, there are 1,631 sons of Old Nassau, either alumni or undergraduates, who are engaged in some kind of war service. The facts for the detailed statement that is being printed have been gathered from the war records which are being maintained at Princeton, but which are as yet manifestly incomplete. The report is really a historical record of all that the university has done, both along preparedness lines previous to the breach with Germany and since the outbreak of hostilities.

According to the estimates there are 756 alumni and undergraduates in the army, 139 in the navy, 29 in the marines, 111 in aviation, 234 in medical and ambulance service, 80 in Y. M. C. A. work, 86 in civil work, 20 in the Red Cross in executive capacities, 25 in Federal service uniformed, 8 in State un-uniformed and 43 in relief work. This gives a total of 1,631 sons of Princeton who are known to be in some sort of service, and there are probably many more of whom there is as yet no record. The committee on war records has requested that anyone who knows of a Princeton man who is engaged in war service communicate with them.

You need the best tires. You need tires that have the extra strength for the extra strains that a side car entails.

We believe that you would find Firestone Motorcycle Tires the most satisfactory—that they will give you "Most Miles Per Dollar" The extra Firestone endurance is due to the "extras" built into them—more rubber, more fabric and 30 per cent. more angle against skid. Furthermore, you will find that the extra resiliency of Firestone means easier riding. And that they provide unequalled traction and road grip.

Local Option Wins in State

Local option won at the election in New Jersey Tuesday. Enough Assemblymen pledged to local option were elected to insure its passage by the Legislature without difficulty.

The Republicans made a clean sweep, except in such counties as Hudson, Hunterdon and Warren, which only a miracle could take from the Democratic ranks, returns showed Wednesday. In the other eighteen counties the Republicans elected 46 Assemblymen, a majority of them local option advocates. Twelve Democrats were chosen in Hudson, and one each in Warren and Hunterdon.

The next Legislature will be Republican in both branches, and on joint ballot will have a majority of three more than last year.

The Senate line-up will be practically the same as last winter, when it stood fourteen Republicans and six Democrats, except that Judge Clarence E. Case has been elected Senator from Somerset, increasing the majority there by one. Last winter the Somerset seat in the Upper House was vacant because of the death of Senator Smalley. Senators Henry E. Ackerson, Monmouth, and Thomas Barber, Democrats, have been reelected respectively in Monmouth and Warren.

Summed up, the Republican Assembly tickets were victorious in all but three of the twenty-one counties, namely, Hudson, Hunterdon and Warren. The Republicans also elected six of the eight State Senators. The counties picking Republican Senators were Camden, Gloucester, Essex, Salem, Somerset and Union.

The result of Tuesday's voting for Legislators makes sure the passage of a local option act at the next session of the Legislature. The Essex delegation of twelve members is pledged to a local option or home rule bill, as are many of the other Republican victors. The liquor issue kept the fate of the Republicans in Essex in doubt, following the close of the polls, for a number of hours, but the pendulum finally swung toward the G. O. P. "dry" ticket, assuring the legislation on this subject.

Essex county, which takes in Newark, was looked to as a savior of the Democracy, but this hope faded when the returns came in from the suburbs. Montclair and East Orange came down with huge pluralities and swept away the 6,000 plurality the Democrats had piled up in the city.

James R. Nugent, so-called Democratic leader of New Jersey, was so confident of victory for his ticket in Essex, that he marched at the head of a Democratic parade before the suburban results came in. Nugent has been out of power for some time and Tuesday's fight was looked upon by many as his last.

In Monmouth, Middlesex and Sussex, normally Democratic counties, the Republicans put one over by electing their tickets on the local option issue.

For a number of years the Senate has been passing local option bills only to have been turned down in the House. Governor Edge, though not in favor of local option, has promised to sign such a bill if it passes both Houses.

Many Democrats recalled today the attempt last spring by big Democrats of the State to have the Democratic minority at Trenton help put through a local option bill. Minority Leader Elmer Geran and Secretary of State Thomas F. Martin led the fight with the backing of Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, but Nugent defeated the plan.

Expressing his appreciation with the victory, Governor Edge said Wednesday: "We feel the result of the election a most emphatic endorsement of the present policy of the Republican party. The gain of two Republican Assemblymen in Monmouth county is a direct victory for the road tax bill, as Republicans waged the campaign there entirely on that issue."

The Democratic candidates for county offices were victorious more generally than in their legislative fights. Surrogate Calvin McMurtry was reelected on this ticket in Somerset, defeating John C. Cooper, Republican, and Democratic House Leader Geran was victorious for sheriff in Monmouth.

The make-up of the next Legislature follows:

Want Recruits For "Gas and Flame" Unit

Every effort will be made within the next few days to secure enlistments for the "gas and flame" service which is being organized for immediate work in France. It is expected that the regiment, which will be known as the Thirtieth Engineers, will be ready to go to France by Thanksgiving.

The organization of this regiment is the first step toward the formation of a United States force to combat the Germans with gases and liquid fire, which they have employed in trench warfare. Skilled, practical men, who will be called upon at once to demonstrate their worth and skill, will be needed for the regiment. The regiment will be required in the field of operation to supervise the American offensive in gas and flame service and will be called upon to instruct men all along the front in this work. The men who enlist now, according to information received yesterday, will be leaders in the spring offensive.

Men who are particularly desired are chemists—analytical, research and manufacturing—chemical workers, powdermen, men experienced in gas manufacture, machinists, automobile repair men, men able to operate and repair gas or steam engines, pipefitters, electricians, designers, interpreters, carpenters, blacksmiths, plumbers, boilermakers and chauffeurs. Men with long experience in this trade are especially desired to fill the master engineer grades.

The regiment will be in command of Colonel A. A. Fries, Engineers, N. A., who is now in France and who will be chief of the gas service. Major E. J. Atkinson, of the Engineering Corps, is organizing the first battalion of the Thirtieth Engineers at Camp American University, D. C.

Enlistments will be accepted at the Broad street recruiting office, Newark, and every effort will be made locally to secure men for the regiment.

When Is a Contract Not a Contract?

When contracts and specifications were satisfactory to the masses and business men, why change them to the detriment and inconvenience of Citizens and Taxpayers?

"ARTICLE 3 TRAFFIC." The pavement on West Front Street, Watchung Avenue and East Fifth Street shall be completed and opened to traffic on one side of the street railway tracks throughout, before work is begun on the other side.

"CONTRACT ARTICLE No. 9." The time allowed for completing the work on each Street is as follows:

"East Fifth Street, 50 days." Actual time consumed was over 150 days.

"Watchung Avenue, 30 days." The Avenue was closed to traffic September 6th; work was rushed for a few days to get the trolley tracks in, then over two weeks passed before a workman appeared on the Avenue. From Fifth Street to Gas House, Fourth street, it is now ready to grout, but from Gas House, Fourth Street to Fourth Street trolley station the Avenue is in the same condition they left it September 13th.

Winter is nearly here and if you would like Watchung Avenue open to North Avenue before next summer, we will appreciate your speaking to the Street Commissioner, or drop in here and sign the Business Men and Taxpayers' petition that will be presented to the Street Committee.

Lounsberry Arrest Leads To Possible Bigamy Case

Local Bank Man, Charged With Embezzling $3,416.30 Tells Police He Has Two Wives--Trust Company Protected by Surety Bond

Taken into custody on complaint of E. F. Feickert that he had embezzled $3,416.30 belonging to the State Trust Company, George W. Lounsberry, manager of the real estate and insurance department of the banking institution, may face an additional charge of bigamy when placed on trial. Before being taken to the county jail yesterday, in default of $5,000 bail fixed by Judge William G. DeMeza, the prisoner admitted to the police that although he had a wife and children living at Richmond Hill, L. I., he married Mrs. Jennie V. Newins, of 28 Washington avenue, North Plainfield, in September last. The ceremony was known only to the relatives of the bride and a few intimate friends. Since then the couple have been living in a furnished apartment at the Homestead on Washington avenue.

Wife number two was at Police Headquarters when the startling disclosure was made by Lounsberry but she stoutly refused to prefer any complaint against him. Whether or not wife number one will call for prosecution on the bigamy charge is not known at this time as the officials have not yet located her exact whereabouts. The prisoner entered a plea of not guilty through his counsel, Martin B. Stutsman, when given a hearing in the city court on the embezzlement complaint.

Lounsberry, who is thirty-one years old, came to this city from New York six months ago. He was placed in charge of the State Trust Company's real estate and insurance business and to all appearances was making a great success of the department. It is stated that his peculation began about October 1, when various sums given him by clients were not paid over in the proper manner. In this way $916.30 had been misappropriated when Mrs. Cynthia Lewis visited the banking house and handed Lounsberry $2,500 in cash to cancel a mortgage held by the State Trust Company. This, it is alleged, was not turned over but instead was deposited by Lounsberry in the First National Bank to his personal account. It was this transaction which convinced the officers of the State Trust Company that their suspicions of something wrong were correct.

Lounsberry was arrested at his apartment by Chief Kiely and when taken to headquarters refused to answer any but ordinary questions. When quizzed for details of the embezzlement charge he maintained an absolute silence but when asked about the stories of the double marriage, admitted that the rumors were correct. It has since been learned that he gave out numerous checks to Plainfield business men that have been returned as worthless.

Lounsberry has a genteel appearance and possesses noticeable business ability. It is said that he had been living in sumptuous fashion since coming to Plainfield. One of his luxuries being a six cylinder American motor car turned out by the American Motor's Corporation on West Front street. He declared at Police Headquarters that he was related to a well-known Plainfield family but investigations showed that although the names are alike they are spelt differently by the two branches.

The State Trust Company will suffer no financial loss through Lounsberry's appropriations as it was fully bonded against any such misappropriation. A claim has been filed with the bonding company.

Colored Quota Leaves for Dix Next Tuesday

Chairman W. R. Codington, of the local exemption board, yesterday announced the list of the twenty-seven colored Plainfielders who are to form this city's fifteen per cent. of the quota ordered to Camp Dix at Wrightstown next Tuesday. With two exceptions all of the contingent are colored. The white men are William A. R. Gough, who holds a commission in the service, and William E. Van Norden, Jr. The notification cards sent out informs the conscripts they must report at the Plainfield High School tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock for final instruction previous to assembling at the North avenue station Tuesday morning.

The names of the twenty-five colored men are as follows:

Local Young Couple Wed in St. Mary's

Miss Nora Marie McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. McCarthy, of West Sixth street, was married in St. Mary's church yesterday morning to James Aggassi Perry, also of West Sixth street. The ceremony took place at 11 o'clock in the presence of a gathering of relatives and close friends and was performed by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan.

Miss McCarthy, who wore a traveling suit of blue broadcloth, was attended by Miss Mary Welsh, of West Third street, this city, a close friend. Miss Welsh also wore blue broadcloth. The best man was W. C. Booth, of New York, who has acted as Mr. Perry's guardian since the death of his father, the late Doctor Perry, some years ago.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and later Mr. and Mrs. Perry left for a southern wedding trip. Their first stop will be at Washington. On returning they will reside at 1132 West Sixth street, where the bridegroom has completely furnished a home and where they will receive their friends after December 1.

Mr. Perry has been a resident of Plainfield for practically all his life. The family home on Sixth street years on West Seventh street, near Clinton avenue. The bridegroom holds a responsible position with the National Carbon Company at the New York office, and has a wide acquaintance in a business and social way. His bride is a native Plainfielder and is extremely popular in a large circle of friends. She was graduated from St. Mary's School in the same class with Miss Welsh, as acted as bridesmaid.

P. H. S. Minstrels Set for December 8

The largest and best minstrel show ever given by the Plainfield High School Boys' Athletic Association will be presented on Saturday evening, December 8th, in the High School auditorium.

The chorus is composed of 60 boys who "sure can sing" and put ragtime in the audience, while the end men are guaranteed to keep everyone in good humor if not in fits of laughter, so bring along two or three extra handkerchiefs. The end men are: Monroe O'Donnell, John Hammann and Harold Loizeaux, all of whom have had previous "black faces" on the P. H. S. stage, and Donald Wean, Charles Ward, DeMott Eggie, Donald Henwood and Wilson Field, who are there with the goods.

The show is being coached by Sewell Ulrich and Donald Hylan and these two, with the aid of Monroe O'Donnell, will furnish the audience with some "real stuff" in the line of harmony as well as with the "gift of gab." Ulrich will be the interlocutor of the main show as well.

The songs of the entire show are new and popular and are sure to set the people going.

The tickets are 75 cents and 50 cents and may be obtained from almost any member of the High School. These must be exchanged at Miller's drug store on or after December 1 for reserved seats.

Elks Will Hold Lodge of Sorrow On December 2

In common with all other organizations of the order, Plainfield Lodge of Elks will hold its annual lodge of sorrow in the Plainfield Theatre on Sunday night, December 2. The plans have been completed by the memorial committee and will include the customary program of addresses, eulogies, vocal and instrumental music and "roll call." As in previous years an invitation is extended friends of the Elks to attend.

Exalted Ruler Francis J. Blatz will be in charge of the service and will be assisted by the other officers of the lodge. The memorial address will be delivered by James Mayberry, of Passaic, who is an orator of pronounced ability. He is a member of the State Public Utilities Commission and has been prominent in Elkdom for many years. He has frequently given the memorial address for other lodges in the metropolitan district. The musical numbers will be rendered by a stringed orchestra under the direction of Brother Harry Wetton and the vocalists will be Miss Marie Stoddard, soprano; Miss Ilse Poehlman, contralto, and the Elks' quartet, composed of Brother Elmer D. Cutting, first tenor; Brother William J. Tallamy, second tenor; Brother B. F. Tallamy, first bass, and Brother Joseph C. Martin, second bass. F. V. Croby will act as accompanist. The details of the service have been worked out by a standing committee composed of S. P. T. Wilbur, chairman; William J. Tallamy, Dr. C. L. Crist, John A. Gaffney and George G. Andrews.

The officers of Plainfield Lodge who will take part in the program are the following: Exalted ruler, Francis J. Blatz; esteemed loyal knight, E. J. Harding, Jr.; esteemed lecturing knight, V. W. Nash, Jr.; secretary, E. F. Dorman; treasurer, Frederick F. Haynes; esquire, William C. Mulvey; chaplain, Henry Zweifel; inner guard, Mefford R. Giles; tyler, E. C. Searing; organist, Harry Thomas; trustees, S. P. T. Wilbur, W. H. Cambrook and Chauncey F. Stout.

During the past year Plainfield Lodge has lost twelve members by death. They were: Frank C. Langhorne, December 2, 1916; Robert Clark, Jr., January 2, 1917; William E. Hoyt, March 3, 1917; Dr. Frank W. French, March 30, 1917; Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., April 15, 1917; Augustus R. Fisk, May 11, 1917; Dominick Collora, July 24, 1917; Albert A. Holly, August 7, 1917; Alexander D. Findlay, October 29, 1917, and John Edward Steurwald, November 5, 1917.

Beside those who have died since the memorial service in 1916 the lodge has lost the following members through death or the organization in December 1902; Daniel Detweiler, April 8, 1906; Herbert S. Taylor, April 16, 1906; Robert T. Thomas, July 21, 1906; Olin L. Jenkins, November 13, 1906; Herbert B. Brooks, January 1, 1907; Charles C. Burnet, February 23, 1907; Maze Edwards, July 4, 1909; Joseph W. Rooinbart, January 27, 1911; Alexander H. Small, January 9, 1912; John A. Lawrence, January 11, 1912; Herbert L. Overbaugh, May 17, 1912; Elmer E. Bogan, October 16, 1917; James H. Daly, January 21, 1914; David J. Carney, March 17, 1914; John H. Kitchen, April 4, 1914; Clarence T. Brokaw, April 27, 1914; Frederick Sandford, May 11, 1914; James Stewart, January 15, 1915; John W. Dent, January 23, 1915; Clarence E. Teel P. E. R., February 2, 1915; Gustave O. Keller, February 13, 1915; William C. Kenney, April 27, 1915; Benjamin F. Le Vere, January 4, 1916; James C. Pope, March 25, 1916; Edward L. Wagner, April 14, 1916; J. Hervey Doane, April 24, 1916; Edwin Lee Allen, July 20, 1916; Leigh S. Rache, September 21, 1916; William F. Arnold, September 28, 1916; Evert C. Pierson, October 26, 1916, and Armstrong Mulford, October 29, 1916.

Annual Police Ball Proves Great Success

The ninth annual ball of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association in Columbus Hall, Wednesday night, proved one of the most successful the popular organization has yet conducted. Fully 500 persons thronged the main dancing floor during the evening and while the reception rooms below stairs were given over to the entertainment of city officials and visiting chiefs from nearby towns. The floral decorations on the main stage, arranged by Charles L. Stanley, and the hunting decorations by John Schrope, were unusually elaborate and excited much comment. Music for the occasion was furnished by Anderson's orchestra.

The committee in charge was composed of: Arthur A. McGinley, general chairman; Ferdinand Bader, treasurer; T. W. Nolan, C. B. Wicht, John Hermann, Thomas Flatley, John Wurth, John Hanlon, Thomas Bebout, William Russ and Harry Deter.

County Board Starts Recount of Local Vote

The County Board of Elections at 9:30 this morning commenced the recount of Plainfield's "wet" and "dry" vote of November 6. The proceedings are taking place at the court house at Elizabeth and may continue for a full week. Justice James J. Bergen will have charge of the operations.

At a late hour last night the Church Cooperative Association engaged V. W. Nash, Jr., to represent it during the recount. Abe J. Davir, of Elizabeth, is appearing for Godfrey Weinman, who asked for the recount, and Councilman John H. Cose, of this city, was selected to keep tally. The city will not be represented although it was stated at first that Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield would watch the proceedings in its behalf.

The total vote cast on the question was 3,037, of which 1,519 were for "dry" and 1,518 for "wet."

Railroad schedules for the transportation of the next quota of 15 per cent. of New Jersey's conscripts to Camp Dix, beginning November 19, and continuing for the succeeding three days, were completed Monday and announced by the adjutant general's department. Railroad and military officials have gone carefully over schedules and have seen that every detail of transportation is complete. The total number of men to go in this quota is 3,100, of whom up to 900 are to be negroes who were left over from the last draft when it was decided to send only white men. On Monday, November 19, 683 men will go to Camp Dix; on Tuesday, 1,024; on Wednesday, 724, and on Thursday, 669.

Elizabeth's and Union county's will go as follows: Union County Board No. 1, twenty-seven men; Elizabeth City Board No. 1, 40; Board No. 2, twenty-six; Board No. 3, thirty-four. They will leave via the Pennsylvania Railroad at 10:35 a. m., arriving at Camp Dix at 1 p. m. Twenty-seven men will go from Plainfield, leaving here at 9:29 a. m., and the same number will leave Summit at 9:26 a. m., also arriving at Camp Dix at 1 p. m.

New Phase Today in City Hall Situation

The situation in the City Hall tieup narrows down today to a second argument between City Officials and Business Agent William Lunger, of the Building Trades Council, as to whether or not Lunger called a carpenter off the job who was put at work placing muslin screens in the open windows. The carpenter whose name is VanVliet was hired by P. F. Kenny as "foreman carpenter" and spent yesterday at the building. He was seen later by Agent Lunger, who informed him that he was allowed on the job to "put up screen" and nothing else. Van Vliet accepted this as a notice to quit work when he had finished putting up the screens and accordingly left the hall. He made a report to this effect to Mayor Calkins and a conference is being held today in the city offices.

A similar controversy over carpenters quitting the job occurred last week, the building committee claiming that Agent Lunger had taken the men away from the place and Agent Lunger denying that he had done any such thing. The matter was standing in this manner when the argument was renewed again this morning. No further information has been given out regarding the proceedings against the Monahan Stone Company, it having been announced that charges of conspiracy would be preferred against the concern and the labor leader declaring the tie-up.

DR. ZELIE PRESENTED WITH PURSE OF $10,000.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, who recently resigned as pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, was presented a few days ago with a purse of $10,000, the gift of the congregation in recognition of his faithful services. The presentation was made at a small gathering in New York by former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman and J. P. Stevens.

Dr. Zelie is making his home in Plainfield, but so far has made no announcement of his plans for the future.

THOMAS KENNY.

Thomas Kenny aged about seventy-five years died late last night at the home of his son, George Kenny, of 1007 West Seventh street. He had been ill about six weeks. Mr. Kenny had resided in Plainfield about ten years, coming here from New York. His wife died about a year ago. Beside the son, with whom he lived, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. R. D. Rice, of 945 West Seventh street.

Bulk of Findlay Estate Goes to Mrs. Steurwald

Faithful Housekeeper Will Receive Bequest of Perhaps $100,000 in Recognition of Services---Local Elks Willed $5,000

Reward for twenty years of faithful service as housekeeper for the late Alexander D. Findlay came in substantial form this week to Mrs. Eleanor Parkenson Steurwald when the will of the former Plainfielder was probated at Morristown. After making one bequest of $5,000 to Plainfield Lodge of Elks, of which the deceased was one of the founders, and another of $1,000 to an old family servant. The residue of the estate, valued at from $75,000 to $100,000, was bequeathed Mrs. Steurwald. Codingington & Blatz, who drew up the will, are now conducting an appraisal of the estate which will reveal the exact amount to be paid the legatee.

Mr. Findlay came to Plainfield from New Brunswick in 1896. He conducted a cafe on East Second street until 1914 and the following year removed to Madison after purchasing the Madison hotel business in that place. He died on October 29 last after an illness of two years. Mr. Findlay was practically alone in the world and when he first came to this city engaged Mrs. Steurwald to care for his home on East Second street. She was then Miss Eleanor Parkenson, daughter of the late Thomas Parkenson, who was a well-known Plainfielder. Even after her marriage to the late John Edward Steurwald, who was killed in an automobile accident on November 5 last, Mrs. Steurwald retained her position in order to conduct Mr. Findlay's home in the manner to which he had grown accustomed. In his last days of sickness and suffering," the deceased was especially grateful for the ministrations of his housekeeper and left her practically his entire fortune as a show of appreciation.

Beside the hotel business in Madison, Mr. Findlay's estate includes stocks, cash in bank and real estate. The Plainfield realty includes several parcels on East Second street, numbered from 117 to 131, estimated to be worth at least $60,000. The Plainfield Trust Company is named as the executor.

The bequest of $5,000 to the Plainfield Elks was a pleasant surprise to the members and demonstrated forcibly how deep an affection Mr. Findlay felt for the lodge of which he held the title of "father." It is stipulated in the will that $1,000 of the bequest must be expended for a memorial clock to be placed in the Watchung avenue clubhouse, but the remainder can be applied to any use designated by the trustees. The present whereabouts of the old servant who is to receive $1,000 are unknown.

Walter H. Droll to Wed Miss Conover

The Church of the Transfiguration, in New York, which is better known as "The Little Church Around the Corner," will be the scene of a wedding at 5:30 tomorrow afternoon which will unite two well known Plainfield young people. The bride will be Miss Cornelia Margaret Conover, of Park avenue, and the bridegroom Walter H. Droll, of East Seventh street. Miss Ruth Witness will be the matron of honor. Mrs. Rhuel Frederick, of Irvington, sister of the bride, and the best man, Frederick Zweifel, of Grant avenue, this city, an intimate friend of Mr. Droll. Dr. Houghton, rector of the church, will perform the ceremony. It will be followed by a wedding supper at the Rector's, after which the couple will go South on a trip. On returning they will make their home in the Sterling building on Park avenue, where a completely furnished apartment is now awaiting.

Miss Conover is the daughter of Nicholas Conover, of High Bridge, but has made her home in Plainfield for the past six years. She was graduated from the Muhlenberg Hospital training school in the class of 1915 while still a minor and has been practicing her profession in this city and vicinity.

Mr. Droll is a native Plainfielder but has been out of the city much of the time since completing his studies in the local High School. He spent several years in mining operations in Nevada and last fall returned to this city after a year's stay in Chile, South America, in the interests of the Guggenheim corporation. At the present time he is manager of the machine department of the National Bank of the Americas, with offices at 38 Pine street, New York.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE.

An alarm from box 81 at 6:42 this morning called the fire department to the home of Mrs. Martha Gates at 613-A West Fourth street, in the apartment building known as "Post Office Row." A small blaze was found in a bedroom on the second floor but was put out after a twenty-minute fight with chemicals. The damage was placed at $250, which is covered by insurance. The building is owned by the Brotherhood Realty Company.

TWENTY DIPHTHERIA CASES AT MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL.

It was reported from Muhlenberg Hospital at noon today that there are now twenty cases of diphtheria in the institution's isolation ward. The patients include five children from one family whose home is at West Third and Liberty streets. None of the cases are serious at the present time. Several new cases have developed in the city and borough during the past week, making a total of about thirty reported to the two Boards of Health.

Miller Begins Term at Trenton

Sentenced to Two-and-a-half Years For the Killing of Sylvanus Johnson in Quarrel Over Negress.

Grant Miller, the Plainfield colored man convicted of manslaughter for the killing of Sylvanus Johnson at Fourth and Liberty streets, last year, is now in the State prison of Trenton, having been taken there yesterday to begin a sentence of not less than two and a half years and not more than ten years imposed by Justice James J. Bergen. The entire proceeding of the trial and sentencing required less than two days, although more than one full morning was devoted to the deliberations of the jury. The case stands as a record for one of rapidity, the swiftness with which the prosecution went ahead being due mainly to the complete chain of evidence worked up by Chief of Police Kiely and his assistants.

The trial began Monday morning with Judge Bergen on the bench, Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein appearing for the State and Attorney William R. Wilson representing the defendant. The prosecution rested at noon time and the defense concluded at 4:30 in the afternoon. Judge Bergen had the jury locked up over night at the Berkeley Hotel in Elizabeth, and delivered the charge Tuesday morning. The jury retired at 10 o'clock and at noon returned for instructions as to the degrees of murder it could agree upon. Justice Bergen gave the necessary information and at 1 o'clock the men returned with a manslaughter verdict.

It has since been understood that one man alone kept Miller from being convicted of second degree murder which would have meant a sentence of at least twenty years in State's prison and perhaps, thirty years. This man, it is said, stood out stubbornly for manslaughter and after explaining his reasons induced the other eleven to come over to his side. The only Plainfielder on the jury was Adam Blair, who for many years conducted a livery on West Sixth street.

Miller took the stand Monday in his own defense and recited the incidents of June 30 last, the evening when Johnson was shot. He said he was eating in the restaurant of Blanche Anderson at 332 Liberty street, when the first quarrel took place. Johnson took him to task then and they stepped outside. He afterward went home, read the newspaper and started down to town again. He said he had his revolver in his pocket since early that morning. He went to the restaurant again, bought a cigar and left to go to a barber shop where a man owed his some money. Johnson was an employe of the restaurant. As Miller reached the restaurant Frank Hooper stopped him, and they passed some remarks regarding a young woman who passed. Miller then went into the restaurant and the quarrel renewed. It was carried to the sidewalk and Miller alleges Johnson was backing him against the wall and he heard Johnson's revolver click twice, but it

Pythians Begin "Drive" Tonight

At a big rally meeting to be held in the Castle Hall in the Babcock building tonight, Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, will inaugurate a "smashing drive" for new members. The campaign is to extend till the close of the present year when it is hoped to have at least 100 additional names on the organization's roster. The wind-up will be celebrated by a big street parade and banquet similar to the one held in Somerville last June, when Lodge of the Castle completed its "assault" with a total of ninety "captives."

The most active members of Perseverance Lodge have been divided into two teams to wage the campaign. Fifty men will be on each team, one of which is to be captained by Senator-elect William N. Runyon, and the other by Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield. Both leaders are old members of the lodge and have big followings. The winning side will receive all the honors that go to a victorious aggregation, while the losers will have to pay some kind of forfeit. What this will be is to be decided upon tonight.

Perseverance Lodge is one of Plainfield's oldest and most active fraternal organizations. It was granted a charter about forty-five years ago and since that time has always numbered the leading men in the city on its roster. At the present time it has a membership of 250. It has instilled the principles of Pythianism in the breasts of hundreds of young men with the mutual advantage of themselves and families. In social activities Perseverance has never retired from the lead in Plainfield and its financial benefits have proven a great help to scores of homes deprived of their income through the illness of the bread winner. Lodges in other cities have conducted these "membership drives" and the officers of the Plainfield organization believe that "old 74" can establish a record for New Jersey.

Arthur Joy, the present chancellor commander, asks that all members be in attendance at the meeting tonight. Both Mr. Runyon and Mr. Hetfield will make addresses and there will be an informal program, followed by refreshments.

The following Perseverance men are to be divided into the two working teams at the meeting tonight:

David C. Allen, J. F. W. Bamberger, Edward Bowman, John Bowman, William Baker, John G. Bicknell, S. A. Clouston, Ephriam Compton, C. C. Conover, A. D. Ayers, A. H. Enander W. J. Dorman, J. C. "Clem" Bechtel May Soon Be In Italy or Egypt

After spending six months on the French front as driver of an American Red Cross ambulance, during which he has many times narrowly escaped with his life, Clement Bechtel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bechtel, of Carlton avenue, has secured his discharge and is now under instruction for aviation work. His examinations have been passed and in a letter received by his parents this week he declares he will soon be either in Italy or Egypt to perfect himself for air flights. His acceptance for this work came after his mental and physical examination showed that he was especially adapted for service as a flyer.

On several occasions the Record has printed letters from Mr. Bechtel, who is known to his hundreds of Plainfield friends as "Clem." His communications are vividly descriptive and unusually interesting. The one which comes to his parents this week tells all about his new venture and is given below for the benefit of his well wishers here:

Paris, France,
October 24, 1917.

Dearest Mother and Father:—

This past week has been a hard one for me. Our section was relieved by the American regulars, and we came into Paris to receive our discharges. My first thoughts were of home and that I would see you all soon, but we are faced with a powerful enemy and we must win. I asked myself if I could not do more by staying here and joining some branch of the service. If I did go home, it would only be for a few days, as you know I would not wait to be drafted; and so I joined aviation. Thought it all over and came to the conclusion that I could do more there than any other branch. Passed the exams. yesterday, and go in as a cadet officer; when finished will be a lieutenant or perhaps a captain. (Dinky and Peck are in it also.) We leave here in a few days for either Egypt or Italy to learn flying. When finished the pay will be very good and if I live through it the chances are big for higher rank.

Now don't worry about me for it must be done. No son ever wanted to come home more than I do, but I am glad to find myself big enough to make the sacrifices for God, for country and for you. If I do not come through, you can be proud that you had a boy who volunteered, and did not wait to be drafted. If I do I will be a better man, for the experience is far-reaching. You would both be pleased the way my ideas on life have changed.

Jimmie will bring this letter to you. He tried to get in everything, even the Foreign Legion, but could not on account of his eyes. I am sending a bag of souvenirs, and have marked them all. Check them up, when you lend them to anybody, as I secured some of them at the risk of my life, and would like to have them in later years. If I do not return they are yours to do with as you see fit. I am also sending my films. Have them printed. Some of them should be wonderful, as I took them on the front line trenches on Hill 304. The little paper cutters, etc., are made from German bullets.

Guess this is all. Give my love to all, and remember I am doing my bit well.

Son,
CLEM.

Proposed System of Policing Counties

A system of county police in place of separate police forces for the twenty-one counties of the State is receiving serious consideration by the legislative commission to revise and codify laws relating to municipalities, it was announced this week, and such recommendation will probably be made by the commission to the next Legislature, as a substitute for State constabulary plan.

The commission said the county police plan would carry with it a referendum. In one county, it is shown, there are 145 municipalities with that number of police chiefs and independent systems. There is much duplication of work. An alternative plan it is proposed that three or four municipalities might unite for joint police system.

Another question under consideration by the commission is the advisability of recommending that boards of freeholders be given full power to regulate the salaries of county officials. Some are now fixed by statute.

T. A. B. FLAG RAISING ON THANKSGIVING DAY.

St. Mary's T. A. B. Society will have a flag raising and patriotic demonstration in front of the society's building on West Fourth street Thanksgiving afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. A beautiful flag, the gift of Michael D. O'Keeffe, will be hoisted to the top of the pole fifty feet high. A service flag with eight stars representing eight T. A. B. members who are either in the army or navy will also be unfurled at the same time.

Prominent Plainfielders and officers of the T. A. B. will make speeches and the T. A. B. Fife and Drum Corps will furnish marching music. The bag flag pole which has been placed in position will be surmounted by a large electric light for night illumination. The public is invite to attend the ceremonies.

Camp Dix Men Learning How to Throw Grenades

Grenade throwing is to be a part of the training of the Camp Dix selectives within a short time. The grenade course, now being constructed under the direction of two French officers, both of whom have figured in grenade bombardments on European battlefields, will be completed within a few days and in two weeks, perhaps, the first contingent of grenadiers will receive their initial lesson.

The grenade field covers approximately ten acres. An elaborate series of trenches is being constructed. The field, when completed, will be an actual representation of a small section of the Somme front, where both of the Frenchmen saw service. It is being constructed on half scale. The French officers superintending the laying out of the field are Lieutenant Jean Meslier, of the 50th Infantry, and Adjutant Pierre Savary, of the 246th Infantry. Both of them are holders of the Croix de Guerre and have attained other honors in their military careers. Lieut. Meslier was wounded three times. Both of his arms were broken in one engagement. Adjutant Savary has two wounds, received during recent campaigns.

Both of the men were back in the fighting, however, when called for duty in America. In fact, they had been engaged three days in a bombardment on the Somme battlefield when the summons came for them to leave the trenches and join the detail en route to America to assist training the American Army.

Lieut. Meslier told interestingly of his thrilling experience on the battlefields, of actual hand-to-hand combat with the German soldiers in which he was engaged, how the fighting in some cases was done with the points of the helmets of the Germans when other weapons were out of the combat, and of the horrors that accompany this hand-to-hand grapple in the trenches. "I killed seven in one charge," declared Lieut. Meslier, adding quickly the seemingly apologetic sentence, "I was obliged to."

Both of the French veterans bear scars about their faces, testimonials of the combats which they have been through. Laying out trenches in broad daylight is a playful sort of thing in comparison with the trench construction on the battlefields of Europe, intimated the Frenchmen, who seem to be enjoying the forced vacation from the fighting on the Somme front.

Grenadiers will be selected soon. A company of grenade throwers is attached to every infantry regiment and the units are composed of men specially fitted for the work. The grenades which will be used on the Camp Dix field will be of the regulation weight—twenty-two ounces.

Assisting the French officers in their work are Lieut. Frank G. Fripp, of the 311th Infantry, and Lieut. G. T. Purves, of the 312th Infantry. The instruction on the grenade course will be in charge of Lieut. Col. G. H. White, instructor-inspector of the cantonment. Lieut. Col. White returned recently from Europe, where he went with the Pershing expedition for the purpose of making a study of warfare as conducted by the Allied armies. The two lieutenants who are assisting with the construction are both graduates of Fort Sill, Okla.

Special training grounds for the selectives are being constructed rapidly on the reservation. The target range is about completed. It is expected that the first group of men will be taken onto the range probably on Saturday of this week. The trenches are being thrown up with all rapidity possible so some degree of progress may be made by the men before the weather prevents target work.

The mechanical targets are arranged along the courseand trenches, each of which will accommodate seventy-five men, are stretched across the expansive target range.

Transfers from the 311th Regiment are expected to occur momentarily. The men are all ready for their journey to the Southern cantonment. There have been good-bye ceremonies in the barracks for the past few days, in anticipation of the order for the immediate departure of the men.

GOVERNMENT ACCEPTS ELKS' OFFER OF $250,000 HOSPITAL.

America's first great hospital for the "reconstruction" of wounded men was accepted on November 9, by the Government from the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The hospital buildings will be erected on Parker Hill, Boston, at a cost of $250,000. The money was taken from the Elks' $1,000,000 War Relief Fund, of which each member of Plainfield Lodge was assessed $2.00. The Surgeon-General announces that the hospital will be equipped to "rebuild" human wreckage into able-bodied men. Men with half their faces shot away will get new jawbones from their ribs and new noses and new cheeks from the cartilage and tissue on other parts of their bodies. Thousands of men who would be wrecks without proper treatment will now be able to be rebuilt and taught trades that will make them assets instead of liabilities. Even a man deaf, dumb, blinded and paralyzed will be taught a trade at which he can work.

Governor Urges Short Session Of Legislature

That the terms "short" and "snappy" are to be the watchwords of everything connected with the next session of the Legislature was evidenced at Trenton Wednesday in reviewing the incidents Tuesday connected with the first gathering of the Republican members who are to form the majority in each branch of the coming law-making body. First of all, Governor Edge, in conference with the members, advised a session of eight weeks, which will be one of the shortest, if not a record in this respect, in the annals of legislation in this State. The only essentials to the success of this plan are a definite program and the cooperation of a harmonious majority, said the Governor.

Another evidence of the speed which is to characterize the next session was the action of the Republican Senators in caucussing Tuesday, and selecting Senator Thomas F. McCran, of Passaic, for president, and Emerson L. Richards, of Atlantic, for leader. This was followed by the announcement that the House members of the majority will meet at Trenton next Tuesday to choose a speaker and a leader also. Usually several weeks elapse between the election and the calling of either House caucus to decide on the organization. This year's departure is an indication of the pace at which the next Legislature will probably work.

Governor Edge Tuesday at the conference submitted a definite program of legislation, which he will urge the members to enact. Most of it is what he termed the second steps or completion of those matters promised in the Republican platform of 1916, and in his inaugural message, and the adoption of these planks contained in this year's platform.

Prominent among the things which the Governor asks completed are the following:

Legislation striking at the roots of evils in the system at the State Prison, as revealed by the report of the Prison Inquiry Commission; reorganization of the management and control of other penal institutions; establishment of a business system of standardizing the salaries of State civil service employes; further home rule legislation, including the extension of this principle to excise matters in harmony with the Republican local option plank; legislation which in no way will let down the bars against illegitimate corporations, but which on the other hand will not discourage legitimate enterprises from the State; consolidation of the functions of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission and the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission; an act which will enable counties to issue bonds or provide other financial methods to build roads prior to the time provided in the State Highway Department's program, in anticipation of funds to be received from the State later; simplification of soldiers voting, and the repeal of the act which permits county judges to recall inmates of the State Prison for resentencing. These and a number of other measures, including questions relating to the war and also the plans for connecting New Jersey with the States of New York and Pennsylvania, whether by bridges or tunnels, are included in the program of Mr. Edge.

Indications at Trenton point to the election of Assemblyman Charles A. Wolverton, of Camden, as speaker of the next House over Arthur N. Pierson, of Union, and Walter G. Winne, of Bergen. Much may depend, however, on which of these candidates receives the support of the twelve votes from Essex county. The election of Wolverton will probably mean the selection of Pierson as leader of the next House.

The Senate Republicans will hold another conference next Wednesday, when they will appoint the steering committee to confer with a similar body named by the House caucus. With plans under way to reach final adjournment early in March it is understood that bills will be introduced at the opening session of the Legislature and the time limit set for their presentation three weeks later.

ELKS WARMING UP FOR COUNTY LEAGUE TOURNEY

Members of the Plainfield Elks' bowling team, which is to represent the lodge during the coming season in the Union County Bowling League, have been warming up on the local alleys in anticipation of the opening games next week. It has been decided to hold the initial matches on Saturday night, November 24, and the schedule will keep the teams busy through the coming winter. The organizations which have teams entered beside the Plainfield Elks are: The Elizabeth Elks, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, Roselle Casino, Jr. O. U. A. M., El Mora Country Club and Ilderan Outing Club, Rahway and the Park Club of North Plainfield.

The Plainfield Elks' team will be captained by Walter Vail and will include beside himself, Jacob E. Waldorf, W. R. Causbrook, Chief P. S. Kiely, Percy Haberle and Walter Long as regulars and Clarence Swalm as substitute. The Park Club has not yet completed the make-up of its team.

The officers of the Union County Bowling League are as follows: Bertram Keys, of the Town and Country Club, president; William Howe, of the Roselle Casino, vice president, and Alfred D. Halsey, Elizabeth Elks, secretary-treasurer.

Big Lion Act Still At the Plainfield

Taylor's lions, the greatest collection of Nubians ever seen in this city, continue to thrill spectators at the Plainfield Theatre, where they have been heading the vaureville bills since Wednesday. They were first seen last Monday and because of the great impression they made were kept over for the remainder of the week. Mr. Taylor, who is but thirty years old and of slender build, risks his life every time he steps in the big steel arena in which the animals are shown but he goes about his task as though it was nothing out of the ordinary. The lions are all young and still retain their jungle fierceness but never miss obeying their master's command to form artistic poses. This act is beyond doubt one of the most pretentious Manager Shannon has had this season and must be seen to be appreciated. The final performances will be given tomorrow afternoon and night.

Besides Taylor's lions there are five other vaudeville acts on the bill for today and tomorrow. They include Le Emma and Co., in an acrobatic novelty; West and Centre, piano and songs; John Dingwall and Co., in the military sketch, "Where's Home;" Jimmy Reynolds and Athena Pollock, comedy novelty skit, and Epeigle and Jones, blackface funsters. She Pathe News Weekly and Pathe comedies and dramas will round out the program.

Special attention is called to the fact that the bill next Monday and Wednesday will include Annie Abbott, "The Georgia Magnet," whose marvelous powers have made her the wonder of the country. She will be closely seconded on the program by "The Nine Cycling Models," an original offering that has created sensation in nearby cities.

"Star and Garter" Coming Next Week

At the Plainfield Theatre, Tuesday, matinee and night, November 20, there will be a "high sign" of high grade burlesque, when the W. & W. Amusement Company's "Great Star and Garter" show will be the attraction without any consideration regarding expenditure or cost of either talent or scenic and costume equipment. I. M. Weingarden has organized a show which is well worthy to vie with many of Broadway's two dollar attractions. He has engaged an unusually strong company of artists, all of whom are prominent in their respective lines of musical comedy, burlesque and vaudeville field, and in combination are this season presenting a performance of which this enterprising firm may justly feel proud of. "For Arts Sake" and "Hingle and Dingle" are the titles of the big part merry-go-round of song and fun, in which such principals as Don Clark, Bert Florence Darley with "Star and Garter" Show at Plainfield Theatre, Tuesday, Matinee and Night.

Rose, James Coughlin, Florence Darley, Jess Weiss, Franky La Brac, Will Bovis, May De Lisle, Al Lawrance, Margie Martin, not forgetting the "Great Star and Garter's" prize winning chorus girls who are the participants, exhilarating fun, action, song and spectacular dazzle are the important features of this season's big show's offerings and in its entirety is the show of the hour for any one who desires to dispel gloom and dull care. Among the twenty-five big original ensembles and musical numbers introduced as a special feature will be a flight through the clouds and the destruction of an entire city in miniature.

HOME DEFENSE LEAGUE ORDERS REGULATION O'COATS.

The commissioners of the Plainfield Home Defense League has placed an order with a New York firm for regulation overcoats to be worn by members of the League this winter. They will be ready for delivery within the very near future. The garments would ordinarily cost from thirty-five dollars to forty dollars each, but through the big order placed have been given the League at eighteen-fifty a piece.

The overcoats are full cut, according to U. S. Army regulations and made to standardize with government specifications, thus assuring the Leaguers of having ample protection while on duty this winter. The cost of the garments is being defrayed by voluntary contributions from members of the League but all are to receive one whether giving anything or not.

PERSONAL

Sergeant William Coyle, of this city, returned to his duties at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., Tuesday, after a furlough of several days in town. The time was spent at the home of his parents on Waynewood place.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Alice M. Smalley, of this city, to Elsworth P. Schenck, also of Plainfield. The ceremony was performed last Saturday night by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong at his home on West Eighth street. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Becker, of Newark, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, were the only attendants. The couple will make their home here.

Miss Ina Rudd, of East Front street, has resigned her position as visiting nurse for the local Visiting Nurses' Association and will hereafter devote her time to class lectures on nursing and "first aid" for the Y. W. C. A. Miss Rudd is a graduate of Muhlenberg Hospital in the class of 1909.

Mr. and Mrs. John Collier, of Norwood avenue, are the parents of a baby boy, who arrived at their home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bodine, of South Gaston avenue, Somerville, formerly of North Plainfield, announce the engagement of their daughter, Bertha S. Bodine, to John H. Dorn, of Middlesex borough. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stavish, of Plainfield avenue, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a little girl who came to their home last week.

Samuel J. Tavernor, of Boston Spa, N. Y., will return home Monday after spending two weeks in town. He expects to be in Plainfield again during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis R. Moore, of West Oranze, spent the week-end with Mr. Moore's mother, Mrs. William R. Moore, and sister, Mrs. Isaac N. Wyckoff, of Arlington avenue.

Miss Grace Huntley, of Wessington Springs, South Dakota, left for Newport, R. I., today, after spending two weeks with her cousin, Miss Ethel E. Humphrey, of Park avenue. Miss Mabelle Humphrey, of Oneida, N. Y., who has also been visiting Miss Ethel Humphrey, who is her sister, will return home Monday.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Emma Elizabeth Windham, sister of Mrs. Jesse A. Dayton, of West Fourth street, to Charles F. Hullt, of Hunter avenue. The wedding will take place in the near future.

George Fisher, of Manson place, who has been seriously ill for the past month, recovered sufficiently this week to be able to get about his room.

Miss Emma C. Messler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Messler, of Scotch Plains, and Joseph L. Farlee, of North Plainfield, were married last Saturday night by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, at the latter's home on Grandview avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allen, of the borough, were the only attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Farlee completed a wedding trip this week and are now residing on Grandview avenue. The bridegroom is engaged in the express business and has a wide acquaintance.

Ethel Ryder, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Ryder, Jr., of Grant avenue, has been critically ill during the past week but at present is greatly improved and with excellent chances of recovery. She is under the care of Dr. Norman Probasco.

Mr. and Mrs. George V. Miller, of Rahway, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gladys Earl Miller, to John H. Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Richards, East Third street, this city.

Mrs. W. D. W. Miller, of East Seventh street, entertained the Rasores at her home last Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Emanuel Johnson, who were married Saturday at the Swedish Lutheran church, Summit, will live in Plainfield upon their return from a wedding trip. The bride was Miss Fanny Hildgard Holst, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Lindholm, of New York.

Mourning in France.
(From the Chicago Tribune.)

Four-fifths of the women in France wear mourning, say the correspondents, and we believe them, but we are not among those who credit reports of a France "exhausted" and "bled white." French women go into mourning on the smallest provocation. Dye shops abound. Every little way in a French city one encounters the sign, "Mourning in twenty-four hours." When madame puts on black, no one straightaway infers the demise of monsieur. Much more likely an uncle by marriage has dropped off, or perhaps some eighth cousin thrice removed. It is always possible that, for one wooden cross on a battlefield, there will be six dozen gowns at the dye shop.

Too Patient.
(From the Philadelphia Record.)

If there is any magic in licensing, if there is any restrictive force in the requirement that every alien enemy must register, then the demand should be made at once. The problem of dealing with secret enemies within our lines, who are spies, and subject to summary execution under the law of war, is certainly difficult; but the Government has been too patient and indulgent. The destruction of property and the wrecking of troop trains has begun, and the severest measures that are available must be employed in repressing these sinister attacks. The employment of alien enemies in places where they can do harm must be stopped; internment must be more extensively applied; railways and factories will have to me more rigidly guarded, and if a few of these spies could be caught, their shooting would have a wholesome influence.

The K. of C. and Y. M. C. A.
(From the Jersey Journal.)

War is grim business, but it is the great melting pot for the human emotions. Though the business of war is to kill, yet it also breaks down the artificial barriers that in peace times keep men so far apart. America's participation in the big war has produced nothing finer than the spirit of toleration which pervades every branch of the service. The brotherhood of man has been established anew, and out of it will come, with a fuller realization than ever before, the fact that we all are brothers, regardless of race or creed. In full accord with this spirit of the times is this statement by State Deputy John F. O'Neill, of the Knights of Columbus:

"I am going to do my bit for the Y. M. C. A., and I hope that every Knight of Columbus will help. I have been in the camps of New Jersey and I know that the Y. M. C. A. is doing a great work. I would like to send word to ou rCatholic people that in every camp where the Knights of Columbus started war work, the Y. M. C. A. organization worked with us. They loaned their buildings before ours were completed in order that the Catholic soldiers might hear mass Sundays. The Knights of Columbus and the Y. M. C. A. are working in complete harmony. I hope that the campaign will result in a large sum of money being raised, because the expense attached to the work of the Y. M. C. A. is enormous."

The fine sense of brotherhood evidenced by State Deputy O'Neill will, without doubt, be duplicated by many Knights and be of great assistance to the Y. M. C. A. It will be of equal benefit to the Knights of Columbus.

War Savings Certificates.
(From the New York Herald.)

A very simple scheme is announced whereby even the very poor will be given an opportunity to invest in a Government security and contribute to the successful prosecution of the war.

From the details published this morning it appears that as low a sum as twenty-five cents may be made available through the purchase of a stamp of that denomination. Four dollars of such stamps can be exchanged for a war savings certificate bearing four per cent. interest compounded quarterly.

Investment is made as simple as the purchase of a postage stamp, and millions of persons whose means would not admit of their subscribing to Liberty bonds will be enabled to "do their bit" in financing the war. "Many a little makes a muckle," and the sale of war savings certificates will doubtless bring in a very important sum.

Work the Aliens.
(From the Trenton Times.)

Governor Edge wants to have Austrians exempted from military service under the conscription law. Why not follow Germany's example, and use them for work in places where they can do no harm? It is said that the men of thousands of French, Russian, Belgian, English—and even American—men and women have been forced to do duty for Germany.

Surely there is work that all aliens can do, without harm to this country. They should not be permitted to escape helping the Government that is doing so much for them, and to take the desirable jobs that have been given up by the young Americans who have volunteered and are fighting for the freedom of the whole world.

Service Flags.
(From the New York Sun.)

Counting the stars on the service flags and thus comparing sacrifice with sacrifice is interesting, but hardly necessary. Each star represents a man—and, most likely, a prayer.

Poor Tiger.
(From the New York Sun.)

Judge Hylan shuns dinners in his honor in order that food may be conserved. Is the Tiger also to be kept on a war diet?

Those Who Can Fight Must Fight.
(From the New York Herald.)

Mr. Roger Wood's advice to aliens to "for God's sake take the next steamer and go back to the country from which you came" doubtless was not followed by many. It is hoped that the registration boards will retain the addresses of those aliens, however, for it is morally certain that Congress, at its next session, will place at the disposal of the Nation the additional man power they represent. This thing of husky young aliens being permitted to live on the fat of this land while American young men go to fight for its protection will not long be countenanced by the American people.

Next Draft Will Have Wide Scope

Every Man Between Nineteen and Forty-five Years May Have to Answer Government's Questionnaire.

Every man in the country of selective age, excepting only the men who are now in camp, will be required to fill out the new questionnaire of the War Department, so that he can be placed in one of the five classes subject to future call.

This applies to every man, whether or not he was exempted in the first call. A man with only one leg, for example, is clearly exempt, but he will be called out for the statement of his condition along with all others. The one-legged man, when his questionnaire is considered, will immediately be placed in class five, consisting of men who will never be called into service.

President Wilson has called on all lawyers and doctors to assist in filling out the questionnaires. The judges in each city or county have been appointed a committee to organize the lawyers to give assistance to the men.

The registered men will be divided into twenty groups, each containing five per cent. of the total men registered and not now in service in each local district. One group will be notified each day, thus spreading the work of filling out the questionnaires over twenty days. In connection with each local board it is planned to provide an information bureau, manned by lawyers, who will assist the men in filling out the blanks.

The work of classification of the men will not begin until December 15, after all of the questionnaires have been returned, and no more men will be called to the colors until all are placed in their position of relative fitness for service.

It is emphasized by the officials that the success of the new plan will depend entirely on the accuracy and completeness of the information furnished in the questionnaires. The aim of the system is to find out the men who are really needed to support dependents and in essential war industries at home, and to exempt these men. By the same token it is intended to find out the men who are least needed at home and best equipped physically and otherwise for army service.

If the questionnaires are filled out honestly and accurately, Provost Marshal General Crowder predicts that the next call will produce the most scientically and humanely selected army in the world.

The provost general has disclosed a plan by which the call is to be used as a club to bring labor into the shipyards. Under the new plan ship builders actually employed in ship construction are the one group of industrial workers who are exempted per se. But the fact that a man is exempted as a ship builder does not insure his permanent relief from service.

In case of a strike in a shipyard, for example, under the law and the system as now laid out, it would be possible for the government immediately to summon all employes of the yard, of army age, into the military service. The men cannot be compelled to work in a shipyard, but they can be sent to the cantonments.

This is the first attempt of the government to bring pressure to bear on labor. It has been suggested, and the proposal will undoubtedly be made in Congress, that the selective service axes be extended to include all men from nineteen to forty-five, with the special purpose of rendering practically all of the skilled mechanics employed in war work liable to military service.

The new rules do not in any wise apply to the men now n camp. The decisions of the local boards with respect to these men will stand.

BOUND BROOK MAN GIVES REMEDY FOR DIPHTHERIA.

C. J. Wilson, a well-known "old-time" newspaper man whose home is in Bound Brook, and who is a close reader of the Record, noticed the story of Plainfield's diphtheria epidemic in last week's issue. As a result, Mr. Wilson has sent the following communication to this office: Editor, The Record:

Dear Sir: Your report of a diphtheria epidemic induces me to state that if the person afflicted will dissolve say a quarter teaspoonful of tartar emetic in a glass of water and swallow a teaspoonful every half hour or less until forced to vomit the diphtheria will have entirely disappeared and will not return. Cheerfully,

C. J. WILSON.

MOTORMAN JONAS ACQUITTED ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE.

Jacob Jonas, of Lincoln, motorman of the trolley car that ran into a jitney bus on West Front street, September 8, when Jeremiah A. Lant, of West Third street, was killed, was acquitted in the Court of Quarter Sessions Saturday afternoon. The jury was out only half an hour.

The defense, conducted by Edwin C. Caffery, of Newark, brought out that the jitney had come to a stop on the trolley tracks and that the lights on the street and on the bus were in such poor condition that Jonas was unable to see the machine. Jonas received several broken ribs as a result of the crash.

Miss Morrow Gives Church Memorials

The Parish Messenger of All Saints' church, Harrison, N. Y., in its November issue says:

On Sunday, October 21, at the morning service a handsome litany desk, the gift of Miss E. A. Morrow, was dedicated by the rector. The desk which was made by the Gorham company was presented by Miss Morrow as a memorial to her parents, Rev. William Bryce Morrow and Elizabeth Wright Morrow, her sister, Miss Annie Sergeant Morrow and her brothers, George Herbert Morrow, William Howitt Morrow and Reginald Arthur Morrow. A flag and flagstaff were also dedicated as a memorial to her brother, William Howitt Morrow, formerly a member of Co. G, 8th Reegiment, National Guard of the State of Pennsylvania. The desk is made of brass and quartered oak, of massive construction and in the usual good taste and careful workmanship of its makers. The flag and staff are from the same house, and are supported at the side of the desk by attached brass holders. A brass plate on the desk and a ferule on the flag staff are inscribed with the names of those in whose memory the articles were presented. A handsome desk service book bound in red morocco in harmony with the other service books of the church was also included in the memorials.

The Rev. Mr. Morrow was a prominent presbyter of the church spending many years of his ministry in the dioceses of New York and Pennsylvania. His first rectorship in this country was at Trinity church, Newark, from which place he went to New York to become assistant to Rev. A. C. Coxe, later Bishop of Western New York, but who was rector of Calvary churche at that time. He was later rector of the Church of the Reconciliation, New York city, after which he became rector successively of St. John's church, Wheeling, W. Va., St. Stephen's, Milburn, Trinity church, Peoria, Ill. He was elected deputy to the General Convention from the diocese of New York in 1886 and received the degree of Doctor of Sacred Music from Knox College, Ill. For some time he was canon of the Cathedral at Reading, Pa., acting at the same time as secretary to the Bishop M. A. DeW. Howe. Later pastorates were at the Church of the Redeemer, Sayre, Pa., St. John's, Carlisle, Pa., and St. James the Great, Bristol, Pa.

Dr. Morrow died May 3, 1908, at his home on East Fifth street, this city. The Church Standard in an extended obituary notice says "His greatest work was done in So. Bethlehem, Pa., during a smallpox epidemic there, where over 200 died of the disease. He visited families of all faiths and ministered to them faithfully and said the Burial Office over the greater number of those who died. He was everywhere hailed as "The Angel of Mercy." When the disease was finally stamped out he was given a great public reception by the Bethlehem Steel Co. and So. Bethlehem people and presented with a most valuable gold watch fittingly inscribed as a testimonial of the affection and appreciation in which he was held."

Dr. Morrow was also the father of Ralph L. Morrow, a former editor of the Plainfield Daily Press and now managing editor of the Greenwich, Connecticut, Press. Miss Morrow, donor of the memorials, is a resident of Harrison, and is a communicant of All Saints' church.

How to Send Gifts To Soldiers Abroad

By agreement between the War Department, the Postoffice Department and express companies and commanding general, Hoboken is designated as the forwarding agent for the rerouting and shipment of all express and mail matter, intended as Christmas presents, for ultimate delivery to the American expeditionary forces. The special arrangements do not apply to shipments addressed to Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, or other organizations outside the army.

All boxes shipped by express should be limited to twenty pounds in weight, measure not more than two cubic feet in volume, be of wood, be well strapped, and should have a hinged or screw top to facilitate opening and inspecting. No food products, other than those inclosed in cans or glass jars, should be packed in any such shipments.

Boxes must be fully, correctly and legibly addressed and conspicuously marked "Christmas box." The consignee's name, company, regiment or other organization, followed by the words, "American Expeditionary Forces," should appear in the address.

In the upper left hand corner the name and address of the sender must be placed. The contents of each package will be stated on the outside by the proper wording, which will clearly indicate the general nature of the contents. The address should be written or printed in ink, and the words "in care Commanding General, Hoboken, N. J.," must appear on each package.

In addition to the name and address of the sender and consignee, it is permissible to write or print on the box the occupation of the sender and inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas," "Please do not open until Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With best wishes," and the like may be placed on the box in such a manner as not to interfere with the address.

Miraculous Escape of Breton Peasant

The Breton peasant is noted for his hardiness, but even in the annals of that sturdy race the adventure of Edmund Augier, late sergeant in the Chasseur regiment, will rank among the most remarkable.

While reconnoitering with five comrades in a shell-ravaged wood, he was separated from his companions and fell in with a party of eight German Uhlans. Finding escape impossible, he stood behind a tree and dropped three of his antagonists with his revolver before being finally captured. Incensed for the heavy price they had to pay for capturing the Frenchman, the Uhlans tied him to the tail of one of their horses and brought him into the German lines. The commanding officer ordered Augier to be shot.

The next morning, with four civilians, Augier was brought out to suffer death. They were lined up against a wall, the firing party took aim and fired. All fell, including Augier, who by a miraculous chance was not killed, though he had five bullets in his body, two in his right leg, two in his right arm and one through his right shoulder.

He had presence of mind enough to lie still and feign death. But his torments were not yet over. The officer in command of the firing party, to make sure the victims were dead, fired from his revolver into each of the prostrate forms.

Augier's forehead was furrowed by the shot fired by the officer, but again his life was spared.

All day he lay there in agony and trembling lest they should come to bury him. When at last night came, he cautiously crawled away and was relieved to see he was alone except for the four still forms beside him. With great difficulty he dragged himself along, till he gained the open country beyond the village. There he was discovered during the night by a German patrol, taken for a member of a French reconnoitering party, wounded in a recent skirmish, and conveyed to a field hospital.

In the hospital the German surgeon advised amputation of his wounded arm, but Augier refused to undergo the operation. From here he was later sent to a German hospital in the rear, and eventually, whe nhe had sufficiently recovered, to a prison camp. He had become a cripple, his right arm was useless and he could only hobble along with a stick, while his forehead bore a livid scar.

Four months ago he was sent to Switzerland and exchanged as one of the hopelessly wounded. Whea he reached Paris the five bullets were extracted.

His marvelous escape from death, he attributes to a scapular, given him by his mother, and which never left him.

THE ACTIVITIES OF CAPTAIN C. B. DILLINGHAM.

A despatch from Washington this week states that New York's most resourceful and most popular manager, Charles Dillingham, has been called to the colors. His orders are to report forthwith to the War College, there to resume his duties with rank of captain in the United States Signal Corps. The announcement caused a distinct sensation in theatrical circles, especially when it became known that Captain Dillingham has held a commission from President Wilson since last June, and that he has been on official leave since that time in order to complete his plans for this season,—a furlough for which his patrons will be exceedingly grateful, for since that date he has produced three of the greatest successes ever known in New York, in "Cheer Up!" the joyous pageant at the Hippodrome, Fred Stone's remarkably starring vehicle, "Jack o'Lantern" and the gorgeous "Miss 1917," at the Century. In addition Capt. Dillingham has launched Doyle and Dixon in "Chin Chin," which memorable Globe Theatre production is by the way enjoying great success in and around New York. But this is not all. The vaudeville theatres are also benefitting by this affable creator's indefatigable activities, for the vehicle at present exploiting Sallie Fisher in the Keith Theatres and which will be seen later this season on the Orpheum circuit, is by Dillingham approved by Capt. Dillingham through a desire to provide a season's engagement for one of his favorite stars not placed in his other gigantic undertakings. Administering with such brilliant results to the needs of the world's greatest theatres and having fulfilled his obligations to his public and his stars and employes America's premiere producing manager now places his valuable services at his country's disposal. Bravo Captain Charles B. Dillingham! May your lucky star never be deemed.

SERVICES AND COMING ACTIVITIES AT HOPE CHAPEL.

The Rev. Dr. D. W. Skellenger, pastor of Hope chapel, has announced his sermon subjects for the coming Sunday as follows: A. M. "Weights and Measures;" evening, "An Abundance of Salt." At the evening service of Sunday, November 25, a special musical service will be conducted under the direction of the volunteer choir of twenty voices.

This evening, Friday, Dr. Skellenger will deliver a lecture on the history of the American flag, to be illustrated by ninety colored stereopticon slides.

On Friday evening, November 30, an organ recital is to be given by Thomas M. Jones, under the auspices of the chanel choir. The proceeds of both of these occasions will be for the new building fund.

At first glance you will be impressed with the extraordinary richness and beauty of the cabinet-work in this phonograph—which we have chosen to sell excusively.

It is a case so beautiful as to tempt you to purchase—for the sake of exterior excellense alone. But we have asked you to come and hear this instrument—to sit and listen to the witchery of its tone.

And you realize—as we discovered—as the judges at the Panama-Pacific Exposition discovered—that the beauty of the Sonora Phonograph is due to this fact of real significance: that its supreme quality of tone invariably takes it into those homes where a cobinet of exceptional beauty is necessitated by the environment. We invite you to come and hear the SONORA.

THE COURTS AS A RESORT FOR THE CITY HALL.

Just what to do in the City Hall proposition seems to become a more complex problem each succeeding day. It is evident that the corporation counsel and members of the building committee had hopes of securing aid from the International Union of Bricklayers and Masons but the letter sent by this organization to Local No. 14 last week clearly indicates that no support is coming from that direction. The Monahan "hold-up" continues to stand and now friction has arisen between the city fathers and the local Trades' Union. Whether or not Agent Lunger took carpenters off the job last week seems to be of no essential importance at this time. Very little could be gained from their work, anyway, and a continuance of such methods only invites trouble from other directions. There are other contractors on the building who have not yet been heard from but who stand ready at any time to resent interference with union rules and regulations. It might be well to understand them fully before advancing along these lines.

As it stands now, the City Hall bids fair to remain in its present uncompleted condition for a long time unless some definite action is taken. Every days' delay means expense to the taxpayers who know that the cost is already far beyond the original figure of $100.000. The clerk of the works must be paid, fully $100 a month must be expended for heating the structure to preserve unfinished work from the weather, the price of materials is constantly advancing and the rental of the present municipal offices will continue on long after the time set for its expiration. The City Hall committee understands all these facts fully and is doing everything possible to break the dead-lock but at this time no progress can be seen.

To many who have kept in touch with the situation it seems that there are three avenues open to the city to complete the structure. One is to pay the $13,000 to the Monahan Stone Company, a second to complete the work with non-union labor, and the third to throw the matter into the courts. The first is out of the question unless it is put to the vote of the citizens as the Common Council has no right to pay over the people's money for something it has already settled. The second is likewise of no value as it would only lead to complications and beside the contracts originally executed call for union labor. This brings the matter to the third proposition which is the courts. From present indications, the city officials are working in this direction and it is the ardent wish of every Plainfielder that the legal adjustment be made as soon as possible.

The International Union, in its letter, hinted that the courts would be the only way out of the difficulty. If this is the case those to blame for the hindrance of the work will receive their full measure of punishment as it is clearly evident that someone has been trying to hold up the city. There are many facts that have not been given to the public as yet but when the time comes they will be disclosed. The City Hall committee and all the other officials connected with the matter are doing their utmost to bring about an amicable adjustment of the entire controversy, but if the legal steps are the only way to do it they will accept the challenge. In this proceeding they will doubtless find every Plainfield taxpayer behind them, as the people of this city do not appreciate being made a goat of for any one person or set of persons.

LIEUTENANT APGAR PLAINFIELD'S PRIDE.

No promotion in military circles that has come about through Federal activity has been received with more approbation by Plainfielders than that of Sergeant George L. Apgar to be second lieutenant. Word to this effect came from Anniston the past week and to say that it met with genuine enthusiasm on the part of the people of this community is expressing it mildly. The prediction has been made that this one advancement will do more to stimulate enthusiasm and enlisting in the ranks than any other Federal commission issued from Washington.

Lieutenant Apgar is an example of what a young man can do in army circles through merit alone. He is a Plainfield boy who was too young to enlist in the Spanish War but who was fired by the patriotism that was rampant at the time. Three years later, when steps to organize Company K were taken, he was one of the first to realize the importance of the movement and offered to join. He was accepted after the usual preliminaries and from the very first night that Company K became a reality he was one of its most devoted supporters. Since then, he has stuck to the ranks although practically every man who started with him has been relegated to the veteran class. He took part in all the organization's maneuvers at Sea Girt, became so proficient in marksmanship that the State decorated him with medals and showed at every stage of the game that he was a soldier, born and bred. He was advanced to corporal, where he remained for a long time through no fault of his own and later was made a sergeant.

The supreme test for this typical young militiaman came when Company K was ordered from Sea Girt to Trenton, the first step before moving on to Camp McClellan. All married men in the ranks were given the privilege of returning home under the dependency act, an offer which was accepted by many. Not so with Sergeant Apgar, however, despite the fact that he has a wife and children who rely upon his for support.

"For sixteen years," said he, "I have accepted all that Company K had to give and now, just at the time when she needs me most, I would be a 'piker to drop out.' No, Sir, I have made provision for my family and I intend to see this thing through to the finish."

That's the kind of spirit people so often quote as having existed in '76. It still exists today but it remains for men in the ranks like Lieutenant Apgar to demonstrate that it did not die out with the battle of Bunker Hill or the evacuation at Yorktown. There was no "pull," no "drag" behind this young Plainfielder. He had his loved ones to consider but when it came to the time that his country needed him, he placed all that was dear to him to one side in order to answer duty's call. It is just such young fellows as these who put the flush of shame on blustering patriots who either want a commission immediately or fall back on family ties as an excuse to keep them from doing their bit. Plainfield is mighty proud of Lieutenant Apgar and trusts that in the days to come he will show Uncle Sam what a militia boy can do if taken at his face value. The sixteen years of hard training he has received is bound to stand him in good stead, making him an important factor in the huge machine that will soon be pushing its relentless way across the French boundary into Germany and stopping at naught until Prussian autocracy has been obliterated from the earth.

WHY EVERY VOTE SHOULD BE COUNTED.

If the Plainfield Common Council is to receive an expression of opinion, as was the original idea when the vote on the excise referendum was first proposed, it is absolutely essential that every vote cast on November 6, together with those arriving from soldiers later, should be counted. Just what difference a pencil mark put in the wrong place opposite a candidate's name has to do with a man's view on the Plainfield saloon question is hard to conjecture. There were scores of ballots thrown out for one simple reason or another just because the maker transgressed a State law but in doing so the city fathers were not receiving the expression they were after. It is all right of course to ignore the vote as far as candidates are concerned but where the "Yes" or "No" is clearly defined it means an answer from one more citizen.

It is understood on good authority that a considerable portion of the 156 votes discarded were mailed by Plainfield men in various branches of Uncle Sam's services and reached this city too late to be counted on November 6. They are now in the hands of the election officers and it remains with Judge Bergen to decide whether or not they shall be included in the canvass which begins today. In other parts of the State election boards accepted the ballots an hour or more after the polls had closed and it is asserted that in some instances they were tabulated the next day. If this is so, why have not Plainfield soldiers a right to express their opinion on a matter of great importance just the same as their colleagues voted for friends at home. One instance has been reported where a soldier's letter addressed to a local councilman was delivered at a neighbor's home and remained there until he returned from New York shortly before 7 o'clock election night. Realizing the importance of the missive, the receiver hastened to the councilman, to hand it over before it was too late. The latter hurried to the polling place as soon as possible but reached there five minutes after seven. In consequence, the soldier failed to exercise his right of suffrage and what he had to say on the question that will concern him when he returns to private life was made null and void.

Similar circumstances have been repeatedly uncarthed since the official figures showed that Plainfield had gone dry by one vote. It is known that 156 ballots were not included that voiced an expression on the excise referendum and also the two-platoon referendum, but how many more are there that have not been located at the present time? The soldier boys are certainly entitled to vote and the Common Council should be informed of their views before taking such a drastic step as is now contemplated. Justice Bergen is a man of many years' experience in legal matters and with his sense of fairness, it is not at all improbable that he will permit the introduction of the ballots that were not counted last week. If this is done there is little doubt but what the close result of last week's polling will undergo a change.

HANDING A JOLT TO THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

The Plainfield Auto Tire Company's sudden and unexpected advertising of conditions on Watchung avenue shows what can be done when publicity is given to a matter which citizens "kick" about but without accomplishing anything. Everyone knows that it was an absolute injustice to automobile owners and others to have East Fifth street closed for 150 days and keep Watchung avenue in an impassable condition but it seemed as though the suffering public was content to take it out in disgruntled remarks. Fifth street was finally opened and there is no telling how long conditions would have remained the same on Watchung avenue but for the Plainfield Auto Tire Company's newspaper crusade. Those who want further evidence should see the activity now being displayed on the block between East Fourth and East Fifth streets.

Responsibility for the interference with traffic rested primarily with the Public Service Corporation. This concern held back the paving work because it failed to go ahead with its double tracking and no amount of prodding on the part of Street Commissioner Gavett could induce the superintendents to "get a move on." Mr. Gavett is without doubt the most painstaking and conscientious official Plainfield has ever had, but single handed, he was unable to cope with the corporation that sees how far it can go before somebody calls a halt. The contract for the laying of brick on East Fifth street called for its completion in fifty days and that is plenty long enough to shut off traffic from a busy thoroughfare. When it remained closed seventy-five days and then 100 days the street committee of the Common Council should have taken the necessary steps to find out what was the trouble. Nothing was done, however, and finding that it had had no interference the Public Service Corporation decided to do the same thing on Watchung avenue. It reckoned not on the alert Plainfield Auto Tire Company and the jolt it got in consequence caused a stir seventeen miles north to Newark. There are quite a few men working on Watchung avenue now and the street may be opened in two weeks. Why could not the Council have accomplished this instead of letting private citizens fight municipal battles?

Film Companies Aid In Own Supervision

That a commercial enterprise in which millions of capital is invested should voluntarily place itself under the control of a social organization with a view to its own regulation, is unique in American industry. The enterprise is the motion picture industry. The social organization is the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures of New York city, which passes upon more than ninety-nine per cent. of all the photoplays exhibited in this country. That the experiment of this type of regulation has met with success, is indicated by the service rendered and the increasing cooperation of producing companies.

The pictures are reviewed by committees of unpaid volunteers meeting from day to day. The results of their examinations of pictures are bulletined and transmitted weekly to public officials in every part of the country who are interested in the regulation of motion pictures. Provided with advance information, they are enabled to take what action they deem called for, whenever action is necessary, regarding pictures which may be brought to their communities. Among the cities which rely upon it for this service are Boston, Providence, Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport, Waterbury, Ashville, Richmond, Norfolk, Raleigh, Atlanta, Savannah, Birmingham, Mobile, Chattanooga, Louisville, Memphis, Dallas, Houston, Milwaukee, Des Moines, Syracuse, Rochester, Detriot, Omaha, Denver, San Francisco, Seattle, Spokane, Pasadena. These cities are thus enabled to supervise motion picture entertainments with a minimum of expense and effort and in a manner recognized by all concerned as just and reasonable. The principle of home rule is thus made effective and external regulation unnecessary. The possibility of friction is removed.

Among those who are connected with its activities are Ralph Folks, Commissioner of Public Works, New York city; Burdette G. Lewis, Commissioner of Correction, New York city; W. P. Capes, director of State Bureau of Municipal Information of the New York State Conference of Mayors and other City Officials; the Rev. Dr. Frank Oliver Hall, New York city; Lee P. Hanmer, director of the Department of Recreation of the Russell Sage Foundation; Roland Haynes, of the Committee on Recreation of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, New York city; Henry E. Jenkins, District Superintendent of Schools, New York city; and Edward F. Stanton, director of the Peoples Institute, New York. Its Advisory Committee includes well-known persons in different parts of the country who are interested in motion pictures. Among them are the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn; Shailer Mathews, of Chicago, Ill.; Miss Mary Gray Peck, of Geneva, N. Y.; Dr. Albert Shiels, Superintendent of Schools, Los Angeles, Cal.; Robbins Gilman, of Minneapolis; Anson Phelps Stokes, secretary of Yale University, New Haven; Felix Adler; Prof. Franklin H. Giddings; Hamilton Holt, editor of the "Independent;" Percy Mackaye; the Rev. Dr. Frank Mason North; Jacob H. Schiff, and Oscar S. Straus, of New York city, and Samuel Gompers, of Washington, D. C.

In the course of the year 1916, it reviewed 4,113 different pictures, and 9,180 reels. Early last winter it decided to pass no "white slave films" or photoplays showing the nue. This action, based on public opinion as gathered by a questionnaire sent throughout the country, has had a marked affect upon the character of motion pictures made since that time.

The Board does not review pictures for any particular audience, but tries to judge as to the real effect of each film on the composite audiences which will see it. While it is not responsible for posters and other advertising which may be given out concerning motion pictures, yet it is endeavoring through cooperation with the Advertisers' Association of the industry to see that advertising regarding pictures does not misrepresent.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER FOR REV. FATHER McDONALD

Watchung Assembly, Fourth Degree of the Knight of Columbus, completed arrangements last night for a testimonial dinner to be given in honor of Rev. Father Joseph S. McDonald, former curate of St. Mary's church, who is now a chaplain in the regular army with Camp Dix as his present station. The affair will take place in Columbus Hall next Wednesday night, November 21, and from present indications will be attended by from 100 to 150 diners. Rev. Fathers Bogan, Hennessey and Mahoney, of St. Mary's church, and Rev. Fathers Hart, Campbell and Baldwin, of St. Joseph's church, will be special guests.

H. P. Greenwood has been selected to act as toastmaster and addresses will be made by Father McDonald and many of those present. It is believed that Colonel Quinn, of the regiment to which Father McDonald is attached, may be able to attend the dinner as the guest of Father McDonald and if so will tell of the work now going on at the big cantonment. Musical numbers will form a portion of the program.

The committee from Watchung Assembly which is arranging the affair is composed of C. J. Regan, F. P. Burke, T. J. Meaney, J. J. Carty and M. D. O'Keefe.

SUGGESTS THAT GERMAN PRISONERS DO ROAD WORK

A suggestion has been made that the 2,000 German prisoners now interned in the South be used in Government road building, working under the provisions of the Chamberlain-Dent military highway bill, which will come up for consideration at the regular session of Congress next month.

It is not possible for the Secretary of Agriculture under the provisions of the Federal Aid Road Act, which distributes $85,000,000 among the several States during a five-year period, to offer any cooperation in the premises, and the only method of handling the situation is to give authority to the War Department so that its engineering corps can get on a job which it is generally admitted is now being sadly neglected.

That main roads of rugged construction are prime necessities in facilitating the work of organizing the National Army, in addition to serving effectively in getting farm products to principal shipping points, has been strongly emphasized in various parts of the country since the bill was introduced.

Besides, the American Automobile Association and the American Association of State Highway Officials, which organizations were mainly responsible for the introduction of the measure, and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, good roads associations and commercial bodies in many States are going on record as favoring the giving of authority to the Secretary of War so that the War Department can concern itself with the substantial improvement of highways which enter into present and possible future military movements.

Since many of the army cantonments are located in Southern States, it was natural that the Southern Appalachian Good Roads Association, in its recent annual meeting at Nashville, should decide to lend its energies toward the Chamberlain-Dent bill. But the concern in the matter is not confined to Southern States, for not long ago the Governor of New Jersey appealed to the Quartermaster General for Federal help in connection with the principal roads leading into the Burlington county cantonment.

HOW TO HELP THE KAISER.

One can help the Kaiser very much
In little ways,
Accept these few suggestions to aid
his troubled days.
Eat a hearty breakfast, the sort you always do,
Take three lumps of sugar instead of merely two;
Glance through the morning papers,
ignoring those appeals
That foHow, earnest mendicants, on one another's heels.
Why should one spoil a pleasant day with things that touch the heart
Since every penny one withholds helps Wilhelm do his part?
But read instead the pleasant bits,
advertisements that shine
With laces, furs and pretty frocks—and choose your place to dine:
Put in an easy afternoon upon the Avenue.
A matinee, a cup of tea,—these help, they really do—
And when the lights of evening burn and you have wined and dined
Go hear a German opera that elevates the mind;
And once at home sit down in peace before your glowing log
And knit a cunning sweater for your darling little dog.
So do your bit for Germany in these unfriendly days—
One can help the Kaiser very much
in little ways.

Vigilantes.

5,000 Presents for "Sammies" in France

Five thousand Yuletide boxes are ready for the Santa Claus ship that soon will brave the submarines. Three hundred thousand crates and chests of gifts will be gathered there before the ship sails.

The censor is hard at work. Contents of the Christmas packages, packed by loving hands at home, must be thoroughly investigated lest some spy smuggle a bomb among the gifts—a bomb marked "Merry Christmas and "Happy New Year."

Perishable goods are barred. They must all be removed.

A stern-faced army colonel presides today over the work of censoring. Some of the boxes were found to be broken—their goods mingled in a jumble. Whenever perishables were removed—chestnuts, fruits and the like—the colonel ordered them sent to a hospital. Then he set about rustling up some gift to replace them. No Sammy will find himself forgotten when reveille calls on Christmas morning if the officers at this Atlantic port can help it. They have spent their own money and have done and are doing everything possible to see that gifts "deleted by censor" are replaced.

Knitted socks by the thousands are going to the Americans abroad in these Christmas boxes. Then there are home knitted sweaters, wristlets, helmets, mouth organs, games, trench mirrors, trench kits, smokes, periscopes, compasses, mittens, books, playing cards, khaki handkerchiefs, wrist watches, family albums with pictures of the folks at home, tiny phonographs and innumerable other devices for the comfort and amusement of Pershing's lads.

Whenever it was found necessary to remove an article the censor placed a little printed slip in the box saying that something had been taken out.

To one side was a heap of already badly broken boxes. Carpenters were tinkering with them, or roping them, doing everything possible to make them hang together until they reach the trenches.

There was another heap of boxes lacking addresses. On some the labels had peeled off. On others the name had been obliterated, or the address was insufficient. A corps of men is at work trying to ascertain to whom these gifts are consigned.

Fifty men work 12 hours a day inspecting each box as it is received. Each is given a serial number and a record kept of the man to whom it is consigned and the sender.

The officers in charge issued an appeal today for small wooden boxes in which to repack articles that might be damaged in transit. For shipping many small boxes are being placed in big crates. These are swung down into the hold of the battleship-gray steamer with its frowning guns fore and aft. Arrived in France the crates will be loaded aboard military trains, hurried to American headquarters, and there distributed to each unit in the expeditionary force.

Mr. McCann Gives Explanation of New Motor Vehicle Law

Plainfield's auto license inspector, James J. McCann, finds an important phase of his work explaining the new motor truck law which takes effect the first day of January. Mr. McCann is endeavoring to have every truck owner understand that no longer will trucks be licensed according to their horsepower, as with pleasure cars, but according to the weight of the truck and the load it is capable of carrying.

Mr. McCann's office on East Fourth street, just off Park avenue, is one of the forty-three places in the State where owners of motor vehicles are accommodated in obtaining their permits. It is these forty-three places that collect an annual revenue of something like $2,000,000 from the motor vehicle owners of the State.

The new license tags are expected the first of December, and Mr. McCann seeks to correct, as far as possible, the public's habit of waiting until the last minute before acting. The new tags must be on the cars by the first of January. More than ever the State is desirous of preventing applicants with impaired vision, defective hearing and under the 18-year age limit from obtaining driver's licenses. Practical tests are thus provided and those obtaining their licenses in Plainfield must first go to Newark and be examined by the inspector, who accompanies them on a short trip to note their ability in the handling of a car.

An interesting feature of the new truck law is that it includes jitneys. The law has been drafted to especially include motor vehicles used as jitneys and, commencing this year, all jitney owners must pay the same rates for licenses as the owners of commercial trucks. The fees run from $15 for a vehicle whose gross weight and carrying capacity is 4,000 pounds up to $59 for one which has a gross weight and carrying capacity of more than 25,000 pounds.

Persons or concerns anticipating the purchase of trucks should obtain from the State Motor Vehicle Department the pamphlet containing a full interpretation of the new law, which gives the gross wheel load in pounds and maximum speed in miles per hour for commercial motor and motor-drawn vehicles equipped with tires of a given size and diameter.

Some of the definitions given by Mr. McCann of the terms used in the law and important parts of the motor license law follow:

"Commercial motor vehicle," as used in this act, shall include every type of motor driven vehicle used for commercial purposes on the highways, excepting such vehicles as are run only upon rails or tracks.

"Motor drawn vehicles," as used in this act, shall include trailers, semi-trailers, or any other type of vehicle drawn or propelled by a motor-driven vehicle.

"Trailer," as used in this act, is a vehicle of more than two wheels, without motor power, drawn or propelled by a motor vehicle.

"Semi-trailer," as used in this act, is a two-wheeled vehicle, without motor power, drawn or propelled by a motor vehicle.

"Pneumatic tire," as used in this act, is a rubber tire in which the air chamber has a cross-section area of at least 50 per cent. of the total cross-section of the tire and air chamber combined, and which depends upon the sustaining power of compressed air therein to support the load.

"1. No commercial motor vehicle or motor drawn vehicle will be licensed where the outside measurement of same is more than 96 inches in width.

"2. The height of all commercial motor vehicles and motor drawn vehicles, including load, shall be limited to 12 feet, 2 inches.

"3. The extreme over-all length of commercial motor vehicles shall not exceed 36 feet, 6 inches.

"4. All commercial motor vehicles or motor-drawn vehicles shall be equipped with rubber tires, and no commercial motor vehicle or motor-drawn vehicle shall be equipped with metal tires that may be in contact with the surface of the road, nor shall any such vehicle be equipped with any tires which may have a partial contact of the metal with the surface of the road. As provided for, however, in Section 6 of the Motor Vehicle Act, tires may be fitted with chains to prevent skidding, when the roads, streets and highways are slippery because of rain, snow, ice, oil or manner of construction.

"6. Not more than one trailer or semi-trailer shall be allowed to be drawn by any commercial motor vehicle at the same time.

"7. No commercial motor vehicle shall be used on the public highways unless it has on the left-hand side of the chassis, in plain view, a metal plate giving the following information:

Maker's name,
Number,
Model,
Motor number,
Weight of vehicle .....pounds
Allowable load .....pounds
Gross weight .....pounds
Maximum speed .....miles per hour

"8. Every commercial motor vehicle or motor-drawn vehicle used on the public highways carrying loads extending beyond the outside dimensions of such vehicle shall have displayed at the outside extremities of load red flags by day, which shall not be less than twelve inches square, and red lights by night, and they shall be so hung as to present a full view of drivers of approaching vehicles."

Lone Democrat on Freeholders' Board

When the newly-elected Board of Freeholders meets at noon on January 1, 1918, the board will consist of twenty-one Republicans and one Democrat, the lone representative of the Democratic party being David H. Tremley, of Rahway. The freeholders will organize on that day and then adopt a temporary budget so it may proceed with the business of the county.

It is believed that Director George C. Teller will be reelected by the incoming board for the ensuing term. No other names thus far have been mentioned for the place.

County Collector Nathan R. Leavitt and County Attorney Frank J. Blatz will hold over, their terms not having expired.

The term of County Physician F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood, expires and the board will have to decide the question as to who will be the county physician for the next term.

As there is but one Democrat on the board the naming of committees may present a problem. It would be physically impossible for Mr. Tremley to represent the minority party on each committee.

S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, will retire from the board this year after being freeholder from Plainfield since 1901. He will be succeeded by former Postmaster Elias H. Bird, who became a candidate when Mr. Wilbur decided to make another try for the G. O. P. shrievalty nomination. The other freeholder from Plainfield is former Mayor James F. Buckle, who was elected last year.

CREDIT MEN VS. DEADBEATS.

Two Great Organization Waging Crusade in America.

A business concern has no more important attache than its credit man. He may not be as well known to the general public, as some other employe, but he is a veritable Nemesis to the deadbeats of trade and to those buyers who try to make charge accounts with the sole purpose or hope of getting away with the goods without paying, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

There are two great organizations of these credit men—one composed of manufacturers, wholesalers and banks, which recently held its National convention in Kansas City, and the other made up generally of the credit men of department stores and smaller retail establishments—both working to the same end, of reducing the credit system to a science, thereby reducing the losses from bad charge accounts and making it possible to sell merchandise to honest customers at less price. The last mentioned association, the Retail Credit Men's National Association, meets in Cleveland next week.

The giving of credit is a courtesy extended by merchants to those who consider it a convenience and appreciate it. When this courtesy is abused and payment is not made for merchandise received, it necessarily adds to the cost of doing business, and eventually compels the honest buyer of goods to carry the loss. Therefore, if the objects of the Retail Credit Men's Association are secured, and the loss in retail stores is reduced by reason of restrictions thus thrown about persons seeking dishonest advantage, the merchants will be saved money, and will be able to reduce prices to their honest customers.

It, therefore, is to the interest of every honest patron of merchandise distributors to cooperate wherever they can with the credit men in locating and disclosing to the public all persons who are in any way attempting to cheat the retail or wholesale store through false statements for the purpose of establishing temporary credits until they can get away with the unpaid-for merchandise.

In other words, the credit men's crusade is one in which all honest persons need to stand together, and with full cooperation.

"Every city has its motto, and Detroit's is 'f. o. b.'"

How well aware of this fact are local people who, at any time in their lives, have interested themselves in the purchase of an automobile.

And if it wasn't Detroit that had "f. o. b." between it and the catalogue price of the car, it was some equally far distant city.

But—"Time changes customs" and Plainfield people haven't been forgotten in the progress of the ages.

Today an automobile prospect in this city can still listen to "f. o. b. Detroit," but he can also hear "f. o. b. Grant Avenue and Front Street. Yes, sir, it's made right in your own home town.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

MISS NOEL J. BULLOCK.

One of the best impressive funeral services held in Plainfield in many years took place in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon, when the last sad rights were conducted over the body of Miss Noel Jeanette Bullock, for thirty-two years a supervising principal in the city schools. Her death came last Sunday after a long illness from a complication of troubles, the demise bringing sorrow to scores of friends to which she was familiarly known and loved. The end occurred at her residence on West Sixth street, where she had been a patient sufferer during the long ordeal that drew closer the hearts of every one who knew her.

It was intended to have Rev. Dr. John Oberlin Zelie, Miss Bullock's pastor and close friend for many years, conduct the service at the church but an unforeseen circumstance called the clergyman out of the city at an hour just previous to the time set for the assemblage. It was his desire, however, to have some part in the obsequies and accordingly held a short prayer service at the home in the morning. A gathering of intimate friends and relatives was present and the words of the kindly minister brought solace to the sorrowing circle.

At the church the service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, who had also been numbered among Miss Bullock's closest friends. He was in a position to tell of the great sacrifices she had made in keeping to her work, giving the best that was in her for the benefit of the younger generation that was to make future parents and citizens. In the course of his remarks he said:

"Her beautiful Christian character, as has been her quick understanding and far reaching sympathy, will cause many in Plainfield which she loved to rise up and call her blessed through the years to come. And if a further word were needed it would be that this noble woman consecrated went about doing good, for hers was, indeed, in the highest and truest sense a life devoted to loving service."

During the service Miss Roxanna Love, a teacher in the North Plainfield schools and at one time a pupil under Miss Bullock's instruction, presided at the organ. Charles A. Lewis, supervisor of music in the public schools, sang two solors, "Crossing the Bar" and "The Homeland." The floral tributes formed a massive band about the casket. They ranged from small bouquets contributed by little children who held Miss Bullock in deep reverence, to large set pieces from the Board of Education, teaching corps and individual friends.

Burial was in Hillside cemetery the following acting as pall bearers: Archibald Cox, D. B. van D. Hedges and Benjamin W. Evans, of the Board of Education; Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools; Dr. A. F. Van Horn, medical director of schools; Charles L. Lewis, musical director of the schools; Dr. Norman H. Frobasco and Prof. John Cottrell, of the New York public schools.

Miss Bullock was born in Leyden, Mass., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Bullock, natives of Vermont. Her family was one of educators as ancestors and relatives had been engaged for years in various branches of instruction. After completing her normal school course, Miss Bullock began her career as teacher in the schools at Attleboro, Mass., to which city her parents removed when she was a young girl. From there she went to Attleboro, Vt., where her thoroughness and manner of transmitting learning attracted the attention if Miss Dana, at that time on of the foremost private school principals in the Eastern part of the United States. She induced Miss Bullock to join the teaching corps of her academy at Morristown, where she remained for a number of years. While a member of the faculty she had the daughters of many famous Americans numbered among her pupils, one of them being Miss Florence Nast, daughter of Thomas Nast, the famous cartoonist of Civil War days, and another Miss Elkins, daughter of Senator Stephen B. Elkins.

It was in 1885 that Miss Julia Bulkley, then supervisor of the Plainfield schools, learned of Miss Bullock and offered her the principalship of the Franklin School. She accepted and came here that year. It was a coincidence that Miss Caroline A. Barber, also a Massachusetts graduate, joined the Franklin teaching corps at the same time as head of the first primary grade and the two instructors began a friendship which remained steadfast until the moment of Miss Bullock's death. Their companionship was almost inseparable! They not only made their home together and enjoyed each other's company in their hours of recreation but also traveled together in this country and Europe. The cooperation carried on between the two in their respective work proved beneficial to the entire school and the Franklin building reached a standard of efficiency that has remained to this day. Miss Bullock taught the sixth grade for the greater part of her career in Plainfield and many of the present day men and women of today are numbered among those who profited by her educational ability.

Before the beautiful new Evergreen Avenue School was completed the Board of Education decided that Miss Bullock should be its principal in recognition of her splendid efforts in behalf of the community's educational interests. When the building was ready for occupancy in May, 1916, the transferral toow place. Miss Bullock was then supervising the Franklin, Stillman and Whittier departments but entered her new field with the same zeal and enthusiasm that marked her local beginning in 1885. In meant more to her than people can realize to find that her health was so greatly impaired that early this year she had to retire from active duties. It was her belief that a good rest would place her in a position to return, then continuing the work she had mapped out for the corps in the new building. Her ailments developed such complications, however, that it was afterward realized that she would be unable to complete the plans she had so carefully laid. She was the dean of the teaching profession in Plainfield when her useful and active life was terminating and practically every adult in the city realizes what a great loss the school interests have suffered.

Miss Bullock was a life-long member of the Presbyterian church. She joined the Crescent Avenue church on coming to Plainfield and had been a most devoted attendant. Her only near surviving relatives are two brothers, Marion I. Bullock, of New York city, and former Councilman William Starr Bullock, of East Second street.

MRS. MINNIE BROWN HURTT.

Mrs. Minnie Brown Hurtt, a native and resident of this city practically all of her life, died early Sunday morning at the home of her sister, Miss Mary A. Brown, of Washington avenue. She had been ailing several weeks with heart trouble and complications but her death was unexpected. She appeared to be resting comfortably Saturday night, but when her sister went to her room in the morning she had passed away.

Mrs. Hurtt was born in Plainfield and with the exception of a short time at Manasquan always resided her. Her husband was a well known Jersey Central conductor and died suddenly some years ago as his train was approaching Elizabeth. At the time of his death, Mr. Hurtt left beside his wife, two sons and a daughter, of whom the daughter is now the only member of the family living. She is Mrs. Julius Ehrhard, of Newark, formerly Miss Grace Hurtt. Her brothers were, Lewis Hurtt, who was killed in 1916 while working as a New Jersey Central brakeman, and Charles Hurtt, who passed away in September, 1915. The latter was an expert swimmer and was widely known through his work as life guard at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Hurtt was a member of the First M. E. church, where she was a regular attendant for many years. She was a woman of kindly disposition, devoted to her family but never too busy to lend assistance to any neighbor in distress. Her acquaintanceship in the city and borough was unusually wide. Beside the daughter mentioned, her only surviving relatives are three sisters, Miss Mary A. Brown, Mrs. T. Armstrong and Mrs. L. J. Denton, all of this city; and two brothers, Stephen Brown, of Plainfield, and Frank Brown, of Whitehouse. Another brother, Jeremiah D. Brown, died about two months ago at his home, 1159 South Second street. Mrs. Hurtt attended the funeral of her brother, and it was the last time she was able to be out of the ouse. Howard Armstrong, a member of Plainfield's quota at Camp Dix, is a nephew and fortunately was home last Saturday in time to see Mrs. Hurtt before death came.

The funeral was held at Miss Brown's home Wednesday afternoon and was attended by relatives and many friends. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson was in charge of the service and numerous floral pieces were contributed by friends of the family. Burial was in Hillside cemetery, six nephews acting as pall-bearers.

MRS. DOROTHEA TAYLOR.

Mrs. Dorothea Taylor, aged eighty-two years, widow of George Taylor, died Sunday at her home, 202 Grandview avenue, North Plainfield, from complications following a long illness. She was born in Germany, coming to this county when a child. The greater part of her life was spent in New York and Brooklyn, moving to North Plainfield eight years ago. She was a member of the German Lutheran church. She leaves two daughters, Miss Sarah Eaylor, at home, and Mrs. Isaac Kugelman, of New York, and two sons, W. D. Taylor, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Edwin Taylor, of Brooklyn. The funeral was held at the home Tuesday night in charge of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, and interment was made in the family plot in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, Wednesday.

JEFF JENSEN.

Jeff Jensen, aged forty-five years, died Wednesday in a sanitarium in the Bronx, New York, where he had been for the benefit of his health. His home was on Jenkins lane, North Plainfield. He is survived by

New Plan Will Speed Work at Standard Plant

Harry Bowers Mingle, president of the Standard Aero Corporation, which has just been made a $5,000,000 corporation to include the new Standard Aircraft Corporation, has called a meeting for this week of the board of directors of the new concern. These will elect officers and map out the work that is to be carried on in aiding the Government put thousands of flying machines in the European battle front. The incorporation was made in New York recently when articles were filed with the Secretary of State. The $5,000,000 capital specified is divided into $2,000,000 preferred and $3,000,000 of common stock.

The Standard Aircraft Corporation board of directors is composed of Harry Bowers Mingle, Charles H. Dey, C. Vernon Bradford, Daniel L. Meenan, Jr., and C. G. Stratt. The new company will carry on the commercial business of the old corporation on a more elaborate scale than ever before.

Harry Bowers Mingle, president of both corporations, formed the Standard Aircraft for the purpose of taking care of all commercial airplane business, while the Standard Aero will do experimental work and will devote its entire organization to the development of new and better airplanes for Government use. The Standard Aircraft Corporation starts business with millions of dollars worth of Government orders on the books. These are being filled as rapidly as possible at the old Plainfield plant and at the great new plant in Elizabeth. This latter plant represents an investment of more than $1,000,000 and when running at full capacity will be able to turn out sixty airplanes a week. In addition to the two main plants, the new corporation will continue to use the six smaller factories which are engaged in making parts. Together the Standard corporations employ more than 8,000 men and women, the latter numbering more than 1,000 and being fully organized in the wing-making departments.

While the Plainfield plant of the Standard Aircraft Corporation is one of the most complete in this country, the Elizabeth plant, with eighty-seven acres and seven large buildings having more than 240,000 square feet of floor space, is said to be the largest plant in the United States at which airplanes are built under one roof. This plant includes a sixty-acres flying field in addition to five acres of waterfront which is to be used in the development and testing of hydro-airplanes. This will allow shipment by water as well as by rail. A main line of railroad passes the property, from which sidings connect with the factory building.

Fifteen-Cent Steaks Not An Idle Dream, Plainfielders Say

Delmonico steaks at fifteen cents a piece and potatoes at a dollar a hundred weight may seem like a dream to Plainfielders laboring under high prices but according to "Jack" Slevin, of Franklin place, and George Webster, of Westervelt avenue, who have just returned from Colorado, they are absolute fact in that part of the West. Furthermore, they assert, all other foodstuffs are proportionately as reasonable and if it were not for the war tax on mail matter and the call of the draft board, the rural Colorado lands would be unaware of hostilities in Europe.

The unusual state of affairs is ascribed to the State's own productiveness which makes it possible to get "home grown" necessities before the profiteers have had a chance to get a "rake off."

Mr. Slevin and Mr. Webster have been away from Plainfield the past six months. During the most of that time they were located at Florence, twenty-four miles from Colorado Springs, where Mr. Slevin has extensive oil lands. He has had five wells opened up and so far has been getting splendid results. The oil industry is still in its infancy in the Florence section but a "boom" is on which bids fair to make it a rival of lower Texas. Expert drillers are receiving $8 a day and laboring men get from four to five dollars for eight hours' work.

The two Plainfielders left Colorado Springs the forepart of last week in a blinding snow storm. The thermometer fell sixty-five degrees in twenty-four hours and at one time stood twenty below. On reaching this city, via Chicago and Washington, the travelers felt as though they had gone from Alaska to Florida. Mr. Webster contemplates entering an officers' training camp but Mr. Slevin will return to Florence in December or not later than January. A brother of Webster's, Frank Webster, Jr., is now in France as a member of an engineering corps.

BEARDSLEY WRITES SENATOR-ELECT RUNYON

Ten Eyck R. Beardsley, who was the Democratic nominee for State Senator, has sent the following letter of congratulation to William N. Runyon, who defeated him:

"My Dear Senator: I congratulate you on your election. Since the voters of Union county have chosen a Republican to represent them, I am glad it happens to be you."

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

The Young People's Society of the German Reformed church held the annual bazaar and fair in the Sunday-school rooms last night. The attendance was good and liberal patronage was given the various booths and attractions. A portion of the proceeds will be donated the Red Cross for soldier relief work.

The Dutch Arms Band gave a testimonial dinner Tuesday night to Henry V. Kinney, one of its members who expects to be called to the colors in the near future. A. B. Cole acted as toastmaster and Mr. Kinney received a "cockney" sweater, the gift of the band. The presentation was made by Rev. John Y. Broek. Other speeches were made by Edmund D. Young, William Trembath, L. B. Bodine, Herbert C. Koch and Clarence F. Wheeler.

The Mt. St. Mary's College and Wardlaw School, it was announced Wednesday, have enrolled in the Junior Red Cross Society, and will join with the other schools of the city and in helping this work along. The senior class of the Plainfield Seminary has decided to give up its annual dance, and instead will contribute the expense of $140 to the work of the Red Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, of the borough, who were married on November 13, 1867, at Glen Gardner, observed their fiftieth anniversary of their wedding Tuesday. In the evening they were given a surprise gathering at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bird, of Mountain avenue. About forty friends were present in all.

The work of excavating Park avenue in preparation for bricking between Fourth and Seventh streets was completed this week. The concrete is now being laid and the actual paving will start within a few days. It is probable that this stretch will be opened for traffic about December 5. The work on Watchung avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, continues to drag along to the great annoyance and inconvenience of the public.

A number of Plainfield women who are members of the Equal Suffrage Association will attend the flag raising and dedication of the new Suffrage Clubhouse at Wrightstown tomorrow. The building is a comfortably furnished structure left from Camp Dix and is intended as a place where the soldier boys can meet their parents and friends during recreation hours.

The local police are searching for a daring robber who on Monday afternoon snatched a purse from the hands of Mrs. James Dunny, of 639 East Seventh street, as she was passing through West Second street, near Park avenue. The purse contained thirty-seven dollars. Mrs. Dunny was so dumb-founded by the audacity of the thief that she was unable to give chase but a woman on the opposite side of the street who witnessed the affair attracted the attention of a number of men. They went in pursuit of the fleeing man but he eluded them by running to the Jersey Central tracks and later getting in a back yard. A good description of the fellow was secured and it is believed he is an old offender who has served a jail term for the same offense.

Leo Kenny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kenny, of Watchung avenue, has gone to New Orleans to begin work as disbursing officer of the United States Shipping Board of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Mr. Kenny was formerly connected with the Wright-Martin Aeroplane Company at the New Brunswick plant.

Plainfield Lodge of Elks will hold an informal dance in the Watchung avenue clubhouse next Thursday night, November 22. Frank R. Emmens is chairman of the committee of arrangements and promises a delightful time to all attending.

The Queen City Social Club will hold a "barn" dance in Doyle and McCormack's studio on West Front street next Friday night, November 23. It will be the second social affair the club has conducted this season. Music will be furnished by Marks' Jazz Band and the committee makes the request that all attending wear appropriate costumes.

Mrs. N. J. R. Chandler, wife of Health Inspector Chandler, of the local Board of Health, addressed a meeting of the Plainfield Mothers' Association at the Public Library, Wednesday afternoon. She told of the American Public Health War conference held at Washington recently and afterward conducted a question box on "Housekeeping Problems."

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aud Society, the eleventh anniversary of the Evona chapel was celebrated at the chapel last night. Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, gave an anniversary address and music was furnished by an orchestra in charge of Mrs. J. C. Evans. Refreshments fere sedved in conclusion. The chapel started with a very small membership in 1906 but it had a steady and substantial growth.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Bryant, Lincoln and Emerson Schools has taken for its work this season the study of the Charity Organization and the Children's Home. Meetings are held on the second Wednesday of each month at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Bryant School.

William C. Acken, of Bernardsville, received a large number of "scatter" shot in the back while on a hunting trip near Liberty Corner last Saturday. Den J. Galbraith, of this city, who was a member of the hunting party, discharged his gun at a rabbit without noting that Mr. Acken was behind some bushes in the direction he aimed. The injured man was taken to his home, where it was found that his wounds were not erious. The physician in charge tates that the leaden missiles had practically spent their force before striking Mr. Acken and consequently did not penetrate into the flesh very deep. The physician also decided not to probe for the shot, and they will be allowed to remain, a proceeding that is often followed out in cases of this kind.

Mrs. P. S. Suffern, Mrs. Charles A. Rice and Mrs. D. Foster Npdike, all of this city, will return home tomorrow, after spending the week in Boston as delegates from the local Centenary church to the Golden Anniversary of the Woman's Board of Missions of that denomination.

The fall collection of paper by the Belgian Committee of the Red Cross will take place on Saturday, November 17, and all are urged to have their magazines, books and newspapers, separately and strongly tied, on their porches by 9 a. m. A committee from the library will take charge of any books and magazines collected, sorting out all that seem in any way valuable for the soldiers, and forwarding them through the proper agencies. Those who are willing to give the use of a car for all or a part of Saturday are asked to send their names to Miss Corey, telephone 1010, at once.

Because of a lack of patronage, the Suburban Tranist Company has discontinued its regular trips to Warrenville. Mount Bethel and Sterling, but will cover these points at the usual time on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The company is completing plans for a schedule between this city and Perth Amboy, the latter point not having been touched heretofore.

Plainfield Gets $15,312.25 In Franchise Taxes

Collector William R. Townsend is in receipt of a check from the State treasury in payment of Plainfield's share of the State corporation and franchise tax as levied by the State Board of Assessment and Taxation. This clay receives a total of $15,312.25, divided among the following corporations doing business locally: New York Telephone Company, $1,494.67; Plainfield-Union Water Co., $2,078.65; Postal-Telegraph Cable Company, 0.23; Public Service Corporation, electric department, $3,789.69; Public Service Corporation, gas department, $2,745.00; Public Service Corporation Railway Company, $5,193.98.

The basis of assessment is the gross receipts of the corporations for the year ending December 31, next, preceding. The tax is levied at the rate of two per cent. upon such gross receipts except in the case of street railway companies, upon which class of corporations the tax is levied at the rate of five per centum. This tax is apportioned among the various municipalities of the State in proportion to the value of the property occupying the public streets or high ways, and is collected in the same manner as other municipal taxes are collected.

The percentage of tax against all classes of corporations except street railway companies and companies whose receipts do not exceed $50,000 will be increased by one per cent. each year, beginning with the year 1918, until it reaches the maximum of five per cent. Assessments based upon returns made were levied against 305 corporations, and four individuals amounting in the aggregate to $1,588,247.77. The increase in tax over 1916 is $154,138.54.

The following will show the apportionment of this tax to the various municipalities of the State grouped by counties:

Atlantic, $40,660.16; Bergen, $406,710.80; Burlington, $38,523.30; Camden, $89,467.40; Cape May, $15,719.84; Cumberland, $17,586.75; Essex, $498,984.94; Gloucester, $13,813.36; Hudson, $343,611.05; Hunterdon, $3,657.23; Mercer, $69,941.74; Middlesex, $65,529.50; Monmouth, $55,576.92; Morris, $23,561.10; Ocean, $7,180.20; Passaic, $139,622.22; Salem, $6,492.33; Somerset, $16,101.61; Sussex, $2,230.67; Union, $118,846.38; Warren, $13,436.97; total, $1,888,247.77.

WEDDED AT ST. MARY'S.

Miss Mary Annie Kenny, of East Fifth street, and Joseph McCurry, stationed at Camp Dix, were married Saturday evening in St. Mary's church, Father Bernard M. Bogan performing the ceremony. The couple were attended by Peter Jonas and Mrs. Katherine Jonas, of North avenue, this city.

Letter Carriers of Three Counties in Consultation Here

Seventy letter carriers representing the offices at Perth Amboy, New Brunswick, Plainfield, Bound Brook and Somerville, gathered in Pythian Hall, this city, last Saturday night for the quarterly conference of the Tri-county Association of Letter Carriers. The meeting was in charge of President Cluney, of Perth Amboy, and proved of great benefit in getting the carriers better acquainted and enthused in favor of certain legislation now going on in behalf of this branch of government service. Numerous speeches were made, after which refreshments were served. The next gathering will probably be held in Bound Brook some time in February.

The Tri-count Association was formed about nine months ago. All of its members belong to the State Association but owing to the difficulty of attending the meetings of the latter there has been a lack of cooperation in the personnel. By organizing county or other branches it brings the men in closer touch with each other, thus enabling them to discuss important matters that will eventually, if carried out, result in bettering their positions. So far the movement has met with great success throughout the State.

At the gathering in this city Saturday night a resolution was passed endorsing the Congressional bill which calls for a re-classification of letter carriers' pay. This measure will be introduced at the next session. It was pointed out in the discussion Saturday night that the pay of the letter carriers stands today exactly as it was in 1907, although all other branches of the Postoffice service have received increases. In these ten years the purchasing value of the United States dollar has decreased by one-half, yet the men are supposed to continue their former mode of living. But the bill which is to be introduced and which will undoubtedly go through if the men in al parts of the country secure the proper support, the salaries of carriers will range from $1,000 for the first year to $1,500 as a maximum. Congressman John H. Capstick is one of the representatives who has faithfully promised his absolute support of the measure, which is known as the Madden bill.

Another resolution passed at the Plainfield meeting was to the effect that efforts should be renewed to bring about the retirement of superannuated postoffice employes. At this time there is no pension for this branch of Federal service and the letter carrier are working hard for Congressional aid.

Bauer Seeking Registrar's Job

Deputy County Register Edward L. Bauer has been prominently mentioned for the appointment of register of deeds in Union county to succeed Frank H. Smith, of this city, who on December 1 next will leave the office to become State Commissioner of Insurance and Banking. Mr. Bauer was in Plainfield yesterday enlisting the support of local political leaders to bear upon Governor Edge, with whom the appointment rests. Several other candidates have appeared on the horizon, mostly from Elizabeth, but at this time Mr. Bauer's chances seem best. He has been active in Union county affairs for many years and is thoroughly versed in the affairs of the register's office through his position as assistant to the register.

Mr. Smith's appointment was no surprise to Plainfielders as it has been currently rumored for several months that he would be the successor to George M. LaMonte, of Bound Brook, when the latter resigned. Mr. LaMonte has been wanting to leave the office for the greater part of the past year to straighten his business matters were demanding his closest attention. He is a Democrat and was appointed by Governor Fielder. The job pays $6,000 a year and Mr. La Monte's term would not have expired until 1919. Mr. Smith will serve out the unexpired two years and after that will undoubtedly be in line for a full appointment of three years.

The appointment of Mr. Smith is a course of satisfaction to Plainfielders as it makes him the first man from this city to get so important a State position. Mr. Smith has nearly always resided in Plainfield and he has been looked upon as an example of what perseverance and "push" can do for a young man who has only his own ability for a recommendation at the beginning of a political career.

Frank H. Smith, county register, has been active in the interests of the Republican party in Union county for more than eighteen years. His political career began with his election to the City Council in Plainfield in 1898. In 1900 he resigned from the municipal body and became tax collector. Four years later he resigned and was elected to the office of county register, which office he now holds, being twice reelected.

He was treasurer of the Union County Republican Committee one year and vice chairman for two years. He was later named chairman of this body. He held the chairmanship for many years, his leadership resulting in repeated Republican victories. He was succeeded by Judge William N. Newcorn.

Mr. Smith was born in Connecticut, in 1869. When he was fifteen years old he went into the office of the Potter Printing Press Company, of Plainfield, and remained there in various capacities for sixteen years. At the present time he is interested in several banking institutions.

He is a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the Myrtle Shrine, the Odd Fellows, the Red Men, the Elks and Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

Beside his political affairs, Mr. Smith has been active in other directions, in all of which he has been very successful. He is a director in the Plainfield Trust Company, president of the Rahway National Bank, member of the Eagle Fire Insurance Company, a member of the Union County Bankers' Association, a large stockholder in the Lawrence Portland Cement Company, and a member of the Home Real Estate Company, of Plainfield, which owns considerable property on Watchung avenue. The present site of the Elks' Club on Watchung avenue was owned by Mr. Smith and sold by him to the lodge.

180 JERSEY 'PHONE MEN NOW IN ACTIVE SERVICE.

One hundred and eighty New Jersey telephone men are now in military service. This fact the company has recognized by a large service flag bearing the numerals 180, outlined in stars, which is now hanging at the telephone building at 281 Washington street, Newark.

The New Jersey men are part of a total of 1,009 New York Telephone Company men in active service, who are honored by a service flag at the Telephone Company's headquarters building, 15 Dey street, New York city, which measures 24' x 40'. It was impossible to represent so many employes by separate stars, so the Telephone Cimpany adopted the expedient of using numeral outlined in blue stars on a white background, the figure 1,009 appearing on the flag at 15 Dey street, and the figure 180 on the flag at 281 Washington street.

At its division headquarters buildings in New York State, service flags are displayed showing the number of men from each division who are now in military service. While many of the telephone men are in the United States Signal Reserve Corps, where their telephone knowledge can be put to the best use, all branches of the services are represented.

Added recognition of the patriotic service of telephone workers will be given by honor rolls which will be placed in the Telephone Company's buildings, giving the names of the men from each building or the district it serves who are now in some branch of the army or navy.

County Leaders Lining Up for G. O. P. Plums

While State Senator-elect William N. Runyon and the three Union county Assemblymen-elect were taking part Tuesday in the Republican conference at Trenton, discussing plans regarding the organization of the next Legislature, there was considerable speculation at home as to whether or not Union county appointments and patronage will receive consideration. The call for the conference at Trenton was the signal for much discussion in Republican circles throughout the county as to who's who in the matter of plums to be passed out by Governor Edge.

It is taken for granted by almost everyone in touch with the political situation in the county that State Senator Carlton B. Pierce will be appointed judge of the Common Pleas to succeed Judge James C. Connolly. Judge Connolly's term expires in March along with those of Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein and his assistant, Martin P. O'Connor. The latest and what appears to be the most authentic information as regards the successor to Prosecutor Stein is that the honor will go to Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, of this city, who was assistant under Prosecutor C. Addison Swift.

The appointment of County Registrar Frank A. Smith as State commissioner of banking and insurance, announced elsewhere in the Record, will leave a vacancy to be filled by Governor Edge. Mr. Smith's deputy, Edward Bauer, who was a candidate for county clerk last year, may be considered as a likely choice. However, time will no doubt develop more than one Republican candidate for registrar.

With the county judgeship going to Cranford, the prosecutorship and the office of State banking commissioner to Plainfield, the surrogate to Wetshell, the sheriff to Cranford, the under-sheriff to Scotch Plains, Elizabeth Republicans active in the party councils are said to be a little uneasy over a situation which promises but few plums for Elizabeth. To balance the representation, Union county towns outside of Elizabeth will have in county offices. It is contended that the assistant prosecutor, judge of the District Court and the major share of the patronage that is to come through the State Senator and the three Assemblymen should be given over to Elizabeth. Summit and Rahway, with Elizabeth, of course, on the big end.

Around the courthouse this morning there was talk of Donald M. McLean, Republican county chairman, receiving consideration for either clerk of the Court of Chancery, which position is now held by Robert H. McAdams, or clerk of the Supreme Court.

Warner Is Now Union's Sheriff

James E. Warner, of Cranford, sheriff-elect of Union county, took the oath of office in the county clerk's office at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning before Judge James C. Connolly, of the Common Pleas Court. Mr. Warner's induction into office was witnessed by a large number of his friends, and probably the most interested spectator was ex-Sheriff Frederick Foote Glasby, who just thirty years before had been sworn in as sheriff.

The county clerk's office was decorated with floral pieces from numerous friends of the sheriff-elect, among them being a large rose piece from the Cranford Republican Club, a piece from the deputy sheriffs and several from friends.

Mr. Warner, after taking the oath and filing a surety company bond for $20,000, as required by law, announced the appointment of George H. Johnston, of Scotch Plains, as under-sheriff. Mr. Johnston was then sworn in by Judge Connolly.

Mr. Johnston has been prominent in county affairs for many years and his appointment as under-sheriff was forecasted.

Mr. Warner has been under-sheriff to Sheriff George C. Otto for the past three years and brings to the sheriff's office a knowledge of the official procedure that will be invaluable to him.

No change is made in the deputy sheriffs, as under a recent enactment they are all under civil service.

Judge Connolly, in a short speech, extended his congratulations to Sheriff Warner, wishing him success in his new office.

Mrs. J. E. Warner and daughter were among the interested spectators of the event.

ST. VITUS' DANCE NO BAR TO SELECTIVE SERVICE

Little things like walking in one's sleep or being afflicted with St. Vitus' dance have naught to do with a man's ability to fight in the new National Army, ruled a local examining board recently.

When a stalwart candidate informed the board he was afflicted with both "ailments" members winced. Then they considered the case and decided that he was "fit" for service. "But I might get up some night and walk right into the enemy's camp," argued the applicant.

"Then the St. Vitus' dance will come in handy," said a board member. "You can jump right out again."

State Authorities Deny Central's Plea For Smaller Crews

Denial was made recently by the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners of the application of the Central Railroad of New Jersey for permission to decrease the number of men constituting the crews operating certain trains covered by the full crew law, which is Chapter 190 of the laws of 1913.

The decision says in part that "we are unable on the proofs submitted to conclude that all 'through freights,' al 'fast freights' and all 'drag feights' do not require a sixth man. To make the oder sought by the company would result in permitting the company to exercise its judgment as to the size of al 'through,' 'fast' and 'drag freights,' and thereby wholly nullify the provisions of the statute."

"We are unable to deal with the particular trains specified in the company's petition," the decision continues, "because it offered no testimony to show that these individual trains do not require a sixth man. It relies entirely upon establishing the classification above mentioned, which would include the trains specified as well as other trains. We conclude, therefore, that the board cannot under the proof submitted authorize the withdrawal of the sixth man from all' through,' 'fast' and 'drag' freights, as petitioned by the petitioner, and that the petitioner should continue to operate such trains with crews of the size now required by law. The petition for such withdrawal will be denied."

The action of the railroad company was fought at several hearings held by the board at the State House and at the headquarters of the board in Newark by representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The Central Company requested authorization to the withdrawal from service of the sixth, or "full crew man" from certain passenger and freight trains required by law, the petition being filed pursuant to Chapter 94 of the Laws of 1917, which empowers the board either upon its own initiative or complaint in writing after hearing, or on notice to the petitioner, to direct any common carrier by railroad in this State to employ such number of employes on any of its trains, as the board shall deem necessary to afford safe, adequate and proper service for the protection of the public and the employes of said carrier. The railroads are prohibited from reducing the size of any train crew as required by law within the authorization of the board. Since the passage of the 1917 law, a number of the railroads of the State filed petitions to reduce the size of the train crews now required by the laws of 1913, and the present proceeding is the first of these petitions to be heard.

CAMP DIX WILL HAVE COMPLETE SANITARY UNIT

It was announced this week that a thorough understanding had been arrived at between the State Department of Health and Maj. Gen. C. W. Kennedy, commanding at Camp Dix, and as a result the State department has established a sanitary unit at Wrightstown consisting of three inspectors, a clerk and two automobiles. This undertaking was commenced long before the bad condition of roads returing to and from Camp Dix and the State finally determined to build the roads at its own expense without delay. It is believed that the federal government will provide a similar unit or its equivalent in the work of protecting the zone contiguous to the reservation.

In replying to Governor Edger after an exhaustive investigation on the establishing of the sanitary unit, Dr. J. C. Price, director of the State Board of Health, advises that it is his belief that the eating houses and food handlers should receive the vigorous and undivided attention of the medical staff whose services are offered by General Kennedy.

"I have reason to believe that a number of the men handling the food dispensed to both military and civilian population are affected with venereal disease," he said. "It is a most dangerous and dastardly situation and should be eliminated at once. I should be very glad to use all the power this department possesses to eradicate such an outrage. With the cooperation offered I trust sanitary conditions will be blotted out."

MR. PRINDLE DISTRIBUTING HIS 1918 CALENDARS.

Always on the job and desirous of keeping his friends strictly up-to-date, James E. Prindle, eastern passenger agent of the Norfolk and Western Railroad, is already distributing his 1918 calendars. As in former years they are printed in large numerals, but in keeping with the patriotic fervor of the day are in red, white and blue instead of black and red as heretofore. Mr. Prindle states that anyone who wishes one of these calendars may have it by sending five cents in stamps to cover mailing, to his home address, 212 East Fifth street, this city. The calendar for 1918 has December, 1917, included, so that it can be used the first of next month.

Anniston Men On Big "Hike"

What has been classed as the greatest military move the South has witnessed since General Sherman's famous march from Atlanta to the sea was participated in by the five former New Jersey National Guard Infantry regiments and Jersey's single regiment of field artillery last Monday morning. Headed by Brigadier General Charles W. Barber, the five Jersey regiments and one Delaware regiment, comprising the 113th and 114th National Army regiments of the fifty-seventh brigade, set out unheralded on a three-hour cross-country hike in full marching order early Friday morning. In a different direction the three regiments of field artillery of the fifty-fourth brigade participated in a similar movement headed by Colonel Quincy A. Gillmore, of Atlantic City.

Approximately ten thousand soldiers took part in the artillery march and seven thousand more were taken on the infantry grind. Colonel John D. Fraser commanded the 113th Infantry and Colonel Albert A. VanWalraven headed the 114th. Brigadier General William C. Rafferty, provision commander of the division and who is also commander of the artillery brigade, did not accompany the artillerymen, but his place at the helm was taken by Colonel Gillmore, the senior in command. New Jersey's heavy artillery regiment, the 110th, which comprises units from Atlantic City, Camden, East Orange, Newark, Trenton and Plainfield, was headed by Lieutenant Colonel Samuel G. Barnard, of Camden. Colonel Washington Bowie, Jr., led the 112th and Lieutenant Colonel William Meyers was in charge of the 111th.

The men marched in full equipment and were put to the first real test of the intensive training program. The results were gratifying to the commanding personnel, for the men held up well under the heavy strain and were in the best of condition upon their return to camp. Caissons and waxon trains were included in the line of march.

The big task of assigning the commissioned officers of the fifty-fourth depot brigade, following the disbandment of this unit, has been completed in the 114th Infantry by Colonel Van Walraven, and under the present plan of temporary assignmens all of the companies of the regiment are working with two or more captains.

The first battalion of the 114th, composed of old Fifth Infantry companies, has had its commissioned personnel swelled by the following officers: Company A, commanded by Captain Frederick E. Rohrbach—Captain Conrad Johnson; Company B, commanded by Captain Roscoe R. Johnson—Captain Guy H. Stanton; Company C, commanded by Captain Harry B. Doremus—Captains Charles R. Rady and Nelles C. Black; Company D, commanded by Captain John S. Cooke—Captain Leroy C. Speichts.

The Second Battalion, composed of old Third Infantrymen of Camden, has had the following added: Company E, commanded by Captain Walter L. Auten—Captain Francis P. Fainter; Company F, commanded by Captain Leonidas Coyle—Captain Roy R. Knight; Company G, commanded by Captain L. E. Angle—Captain Charles Hahn; Company H, commanded by Captain E. B. Stone—Captain J. Howard Hirst.

The Third Battalion, composed of men from the old Delaware infantry Regiment, has been assigned the following: Company I, commanded by Captain John P. Lefevre—Captain Jesse E. Moon; Company K, commanded by Captain J. McKay—Captain Charles E. Hummel; Company L, commanded by Captain Walter Ibert, Jr.—Captain Richard A. Cox; Company M, commanded by Captain R. B. Kelton—Captain Garnett C. McFerran.

Colonel Harry C. Jones, Lieutenant Colonel Albert G. Epes and Majors Thomas P. Perton, Joshua F. Bullitt, Harvey L. Jones and J. W. Leigh, of the old depot brigade, have been assigned to the field and staff of Colonel Van Walraven's command.

During the coming week Jersey and Delaware soldiers are due to launch out on a new field of modern warfare instruction. Captain George Backoff, of the British Army, has taken up his headquarters with Brigadier General Barber's brigade and he will introduce a course of sniping to the infantry regiments commanded by Colonel Fraser and Colonel Van Walraven. This department of instruction is classed by the English officers as one of the most important in the program of intensive training and it is planned to give the Blue and Gray division an immediate course of study in shooting angles, covering and other feats akin to sniping. The British officer has expressed himself as being very pleased with this cantonment and has classed it as ideal for training purposes.

The motion picture machine to be installed in the post exchange of the 104th Regiment of Engineers has arrived, and Captain George W. Mulheron, of Company C, is in charge of the detail of men making it ready for use. This exchange is one of the best on the reservation, and Captain J. Madison Hare, formerly of Scotch Plains, who has charge of the soldier activities held in connection with it, proposes to put on a weekly program of entertainment that will have no equal at Camp McClellan. Already the soldiers have opened a barber and tailor shop in the exchange and within another week the engineers will find every kind of business enterprise they desire to patronize right in their regimental canteen. The enlisted men who are doing the tailoring and shaving perform the work at normal rates and the soldiers are beginning to find out that they are given a better degree of satisfaction in their home canteen than in the town of Anniston.

A lecture entitled "The History of Communication," will be given by Mr. Wilson, of the New York Telephone Company, at the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church on Monday evening, November 19, before the Men's Club. Mr. Wilson will use more than fifty stereopticon slides to illustrate his talk. The public is cordially invited.

From the days of the Pharaohs to the present many systems of communication have been employed, but none were really satisfactory until electricity was harnessed for use in the systems which we now employ. Mr. Wilson will describe communicating methods that date back 3500 years and will trace the development of modern mediums such as the telephone, the telegraph, the wireless telephone and the wireless telegraph, which enable us to communicate with speed and accuracy over distances that would seem incredible to the ancients.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER WILL BE BURIED AT NEWTON.

Arrangements for the funeral of Martin Lantz, a former well-known Plainfielder, who died suddenly in Newark, Wednesday morning, had not been completed yet last night owing to the non-arrival of relatives. The service will probably take place at a Newark undertaking parlor tomorrow afternoon and burial will be in the family plot at Newton, Sussex county.

Mr. Lantz was about sixty years old and was employed on the local trolley lines for a long time. He left here in 1911 after purchasing a farm at Pattenberg, but four years ago gave up this place and located at Newark. He is survived by one brother and a sister.

didn't go off. He then drew his revolver and shot Johnson twice, killing him instantly.

Miller's testimony was assailed by Prosecutor Stein, who made him admit that he wasn't in the habit of carrying a revolver only when on a fishing trip, and then to "shoot fish in the water." He made the further admission that it was Miss Elizabeth Johnson, an employe of the restaurant, who had made the trouble between the two men. Miller is married, but does not live with them. He denied any relation with the Johnson woman, however, which the State attempted to show.

Miller testified a man named "Smith," who was only in Plainfield for a short time, told him, Johnson said: "I will get that man Miller and fix him." He has been unable to find Smith since. He believed he had gone to the war. Miller also said Johnson had hold of him and that is why he didn't run away. As to being afraid of Johnson, Miller said "I am not afraid of any man."

Character witnesses were introduced by Attorney Wilson on behalf of Miller, they all testifying that he was of good character. Among those who testified was Rev. Daniel Y. Campbell, of the Calvary Baptist church. He said he knew of Miller, and that he was of good repute, because the deacons often discussed the members of the congregation at their meeting. He knew nothing bad about him, for in the church he was active and considered a good member. Deacon of the church, Alfred Barnes, colored, testified along the same lines, as did Theodore Van Sant, William H. Abbott and Henry Walker.

James Maloney testified as to the struggle the olice had to wrest the revolver from Miller. Miller had testified he stood still while an officer called the patrol and then went along without any trouble.

The State introduced a confession Miller had made in the police station at Plainfield the night of the murder. In this statement Miller said he went home for his gun, fearing trouble. The statement was taken by Albert F. La Rock, who was called in by Chief Kiely to take whatever Miller had to say. The statement was in direct conflict with Miller's testimony on the stand.

In his summing up Prosecutor Stein called Miller's testimony a tissue of lies. He said it was evident he had made up another story after being arrested and accused of the crime from the one he signed the night of the murder.

Attorney Wilson, for the accused, called attention to the self-defense made necessary because Johnson was more powerful than Miller, and that Johnson also had a revolver, and it was a case of the men who was able to get his gun in working order first.

City Hall Creditors Take Bills To Chancery Court

New Trend of Proceedings Will Tie Up All Money Remaining In Hand To Complete the Building--Boice, Runyon Co., With Unpaid Claims of $2,311 Makes First Move to Secure Payment

Further complications in the City Hall tie-up became apparent today when it was learned that two of the creditors of the P. F. Kenny Company had taken their claims to the Court of Chancery and six others were planning the same step. A long legal controversy may result as one of the bills filed asserts the Plainfield officials have proceeded contrary to law in several instances. One complainant is the Monahan Stone Company, of Newark, which is alleged to have caused the stoppage of work on the building, and the other is the Boice, Runyon Company, of this city. The former claims $12,446.96 for stone furnished and the latter asks for $2,311.63 for lumber and other materials supplied the Kenny concern.

The other six claimants who have issued the formal step notice before entering the Court of Chancery speedy amounts owed them which, with the two mentioned, bring the total demanded from the city to $20,866.12. These are recorded as follows:

Albert Rajotte, $420.87; Federal Terra Cotta Co., $3,150.00; Plainfield Trap Rock Co., $145.16; Storm Waterproofing Co., $227.50; Jacob Steinberg, $600.00; Jacob Steinberg, $954.00.

A conference between George W. Anderson, of counsel for the Monahan concern, and former Judge William Newcorn, representing the Boice, Runyon Company, was held in the latter's office this morning. From this it was gleaned that the Boice, Runyon Company claim takes priority as it was filed at Trenton on Saturday. The Monahan action was recorded on Tuesday of this week. It is understood that Judge Newcorn will represent several of the other creditors, and he will work in cooperation with the Monahan legal array, headed by Edward R. Nugent, of Newark.

Rumors have been current the past few days that the Union County Grand Jury has found indictments against the Monahan Company and certain labor leaders for conspiracy in calling a strike on the City Hall but no supposals have been served as yet. If this be true, it will mean a trial at Elizabeth, which may be gotten under way before the Chancery actions are heard.

Practically no work has been done on the City Hall in several weeks, and one of the sub-contractors of P. F. Kenny & Company, of New York city, the contractors, was Monahan. A strike took place when the work was about completed, and it tied up the completion of the building. Numerous rumors have been afloat as to the real cause of the strike.

There is no question about wages, hours, recognition of the union or any of the usual causes of strikes. The sole trouble is that the Monahan Company has failed to collect money due it from the firm which had the general contract, P. F. Kenny & Company, of New York. The Plainfield authorities have been told, according to evidence said to have been presented to the Grand Jury, that the work on the building might proceed only when Monahan and his associates were paid.

The Kenny Company is in financial difficulties and cannot pay Monahan's company, which hold, it is said, the former concern's notes, for work performed on the Plainfield building, amounting to about $13,000. The city of Plainfield cannot pay Monahan anything, its officials say, without laying themselves open to indictment. The contract between the Kenny firm and the municipality was terminated when the New York company became involved. The general contract provided that the city would not be responsible to subcontractors.

The Plainfield authorities say they made every effort, after the Kenny firm became involved, to protect the sub-contractors, though they were not obliged to do so. The building was to cost $100,000. From time to time, on the certificate of the architect in charge, certain sums of money had been paid to the Kenny firm, as the work reached certain stages. Realizing that it would cost more than originally had been appropriated for the building to have a new contractor begin where the Kenny firm left off, the city arranged with Mr. Kenny personally to complete the work under municipal supervision. That was agreed to at the time by the sub-contractors, it is claimed, but the strike was declared shortly afterward.

Every effort made to resume operations there since the abrogation of the Kenny contract has been met by a new strike order. The Plainfield authorities claim that Frank J. McCann, vice president and secretary of the Monahan Company, practically delivered an ultimatum that the City Hall work could proceed when the Monahan Company was paid its money, not before. It is claimed that some Jersey labor leaders in the building trades agree that that was the only solution. Finally the Plainfield authorities laid the situation before the Grand Jury.

When a strike was first called the Plainfield local unions said they had no grievance and insisted that there must be some mistake. The situation was taken up with State representatives of the plasterers, masons and bricklayers, but to no avail. One of them said it was the policy of the union to compel payment to sub-contractors, as the men would not get their money some day if the sub-contractors did not. Finally the local unions in Plainfield, cooperating with the city officials, made inquiry of National headquarters in Indianapolis. George T. Thornton, second vice president of the international organization of masons, plasterers and bricklayers, came to Plainfield to investigate the case, but there was no change.

The Plainfield contract was not the first one the Monahan Company had from the Kenny Company. Mr. McCann admitted at a conference with Plainfield officials that on a previous occasion he Monahan Company had extended a credit of $38,000 to the Kenny firm.

Mr. Monahan said yesterday that his side of the controversy with Plainfield is fully covered in a bill in Chancery against the city of Plainfield and the general contractors, a copy of which is in possession of his counsel, and Mr. Monahan denied that he had instigated a strike. That was just bunk, he added.

"The essential injustice," he said, "is in the fact that I have not been paid for work done on the Plainfield municipal building, not that there is a strike."

Mr. Anderson said that the city of Plainfield owed the Monahan Stone Company for the work it did, notwithstanding any provision about its not being responsible to sub-contractors. Sub-contracts became part of the original contract, he contended.

"P. F. Kenny & Company defaulted to the Monahan Stone Company to the amount of $12,000," said Mr. Anderson, "as well as to others of which the architects and the city authorities had notice. Under the provision of the contract the city of Plainfield should have enough money in hand to pay the Monahan Company and other claimants, but it claims it has not enough to finish the building.

"The contract between Plainfield and the Kenny concern provided that receipts may be required from the general contractor from sub-contractors before the city pays any money. This was not done. The city finally terminated its contract with the Kenny Company and awarded it to P. F. Kenny individually."

Mr. Anderson said that suit had already been started in the Court of Chancery against Plainfield and the Kenny company, as well as the architect.

Knights Honor Former Curate Now a Chaplain

Rev. Father Joseph S. McDonald, former curate of St. Mary's church, who is now a chaplain in the regular army with headquarters at Camp Dix, was given a testimonial dinner in this city, Wednesday night, by Watchung Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus. The affair took place in Columbus Auditorium and was attended by 100 persons, practically all of whom have been in close touch with Father McDonald for the past three years.

State Warden H. P. Greenwood presided as toastmaster during the speechmaking which followed the serving of the last course of the excellent dinner. Beside the guest of honor those who spoke included: Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, Rev. Father P. J. Hart, Rev. Father John Baldwin, Rev. Father Thomas Campbell, Rev. Father Walter Hennessey, Rev. Father Henry J. Mahoney, all of Plainfield; Rev. Father Watterson and Rev. Father O'Reilly, of Westfield; Rev. Father Waldron, of Stony Hill; also Councilman Francis J. Blatz, Joseph T. Noonan and Hugh T. Treacy.

During the course of the evening, Father McDonald was presented with two gifts. One of these was a complete comfort kit with every conceivable necessity for service in the field, which came from the Knights of Columbus. The other was an ivory headed swagger stick, a token from Sergeant John T. Caulfield, one of the Knights of Columbus boys now in Anniston, Ala., as a member of the 110th Field Artillery. The recipient responded fittingly in each case.

One of the best addresses of the evening was made by Father McDonald himself. He gave an interesting account of his work at Camp Dix and portrayed the doings of the men there who are making up the great National Army. He took occasion to praise the work of the Y. M. C. A., which has just completed the collection of a forty million dollar war fund to continue its efforts in behalf of the American soldiers in service. Father McDonald has had an opportunity to see what the organization is doing and was enthusiastic in his approval of the operations.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the dinner was composed of C. P. Regan, T. J. Meaney, J. J. Carty, M. D. O'Keefe and F. P. Burke.

Union Service at First M. E. Church Thursday Morning

According to the annual custom, the congregations of various Plainfield churches will unite next Thursday morning in a union Thanksgiving service. It will be held in the First Methodist church commencing at 10:30 and Rev. John Y. Brock, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, has accepted an invitation to preach the sermon. His subject has not yet been announced but will be in keeping with the spirit of the day in appreciation of the nation's gratitude during the trying terms of the past year. The pastors of the other churches will take part by the reading of scripture passages or offering invocations. The First Methodist choir, in charge of Organist Clifford Brahler, will render a special program of music.

The congregations which will take part in the service are those of the First Baptist, First Presbyterian and Crescent Avenue Presbyterian churches. The congregations of other churches all hold individual services of an appropriate nature on Thursday morning.

MORE LOCAL YOUNG MEN ENLIST IN NAVAL SERVICE

During the past week five Plainfield young men have made application for enlistment in the Naval Branch of Uncle Sam's service. They are Patrick Powers, of Jackson avenue; Frank Hart, of West Fifth street; John Casey, of West Third street; Harry Pasch, of West Second street; and Joseph J. Greene, of East Seventh street.

Four of the five were accepted, the only rejection being in the case of Greene. The latter passed all mental and preliminary physical tests and after being given the rating of second class yeoman, was assigned to duty in the American Radiator Works at Bayonne, which is working on a naval contract. In the final physical test a slight defect caused his rejection. The other four have been detailed as follows: Powers, rated as first class yeoman and placed on the U. S. S. "Washington" as storekeeper; Hart, rated as third class yeoman and assigned to industrial duty in a nearby manufacturing plant; Casey, placed in the Naval Reserves, now awaiting assignment. Pasch, placed in Naval Auxiliary and now at home awaiting orders.

New Selectives Buckling Down To Camp Routine

Ready for their first tasks as soldiers of the United States the hundred odd selectives who went from Plainfield and Union county Tuesday set to work following their muster in at the headquarters of the 153d Depot Brigade, gathering bed clothing and preparing the rough iron cots to receive them on the first night in the National Army.

In mid-afternoon the selectives from Union county marched up to the mustering office to properly record themselves on the rolls of the mustering officer. This is only a small detail of the preliminary steps necessary, but their late arrival Tuesday prevented the actual accomplishment of much of the initial procedure.

It will be days before they are finally settled as soldiers and look their part. They will be doing their first drills in citizens' clothing. They were in good spirits, all of them. Most of the men had a fair idea of what was in store for them after conversing with the veterans of two months who have been Plainfield's representatives in Camp Dix.

Quite a number of the boys who have had a fair taste of the army life, were on hand at the Depot Brigade barracks to greet their fellows coming to the cantonment with this quota. It was not until after 3 o'clock that the men were turned into their barracks and Tuesday evening received their first portion of army "chow."

The first few days of the selective in camp are the most monotonous and irksome of his soldier career. He must acquaint himself with the exacting details of army life in a short period of time. The National Army is a hustle from the time the soldier is mustered in. Uncle Sam is making soldiers just now with maximum speed and there must be no delay. Consequently the selective must familiarize himself with army ways; must get accustomed to the plain army food, served in a manner to which he is unused, and must reconcile himself in as brief a period possible to the conditions that face him upon coming into the city of 20,000 soldiers.

The expression on the faces of the men as they are presented with the stern realities of army life, for all attempts to appear in happy spirits and their response to the strict discipline of the army—strict in comparison with their mode of living in civilian life—all portray a strangeness and discontent that tells a story of the selective's heroic, but plainly distasteful, efforts to buckle down to work among the khaki-clad boys.

They get a good reception from the other soldiers; their drillmasters are patient with them and th all intents and purposes the general scheme of breaking in which they make them feel at home and add as much as possible the spirit that will make easy for them the great change from civilian to soldier existence.

Within a week they will have acclimated themselves in part to the new existence they are leading and thinks will be a little easier. They will have been issued uniforms, they will not feel so much out of place after learning the rudimentary steps in their training, and the whole departure from the conditions of everyday civilian life in which they have been living will shape itself agreeably.

LOCAL FIRE DEPARTMENT KEPT BUSY THIS WEEK

The city fire department has been kept busy since Sunday answering alarms but in no case did the fire reach any magnitude. Sunday night an alarm from box 49 called the apparatus to the Loizeaux lumber yard on Rock avenue, where a slight blaze had been discovered among shavings from the planing mill department. They were put out before any damage had occurred.

Monday morning at 9:37 the down town apparatus was called by telephone to Brower's stationery store on Park avenue, where an awning had caught fire. It was put out in a few minutes and no loss was given as trifling. At 6:07 Monday night the department answered an alarm for a fire in the store-house of Neumann Brothers at Watchung avenue and East Fifth street. When the men arrived they found the roof of the store-house and numerous boxes, crates and barrels, all empty, a mass of flames. The blaze was put out by hydrant streams and the damage is estimated at $150, covered by insurance.

Two other alarms were answered on Tuesday, one at 1 o'clock in the afternoon for a grass fire on lower Park avenue, and the other at 2:15 for a closet fire in Charles Arnold's building on Liberty street. The damage in the latter case amounted to about ten dollars.

Recount Nearing End With "Wets" Four Votes Ahead

With only three more districts of the Fourth ward to pass upon when the Union County Election Board resumed the Plainfield "wet" and "dry" recount, 9:30 this morning, the opinion prevailed about the court house that the result would be in favor of the "wets." After safely passing through the dangerous Second and Third wards, those anxious for the present excise conditions in the city to be maintained, breathed a sigh of relief. The count started on the Fourth ward with the "wets" six in the lead but this was cut down to four when the Board finished work for the day late yesterday afternoon. In the three districts remaining there are about five hundred ballots yet to be inspected.

In yesterday's tallies the Third district of the Third ward showed a gain of three for the "drys," bringing the "wets" net gain down to four. The First district of the Fourth ward, however, boosted the "wets" figure one on the tally sheet and showed a loss of three for the "drys," which brought the net gain for the "wets" at noon up to eight votes. In the Third district, however, the "drys" made a gain of four, which left the opposing side with the four majority which stood when counting began this morning.

A peculiar coincidence occurred in the review of the Second district of the Fourth ward. Eighteen ballots that had been discarded as illegal were admitted by Judge Bergen and when the count of these was taken it was found that the two sides split even, each on getting nine of the votes.

Another feature of the recount was seen in the opinion of the Plainfielders serving in the army and navy. Out of all the ballots sent in by these men only four were in favor of the no-saloon referendum.

While the recount is going on, a strict tab is being kept on the answer to the excise referendum, whether or not the ballot is accepted or rejected. In this way, it showed at the conclusion of yesterday's proceedings that the opinion was in favor of continuing the present conditions by a lead of fifty-four votes. As the idea of the referendum was to secure an expression of opinion, and not to conduct a voting contest subject to the strict legalities of the ballot, it is pointed out that Plainfielders want the present well-regulated conditions by a good sized majority.

City's Largest Service Flag Honoring 200 Members To Be Unfurled at St. Mary's Church

Probably the largest service flag yet displayed in Plainfield will be unfurled by the parish of St. Mary's church next Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The members of St. Mary's as Red Cross Auxiliary are now engaged in preparing the mammoth piece of bunting and attaching 200 separate stars to represent that many young men and one young woman from the parish who are in the service of their country. The unfurling will be accompanied by appropriate exercises in charge of Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, who has not yet completed the full program. It is to include addresses by well-known Plainfielders and singing by the entire gathering. All persons interested are invited to attend. In the event of the weather being bad the exercises will take place within the church.

Many of the boys from St. Mary's parish were among the first to volunteer when war was declared on April 6. Many others were members of Company K and Troop D and went out with those organizations when they were sent to camp. Still others were called in the selective draft. Of the last named, a good percentage of the first contingents sent out were St. Mary's boys and others are in readiness to go to make up Plainfield's quota of 202.

The one young woman who is to be designated on the flag, the same as the young men, is Miss Helen Callahan, daughter of the late Thomas Callahan, now in France as a member of one of the hospital units. She is a graduate of a Brooklyn hospital and desiring to do whatever she could to show her patriotic spirit offered her services. The unfurling will be accompanied by appropriate exercises in charge of Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, who has not yet completed the full program. It is to include addresses by well-known Plainfielders and singing by the entire gathering. All persons interested are invited to attend. In the event of the weather being bad the exercises will take place within the church.

Veteran Blacksmith Retires From Business

After clanging his hammer on the anvil for nearly forty years, Frank Hand, Plainfield's veteran blacksmith, this week decided that he had been in business long enough and closed up his shop on East Second street. He did not make any attempt to dispose of the place in bulk to any one else but is selling his stock and equipment a portion at a time.

The retirement of Mr. Hand takes out of the city's active life one of the best known figures in town. The well-known "smithy" learned his trade in the late 'To's with the father of Horace J. Martin, the Somerset street blacksmith. After completing his apprenticeship, Mr. Hand opened a shop on Somerset street directly over Green brook. He remained there for enarly thirty years, removing to the location on East Second street, opposite Fire Headquarters, only a few months ago. Mr. Hand was considered an expert horseshoer and in the days when every wealthy man in Plainfield owned a trotter, his services were always in great demand. At one time he had one of the largest forces of blacksmiths and shoers in the employ of any shop in the city. Many of the men in the business today learned their trade of Mr. Hand and others who served under him have since given it up to enter other pursuits.

HELD ON THEFT CHARGE.

On complaint of Jersey Central detectives the local police yesterday arrested William Hand, of Westervelt avenue, the borough, on a charge of stealing a barrel of flour from the North avenue freight station, where he was employed. When arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning, he entered a plea of not guilty and the matter was laid over until next Monday morning to permit of a further investigation. Bail was fixed in the sum of fifty dollars and the amount was furnished by his father.

Card Party and Dance For Red Cross Benefit

Under the auspices of St. Mary's Auxiliary to the local Chapter of the Red Cross, a benefit card party and dance will be held in Columbus auditiroum, Monday night, December 10. Numerous features are being provided for the entertainment of the attendants and the affair promises to be one of the most notable of the present season. St. Mary's chapter has been organized only two months but has an active membership of seventy that has been accomplishing splendid work. The coming card party and dance will not only prove a financial betterment but will also give increased interest to the commendable effort of the women in behalf of the soldier boys.

The committee which is completing arrangements for the benefit is composed of Mrs. Edward Fehring, chairman; Mrs. Wilbur Schaeffer, secretary; Mrs. A. F. LaRock, treasurer; Mrs. Francis J. Blatz, Mrs. J. J. Varley, Mrs. P. S. Kiely, Mrs. George Mehl and Miss Elizabeth O'Keefe.

ELKS PLAN "LADIES' NIGHT."

Plainfield Lodge of Elks is making arrangements for a "ladies' night" to be held some time in December. It will take place at the clubhouse on Watchung avenue and will include an entertainment by professional vaudeville talent. This will be the first "ladies' night" the organization has ever had and the committee is making elaborate preparations.

Big Time at Elks' Club On Thanksgiving Eve

One of those good old-fashioned Thanksgiving eve "get togethers" that furnished lots of fun for the members of Plainfield Lodge of Elks in days gone by, will be given by the organization next Wednesday night. A cheery log fire is to be lighted in the open fire place on the main floor of the Watchung avenue club house and during the entire evening professional talent will furnish a program of entertainment. After these numbers have been given a genuine turkey supper will be served and the "home boys" will take care of the entertainment, every one of them having the ability to sing or recite being slated for appearance. There will be appropriate decorations and no matter how high the price of salt or sugar may go the committee is determined to have the biggest time in recent years. All members of the organization are urged to be in attendance.

The committee which is arranging the affair and which will be on hand Wednesday night, to extend the "glad hand" is composed of James Hart, chairman; "Mike" Shanon, Howard Dyke, Hugh Sweeny, "Dave" Rogers and Elmer D. Cutting.

A. O. H. Annual Ball To Be Masquerade Affair

Division No. 4, A. O. H., has completed arrangements for its annual dance to be held in T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street, Thanksgiving eve. It will be a masquerade affair and a prize will be awarded the wearer of the costume the judges decide is best. A portion of the program will be devoted to Irish jigs and reels, a feature that has always been very popular in previous dances. Music for the occasion will be provided by Patrick McDonough, the well-known Irish piper from New York, who has been heard in Plainfield on several occasions.

The committee which has the plans in charge is composed of Michael Harrington, chairman; James Kyle, Patrick Diskin, James Golding, John Cunniff and Michael Kelly.

C. J. McNABB CONVICTED ON EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

A verdict of guilty was rendered by a jury in the Somerset County Court, Tuesday night, in the case of Charles J. McNabb, a lawyer, of 216 Mt. Prospect avenue, Newark, formerly of Plainfield, who was accused of embezzling $2,400 by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ida Fountain, of Jackson avenue, North Plainfield.

According to the testimony of the complainant and her daughter, Miss Laura Fountain, McNabb borrowed the money, promising to give good security. Mrs. Fountain testified that he did not keep his promise.

McNabb swore that he did not make any such promise, and his wife corroborated him.

Bail was fixed at $3,500 and McNabb was directed by Judge Beekman to appear for sentence on December 15.

SAURER MUTUAL AID PLANS ANNUAL AFFAIR

The annual meeting and entertainment of the Saurer Mutual Aid Society will be held in Debele's Hall, North Plainfield, December 1st. At this meeting the election of officers for the ensuing year will take place. The members always look forward to this annual entertainment as the entertainers have always been of high calibre. This year the committee members have excited themselves to eclipse all past meetings and feel with the program they have arranged that this has been accomplished.

There will be acts by professionals of the A. O. No. 1 class, who will introduce specialties that will be mirth-provoking as well as entertaining. There will also be specialties by members of the order which promise to go far ahead of their offering of last year.

Cigars, cigarettes, refreshments and plenty of eats will be features during the evening. The program will be published a little later.

FORMER PRESIDENT TAFT COMING HERE DECEMBER 13

Acting on advice from headquarters in New York, the Plainfield-North Plainfield chapter of the Red Cross today decided to begin its Christmas membership "drive" sometime in December. In connection with the campaign for new members former President William Howard Taft will come to Plainfield on December 13, and make an address at the Plainfield High School auditorium.

The local Red Cross now has a splendid membership but the work has increased so rapidly that many additional members are needed and the campaign will be conducted with the idea of practically doubling the present enrollment.

Henry Ford to Aid In Building Ships

Henry Ford has been signed up by Chairman Hurley, of the Shipping Board, to help on the construction of standardized ships for the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Official announcement of this acquisition was made this week, and Mr. Ford will get to work as soon as he can wind up his private affairs at Detroit and some work in connection with the standardization of aeroplanes.

Mr. Ford volunteered for the service and his offer was accepted immediately. Mr. Ford will put into operation for the government the ideas and plans that he has used with such extraordinary success in the production of his automobile. Mr. Ford will be directly associated with Charles Piez, the new vice president and business chief of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

The physiological effort of Ford's joining hands with the Shipping Board, aside from what he may do in a practical way, is not to be overlooked. Ford's idea is to concentrate on the building of a single model of ship, exacting as his automobile plant has concentrated on the building of a single type of motor. Only in that way does he believe maximum efficiency and maximum productiveness can be attained.

Mr. Ford, seen by a correspondent, was full of the idea of standardizing government works, especially shipping.

"The thing I am kicking about around here is the lack of standardization," said Mr. Ford.

"I see it everywhere and it must be corrected. Unless it is we cannot hope to win the war. We will do well if we hold our own.

"What we want is one type of ship, built in large numbers. It is the same with this as with any great industry. No auto plant ever succeeded that attempted to build several types of cars. The way to success is to find one type of ship that is best fitted for work in the submarine zone and which can be built fastest and center all efforts on its construction.

"We have already succeeded in standardization of the construction of aeroplanes, we are helping with that in our own plant; what we want is to extend the same idea to every branch of government work."

Mr. Ford has been in Washington for several days conferring with government officials. He has spent the most of his time with Mr. Hurley and Chairman Howard E. Coffin, of the aircraft production work board. Yesterday he was in conference with Secretary of the Navy Daniels with respect to construction of destroyers to combat the submarines and other features of the navy building program.

In his effort to bring about standardization, Mr. Ford is working in close cooperation with Mr. Coffin, who has been to chief advocate of this policy since the beginning of the war. Mr. Coffin was the first man who preached standardization of aeroplanes and his efforts led to the designing of the Liberty aeroplane motor and the rivision of its construction between the Ford plant and others. Mr. Ford aided greatly in this work, it is stated.

Mr Hurley has not yet completed his annexation of industrial chieftains for the Shipping Board. He is working now with some of the largest building contractors in the country to obtain services of their star engineers to help Mr. Piez on the question of materials.

There is real doubt in Washington whether Admiral Capps, general manager of the fleet corporation, will remain in the remodeling of the organization of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, involving the enlistment of men from civil life rather than naval men. Capps has had his authority curtailed. He was willing to have it curtailed to some extent, but not so far as it has gone, consequently it is believed he feels some dissatisfaction.

Cannot Occupy County Prison Farm This Year

The inmates of the Union county jail are at ease again, because the chances are that they will spend the coming winter within the confines of four walls and not have to undergo the rigors of the cold months amid the hills in back of Scotch Plains. When the Board of Freeholders first took up the subject of establishing a prison farm several months ago, it was with the intention of having it in operation this year, but it is now doubtful if anything can be done before spring.

While it is hardly likely that the farm will be ready for the first prisoners until then, the institution is a certainty. The place already has been selected, it being the old Judge Robinson estate bordering Bonnie Burn, but the title has not yet changed hands. At the meeting of the Board of Freeholders held yesterday action to this effect was taken.

Plans have already been laid for making the farm suitable for its new purpose. There is a big house on the property and a number of outbuildings. Accommodations in the way of a dormitory will have to be erected for the prisoners. It is planned to have them do a large part of the work in preparing the place, cutting down trees, filling in or cultivation, and making repairs to the buildings.

Jersey Farmers Not Wantonly Wasteful

The Bureau of Markets of the New Jersey State Department of Agriculture has investigated a number of statements appearing in the public press during the past summer alleging that farmers and produce dealers practice illegal and wasteful methods in attempts to manipulate the market.

During August the bureau's attention was called to the buying up of potato fields in Monmouth county by speculators who intended to allow the crop to rot in the ground unharvested. The object, it was explained, was to decrease the supply, thus enabling the speculators to make fortunes out of the balance which they controlled. Upon investigated it was found that not only were no potatoes rotting in the ground, but that fewer fields had been sold before digging than usual, as the farmers looked for better prices when cool weather came and were not selling out so early.

At the request of the women's committee of the New Jersey Branch of the Council of National Defense, the subject of food dumping on the piers at New York and at the railroad terminals and meadows in Jersey City was investigated and the following report has just been made by the Bureau of Markets:

Our correspondent gave the following list of foodstuffs ordered destroyed by the health department of the city of New York for the week ending June 23, 1917:

Potatoes	16,500 lbs.
Raisins	15,000 lbs.
Peaches	2,100 lbs.
Assorted fruits	1,480 lbs.
Pineapples	97,920 lbs.
Coffee	52,896 lbs.
Beans	700 lbs.
Onions	2,120 lbs.

Through the cooperation of the health department and various railroad officials our investigation shows the following facts:

The potatoes spoiled because of rain at digging time followed by high temperature when they were in transit. The 16,500 pounds equal 275 bushels or less than half a carload. During this week there were received in the city a total of 24,750,000 pounds or 412,500 bushels, equal to about 200 carloads. This makes a loss of early potatoes dug under unfavorable conditions and shipped in hot weather of less than .0007 per cent.

The peaches and onions which came partly from distant points in our own country and partly from countries across the water represented less than .05 per cent. of the total amounts shipped. The spoilage in this case was due to delay in transit owing to freight conditions.

The pineapples destroyed came from shipments from Porto Rico and the amount of loss is normal for that time of the year.

The assorted fruit was small items of various kinds of fruit received and the amount is too small to consider. The beans destroyed show also a very small loss.

In the case of the raisins destroyed, these were damaged in a fire and were considered unhealthful when offered for sale.

The coffee destroyed is reported as "skimmings" taken from various lots arriving in the port of New York during the previous six months. The amount destroyed represents but a fraction of .01 per cent.

The Department of Health further states that wherever loss is due to avoidable causes the shippers and transportation companies are notified and remedies suggested.

The Bureau of Markets has this year, through its transportation specialist, worked unceasingly with the transportation companies on matters pertaining to perishable foodstuffs. That the loss at such a terminal market point where the receipts often run from 250 to 300 carloads of perishables a day is a small fraction of .01 per cent. is considered quite wonderful by the bureau. It may be stated here that a point which the bureau insistently emphasizes in all its activities is a better understanding of conditions and methods between those who sell and those who buy. The distribution of foodstuffs is too vital a business to tolerate ignorance and suspicion. It is hoped that this report, which entailed a great amount of study and work and which was only made possible through the assistance of railroads and the Health Department, will put a stop to the carless and wicked stories so frequently voiced in the past. There is already too much criticism aimed by careless consumers at wholesale and retail dealers. The same is true of the attitude of farmers toward dealers. The right thing to do, it would seem, is for all of us to see to it that our end is perfected and then to study how best to help the other factors increase their efficiency.

Discontent and dissatisfaction are the only returns from careless criticism.

Perfection and efficiency come only from study and conscientious, constructive effort.

GOVERNOR URGES HUNTERS TO BE CAREFUL OF FIRES.

Governor Edge, before going South, gave out a statement warning gunners against starting camp fires in woods, thereby endangering the woodland of the state. The Governor said that the number of fires reported since the opening of the gunning season had greatly increased, but stated that it may be unfair to place the whole blame on gunners. He urged that all hunters be careful, as a tremendous amount of damage is possible through forest fires, particularly in view of the scarcity of rain.

Baltusrol Plans New $140,000 Golf Course

With an aim to maintaing two complete eighteen-hole golf courses of equal merit, members of Baltusrol Golf Club Saturday voted almost unanimously to purchase some 140 acres of adjoining farm land lying to the south and east of the present links, to acquire title to the present course. The reported price placed on the farm land is about $375 an acre and that on the plot used for the present course, $1,000 an acre. According to the terms of agreement made public, Louis Keller, secretary of the Baltusrol Club, and owner of the land purchased, has agreed to accept a five-year purchase money mortgage for the entire sum at five per cent. At the expiration of this time the club will pay him $10,000 cash and $5,000 yearly thereafter until the full amount is made up. Just what the exact acreage of the present course, Mr. Keller declared yesterday morning, would not be known until the last had been surveyed.

According to the general plans shown to the members, nine of the lower holes of the present course, together with nine new greens located on a sixty-five acre plot bordering on the Westfield highroad, will constitute the east course and the nine upper or hillside holes will be supplemented by nine new greens of seventy acres of rolling land lying to the south of the present new tenth and eleventh greens, and this will constitute the south course. The first tee of the south course will be immediately behind the club house, and its termination will be the present eighteenth green. The first tee of the east course will be as at present, and it is likely that the sixteenth green, which is in front of the club house, will become the new eighteenth of the lower course.

Probably the winter will be consumed in planning out the two new courses, but it is not likely that new construction work will be commenced before a change in the war conditions justifies such an expenditure.

Bulletin Gives Reminder of Anti-Cigarette Law

Attention is called to the law passed at the last session of the Legislature prohibiting the gift or sale of cigarettes to youths under 18 years of age, in the November issue of the Education Bulletin just out yesterday. This is the publication of the State Department of Public Instruction.

The measure is an amendment to the crimes act relating to the sale or gift of cigarettes to minors under 18 years of age. It will be noted that it does not make a crime for a minor to use cigarettes or tobacco. The crime consists in the selling to a minor or the procuring for him of cigarettes or tobacco in any form, as the Bulletin points out. The person who furnishes the cigarettes is the person who commits the misdemeanor and is subject to a fine of $10 upon complaint being made and conviction following the complaint.

Teachers are urged to inquire, when they suspect that they boy pupils are smoking cigarettes of using tobacco, whence they procured the "smokes," declares the Bulletin.

Practically no criticism of the new physical training law has reached the Department of Public Instruction, it is also stated in this issue. On the contrary, school officials and the teachers of the State have taken up the law with much athusiasm and are making a praiseworthy attempt to make prysical training a success.

Postal Ruling Prevents Evasion of War Tax

The government has put a stop to a little trick by which persons and large corporations have been evading the new three-cent postage rate on letters.

Postmaster General Burleson has ruled that letters taken by messenger from one city to another and mailed in the latter for local delivery are not drop letters, and therefore are not entitled to the two-cent rate. It has been brought to the attention of the postal officials that firms in cities who have a large number of letters for delivery in nearby cities, have been sending them by messenger and mailing them there, thereby saving a considerable sum on the postage. Under the new ruling this cannot be done.

On and after December 1, 1917, upon every parcel or package transported from one point in the United States to another by parcel post, on which the postage amounts to twenty-five cents or more, there will have to be paid a tax of one cent for each twenty-five cents, or fraction thereof, charged for such transportion, to be paid by the sender. There is no war tax on parcels on which the postage is less than twenty-five cents.

Edge Finds No Discrimination

Governor Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, spent Sunday afternoon receiving the officers of the New Jersey National Guard at Brigadier General Charles W. Barber's headquarters. Several hundred called to pay their respects during the afternoon. Bands of the division played for the informal gathering, which happened to be the first occasion for the summoning of the complete commissioned personnel of New Jersey's old guard together since arrival at Anniston. Sunday night Governor Edge was the guest of Anniston citizens at a banquet. Monday morning a divisional review was given in his honor.

In addressing the New Jersey officers the Governor said, in part:

"I have heard rumors that certain States were being favored to the extent that their organizations were being kept practically intact, the deficiencies in numbers being filled up by draft from the selective service army, thus retaining all National Guard officers in command of their own units—the thing which is naturally desired by those officers.

"Before coming to Camp McClellan I communicated with Secretary Baker, saying that New Jersey had no desire at this late date to reverse its policy of fullest cooperation with the War Department, and did not desire to criticise in the slightest degree any policy of the department, but if surplus National Guard officers were to be permitted to leave their commands in other States and not in New Jersey, I desire to emphatically protest for New Jersey, as the State would naturally be greatly and properly dissatisfied with such a policy of discrimination.

"The reply of the Secretary of War, in part, is as follows: 'The surplus officers and units of the New Jersey National Guard will be used in the same way as the surplus officers of all other States organizations in the formation of corps and army troops under the directions of the War Department. I assure you there will be no discrimination in favor of any particular State or locality.'

"This conclusively demonstrates there is no foundation for the rumors referred to, and is further buttressed by the information I have received through Acting Adjutant Generals of Pennsylvania and New York. Their reply indicated that New Jersey is positively faring as well as those two States."

Lionized Violinist Now Carries Mules

From concert platform to currying horses. From the violin professorship in the Peoria, Ill., Conservatory of Music, and engagements at $500 a night, to a camp stool, khaki, and $30 a month as a private in Headquarters' Troop of the Thirty-third Division of the United States Army at Houston, Texas.

That is the remarkable metamorphosis of Sol Cohen, 26, pupil of Jean V. Hubay, formerly first violinist in the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra and society pet and musical lion of Chicago and Peoria.

Four times Cohen volunteered, but was rejected as being physically unfit. He set to work to build up his physical condition, and on the fifth application, was accepted.

Because he "loves America better than his violin," Sol Cohen curries army horses or walks a guard post at $3 08 month "and found."

"I believe I'll make a good soldier," he said today.

"Of course, I shall play for the boys here—and in the trenches over there. I'll be happy if I make their days of war less arduous."

Industry Administrator Government's Next Step

Appointment of an administrator of industries, for the duration of the war, is not far distant.

There is a growing sentiment in Washington, officials declared today, that the government must have a centralized organization for dealing with ar industries. Reports of an investigation of labor and industrial conditions throughout the United States made by the Council of National Defense, show that there is a decided lack of unity in the industrial mobilization of the United States.

It has been found that governmental settlement of labor strikes is now working an injury to industry. It is pointed out that there are at least six departments in Washington, all working to the end of settlement of labor troubles, but all working through different means. This has caused dissatisfaction and unrest in many quarters.

An administrator of industries would have control of labor supplies, priority of labor, curtailment of non-essential industries and standardization of labor conditions.

CARD PARTY AND DANCE.

The Daughters of Isabella have issued invitations for a card party and dance to be held in Columbus Hall on Wednesday night, November 28. The entire proceeds will be contributed to the Knights of Columbus War Fund. The card games will commence promptly at 8:15 and prizes will be awarded the successful players.

PERSONAL

Fred Meeker, a former well-known Plainfielder, who has been in the West for the past three years, has written from Miles City, Mont., that he expects to spend the holidays in this city and will reach here early in December. Mr. Meeker has been employed as the linotype operator in the office of the Miles City Bulletin, and will return there after his trip East.

Miss May Clark, of Ferrace place, Westfield, who has many acquaintances in this city, is a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital following an operation. She will be able to return home within the next few days.

Robert Sick, a former well-known Plainfielders, who has been located at Newark for several years, returned Sunday after a visit at the home of his cousin, Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, of West End avenue.

Cornelius Murray, of West Front street, who is enlisted in the aviation department of the U. S. Army, left this week for Florida, to go under instruction at a training camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh B. Sweeny, who have resided on Thornton avenue for the past few years, removed recently to East Seventh street, near Franklin place.

Wesley L. MacDonald, who has been employed at the A. M. Griffen store in the tool department, resigned recently to become receiving clerk at the Standard Aero Corporation's plant.

Robert C. Shropshire, of Watchung avenue, returned this week after a three months' absence in the Middle West in the interests of the International Motor Company. Most of the time was spent at Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City.

Mrs. Fred Thompson and daughter, Miss Eleanor Thompson, of Belmont avenue, left a few days ago for an extended visit with relatives near Toronto, Can.

A. M. Harris, of Central avenue, has returned home after a hurried trip to St. Petersburg, Fla., to which place he was called by the illness and death of his mother, Mrs. D. J. Harris, of Evanston, Ill. He received the message too late to reach St. Petersburg before the end came. The funeral was held at Evanston and burial will take place in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. George Webster, who were married last week, have returned from a wedding trip and are making their home on West Second street. Mrs. Webster was formerly Miss Anna Belle Snyder. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. J. O. McKelvey at his home on Grandview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McCue and family, of West Fourth street, were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. McCue's sister in New Rochelle, N. Y.

George Bantle, of Watchung avenue, who recently enlisted in the United States Army service, left Sunday for a Virginia camp. Previous to his departure he was given a farewell dinner by the Queen City Social Club, of which he is a member and was presented with an illuminated wrist watch.

Emil Droll, of Allentown, Pa., has returned home after a visit with his brother, Walter H. Droll. The former was a resident of this city for many years.

Miss Stella Eick, of Dunellen, who has been seriously ill with typhoid fever for the past five weeks, was reported from Muhlenberg Hospital as recovering but is not with excellent chances for complete restoration to health.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rhodier, who were married in St. Mary's church last Thursday, will return home tomorrow after a trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. They will reside on South avenue. Mrs. Rhodier was formerly Miss Margaret F. Fitzgerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, of West Fourth street.

Miss Josephine M. Murphy, of Central avenue, will return home today after four week's stay in St. Michael's Hospital, Newark following an operation to relieve spinal trouble of long standing. The operation is believed to have been entirely successful and may eventually result in the patient's complete recovery.

Miss Mabel Coon, of Netherwood avenue, returned recently after a three weeks' visit with friends in Summit.

George A. de Saules, who has been located in this city since last winter as government motor expert at the Standard Aero plant, returned Monday after a stay of several weeks at Newport News, Va. He will leave next week for a trip to Waco, Texas.

Miss Mildred Decker, a member of the teaching corps at the Evergreen Avenue School, resigned her position this week and returned to her home at Haskell, because of the serious illness of her mother.

Andrew H. Stiglitz, of Allen place, the borough, left last Sunday for Washington, D. C., at which point he will be assigned to work in the ordnance department of the United States Service. He secured his appointment several weeks ago following successful examinations for this class of work.

"Mary's Ankle" Full of Sparkling Comeay

"As good farce as 'The Boomerang' and 'Turn to the Right' are comedy, is what the New York Globe said of "Mary's Ankle," the sparkling farce comedy by May Tully, which A. H. Woods will present at the Plainfield Theatre on Tuesday, matinee and night, November 27, direct from its run at the Bijou Theatre, New York, where it was one of the decided hits of the early theatrical season. "Mary's Ankle" is a farce comedy in three acts designed solely to amuse. In this it succeeds brilliantly, through its droll situations, witty dialogue and rapid action. It would be unfair to disclose the plot of the piece, but it may be best outlined as a complicated honeymoon. The notable company includes Lillian Claire, Bert Leigh, May Wallace, James Hester, Edward Butler, Louise Sanford, Donald MacLeod, Gertrude Mann, Frank A. Meehan and others.

Musical Comedy Success Coming Next Monday

"Oh, Boy," the fourth New York Princess Theatre musical comedy success, is announced by F. Ray Comstock and William Elliott as the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday, matinee and night, November 26. The book and lyrics of "Oh, Boy," are by Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse and the music is by Jerome Kern. "Oh, Boy" is the fourth and the best of the New York Princess Theatre productions that have included "Nobody Home" and "Very Good Eddie." It is snappy and bright and has the unmistakable quality of excellence so rare in musical comedies. In the special organization which will play here will be Leona Thompson, Gertrude Waizel, Edward Forbes, Charles Knowlden, T. D. Leary, W. Fredricks, Eileen Powers, Helen Du-Bois, James E. Rome, Bobby Hale, Mariam Hibbing and Laura Wells.

Among the song hits in "Oh, Boy" are "Let's Make a Night of It," "You Never Knew About Me," "A Package of Seeds," "An Old-Fashioned Wife," "A Pal Like You," "Till the Clouds Roll By," "A Little Bit of Ribbon," "The First Day of May," "Koo-La-Loo," "Rolled Into One," "Oh, Daddy, Please!" "When It's Nesting Time in Flatbush," "Words Are Not Needed" and "Flubby Dub, the Cave Man."

ELKS' NEW SECRETARY.

At the regular meeting of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, Wednesday night, E. P. Dorman was elected secretary of the organization to succeed L. E. Starker, who is now in Uncle Sam's service in the 110th Field Artillery, stationed at Camp McClellan.

Resignation of Pastor Accepted

The congregation of the Temple Baptist church, at its mid-week meeting Wednesday night, reluctantly accepted the resignation as pastor of Rev. Evarts C. Conover, tendered at the close of the morning service last Sunday. Mr. Conover has accepted a call to the First Baptist church at Freehold and will assume his new duties there on January 6. His farewell sermon here will be preached on Sunday evening, December 30. In the meantime he and Mrs. Conover will be given a formal social leave-taking some night in the near future.

Mr. Conover became pastor of the Temple Baptist church in May, 1911. About a year after the congregation became an independent organization from the First Baptist church. Previous to that time it had been known as the East Third Street chaped. Mr. Conover was graduated from Crozer Seminary, Chester, Pa., in the class of 1902. After four years' pastorate at the Whitehall Baptist church, in the Frankfort section of Philadelphia, which was his first charge, he went to Pemberton. There he served as pastor of the First Baptist church for five years, during which his work attracted the attention of the Plainfield congregation. He received and accepted the call which brought him to this city early in 1911. Under his leadership, the Temple Baptist church has had a steady and substantial growth. The membership has increased wonderfully and the past year's report was the best of its career. In the Biederwolf campaign of 1916, Mr. Conover acted as chairman of the canvassing committe and was a big factor in the splendid results atttained. He has also been active in State and county religious work, the experience thus gained resulting beneficially for his own congregation. A close friend of the retiring pastor, in speaking of his intention to go to Freehold, penned the following commendatory words:

"The removal of Mr. Conover will be a distinct loss to Plainfield, where he has, been, from the first, recognized as a devout Christian man with noble ideals, a most faithful pastor and helpful preacher. A man of most kindly and sympathetic disposition, he has made a host of friends and his quiet influence will long be felt."

Real "Tented" Circus At Plainfield Theatre

The new vaudeville bill which came to the Plainfield Theatre yesterday for the remainder of the week produced a distinct novelty in the presentation of La Pearl's "Circus." The act is made up of novelties such as are generally seen in a traveling, out-door show and the circus effect is carried out by a canopy of canvass and a scenic background. The numbers introduced include acrobats, trapeze artists, slack wire performancers and "Maude," an unridesable mule. The audiences at the performances both yesterday afternoon and last night were immensely pleased with the offering and it will undoubtedly be a big drawing card for the remainder of its stay.

Another number on the new program which made a hit yesterday was the Lillian Bennet trio, a company of talented musical artists, who gave instrumental selections on a variety of instruments. The trio has a wide repertoire and are exceptionally clever in the handling of each instrument on which they perform. The remainder of the well-balanced bill is composed of Franklin Duo, novelty dancers; Richard and Osgood, comedy singing and dancing; Pallette and Williams, blackfaced comedians, and Harry Foy, in a clever impersonation offering entitled "Great Men, Past and Present."

The Pathe News Review is retained by the Plainfield Theatre management as a picture feature and the new one shown yesterday depicted many events in various parts of the country that have been told of in the newspapers. It will be displayed on the screen again today and also tomorrow. There are other film novelties that are changed every day.

Miss Sarah Nevins, of Fairmount avenue, has been appointed a member of the Nursing Bureau staff to succeed Miss Ina Rudd, who resigned recently to take up lecture work. Miss Nevins is a graduate of Muhlenberg Hospital training school and has been in Jersey City for the past two years.

Miron and Lifson Buy Burkely Hotel

A real estate transaction of considerable magnitude in Elizabeth has just been closed in which a parcel of Broad street property, that city, changes hands. Warren R. Dix, as executor of the estate of Frederick Jones, has signed contracts with the members of the firm of Miron & Lifson, the well-known furniture dealers, who have a store on East Front street, this city, whereby the latter are to become the owners of the property known as the Burkely Hotel, the sale having been negotiated by E. D. Mulford. The new owners will take over the property subject to the existing hotel lease, held by Thomas Pierson, which has some years to run, and is therefore purchased as an investment.

The property, which for many years was known as the Clark Hotel, was formerly owned by ex-Congressman Amos Clark, who originally put up the building about twenty years ago as an office building. It was subsequently converted into a hotel, the name of which was changed to the Burkely Hotel. The property last changed hands in 1898 when it figured as one of the parcels of one of the largest transactions in Elizabeth realty ever recorded. An exchange was effected between the ex-Congressman and the Jones interests, involving many properties in Elizabeth and Tarrytown, N. Y., in which the figures exceeded the half million mark. The transaction at that time was put through by Warren R. Dix, the present executor, and the late A. D. Mulford, father of the broker in the present deal.

Naval Recruiting Station Here December 9 to 16

Acting under government orders, a naval recruiting party will come to Plainfield on December 9 and establish headquarters at the local postoffice for one week in an effort to secure further enlistments for designated branches of marine service. The party will be in charge of Chief Water Tender John J. Grifith, of Elizabeth, and First Class Hospital Apprentice Thomas Hanan, of New Brunswick.

The party will make a special effort to secure recruits from twenty-one to thirty-five years of age to be used as firemen and colored men between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five for mess attendants. Other branches of naval service are opened to enlistment and full information can be obtained by applying to Mr. Grifith or his assistants any time between December 9 and December 16. A large number of Plainfield boys who have already entered the naval service are enthusiastic over their classification and it is believed the establishment of a station here will bring in many recruits.

P. O. S. of A. Quarters Planned for Camp Dix

A large attendance of members from all over the county featured a meeting Monday night of the Patriotic Sons of America, held in the rooms of the organization at Masonic Hall, Elizabeth. State President E. S. Waddington was on hand and made a brief address. He commended the various branches in being able to unite on such occasions and expressed a wish that the evident interesting interest might be made perpetual.

The order is contemplating opening a headquarters at Camp Dix for the convenience of various members who have joined the colors. Following President Waddington's remarks there was much discussion concerning such a move, with a majority favoring the idea.

Besides local Lodges 78 and 200, representatives were present from Rahway, Linden and Plainfield.

Seeking Recruits For 110th Heavy Artillery

Lieutenant Colonel Robert L. Patterson, inspector general of New Jersey, has been detailed by the adjutant general to recruit immediately 100 men to fill vacancies in the 110th Regiment, Heavy Artillery, formerly the First New Jersey Artillery. This regiment was organized by batteries, one from each of the following places: Atlantic City, Camden, Morristown, Montclair and two from East Orange. The personnel of this regiment has always been considered high and the 100 men wanted must measure up to those now in the regiment.

After December 15 no volunteers can be received under the new draft laws. All young men liable to the second draft, or who have not been called for physical examination, can make application. These applications can be made to any one of the United States recruiting stations in New Jersey, or to Lieutenant Colonel R. L. Patterson, 212 Broad street, Newark.

Colonel Patterson expects to secure the necessary recruits within the next two weeks and they will be immediately equipped and taken to Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala., where the regiment is now located.

Thanksgiving Furloughs For All Camp Dix Boys

Every soldier who wishes it can obtain a furlough over Thanksgiving Day, according to orders issued by General Kennedy at Camp Dix yesterday afternoon. Every soldier who makes application will receive a pass, good from noon of Wednesday, the 28th, until 10 o'clock on the following Friday night. Special passes, good for a longer period, will be granted to any of the boys who live so far from the camp that they will be unable to reach home the night before Thanksgiving Day. They will be allowed to leave the camp probably Wednesday morning and will not have to return until Saturday, if they can convince General Kennedy that that much time is needed by them to get home and back again for the Thanksgiving holiday.

No definite plans have been announced for the Christmas holidays, but it is generally believed that every member of the National Army at Camp Dix who wants to spend Christmas Day with his family will be able to get a furlough. It is known that hundreds of the boys have already made requests for Thanksgiving Day and Christmas furloughs.

PLAINFIELD MEN NOW AT CAMP GORDON.

More than one thousand National Army men from Camp Dix arrived at Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga., Sunday, completing the New York camp's quota of 8,000 troops ordered to service in the Eighty-second division of the National Army.

Eight of the men were from this vicinity. One of them was John F. Casey, Jr., and another Edward Farrell, of Dunellen. The remainder were either from Union or Somerset counties, but are of foreign extraction.

LET THE COURTS LOCATE THE BLAME.

Developments in the City Hall tangle are occurring so rapidly these days that it is difficult for the laymen to keep in touch with the situation. Close upon the heels of the report emanating from Elizabeth that the Grand Jury had found indictments for conspiracy against John F. Monahan and certain labor leaders, comes the news from other quarters that material men involved had taken their side of the question to the Court of Chancery. These materiail men include Mr. Monahan, who has engaged brilliant legal talent and asserts his intention of fightinig the matter to a finish. There is also another phase of the situation furnished by the attitude of the local trades unions, which insist that they have no part in the argument and much prefer to keep clear of the entire matter.

Much as it is to be deplored, it seems now there is no getting away from court proceedings to settle the unfortunate tie-up. The city officials have done everything possible to get the building completed but since this cannot seemingly be done, the only result is a legal adjustment. Plainfield cannot let the building remain very long as it is without suffering financial loss, it cannot secure any help from the International Unions to raise the boycott and its officials cannot pay over the $13,000 demanded by the Monahan Company. As if this were not enough to keep the Council figuring out what to do, the latest move of the other supply men in pressing their liens is like adding oil to a blazing fire. Since the opposition wants court action, court action it should be and if there is any criminal intent or unjustifiable methods being adopted, the truth will be brought to light. An indictment against Mr. Monahan and the labor leaders might result in their being brought to trial but we doubt very much from the facts disclosed to the public that the trial will result in anything but a dismissal. In the meantime the City Hall will be deteriorating without bringing the tie-up any nearer a conclusion. It certainly is the worst tangle of several that have occurred in the erection of Plainfield municipal structures and the sooner some definite move is made, the better it will be for all concerned.

There is this much to be said about the position of the Plainfield trades unions in the situation as it stands today. They have apparently acted in a fair and impartial manner and absolutely within their rights. When the job was first gotten under way, no Plainfield men were given work by the outside contractors. The only local mechanics employed have been those in the service of other contractors than the P. F. Kenny Company. As soon as trouble started the local men were called in. Business Agent Lunger was only too willing to send a carpenter to put up the window screens for weather protection but he really had no right to allow carpenters to go on the Connolly contract. This matter should have been attended to by Mr. Connolly the same way he did before the tie-up was commenced. Mr. Lunger and other officials of the Trades Council made it plain to Mayor Calkins and Corporation Counsel Reed, when they attended one of the meetings, that they were not in sympathy with the so-called strike but had no decision in the matter. The Trades Council does not affiliate with the masons and bricklayers' union and consequently it cannot take part in its deliberations. The Trades Council has adopted a neutral course and nothing is to be gained by getting any of its men implicated in the dispute.

The International Union of Bricklayers and Masons sent word from its executive offices at Indianapolis that the matter was even too much of a tangle for its experienced officials to make any attempt at adjusting it. In a letter sent to local officials and union leaders it advised that the courts seemed the only method of settling it. Since then the point is daily becoming clearer and the city's representatives should welcome the chance to find out what is back of the whole proceeding. The people want the facts and will support its counsel to the limit in getting every detail.

AN UNBIASED OPINION OF THE EXCISE VOTE.

The peculiar condition of affairs brought about by Plainfield's vote on the excise referendum has produced comment from newspapers throughout the country. Editorial writers have laid hold of the almost unprecedented majority of one as a "tender morsel" for discussion. The opinions of what should be done has been about as different as they are numerous but one of the most comprehensive was given in the Newark Evening News of a recent issue. The writer is evidently well-acquainted with local conditions and expressed his view of the topic in the following concise manner under the caption, "Plainfield's Excise Vote:"

"Very singular and wholly unsatisfactory was the result of Plainfield's 'advisory' vote on the license question at the recent general election. Over three thousand ballots were cast and the official returns showed just one majority against license. A recount was asked for, and is now being taken. The City Council had promised in advance to be guided by the result of the referendum vote in continuing to grant licenses or to refuse them.

"The final decision, whether Plainfield shall have license or no license, is of less general interest than the fact that the citizens were so evenly divided and undecided on this issue; for, whichever way the recount goes, it is probable that the majority will still be very small. Yet Plainfield has, for many years, been the ideal high license city of this State. Its licenses are granted by the City Council, and for the past ten or fifteen years the fees have been gradually increased until they reached $1,200. And, further, the licensed saloons were limited to eight; all but two were restricted to the business section of the city, and all were supposedly held to as strict an observance of the State liquor laws as could be enforced in a highly intelligent, law-abiding community.

"Plainfield has hitherto boasted of its success in dealing with its local excise question, and some outsiders have looked upon that city as proof that high license is the most effective means of meeting the saloon issue. And yet, after a number of years of experiment, under what have been supposed to be highly favorable conditions, the voters of Plainfield really don't know whether they want high license with a few restricted, well-guarded saloons, or no license at all. A majority of one or two at a general election may settle the question in its legal aspect for the time being, but it gives little idea of the moral convictions of the citizens of a municipality as a whole."

BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION IN NEED OF YOUR HELP.

On Monday last a large committee of the Business Men's Association held a round table luncheon, and developed details for making a whirlwind campaign for new members. This association is now the only active civic body in our city, and is made up of a large influential body of our business men who have been active and aggressive. In the last two years our city has noticeably developed as a trading center. One of the many efforts made by the association in a civic way, recently was an initial move to secure lower rates of fire insurance, which was by a technicality of our State regulations of insurance, referred to the Common Council, to whom much credit is due for the way in which it uncovered the methods of the fire insurance rating in this State.

President M. C. Van Arsdale states that the present effort is to reach a membership of 200 and along lines of other municipalities develop this city as a trading centre, through industrial conditions, civic betterments and the advertising of our city in various ways. The merchant and owner of real estate should join this association as the store and factory are the modern factors that give value to real estate. Many active places have lifted themselves from obscurity by local cooperation. Give Plainfield a boost with your help as a member of this progressive organization.

PLAINFIELD NOBLY ANSWERS APPEAL.

All honor is due the citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield for the noble manner in which they responded to the appeal for the Y. M. C. A.'s war fund. The allotment to this district was $75,000 and the figure was easily reached before the time limit expired, in fact, it was oversubscribed by a trifle more than $10,000. Such liberality on the part of a community previously besought by numerous worthy charities for financial support, could hardly be anticipated.

The splendid results show how the local citizens appreciate the good work for the soldier boys being done by the Y. M. C. A. and in giving they knew that every dollar meant comfort and care for the boys of this town as well as the hundreds of thousands of others from all parts of the country. The national organization fixed $35,000,000 as the amount necessary to continue its ministrations among the enlisted men and optimistic as they were they feared it would be difficult to secure this tremendous sum. Their apprehension was unwarranted, however, as a golden stream poured into headquarters until the grand total of $50,000,000 had been subscribed. Every penny will be spent for the boys who are giving themselves to the country's cause, and the Plainfielders who gave their individual "bit" can rest happy in the thought that it was for one of the most noble undertakings of the day. The thanks of the lads in the trenches will be their compensation.

THE VALUE OF A LETTER FROM THE "HOME FOLKS."

The home folks have made a very serious mistake if any of them think there is nothing to write to the boys over in France. There is everything to write. The enlisted men are more than anxious to find out all that is being done at home. Every scrap of news is important in their eyes.

Some who have been present when the mail comes in at the camps of the expeditionary forces tell how eagerly the men seize letters from home when they are handed out to them. They tear them open in haste. They literally devour their contents. Mess is forgotten when the soldier lad hears from the home folks.

The recipient of the home letter reads it once, then again to make sure he has not missed any fragment of news or word of affection or cheer. Then he sleeps on it and is caught reading it again during idle moments in the work of the following day. Home letters are being carried near the hearts of many a stalwart enlisted man until they are actually worn out.

The home folks should be careful not to neglect the boys who have gone so far away, wherever they may be in the service of their country. They should not ever be deluded into believing that the men have so much to occupy their attention that they are not interested in the trivial affairs of the home or the home community. They are, all of them, but big boys, after all, and cherish home ties as they cherish nothing else in all the world.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS.

Looks as though Mr. Monahan had slipped one over on the officials in taking the City Hall matter to the Court of Chancery. While they were busy trying to secure indictments, he was tightening his grip on the $13,000. Satisfaction gives one a feeling of having accomplished something, but it takes cold, hard cash to buy Liberty Bonds.

—o—

We looked upon it as a pardonable error when the Courier-News asserted John Cooper lived in Warrenville, but there is no excuse for the paper's statement that W. G. Besler resides in North Plainfield. His activity in the anti-two-platoon movement should have made it plain that he pays taxes on the city side of the brook. Next thing we know the Courier-News will be insisting Mayor Calkins has his mail sent to Oak Tree and Corporation Counsel Reed casts his vote at Bound Brook.

—o—

If Mr. Lounsberry's lawyer is wise he will allow only married men on the jury when the former bankman faces trial on a charge of embezzling $3,416. Any man who takes on two wives in these days of no salt and safe deposit vault sugar should have no trouble in proving hopeless insanity.

—o—

The Fourth ward looms up big and important today just as California did a year ago this month when Wilson and Hughes were on the anxious seat. All Plainfield awaits the answer that is to come from the last few ballot boxes in the West End of town.

—o—

We are in receipt of a communication from "constant reader" and hasten to assure him he is wrong in his supposition. The City Hall site is far removed from the business section as it stands now but when the building is finished it will be in the heart of town.

The next registrants who come before the Exemption Board are hereby warned not to claim a discharge on the ground that they have "water on the knee." The Government has just announced that it will provide pumps for all such cases.

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When a man could go hunting or fishing without taking out a license?

When the pupils in school were taught that the word "pedestrian" meant a person who did not ride a bicycle?

When the Front street stores placed clock-work mechanical figures in their windows to draw Christmas trade?

When the citizens of our town had to call at the Postoffice to get their mail or have a neighbor bring it home for them?

Six Men Accepted In Last Examination

Chairman W. R. Codington, of the Plainfield District Draft Board, this week announced the result on the recent examination of 108 registrants. Only six were accepted, the others being exempted or discharged for various reasons, mainly on dependency claims. It was stated at the office of the board this morning that no further examinations would be made for a time but another contingent may be sent to Camp Dix within a few weeks.

The following passed and have not been exempted or discharged:

David Jacobson
Constantine V. Delekas
Walter H. Wentzell

The following have been exempted or discharged within the meaning of the rules and regulations prescribed, either being in the service, or under the dependency clause or rejected because of physical defects:

W. Edwin Browne
George B. Howell
James E. Mauger
Louis G. Timpson

Felix Skrybeki, who was transferred to the board at Schenectady, N. Y., was discharged by that board as an alien, and David Jonap, who was transferred to the board at New Haven, Conn., is still awaiting decision as case is incomplete.

The following men have been discharged within the meaning of the rules and regulations prescribed, including rejections for physical defects, dependency clause and industrial causes:

Carl W. A. P. Helstrom
Carl Tietz
Robert H. Bellows
Carl S. Buck
Roland M. Davis
Francis M. Mansbery
Samuel A. Robinson
Vincent Bivona

Samuel Alleyne

The following failed to appear for examination and their names have been reported to the District Board:

Louis Isaacson
Michael J. E. Brown
George B. Wyckoff
John Costela

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE FOR STANDARD WORKMEN.

Judge James C. Connolly, of the Court of Common Pleas, appeared at the Elizabeth factory of the Standard Aero Corporation Monday afternoon to take under oath the pledge of allegiance of all the organization of the Standard Aero Corporation.

This corporation is working exclusively as principal aircraft manufacturer to the United States government and her allies, and the pledge of allegiance is taken to insure the loyalty of every workman as a measure against sabotage and other enemy alien practices.

This is the first time ti has been done by any government contractor and is done by the organization in the belief that the aircraft program will be materially advanced.

"Hero Land" Will Open Tomorrow Night

The attention of war relief workers throughout the United States has been centered the past week on the opening on tomorrow night, November 24, at the Grand Central Palace, New York, of "Hero Land," the war relief spectacle, which, for months past, has engaged the thoughts and the energies of hundreds of the most prominent men and women in America.

Each of the 100 National war relief organizations which are taking part in "Hero Land" is carrying out its own plans for its share in the entertainment, and these plans which are as numerous as the organizations themselves, provide for virtually every form of amusement which can be conceived.

Programs have now been outlined for each of the nineteen days, beginning on the opening night, Saturday, which will be American Night, and which will be attended by some of the most distinguished persons in official and unofficial life in America, and representing all of the governments engaged with the United States in the war against Germany.

Most of the entertainments are to be held in the Great Hall and all have been arranged under the supervision of Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, acting in conjunction with Arthur Voegtlin, former producer of the Hippodrome, who has been engaged to stage the specular features on the entertainment program.

A German aeroplane that was brought down by Guynemer, who has winged fifty enemy German and Austrian fliers, is among the exhibits brought from France for the French section.

Mrs. James W. Gerard, wife of the former ambassador to Germany, is to be chairman of the Cheshire Cheese, the reproduction of the old English eating house where foods will be prepared by a cook from the Cheshire Cheese, who arrived in New York last week. Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., is vice president. The Golden West Cabaret is to be one of the striking features and will be presided over by Mrs. Oliver Perrin, assisted by Mrs. Robert Cassett, Jr., Mrs. John Fagoe, who has charge of the Cafe de Paris, has waxed indignant over the story that this French cafe, which is to be another landmark of "Hero Land," is to charge $20 a plate for its service. She promises that the charges will be moderate enough to attract the most conservative diner-out.

The National League for Women's Service is to play a very important part in "Hero Land," and will have a few of the latest high-speed army dispatch machines, will be demonstrated by women drivers and mechanicians, while other members of the league will show their skill in preparing canteen rations.

The list of honorary patrons is now as follows: Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Arthur James Balfour, Henri Franklin-Rouillon, French Minister of State M. Andre Tardieu, High Commissioner of the French Republic; Viscount Reading, of British, G. C. B. K. U. V. O.; Lord Northcliffe; Count V. Macchi di Cellere, the Italian ambassador to the U. S. A.; Boris Bakhmeteff, the Russian ambassador to the U. S. A.; Viscount Ihli; A. Sato, the Japanese ambassador to the U. S. A.; R. de Cartier, the Belgian ambassador to the U. S. A.; Brigadier-General James D. McLachle, D. S. O.; Brigadier-General W. A. White, Governor Charles S. Whitman, John Purroy Mitchel and C. Oliver Bayley, British Consul-General.

COMMITTEES NAMED BY COUNTY CHAIRMAN McLEAN.

At a meeting of the Republican County Committee in Elizabeth, Chairman Donald McLean appointed the following sub-committees:

Outing—Francis J. Blatz, Harry B. Beltz, Charles A. Otto and James Casey.

Speakers and Halls—Herbert J. Roscoe, George H. Johnson, Frank J. Montford and Harry Schauble.

Finance—C. M. P. Egel, Palmer H. Charlock, L. V. P. Wilson, S. H. Tool and S. M. Cady.

He also announced the following committees to serve for the ensuing year: Executive, Frank H. Smith, chairman; Hamilton F. Kean, Donald H. McLean, George J. Stewart, Petter J. Olde, Charles A. Otto, Jr., William N. Newcorn, John J. Carroll, Thomas Searle, Charles N. Codding, John W. Clift, Robert C. Plume, Lloyd Thompson and Peter Tillman.

John F. Casey Writes of Life At Camp Gordon

Plainfielders have heard a lot about Camp Dix and Camp McClellan, because of so many local boys being at both places but so far very little has been heard of Camp Gordon, located near Atlanta, Ga. This cantonment has been primarily set aside for New York city National Army men but recently its personnel has been added to by recruits from New Jersey, and other States. So far as known, there were no Plainfielders at Camp Gordon until last week, when eight selected men from this city were transferred there from Camp Dix. One of them was John F. Casey, Jr., who, with his father, was engaged in the undertaking business, with offices at Park and North avenues, previous to being called for service. A letter received from him yesterday gives an idea of what is going on at Camp Gordon and personal details about himself that may be of interest to his many friends. The letter in part is as follows:

Sunday, Nov. 18, 1917.

Dear Friend:

This is Sunday morning and we have just finished cleaning horses. We have nothing to do now until 10 o'clock, at which time we go to church. They have called for volunteers to sing in the choir, but as "amber" is worth $8.00 a quart, I don't think any of our crowd will make good. Things are different here than they were at Camp Dix, in some ways they are better and in others they are worse. There is a lot of sickness here, measles, mumps and different kinds of fever. The company next to us is quarantined and I suppose we will be too if they don't check it soon.

We have to get up much earlier here on account of the horses and have to do twice as much guard duty as at Camp Dix. I am on stable guard tonight. This is a remount station and there are thousands of horses and mules here, our regiment alone having 300 horses and mules, four and six horses to a gun carriage. All the crowd from Camp Dix were split up but I have met a bunch of them this morning and they are in Companies A, B, C and D, 325th Infantry. Every Saturday the whole camp goes on march—about 60,000 men and 20,000 horses, —every wheel in camp turns and it is a great sight. You would think it was a circus. People come from all over the South.

I am in the Field Artillery and suppose I will stay there. I can ride good enough to get away with it. We have gun practice and drill from 7:00 to 11:00, and from 1:00 to 3:45, much shorter than that at Camp Dix, but if we are detailed to ride or drive we have to be up at 4:30, in order to feed, clean and harness, get our breakfast and be in readiness at 7:00.

The weather here is fine most of the time. You can go around in your shirt sleeves all through the day but from 9:00 o'clock on it is very cold. The mess in our particular company is very good, although some of the Plainfielders who are in other divisions tell me they are not faring so well. It is a very poor place for the boys who like a drink, because, aside from the Government ban on alcoholic beverages, Georgia is a dry State and those who sell liquor get a good price for it to take care of the fines that are imposed occasionally. Whiskey retails at one dollar a drink, and beer fifty cents a bottle. Atlanta is some city, about 175,000 in population. It is a half-hour ride from the camp, and we only get a pass about once in six weeks. Only ten per cent. of the battery is off every week. Most of the men in this cantonment are selected men from New York city and a new detachment of thousands from the East Side came in today. Don't think of anything more of interest just now, so will write again when the chance arrives.

Very sincerely,
JOHN F. CASEY,
Bat. A, 320th Reg.,
Field Artillery,
Camp Gordon, Ga.

PLAINFIELD DENTISTS GET ARMY COMMISSIONS.

Three Union county men were among the Jerseymen who recently received commissions of first lieutenants in the dental section of the Medical Corps of the army, according to a list of appointment just given out. They are: Samuel Loveman, of Cranford, and Dudley R. Miller and David B. Thickstun, both of Plainfield.

Dr. Miller is the son of Durley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, and Dr. Thickstun is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Thickstun, of Central avenue.

AMERICAN WONDERLANDS TO BE DESCRIBED IN AID OF P.-T. ASSOCIATION.

Now that the blood-stained hands of war has closed the gates of Europe to the vacation tourist, it is time that he turned his thoughts to the Wonderlands of America. Nowhere else in the world will one find mountain panoramas like those of Colorado and Estes-Rocky Mountain National Park, nowhere else will one find the climate and beauties of California which calls you to the Land of Sunshine and Flowers, nowhere else will you find such a valley like Yosemite, nowhere else a river like the Columbia and its New Highway, and nowhere else will you find a jewel-box of Nature's wonders as in Yellowstone Park, away upon the crest of the Rockies in Wyoming. These truly are Nature's Masterpieces and it is fitting and proper that Americans should know them as intimately as the great shrines of Europe.

The Parent-Teachers' Association of the North Plainfield High School has arranged to have these wonderlands of America presented in story and picture at the Y. M. C. A. Hall in Plainfield on Monday evening, November 26th, in cooperation with the Union Pacific System, a beautifully illustrated lecture, showing the marvels of the Great West from the Rockies to the Ocean, will be given by Robert G. Weyh, Jr., who has lectured in Plainfield many times and whose magnificent pictures are still vivid in the memory of the writer who heard him years ago. To add to the interest of the lecture, Mr. Weyh will in addition to two hundred slides, use two thousand feet of colored motion film showing Estes-Rocky Mountain National Park, the New Wonderland of Colorado and also the geysers, bear and deer of Yellowstone, with its wonderful falls dropping into the Canon of the Yellowstone, twice the height of Niagara.

This lecture is being given for the benefit of the Parent-Teachers' Association and it is hoped that a large audience will make this evening one long to be remembered in Plainfield.

As Competent—Possibly.

(From the Kansas City Star.)

Perhaps there is some excuse for Lloyd George's feeling that he might handle the strategy of the Allied campaigns at least as well as the military men have handled it so far.

Seals Above The Ground

The famous Norwalk Cement Burial Vault is now sealed above the ground in plain sight of the family. Any burial receptacle, however waterproof and durable, is worthless unless its seal is a perfect one. The Norwalk Vault with its 3 inch depth of seal is tried and proven 100% efficient. The proof of which we say, is 10 years of steadily increasing business—the burial of between 250,000 and 300,000 vaults in every section of the United States. OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

CALEB DICKINSON.

Word was received in Plainfield this week of the death of Caleb Dickinson, a former well-known resident of this city, which occurred at his home in Newark, Monday. The funeral was held at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. William I. Clarke, of Sumner avenue Newark, Wednesday night, and was attended by many local relatives and friends.

Mr. Dickinson, who was sixty-one years old, was a resident of Plainfield many years, and kept a jewelry store on Park avenue, where James Blair is now located. Later, about 1895, he removed to 142 North avenue. He lived at 141 East Fifth street.

Mr. Dickinson was a native of Plainfield and related to the Clawson family, who owned much property near the present site of Muhlenberg Hospital.

When he was a boy of fifteen in school, Asa Collier took him as apprentice in the jewelry business, and his employer always impressed with his qualities as a salesman. In later year Mr. Dickinson opened business for himself in what is now the dining room of the Kensington Hotel, on North avenue, but later removed to Park avenue. For a time he was associated in the business with Daniel Clawson, under the firm name of Dickinson & Clawson. Leaving Plainfield twenty-three years ago he engaged in the jewelry business in Newark, which he continued until his death.

Some time ago he underwent a difficult surgical operation and it is thought he never fully recovered from his ailment. He had visited Plainfield often in past years.

MRS. JEANETTE B. LARSON.

A large number of local friends were among the mourners who attended the funeral of Mrs. Jeanette B. Larson at Westfield, Monday. She was the widow of George Larson, who died at Westfield two years ago, and after his death came to Plainfield to make her home with her sister, Mrs. Sophie Larson, of 510 Park avenue. Later she went to Philadelphia to make her home with another sister, and died in that city last Friday. Mrs. Larson had many friends here. Beside the sisters mentioned, she is survived by two sons, Arthur and George Larson, living in Reading, Pa., and a brother whose home is in Brooklyn.

MRS. ANNA KADISH.

Mrs. Anna Kadish, widow of Michael Kadish, whose home was at 514 West Third street, died in Muhlenberg Hospital, Wednesday night, after a brief illness. She was fifty-two years old and had resided in this city a long time. Her husband died in 1915 and her only near surviving relatives are two sons.

The funeral was held at the late home on West Third street yesterday afternoon and burial was in the cemetery at Samptown

MRS. MARY PIERSON.

Mrs. Mary Pierson, aged sixty-three years, died in Muhlenberg Hospital, Wednesday morning. Her home was at 520 West Second street. The funeral will be held in the Shiloh Baptist church tomorrow afternoon and burial will be in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery.

WILLIAM HOWARD, JR.

William Howard, Jr., the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Howard, of Hartford, Conn., died in that city last Saturday. The family formerly lived in Plainfield and the body was brought here for the funeral, which was held at the home of the boy's grandmother, Mrs. A. Henry, of West Fourth street, Wednesday afternoon. It was in charge of Rev. F. L. Imes and was largely attended. The Bethel chapel choir sang several hymns, one of them being "Nearer My God to Thee," a favorite of the deceased. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery.

BENJAMIN RICHARDSON.

Benjamin Richardson, aged forty-five years, died Tuesday morning at his home on West Fourth street following a long illness. He is survived by his wife. The funeral was held at 10 o'clock this morning at the funeral chapel of Cole & High on West Second street, and was conducted by Rev. Mr. Roberts. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery.

MISS ELIZABETH EARL.

Miss Elizabeth Earl, who had been in North Plainfield only a short time, died at her apartment on Westervelt avenue, Wednesday night. She was born in New York city in 1837 and had resided there most of her life. She is survived by a number of relatives. There was no local service but one will be held at the graveside when interment is made in the cemetery at Elizabeth today.

COMMENT EXPRESSED BY NEWSPAPER MEN IN THIS AND OTHER STATES ON CURRENT TOPICS.

War Gossip.

(From the Philadelphia Record)

The stories of the appalling immorality about the cantonments may not have been started by Germans, but they sound very much like the talk of the terrible mortality at the front—that officers only last two days and enlisted men less than a week, and that aviators, of whom the Germans are particularly afraid, only last four days.

A Pittsburgh society of patriotic women obtained evidence that Germans were circulating these exaggerated stories of casualties for the purpose of scaring Americans out of enlisting. Of course, they had no such effect. But they have caused cruel and needless distress to fathers and mothers whose sons are in the army.

No precise calculations of mortality in the war are possible, because the Governments do not care to disclose the number of men they have, but enough is known to prove that the stories of excessive casualties are fictions, and they are probably malicious and disloyal fictions. We know that many of the sailors have been fighting in the air since early in the war, and that if the average survival was only four days this would be impossible. Germans and German sympathizers start these absurd stories in the hope that they will create pacifism through cowardice, and well-meaning but foolish gossips repeat them. They heard it somewhere; they saw it somewhere. They do not stop to ask whether it is true, or even probable, nor do they stop to think of the probable origin of these stories, and of the effect that may perhaps be produced by repeating them. The war gossip is an injurious person; if one does hear or see these stories, why should one pass them along?

And much the same is true of criticisms of the Government—our Government, the British Government, every Allied Government. There is no reason to suppose that all are not doing as well as they can, and there is a good deal of evidence that they are doing very well, considering all the circumstances. They are not infallible, and it is hardly possible for them to have a single authority, as the Germans have. But it is neither patriotic nor sensible to dwell extensively on the errors of Governments and point out what might have been. "Hindsight" is notoriously easy—and useless.

Ford's Strategy.

(From the New York Sun.)

Henry Ford has changed his strategy, not his purpose. Soft soaping having failed to get the boys out of the trenches he'll try multiple conscription, and he offers a maximum efficiency, standardization and mobilization of ingenuity on the Boche and see how that works out.

May Fall Yet.

(From the Savannah News.)

The Teutons' great smash into Italy will have been an utter failure after all, from the viewpoint of Germany, unless it develops something that can be relied on to starch Austria's backbone for the coming winter.

The Form of Mourning.

(New York Herald.)

The war tragedy will continue for months. The United States will be drawn more and more into it as the days and weeks go by. The casualty lists will soon lengthen as the red days of sacrifice come and go. There will be mourning in many American homes—it cannot be avoided.

The hearts of mothers will almost stop beating as they read the names of sons in the list of the dead. The world will suddenly become almost void to a wife who reads that her husband has been called upon to make the supreme sacrifice. Grief will turn the melody of love that sings in the many hearts of those who have sent their loved ones into the war into the jangling discord of anguish and woe. Americans, realizing what is likely to happen, are already steeling their hearts to withstand the shock when they are called upon to part from stalwart men near and dear to them.

The question has already arisen as to what form of mourning shall be adopted in this country. It is a question that was answered by Germany by the proclamation of the Kaiser, who commanded his subjects to abjure mourning. Great Britain has also eliminated the evidences of mourning that are seen in a mourning garb. France has made no regulations and the presumption is that the entire country is swathed in mourning garments and factories have been employed in producing crepe that might have been better employed.

There seems to be a wide difference of opinion about what should be done in our own country. The consensus of opinion appears to be, however, that a decision should be reached in a matter so important. Different suggestions have been made. One offered by women of Chicago is that those who are called on to mourn the loss of relatives in battle shall wear a gold star rather than a mourning garb. The greater number of women of prominence who have been appealed to are evidently opposed to the mourning garb in such a time and under such circumstances. Prominent women are advising that there are better ways of showing one's bereavement than by wearing crepe.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Phillips, of Kensington avenue, celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary Saturday evening with a family dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levis M. Booth, of Kensington avenue.

Peter J. Galbraith, who has been making his home with his brother, Daniel Galbraith, of 611 Spooner avenue, is now at the Naval Base Hospital at Pelham, N. Y., having enlisted in this service some time ago. He will accompany the American Expeditionary Forces to France as a male nurse, having acquired the profession in the State Hospital at Trenton and later in a post-graduate course at Johns-Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. At one time Mr. Galbraith was supervisor of nurses at Sailors' Snug Harbor at Staten Island. He is a member of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus and Court Plainfield I. O. F.

The thank-offering tea of the Woman's Association and Young Woman's Missionary Society of the Congregational church was held Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. C. A. Rise, West Seventh street. Mrs. John Whiton read a paper on "Christian Ideals Expressed Through Institutions Other Than the Church."

John E. High, of the undertaking firm of Cole & High, who has been residing on West Second street since coming to this city, has purchased the resident property of Godfrey J. Weinman, at 53 Sandford avenue, and will take possession shortly. Mr. Welnman has not yet announced his future address.

The Charity Organization Society has passed resolutions of regret at the retirement of Mrs. Charles E. Ryder, who resigned recently after thirty-five years of continuous service in the organization. At the time of her withdrawal she was acting as vice president and chairman of the relief committee.

St. Mary's T. A. B. Society will raise American and service flags at its clubhouse on West Fourth street, Thanksgiving afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be addresses by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan and Joseph T. McCue, the president. Margaret Gulnee, the little daughter of Daniel Gulnee, one of the active workers in the T. A. B. Society, will raise the flags.

Miss Margaret Mead, of East Front street, who recently returned after a trip to the battle fronts in the interests of Y. W. C. A. war work, gave an interesting account of her experiences at the local Y. W. C. A. last night. She was heard by a large and interested gathering.

Employes of the International Motor Company raised a service flag Wednesday afternoon directly over the main entrance to the plant. The flag, which contains thirty-two stars, representing the number of men from the plant now in service in the army or navy, was unfurled without any special ceremony. The position it occupies is a prominent one and can be seen for a considerable distance.

On an order issued by Vice Chancellor Walker, the Elizabeth police on Wednesday took Leonce Texier, formerly of this city, into custody. It was charged by his wife, Mrs. Elford Texier, of North Plainfield, that she believed he was about to leave the State and wanted him bonded to insure her the payment of alimony. The defendant was released in $2,000 bail, his father, Hipolyte Texier, of Watchung, furnishing the security.

John J. Swan, of this city, captain of engineers, Officers' Reserve Corps, U. S. A., has been called to Washington as mechanical assistant in the committee on classification of personnel in the army division to trade tests. His headquarters will be in the War Department.

In the City Court, Wednesday morning, Judge Demeza dismissed the case of Edward Heath and Alfred Bayne, two automobile drivers, who were arrested on a technical charge last week following a collision between their vehicles at Plainfield avenue and Third street. The two men agreed to settle the damage for the cars among themselves.

Two Plainfield widows were this week granted widows' pensions by Judge J. Connolly, sitting in the Orphans' Court in Elizabeth. They are Mrs. Daisy Berg, widow of Joseph Berg, who is to receive twenty-two dollars a month to aid in the maintenance of herself and five children, and Mrs. Hazel Doig, widow of James Doig, who is to receive fourteen dollars a mont hfor herself and two children. The application of Mrs. Minnie Jones, widow of William Jones, was refused.

Under the auspices of the Plainfield-North Plainfield Chapter of the Red Cross, a benefit dance will be given in the Park Club next Wednesday night. The entire proceedings will be used for the work of the local Red Cross. The committee in charge in arranging for the dance is composed of Charles W. McCutchen, chairman; Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. Allen Cowperthwaite, Albert A. Tilney and Mrs. Chester B. Lawrence.

William Hill, of South avenue, and Joseph Johnson, of South Second street, who were recently released from the Jamesburg Reform School, were returned to that institution by Judge DeMeza this week. The two boys were arraigned on a charge preferred by Mrs. Marie Glebelhouse, of 625 West Front street, that they had deliberately killed four of her chickens, afterwards throwing them back in the hen house. Michael Wood, another boy, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza, Wednesday and committed to the Catholic Protectory at Arlington as an incorrigible.

Under the auspices of the Woman's League, a successful euchre was conducted in St. Joseph's Parish Hall, last night. It was largely attended and greatly enjoyed by everyone. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of St. Joseph's parish.

George T. Berry, field secretary of the American McAll Association, who has recently returned from France, gave an interesting description of his experience before a gathering at the home of Mrs. C. Boardman Tyler, of West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon.

The Plainfield Dental Society held its quarterly business session and dinner at the Park Club, Wednesday night. Local physicians were special guests in order to hear Dr. A. M. Nordine, a member of the U. S. Medical Reserve Corps, tell of his experiences among the allied soldiers in Europe.

Assemblyman Pierson Chosen Floor Leader

Without a single contest the forty-six Republican members of the House of the Legislature selected the four principal officers of the Assembly at a conference in the State House at Trenton Tuesday afternoon.

Assemblyman Charles A. Wolverton, of Camden county, was chosen as Speaker; Assemblyman Arthur N. Pierson, of Union county, as leader of the Republican majority on the floor; Upton S. Jefferys, of Camden county, as clerk of the House, and James Parker, of Passaic county, as assistant clerk. All of these selections were by unanimous vote.

"Jack" Todd Quits Selling Real Estate

"Jack" Todd, Plainfield's well-known vocalist and amateur minstrel man who left town last February with the Oklahoma Land Company's car salesmen, has left off selling Southwestern United States real estate to take a new position. Many letters received by local friends from him yesterday state that he is now representing the Silver Plume Consolidated Mining Company, an organization which has twenty-two big claims in Colorado. The organization is one of the best known of the kind in this country and has been developing rapidly since 1914.

Mr. Todd's headquarters will be at Denver but he will occasionally visit all the big cities of the Middle West and Pacific coast. He is enthusiastic over his new venture, declaring that it is the "chance of a lifetime" as people near the mines need no inducement to purchase stock in the Silver Plume Company. Since leaving Plainfield with the Oklahoma Land Company's party, Mr. Todd has traversed a large part of the United States and Canada in a special car which was side-tracked in this city for a week last winter. Business has been good everywhere but "Jack" decided that the mining game had a much better future than that offered by Oklahoma real estate.

FIRST JERSEYMAN DIES AT CAMP McCLELLAN.

Miss Sergeant Harry McClane, of Somerville, died Monday morning in the division hospital at Camp McClellan, following an illness of typhoid fever. His body was shipped back to Jersey Monday night.

McClane went to Anniston as a member of the old Second Infantry of New Jersey and was transferred to the 109th Field Bakery in the reorganization. His death is the first among Jerseymen at this cantonment.

SHERIFF'S FACE COST PLAINFIELDER $484.83.

It cost Howard G. Lansley, of this city, Democratic candidate for sheriff of Union county, $484.83 in his futile effort to beat James E. Warner, according to his expense account filed with the county clerk this week.

William N. Runyon, Republican State Senator-elect, gave $100 to the Republican County Committee, which he had designated as his agent.

J. Edward Rayne, Democratic candidate for coroner, who was successful, attested he had no expense. Peter Daily, Prohibition candidate for the Assembly, spent 76 cents for postage in his endeavor to be elected.

Big Garage Included In Building Permits

Contractor George D. Wilson began work this week on the erection of a fine big garage for former Councilman Richard A. Claybrook on his premises at 804 Grant avenue. It will take the place of the one destroyed by fire some time ago. The building will be of frame construction and will be of ornate exterior appearance. The cost is estimated at $2,486. The plans were drawn by Architect George Fisher, who is now located at Governor's Island in Uncle Sam's service.

The permit for the Claybrook garage was one of several issued by Building Inspector Doane during the past week. The others are as follows: Frame garage, Frank H. Smith, owner. The location at owner's residential property on West Eighth street, opposite Spooner avenue. Estimated cost $1,500. A. L. C. Marsh drew the plans and George D. Wilson has the contract.

Frame dwelling, two-family style, on Sachar place. Charles V. Smith, of Greenbrook road, owner. Estimated cost $4,000. William D. Bird, of Greenbrook road, has the general contract. A permit for a duplicate of this building was also granted. It will be erected at the southwest corner of Clinton avenue and West Third street. William D. Bird has the carpentering contract and J. M. Hyer will do the mason work. Fred L. Lanesster was the architect in both instances.

A frame dwelling to cost $5,000 will be erected at 1000 Myrtle avenue by James C. Manning, who is also the carpenter. Lee Manning will do the mason work. The structure will have all modern improvements and will have a unique feature in that the cellar walls will be built high enough to permit a portion of it to be used as a garage. This idea was embodied in the construction of a house on the corner of Myrtle and Sycamore avenues, the borough, and has been found to be satisfactory.

Dr. Thomas D. Blair has been granted a permit to erect a hollow tile addition to the resident's property on Park avenue which he occupies. The new part will be used as an office. R. V. Kinney will do the carpentering and Alfonso Ciocl the tile work. The estimated cost is placed at $600.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Amrose, of Leland avenue, have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. John Collins, of New York, during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lindsey, formerly of this city, but recently of Boston, spent the week-end with Mr. Lindsey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey, of Park avenue.

Waldorf C. Ulrich Weds Mrs. F. L. Roome

The marriage of Mrs. Florence Louise Roome, of 337 East Seventh street, to Waldorf Carteret Ulrich, also of East Seventh street, took place Sunday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Methodist church, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson officiating. The couple was accompanied by Mrs. Evelyn H. Lewis, of Plainfield. The bride, who divorced William J. Roome, Jr., some time ago, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Weed, of New York.

The bridegroom is a son of former Judge and Mrs. John Ulrich, for many years residents of Plainfield.

HUTCHINSON ALREADY IN LINE FOR REELECTION.

Probably the first Congressional candidacy announcement for next year's campaign in this State is that from Representative Elliftah C. Hutchinson, of the Fourth District, comprising Mercer, Hunterdon and Somerset counties. Mr. Hutchinson bases his appeal on his service as a member of the Agricultural Committee at Washington, which prepared the food control bill. The Congressman, who is a Republican, believes his experience entitles him to further service.

THREE NOTED PHYSICIANS NOW WITH PERSHING.

Surgeon General Gorgas, chief of the medical corps of the army, yesterday announced the appointment of directors of specialized surgery with the American expeditionary forces in France. Prof. John M. T. Kinney, formerly of Johns Hopkins University Hospital, Baltimore, has been named director general of surgery. Maj. Hugh M. Young, also of Johns Hospital, is appointed director of surgery of skin diseases.

Lieutenant Colonel Joseph F. Siler, of the medical corps of the army, has been appointed director of laboratories. The three surgeons already are in France.

YOUNG FOLKS ENJOY ELKS' INFORMAL DANCE.

An informal dance given by Plainfield Lodge of Elks in the Watchung avenue clubhouse last night, was enjoyed by 150 young people. The affair took the place of the regular Thanksgiving reception, because of the lodge room being set aside next Thursday night for an entertainment for members only. DeLisle's orchestra furnished the music and the program was a most excellent one.

The committee which, arranged and had charge of the dance was composed of Frank R. Emmons, chairman; Hillaire Blatz, Herman Kling, Thomas A. Moore and Hurbert L. Hetfield.

Troop D and Company K Boys Appreciate Need of "Breaking Up," Plainfielder Says

That Anniston, Ala., is an ideal training spot for New Jersey soldiers and that the Plainfield boys have fitted into the military routine of Camp McClellan as though they had been used to it all their lives, is the view taken by William D. Thickstun, of Central avenue, who returned a few days ago after a week's stay in the Southern town. While his stopping place was in the city proper, Mr. Thickstun spent most of his time at the big cantonment as his son, Robert Thickstun, is a member of the Headquarters Company there. The Plainfielder is enthusiastic over the entire place and believes that if other people from this city made a similar trip they would have a vastly different idea of what is going on in this big training field.

Mr. Thickstun describes Anniston as being an up-to-date town in every respect. The hotels are in keeping with those of the big towns of the North, the executives are men of ability and the municipal improvements are all that could be desired. Of course, railroads, hotels or business houses and postoffice are pushed to more than their capacity because of the great volume of business brought in by the soldiers but everything is being handled as well as could be expected under such circumstances. The Plainfielder found the town's people very hospitable and entertaining every feeling of respect and cooperation toward the Northern soldiers. The military police have relieved the regular officers of guarding the city's peace and welfare and the utmost order is maintained at all times.

Camp McClellan is about four miles from Anniston and is a great big city in itself, nevertheless the government has gotten the reservation in such shape that it seems incredible that only a short time ago the territory was nothing but plantations or wooded hillsides. Last accounts there were fifty thousand men under instruction at the Camp, but this number is not stationary for more than a day or two at a time. Recruits are coming in at regular intervals and other men are going out for further training elsewhere.

Plainfield naturally took a great interest in Camp McClellan when Troop D and Company K were sent to that point. For a time the local organizations maintained their identity, but in the course of military perfection the men were assigned to other divisions, it meant a great deal to the boys who had known each other from "kid" days and at first they did not take kindly to the government's distribution. It only required a few days, however, to show them the wisdom of the procedure and with hardly a single exception, the resentment has worn off. Every man is now applying himself to his appointed duty and when the various units move on to France, Plainfield will be represented in a large number of divisions.

Mr. Thickstun declares that it is wonderful how the local young men have entered into the spirit of military preparation. It was no easy matter to leave off private life, with all its comforts and individual pleasures and in its place begin the hard camp routine that toughens a man and prepares him for the greatest duty a country knows, yet all of them assert that he would not leave the army if they had the chance. The regulation drilling calls for a "grind" in the morning and afternoon but recreation hours are given at regular intervals and the boys enjoy them to the utmost. Mr. Thickstun received such uniform courtesy from officers and privates alike that he cannot say too much in behalf of "Uncle Sam's Boys." As he puts it, "the only way to really know what is going on at Anniston, is to take a trip down. It is well worth the time and money spent."

Fifty-Cent Turkey and Scarcity of Salt No Bar to Plainfielders' Thanksgiving Plans

With the approach of Thanksgiving it becomes more and more apparent that advance rumors of fifty-cent turkey were not very far out of the way. An investigation on the part of a Record reporter yesterday discloses the information that wholesalers are asking from thirty-five cents to forty cents a pound for the "national bird." By the time they are in their markets ready for customers it is plainly apparent that not less than forty-five cents a pound will be asked and the fresh killed Jersey variety will surely bring a half dollar for evevry sixteen ounces.

The fifty-cent limit is probably the highest price that has ever been paid by the American people for the guestwork of their Thanksgiving feast. Even back in Civil War days when gobblers were not nearly so plentiful as they are now, medium sized birds could be had for three dollars each, and the "oldest inhabitant" declares he never heard of them going beyond forty cents to the pound. Turkey holds the same station to Thanksgiving, however, as the gift-making does to Christmas, and the real, sure enough American is going to have some of that "white meat and dark meat" for his dinner next Thursday, no matter what it costs him. Even Mr. Hoover's warning to go easy on the "eats" has proven no discouragement, as orders now on hand with the dealers compare favorably with those of previous seasons. There was a falling off in turkey purchasing last year owing to what was considered a scandalous price of thirty-eight and forty cents, but at the eleventh hour on Thanksgiving eve there was a tremendous slump in quotations. Fine birds could be had that night for thirty cents and in New York and Philadelphia they went begging at a quarter a pound. There are some who figure that a similar drop might come this time but those who want to make sure of having a fine specimen on the table next Thursday should not lay too much capital on reports.

It is hardly necessary for the Record reporter to state that his inquiries at the local markets showed the price of everything to be exceptionally high. The housewife knows only too well that sugar is hard to get at ten and eleven cents a pound and that white potatoes are bringing a dollar a basket, except where far-sighted dealers layed in such a big stoc kthat they are able to sell at ninety cents for sixteen quarts. The house wife also knows that salt, that never before failing commodity, is not only scarce but bringing from thirty to fifty per cent. more than it was last year. The appetising plum pudding will represent an expenditure double what it did in 1916 and even the slices of bread will be mute evidence of what war prices mean.

The only oasis in this desert of high cost is provided by cranberries and sweet potatoes. The former are plentiful at an average price of ten cents per quart and the latter are selling at four quarts for a quarter. These are about the same figures quoted for the last couple of years but even at that they are much above what was asked for them before hostilities started in Europe. Taken all in all the Plainfield father who sits down to the annual feast on Thanksgiving Day will be forcibly reminded on more than one occasion that the biggest dinner of the year has set his finances back twice as far as it did twelve months ago. Nevertheless he will make no complaint as there are many of his kind who are giving greater sacrifice on the battlefields, in the cantonments and on the ships and when their work has been accomplished conditions will be bettered for all time.

U. S. Thrift Plan Announced In Detail

The war-savings plan provided for in the last bond act, of September 24, 1917, has been formulated and announced by the United States Treasury Department and goes into operation on Monday, December 3.

The plan puts it easily in reach of every American citizen to save money and at the same time aid the Government by supplying it with the sinews of war.

Stamps, which are the Government's certificates of indebtedness, are to be sold in two denominations—thrift stamps, which cost twenty-five cents each, and war-savings stamped which cost from $4.12 to $4.22 each, according to the month in which they are purchased.

With the first thrift stamp the purchaser is given a thrift card with spaces for sixteen stamps. When sixteen thrift stamps have been purchased and affixed the thrift card can be exchanged for a war-savings stamp by paying the difference between the $4 the thrift stamps represent and the current value of a war-savings stamp, which in December, 1917, and January, 1918, will be $4.12, and thereafter one cent for each succeeding month during the year 1918.

With the first war-savings stamp obtained by purchase or exchange the owner is given a war-savings certificate containing spaces for twenty war-savings stamps. If the twenty spaces are filled during December, 1917, or January, 1918, the cost to the purchaser will be $4.12 for each stamp, of $82.40 for the full certificate, and on the first day of January, 1923, the Government will redeem the certificate at $100, giving the holder a net profit of $17.60 for the use of his money.

Although these investments do not mature until January 1, 1923, provision is made whereby upon ten days' written notice after January 1, 1918, such certificates will be redeemed by postmasters at their cost to the purchasers plus one cent a month on each war-savings stamp on the certificate.

The thrift stamps do not bear interest, but the war-savings stamps bear four per cent., compounded quarterly. The certificates will be dated January 2, 1918, and mature January 1, 1923.

Under the plan an amount as small as twenty-five cents can be invested in a Government security, and as soon as $4 has been thus invested an interest-bearing certificates of the United States Government can be secured.

The stamps and certificates can be obtained from postoffices, banks or trust companies, at most railroad stations, stores, factories and many other public places.

Having the entire wealth of the United States back of them, and being redeemable as above stated, there is no danger of any depreciation in value of the certificates.

Card Indexing Men Camped at Anniston

Card indexing of the personnel of the Blue and Gray Division, whereby the regimental and divisional heads may get a line on the educational and vocational qualifications of every man, is under way, with surveys of three Jersey and one Maryland organizations already completed. Sixty officers are engaged in the work, which involved a personal interview with every one of the 27,000 men in the division.

Filled out and filed are the cards of the 104th Engineers, the 104th Field Signal Battalion, the Divisional Headquarters Troop, made up almost entirely of Jerseymen, and the 115th Infantry, a Maryland unit. In a short time an inventory of the man-power of the Fifty-seventh Infantry and the Fifty-fourth Artillery brigades will begin.

At the head of the personnel system is Captain D. M. Simons, who several years ago lived in Elizabeth. Assisting him and in charge of the office work is Captain Bert Batterson, formerly head of the machine gun company of the First New Jersey Infantry; Kenneth Weisiger, a civilian expert in that line of work from Atlanta, and a detail of officers about sixty in number, lately assigned to the Depot Brigade.

When the work of indexing ga unit begins, the officers occupy regimental mess shacks and the men are sent into them for the interviews. They learn who the man is, what his education and what business or professional experience he has had. If he is a tradesman, they learn how many years he has worked and exactly what branch of his trade he is most expert in.

The findings are listed on two cards, one buff, the other white. The former is kept by the unit commander, the latter goes to division headquarters. At the top of the card are numbers, each indicating a different occupation. Over the one of these that corresponds to the man's occupation, a colored slip that projects above the top of the card is pasted.

If the man is skilled in just an ordinary degree, a red slip is used. If, on the other hand, he is an expert in that particular branch, a green slip is used. The cards are filed, and when a man is wanted for a particular line of work a glance at the file suffices to produce him.

The personnel work, new in the Army with this war, began in the National Army and is now under way in all the National Guard divisions. From them it will go to the regular army. When a man is transferred his cards will go with him and be filed with those of his new command.

In the surveys, so far, all varieties of workmen have been found. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker is here. One doughboy confessed to being both a stone cutter and a hair cutter, an expert either with the chisel or the scissors. Completion of the work will require several weeks.

Nothing on the big reservation is to be allowed to go to waste in the training of the division for war. To take charge of the reclamation of all the barbed wire left in the fields and woods by farmers who formerly owned the land, Captain C. G. Woolson, of Company A, 104th Engineers, of East Orange, has been placed at the head of a corps of workmen.

They will need barbed wire to use in all the trench systems that are being built in camp, the bayonet runs, manoeuver trenches, obstacle courses. To supply this need, the wire will be utilized. More than twenty-five miles of it, in value exceeding $1,000, it is expected, will be reclaimed. Captain Woolson, picking squads of engineers for the work, began last week in the eastern part of the reservation, in the mountain section. Each squad takes with it drums to wind the wire, and on these brings it back to camp, where it is distributed for use. The men have located barbed wire everywhere, in fields and in wooded sections.

This week Captain Woolson and his men will complete work in the vicinity of the rifle ranges. While he is carrying on the reclamation, Captain Woolson has been detached from his company and Lieutenant Allan L. Trimpi has been placed in command of it.

Similar to a gift sent some time ago to the 113th Infantry, the New Jersey Soldiers and Sailors' Relief League has sent 800 knitted sweaters to the men of the 114th Infantry, in whose ranks are many from the old Third and Fifth New Jersey regiments. The sweaters are now being distributed among the men, those who have none being given first call. Many of the men have sweaters sent to them from home and as far as possible efforts are made to prevent a duplication.

FIRST DRAFT COST FROM $3 TO $7 PER MAN.

High expense of conducting the first draft resulted in a change announced yesterday by which a United States army reserve officer is appointed disbursing officer in each State. Thus the financial affairs of future drafts are standardized under the Provost Marshal General's office at Washington. The officer will act as assistant to the State Adjutant General.

The States showed such a wide range of expenses—$3 to $17 per drafted man—that this precaution was decided on.

The local and district boards were informed of the change in the new draft regulations made public yesterday. The 254-page book contains every bit of information the boards need in their work.

More Battlefront For Camp McClellan

More trenches and battlefields are on the books for Camp McClellan. Following surveys by French officers of those already under construction, ground has been broken for a section of "battlefront," for automatic rifle practice and another for grenade practice. Both areas will be about 150 by 400 yards in size.

The decision to build the additional training sections was made after the arrival at Camp McClellan of the chief of the French officers who are to help instruct the division, Captain Rene de Cernowitz, wearer of the cross of the Legion of Honor and a great grandson of Colonel Marquis de Ravenel, who fought in this country with Lafayette. Captain de Cernowitz is from the 105th Infantry of France, an expert with the hand grenade.

Captain de Cernowitz has visited many of the village in Belgium and Northern France where American relief work is under way and praised without stint the things that are being done there by people from this country.

Yesterday Lieutenant Colonel Milton A. Reckord, of the 115th Infantry, head of the division's school of musketry and arms, conducted Captain de Cernowitz and Lieutenant Raymond d'Aiguy, an automatic rifle expert, who has been at camp nearly a month, over the new rifle ranges and then down in the hills to pick a site for the grenade and automatic rifle practice grounds. In both sections trench systems will be built and dynamite will blast shell craters. On the months data then back the areas, targets will be placed and mimic advances with automatic rifles and grenades will be conducted over both courses.

As soon as the courses are finished, Captain de Cernowitz and Lieutenant d'Aiguy will begin their field work, taking the officers who are attending divisional schools over them first and gradually working down through the division.

With Captain de Cernowitz is an adjutant, Jean de Renasson, of the 277th French Infantry, and two sergeants, Rene Lancelon, of the First Engineers, and Daniel Doyen, of the 227th Artillery. Sergeant Doyen was in Omaha in railroad work for five years before the war and speaks English fluently. He joined the French army shortly before the outbreak of the war and was wounded at the Marne. On the Somme in 1916 he won the croix de guerre.

Both Adjutant de Renasson and Sergeant Lancelon are holders of the war cross also. The former won it at Verdun, where he fought forty-five days in the great German offensive, and the latter on two citations, in Alsace and on the Somme. De Renasson is a hand grenade expert; Lancelon an engineer. The latter is quartered with the 104th Engineer Regiment, made up of New Jersey troops. Sergeant Doyen is with the artillery brigade, to which he will work as an instructor.

Voluntary Enlisting Not to Be Allowed After December 15

Voluntary enlistment of all men between the ages of 21 and 31 years in the United States Army will cease on December 15.

This is the most drastic change made by the new selective draft regulations announced by Provost Marshal General Crowder today. Men between these ages may enlist in the navy or marine corps upon presenting satisfactory evidence that their serial numbers are so high that they will not be affected by the second draft.

To offset the regulations prohibiting the voluntary enlistment of men of draft age after December 15, provisions are made for the special induction into service of specialized workers. Secretary of War Baker is given power to revoke the classification order of any registrant. Therefore, if the adjutant general sends out a call for 25,000 machinists for military duty, Secretary Baker will revoke the classification of machinists and the local boards will be so instructed. The quotas of each local board will then be drawn from the machinist registrants. When the required number of men is secured, the remainder will revert to their former classification. The power of revocation of classification by the Secretary of War does not apply to men classified because of dependencies. It applies only to industrial classifications.

Any registrant who desires to enlist may accomplish the same by a waiver of all classification. By so doing he automatically goes to the head of the list. But his waiver must be accompanied by waivers filed by any dependents that he may have.

The new regulations embody the five classifications of registrants as previously announced by General Crowder. The mailing of questionnaires will begin on December 15, and will be mailed to 5 per cent. of the registrants each day for ten days.

General Crowder announced today that a reserve officer will be appointed as an assistant to the adjutant general of each State to id in the work of classification. This officer will also have charge of the accounts relative to the expense of the draft machinery.

Official notice is also given by General Crowder that all exemptions and discharges heretofore granted are revoked by the new regulations.

Centralized Relief Begins Under Plan Suggested by Mayor

Mayor Calkins makes the following announcement regarding the plan for consolidating the coordinating activities in Plainfield for the welfare of enlisted men and their dependent families, whic he proposed early in October. His idea was to have a single central agency or bureau, charged with the responsibility of approving campaigns to solicit voluntary contributions to provide comforts and necessaries for enlisted men from this community, not provided by the Government, as well as relief for dependents. Hitherto this work has been carried on separately by the Volunteers' Auxiliary of Plainfield and North Plainfield, and other organizations, none of which has had precise knowledge of the extent of the work of the others, resulting in much overlapping and duplication.

"I am now able to announce that the Volunteers' Auxiliary of Plainfield and North Plainfield has merged into the local Red Cross Chapter, which will hereafter carry on, through an auxiliary sub-committee, the activities of the first named organization. The Red Cross has, at my request, agreed to act as an agency, who has been in camp nearly a month, over the new rifle ranges and then down in the hills to pick a site for the grenade and automatic rifle practice grounds. In both sections trench systems will be built and dynamite will blast shell craters. On the months data then back the areas, targets will be placed and mimic advances with automatic rifles and grenades will be conducted over both courses.

As soon as the courses are finished, Captain de Cernowitz and Lieutenant d'Aiguy will begin their field work, taking the officers who are attending divisional schools over them first and gradually working down through the division.

With Captain de Cernowitz is an adjutant, Jean de Renasson, of the 277th French Infantry, and two sergeants, Rene Lancelon, of the First Engineers, and Daniel Doyen, of the 227th Artillery. Sergeant Doyen was in Omaha in railroad work for five years before the war and speaks English fluently. He joined the French army shortly before the outbreak of the war and was wounded at the Marne. On the Somme in 1916 he won the croix de guerre.

Both Adjutant de Renasson and Sergeant Lancelon are holders of the war cross also. The former won it at Verdun, where he fought forty-five days in the great German offensive, and the latter on two citations, in Alsace and on the Somme. De Renasson is a hand grenade expert; Lancelon an engineer. The latter is quartered with the 104th Engineer Regiment, made up of New Jersey troops. Sergeant Doyen is with the artillery brigade, to which he will work as an instructor.

Reason Why Union Has a Low Tax Rate

Under the caption, "Union County's Tax Rate," the Elizabeth Journal has the following to say editorially of the reasons why the residents of this county pay a much smaller tax than those of other parts of the State:

"Possibly there are other counties of the State that in some particulars have secured more improvements or have extended their lines of public welfare and service work farther than Union county. It is very certain, however, that Union county is far beyond the average in progress. This county leads in important particulars. It leads in the extent and quality of its highway improvements. There is not another county in the State that has made such a splendid record in its anti-tuberculosis work. There is not another tuberculosis sanatorium in the country that is better administered or more successful than the one at Bonnie Burn. Union county, moreover, is not behind in mosquito extermination work.

"That the affairs of this county are economically administered is very evident from a comparison of its tax rate with the tax rates of other counties of the State. The average rate in the counties of the State is $5.53. The Union county rate is only $3.40. The rate in this county, in spite of the fact that its progress is as great as that of other counties and greater than that of most counties, is the very lowest in the State. The rate in Morris county, for instance, is $7.62, and the rate in many other counties approaches that figure.

"The rate in Union county, in spite of the fact that things are costing more in these unusual war times, was lowered rather than advanced this year. Almost everywhere tax rates have gone up and in many places have advanced enormously. Nor has the rate in this county been kept down through the exercise of undue parsimony. An investigation shows that it was kept down through the exercise of good financiering and through the practice of warranted economy."

GOVERNOR REVIEWS NEW JERSEY TROOPS AT CAMP McCLELLAN

The Blue and Gray Division at Camp McClellan was on Monday reviewed by Governor Edge, of New Jersey. The governor was honored at the direction of Brigadier General William C. Rafferty, the provisional commander of the division.

Monday was New Jersey Day, Governor Edge and his staff officers took the review from a stand on the northern side of the big division athletic field. Practically all of the soldiers from New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia marched past the New Jersey executive.

The troops of the New Jersey-Delaware infantry brigade, which is commanded by Brigadier General Charles W. Barber, of New Jersey, led the big line of organizations. General Barber, being the senior brigadier general under General Rafferty, assumed command of the division. The Fifty-seventh Brigade was commanded in the review by Colonel John S. Fraser, of the 113th Regiment.

On the reviewing stand were Governor Edge and the members of his military staff, including Colonel Myron W. Robinson, Lieutenant Colonel Mahlon R. Markerum, Quartermaster General E. Edward Murray and Major Howard Borden: Brigadier General Rafferty, Brigadier General Barber, members of the French and British instruction missions, members of the division and Fifty-seventh Infantry Brigade staffs and special attaches.

Observer Tells How War Is Americanizing France

Morris Newman, Who Enlisted From This City, Gives Interesting Facts After Four Trans-Atlantic Trips on Transport

The great war is in no small measure Americanizing France and will result in American products having a position of vantage from the commercial standpoint after the war, declared Maurice D. Newman, a former Plainfielder, who enlisted from this city last spring and who was in town this week, after his fourth trip to France as chief chemist on a transport.

Mr. Newman on this trip celebrated his twenty-fourth birthday anniversary among French people and he reports the incident as an occasion of pleasure that will ever be remembered with the warmest feelings toward the French for their hospitality and their anxiety to cheer the Americans who step within their doors.

Although he has been in the transport service only six months, Mr. Newman has made four trips to France. He is preparing for a fifth. He seems to enjoy the experience and expresses a willingness to travel the high seas for Uncle Sam as long as doing so will contribute to bringing the war to a successful finish. Mr. Newman says that he does not believe the danger he takes in traveling on the transports is any more pronounced than the danger from accidents surrounding people every day in civil life.

Mr. Newman was interested to find the French people fond of American chewing gum and asking him to bring American fountain pens and, in fact, to note that the American idea is thought by the French masses to be about correct in matters of industry, dress, government, in short, anything and everything.

The reception given American troops landing in France is not as elaborate as in the first instances, reports Mr. Newman, as American soldiers are now common in all parts of France, yet new men are always heartily welcomed. He says the American men in France are being intensively trained and the French look for a gigantic spring drive.

Mr. Newman came to Plainfield from Elizabeth and was employed for sometime at the United Drug Stores' local branch at Front and Somerset streets. Later he entered the office of the International Motor Company on West Front street, where he was working when an impulse to serve Uncle Sam sent him to the recruiting office. He enlisted in the Medical Reserve Corps in company with Charles Wendell, of Madison avenue, and Albert Bryniarski, of Duer street. The latter two are also chemists who worked at the Front street branch of the United Drug Stores, and left for France some time ago.

Exemption Boards Will Meet To Discuss Draft Conditions

Exemption board officials in Plainfield as well as those of Union county will be guests at a noon luncheon to be given December 6 at the Washington in Newark by the district board. Members of the thirty-five local exemption boards in the Second New Jersey Division will be included and the purpose of the luncheon will be to discuss the classifying of every registrant now in training. The invitations have been issued by Chairman John O. H. Pitney, of the district board.

The luncheon, say the invitations to local board members, is given "in recognition of your devoted services to the Government under the first draft and for conference on the responsible work devolving upon us all under the new rules and regulations for classification of registered men."

Any question that may be puzzling to a board member will be threshed out, although the regulations accompanying the questionnaire lay down definite rules that are aimed to prevent the differences of understanding that marred the beginning of the work under the first selective service call. It is thought that practically every phase of the selective service situation that has heretofore caused trouble is covered by the new rules.

One marked change under the new system will be the reduction of clerical work. Under the questionnaire plan there will be no papers or documents for the big board to file. After passing on claims or appeals it records its decision on the questionnaire, which goes back to the local boards where it came. The sixteen-page questionnaire is the sole record, and each stage in the progress of the case is shown thereon. An appeal to the President is the final step and the blank space for this record is the last entry space on the document.

Changes in the method of appeals are also made by the new regulations. Appeals on dependency cases may be carried to the President, but no appeal, dependency, industrial or agricultural, will be allowed if the decision by the district board is unanimous. Unless there is at least one vote for exemption, the registrant must accept the big board's decision as final. Under the former rules, only industrial and agricultural appeals could be taken to the President, but these could be taken without regard to a divided or unanimous vote by the big board.

A change called to the attention of local boards by the new rules is on industrial and agricultural claims. Heretofore local boards had no jurisdiction in these cases, and a man who had no other ground for exemption was certified for service and told to present his case to the big board. The new regulations put upon local boards the duty of accepting these claims and making a recommendation thereon to the district board.

The first work for the big board under the new plan will be acting on appeals of registrants who object to the classification made by the local board. The questionnaire, bearing complete data of the registrant's eligibility for military service, is sent to the big board in case of an appeal. The latter may obtain additional evidence to help it reach a decision. The finding is then recorded on the questionnaire in the space provided. The board's decision is final.

Many registrants will be eligible to more than one class, and it will be up to the local board to determine where such belong. For instance, a single man without dependents goes in the first class, subject to immediate call. This same registrant may be a technical expert, and as such assignable to the third class, or a directing head of an industrial or agricultural enterprise which would entitle him to a place in the fourth class. He will rank all the classes to which he thinks he belongs. The board will then verify his answers and assign him properly.

Although local boards may continue to be known as exemption boards, they will in reality be classification boards, as there will be no exemption as the term now applies. Persons not liable for military service, such as those permanently disqualified, are assigned to the fifth class, which means that, under present rules, they will never be called for service. Deferred classification, the term applied to those outside of the first class, carrying out the selective service idea that all registrants are liable to military duty in the order determined by the boards.

"Uncle Sam" Wins Honors At A. O. H. Masquerade

John Harrington, who is only twelve years old, was awarded first prize for the most appropriate costume at the masquerade dance conducted by Division No. 4, A. O. H., at T. A. B. Hall, Wednesday night. He was garbed as Uncle Sam and made a great "hit."

The dance was largely attended and was one of the most successful the division has ever held. Beside the prize awarded John Harrington there were three others for ladies' costumes. The first was given to Miss Helen Flatley, a cousin of John Harrington, who appeared as "Queen Iris." Two second prizes went to Miss Della Regan and Miss Anna Dunn. Harry Bender was awarded a turkey as a door prize.

Professor McDonough, of New York, the Irish piper, furnished music for dancing. His program was mostly for jigs and reels familiar to Old Erin but there was also a sprinkling of modern steps for the younger folk.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Michael Harrington, chairman; Patrick Driscoll, Martin Diskin, James Golden and James Kyle.

WITH NAVAL RESERVES.

Bill Peacock, captain of the Plainfield High School football team of 1914 and quarter at Colgate in 1915, is now playing halfback for the Palham Bay Naval Reserves. Peacock was the star of the Red and Blue team when at High School, and he was mentioned for an all-State back in 1913. His picture recently appeared in the N. Y. Globe in connection with yesterday's game.

Two Plainfielders Received Promotion

Privates Armstrong and Terry Advanced to Corporals In 311th Infantry at Camp Dix.

Howard J. Armstrong, of Washington avenue, and Herbert L. Terry, of East Second street, were among the nine selected men of the 311th Infantry at Camp Dix who were honored with promotion from the ranks the past week. The two Plainfielders were advanced from privates to the rank of corporal. The distinction was awarded them because of general proficiency since their entrance to the cantonment on September 22. Five other men in the same division received corporal warrants and two were made sergeants but none of them were from this city.

A new school for non-commissioned officers has been started at Camp Dix and several Plainfielders are in the class which will be graduated this month.

During the past two weeks all of the boys from this city have been receiving instruction on the rifle range. It is located nearly five miles distant from the barracks of the 311th Regiment and the hike out has been a terrible ordeal to "Jack" Van Ness, whose home was at Fourth and New streets. He came back from the range one day this week with his knees almost touching his chin and since then has been asking his associates to get together for the purpose of asking the Government to build a trolley line from the company barrack to the target field.

Almost the entire complement of Plainfield members were home yesterday for Thanksgiving. Their leaves of absence began at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning and ended at 10 o'clock last night. Donald Sminck came very near losing out on eating turkey with his family as he was late in getting his pass into his friend? the first sergeant.

John Cory Dies From Paralysis

John Corey, one of Plainfield's best known citizens and until a short time ago owner of the Cory building at Park avenue and Front street, died early this morning at his home, 527 West Front street, following a long illness. He was stricken with paralysis three years ago and since then had been failing gradually.

Mr. Cory was born near Mt. Bethel about eighty-four years ago and when a young man came to Plainfield to make his home. He originally followed the occupation of carpenter, but had retired from active work a long time. He was a man of quiet and unassuming disposition which won him hosts of friends. He was a member of the First Methodist church, where he had acted in an official capacity for many terms. He was also a member of Unity Lodge, K. of P.

Beside his wife, Mr. Cory is survived by two daughters, Mrs. George Angelman, whose husband is a Methodist minister building a pasorate at Weehawken, and Miss Margaret Corey, living at the parental home. There are also two granddaughters and two great grandsons.

Mr. Corey bought the building at the southwest corner of Front street and Park avenue many years ago and it has stood ever since as one of the oldest business houses in the city. He sold the place last winter to Rosenbaum Brothers.

The funeral will be held at the home, Monday afternoon at 2:30 and will be in charge of Rev. C. M. Anderson and burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Virginia Girl Bride of Harvey Rothberg

The marriage of Miss Helen Rosenberg to Harvey I. Rothberg, of this city, was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Nathan L. Rosenberg, of Norfolk, Va., on Thanksgiving Day. Only the immediate families of the bride and groom were present and included Mr. and Mrs. Kalmen Rothberg, mother and father of the groom, Miss Sadie Rothberg, Louis Rothberg, and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander L. Kramer, of New York; Mrs. Nathan Rosenberg, Walter Rosenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Caesar Hofheimer. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. L. D. Mendoza, under a canopy of flowers and palms, and the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, J. Caesar Hofheimer. The bride was becomingly gowned in white satin and wore a veil of white tulle taught up with real lace and orange blossoms. The ceremony was followed by a Thanksgiving dinner. The groom was attended by his brother, Louis Rothberg, and the bride by Mrs. J. Caesar Hofheimer.

Famous "Orchestra" Will Harmonize at Big Rally Tonight

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, will hold another big rally in its Castle Hall tonight in connection with the big membership "drive" commenced two weeks ago. Two teams, one captained by Senator-elect W. N. Runyon and the other Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, are competing with each other in an effort to secure the greatest number of new members. The rivalry is already very keen with Hetfield's team slightly in the lead at the last report.

At the gathering last Friday night there were at a premium in the lodge room and all gathering equally as big is looked for tonight mainly through the announcement that Perseverance's famous "Jewsharp" orchestra of other days would perform for the first time in many years. This unique organization had a State-wide reputation fifteen years ago and performed in many cities outside of Plainfield. In the old days Senator Runyon presided at the piano and he will be in his old position tonight, beside acting as leader. Instruments will include Charles McGinley and "Brit" Higgins and Harry Keen on the Jewsharp; "Ted" Flannery on the triangle and Harry Fraleigh tooting the flute. The orchestra has rehearsed several new selections but will give all the favorites of years ago. There will also be addresses and other numbers on the social program to follow the regular business session. All members of the lodge are urged to be present as a good time is sure to be had.

The membership drive will conclude on December 28th, when the final reports of "Recruits" will be received. The losing side will have to pay a forfeit, yet to be decided upon but the lodge will give a banquet to all members.

William A. Smith Enters the Service

Among the well-known Plainfielders who heeded their country's call during the past week is William A. Smith, of East Fifth street, for the past three years connected with the sales department of the Swift Beef Company. Although not likely to be called to the colors for a long time yet, Mr. Smith applied Tuesday for enlistment in the Quartermasters' Department and was immediately accepted. Because of his knowledge of the provision game in long experience in buying and selling meats, the importance of his office was quickly recognized. He has been notified to be ready for duty some time next week and will probably be attached to one of the New York divisions.

Mr. Smith is a native of White Plains, N. Y., coming from that city to Plainfield three years ago. He had previously been employed by the Swift Packing Company which transferred him to this district as salesman. He covered all the territory from Garwood to Dunellen and his many likable qualities not only gained him a wide circle of friends, but made him very successful in his work. Recently he was promoted to the position of assistant manager of the Plainfield house. It was his wish to enter the service several months ago, but owing to the desire of his employers decided to remain until the holiday rush was so far advanced that another man could take his place. While his departure from Plainfield will be regretted by his friends, all are proud of the spirit he has maintained in relation to his patriotic beliefs. He is a member of Plainfield Lodge of Elks and was one of the organizers of the "Amen" Corner at Ahern's restaurant.

More Plainfielders Receive Commissions

The latest government bulletin announcing the most recent candidates at the officers' training camp at Fort Myer who had received commissions gives the names of the following Plainfielders and their ranking:

Richard U. Strong, Infantry, first lieutenant; Edward L. Carty, Infantry, second lieutenant; Frank W. Neale, Ordnance Department, second lieutenant; Edward F. Stevenson, Cavalry, second lieutenant; William D. Conrad, Field Artillery, captain; Stewart F. Freeman, Phillip Van Deventer and William S. Lyon, Field Artillery, second lieutenant.

Elks Devour Turkey And Hear War Talk

Returned Ambulance Driver Tells Plainfield Lodge of Elks of Thrilling Experiences In France.

Thanksgiving eve was fittingly celebrated by Plainfield Lodge of Elks with an old fashioned "get together" at the Watchung avenue club house on Wednesday night. One hundred and fifty members were present and enjoyed a professional program of six vaudeville acts, followed by a turkey supper. The meal was prepared by the house steward and was complete in every detail. More than one hundred pounds of fresh killed gobblers were included in the menu. Many of the brothers present had not been at the club house in nearly a year, through absence from the city, and there was a genuine reunion when they met up with the boys.

An un expected feature on the program was a talk by James Duckett, of Denver, Col., who only recently returned from the French battlefront after six months' service as an ambulance driver for the American Red Cross. He was in the same unit with "Clem" Bechtel, of Carlton avenue, this city, who is now on his way to Egypt to begin similar instruction. Duckett gave a most vivid description of the thrilling experiences of himself and Mr. Bechtel, but asserted that despite the dangers he had gone through he was only too anxious to go back. He and Mr. Bechtel were dismissed from the service when the American regulars under Pershing took over all the hospital work. Mr. Bechtel succeeded in meeting all requirements for appointment as a flyer and was forwarded from Paris to Egypt but Mr. Duckett was "turned down" because of a slight defect in vision. He is a very capable talker and the big crowd of Elks listened with breathless interest to the stories and anecdotes of the battlefield which he related.

An informal program of songs, choruses and story-telling concluding the celebration shortly after midnight. The committee which arranged and conducted the affair was composed of James Hart, chairman; J. Howard Dyke, M. L. Shannon, Dave Rogers and Hugh B. Sweeny.

Closing Out Business To Serve His Country

Harry Pasch, of Central avenue, who recently enlisted in the Naval Auxiliary Reserve, has announced that he will close his meat market on Somerset street tomorrow. He has been in business at this location for several years and proposes to return to it after his term of service is completed. It is probable that he will be called next week and it is understood that he is to secure a good position in the commissary department.

Mr. Pasch's enlistment is one which came through a sense of duty although it meant a great sacrifice to himself. He is above the present draft age, but being a single man decide dthat it was more fitting that he should respond to the call of the colors in place of somebody with a wife and family. He has been very successful in the conduct of his meat market and when the medical examiners accepted him, he preferred to enroll immediately than to wait until he had disposed of his business to the best advantage. Mr. Pasch is a member of the Knights of Columbus and has been very active in the work of Watchung Council. He is also a member of t8. Mary's T. A. B. Society and both organizations will feel his departure.

Pneumonia Fatal to Mrs. Patrick Connolly

Following a brief illness with pneumonia, death came last night to Mrs. Bridget Connolly, wife of Patrick Connolly, of 666 West Fourth street. She contracted a heavy cold about ten days ago which turned into pneumonia and almost from the outset her condition became critical.

Mrs. Connolly was born in Ireland forty-two years ago but had lived in this city since she was a young girl, most of the time on West Fourth street. She had a wide local acquaintance and was greatly liked by every one. She was a communicant of St. Mary's church and a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the A. O. H.

Mrs. Connolly's death comes under especially sad circumstances, as beside her husband she leaves seven children, the eldest a daughter of seventeen and the youngest an infant of fourteen months. She is also survived by two sisters, Miss Catherine Kane, of West Front street, this city, and Miss Nora Kane, of Westfield.

Funeral will be held in St. Mary's church Monday morning, and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

—Van Arsdale will place on sale for one week, beginning Monday, December 3 to December 8, 287 pairs of women's boots at $2.45 and $3.45. Read his ad. describing the shoes.—Adv.

Fire Department Hard Hit By Numerous Resignations

Four Experienced Men Quit Within Two Weeks And Others Likely to Go Through Selective Draft and Other Reasons

With four members handing in their resignations during the past two weeks and three others apt to be called for the National Army within a very short time, Plainfield's Fire Department faces a difficult situation at the present time. All efforts on the part of the councilmanic committee to get capable men to fill the vacancies have failed so far as those fitted for the position assert the long hours and insufficient pay is no inducement to enter the service. Headquarters on East Second street is feeling the shortage most because those who resigned were from that station and were listed as drivers. Several of those remaining are new men who never sat behind a wheel and the absence of the regular drivers at meal hours presents a problem in the event of an alarm.

The men who have resigned are James McDonough and Frank Ingraham, who left last week, and William C. Ryder and William Kelley, who quit this week. McDonough was appointed four years ago and although in line for advancement shortly decided he were better opportunities in other walks of life. He he secured an excellent position as traveling salesman ford the Unite States Rubber Company, with headquarters at Newark. He is not only to receive better money than that paid him by the city but will have territory in New Jersey that will enable him to be at home with his family nights and Sundays.

Ryder has been in the department for the past year and a half and also left because of the continuous duty and small pay. Like McDonough, he has already taken a boy position, that of foreman of the private fire department which the Standard Aero Corporation has established at its new plant in Elizabeth. He is required to do only twelve-hour day duty and will have every Sunday off when the plan has gotten into full operation. The pay he is receiving is considerably in advance of that paid a Plainfield fireman of the first class.

Ingraham, who was in the department fourteen months, is working at the Plainfield plant of the Standard Aero Corporation as mechanic, while Kelley, seventeen months in the department, is to go to the same place next week.

It is said that several other of the city firemen are contemplating resignation as a result of the voters turning down the proposition for the two-platoon system. There are two paid that are absolutely certain where the men wanted to leave three months ago but were prevailed upon to remain in the belief that Plainfield would grant its fire-fighters the same working day it accords other employes.

Another Paul Adams, an expert driver attached to No. 4 house at Netherwood, is destined to leave the department at any time. He is a single man who is accepted for the National Army in the last examination and is scheduled to go to Camp Dix with the next quota from this district. Clinton Conover and Joseph Angerbauer, stationed at headquarters, and Arthur Erber, now at No. 3 house on West Fourth street, are within the present draft age and may be taken out of the department before the first of next year.

Woman Badly Burned Reported Improving

A report from Muhlenberg Hospital this morning stated that Mrs. Frederick Hoffmeister, of 248 Jackson avenue, Netherwood, who was received at the institution ten days ago as suffering from frightful burns, is improved slightly. When first received her condition was critical and she is not yet out of danger.

Mrs. Hoffmeister made a call on a sick friend near her home and in attempting to get a closer view of a sleeping baby stood near an open gas flame for heating purposes. She was dressed only in a light house dress and the material caught fire, blazing upward with great rapidity. In her terror, Mrs. Hoffmeister ran to the open air, thus fanning the flames to greater intensity. Her fight was discovered by a man passing by who threw her to the ground and succeeded in smothering the blaze by rolling her over and using his coat. Practically all of Mrs. Hoffmeister's clothing was destroyed and the burns she received cover the greater part of her body.

MANY PERSONS ATTEND T. A. B. FLAG RAISING.

A gathering of 150 members and friends of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society witnessed an impressive flag raising in front of T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street yesterday afternoon. Thegolors were hauled to the top of a stately pole by little Miss Margaret Guinee, while the T. A. B. drum corps played a martial air. Addresses were made by Building Inspector T. .O Doane, who is commander of the Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., Rev. Father B. M. Bogan and Joseph McCue, the last named president of the society.

The flag pole is one of the highest in the city and is surmounted by a large electric globe which, when lighted at night, may be seen for miles about the city.

APPORTION PLUMS FOR UNION COUNTY.

At the Republican Assembly caucus at Trenton, Tuesday, the steering committee submitted a report for apportionment of legislative offices amounting to $21,550.

The Union county delegation's share is journal clerk, $1,000; file clerk, $300; doorkeeper, $350.

Sergeant-at-arms at $700 and supervisor of bills at $1,300, went to Essex.

MR. H. HOLT TO SPEAK HERE.

Six Plainfielders Successful In Big Xmas Fund Contest

The advertising contest which was conducted last February by The Plainfield Trust Company and which was open to all the members of the Christmas Club, has closed and the names of the prize winners will be announced next week. Last February the National Christmas Club organization which now extends all over the United States offered to members of clubs in New England, New York and New Jersey 127 cash prizes of from $5 to $100 each for the best bank advertisements and thousands of wide-awake club members competed. It is gratifying to know that out of the large number of contestants, six of the Plainfield Trust Company's members were successful and their names will be announced next week when the checks representing their cash prizes are ready for distribution.

The Christmas Club, which is probably the greatest plan of systematic saving that has ever been fostered, will close next week and the last payment must be made on Monday, December 3, after which date no payments will be received as it will be necessary to devote the balance of the week to getting checks ready for mailing. It is expected that this year the $100,000 will be distributed by The Plainfield Trust Company and that the new club which will open on December 24 will be conducted on an even larger scale.

MRS. MARY FAHN DIES AT MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Mary Fahn, widow of Lawrence Fahn, died yesterday in Muhlenberg Hospital following an operation performed three days ago. She was sixty-three years old and had been a resident of North Plainfield for a long time. Her last address was at 37 Somerset street.

Mrs. Fahn's home, who died some years ago, was at one time a member of the North Plainfield police force. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Frank Llevers, of Belmont avenue, and four sons. They are: Lawrence Fahn, a member of the city fire department; Harrison Fahn, Robert Fahn and John LaMair, all of North Plainfield. Mr. LaMair is a son by another marriage.

The funeral will be held at Mrs. Llevers' home on Belmont avenue Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

News of the Theatres

Many Instances of Men "Coming Back"

Some wise sporting man has said, "They never come back." Once a fighter is down, he stays down; once a runner has lost his wind, he might as well get a job in a bank, and once a ball-player's judgment is gone, he is doomed to the bush. Perhaps this is so in sporting circles, but if so, they had better take a leaf from the book of several other famous characters who have not figured prominently in the sporting pages but who have succeeded in coming back when they were judged abokt to take the count.

For instance: One George Washington, who was fairly well known in his time although he did not get a big salary, was as badly licked as a man could be when the British got through with him on Long Island. Yet they do say that he managed to pull through in the end.

There was once a man who tried to be elected Senator from Illinois, but he was easily beaten by one Stephen A. Douglas. The defeated candidate later figured more or less prominently in national events, but in another office,—that of President of the United States.

Mark Twain, after years of industry and saving, lost his entire fortune at one smash. Whereupon he turned around and dug at it again, while he made enough more to at least keep him in clean white suits, and while he was lifting himself out of the hole, he managed to make a large part of the civilized world laugh with him.

Up in New England there was a young man who wasn't any straighter than he had to be to keep out of jail. And one day he stooped over even that line, and found himself behind the bars on a fairly serious charge in connection with the civil service examinations. From prison he was elected to the State Legislature and he is now Mayor of New England's largest city, and, what is more, he has been a good Mayor and will probably be re-elected.

And then there is the young man who was brought up with every luxury until he was of age, and then, for being weak, was turned out to make his own way. He went down and down, until at last he ended up in a Chinese opium den in Shanghai. There he met a girl who was almost as low as he was, but they joined hands there in that hole of sin and turned their faces toward the light and came back every step of the way to the door of the young man's house —together.

All this happens in "The Man Who Came Back," William A. Brady's success which comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Tuesday, matinee and night. In the cast will be: William Crowell, Redfield Clarke, S. B. Hamilton, Harry Sleight, Henry Davies, Irving White, William Blaisdell, Dorothy Bernard, Allen Lorraine, Alma Chester and others.

Howe's Pictures Coming Next Week

Whether or not one cares for the movies as represented by the dramatic variety, everybody does care for Burman H. Howe's Travel Festival because of its dictation, dignity and difference from posed films. Mr. Howe's exhibition, which comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, December 5 and 6, can always be depended upon to broaden one's mental outlook, but his new production promises to do so in a peculiarly vital and timely way. For it conducts spectators aboard our super-dreadnoughts, stripped for action "Somewhere in the Atlantic" and so gives every spectator a new and fresh conception of the activities, discipline and manoeuvres of our "Sentinels of the deep" under the stress of war. The films radiate the atmosphere of grim realities, not of pomp or pageantry, and every foot teems with vital interest to every true American. Then, too, the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, contributes many stirring scenes from the strenuous and varied training given the splendid corps of "middies." Their tactical exercises are of absorbing interest. Another feature breathes the spirit and life of our Great West as it has never been depicted before. It shows the many tense moments and hair-raising episodes occurring during real broncho-breaking contests. It reveals what the west considers rough-riding as compared with the comparatively tame sort seen in the effete east. There are many other subjects such as the perils of climbing Mt. Blanc, the highest mountain in the Alps, a ride over the Continental Divide via the Great Northern Railway, etc., that make Howe's new program an exceptionally rich treasure trove of scenes calculated to give mind and heart, as Carlyle puts it, "a real stir-up."

Big Musical Act On Vaudeville Bill

Capacity audiences were in evidence at every performance at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday and the holiday bill provided by Manager Shannon pleased immensely. Vaudeville was the attraction but the program had a kavor of legitimate musical comedy through the presentation of the big review entitled "The Society Set." Fifteen people are required for the act, principal among them being George Soper, the widely known and popular comedian. Mr. Spink is full of original humor and created a laugh nearly every moment he was on the stage. The production runs forty minutes and is elaborately staged and costumed.

"The Society Set" will be continued at the theatre today and tomorrow in addition to the following excellent numbers, all of which gave great satisfaction yesterday: Hazel Dupont and Company, in a scenic novelty; Putnam and Arnold, comedians; Eddie Heron and Company, in the comedy sketch, "Crossing the Bar," and Roy Wylie and Company, in the "Futurist's Review." A new Pathe Review was shown yesterday and pictured many interesting scenes in connection with the preparation of Uncle Sam's fighting forces. This will be displayed again today and tomorrow in addition to other photographic features.

BALSCO ATTRACTION PASSES 100TH PERFORMANCE.

Last Tuesday evening (November 27), Guy Bates Post celebrated his 100th performance in "The Masquerader" at the Booth Theatre, New York. No other serious play of the current season has scored so long a run, and from present indications it will linger on Broadway for many months to come.

"The greatest spectacle seen here in years," is the way the western critics are acclaiming Richard Walton Tully's Mexican drama, "The Flame," which is about to enter upon engagements totalling ten weeks in Californian cities. Being a California himself, Tully has always insisted his plays should visit every town in the State possessing a theatre of sufficient size, even though big attractions usually "pass up" many of these towns as being of insufficient importance. The golden harvest that has followed in the wake of "The Bird of Paradise" and "Omar, the Tentmaker" throughout all California, however, has more than justified Tully's policy.

With nearly forty theatres in New York, and new plays opening almost every night in the week, poor Broadwayites are sorely puzzled as to what dishes to pick from the theatrical bill-of-fare. In all the turmoil, however, two dramas are sailing along to capacity business, Richard Walton Tully's production of "The Masquerader," in which Guy Bates Post is starring, and Belasco's melodrama of the Northwest, "Tiger Rose."

COMMENT EXPRESSED BY NEWSPAPER MEN IN THIS AND OTHER STATES ON CURRENT TOPICS.

A Lesson in Morals and Manners.
(From the Memphis Commercial Appeal.)

It has remained for Japan to administer to this county a quiet lesson in morals and manners.

The Japanese people have a love for the screened drama that is equal to our own, but the taste of the Japanese is somewhat different from ours, and, thanks to an excellent board of censors, the photoplays that are witnessed in Nippon are of the elevating sort and have a tendency to uplift and educate.

The United States supplies more moving picture films to Japan than any other producing concern in the world. The Japanese like the American drama, they like the remarkable screening facilities that are to be found only in France and America. Japan has been a liberal market, and American industry in the photo world has profited by the Japanese preference for American films.

However, in catering to the Japanese people, it behooves the American producer to pay strict attention to the rules and regulations of the National Board of Censors in Japan, and it would be also wise if our American boards of moving picture censors would read and profit by the Japanese Government.

The American produced may send to Japan films contrary to the strict regulations, but he will do so but once, for all of the future output from this particular studio will be placed under the ban of Japanese disapproval.

We may well view the Japanese rules and regulations as to the class of photo plays to be permitted in Japan with respect, for in these rules and regulations we find how lax we have been and how beneath the moral standard of the Japanese we are in this respect.

For example, Tokio bans the six-triangle from its movie menu. It requires love scenes to be "temperate and restrained." Divorce, domestic infelicity, belligerencey between husband and wife, must at all times be altogether avoided or kept discreetly in the background, and under no circumstances to be featured nor their unsavory details to be brought to the fore regardless of the moral lesson ostensibly aimed at. Murder, burglary, arson, crime of almost any sort, treason or disloyalty to country, are to be kept off the screens as war as possible. Children are not permitted to witness pictures in which "wanton destruction of property" is depicted.

Furthermore, Tokio will permit no picture that exposes to ridicule "persons in authority, such as teachers, soldiers, peace officers or government officials." Here is a rule that hits at the very capstone of American movie comedy, for without the peanut pilfering, grotesque policeman and the ridiculously misrepresented professor we would have little left but the iceman, the cook and the indispensable janitor.

Moving picture theatres in Japan are conducted on a much higher moral plane than they are in the United States.

No Meat for Senator Reed.
(From the Clinton, Mo., Republican)

James Reed, who says he represents the State of Missouri in the United States Senate, and who spoke here Sunday night, called for meat yesterday morning at the Cozart Hotel. There are many people who believe that someone has been feeding the Senator meat oftener than is good for him now, and he didn't get it Tuesday morning, the reason being that Tuesday was the day set aside by the State Food Commissioner as meatless day, and the Cozrat is observing the request.

Reed asked Mrs. Winfree is she was really going to cut out meat every Tuesday, and when she told him she was he ridiculed the idea, and said that it was a plan which would never work. "Just watch it for thirty days," said the Senator, "and you'll find that on Wednesday the people will eat more meat to make up for not having had any on the day before."

"When you get back to Washington," replied Mrs. Winfree, "look up Mr. Hoover and tell him the Cozart Hotel is supporting him and the Government in every possible way, and will continue to do so."

The Senator didn't reply: he didn't even smile—but he ate fish.

Paying for the Bonds.
(From the New York Herald)

Striking testimony to the prosperity and wealth of the country is presented in the fact that although only twenty per cent. has thus far become due on the Liberty four per cent. loan, and the final payment of forty per cent. will not be required until January 15, more than eighty per cent. of the whole $1,163,000,000 allotted to this reserve district has already been paid.

The present backing and filling of the Liberty bonds of both issues in the market is incident to placing of such a large amount of securities and will be speedily adjusted as the bonds find a final resting place in the hands of permanent holders. On every moderate recession they offer a great opportunity to obtain profitable investment in the safest securities on earth.

Discontented U-Zoat Crews.
(From the Providence Journal)

There is no reason to doubt the accuracy of the Associated Press story from London that trouble is being experienced in keeping German U-boat crews up to their task.

The London story says, quoting and Amsterdam correspondent, that the submarine sailor finally comes to realize that his luck cannot go on forever, that if he continues in the service his fate is certain.

From the moment that this realization forces itself upon him his duty becomes a veritable nightmare. He sets sail on each new cruise with the conviction that it will be his last. In the language of the English soldier he is perpetually "going over the top" and his period of strain is much more lengthy and nerve-racking than that of the land fighter.

The result is that capture by the enemy offers itself as a strong temptation—so strong that only officers are now allowed to carry firearms; every member of the crew is rigidly searched to make sure that he has no weapon with which to carry out a plot to desert or to surrender the craft.

How general the discontent has come we can merely guess. But there has been at least one heroic trait lend color to this one. The British policy of keeping definite reports of submarine destruction out of print contributes, of course, to the German sailor's feeling of dread. He does not know what has happened to his comrades on other U-boats. All he can tell is that a good many of them never return. They may be captives in England or they may have been sent to the bottom of the sea.

The life of the German undersea craft sailor is of a king to threaten even the most rigorous discipline that Berlin can devise.

More Election Frauds.
(From the Trenton Times)

Later reports of the results of Newark's commission election point to the need of an investigation into the methods of collecting and depositing the soldiers' ballots. The stories told are so circumstantial as to leave no doubt that trickery and fraud were resorted to in the effort to elect one set of bracketed candidates.

One of the independent candidates who was defeated by only a hundred votes, has applied for a recount, at which an inspection of the soldiers' ballots may be made; but the criminal authorities should take cognizance of the charges, and see that not only the persons who perpetrated the frauds, but those who inspired them, are prosecuted.

There is little use in passing laws to insure the purity of the ballot, if those laws are not enforced; and there is scarcely an election in which they are not openly defied in some part of the State—and not always by members of any single political party.

The New War to Volunteer.
(From the New York Sun)

Under the new regulations for the classification of men registered on June 5, 1917, a registered man may still vounteer for the army. Instead of going to the recruiting office he waives deferred classification in the questionnaire which will reach him some time after December 15. If he has dependents, however, they must join him in the waiver.

The effect of such a waiver is automatically to advance the volunteer to Class I, from which the next selection of men will be made for the National Army.

Registered men wishing to volunteer for the navy or the marine corps will be allowed to do so if not too far up on the district list.

These seem reasonable regulations. The National Army classifies all men received into it, and, so far as the requirements of its units allow, assigns each man to the branch of his choice, except when his special qualifications clearly fit him for some particular branch; but in that case the indicated branch is pretty certain to be the one he prefers.

Method comes first and accomplishes most in present-day war.

It's Not the Name that Counts, It's the Man.
(From the New York Herald)

It is hoped that those persons of Mayflower stock who persist in bombarding newspaper offices with protests against putting on guard others than those who, as they put it, can boast "American names," have noticed that Major-General Pershing's latest report tells of the death in the front-line treaches of Sergeant Czajka and Private Hanovicz. Can there be better evidence of the Americanism of a man than that he gives his life for America?

Organized Labor and the War.
(From the New York Herald)

The action of the American Federation of Labor in unanimously pledging the support of that body and of its members to the Government and in indorsing the patriotic work of the Alliance for Labor and Democracy comes as no surprise. No sane person ever has doubted the loyalty and patriotism of the great mass of American workmen. At all times and under all circumstances they are Americans first. In taking their stand for the vigorous prosecution of the war they show themselves true not only to the country's but to their own best interests. As President Wilson so clearly showed in his Buffalo address, a victory for Prussianism would be of greatest menace to labor the world over. No matter what his nationality, the intelligent workman should bend all of his energies to accomplish the complete defeat of Germany. The American workman will.

No Cause For Worry.
(From the Washington Post)

Another sensational rumor is stirring housewives in various parts of the country. It is a report that a famine in salt and matches is impending, and as a result there has been a run upon grocery stores for these two articles, assuming in some localities the seriousness of a riot. Unless the Germans are successful in staking off the waters of the ocean and forbidding their use to the rest of the world, as they started out to do, the salt supply of the United States is certain to endure. An allwise Providence, when the sea was created, forever provided against the possibility of a salt famine, even as instigated by the would-be persecutors of Providence. Matches are being manufactured as usual and in the usual quantities, so that apparently there is no room for apprehension as to them.

Railroad Strike Out of Question

There will be no Nation-wide railroad strike during the war. This guarantees and a compensatory increase to the employes that their wage demands, if not excessive, will be granted, is the result of President Wilson's conference with the brotherhood presidents.

Unsettled problems of railroad finance, which must be adjusted to make higher wages possible, was responsible for the rather vague official statements by both sides following this week's White House conference. The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its expected decision in favor of freight rate increases, the Treasury Department, with possible Government loans to certain war roads, and Congress with potential action on railroad problems, were uncertain factors that made a more definite normal announcement inadvisable.

The brotherhoods placed their case in President Wilson's hands. The railroads having already done so, a strike is out of the question. Arbitration, if that should be the President's solution, would be agreed to by the employes. This is the meaning of the assurance the brotherhood leaders gave that "if a situation should arise which threatens the interruption of transportation, the men whom we represent would be more than willing to discuss and consider any solution of the difficulty, and would undoubtedly cooperate with the Government to the utmost extent.

The President, in return, gave the brotherhoods assurance that he would be responsible for obtaining for them peaceably any reasonable wage demands a strike could force.

More detailed adjustment was not attempted because the brotherhood leaders had no exact wage demands formulated and the method of relieving railroad finances for greater war efficiency had not been finally determined. The statement issued by the labor men, prepared while they were still with the President, merely demanded a wage increase "that will meet half at least" of the increased cost of living.

The conference covered the general field of railroad problems. Some railroads were judged able to grant higher wages at once and still pay dividends. Others would suspend dividends if forced to give employes more pay without receiving more revenues from higher rates. A number unable now to pay dividends or higher wages will receive relief.

HIPPODROME AS FIRST AID TO HOTEL ORCHESTRAS.

The New York Hippodrome may boast of exerting a national influence which radiates in many directions. It is primarily the foremost American playhouse and its audiences are made up of the visitors from everywhere, as the house polls taken one evening each week readily show. Its title this year, "Cheer Up!" has been accepted and adopted as the slogan of business organizations everywhere, but it is in its music that the Hippodrome this year and last has found a most remarkable and widespread appeal. This fact became apparent during the recent national convention of the hotel men who bonifaces from all over America met in New York for the Exposition at the Grand Central Palace. At a discussion regarding music which consumed one afternoon of the conclave, it was conceded that Raymond Tubbell's "Poor Butterfly" had been the most popular selection among orchestra leaders last year, and the demands for "Queen of the Nile" by the same author was proven by the fact that nearly every hotel owner present had a commission from his orchestra leader to bring back with him an orchestration of Mr. Hubbell's Egyptian number from this year's Hippodrome spectacle and also a large number of requests for "Melody Land," which ends act one of "Cheer Up!" As a consequence, the Hotel Men's Association placed an order with Louis Dreyfuss of T. B. Harms & Co., who publish the Hippodrome music, for 400 copies of the complete orchestrations of both these popular numbers, and Mr. Hubbell's compositions again give promise of keeping the tangoists and fox-trotters on the lilt from New York to 'Frisco.

GOVERNMENT PLANS TO DRAFT ALIEN SLACKERS

"Alien slackers" will be included in the next draft. This assurance has been given members of Congress by the State Department, which has been conducting negotiations with the Allies.

Italy, which held up matters after England and France had readily fallen in with America's suggestion, has finally agreed, it is said, since the recent disasters to her military forces.

Congressional leaders who held numerous bills and resolutions in check while the State Department tried out diplomacy, said today their plans will be announced before December 3, when Congress reassembles.

PERSONAL

John P. Jeffrey, who has been employed as linotype operator for the Sabbath Recorder, has secured an excellent position with the Silver Service Publishing Company, on Fulton street, New York. He began his new duties this week.

William Carkhuff, a Plainfielder, who is in the Radio Division of the U. S. Navy, as an electrician, spent the forepart of the week at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Keen, of West Front street. Mr. Carkhuff expects to go to France in the very near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Emmons and son, of Leland avenue, have been spending the Thanksgiving holidays with relatives in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Fred Sheppard, of East Fifth street, has been confined to her home by illness during the past week. She is under the care of Dr. Zeglio.

Mrs. Louise M. Sperry, of Grandview avenue, the borough, has been quite ill during the past week.

Charles Foster, who has resided for many years at 963 West Sixth street, has sold his property at that address and is now making his home with his son, Walter Foster, of the Stillman building. The purchaser of Mr. Foster's place is William Stewart, a well-known New Brunswick man, who, with his family, has already taken possession.

Irvin Pratt, brother of Dr. C. Howard Pratt, of East Fifth street, who recently enlisted in the United States service, is now located at Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. La Rock and the latter's mother, Mrs. Lucy Hanchett, of West Sixth street, left Wednesday morning by automobile for Providence, R. I., where they will spend several days with relatives. Before returning they will motor on as far as Boston and will return to Plainfield the forepart of next week.

Mrs. Lewis Johnson, of East Seventh street, who recently returned to her home after a five weeks' stay at Muhlenberg Hospital, during which she was seriously ill, continues to improve rapidly.

Roy Swackhamer, of 429 West Front street, is spending the Thanksgiving holidays at the home of his parents at Gorman Valley.

Mrs. John Donnelly, of West Fourth street, has been confined to her bed for the past two weeks suffering from an organic trouble which has seriously impaired her vision. She is being treated by Dr. H. V. Hubbard.

George A. Trust, who has been at Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala., as a member of the Medical Reserve Corps, is spending the Thanksgiving holidays with relatives and friends in Plainfield and Dunellen. He came here Monday and will return the coming Sunday, as his furlough is only for eight days.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eberman, of West Third street, left Wednesday for Worcester, Mass., where they will spend a week with relatives.

William Brown, of Watchung avenue, underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, Monday, to relieve trouble in one limb which has existed since he was hurt at Galveston, Texas, in August, 1915. He was a member of the Sixth Cavalry and was caught in the terrific hurricane which destroyed many lives and injured hundreds of persons. The operation was performed by Dr. Anthony and is thought to have been successful.

Miss Kathleen Hagan, of Liberty street, has been quite ill for the past three weeks through an infection of both hands. She is being treated by Dr. Albert Pitts.

Miss Mary Wierenga, of Woodbine avenue, was given a surprise gathering at her home last night in honor of her birthday. Those in attendance were mostly all relatives. Miss Wierenga was born on a Thanksgiving day but this is the first time in many years that the date again came on the holiday.

Miss Hazel Hogan, of Manning avenue, the borough, returned recently after a week-end visit with friends at Easton, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss I. Minton, of Westervelt avenue, the borough, are spending the present week with relatives at Long Branch. Mr. Minton is a pharmacist at Randolph's drug store.

Herman Overland, one of the two young men injured in a motorcycle-auto truck collision at East Second and Washington streets several weeks ago, is still confined to Muhlenberg Hospital. His principal injury was a fractured leg. Frank Szobod, the other victim of the accident, received a fractured skull but recovered sufficiently to be discharged from the hospital some time ago.

Gilkysen Explains Home Guards' Oaths

Declaring that the form of the oath of the new Militia Reserve, composed of Home Guard units of the State, is ambiguous, a member of one of the local Home Guard organizations whose name is withheld has written to Acting Adjutant General Gilkysen asking if he would be at the call of the Governor and the State military authorities for any purpose of a military or a semi-military nature in any part of New Jersey, if he subscribes to the oath; also if he may resign if it became advisable for him to withdraw.

Colonel Gilkyson's reply follows:

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 20th inst., and regret to learn that you find the oath of enlistment prescribed in General Orders No. 23, for the State Militia Reserve so ambiguous that you cannot subscribe to it. The oath was prepared with a great deal of care and in the hope that it would not oblige any citizens for service in excess of that which he is now performing, and would be subscribed to by all persons desiring to become a part of the Militia Reserve force of the State. Putting the oath of enlistment through a process of analysis, it provides:

"(a) For voluntary enlistment in the New Jersey State Militia Reserve. (All military service, except under the provisions of the draft act, is voluntary.)

"(b) For service in the State of New Jersey for the period of the war and one year thereafter, unless sooner discharged. (It is necessary that there should be a definite period of service in the contract of enlistment. The regulations governing the Militia Reserve, in course of preparation, provides for the discharge of persons prior to expiration of service; who remove from the State or vicinity of the organization in which enlisted; to enlist in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or State Militia, and whose business prevent performance of military duty.)

"(c) Response for duty of a military or semi-military character within the boundaries of the municipality, and for voluntary service within the State, which is interpreted to mean that (1) no person enlisting in the State Militia Reserve will be called by the Governor for duty except within the boundaries of the municipality for which the unit is organized and not then until after the municipal authorities by police powers and the Governor by the use of the State Militia, have exhausted every means to cope with the situation and (2) any service rendered outside the municipality and within the State will be voluntary.

"(d) An oath to bear true faith and allegiance to the government established in the State of New Jersey and in the United States. (An obligation required of all persons entering the State or public service.)

"(e) Obedience of orders of the Governor and officers appointed over them, and regulations and orders issued for the government of the State Militia Reserve. (It is necessary not only in the military service but in all departments of the public service to obey orders of superiors and regulations relative thereto.)

"Service in the State Militia Reserve is not compulsory on the part of members of Home Guard units; it is only after urgent request on the part of patriotic citizens who organized Home Guard units and in appreciation of their services that the Governor decided to issue formal State regulation to all persons subscribing to the oath of enlistment and complying with the regulations that will be prescribed for the State Militia Reserve."

Union County's Chances For State Patronage

The question of patronage to be doled out by the incoming Legislature at Trenton is already a matter for discussion among members of the Republican party. The House members have agreed to permit the Republican County Committee of Union county to take care of the berths of one doorkeeper, one file clerk and one journal clerk.

In the Senate, Union county last session had the privilege of naming an assistant secretary of the Senate, which position was filled by G. Gartram Woodruff. The county was also allotted the selection of one chaplain and one page. Whether this agreement will hold this session remains to be seen.

As soon as the Senate members agree upon the proper distribution of the offices the executive committee of the Republican County Committee will meet and make the selections for the various places.

While there are a number of names mentioned in connection with the various positions the field, so far as it could be ascertained, is still an open one.

CONTRADICTS STATEMENT OF TWO-PLATOON FAILURE

In the course of the recent agitation over the two-platoon system for Plainfield's fire department the contention was made by some of those opposed to the referendum that the system had been a failure at Seattle, Wash. Where the information was gotten from has not been made known but the following article, taken from the current edition of the Firemen's Herald, shows that the statement was far from the truth:

"The 23d annual report of the Fire Department of the City of Seattle, just issued, speaks enthusiastically of the two-platoon system and dismisses the matter as settled so far as Seattle is concerned in the following words:

"The Department has now operated under the two platoon system for nearly four years, sufficiently so that its permanency as a satisfactory and accepted institution has been definitely established. It should not be necessary to further comment upon this system in future reports of this kind, having passed the experimental stage. The platoon system is a practicable departure from the old system of continuous duty. The service rendered has been efficient, discipline in general excellent, and the department is in very good condition.'"

$451,480 May Be Spent on County Roads Next Year

According to a tentative budget presented for approval at a special meeting of the Board of Freeholders, held in the Courthouse at Elizabeth, this week, the sum of $451,480 will be expended upon the roads of the county during the year ending October 31, 1918. Of this amount the State is to be asked to contribute $180,686.

Practically every bit of road under county control will be repaired, resurfaced or rebuilt. Sixty-three miles of roadway will be repaired wherever needed, if the plans contained in the proposed budget are carried out, at a cost of $500 a mile. This item alone is expected to cost $31,500, of which the State is asked to give $1,500.

The resurfacing of twenty miles of thoroughfare is also contemplated during the year, at $1,000 a mile. Toward the total of $20,000 the State, if it approves, will give $10,000.

The reconstruction work will only be for 2.798 miles and will cost $10,000 a mile, or $27,980 for the whole. The State is asked for $13,000. Paltoute and Michigan avenues in Aldene are to be rebuilt for a distance of 1.3 miles at $25,000 a mile, and Springfield road in Summit is to be widened at an expenditure of $10,000.

The remainder of the streets provided for will be improved. Among them are Mountain avenue, which runs from Springfield to Scotch Plains; Chestnut street, in Roselle; and Stuyvesant avenue, Lawrence street, Hazelwood avenue and DeHart place, all in Rahway. The work will take in 5.59 miles of roads, and will cost $50,000 a mile.

In planning for the annual budget the Board of Freeholders will have to adopt one that will carry it through the entire year. Heretofore this has not been necessary. Following a request from the State that the county make application for its share of the annual appropriations by December 15, the board passed a resolution at the meeting asking the State Highway Commission, State Comptroller, State Treasurer and departmental and institution heads in the county to submit before them a report of what will be needed during the ensuing year.

The committee appointed to visit the Vauxhall bridge near Union made a report recommending the lengthening of the structure by the construction of a span at one end thirteen feet long, at a cost not to exceed $400. Bids will be received at the next meeting, to be held December 6. It was also voted to receive bids for the painting of the North avenue bridge, over the Rahway river, at Cranford.

A communication was received from the street committee of the Rahway council protesting against the proposed paving of the western end of Jefferson avenue in that city. A report was made on the inspection of the roads of the proposed road between Kenilworth and Roselle Park, several weeks ago by the county roads commmittee.

Food Administration Finds No Famine in Salt

Evidence that German propagandists are spreading reports that there is a famine of salt, laundry blue and matches is in the possession of the Food Administration at Washington.

In each case, it is said, the German agents have started "buying drives" in an effort to interrupt the ordinary channels of business, spread alarm among the consumers and cause discontent with the Government program. In some cases households have stored up sufficient quantities of the commodities for a year's use.

The Food Administration announces that there is no actual shortage in either salt, matches or laundry blue; that the National stock is as large as ever, with no possibility of a shortage with a normal demand on the art of the consumer, and that rumors of any such shortage can be attributed only to German agents.

The drive on salt in the present instance seems to have begun in New York city something over a week ago, and spread as far as Boston and Washington, where many storekeepers absolutely sold out of the commodity in a couple of days. Reports have reached Washington of similar conditions as far west as Ohio.

Housekeepers purchased as high as twenty-five bags of salt, and there is one instance of a man who bought enough to last his family a lifetime. Immediately following the excessive purchases of salt came the case of laundry blue, based on a report that this article, since it contained Prussian blue, soon would be unobtainable. People seemed to have the false impression that Prussian blue must come from Germany. The third wave of big buying has been centered on matches, and its origin has been traced to Jersey City.

The fact that the buying drives have come in successive waves points to organized effort, and it is the belief of the Food Administration officers commodities may be expected. It therefore warns the house wife to disregard any such reports and not to overstock, since such procedure works actual harm and may cause real shortages for a time in particular localities.

Recount Vote Cost Total of Nearly $1,000

Acting on an order issued by Justice James J. Bergen, the county treasurer this week returned to G. J. Weinman, the $1,000 cash bond which he deposited when the Plainfield "wet" and "dry" vote recount was asked for. This means that the city must pay for the canvass by the County Board of Elections, the bill amounting to a little more than $300. The four men on the Board received ten dollars a day each and as the count took seven days this item totaled up to $280. The remainder is made up by the expense of transporting the ballot boxes to Elizabeth and several incidentals.

Abe J. David, counsel for the petitioner, and John H. Cone, who kept tally for the "wets," will be paid by the Plainfield Liquor Dealers' Association. Harry C. Runyon, counsel for the "drys," and Vincent W. Nash, Jr., tally-keeper for the "drys," will be paid by the Church Co-operative Association. It is understood that the expense to either side, outside of that incurred by the city, will amount to several hundred dollars in each instance as it has been stated that the lawyers in the case receive fifty dollars a day for their services. This would bring the sum total of the recount expense to approximately $1,000.

After rejecting ballots that had been counted by the Plainfield Board, counting others that had been rejected and correcting errors that had been made in tallying the district and ward ballots, the grand total of the city was found by the County Board to be 1,490 in favor of abolishing the saloons and 1,501 for retaining them under the system now in vogue. Although it had been said that many of the soldier votes were thrown out, the recount failed to show where more than a few of them were marked improperly. From figures prepared by V. W. Nash, Jr., who kept "tabs" on every ballot no matter whether it was accepted or rejected, it is learned that a total of 3,208 votes were cast, and of this number 173 were rejected by the local boards, but considering the evident intent of the voter, as expressed on all ballots, there were 1,598 who favored no license, while 1,512 favored license. There was a total of 117 voters who failed to express their sentiment, so that if all votes had been counted, including the rejected ballots, the "wets" would have had a majority of only 16, or 5 more than was actually secured by the recount. Instances of where the voters failed to express an opinion on the license question were noted in the various wards as follows: First ward, 20; Second ward, 28; Third ward, 22; Fourth ward, 47. Fifty-six soldier votes were recorded and of these forty-six were in favor of the present system of saloons, eight showed preference for a "dry" town and two others fought shy of the subject entirely, preferring to take a neutral stand than to declare themselves either way.

The ward totals of the vote were as follows:

	Tally sheet.	Recount.
First—
Yes	360	295
No	323	319
Second—
Yes	430	428
No	305	308
Third—
Yes	408	405
No	535	548
Fourth—
Yes	380	366
No	536	526

At the conclusion of the recount Judge Abe J. David, as counsel for the "wets," thanked the board for its fairness and patience, and said while he was declared the defeated one in the Otto-Codding recount he was glad he had better luck this time.

Attorney Harry Runyon, on behalf of the "drys," also complimented the board for its fairness.

Chairman Fred Zior in behalf of the board accepted the kind words counsel had to say and told the attorneys the board tried to be fair and impartial and the members were glad their work had been satisfactory to both sides.

The proceedings ended in a big laugh when V. W. Nash, Jr., presented Andrew McCardell, the only Plainfielder on the County Board of Elections, with a miniature watering pot filled with water. Mr. McCardell accepted the gift in the spirit in which it was sent and assured the donor that the water would not go to waste. At the first opportunity he said, he would use it as a "chaser."

The Highest Class Talking Machine In The World
Sonora
Clear As A Bell

PLAY any record on any phonograph — then play the same record on the Sonora. You will find such a marked difference between the two that there is hardly any room for comparison.
You will find that the Sonora gives a greater volume of tone—sweeter, richer, clearer — and without the least mechanical sound to mar the rendition.
Even the slightest "scratching" sound that so often irritates the trained musical ear has been warded against. The high "C" is as sharp and clear as if the human voice were actually singing. And as for band and instrumental music, there is no telling the difference between the original production and the transference of that production to your home through the medium of the Sonora.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, NOV. 30, 1917.

WHERE THE GERAN LAW IS WRONG.

At the conclusion of the Plainfield excise recount in the Court House at Elizabeth last week, the Board of Elections gave permission to the respective counsels to express their opinion on the proceedings. One of those who spoke was Harry C. Runyon, who appeared for the "dry" interests. He stated that every act of the county canvassers had met with his approval and as far as their proceedings were concerned he had no fault to find. In reference to the law governing elections in this State, however, he had an entirely different view. Mr. Runyon asserted that the law as framed by the Legislature under Mr. Geran's supervision was radically wrong in some of its most important aspects. Those who followed the excise recount are in hearty accord with the sentiments expressed by Mr. Runyon. The law does not attain the object it desires. One of its main purposes is to maintain the secrecy of the ballot and it becomes plainer every year that its own permissions make this impossible, therefore voters are deprived of their right of franchise by technical mistakes that do not overcome an evil that is easy of accomplishment and without any infraction.

As the Geran law is framed, every attempt is made to avoid a marked ballot. Failure to put a cross in the absolutely proper place or to make the two lines of the pencil meet at the proper point has been ruled as a mark of identification and Plainfield's referendum was carried by the "drys" through rulings of the local board on this point. These very same ballots that were thrown out because of a possible attempt to make it known to someone the intent of the person placing them in the box could have told the same thing in bold characters if the parties interested had brought about the insertion of a name. Any man can recommend himself for justice of the peace if he wants to and all he had to do is to write in his name at a place designated. What more "marking" could there be done than that? Still, because legal technicalities made it seem that someone doing something he had no right to do, scores of ballots were thrown aside and made the original vote only one in favor of the "dry" element. Such closeness as this always means an expensive recount when the other side knows that many votes on a second inspection may be taken into consideration. For that reason, alone, Plainfield will have to pay a bill of $300 and the opposing fractions will share possibly an additional $700.

Mr. Runyon was absolutely right in his declaration. The law is wrong. It perverts public opinion and causes undue commotion for no reason whatsoever. Just so long as improper pencil markings and different kinds of ink are illegal, the voters will never know whether they have really gotten the right candidate in office or not. Two recounts have occurred in this county this year and other counties have had the same trouble. Plainfield wanted an honest opinion on the excise referendum and thought it had secured one after the votes were counted election night. When the matter was taken to the county board the result was directly the opposite. How many more such cases have occurred is a matter of conjecture.

Mr. Geran and his associates framed an excellent manner of regulating the right of suffrage but in the marked ballot, there is a noticeable failing. It is not too late nor too soon to make the needed correction. If the Plainfield recount and Mr. Runyon's suggestion bring about the needed change, the expense of getting the proper result of Plainfield's excise vote will not be begrudged.

PUNISHMENT CERTAIN FOR DRUNKEN MOTORISTS.

Plainfield people have been much interested in an opinion recently handed down by Judge Trenchard, of the Errors Court, sustaining the legislative act of 1913, which provides a term in jail for any person who operates an automobile while under the influence of liquor. This decision is important to automobilists not only from this State, but to those from other States who use New Jersey roads. For several years New Jersey was lenient and tried to wipe out this nuisance by imposing fines, but it was discovered that magistrates were inclined to be lenitent in certain cases, and the result was that violators who had personal or political influence often went unpunished for the offense. It is not so long ago that one of these cases came before City Judge William G. DeMeza. The young man accused of operating his machine while under the influence of liquor had influential relatives and exerted every power to evade just punishment for his act. It is to the credit of Plainfield's magistrate that he conducted a searching inquiry into every detail of the matter and when he found that the defendant had endangered the life and limb of innocent people, he imposed a sentence of thirty days in the county jail. It had a noticeable effect on Plainfield drivers of the so-called "sporting" class but did not stamp out the evil entirely.

Justice Trenchard says that it is not essential that the motorist be so intoxicated that he cannot drive the car, for "the expression 'under the influence of intoxicating liquors' covers not only all well known and easily recognized conditions, but any abnormal mental or physical condition which is the result of indulging to any degree in intoxicating liquors, and which tends to deprive him of that clearness of intellect and control of himself which he would otherwise possess."

Hereafter magistrates will have no option but to send to jail all drivers who are convicted of operating motor or other vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. The Legislature has in effect declared that a drunken driver in an automobile is as dangerous as a drunken mas with a loaded gun. And he is—both to himself and to others who have the right to use the public highways.

APPORTIONING THE COUNTY "PLUMS."

Speculation is rife in Republican circles just at present because of the efforts of those on the "inside" to forecast just what sections of Union county are to profit by the annual division of the political plums. For each office there are one or more logical candidates, mostly from the other end of the county.

The office that is causing the greatest amount of discussion is that of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. The term of Judge James C. Connolly expires next March, and between the present time and then Governor Edge will have announced his successor. As on former occasions, he will undoubtedly follow the suggestion of the Republican County Committee in making his appointment. Senator Carlton B. Pierce's willingness to withdraw from the Senatorial race in favor of William N. Runyon was taken by his supporters to mean that he was practically certain of the judgeship. However, former Judge William N. Newcorn, of this city, is still receiving some support for the appointment.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, another Plainfield man, is the only candidate to be generally spoken of for the prosecutor's office in placed of Alfred A. Stein.

The name of Francis J. Blatz, another Plainfield man, has been connected with the office, but as he is at the present time county attorney, it is hardly likely he will be seriously considered.

In apportioning to Union county its share of the State jobs that will be distributed by the incoming Legislature it is likely that the mandate of the County Committee will probably again be followed. The office of journal clerk will be one of those vacancies which will have to be filled, as George Johnson, of Scotch Plains, who held the position last year, has been made under-sheriff. Whether or not Union county will be allowed to have the place for another year is not known.

The berths of file clerk and doorkeeper are also held by Union county men at present. It is understood that the County Committee will again be allowed to fill the places. Last year it was permitted to name the assistant secretary of the Senate as well as one of the chaplains and a page.

It is said that the Republican County Committee will hold an executive meeting in the near future for the purpose of making up a slate of the different berths ot be filled. Should Plainfield secure the prosecutorship it will mean that the city had been pretty well favored. It is probable that Assemblyman Runyon would have been elected Senator whether Pierce ran or not but the removal of all opposition made it certain. Beside this condescension on the part of the county directorate it must not be overlooked that full recognition was given the local G. O. P. when Frank H. Smith received the appointment as State commissioner of banking and insurance. It is a very hard matter to distribute patronage in a manner to please everyone but Plainfield can say for once it is getting pretty well cared for.

EMPLOYES OF UNCLE SAM WHO ARE UNDERPAID.

In common with all the other letter carriers of the United States, the postmen of Plainfield are making a strong appeal for an increase in salaries. It is an appeal that the Government should hear and answer by granting their demands. The letter carriers make the bold statement that "every class of workers in the United States has been granted an increase of wages except the postal employes." The scale of wages paid clerks and letter carriers was fixed as long ago as 1907. Nor will it strike the average citizen that the scale adopted then was any too high. The maximum salary reached after nine years of service is $1,200, or $3.33 a day. The average wages of the letter carriers for the first nine years of service is $742, or $2.03 a day. It is not necessary to make any comparisons between the wages paid these faithful employes of the Government and others to conclude that the scale of compensation is low. There are none who complain of the faithfulness and efficiency of the men employed on the local force. The people of Plainfield should be glad to support their appeal for better pay, made in conjunction with that of their fellow-workers throughout the country. It can best be supported through Senator Frelinghuysen and the Congressmen representing New Jersey at Washington.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. Reed says the Chancery proceedings brought by the City Hall contractors are only "camouflage." Maybe they got the idea from the sleight-of-hand stunt which changed P. F. Kenny from a company to himself.

Well, the suds-lovers won out, didn't they? Wonder if the C. C. A. merry-makers will continue to sing that little song: "The flowers will bloom, the birds will sing and everything will be as lovely as before, Tra la la, tra la la, tra la la."

The councilmanic fire committee has decreed that the members of the local department must devote their spare time to knitting for the soldiers. Kind of seems like rubbing it in when one's mind goes back to that Courier-News special from Anniston which said the Plainfielders at Camp McClellan were absolutely opposed to the two-platoon system.

The knitting idea seems to be a pretty good thing at that, but why pick on the fireman? Why not have the cops take their needles with them when they go on duty nights and have something to do in the quiet, dull hours just before daybreak? Then, too, Mayor Calkins might rap out half a sock while on his way to New York in the morning, and after the rush is over on December 20, "Bill" Townsend could ward off dry rot by manufacturing a few mittens.

Now comes the Utility Commission with the information that the rates of the New York Telephone Company are too high. We could have told them that long ago. What we would love to have from the commission is some suggestion as to how to put the kibosh on the guy who grabs up your instrument and says: "You don't mind me using your 'phone, do you?" The petty larcenist knows blame well we do mind because the odd nickels count like the dickens these days.

This may sound a little fishy but nevertheless it was overheard in a local Sunday-school a short time ago. A teacher asked one of her pupils if he was to received any one think he asked for what it was he would wish most. "Why," said little Willie, "I would like to be as old as Methusalem." The teacher remarked upon the strangeness of such a wish and after telling the boy that Methusalem lived to be more than 900 years old asked why it was he wanted to stay on earth that long, "for only one reason," the young statesman replied, 'I' want to be on hand when the City Hall is completed."

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When "Charlie" Cook distributed the "Constitution," Plainfield's weekly papers in the days before the Daily Press?

When there was good sleighing at Thanksgiving time and the boys used to look in on Bennett Britton or Lloyd Nelson after dinner was over?

When there was only one popular song every six months, and folks never tired of singing "Whoa Emma," "White Wings," and "Shoo Fly, Don't Bother Me?"

When a certain teacher in the old Washington School, who is still a member of the city's educational force, was the only person in town who could put fear into the hearts of the boys from the "Boulevard?"

When the New Year's Day dinner at Hope chapel was the biggest thing of the kind in this city, and had even the family Thanksgiving feast "tied to a post?"

When there was no patented machine to cut up your Hamburger steak and the butcher used to do it with his cleavers, some of the most expert playing a "tune" on the block while they did it?

1,000 Needed For 29th Division at Anniston

A telegram received from the headquarters of the Twenty-ninth Division of the regular army at Anniston, Ala., has thrown open every branch of the service to New Jersey men. The telegram reads: "Approximately 1,000 men are needed for this division. Please recruit immediately. We desire horemen, chauffeurs, mechanics and clerks." This is an unsual opportunity for volunteer service, as up to this time there have been no vacancies in many branches of the service.

Men for the army and navy, subject to draft, will not be accepted after December 15, and all men desiring to enlist after that date must obtain a certificate from their local board showing they are not subject to the draft.

Among the enlistments in Newark yesterday were Augustine Parrinello, of 309 John street; Patro Cassano and Thomas Panteleo, of 709, John street, in the regular army, and George H. Jackson, of 140 Pearl street; Otis Jackson, of 117 Rector street, and Robert Carter, of 226 Center street, in the engineer corps, National Army.

At the local recruiting station, 55 Broad street, Newark, Carl A. Luhr, of 337 Morris avenue, and Peter Chafitelli, of 623 Second avenue, were accepted for the aviation section of the signal corps.

Cavalry Division of 12,000 Being Organized

The War college is now working out details for organizing a division of cavalry to fulfil a request sent to the War Department by General Pershing. The new organization is to be dispatched abroad as quickly as it is made up in divisional formation, with all auxiliary parts mounted.

The plan, tentatively outlined, is to utilize the regular cavalry now on the Mexican border as a nucleus for the division, replacing the men withdrawn from patrol duty in border States by recruits now in depots awaiting assignment. The remainder of the men necessary will be either furnished by surplus conscripts at national army cantonments or companies from the regular cavalry organizations now in the process of expansion.

The new division will be officered by regular cavalry officers. The War Department will not utilize reserve officers in the cavalry arm, as practically all of them have been recommissioned either in the infantry or artillery branch of the service.

There will be nine regiments of cavalry and one regiment of light mounted artillery. The engineers, signal corps and hospital units also will be mounted. The strength of the division will be approximately 12,000.

BETSY ROSS FLAG FIRST UNFURLED AT BOUND BROOK.

In these days when all eyes are on "Old Glory" and people the length and breadth of the land are making service flags, it is well to remember that the first American flag as made by Betsy Ross in Philadelphia was officially raised in Bound Brook by General Washington, in 1777. This fact about our neighboring town to the West and hundreds of others equally as interesting are contained in a splendid booklet just issued by the Bound Brook Board of Trade. It is clearly printed, beautifully illustrated and tells more about the borough bordering on the Raritan than Plainfielders ever heard at any one time before. The booklet is a credit to the organization and to the town, and its makers are to be congratulated. Any one wishing a copy can obtain it by addressing the secretary of the Bound Brook Board of Trade. Send for one today. It's well worth the trouble.

Appointed Director of Jersey Saving's Committee

A telegram has been received at the Executive offices addressed to Governor Edge, in which Frank A. Vanderlip, chairman of the National War Service Committee, which, under a recent act of Congress, was authorized to issue war savings certificates to the aggregate amount of $2,000,000, as the result of which he appointed a war savings committee, announced that he has appointed Dwight W. Morrow as director of the New Jersey Savings Committee, and in which he appointed the Executive a member of the advisory committee, which is to assist and advise with the work.

This message was followed by a telegram from Dwight W. Morrow, in which the newly-appointed director invited Governor Edge to be present at a luncheon at the Robert Treat Hotel in Newark, to assist in the organization of the committee.

Secretary Crossdale, after wiring Mr. Vanderlip that he had been authorized to accept the appointment for the Governor, sent Morrow a message informing him that the Governor will be unable to be present at the dinner, because he will not be back kfrom his Southern trip until November 28.

Army of 687,000 in Camp by January 1

Six hundred and eighty-seven thousand young men drawn to the colors in the first draft under the selective service law will be in training by January 1, Provost Marshal General Crowder announced today. While construction work is still under way in some of the training camps, most of the work is completed and all will be finished before the end of the present year. The manufacture of clothing for the drafted men is likewise proceeding rapidly and it is expected there will be an ample supply of uniforms for all the selected men when the first draft is completed.

Camp Lewis, located at American Lake, Washington, has the distinction of being the first camp to fill its quota of men, drawing them from California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. The percentages of men in training in the other camps were announced today by General Crowder as follows:

Camp Devens, 75 per cent.; Camp Upton, 77.8; Dix, 60; Meade, 85; Lee, 80; Jackson, 75; Gordon, 78; Sherman, 70; Taylor, 65; Custer, 76.5; Grant, 68.5; Pike, 70; Dodge, 40; Funston, 89, and Travis, 75.

P. H. S. FOOTBALL TEAM DEFEATS RAHWAY HIGH.

The Plainfield High School football team defeated Rahway High yesterday morning at Parker Field in their annual gridiron encounter by a score of 20-0. Rahway held Plainfield to a lone touchdown in the first half, but the High School boys "got going" in the last periods and scored two touchdowns. Plainfield played wonderfully when Rahway threatened to score, the spectacular open field tackling of P. Mills featured.

Long runs were made by both teams, O'Donnell and P. Mills, of Plainfield, each tearing off thirty-yard runs, and Mossman, Rahway's aggressive end, made two sixty-yard runs, each after catching a forward pass. P. Mills brought him down both times.

Milne, Hand and P. Mills made the Red and Blue touchdowns, and Kline kicked two goals after touchdowns. "Brute" Johnson, Plainfield's tackle, was switched to fullback several times, and ripped off big gains every time he carried the ball. Rahway played the best game it has played this year, and put up a game fight against the heavier Plainfield team. Mossman, Brown and Cowie played a good game for Rahway.

The lineup:

PLAINFIELD.		RAHWAY.
M. Snyder	left end	Mossman
Fullerton	left tackle	Lawlor
Perrine	left guard	Olsen
Kline	centre	Martin
Hamann	right guard	Cowie
Johnson	right tackle	Bauer
Loiseaux	right end	Ritchie
O'Donnell	quarterback	Jones (Capt.)
Hand	left halfback	Brown
P. Mills	right halfback	O. Mills
Milne	fullback	Mackie

Substitutes—Plainfield, Hannigan for Loiseaux, Erickson for Hamann, Leary for Perrine, W. Snyder for Hand, Blake for Fullerton; Rahway, Brockhurst for Mackie, Chase for Lawlor. Referee—Philips. Time of quarters—12 minutes.

Score by periods:

Plainfield	0	6	7	7	—20

Surrogate Codding "Fat Pickings" For G. O. P. Committee

According to the statement of receipts and expenditures of the Republican County Committee filed in the County Clerk's office this week Surrogate-elect Charles N. Codding was the largest contributor to the campaign fund, having given $1,000. The receipts of the committee totaled $4,920, of which it has a balance on hand of $155.30. The total expenditures were $4,764.70.

Among the largest items of expense was that of postage, which totaled $650. George H. Johnson, as secretary in charge of headquarters, is down for $280 for his share in the work. The other items include chiefly the expenses for ward workers, challengers, and securing the soldier votes as well as the printing of soldier and sample ballots.

The list of contributors was certified by Robert C. Plume, treasurer of the committee. It includes the expenditures of the work of the committee as campaign manager for Candidates William N. Runyon, senator-elect; Charles L. Morgan, Arthur N. Pierson, Arthur E. Warner, assemblymen-elect; Charles N. Codding, surrogate-elect, and James E. Warner, sheriff.

West End Boys Making "Trench" Candles To Aid Uncle Sam in the National Crisis

One evidence of how even small boys can help Uncle Sam in his present time of distress has been furnished by a group of youngsters in the West End of the city who have organized a "trench candle club." For the benefit of those who do not know, "trench" candles are a substitute for the old time illuminating stick and, through somebody's originality are made out of old newspapers and paraffine. They not only give sufficient light to read or write but also furnish a surprising amount of heat, through which numbed hands can be warmed.

The local chapter of the Red Cross secured the cooperation of the Plainfield school officials in getting the candles made. The lower grades devote a portion of Wednesday afternoon to this purpose and one of the classes which took up the work with great zeal was that taught by Miss Osborne in the Washington building of Darrow avenue and Essex street. The class enrollment includes Rutherford Dalley, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. H. Dalley, of West Fourth street, and the boy conceived the idea of forming a club to continue "candle" making at home. He accordingly enlisted the support of Howard Stillman Frederick and Hebert Cone and Marshall Acken, all of his own age.

These five boys assemble at the Dally home two nights a week and prepare the luminants that are to given so much comfort and assistance to the khaki clad lads in the European trenches. The process of manufacture is very simple but requires patience and material. The boys cut the pages of newspapers into columns and tightly wrap seven columns for one candle. After these are tied with light, strong thread they are placed in liquid paraffine and boiled for at least an hour. A "candle" thus prepared will burn steadily for from sixty to ninety minutes. Hundreds have been prepared by the pupils of the Plainfield schools and the little club organized by Rutherford Dalley has contributed nearly 100 made at home during the past two weeks. The hardest part of the plan is to secure the paraffine and this is gathered by a house to house canvass, soliciting it from housewives who have taken it from the tops of jellies or preserves or who have odds and ends of old canvass that would otherwise be thrown away. Anyone having any paraffine that is of no special use will confer a favor on Uncle Sam's soldiers by presenting it to the "trench candle club."

The organization perfected by Rutherford Dalley has been so successful that applications for membership are pouring in and it is likely that several branches will have to be started to take care of the "overflow." Thus, are the boys doing their "bit" in the National crisis which is demanding the support of every man, woman and child in the country.

Grade Crossings Exact Many Lives of Draft Age

Before automobiles were so frequent upon the public highways complaints were raised about the many deaths due to accidents at grade crossings, but since that time the loss of life has been accentuated by loss of property. The result of this has been that many persons of wealth and influence have bestirred themselves to remove this danger of grade crossings in the various States, and the agitation is growing greater every year. In order to strengthen the work of these persons and of public officials, tables of percentages of deaths, accidents, great and small, and the value of property destroyed in the different States have been compiled.

Following these figures are pleas of various kinds. The misery following each accident and the despair and mental anguish are set forth. One statement is to the effect that out of 10,765 trespass accidents of 1914, 437 happened to those between the ages of 21 and 30 years.

"In other words," ran the statement, "in these 3,437 accidents some 3,000 men within the draft age were killed and injured. The country has an economic interest in the life and health of every individual of the 10,000 who are killed and injured, regardless of whether they are or are not of military age, but, after all, humanitarian rather than economic reasons make the stronger appeal to us."

A report by the committee on grade crossings and trespassing on railroads of the National Association of Railway Commissioners says that 2,000 persons are killed each year at these crossings, and that there are about 200,000 grade crossings in the United States. This statement is made concerning twenty-two States:

"Of the twenty-two States, only nine reported the amount of money expended for elimination work. These figures are so eloquent that we cannot forbear quoting them. For instance, in Illinois the cost of elimination work done is reported as $55,570,265; in Massachusetts, $11,962,030; New York, about $44,000,000; New Jersey, $6,000,000; Vermont, $1,003,625; Maine, $216,804; Missouri, $330,000, with $967,000 unexpended for work already ordered; Oregon, $124,042, with an additional $533,375 to be spent, and Virginia, $66,317."

It is the opinion of this committee and of others who have made a study of the matter that the more attention paid to the dangers of grade crossings the better it will be for all who journey upon the highways either for business or for pleasure.

DEATH OF MRS. LAWRENCE.

Mrs. Margaret Lawrence, wife of Frank Lawrence, died last night at her home on Denmark road. She was in her forty-second year. The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 and will be in charge of Rev. E. V. Stevenson, rector of Grace P. E. church, of which the deceased was a communicant. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Seals Above The Ground

The famous Norwalk Cement Burial Vault is now sealed above the ground in plain sight of the family. Any burial receptacle, however waterproof and durable, is worthless unless its seal is a perfect one. The Norwalk Vault with its 3 inch depth of seal is tried and proven 100% efficient. The proof of which we say is 10 years of steadily increasing business—the burial of between 250,000 and 300,000 vaults in every section of the United States. OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

MRS. CYNTHIA A. BEEKMAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Cynthia A. Beekman, aged 73 years, widow of James Beekman, was held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at her late home in Martinsville. Burial was at Martinsville. Mrs. Beekman died Thursday night at the home of her son, Marcus W. Beekman, whom she was visiting. She was born in Plainfield, and had lived at Martinsville forty years. She leaves three sons, Prosecutor A. M. Beekman, of Somerville; Marcus W. and Fred F. Beekman, of this city, and four daughters, Miss Bertha Beekman, Mrs. Eldora Texier, of North Plainfield; Mrs. Frank Cleaves, of Warrenville, and Mrs. R. J. Doty, of Martinsville.

MRS. THOMAS S. RANDOLPH.

A very large attendance of relatives and friends was in evidence Monday afternoon when the funeral of Mrs. Emily Ward Randolph, wife of Thomas S. Randolph, was held at her late home on Central avenue. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. Phillip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which the deceased was a member, assisted by Rev. Dr. Sharp, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. Two hymns, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Asleep in Jesus," were sung by the choir of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, composed of Mrs. E. F. Champlain, Mrs. J. B. Cottrell, Charles P. Titsworth and C. S. Langworthy. The floral tributes were unusually numerous and included several beautiful set pieces from friends of the family. Burial was in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pall-bearers: Dr. H. V. Hubbard, Frank J. Hubbard, A. C. Titsworth, Albert Whitford, of Plainfield; Toward L. Guinn, of Orange, and J. Irving Maxson, of Westerly, R. I.

Mrs. Randolph's death occurred early last Saturday morning, after an illness of three weeks with an acute organic trouble. She was born at Manchester, Jamaica, West Indies, but had made her home in Plainfield for the past fifty years. She had a very wide acquaintance and was greatly appreciated by all who knew her for her many womanly qualities. As a member of the First Baptist church, in her younger years she was active in all departments.

Beside her husband, Mrs. Randolph is survived by two daughters and one son. They are Mrs. Edwin I. Smalley, Miss Isabel Randolph and T. Raymond Randolph, all of this city. The last named is a member of the Plainfield fire department attached to No. 2 engine. There is also one sister surviving, Miss Clara Ward, of New York.

JAMES CASSEY.

James Cassey, aged eighty-five years, died Monday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Swenarton, of 354 Emerson avenue. He had been failing for the past three years but had been confined to his bed only a short time. Mr. Cassey came here from Jersey City and with his daughter lived on South avenue, near Terrill road, until a few months ago.

The funeral was held at the late home Wednesday night and was in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First Methodist church. Burial was in the family plot in New York Bay cemetery, Jersey City.

JOHN HENRY BORMAN, JR.

John Henry Borman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Borman, of East Second street, died in Muhlenberg Hospital, Tuesday morning, following an illness of two weeks. He was stricken with appendicitis on November 11 and underwent an operation for this trouble, but shortly afterward pneumonia developed.

Mr. Borman was born at Warrenville twenty-one years ago but came to this city with his parents when a boy. After leaving school, he secured employment at the Plainfield Country Club, holding the position there at the time his illness began. He was a member of Trinity Reformed church and also of Plainfield-Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. Beside his parents, he is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Julius, Charles Benjamin, all of Plainfield, and Elmer, now at Anniston, Ala.; Mrs. Edward Allen, and Mrs. Fanny Johnson, of this city.

The funeral will be held at the parents' home, 317 East Second street, tonight at 7:30 and will be in charge of Rev. John Y. Brook, pastor of Trinity Reformed church. Burial will take place in the family plot in the cemetery at Coontown tomorrow morning.

MRS. SEYMOUR M. WOOSTER.

Mrs. Katharine Ryerson Wooster, wife of Seymour M. Wooster, was found dead in bed last Sunday morning at the home of her son, Jesse R. Wooster, of 1133 East Second street. Her home was at 544 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, and with her husband, she came to Plainfield last Saturday for a visit with her son. She was apparently in the best of health on retiring but when she failed to appear at the breakfast table the next morning members of the family went to her room. They found that Mrs. Wooster had expired during the night. A physician who was summoned said death had resulted from an acute attack of heart trouble.

The deceased was a native of Elmira, N. Y., but had lived in Brooklyn for a long time. She was a member of the First Church of Christ of Brooklyn and in recent months had been devoting a great deal of time to the church work in preparing supplies for soldiers. Beside her husband and the son at whose home she died, she leaves on other son, Ray S. Wooster, of Brooklyn.

The funeral was held in the First Church of Christ, Brooklyn, Tuesday night, and the body was sent to Elmira, N. Y., for burial.

JAMES J. HARDING.

James J. Harding, a resident of this city for thirty-five years and nearly all of that time employed by the old Plainfield Gas Company, which was taken over by the Public Service Corporation, died last Friday at his home on Monroe avenue. He had been ailing for a long time but his trouble was not considered dangerous.

Mr. Harding was born in County Mayo, Ireland, in 1851, and came to this country when a young man. He went to work with the Plainfield Gas Company shortly after it was organized and for a long time was in charge of all connections from street mains to buildings. When the old concern gave way to the Public Service, Mr. Harding remained with the corporation until a short time ago, since which he had been employed by the city in the street department. He was a member of St. Mary's Holy Name Society and Division No. 4, A. O. H. His only near surviving relative is his widow.

The funeral was held in St. Mary's church, Monday morning, when a large number of friends attended the requiem mass said by Rev. Father Walter Hennessy. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pall-bearers: Morris Kennedy, James Bones, Patrick Kelly, Patrick Regan Patrick Moran and Peter Kelly.

Gaunt-Mackay Bill Will Be Supported By G. O. P. Senators

That the Republican Senators who favor local option will support a bill along the lines of the so-called Gaunt-Mackay measure, which passed the upper branch of the Legislature last winter, was the consensus of opinion at the second conference of the Senate majority at Trenton, this week. Senator Emerson L. Richards, of Atlantic, who will be the Republican leader in the Upper House t his winter, agreed with this sentiment.

The Gaunt-Mackay bill provides that upon the presentation of a petition signed by at least twenty per cent. of the legal voters, the question of license or no license may be submitted to the citizens of a municipality upon a referendum. If the petition contains over thirty per cent. of the voters' names then the governing body of the municipality shall determine whether a special election should be called for the purpose. In the event of a special election it shall not be held within sixty days preceding or following a general or primary election.

Whether the sentiment of the Senate caucus will be the guide also for the House members of the majority on the liquor question remains to be seen. There has been talk that the bill might take the form of the Kates home rule measure, which passed the Senate also last winter, but which failed to go through the House. This measure provides for the initiating of local ordinances in a municipality on the question of the sale of intoxicating beverages.

Now that t he platform committees of the Senate and House conference have been named, meetings will be held in the near future with Governor Edge on the bill carrying out the party pledges and the ideas of the administration. These meetings are expected to begin with the executive just as soon as he returns to the State. Majority Leader-elect Pierson, of Union county, was a guest at a luncheon in the Senate dining-room this week given by Mr. Richards to his colleagues of the majority.

All the platform bills are expected to have been considered and whipped into shape by the members of each house majority before Christmas. They will be printed and ready for introduction in each branch on the opening day of the session. Some thirty measures will be presented embodying the ideas of Governor Edge and the Republican State platform of this year.

The following committees were appointed by Senator Richards this week: Patronage, Allen, Salem; Mutchler, Morris; Mackey, Bergen; Fithian, Cumberland; Stevens, Cape May. Rules—Pitterin, Essex; Case, Somerset; Sturgess, Gloucester. Pastform—McCran, Passaic; Richards, Atlantic, and Wells, Burlington.

Dix Hostess House For Women Folks

After weeks of planning and of preliminary field activity, the Young Women's Christian Association now has in sight commencement in full scope of a work at Camp Dix which will none the less benefit the soldier because it aims primarily to serve the visiting mother or sweetheart. The outward token of this promised work is the association's "hostess house," one of the largest buildings on the reservation, which commands a gully at the northern end of the division parade ground. This building, still far from complete, will be dedicated December 4.

"Our aim is service to relatives of soldiers," is the summary of the association's aims there, given by Miss Grace Sheppard, of Germantown, Pa., executive secretary, who will have charge of the building.

The opportunity and need for such a service are seen by every family party which visits Camp Dix for more than a few minutes—and those which come to see the soldiers in olive drab generally do stay longer. It is a man's camp and the distances are big. The barracks and the administration building afford no rest rooms for women and children; only the Y. M. C. A. huts, turning over a few, have helped out. With the coming of cold weather accommodating women and juvenile visitor s has proved more and more difficult.

When the Y. W. C. A. building is opened, the mother who arrives at Camp Dix station Sunday morning to see her son can in ten minutes, on foot and with a lunch basket with him in a cheerful reception room. At noon she can get a wholesome meal, instead of a cold luncheon from a shoebox or cake and ginger ale at a regimental canteen, in the association cafeteria, which will have seating room for 120. If baby sister has come, too, there will be nursery accommodations for her. Further, if mother is called to camp by word that her boy is seriously ill, in the hostess house she can remain overnight, instead of going to the nearest city or conducting a trying search for problematic quarters in Wrightstown, Pemberton, Mt. Holly or Bordentown.

The new building is virtually isolated, but the camp is seen on all sides. Though it marks an end of the parade ground, the lines of the ground on either side keep the barracks at a distance, and the camp quartermaster's group, seen below at the north, merely fringes the main road from Wrightstown.

The site is most attractive. To the south can be seen, when they may occur, any large parade of troops on the northern sweep from division headquarters. To the south is the view through upright cedars into the gully. Landscape gardeners to be lent by wealthy women in South Jersey and Philadelphia will transform the exactively graded surrounding plot. A street to be constructed by army engineers will pass nearby.

Miss Sheppard is to be assisted by four resident secretaries, who have had experience in similar work. Miss Helen Johnson is to have charge of the cafeteria, Miss Sarah Frankenstein is to have charge of the emergency and information department, and Miss Katherine Boshart is to be business manager. A hostess—with characteristic duties—has to be selected by association authorities.

The building itself and its essential equipment are to be paid for out of a fund given the Y. W. C. A. by Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia. The "home touches" and much of the supplemental service are to be provided by New Jersey women.

Women of this State, including many from towns and cities nearby, have already done much through the Y. W. C. A. by placing themselves at the disposal of women visitors who come to Y. M. C. A. No. 1 first on the main road into camp from the station, and at Y. M. C. A. No. 4, last on that road. Building No. 1 has been the temporary hostess house.

There was an unexpected opportunity Sunday for visitors to find members of the 312th in their barracks. Though many recruits had counted on passes for trips home, not all got them, because of an eleventh hour announcement by Colonel A. V. P. Anderson that only those men, noncoms and privates, who obtained a qualifying score of 35 at the 300-yard rifle target could leave camp. Exceptions were made only in the cases of those whose sight was known to be poor; failure in other cases was ascribed to carelessness or lack of instruction, which was immediately forthcoming on the Saturday afternoon holiday.

The pass restriction was not popular, and probably was not intended to be. Passes home are declared to be "privileges" and grantable only to "good soldiers." Accuracy with the rifle is an infantry essential—hence essential as an accomplishment of the good soldier. The man who declares he tried hard, though his ten shots netted only 32, three less than the qualifying mark, did not take kindly to the anti-pass rule. Next week, though, his slogan may be "35 or bust." He will be aiming for an immediate stake, just as some day he will shoot for a much larger stake—his life or the other fellow's.

The order of the commanding officer seemed to have little connection with the Saturday morning scores, which averaged good. All who made the qualifying figure are to go into the semi-finals which will weed out contestants for an all-camp shoot. When the smoke has cleared away a number of privates and non-coms will be known as marksmen, sharpshooters or experts. These are not empty titles. They are based on prowess and carry extra pay.

Sunday the camp was visited by the Board of managers and several other members of the New Jersey Society, Sons of the American Revolution. The party included Chester N. Jones, of Newark, president; Thomas W. Williams, vice president general, and Dr. David Josiah Pinterton general of the nation society, both of East Orange; George V. Muchmore, of Summit; Alexander Hudnut, of Princeton; J. Frank Bower and John T. Nefl, of East Orange; Earl A. Miller, of Orange; Bridgewater M. Arnold, president of the Orange chapter of Orange; William H. Sutton, of Montclair, and S. Albert Clark, of Newark. A conference was held at Y. M. C. A. No. 1, when the plan to decorate eight of the buildings, in which the men meet for recreation, was discussed. Several of the buildings were inspected.

TWO BOROUGH BOYS AT GALVESTON, TEX.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bailey, of Summit avenue, received word yesterday from their son, Percy Bailey, who enlisted five months ago in the U. S. Marine Corps. His company after being stationed at Philadelphia, was sent to Guantico, Va., where it was made an infantry division. From that point the entire unit has been sent to Galveston, Tex., from which point the young man directed his letter.

Mr. Bailey states that Convil Harper, of North Plainfield, who enlisted at the same time as he did, was retained in the same company. Both enjoyed the trip down the coast and through the Gulf of Mexico to the fullest extent, although because of the great number on board the transport the accommodations were somewhat limited. The trip had all the thrills of a trans-Atlantic passage as the boat was frequently so far to sea there was no sight of land and on one day not a single boat was passed between daylight and darkness. The regiment will remain at Galveston only a short time as it will go into a training camp within a short time. Mr. Bailey closes with the information that he is in good health and already fully accustomed to the life of a soldier.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

The new concrete bridge over Norwood avenue, which was recently opened to traffic, was formally accepted by the Union and Somerset county boards of , freeholders this week. The structure represents an outlay of $13,000.

Herbert L. Martin, a former resident of this city and at one time connected with the reportorial staffs of the local papers, addressed the regular meeting of the Salvation Army last Sunday night and also spoke at a street meeting. Mr. Martin is now editor of the Bayonne Times, and has become greatly interested in religious work. His father, Frederick H. Martin, was an active Y. M. C. A. worker for many years.

Because of curtailed shipping facilities between this city and New York due to war conditions, many local merchants have made arrangements to transport their goods back and forth by means of automobile trucks.

Cornelius Murray, of West Front street, who left here several months ago with Troop D for Anniston, Ala., and was later transferred to headquarters' company, has just been transferred to Camp Gordon, in Georgia.

Councilman Charles Loizeaux, of Hillside avenue, who went to Camp Dix with the selected men and who recently was given a commission as a Thanksgiving dinner Wednesday noon. Through the generosity of local people, a complete menu with turkey as the big feature, was provided. Mrs. E. W. Bulkley, of West Seventh street, has supervision of the donations and wishes to thank all those who contributed.

Robert G. Weyh, Jr., gave a highly interesting lecture at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Monday night, on the subject, "Marvels of the Great West." Moving pictures and many beautiful slides were used to acquaint the audience with the scenes described by Mr. Weyh. The lecture was given under the auspices of the North Plainfield Parent-Teachers' Association and was well attended.

The Misses Monica Sharretts, Marie Boles and Dorothy Quick, of this city, conducted a sale of knitting bags and other articles at the home of Mrs. Laurens H. Van Buren, of Madison avenue, on Monday and Tuesday afternoons. All the articles were made by the young women themselves and a portion of the proceeds were donated the local chapter of the Red Cross.

The annual lodge of sorrow of the Plainfield Lodge of Elks will be held in the Plainfield Theatre next Sunday night, December 2. Exalted Ruler Francis J. Blatz will be in charge of the service and the principal address will be made by James Maybury, of Clifton. Professor Harry Wetton will have charge of a stringed orchestra.

The working razing the old Netherwood Hotel is proceeding rapidly and only the lower half of the building now remains. All the material taken out so far has been of very good quality and has been bringing excellent prices. Dealers in old iron, metals and lumber as far away as Newark have been buying the materials on the ground and carting them away. The many thousands of brick used in putting up the building are in excellent condition and are also bringing good prices.

Raymond C. Taylor, for the past eleven years manager of the Chicago branch of Johnson & Johnson, has been appointed assistant superintendent of the Standard Aero Corporation. He will be located at the Elizabeth plant. Mr. Taylor has already come East and is making his home at Roselle.

The carload of flour purchased by the Pond Tool Works Company for its employees was received from the mill the forepart of the week and has been distributed by local truckmen. It came in bag form and sold at $11.25 for 200 pounds, delivered, this being equivalent to a barrel. Another carload is to be ordered shortly.

"Jack" Balderston, a former well-known Plainfield newspaper man who left this city to accept a position in Philadelphia, returned to this country last week after spending nearly two years in Europe as a war correspondent. He was located most of the time in France but was also in Italy and the Balkan States a portion of the time. Mr. Balderston is now stopping at the Hotel Grenoble in New York previous to departing for Spain as he has been appointed by President Wilson to a position on the diplomatic service of the United States Embassy of that country. He expects to sail on December 15.

Contractors have commenced tearing up the brick pavement on Watchung avenue, between East Fourth street and the railroad tracks, for the purpose of straightening the trolley tracks and placing a new switch at that point. Trolley passengers will in the meantime do their transferring a short distance either way from the old corner. The work of concreting Park avenue, from Fourth and Seventh streets, was completed the forepart of the week and this section is now being laid with brick. This means that this thoroughfare will be opened to traffic in from two to three weeks. The improvements on Watchung avenue, south of Fourth street and on West Front street, continue to move along nicely.

The Plainfield Five basketball team, which has been playing games in Skeuerchen Hall Wednesday nights, will hold its usual game and dance tonight. The opposing team will be the strong St. Peters' five, of New Brunswick, one of the best known aggregations in this part of the State. The dancing will continue until 2 o'clock.

The lates auxiliary to the Plainfield-North Plainfield Chapter of the Red Cross was formed Monday night by the women of St. Joseph's parish, the borough. Fifty members were enrolled and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. aJmes E. Bailey; secretary, Miss Helen Brynlarski, and treasurer, Miss Agnes Fitzgerald. Another meeting to complete the organization will be held at the parish hall tonight, at which time the auxiliary will be addressed by Mrs. E. Y. Breese, of this city. The regular meetings will be on Thursday afternoons and evenings and will begin December 6.

Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., conducted a Thanksgiving dance in Junior Hall, on East Front street, Wednesday night. Professor Scott's orchestra furnished music and the charge of the service and the principal address will be made by James Maybury, of Clifton. Professor Harry Wetton will have charge of a stringed orchestra.

William Bechtel, of Jefferson avenue, oNrth Plainfield, was arraigned before Recorder Hand in the borough police court Tuesday morning, charged with disorderly conduct and non-support. He was released under bonds to insure sufficient payment for the maintenance of his family.

The progressive euchre and dance which was originally planned by the Daughters of Isabella to be given in Columbus Hall last Wednesday night, will take place on Wednesday night of next week. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Knights of Columbus war fund.

At the annual meeting of the Probasco Bible class of the First Baptist church, held this week, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, George L. Bird; vice president, Duncan L. Patterson; secretary, Murray E. Stow; assistant secretary, Horace G. Bunker, and treasurer, George D. Wilson.

County Superintendent Indorses Junior Red Cross School Work Commenced Here

County Superintendent of Schools A. L. Johnson has given his hearty indorsement to the work of the Junior Red Cross in the schools of Union county. The work which has already been put into operation in the schools of Plainfield is praised in a letter which Superintendent Johnson has given Arthur F. Hopper, director of manual arts of the Plainfield schools.

Superintendent Johnson, who is ever alert as to the needs of the public system, has given careful thought and study to the Junior Red Cross work and his indorsement, it is expected, will lead to greater things for those who have undertaken the work.

In his letter Mr. Johnson says:

"I have just reviewed the article prepared by Arthur Hopper, supervisor of manual training in the public schools of Plainfield.

"The Junior Red Cross work in this school system is the best I have seen. There is no urgent need for the establishment of this work in all of the public schools throughout our country. Work of this character is being more and more undertaken by the schools, but it has not been as fully organized as it has been in Plainfield. There is no question regarding the merit or need of such work.

"With the tremendous demand for supplies on the part of the Red Cross we will need in the very near future the complete organization of all the schools for cooperation in this work.

"I have been greatly pleased with the response in many districts in Union county, but particularly so with the organization at Plainfield.

"I hope that in the very near future every school in Union county will be as well organized for this work as the city of Plainfield."

What the schools are doing to cooperate with Uncle Sam is outlined by Mr. Hopper as follows:

"At the present time much interest is being shown in the National movement to enroll the children of the public schools of America in the Junior Red Cross.

"The following is a proclamation recently issued by President Wilson to the school children of the United States:

"The President of the United States is also President of the American Red Cross. It is from these offices joined in one that I write you a word of greeting at this time when so many of you are beginning the school year.

"The American Red Cross has just prepared a junior membership with school activities, in which every pupil in the United States can find a chance to serve our country. The school is a natural center of your life. Through it you can best work in the vital cause of freedom to which we have all pledged ourselves.

"Our Junior Red Cross will bring to you opportunities of service to your community and to other communities all over the world and guide your service with high and religious ideals. It will teach you how to save in order that suffering children elsewhere may have the chance to live. It will teach you how to prepare some of the supplies which wounded soldiers and homeless families lack. It will send to you, through the Red Cross bulletins, the thrilling stories of relief and rescue. And, best of all, more perfectly than through any of your other school lessons, you will learn, by doing those kind things under your teacher's direction, to be the future good citizens of this great country which we all love.

"And I commend to all school teachers in the country the simple plan which the American Red Cross has worked out to provide for your co-operation, knowing as I do that school children will give their best service under the direct guidance and instruction of their teachers. Is not this, perhaps, the chance for which you have been looking to give your time and efforts in some measure to meet our National needs?

"WOODROW WILSON,
"President."

"Dr. H. M. MacCracker, president of Vassar College, has recently been elected by the American Red Cross to act as National director of the Junior Red Cross movement, with Mrs. Anna Hedges Talbot, of the New York State Department of Education, manager of the Atlantic Division of the Junior organization, and Miss Alice M. Campbell, a graduate of Vassar, field secretary for the Atlantic Division.

"Briefly stated, the plan is for every pupil of the public schools of America to contribute twenty-five cents toward an initial fund, which will be used for buying material for Junior Red Cross work. Just as soon as each school obtains its quota it is enrolled in the Junior Division. Each town or city is to have its local Junior Red Cross committee. This committee will keep in close touch with the local Red Cross Chapter, and also the State Division of the American Red Cross. Plainfield, Boston, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Chicago have already completed their organization and have the work well in hand. Other cities are rapidly organizing, and undoubtedly in a very short time the majority of the public schools of American will be organized in some form of Junior Red Cross work.

"This movement has only been under way a few weeks, and those who have taken up the work have been somewhat handicapped by lack of definite information as to the kind of supplies most in demand and instructions for making them. This information, however, will shortly be forthcoming, as Dr. MacCracken is now making up a war supply manual. This manual will give specifications or articles that may be made by the children of the public schools. To meet the immediate demand for information before this pamphlet comes out, Mrs. Talbot, of the Atlantic Division, is having mimeographed a list of articles which can be made.

"The Junior Red Cross movement is meeting with the approval of the leading educators of the country. Dr. C. N. Kendall, Commissioner of Education of New Jersey, has given his cordial indorsement of the plan, and at his suggestion the Atlantic Division appointed a State Committee for New Jersey. This committee is composed of: Mrs. Iris Pouty O'Leary, who will act as chairman; Miss Emelyn B. Hartridge, of the Hartridge School, Plainfield, and Mrs. Edward F. Chamberlain. The committee will act in an advisory capacity for the State of New Jersey to the Atlantic Division Junior Department. Other States will no doubt form similar committees.

"Among the articles now being made in the schools are: Hospital garments, refugee garments, pajamas, sweaters, wristlets, socks and other knitted articles, pillows, knitting needles, splints, sewing cases, hospital trays, comfort kits, surgical dressings, wool winders, etc. All these articles are urgently needed. This is especially true of surgical dressings and knitted goods. The following appeal issued by the Red Cross War Council in Washington, on November 15, says:

"'It is imperative that all the sweaters, wristlets and socks that can possibly be made should be turned into the supply department at the earliest possible date. With the cold weather coming on, the demand for sweaters, especially, has been beyond the capacity of all our resources of supply. We have forwarded promptly all knitted articles received.'

"The demand for sweaters is so urgent that the Red Cross have recently been obliged to buy half a million machine-made sweaters to meet immediate demands.

"Doubts have existed in the minds of some people as to whether the children are capable of making knitted garments and surgical dressings. Thanks to the fine system of manual arts work in the public schools of America, the children have taken to this new form of work like ducks take to water. In their manual training work they have learned to use their hands, and they understand the value of accuracy. This training is now showing itself in the Junior Red Cross work. In one school system surgical dressings which had been made by children and turned in to the local Red Cross chapter, on being examined, were found to be not only made as well as those worked on by adults, but in many cases were superior. This speaks well for the previous training of the children.

"As a matter of fact, however, the time has not yet come for it to be necessary to do all of this work during the regular school hours. Most of it may be, and is being done, after school hours by volunteer workers in such a manner that it in no way interferes with regular school work. Should a prolonged war make it necessary to turn out supplies in greater quantities than at present, the public schools will be ready to take their share of the burden, and the experience they will gain will be exceedingly valuable.

"Many of the advantages of Junior Red Cross work could be taken up, by the length of this article only allows a very brief outline. For instance, in raising funds for the work, many schools are giving plays and entertainments, which help to stimulate the ingenuity and responsibility of pupils. It also emphasizes the general education along civic and social lines. The Red Cross insists that its work shall come up to high standards. This is done primarily for the sake of those who receive the supplies, but incidentally this insistence has its educational value. Along with the practical advantage of high standards, we also have the spirit of service and patriotism, which at this time cannot be too highly emphasized.

"The following brief account of how one school system has organized the Junior Red Cross work is of interest, inasmuch as it is being used as a guide for other school systems.

"The Plainfield public schools were the first to organize. Every school, both public and private, is now enrolled as an auxiliary to the Junior Department of the Red Cross. On October 31 treasurer of the Chapter School Committee reported $1,683.50 in the school fund. This money, with what has been added since, totals twenty-five cents for every school child in the town; 100 per cent. membership is often an aim, but not always an achievement.

"The spirit of competition has reigned supreme in the enlistment of the Plainfield schools. During the period when the high school was raising the supply fund which entitled it to Junior membership, the progress of the campaign was marked by a flag which was hung outside each room as soon as its part of the total sum came in. The Parent-Teacher Association of one school raised $150, to be added to the fund for that school. In another school $25 was solicited from an outside source by the principal. When the children heard of this they renewed their efforts, and, having raised $25, returned the check to the donor.

"It is an interesting fact that the first school in Plainfield to become an auxiliary of the Junior Department of the Red Cross was a school for sub-normal children. So far as is known, this school, which raised its own supply by a sale of articles made by the children, was the first public school in the country to organize on the National plan. Many of the pupils of this school are now energetic knitters.

"In ten of the grade schools, the children in grades one and two are shipping for ambulance pillows and making light-weight books from old magazines for hospital use. The third, fourth and fifth grades are busy on wash cloths and square for bed covers, etc. In grades six to eight the activities center around knitting and surgical dressings.

"The Plainfield High School has organized six units, namely: Knitting, surgical dressings, comfort kits, sewing, clerical work and woodwork. All the work of the high school is so planned that it may be done outside of school hours. The pupils are enthusiastic and energetic workers, and they have been highly commended by the local Red Cross Chapter for their efficient and timely aid.

"The splendid start made by the Plainfield public schools is due to the untiring efforts of Miss Emelyn B. Hartridge, chairman of the local Junior Red Cross Committee, and to the wise and far-sighted policy of Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools, who is acting as treasurer; also to Lindsey Best, principal of the Plainfield High School, who planned the high school units, and the various school committees.

"The movement is an opportunity for our American schools. Never before have we had such an opportunity to drive home to the children the lesson of patriotism and the expression of our National democracy."

Experts Devise a Kerosene Carburetor

The needs of the times and the consequent demand for carburetors to use kerosene has brought about the formation of a Kerosene Carburetor Company of Detroit, Mich. The carburetor to be manufactured has been developed on principles which have been worked out for the heavier hydrocarbon fuels as adapted to the present automobile engines.

The principles embodied in the carburetor are entirely distinctive and new in the line of heavy-fuel carburetion. The most distinctive feature is that of the especially formed venturi. The kerosene is fed through a groove surrounding the smallest diameter of the venturi. Through this construction a destructive eddy is created at this point, and this eddy action atomizes the fuel into a very fine floating fog.

One of the necessary essentials for kerosene burning is the atomization of the fuel into as fine a spray or fog as possible. This action induces the amount of heat necessary to completely vaporize the fuel and form a dry-burning gas.

It has also been found necessary and expedient to raise the temperature of the fuel as high as possible without causing vaporization. In this carburetor it has been accomplished by a pre-heater which surrounds the kerosene fuel inlet and jets. Through this pre-heater and the eddy atomizing effect of the venturi it has been found that the fog produced was virtually a burning gas, requiring only a very small amount of drying to produce a thoroughly dry homogeneous gas. This does not precipitate in the in-take cylinders.

The use of the two venturi and two jets—one for low speed and one for high—makes it possible to use a very high velocity through the venturi at low motor speed, adding to the breaking up effect of the specially designed venturi.

While the small venturi is operating at all times by the use of a specially designed sliding venturi as the velocity increases, the second jet is automatically cut in and operates at higher speed.

While gasoline is used in starting, it is only for a very short period and depends entirely upon the weather conditions, and only then for the length of time that is necessary to raise the temperature of the kerosene to a point that will properly vaporize it and hold it in suspension. These temperatures were determined with a view of delivering the best all-around proficiency without impairing the volumetric efficiency of the motor.

The kerosene carburetor has only one float chamber, but by the use of a three-way valve gasoline is admitted for starting. To insure a perfect mixture, a fixed or non-adjustable jet is used, eliminating the possibility of mistakes in adjustment, the exact proportion of kerosene being adjusted automatically by the specially designed venturi.

It has been found by a series of exhaustive tests that by its use all of the fuel is burned in the motor without any precipitating or carbon formation, pre-ignition, backfiring or any of the other difficulties with which kerosene is supposed to be associated.

COLORED INFANTRY
IN NEED OF CLERKS.

According to recruiting officers at the local Postoffice, the Fifteenth Colored Infantry now encamped at Camp Merritt, Tenafly, is in need of clerks and all colored men qualified are appealed to to help fill the ranks before it is too late. Men for the artillery to do heavy railroad service and for the Field Artillery also are needed. Any man having a trade can be placed in the aviation branch of the Signal Corps, it was said today.

Telephone Company Must Reduce Rates

The Board of Public Utility Commissioners this week ordered the New York Telephone Company to file within sixty days a report reducing its telephone rates, which will bring the revenue of the company down annually to not less than $800,000. At the same time a decision was rendered holding that the present rates charged by the Delaware and Atlantic Telegraph and Telephone Company, as at present constituted, are not producing excessive rates to the company and, therefore, cannot be altered.

The two companies are connected with the "Bell System," the New York concern supplying service throughout the eastern, central and northern parts of the State, while the latter supplies in the western and southern parts.

The decisions of the utility board are the result of its investigation of the reasonableness of the rates charged by the two companies.

Engineers and experts in telephone accounting were employed by the board to ascertain the values of the companies' properties and the amounts of their revenues and operating expenses. Testimony of the boards' experts, as well as that of the experts in the employ of the telephone companies, was submitted at a number of hearings held by the board. The value of the properties was taken June 30, 1916.

After reviewing the estimony, the board found that the present value of the property of the New York Telephone Company in New Jersey to be approximately $30,000,000. The net earnings for the year 1916, according to the company's statement, were $3,040,352. The board further found that certain charges which were voted out of surplus should not be treated as operating expenses, and that the net earnings should be taken at $200,000 in excess of the sum stated by the company. The board holds that the company's annual net revenue may be reduced to $800,000 and a sufficient sum left to pay eight per cent. of the $30,000,000 of the company's property. Eight per cent. is held to be a reasonable return.

In its report of the investigation of the Delaware and Atlantic Telegraph and Telephone Company, the board takes the value of the company's property as determined by it in a forme rproceeding, report of which proceeding was filed by the board January 7, 1913.

The additions to and deductions from this value since the same was taken were checked, and the company's receipts and operating expenses determined. The net revenue for 1916 for the Delaware and Atlantic Telegraph and Telephone Company is found to be but $141,606. The board holds that upon the showing with respect to this company no reduction of rates can be required. In this connection the report states, "without making any addition to the value of the property for non-physical value, we find that the physical property alone is valued at more than $6,000,000. Applying to this figure the net revenue above ascertained of $141,606, the percentage of return upon fair value of physical property only is less than three per cent. Rates which produce a return so limited cannot be held to produce excessive returns and to be unjust and unreasonable."

Advises Youths To Enlist Now

As an appeal to all men who are subject to draft and who cannot enlist after December 15, Major J. E. Bloom has written the following open letter to the men of this city, asking that such men endeavor to get into the old State regiments or into the regular army:

"You may have noticed in the press announcements recently that under the present regulations under the draft law, any man who is subject to draft can no longer volunteer after December 15; therefore, if you have not yet been called by the examining board, I would advise you to enlist before December 13, because this will give you the opportunity of selecting the branch of the service that you may prefer, and such right to selection will not exist when you are drafted.

"I advise you to call on the local army recruiting office (if you cannot come to see me here) to inquire what vacancies exist in any of the regiments from your city or State. After the war, I think it will be pleasanter for you to have been in the service with such; I mean the old National Guard Regiments which have been taken into the United States service.

"You might write to the commanding officer of any such to inquire if there are vacancies and if he will give you a letter to the local recruiting officer to recommend your enlistment for his regiment or battery or supply train or signal corps.

"If you cannot get into such State organization, then preferably try to get into the Regular Army. Write for recent circular explaining the branches of the Regular Army Staff Corps, for which I am now enlisting men. In addition to such, we are also enlisting for the line of the army both Regulars and National Army. When you write give some particulars as to your age, occupation, whether married or single, etc., also whether or not called by your local examining board.

"The opportunity for advancement as a non-commissioned officer is good, for a man like you. And thence you can apply for the next officers' training camp, etc.

"The main point of this letter is to advise you to enlist now, before December 13th, if you wish to have a choice. After such date men between 18 and 21 or 31 and 40 can still volunteer.

Yours sincerely,
"J. E. BLOOM.

Enjoying Wedding Trip at Old New Hampshire Home

The marriage of Miss Lillian Teeter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Teeter, of Clinton avenue, to Elmer D. Cutting, of Central avenue, took place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Methodist church, the Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor, officiating. The bride's parents accompanied the couple. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Cutting left for Lyme Centre, N. H., the former home of the bridegroom, where they will spend their honeymoon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cutting are talented musicians, the former as a singer and the latter as a pianist. Mr. Cutting holds a position with the Standard Oil Company at the local distributing station, and is prominent as a member of the Plainfield Lodge of Elks. On returning from their honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Cutting will reside on Clinton avenue.

NOTES FROM THE PARK AVE. BAPTIST CHURCH.

Costly Runkle Premises Sold At Sheriff's Sale

Beautiful Estete on West Eighth Street, Show Place for Years, Bought In by A. W. Ball to Satisfy Claim Secured in Chancery

A further dwindling of the once substantial fortune of Harry G. Runkle, for many years numbered among Plainfield's wealthiest citizens, became apparent at Elizabeth, Wednesday, when his beautiful residence property on West Eighth street was sold under the hammer by Sheriff James E. Warner to satisfy a claim in Chancery secured by the People's Bank and Trust Company, of Westfield. A. W. Ball, of Newark, bought in the premises for $250, this bid being accepted. The property consists of five acres of ground laid out in lawns, drives, flower beds and gardens together with the imposing home of the Runkles, keeper's lodge, garage and barns. The estimated value of the realty and buildings is put at $75,000.

Mr. Runkle came to Plainfield nearly forty years ago and was one of the first commuters to appreciate the advantages of West Eighth street as an exclusive thoroughfare. After he had built his handsome home and laid out the grounds in the typical style of the "country gentleman's estate," many others followed suit until Eighth street took the "aristocracy" honors away from West Seventh street, which then boasted of a majority of Plainfield's "first families." One "show" place after another was located on the broad thoroughfare but the Runkle estate resigned supreme until the coming of former Mayor Percy H. Stewart's and rivalled premises costing nearly half a million dollars.

Mr. Runkle was interested in many big financial enterprises, one of them being in the organization of a company to build the water system at Havana, Cuba. This proved very successful as did other ventures which embraced the starting of the old Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, since purchased by the Public Service Corporation.

Some years ago, however, the financier's fortunes reversed and his wealth has steadily declined. On several occasions he has been in straitened circumstances but through timely relief was enabled to ward off the inevitable. About two years ago, William Runkle, a brother of H. G. Runkle, died at his home in Orange and the bulk of his two million dollar estate came to the Plainfielder after costly Chancery proceedings to break the will. When the money was paid over it was found that executors' claims amounted to more than the money received and the expected relief from needs was not forthcoming. In one court action brought to recover on a note given by Mr. Runkle it was shown that he had paid exorbitant interest and in yearly cash, the amount charged him being so outrageously large the presiding justice was induced to censure all parties concerned.

The foreclosure sale of the family home, yesterday, showed more than anything else in what dire extremes Mr. Runkle has been forced.

More Enlistments Recorded From Here

Two more well-known Plainfield young men gave up civil life this week to "do their bit" for Uncle Sam. They are Leo Moore, of West Fourth street, who went to Fort Slocum Monday morning, to begin work as a mechanician in the Signal Corps, Aviation Section, of the U. S. Army, and Lovell R. Harding, of Lamartine road, who is waiting orders to be assigned as machinist's mate in the U. S. Naval Reserve force. Mr. Harding was given the rating of second class yeoman.

Several other local young men made application for enlistment this week but failed to meet the rigid examinations of both army and navy. Mr. Moore learned the trade of machinist at the Pond Tool Works but has been devoting himself to automobiles almost entirely. He was with Allen B. Laing for a long time but more recently has been employed at the Thompson garage on Park avenue. His experience in motors was quickly recognized by the army officials and he will probably go abroad at an early date as a member of one of the flying sections now being organized. He is the son of Josiah A. Moore, who lived on West Fourth street for many years but who has been a resident of the Bronx section of New York the past eighteen months.

Mr. Harding is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Harding, of Laramie road, and has been employed as chauffeur lately by a Cranford man. While not a machinist, he has worked in garages most of the time since leaving school and is considered an expert on automobile and aeroplane motors. Mr. Harding is a brother to Edward J. Harding, Jr., now in Washington as assistant to Secretary McAdoo's office.

JUNIOR COUNCIL UNFURLS MEMBERS' SERVICE FLAG

At its last regular meeting, Plainfield-Benelovent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., unfurled a service flag which is to hang in the council rooms in honor of eight members of the organization who are in the country's service. It is believed that several others have joined either the Army or Navy but have failed to give the council's secretary official notification. An effort is being made to secure an absolutely complete list.

The service flag now displays eight stars for the following: Lieutenant James B. Conling, who is now at Anniston with the "Blue and Gray Division;" Eugene Hebding, John and William Gets, H. G. Noble, George H. Fischer, Earl Smith and Leon Larison.

Will Raise Roof to Gain More Room

Muhlenberg Hospital's Board of Governors has filed plans with Building Inspector Doane for alterations at the nurses' home on Watchung avenue which will increase the number of sleeping rooms, a necessity that has been apparent for some time. The method will be unique in that it will be done at the top of the structure by raising a present low roof. This will give ample space for the construction of thirty-two sleeping apartments. The plans call for a system of fire escapes in addition to those already on the building. L. T. Titsworth will be in charge of the work and the estimated cost is placed at $1,500.

C. E. Noble, of 510 East Third street, has filed plans with the Building Inspector for the erection of a two and a half story frame dwelling at 258 Netherwood avenue. The estimated cost is $2,800 and the work will be done by Mr. Noble himself. The house is to be twenty-two by thirty-eight feet in dimensions and will have a hot air system for heating. Mr. Noble will also erect a garage on the premises at a cost of about $300. It will be of frame construction with a concrete foundation.

The officials of the Crescent Color and Chemical Works, which is located on West Front street, west of Rock avenue, are completing arrangements for an addition to the plant but as yet the plans have not been filed.

New Owners Issue The Dunellen Call

George W. Day, founder and publisher of the Dunellen Call, since its first issue in 1891 and numbered among the best known newspaper men in this part of the State, retired from the field the past week. Yesterday's issue of the paper came out under the management of the Dunellen Call Publishing Company, an incorporation composed of twenty well-known business men of Plainfield's neighboring borough. William P. Deering, who has acted as managing editor of the paper for several years, will continue in the same capacity, a fact which bespeaks continued success for the enterprising weekly.

The new company has established a business office on the second floor of the Dunellen National Bank building in order to facilitate the reporting and advertising work. The plant will continue to be located on Front street in the same building as they have occupied for twenty-six years. Mr. Deering is a newspaper man of wide experience and has numerous innovations in view that will make the Call an absolute up-to-date publication in every respect. The young editor is a native born "hustler," and the new company made no mistake in handing him the "reins."

Boys Held For Looting House

Five boys, ranging from thirteen to sixteen years in age, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the City Court this morning charged with entering the vacant residence of J. R. Hill, of Belvidere avenue, and stealing a large quantity of bric-a-brac and other articles stored in the attic. The main room at police headquarters resembled a department store through the mass of "loot" recovered by the police. It included clocks, trunks, flags, dolls' paraphernalia, glassware and many other things that had been left in the attic when the family went to New York. The residence was rented early this summer but the owners reserved the right to keep the top floor for storage purposes.

An investigation conducted by Acting Chief John Flynn and Lieutenant Hogan disclosed the fact that the boys had taken the stolen articles to their homes in the East End and that the parents of several were aware that they had been gotten dishonestly. At the hearing this morning Judge DeMeza heard the various stories of the youths, after which he remanded them until tomorrow, when the parents of each one will be brought to court to explain what they know about the affair. Mr. Hill was in court to press the charge against the five defendants.

The boys who were arraigned gave their names as follows: Harold Scribner, Walter Bock, Charles King, Robert Bremble and Lenox Angleman.

Fraternity Members Preparing to Enlist

What will undoubtedly be a memorable meeting of Abraham Lincoln Fraternity, was held last night at the home of C. E. Tilley on Central avenue. C. I. Hill, president of the club, presided.

The meeting opened with the presentation of the new fraternity emblems, which are in the form of a diamond shaped pin, deep beveled, and bearing the letters, with the inscription A. L. F. underneath. Each one is given the year, in raised figures, that the member entered the fraternity.

A. L. Grisley, chairman of the committee on the study of French, presented a most favorable report, and the matter was laid over. Harry W. Swivel gave an interesting talk on the subject of learning French, outlining the proper procedure, methods, and the results expected. The talk was received most enthusiastically.

Following out the annual custom, President Hill appointed a committee comprising C. E. Tilley, chairman; A. L. Grisley and Percy Tilley to purchase a Christmas gift to be presented to the fraternity by the fraternity.

An article entitled, "Strange Things from the Sky," from the Literary Digest, was read by C. E. Tilley, after, which a general discussion followed.

The climax of the meeting came when President Hill made an inspiring talk on the soldier in the trenches, his mode of living, habits, hardships, and gave vivid examples relating many truths that go to make up a soldier's life in the trenches. His address was delivered in a most eloquent manner and concluded by announcing that he would make an effort to enlist as a yeoman in the Naval Reserve. Mr. Hill is connected with the Standard Aero Corporation office at Elizabeth. In a few impressive words, following President Hill's address, Arthur L. Grisley said he, too, would enlist in the Naval Reserves in a few days. Mr. Grisley is treasurer of the "Frat" and is connected with the American Felt Company's office at Picton. Herry W. Swivel acted as spokesman for the fraternity and lauded the work of both members, judiciously touching on their individual distinct qualities and moral excellence and expressing the regrets of the "frat" in losing them to the good cause of the service of Uncle Sam. Mr. Grisley has the distinction of holding every office in the fraternity with the exception of President, to which office he would probably have been elected next April. Both young men are charter members of the "frat." Including J. Sayre Slauson, a former treasurer of the organization, who recently enlisted in the Marines, a total of seven members will be in the army and navy.

"JACK" ROGERS A VISITOR.

"Jack" Rogers, who is a member of the Naval Hospital Corps, was a visitor this week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rogers, of Watchung avenue, following an extended trip with his unit. He arrived in Plainfield late Tuesday night and had to report at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning at a nearby base. Mr. Rogers' division is scheduled for early transportation to France.

Police Search For Owner of 'Lost' Ladder

Found on Lawrence Premises, Its "Identity" May Clear Man Held in $300.00 Robbery Case.

The local police are making a determined effort to find the owner of an extension ladder discovered on the premises of C. B. Lawrence, Jr., of 1000 Hillside avenue, Wednesday night, and thereby possibly establish the identity of a sneak thief who entered the Lawrence home and got away with $300 worth of jewelry and about seven dollars in money. The intruder used the ladder to get to the top of the porch and thence into one of the rooms. When frightened away while at work, the man made his exit the same way but took the trouble to lift the ladder away from the porch and place it on the ground. A search of the entire neighborhood yesterday failed to reveal anyone who knew anything about the ladder or where it came from.

The robbery occurred Wednesday evening while the Lawrence family was at dinner and would have resulted in a bigger haul but for one of the servants going upstairs. She found the door to Mrs. Lawrence's room closed and locked although it had been left open as usual. When she tried to enter it is believed that the man was busily engaged picking up the various articles and immediately screamed on hearing her turn the knob. By a fortunate chance, Mrs. Lawrence had placed $300 in a hand bag before she went downstairs and this she took with her. It was a fortunate circumstance as otherwise it could easily have been gotten. While the police were working on the case yesterday, Martin Komonocki and James Samma, employes of the Plainfield Ice and Supply Company, reported that while they were gathering corn on the "Count" Van Ness property on East Front street, Weigh, they found a quantity of jewelry and money hidden beneath one of the shocks. An investigation showed that it was the loot taken from the Lawrence premises.

The belief is that the man who placed the valuables there might return to get it some time later, a watch was placed on the corn field all yesterday. Shortly after 9 o'clock last night, Patrolman George Muir, who was on guard, saw a man cross the field with a bag over his shoulder and rummage without several of the corn shocks. As he turned about to go out the same way he came, Muir placed him under arrest. At police headquarters, the prisoner described himself as Louis Sprague, a carpenter, living at 1454 East Second street. He bears an excellent reputation but when pressed for an explanation as to his actions in the field could give no satisfactory reason for his being there. He was given a hearing before Judge DeMeza this morning and remanded until tomorrow while the police continue their search for the owner of the ladder. If the place it came from can be found it may aid in either clearing Sprague or fastening evidence upon him.

MARRIED A YEAR AGO; ANNOUNCEMENT JUST MADE

Announcement was made during the past week of a marriage which took place a year ago in New York and which made Miss Florence Stacey, of this city, the wife of Raymond A. King, of New York. The ceremony was performed at "The Little Church Around the Corner," Rev. Dr. Houghton, the rector, officiating. Only the necessary witnesses were in attendance and the young couple, for reasons best known to themselves, kept the affair a secret until the present time. They are at present making their home on East Second street, near Church street.

Mrs. King is a former resident of Easton, Pa., where her parents reside, but has lived in Plainfield for the past nine years. She was graduated from the Plainfield Hospital's training school in the class of 1911, since which time she has been practicing her profession locally.

PROTECTION FOR INDIVIDUALS IN ANSWERING QUESTIONNAIRE

"Many inquiries are reaching State Selection headquarters as to how far the information contained in the questionaires will be available to the public," said Provost Marshal General Crowder in discussing the new selective service regulations. It was recognized by General Crowder that an injustice might be worked to individuals if all the information elicited should be made public, and the regulations were carefully drawn to cover this point.

Children Will Honor Birthday of Father Bogan

Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church, will be fifty-nine years old tomorrow, and in celebration of the event, the Immaculation Conception Society of the parish will give an entertainment in the school hall tomorrow afternoon, at which the reverend pastor will be the guest of honor. The affair will be directly in charge of the Sisters of Charity and is to include a play, let, recitations and drills by the children. At the conclusion of the program, Father Bogan will be presented with a gold piece, the gift of the Immaculate Conception Society made up from individual contributions.

The entertainment is an annual event on the rector's birthday and one of the informal features of the features of the gathering will be the address which the clergyman will make. In this he always takes occasion to express his gratitude for the loving remembrances that come to him on his natal day and to extend the blessing that means so much to his juvenile admirers. Rev. Fathers Hennessy and Mahoney, also of St. Mary's parish, will be among those present and the parents and friends of the children have been invited to attend.

Father Bogan, who has been the pastor of St. Mary's church for the past twelve years, was born in Newark fifty-nine years ago. He attended the Sacred Heart School of St. Benedict's College in Newark and began his studies of the classics in St. Charles' College, Maryland, where he remained for four years.

In 1877 he entered the junior class of Seton Hall College, receiving the degree of bachelor of arts at the end of that year. The following year he was graduated from the college taking the degree of master of arts and was valedictorian of his class on the day of graduation. In the following September he returned to Seton Hall and entered the seminary to study for the priesthood.

He finished his theological course in 1885 and was ordained a priest on May 30 of that year by the late Rt. Rev. Winand M. Wigger, then bishop of the Newark diocese. Father Bogan's first pastorate as priest was spent in the churches of St. Paul of the Cross and St. Bridget's, Jersey City.

From 1886 to 1895 he was assistant at the Church of the Holy Cross in Harrison, whence he received his appointment to that of St. Mary's church, Rahway, where he remained until appointed by the Rt. Rev. John J. O'Connor, present bishop of the Newark diocese, to the pastorate of St. Mary's church, of this city.

PLANS FILED FOR $25,000 HOME ON HILLSIDE AVENUE

Plans for one of the costliest and most completely equipped homes to be built in Plainfield this year were filed with Building Inspector Doane the past week by William A. Garrigues, of Watchung avenue. Ground has already been broken for the structure which is to be located at 974 Hillside avenue and which is estimated will result in an expenditure of more than twenty-five thousand dollars. This is exclusive of a three thousand dollar garage intended for the same premises.

According to the plans and specifications as drawn by Architect L. C. Holden, of New York, the residence will be two and a half stories in height with an over-all frontage of fifty-eight feet, a depth of fifty-six feet and a height of thirty-four feet. The foundation will be of concrete and stone and the superstructure of brick. Shingles have been selected for the roofing and the gutters and all cornice work will be of copper.

As it is intended to complete only the foundation at the present time, the details of the upper floors have not been placed with the building inspector as yet. The cellar plan shows that in addition to the usual coal bins, store rooms, furnace room and service halls, there will also be a billiard room and laundry. Both steam and hot air heating will be used, the former for the real cold weather of winter and the latter for early fall and late spring.

The Levear Construction Company, of which Mr. Garrigues is a member, has taken the entire contract for both residence and garage. After the foundation is finished, the work will be suspended until more favorable weather conditions arrive with spring.

The garage will be an ornate structure of brick over a foundation of concrete. It will be two stories in height and conform in design with the residence exterior. The building will have a cellar and will measure thirty-five feet front, twenty-five feet deep and twenty-five feet high. The first floor will have every convenience for the storing and care of automobiles and the second floor may be used as living quarters. This building will also have a shingle roof and copper gutters of the very best

Sergeant Maguire First Plainfield Man Wounded

Once Foreman on City Hall Job Now In Base Hospital After Battle at Cambrai—D. Claren and F. Webster Among Reserve Engineers

Unofficial advices received from France yesterday indicate that several Plainfield boys are numbered among the First Reserve Engineers taking part in the fierce fighting about Cambrai and that William E. Maguire, formerly of East Fifth street, and employed by the P. F. Kenny Company as foreman on the City Hall job, is the first soldier from this district to be numbered among the wounded. A dispatch received by a friend here states that Maguire was injured by a bursting shell and is now in the American Base Hospital No. 4. The extent of his injuries were not clearly defined owing to the work of the censors but it was made out that his head and right arm are affected.

Two other local young men are numbered among the same contingent to which Maguire belonged and are far away from home in the conflict which has been pressing the Americans for the past two weeks. They are David Claren, of Madison avenue, who was a member of the Civil Engineering firm of Dupham & Claren previous to his enlistment, and Frank Webster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webster, of Westervelt avenue, the borough. The correspondent's stories do not mention the names of either as being in the casualty list but complete returns will be forthcoming from Washington in a few days. At last reports many of the Americans were taken prisoners before reinforcement could be brought up. The battle around Cambrai is still going on and it is believed that many hundreds of "Sammies" are helping the British to force the Teutons back. In the original stories of the conflict it was stated that the First New York Reserve Engineers were subjected to shell fire while at work on engineering problems. The men were compelled to take shelter in shell holes while the bullets flew over their heads for the purpose of giving them time to get together and then take part in the actual fighting. The boys covered themselves with glory, although greatly outnumbered and working under many disadvantages.

Maguire was one of the most enthusiastic soldiers who have yet gone out of Plainfield. He came to this city from his old home in New Hampshire and quickly made a host of friends. Through the help of Dr. Chalmers L. Crist he secured an appointment in the First New York Engineers and his enthusiasm was so contagious that Dr. Crist contracted the "fever." The latter took examinations for a commission in the Dental Division in the Medical Reserve Corps and is now doing splendid duty in a French Base Hospital.

Maguire, in company with Claren and Webster, was first sent to Camp Mills on Long Island and early in the summer was transported to England on a famous trans-Atlantic liner. The unit was landed at a small port at the South of England, from which it was marched to London. There the men took part in the big military demonstration arranged by King George in honor of the arrival of American troops. Following the big review Maguire was sent to France and the first two American casualties repored to Washington were of men working alongside of the Plainfield boys. The company looked upon it as a great honor, especially as the wounds received by the men who caused the bursting shrapnel and did not prove serious. Maguire was p romoted to sergeant before his company left London. Claren and Webster were in line for promotion and it is believed they have received the honor before now. Previous to his departure from Plainfield, Maguire was a member of a local social club which gave a farewell dinner and theatre party on the eve of his departure. In writing to one of his associates in this organization, recently, he says: "We have had many trying times since we received our special equipment and went to the front but for myself personally, I have tried to maintain that same spirit of light-heartedness and good fellowship that prevailed the last night I had in Plainfield. I shall never forget the wonderful time at Ahern's and the performances at the Plainfield Theatre and many times they have kept up my nerve when the 'Jerries' were dropping 'iron fac-tories' in our midst. Each succeeding 'bang' only served to remind me that I will be still celebrating the Fourth of July and one of these days we will pay back the enemy in his own coin."

Red Cross "Drive" Begins Next Week

The Plainfield and North Plainfield Chapter of the Red Cross will inaugurate a membership campaign next Tuesday night to enroll 4,000 new members to add to the present number of 1,900. The campaign will be opened with a mass meeting at the Plainfield High School, to be addressed by former President William H. Taft and by George O. Tamblyn, of New York. Former Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, is the campaign manager and he will be assisted by W. L. Hetfield, Jr., William Newcorn, T. C. Vail, Leslie R. Fort, W. C. Hubbard, E. H. Ladd, Jr., J. E. Kimball, G. T. Rogers, Andrew E. Kenney and Mayor W. L. Smalley, of North Plainfield.

ELKS MAKING PLANS FOR FIRST "LADIES' NIGHT"

For the first time in the history of the organization, Plainfield Lodge of Elks will hold a "Ladies' Night" in the club house on Watchung avenue next Tuesday evening, December 11. In one sense it will be an informal affair but the committee in charge is working hard to make it a memorable occasion. It will be opened to the members and their wives, sisters, daughters or sweethearts.

The program as outlined at present includes a vaudeville entertainment of six first-class acts, a period of dancing and the privilege of bowling on one of the alleys belonging to the club building. It is quite probable that many of the ladies will avail themselves of this opportunity to be the guests of the popular lodge.

The committee appointed to make all arrangements is composed of James Hart, chairman; J. Howard Dyke, Dave Rogers, M. L. Shannon and Hugh B. Sweeney.

At the regular meeting of the lodge Wednesday night three candidates were initiated and the dance committee reported that a reception would be held at the club house on New Year's eve.

WORKMAN'S HAND CRUSHED.

Otto Neuman, of 502 Washington street, was received at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday, suffering from a badly crushed hand. The injury was sustained at the Pond Tool Works, where the victim was employed. The full extent of the injury cannot be determined at this time.

Family Unaware As Bad Blaze Rages in Attic

While three occupants of the residence at 1245 Arlington avenue were pursuing their customary household duties on the first floor, and the fourth lay peacefully sleeping on the second floor, Tuesday afternoon, flames were rapidly spreading about the attic and eating their way through the roof. The four persons are members of the family of Mrs. Ella Stacy and were totally unaware of the ravaging that was going on overhead until neighbors made it known. Some one from the outside saw the blaze burst through a window and telephoned an alarm to fire headquarters.

The flames had gained a big headway when Chief Jennings and his men reached the scene and a general alarm was turned in, bringing more apparatus from downtown and No. 3 house. The firemen had a hard fight for more than half an hour but kept the flames from descending to the lower part of the house. Care was used in directing the streams and only a small part of the damage was caused by water.

The loss is estimated at $1,000 and is covered by insurance. The building is one of several of similar type erected by E. Kanelson and is owned by the State Trust Company.

PLAINFIELDERS ATTENDING POLICE CHIEFS' CONVENTION.

Chief P. S. Kiely and Councilman Francis J. Blatz, who have been in Washington during the past week attending the annual convention of the National Association of Police Chiefs, will return home tomorrow. During Chief Kiely's absence, Captain John Flynn has been acting chief.

In the proceedings of the convention yesterday, Chief Michael T. Long, of Newark, was elected president of the association and Kansas City was selected as the place for next year's convention.

NEW FIREMEN.

Out of several applicants, Harry Mowrey and Victor Crook have passed examinations for the city fire department and will be appointed next week.

Standard Will Spend Million At Main Plant

IMPROVEMENTS FOR ELIZABETH SHOPS INCLUDE COMPLETE FIRE DEPARTMENT AND RESTAURANT BIG ENOUGH FOR AN ARMY.

Additions and improvements to the Standard Aero Corporation's new plant at Elizabeth are now in process of completion at a total cost of $1,000,000. They include the installation of a complete fire department, with apparatus and men, a dining room and restaurant capable of feeding 1,400 persons every thirty minutes and numerous other innovations necessary to put a big factory in modern working order.

Councilman John H. Cose, of this city, has been selected to organize the fire department. He will act as chief himself, while William C. Ryder, a former member of the Plainfield department who resigned two weeks ago, will be foreman. Under the supervision of these two men the plant will be equipped with outside hydrants, interior sprinklers, patented extinguishers, regulation hose and other appurtenances necessary to put out flames. The company intends that its own fire department should take care of any small blaze as the property is in Linden township, just outside the Elizabeth city limits and cannot call on the latter municipality unless in case of dire necessity. If the Elizabeth firemen go to the Standard plant the city must be reimbursed at the rate of fifty dollars an hour.

Councilman Cose has had a wide experience in fire fighting. He was a member of the Plainfield department as call man for twenty years and for the past two years has been chairman of the councilmanic fire committee. As a roofing contractor, he is possessed of invaluable knowledge relating to buildings, understanding thoroughly where protection is best needed. It was for these reasons that the position of chief of the company organization was offered by the Standard officials.

Ground was broken for the new restaurant building at the plant on Monday of this week. The structure will feed 1,400 people every thirty minutes, company officials said. It will be operated on the cafeteria plan. Steam vats and cooking tables will be installed and the food will be supplied to company employes at cost. Two hundred men are now employed at the plant in erection work.

Publicity Agent H. C. Dayoh said today that the steel-and-brick administration building, the hotel-dormitory building, and the garage will all be finished by the first of the year. Executives of the company are now being accommodated in temporary offices throughout the shops. By New Year's they will all move into the administration building, and the space they now occupy will be turned over to manufacturing purposes.

But the most important extension of the big plant is the progressive assembly building upon which the erectors will start work Monday. This building will run the whole length of the company's compound.

"We will then inaugurate the 'Ford assembly plan,'" said Mr. Dayoh. "Odds and ends of the raw material will enter the building at one end and come out the other end a finished airplane ready to fly."

Mr. Dayoh declared that there are now 1,200 people employed in the Elizabeth plant, and 4,500 in the Plainfield shops. Within sixty days this number will be increased to 5,000, he declared. The dormitory building now nearly completed will take care of only 25 00f this small army.

The dormitory, by the way, is referred to at the aero plant as the "barracks," but it comes nearer being a hotel de luxe. The building is about 150 feet long and three stories high. It contains 150 single rooms. There are shower and tub baths on each floor, and the rooms will be heated by steam and have electric lights. The furniture bought by the company is about the same quality as is usually found in a first-class hotel.

It is possible that more dormitories will be built to accommodate the thousands of new workers now being recruited all over the country.

The transient garage will accommodate sixty cars and is intended for the convenience of visitors to the plant. It is nearly completed.

Hundreds of young girls are already employed in the lighter manufacturing departments, Mr. Dayoh said, and more will be needed. The girls appear in conventional garb and are used extensively in the metal shop and assembling rooms. Scores are employed in the envelope room of this week and the company, judging by appearances, is hiring them as fast as they come.

GRAND JURY FOUND NINETY-FIVE INDICTMENTS.

The October Grand Jury completed its work for the October term the forepart of the week by returning ten new indictments, in addition to the eighty-five found several weeks ago. A total of ninety-five indictments was found during the term.

No inkling concerning whom the indictments were found against may be given out until the arraignments take place, but rumors flying thick and fast would indicate that the court action will result in at least one and possible more sensations.

Air Service Needs Many Skilled Men

There is room on the ground behind the lines for capable skilled American workers.

The air fighters need the backing of skilled men to keep each airplane ready for instant and constant service—to bring up supplies, ammunition, food, clothing—without which the men in the air are useless—to construct and maintain the airdomes, for housing the planes and quartering the men.

Squadrons have been and are now being formed for service abroad. Picked men are being enrolled from various classes of skilled workers; these men will be given special training, according to their vacations, in work required in the air service. They will get actual practice work on airplane motors, trucks, airdome construction, and everything that will be done on the other side.

The air service calls for the following kinds of skilled workers (arranged in the order of number of men needed):

Chauffeurs, auto mechanicians, automobile engine repair men, office clerks, carpenters, radio operators, electricians, instrument repair men, cooks, coppersmiths, armorers (machine gun repair men), sail makers, photographers, machinists, blacksmiths, motorcycle repair men, stenographers, cabinet makers, draftsmen (mechanical magneto repair men), metal workers, automobile engine testers, rope riggers (service workers), propeller men (airplane), riggers (airplane assemblers), telephone linesmen, tool makers, vulcanizers, welders, lithographers, packers, telephone operators, motorcyclists, plumbers, painters, tailors, gas works engineers, bugler, members, pattern makers, telephone adjusters, barbers, truck masters, brick layers, cobblers, propeller testers (airplane), boat makers, saddlers.

Applicants must be physically sound, white, and from 18 to 40 years of age.

You will be enlisted as a private and will remain as such until you have been assigned to your proper place in a squadron.

Camp Dix Library Soon to be Ready

A new building near the headquarters group of the Y. M. C. A. at Camp Dix, which is attracting attention is that of the American Library Association, which, it is hoped, will before long be the reading headquarters of the selectives and their officers. Well lighted by large, high windows, it will provide space for 10,000 volumes and 250 readers.

The building, constructed from the Carnegie Foundation Fund, and to be supplied with books in part from the $1,000,000 fund raised nationally, is at present in charge of Howard L. Hughes, librarian of Trenton. He has been released for two months to get the plant under way. H. F. Brigham, formerly of the Trenton and Princeton University libraries, is to be at Camp Dix permanently.

In the main librarby building books of all sorts best fitted for the soldiers' wants are to be made available through a system such as obtains in most large city libraries. Collections will from time to time be put out, however, in the Y. M. C. A. and Knights of Columbus buildings, where they will be more convenient to some outfits.

The interest which has been apparent of late in military manuals will lead, it is expected, to the establishment of an agency through which soldiers can purchase these and other books at as near cost prices as possible. Advice in the purchasing of books will also be given.

Some books have been sent already by librarians in various New Jersey communities who have acted as collecting agents for those who have books to donate. More of these are wanted.

PARIS ADOPTS SANDALS AS LEATHER ECONOMY.

The all-important question of footgear has been solved by the fashionable Parisienne. Instead of the high-reaching boots "a la russe," she has decided to adopt the classic sandals. The fashion was started by a well-known shoe-maker on the Place Vendome, and already he has so many orders that he has difficulty in supplying them. Sandals were the fashion in Paris during the Directoire, when the "merveilleuses" vied with one another in exhibiting their dainty feet and ankles, regardless of the temperature. But such drastic conditions are not imposed by the new fashion, for a special form of stocking, which makes it possible to pass the attaching ribbons between the toes, is a feature of the new style.

Though ostensibly invented to economize shoe leather, the "mode des sandals" is reserved for those whose pocketbooks have not suffered from the war, the economy is not for the wearers or those who pay their bills.

PLAINFIELD MAN TRANSFERRED AT McCLELLAN.

The order sending Corporal Warner Carpenter, of Troop D, in the old New Jersey Cavalry Squadron, from Battery F, of the 110th Field Artillery, to the ammunition train, has been rescinded and Corporal Carpenter has now been assigned to the military police unit under Major Hobart Brown. Mr. Carpenter's home is on Watchung avenue, this city.

Satan Resigns His Throne In Favor of Kaiser

Louis Syberkrop, of Creston, Ia., has acquired much fame in recent weeks as author of a satire on Kaiser Wilhelm. Requests have come to him from Tumulty, Secretary Daniels and Roosevelt, and people in every State of the Union and in Canada have asked for copies of Mr. Syberkrop's article. It follows:

"The Infernal Region.
"June 28, 1917.

"To Wilhelm von Hohenzollern, king of Prussia, emperor of all Germany and envoy extraordinary of Almighty God:

"My Dear Wilhelm:

"I can call you by that familiar name for I have always been very close to you, much closer than you could ever know.

"From the time that you were yet an undeveloped being in your mother's womb I have shaped your destiny for my own purpose.

"In the days of Rome I created a roughneck known in history as Nero; he was a vulgar character and suited my purpose at that particular time. In these modern days a classic demon an efficient super-criminal was needed and as I know the Hohenzollern blood I picked you as my special instrument to place on earth an annex of hell. I gave you abnormal ambition, likewise an over-supply of egotism that you might not discover your own failings; I twisted your mind to that of a mad man with certain normal tendencies to carry you by, a most dangerous character placed in power; I gave you the power of a hypnotist and a certain magnetic force that you might sway your people. I am responsible for the deformed arm that hangs helpless on your left, for your crippled condition embitters your life and destroys all noble impulses that might otherwise cause me anxiety, but your strong sword arm is driven by your ambition that squelches all sentiment and pity; I placed in your soul a deep hatred for all things English, for of all nations on earth I hate England most; wherever England plants her flag she brings order out of chaos and the hatred Cross follows the Union Jack; under her rule wild tribes become tillers of the soil and in due time practical citizens; she is the great civilizer of the globe and I HATE HER. I placed in your soul a cruel hatred for your mother because SHE was English and left my good friend Bismarck to fan the flame I had kindled. Recent history proves how well our work was done. It broke your royal mother's heart but I gained my purpose.

"The inherited disease of the Hohenzollerns killed your father just as it will kill you, and you became the ruler of Germany and a tool of mine sooner than I expected.

"To assist you and further hasten my work I sent you three evil spirits, Nietsche, Treitschke and later Bernhardi, whose teachings inflamed the youths of Germany who in good time would be willing and loyal subjects and eager to spill their blood and pull your chestnuts, yours and mine; the spell has been perfect—you cast your ambitious eyes toward the Mediterranean, Egypt, India and the Dardanelles and you began your great railway to Bandad but the ambitious wife stood in your way. It was then that I sowed the seed in your heart that blossomed into the assassination of the duke and his wife, and all hell smiled when it was how cleverly you saddled the crime on to Servia. I saw you set sails for the fjords of Norway and I knew you would prove an alibi. How cleverly done, so much like your noble grandfather, who also secured an assassin to remove old King Frederick of Denmark and later robbed that country of two princes that gave Germany an opportunity to become a naval power. Murder is dirty work but it takes a Hohenzollern to make a way and get by.

"Your opportunity was at hand; you set the world on fire and bells of hell were ringing; your rape on Belgium caused much joy, it was the beginning of the foundation of a perfect hell on earth, the destruction of noble cathedrals and other infinite works of art was hailed with joy in the infernal regions. You made war on friends and foe alike and the murder of civilians showed my teachings had borne fruit. Your treachery toward neutral nations hastened a universal unheaval, the thing I most desired. Your undersea warfare is a master stroke from the smallest mackerel up to the great Lusitania you show no favorites; as a war lord you stand supreme, for you have no mercy; you have no consideration for the baby clinging to its mother's breasts as they both go down into the deep together, only to be torn apart and leisurely devoured by sharks down among the corals.

"I have strolled over the battle fields of Belgium and France, I have seen the fields of Poland; now a wilderness fit for prowling beasts only; no merry children in Poland now; they all succumbed to frost and starvation. I drifted down into Galicia where formerly Jews and Gentiles lived happily together; I found but ruins and ashes. I felt a copious pride in my spoil for it was all above my expectation. I was in Belgium when you drove the peaceful population before you like cattle into slavery; you separated man and wife and forced them to hard labor in trenches. I have seen the most everywhere; it's all your work, superfluent that I made you. I have seen the fields of Poland; now a wilderness fit for prowling beasts only; no merry children in Poland now; they all succumbed to frost and starvation. I drifted down into Galicia where formerly Jews and Gentiles lived happily together; I found but ruins and ashes. I felt a copious pride in my spoil for it was all above my expectation. I was in Belgium when you drove the peaceful population before you like cattle into slavery; you separated man and wife and forced them to hard labor in trenches. I have seen the most finedish rape committed on young women and those who were forced into maternity were cursing the father of their offspring and I began to doubt if my own interno was really up to date.

"You have taken millions of dollars from innocent victims and called it indemnity; you have lived fat on the land you usurped and sent the real owners away to starvation. You have strayed away from all localized war methods and introduced a code of your own. You have killed and robbed the people of friendly nations and destroyed their property. You are a liar, a hypocrite and a bluffer of the highest magnitude. You are a part of mine and yet you pose as a personal friend of God. Ah, Wilhelm, you are a wonder. You wantonly destroy all things in your path and leave nothing for coming generations.

"I was amazed when I saw you form a partnership with the impossible Turk, the chronic killer of Christians, and you a devout worshipper in the Lutheran church. I confess, Wilhelm, you are a puzzle at times. A Mohammedan army, commanded by German officers, assisting one another in massacring Christians is a new line of warfare. When a Prussian officer can witness a nude woman being disemboweled by a swarthy Turk, committing a double murder with one cut of his saber, and calmly stand by and see a house full of innocent Armenians locked up, the house saturated with oil and fired, then my teachings did not stop with you, but have been extended to the Whole German nation. I confess my Satanic soul grew sick and there and then I knew the pupil had become the master. I am a back number, and my dear Wilhelm, I shall cate in your favor. The great key of hell will be turned over to you. The gavel that has struck the doom of damned souls since time began is yours. I am satisfied with what I have done; that my abdication in your favor is for the very best interests of hell—in the future I am at your majesty's service. Affectionately and sincerely,

"LUCIFER H. SATAN."

Bank Commissioner Smith Discusses His New "Berth"

A sturdy, well set up young man sat at a desk in the office of the register of Union county in Elizabeth trying to disengage his personal belongings fro mthose which related to the business of the office. He was Frank H. Smith, of this city, the new commissioner of banking and insurance of New Jersey, who recently resigned his position as register of Union county and was getting his official lares and penates ready for transfer to his new office in the State house at Trenton.

The retinue of clerks and other assistants of the Union county office stood in an adjoining room seemingly waiting for the final handrhake which was to sever official relationship; the private secretary of the commissioner was busily engaged near his desk winding up his correspondence as register, and a large standing floral piece was at one side, embodying, as set forth on an attached card, the well wishes of a host of friends who were glad to know of his official preferment at the State capital.

In the midst of the demoralization attendant on such a situation the Record reporter called, and Mr. Smith was importuned to talk of his new position and such plans as he had formed for his care for banking institutions and insurance and building and loan organizations of eNw Jersey.

From what the new banking commissioner had to say it was evident he had already formed some definite notions of what ought to be done, and that he was a most considerate and open-minded way to take hold of his new duties.

From what was brought out in the course of conversation it became plain that he favored a division of departments of activity at the Trenton office, so that an expert man on banking, one on insurance and one on building and loan associations, might become deputies, some day, when he got around to it. The work to be done, he thought, is too concentrated when in the hands of one man, to get the best reults. The commissioner also said he had a favorable opinion of "blue sky" law and thought one is needed in this State.

The commissioner, however, has no intention, he said, of introducing radical or drastic methods in attempting a reorganization, but prefers to take up matters calling for readjustment as they present themselves and with an open mind work out problems presented to the best interests of all concerned. He went on to say:

"I have no political ambitions whatever and look for nothing further in political life, which fact I hope and think will enable me to perform the duties of my new office without fear or favor to an extent which might not otherwise, in some instances, be the case.

"My other busines a is as vice president and manager of the Lawrence Cement Company with an office in New York. I expect to spend my mornings for four or more days a week in the Trenton office of the banking and insurance commissioner and afternoons in my office at New York.

"My appointment is an interim one, to last until the Legislature convenes next month, when I am to receive an appointment for the full term. In Trenton this week I took charge of the office of commissioner of banking so far as making appointments is concerned. Most of the employes held office under civil service rules. Only the bank and insurance examiners hold office at the pleasure of the commissioner, and I reappointed all of the incumbents."

Pressed for details as to plans he has formed for the administration of his new office, the Commissioner said:

"The time may come when I may ask for a deputy in charge of banks and trust companies, an expert of course; one in charge of insurance companies, similarly, and one for building and loan associations."

Mr. Smith was asked also what he thought of appraisement of insurance company and banking holdings of securities at this particular time, and expressed the opinion that prices of the same this year, and the effect an appraisal of them at present market prices might have on their surpluses.

He was free to say he believed in being liberal. He would probably adopt some such method of appraisal as has been decided on in New York State, that of taking actual quotations at five periods from last fall to date, those based on sales in the market and allowing an average to govern. He was nevertheless of opinion that banks and insurance companies ought to do something in the way of writing off prices of their holdings, possibly in some instances to a 4.79 basis.

As to building and loan associations of this State, which as a whole, stand about third in importance among the societies in the various States, where they are popular home construction enterprises, he is of impression that not enough care had been given them or perhaps he added enough thought. Some of them he declared, have been too prone in the past to borrow money from banks to lend to members to build with, instead of relying exclusively on the assessments on members. This practice, he explained, is a banking function and not one pertaining to building and loan associations, he added, banks sometimes carried these loans until the work for which they were made was completed, which did not seem to be a proper division of functions between the two varieites of institution.s as the banks in reality financed the building.

As to a "blue sky" law, Commissioner Smith expressed himself as in favor of legislation of such nature as to prevent the activities here of irresponsible or other undesirable exploiters of securities which might or might not be worth buying, and interests of all state selling agents when succeed in loading up the unwary with. He knows, as several cities of the State know, of the invasions of several such groups of stock or bond sellers within a year or so, and believed if a "blue sky" law were enacted which avoided the faults of those adopted in some of the States, it would prove, under the administration of the commissioner of banking, or some other State official, a needed check to efforts of people who have engraved paper to sell, back of which there may be but more often is not, real value.

In conversation it developed that Commissioner Smith is already well acquainted with details back of the various banking unpleasantness, which have rendered the State situation more or less picturesque in the last few years. From his utter political and other detachments, he felt confident he could with proper administration of his officer render strict justice to all without fear or favor from any interest or institution.

AUTHORITIES CONFER ON MEDICAL APPOINTMENTS.

Governor Edge and Acting Adjutant General Gilkyson yesterday conferred with Dr. Philip Marvel, of Atlantic City; Edward W. Colie and Edward Q. Keasby, both of Newark, respecting the appointments to be made to the medical and legal advisory boards to be organized to assist in the next draft.

Dr. Marvel has been appointed by Provost Marshal General Crowder to confer with the Governor on the appointment of the medical advisory board members, and Messrs. Colie and Keasby, who are prominent lawyers, will assist in the selection of members to the legal boards. The appointments are expected to be made within the very near future.

The boards will be named for every county in the State, it is understood, as well as the first-class cities of Newark and Jersey City.

PLAINFIELDER'S CLAIM DENIED BY NEWARK BOARD.

Among the appeal cases, taken from the Plainfield Exemption Board to the District Board of Newark this week, was one by James Stites, of this city. He asked for a discharge on the ground that he had been convicted of a felony but his application was denied.

BEGINS NEW DUTIES.

Frank H. Smith, of West Eighth street, who resigned as register of deeds for Union county to accept the appointment of State Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, entered upon his new duties this week. He will make his headquarters at Trenton, where he was sworn in last week by Supreme Court Justice Trenchard. A gathering of Mr. Smith's friends, numbering several Plainfielders were among those witnessing the administering of the oath of office.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Cook, of Darrow avenue, returned home Monday after a Thanksgiving visit with relatives at Syracuse, N. Y. They left Plainfield on Wednesday and reached their destination in time for Thanksgiving dinner. Mr. Cook is the principal of the Washington School at Darrow avenue and Essex street.

Miss Muriel Radcliffe, of Macon, Ga., left for her home Monday after a very pleasant visit with Miss Catherine Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Stevens, of West Front street.

Mrs. Hugh B. Sweeny, of East Seventh street, is recovering after a severe attack of ptomaine poisoning contracted nearly two weeks ago. She is still under the care of Dr. W. H. Anthony.

Mrs. George Feller, of Pearl street, is deprived of the use of her left arm through an accident recently in which the member was broken.

"Jack" Rosenbaum, of New street, returned Monday after a weeks' visit with his parents at Bridgeport, Conn.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Hazel F. Putnam, daughter of Frank Putnam, of East Second street, to Charles W. Harvey, formerly of this city, but now serving on the U. S. S. DeKalb.

Emil Jahn, a graduate of the Plainfield High School, who has been at the Officers' Training camp at Fort Niagara, N. Y., has been spending the past week at the home of his mother, Mrs. Rosa Jahn, of Park avenue, Scotch Plains. Mr. Jahn received a lieutenant's commission and expects to go abroad in the near future.

Mrs. Frank Hollenback, of Somerset street, has been confined to her home with a severe attack of tonsilitis. The trouble has been in existence for the past week.

Hugh T. Treacy, of Darrow avenue, returned home Monday afternoon, returned home Monday after an extended business trip to Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Whitford, of East Second street, are the proud parents of a young son, who came to their home this week.

Joseph Kreuer, of East Fourth street, has joined the aviation section of the Signal Corps and will shortly leave for Texas to be stationed at one of the flying fields.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Manning, who were married three weeks ago, and who have been occupying their new home on Compton avenue, left this week for Staten Island, where they will reside in the future as Mr. Manning has secured an excellent position in a ship building plant.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Frank Schwep, of Rockview avenue, the borough, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a baby daughter who came to their home a few days ago.

Mrs. Frederick Hoffmeister, of 248 Jackson avenue, Netherwood, who was terribly burned two weeks ago as reported in last week's issue of the Record, is still in a serious condition at Muhlenberg Hospital, but her chances for recovery are said to be much better than at first noticed.

Edward Roache, of Central avenue, was notified the past week of the death of his brother, a soldier in the Canadian forces, fighting in France. He was killed during one of the recent heavy engagements with the Teuton forces.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Burnham Ball, of Bogota, are the parents of a baby daughter, born to them on November 23. Mrs. Ball was formerly Miss Elizabeth Folsom Ralston, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Edward S. Ralston, of Leland avenue.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Edna Scribner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scribner, of DeKalb avenue, and James Keane, of West Fifth street, at present stationed at Camp Dix as a member of the National Army. The ceremony took place in St. Mary's church last Saturday evening, December 1, and was performed by Rev. Father B. M. Boran. The attendants were Miss Katheryn Keane, sister of the bridegroom, and Roscell Scribner, brother of the bride.

Cablegrams were received this week from Charles Wendell and Albert Brynlarski, residents of this city, announcing their safe arrival in France. Both young men are members of the "Rainbow Division" in the 165th Ambulance Corps.

"Budd" Curran, of Arlington avenue, is one of the latest to join the Standard Aero Corporation's forces at the local plant. He has been placed in the wire department under Stanley W. Dell.

Mrs. E. A. Ahern, of North avenue, was able to sit up yesterday after two weeks' confinement to her bed by an ailment in one foot.

Robert Scott, of orth avenue, who has been suffering for some time from blood poisoning in one foot, was removed Tuesday to a New York hospital for treatment.

In honor of the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs William R. Townsend, of Gresham road, entertained a dozen friends at an informal dinner Monday night. Covers were laid for twelve.

Decisions Soon In Appeal to Nation's Chief

Presidential decisions on thirty appeals taken from the findings of the Second New Jersey Division Board are expected soon, as it is understood here that the government will clear up this work before the final forty per cent. under the first army quota is summoned to camp.

Instructions issued recently through the adjutant general's office were for boards to report on the number of men sent to camp and withheld from camp who had carried appeals to the President. In this district practically all who thus appealed were granted stays pending decision from Washington, and decisions sustaining the big board will mean that these men will go to camp with the next contingent. So far the President has reversed the big board in but one case.

Instructions issued from Trenton last week regarding making personal applications to the adjutant general's office for discharges have been received by the Plainfield Exemption Board and the division board, and are being impressed upon the attention of registrants and their friends.

The adjutant general's office makes it clear that time and money can be saved by applicants for exemption certificates if they will mail affidavits to headquarters in Trenton instead of going in person. Men who seek release from camp must make application to the adjutant general, and many believed that it was necessary for them or their relatives to go direct to headquarters. Many who did go failed to take affidavits and their trips were useless.

"There is no disposition on the part of these headquarters to forbid such applications in person," says the bulletin from Colonel Gilkyson, "but this memorandum is sent out merely with the idea of saving people an unnecessary trip to Trenton. In all cases it is necessary to present evidence in the nature of affidavits and these properly accomplished will obtain the same attention as the visits in person."

BAG SALE IN AID OF MISSIONARY WORK.

The Volunteer Bible Class of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school will hold a bag sale tomorrow at I. W. Randolph's drug store. The proceeds will be for home and foreign missionary work. The bags are splendidly made of carefully selected cretonnes, silks and chintzes, and the prices will be reasonable.

Elk Bowlers Win From K. of C. Team

On Wednesday evening the two leading teams in the City Bowling League battled on the Elk alleys for the leadership and after two and a half hours of pin smashing the Elks won two games from the boys on West Front street. The games proved of the wood was supreme and both sides suffered alike as at the end it was found that the two teams received 44 splits.

The result of the games now makes the Knights and Elks tie for first place with 7 games won and 2 games lost. The results of the games were as follows:

Christmas Jewelry in Endless Variety at Popular Prices

While it is true that the greater part of our stock consists of higher grade Jewelry, the finest grade of Diamonds, the most handsome Platinum or 14 K. Gold Mountings of the finest workmanship, you will also be delighted and surprised to find in our store articles of medium prices yet to keep up with the standard of our reputation.

DIAMONDS.

We need not say much about our prices on Diamonds. It is true our stock is a long time on our hands, but this does not depreciated the value. It gives you the advantage of buying Diamonds from us at about 25 per cent. to 33 per cent. for less than the present market value. You can find here a very large variety, from a Diamond solitaire in 14K. Gold Platinum prongs at $22.50 to a beautiful Diamond set in all Platinum at $500.

BAR PINS AND BROOCHES.

In designs quite out of the common-run and particularly well finished 14 K. Solid Gold to the finest platinum set with the finest precious stones of exquisite ensemble—$5 00 to $400.

WATCHES AND WATCH BRACELETS.

It may not be very prudent on our part to praise up our buyer but we must give him credit for his foresightin placing our orders for the Watch Department last February for this fall delivery. We have saved 40% on our purchases comparing with present market conditions. When you buy from us you pay the old price.

Gold Filled Bracelet Watches, $5.00 to $20.00.

Solid Gold Bracelet Watches, $25.00 to $50.00.

Men's Military Wrist Watches with non-breakable crystals, illuminated dials and hands, $4.50 to $25. We have Watches of all makes, Howards, Hamiltons, South-Bend, Illinois, Elgin, Waltham. Prices ranging from $10.00 to $125.00.

14 K. Solid Gold Fine Platinum Lavaliers, some set with Diamonds, Sapphires, Rubies, Aqua-Marines, $5.00 to $150.00.

OUR SILVERWARE DEPARTMENT.

"I can always do a little better at Slonim's." This expression we often hear our patrons quoting. We carry the best lines and makes, such as Gorham, Whiting, Reed and Barton, but you can always do a little better here.

Silver Brush, Comb and Mirror Sets, $5.00 to $25.00.

Men's Military Sets, $3.50 to $15.00.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, DEC. 7, 1917.

A TIMELY WARNING FROM CHIEF JENNINGS.

Timely, indeed, is the warning which comes from Chief Jennings to maintain an extra viligance against the likelihood of fire. Ravaging flames are always to be dreaded but in these days when so much is dependent upon the city department, and the need of building materials for government purposes is keenly felt, it behooves every one of us to exercise every care against any possible origin of a blaze that might lead to a conflagration.

As the Chief points out in an open letter to the newspapers, Plainfield is a city of shingle roofs. This form of house covering is always susceptible to sparks and each householder can do his little bit in protecting his own interests and those of his neighbors. It is a matter of local history that snow alone saved Plainfield from a disastrous conflagration in March, 1902, when the burning Babcock building sent blazing embers as far as five blocks away. The entire fire fighting force of the city and borough was hard at work at the doomed structure, and a blaze in any other part of the city would probably have gotten beyond all control before anything could be done to check it.

A heavy snowfall that occurred a few nights before had placed a protecting mantle on all the threatened homes, however, and the city was spared the disastrous blaze that seemed so imminent. We were indeed mighty fortunte but another time there may be no white blankets to ward off the sinister embers. Former Chief T. O. Doane was one of the first citizens to recognize the danger of so many shingle roofs and a few years ago sought to prohibit the further use of this material. His plan got as far as a committee report in the Common Council but opposition from the house trades prevented his plan from reaching a climax. In his letter to the newspapers, Chief Jennings discusses the situation in the following foreseful manner:

"Never before in the history of the city has the Fire Department been more important to its welfare than now. I have no desire to create any unnecessary alarm but Plainfield is a shingle-roof town and liable, if conditions are right, to have a big fire.

"Our Fire Department through its efficiency and promptness has always been on the job and kept fires within control and bounds.

"During these war times every citizen should be on tip-toe and doing his utmost for his city and country—this is particularly true with respect to fires because it would be hard, if not impossible, to rebuild owing to the scarcity of labor and building materials and those who might be made homeless by fire would be in a bad plight in seeking shelter.

"I think I am within the limits of propriety in warning all citizens to be particularly careful at this time of their premises to see that they are clean, the fire risks reduced because they owe a duty not alone to themselves, but to their neighbors and the entire city."

Carelessness causes more bad fires than any other known source and if Chief Jennings' warning to be extra careful is followed out Plainfield may continue to be fortunate in relation to disastrous blazes.

HOME ORGANIZATIONS AND THE WAR MACHINE.

Disgruntled Plainfielders who did not take kindly to the Government's action in breaking up the home military organizations like Troop D and Company K would do well to study closely the view as taken by Francis E. Bodin, of Watchung, who has just returned from Anniston. For two months he has been mingling with the 29th division at Camp McClellan and having been a soldier himself at one time appreciated the great plan that is on foot to make the American fighting machine the greatest the world has ever known. Step by step the authorities are getting it into shape and those who resent a move for sentimental purposes only are hampering the progress that is so obviously urgent.

The American government, like that of other nations, has learned the meaning of "effiecency" whether it is applied to the conduct of a department or an army of millions of men. Every detail, every factor must be considered in attaining the final result that spells success. After a unit has been organized and seemingly in shape for field service, it is discovered that it contains experts who would be better fitted for some other division, consequently they are immediately transferred to the position where they can return one hundred per cent. of efficiency. Again, it is found that a certain organization, considered in splendid shape individually, will not gibe with a larger body and the only way that it can be put to good use is to separate its members for other work. The whole idea is to bring every part of the army and navy to its maximum of strength so that when the supreme test comes, the advance will be irresistible.

Plainfield was proud of Troop D and Company K. They were composed of local boys who had grown attached to each other through long association and whose movements could be easily followed by the maintenance of the organization. When the two organizations got down to the grim business of preparing for war, however, it was found that some of the men were peculiarly fitted for the infantry but were almost worthless for the cavalry. Others who had trained as cavalrymen were discovered to be splendid material for the artillery, while mechanics who thought they would be doing their country the greatest good by shouldering a gun, were found to answer a better purpose by helping in the ordnance departments. For that reason Troop D and Company K were broken up, some going here, some going there, but all the while aiding the government in the tremendous problem of preparation. There were many who did not appreciate the change at first but Mr. Bodin is able to say after close observance that every man has recognized the inevitable and is buckling down to work.

"When the times comes," said Mr. Bodin, "the boys from Plainfield will show that they are made of the right stuff and that affiliation with Troop D and Company K was only the first step in making them soldiers. Taken away from the association and sentiment they brought from home, they have found themselves minute particles in an organization intended for one purpose only—the crushing of Germany and her allies. They have found it vastly different from the old days of military parties and pleasure trips to Sea Girt, but with the sentiment cast aside they are doing their part of the work like true soldiers. The Prussians perfected a great military machine but the one America now has in course of construction will be even greater and it won't be long before the Kaiser realizes it. Thousands of other home outfits like Troop D and Company K were lost in the shuffle at the organization points and in their place is the finest body of well-trained and efficient soldiery this or any other country has ever known. If the parents in Plainfield could see the result as I have seen it there would be no more dissatisfaction over the loss of identity."

DOMINANT THOUGHTS IN THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

A perusal of President Wilson's masterful message as submitted to Congress this week shows that two separate thoughts occupy the Executive's mind in the making of the historical document. One was of war and the other was of peace. He pointed out clearly that the military spirit of Germany must be utterly crushed if civilization is to supercede the moralization but that when the fighting is over and peace terms are discussed, generosity must be exercised as a basis for the terms of justice. Stripped of all the remaining thoughts in the wonderful document, this is the way the two principal ideas are expressed:

"I believe I speak for them (the American people) when I say two things:

"First, that this intolerable thing of which the masters of Germany have shown us the ugly face, this menace of combined intrigue and force which we now see so clearly as the German power, a thing without conscience or honor or capacity for covenanted peace, must be crushed and if it be not utterly brought to an end, at least shut out from the friendly intercourse of the nations; and,

"Second, that when this thing and its power are indeed defeated and the time comes that we can discuss peace—when the German people have spokesmen whose word we can believe and when those spokesmen are ready in the name of their people to accept the common judgment of the nations as to what shall henceforth be the basis of law and of covenant for the life of the world—we shall be willing and glad to pay the full price for peace and pay it ungrudgingly. We know what that price will be. It will be full, impartial justice—justice done at every point and to every nation that the final settlement must affect, our enemies as well as our friends."

There is no question about it that the President does actually speak for the American people in emphasizing the two thoughts—that the war must be won and that the peace terms must be just and righteous. He is able in the paragraphs quoted above to reconcile the views and opinions of the American people—to promote a concord of purpose.

The President does not hesitate to believe that the war can be won and will be won. He makes clear again and again why it must be won. He sums it up a second time in the following words:

"The purposes of the Central Powers strike straight at the very heart of everything we believe in: their methods of warfare outrage every principle of humanity and of knightly honor; their intrigue has corrupted the very thought and spirit of many of our people; their sinister and secret diplomacy has sought to take our very territory away from us and disrupt the union of the States. Our safety would be at an end, our honor forever sullied and brought into contempt were we to permit their triumph. They are striking at the very existence of democracy and liberty."

President Wilson again arraigns the military master of Germany. He thrusts the probe deeply into their purposes and designs. He reiterates how they have deceived the German people; how they have deceived the allies of Germany; how they are corrupting Russia; how they are attempting to poison the thinking of other nations; how, in brief, they have established a power and a control that imperils the freedom of all the world.

The President's message is not alone directed to the American people, but to the allies of the United States. It is intended to reach and reassure the German people. It is intended to emphasize the fact that the United States is actually fighting for the liberation of the people who have come under the thrall of the Potsdam gang as well as to secure the freedom of the nations.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS.

Now comes the season of the year when the "kids" are busy "window wishing."

Only eighteen days more to Christmas and—the usual financial setback that follows the pursuance of Yuletide giving.

A lot of people have been wondering what Mr. and Mrs. Biggs were going to do with that loose change amounting to $1,160 which they dropped on Madison avenue. Haven't asked them personally, but imagine they were looking around for sugar.

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When the Jersey Central time table was not a work of fiction?

When a penny would buy a nice, big chunk of maple sugar at any candy or grocery store in town?

When "Pat" Muldoon's stage was the popular mode of conveyance between Plainfield and Florida Grove?

When the "Fireside Companion" was to be found in every home and furnished enough thrills to last the whole family a full week?

When Grove street beyond Craig place was a part of Peter Wooden's apple orchard and the owner had to keep a dozen bull dogs on the premises to save his crop?

When there was no Netherwood stand-pipe and almost every residence property had a well in the front yard which not only furnished a supply of water but also gave the doctors business through the youngsters getting their fingers pinched by the drum?

FORMER LOCAL PASTOR'S FUNERAL HERE TOMORROW

The body of Rev. J. W. Mitchell, a former Plainfield resident and one of the early pastors of Mt. Olive Baptist church, will be brought to this city from Asbury Park tomorrow, for the purpose of holding the funeral service in the Mt. Olive church. It will take place in the afternoon and several local clergymen will take part. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Mitchell was born in Ohio but came to Plainfield from Canada about thirty-five years ago. He was an energetic worker and under his supervision, Mr. Olive church had a very substantial growth. On his retirement from this congregation, he assisted in establishing the Calvary Baptist church and had charge of it for some time. At the death of his wife a few years ago he went to Asbury Park to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Murray, wife of the principal of an Asbury Park School. Mrs. Murray was formerly Miss Maude Mitchell and was the first colored girl to graduate from the Plainfield High School. She went to Asbury Park as a school teacher.

Beside Mrs. Murray, Mr. Mitchell is survived by two other daughters and five sons. They are the Misses Kate and Bessie Mitchell, Fred, Joseph, George, Harry and Arthur Mitchell.

"KICKING" CRANKS BREAK WRISTS OF TWO MEN.

"Back kicks" from motors while being cranked up claimed two local victims during the past week, both of whom received broken wrists. The first reported was "Captain" William Breen, of the Hotel Kensington, who was disabled while assisting Knight Fawcett get his machine started. Although used to cranking, it was the first time in a long while that Mr. Breen had tried his hand at the old game and failed to be on his guard. The break is a clean one but Dr. P. B. Cregar says it will keep him from work for at least five weeks.

The second victim of an auto "kick" is Den. J. Galbraith, of Darrow avenue. He sustained the injury as he was about to start his own machine and also received a clean break as shown by an X-ray picture taken by Dr. Carman. The fractured arm was placed in splints by Dr. A. F. Van Horn, near whose home the accident happened.

FRANK HAND GOES SOUTH FOR VACATION TRIP.

Frank Hand, of Fairview avenue, the borough, who recently disposed of his blacksmith business on East Second street, left Tuesday morning on a Clyde line steamer for Florida. He will visit friends at Jacksonville, Fort Pierce, Bradentown and Sanford before returning.

The trip is being taken purely for recreation purposes as it is the first real vacation Mr. Hand has had in many years. He has fixed no time limit for his return and may be away at least several weeks. One of the former Plainfielders Mr. Hand will visit while in the South will be Albert I. Smalley, who is now located at oFrt Pierce, where he has extensive grape fruit groves.

"RABBIT FAME" PHILLIPSON FINED IN BOROUGH COURT.

William Phillipson, of Webster place, who a few yeas ago gained considerable notoriety when he was fined $100 and committed to the Somerset County Jail on a charge of shooting a rabbit in his own yard in North Plainfield, was fined $25 by Mayor W. L. Smalley in the Borough Court, Monday, for hunting within the borough limits. He was arrested by Marshal Walter Dennis.

On the previous occasion, Phillipson refused to pay the fine, and the late Justice of the Peace Thomas Snape sent him to jail. He was subsequently released through the influence of friends, who took the question up with the State Game Commission.

MISS RUTH TARTTER ENLISTS AS "YEOMAN."

Miss Ruth Tartter, a former resident of Newburgh, N. Y., has enlisted in the service of the United States Navy as "yeoman" and at present is stationed in this city. Miss Tartter is a cousin of "Clem" Bechtel, of Carlton avenue, who is now at an aviation training camp in Europe and is one of the first young women from this city or the country to enter Uncle Sam's wartime service.

A short time ago the government advertised for girls to enlist in the navy department. It was stated that they would be rated as yeomen and would be given congenial work as typists, clerks, storekeepers and secretaries. The responses have been quite numerous and some of the "recruits" have already received promotion. Miss Tartter will be engaged in industrial work for the present but later may be assigned to one of the navy yards.

GETS $122 REWARD FOR FINDING $1,160.

Miss Elizabeth Schrager, of Madison avenue, is $122 richer this week through finding a roll of bills belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Biggs, also of Madison avenue. The "wad" she picked up reached a total of $1,160 and in appreciation of her honesty and efforts to return it to them, Mr. and Mrs. Biggs made her a present of the reward money. The $1,160 was dropped from an automobile in which the owners were riding.

PLAINFIELD MEN PLACED IN NEW UNIT.

Sergeants John T. Caulfield and Joseph W. Gallagher, former members of Plainfield's "Troop D," who have recently been in Company F, New Jersey Heavy Field Artillery, at Camp McClellan, were placed in a new division this week. The government has organized a unit to be known as the "104th Ordnance Mobile Repair Shop" and the Plainfielders have been placed with it with the rating of "ordnance sergeants."

WON'T SERVE LIQUOR TO SOLDIERS' COMPANIONS

Following the lead of the New Jersey Hotel Men's Association, which is also allied in the State Federation of Liquor Interests, the executive committee of the Liquor Dealers' Protective League of New Jersey at a meeting at State headquarters in Newark, adopted resolutions pledging the membership not only to strictly obey the law against selling liquor to soldiers in uniform, but as well to refuse to serve civilians if they are accompanied by soldiers or sailors—regardless of the nationalities of the latter.

The additional precaution was taken to prevent civilians ordering intoxicants for themselves and then secretly exchanging the same for the soft drinks served to the soldier or sailor.

The meeting was presided over by State President George T. Carroll, of Elizabeth.

HOLD SIX IN ARMY HAT FRAUD ACTION.

Conspiracy to defraud the United States Government out of hundreds of thousands of dollars on contracts for more than 1,000,000 army service hats is charged in an indictment found in New York this week against William B. Thom, John J. Slattery, Joseph Ives and Edward Slattery, connected with the corporation of Thom & Bailey, the Peekskill Hat Manufacturing Company and the firm of H. D. Parmelee & Co.

Arthur C. Gilson and Peter J. Duffy, inspectors of the Quartermaster's Corps, are named as co-conspirators in the indictment.

The four first named defendants were arraigned in the Federal Court and entered pleas of not guilty. Thom and John J. Slattery were released on bonds of $5,000 each. Ives on a bond a $2,500 and Edward Slattery on a bond of $1,000.

Gilson and Duffy are expected to plead later.

John J. Kenney Begins Work On Fuel Commission

William Sefton, president of Hitchings & Company, of Elizabeth; Fred C. Hyer, an attorney of Rahway, and John J. Kenney, retired, of this city, have been appointed as the Union county committee of the State Fuel Administration by Chairman John K English, of Elizabeth. "They were my first choice," said Mr. English yesterday, "and all acceeded, I know, for patriotic reasons." A meeting will be called within the next few days.

"We're not going to threaten," said the chairman, "but if we have to, we are going to use our power, and there is plenty of it behind us. We shall appeal to consumers and dealers to help us first."

Documents received from State Administrator Jenkinson outline the duties and powers of the county committee. All complaints should be made to the committee, which through the chairman will be referred to the State Administration. An agent has been assigned by the Federal Board to help investigate cases.

It was pointed out in this document that the production of coal is ten per cent. greater this year than last, but owing to the war the demand is more than ten per cent. more than it was twelve months ago. The State has only to do with saving and the distribution of fuel. The production problem is handled by the Federal authorities.

Carefully tabulated statistics have been prepared, by which a quota for each State has been established, based upon the demand in normal times and the consumption of fuel at present because of war. The State in turn apportions the amount of coal for each town and city.

The duties of the committee will be to ascertain the needs of the community, investigate conditions, to find out what prices are being charged and to keep the State administration in touch with the situation. The State administration may promulgate reasonable regulations regarding local distributions, require dealers to deliver limited supplies to customers, require consumers to state the supply they have on hand and to prevent hoarding.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED BY COMPANY K VETERANS

Company K, Veterans' Association, held the annual meeting in the association rooms in the Frost building, Wednesday night, and elected these officers for the coming year: President, Nelson B. Wildey; vice president, Lewis Clark; secretary and treasurer, E. F. Dorman; trustees, Herbert Reynolds, Edward Weaver and Frank Kepler; sergeant-at-arms, John Judson.

In addition to routine matters, the business transacted included preliminary arrangements for a social and dance to be held some time in January. The blue dress uniforms recently ordered will probably be distributed at the next meeting and the members will use them in all parade affairs to take the place of Company K now at the front.

The Test of An Undertaker

Like doctors, lawyers, and other professional men, the undertaker has a reputation to maintain. The up-to-date funeral director nowadays attends conventions, studies his trade publications and keeps abreast of the improvements of the times.

Just as an experiment, sometimes, ask any live, up-to-date undertaker about the Norwalk Vault. A leader won't wait to be asked; he will tell you at the first opportunity a dozen reasons why the Norwalk has been accepted throughout the country as the very foundation of the modern, sanitary burial. For information see your undertaker.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

CHARLES WILLIAM BEITER.

The home of William Beiter at 108 Somerset street, the borough, was filled to overflowing, yesterday afternoon, when the last sad rites were conducted over the body of his son, Charles William Beiter, who died in a hospital at Boston last Sunday night. The service was in charge of Rev. John Y. Brock, who had been the young man's pastor for many years, and though simple was ver yimpressive. Included in the mass of floral tributes which were from fraternal organizations, church societies and friends, was a beautiful set piece extended by the deceased's associates in the Mead-Morrison plant at Easton Boston, where he was employed.

Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the following former friends acting as pall-bearers: Fred J. Dixon, Charles Lindsley, George Morton and H. E. Underhill.

Mr. Beiter's death came as a great shock to his hundreds of Plainfield friends as he seemed to be in perfect health on his last visit here about a month ago. Shortly after he went back to his home, which was at Somerville, a suburb of Boston, he contracted typhoid fever. The disease took a serious turn almost from the beginning, and his removal to a hospital was deemed advisable. Information to this effect had barely been received here when it was followed by the news of his demise.

Mr. Beiter was the son of William Beiter, of Somerset street, the borough, and was born at the old family home on East Front street, thirty-three years ago. After completing his education in the local schools he took a business course and secured a position at the Pond Tool Works as stenographer. He became so proficient in the office routine of the big plant that he was promoted to be secretary to the manager, the late Albert C. Stebbins. At the retirement of the latter. Mr. Beiter continued to act in the same capacity for James T. MacMurray, superintendent of the Pond shop until early in 1911, when he resigned so as to take the management of a manufacturing plant at Kearny, but later went with the Mead-Morrison Company at East Boston, a concern which is manufacturing munitions for the United States government.

On taking charge of affairs at the East Boston plant, Mr. MacMurray sent for Mr. Beiter, who had continued with the Pond company. The former Plainfielder found that in his new field, Mr. Beiter would be of invaluable assistance to him, and was immensely pleased when the young man accepted his offer to become his private secretary. With his wife, who was Miss Lenora Miller, of North Plainfield, he removed to Somerville last spring and quickly adapted himself to the requirements of the Mead-Morrison plant. He was greatly liked by the entire executive staff and was destined for a most gratifying advancement before a great while. His employer and the entire office staff of the Boston concern were greatly affected by the fatal termination of his illness.

Mr. Beiter was a man of most exemplary habits and was at all times courteous and obliging to all with whom he came in contact. While of a very quiet, almost retiring disposition, he never failed to hold the friends that he made and the acquaintances of his school days are among those numbered among his sincerest mourners.

From the time he was a boy until his removal from Plainfield the deceased was a member of Trinity Reformed church, where he was active in all departments. At one time he was secretary of the Dutch Arms, the local representation in the congregation. His fraternal affiliations were with Anchor Lodge, F. and A. M., and Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. Beside his father, who is the widely known locksmith, he is survived by one sister, Miss Caroline Beiter, of Somerset street, the borough, and two brothers, Albert Beiter, of Montclair, and William Beiter, of New York.

CHARLES KNOWLTON.

Charles Knowlton, a former well-known Plainfielder, died the past week at his home in Springfield, Mass., to which place he removed about three years ago. Mr. Knowlton was an expert silverware worker and came here when the former W. H. Rogers Corporation started a local plant in the Babcock building about seventeen years ago. After this company dissolved he went to work for other Plainfield concerns and later was employed for a time at the Tiffany plant in Belleville, going from there to Massachusetts.

Mr. Knowlton lived for a long time on South Second street, near Grant avenue, but his last place of residence was on South avenue. He was a member of Plainfield-Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., which fraternal official information of his death this week. He is survived by his wife and two children. The funeral and interment took place at Springfield, of which place Mrs. Knowlton is a native.

MRS. ARTHUR J. TALLMAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Edna Tallman, wife of Arthur J. Tallman, whose death occurred at her home on Stebbins place, was held at the family residence Tuesday afternoon. A large number of relatives and friends were present. The service was conducted by Rev. John W. Flynn, pastor of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church, of which the deceased was a member, and burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Tallman had been ill for a long time but her trouble did not assume an acute form until two weeks before the end. Beside her husband, she is survived by five children, three girls and two boys. They are: Stella, Marion, Edith, Russell and George.

MISS LOUISE M. TAYLOR.

In the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends at the home of Miss Laura Sydenham, of Westervelt avenue, Tuesday afternoon, the funeral services were held over the body of Miss Louise M. Taylor, whose death occurred Sunday after a long illness. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, to which Miss Taylor belonged, was the officiating clergyman and burial was in Evergreen cemetery.

Miss Taylor was born near Watchung and had resided there practically all of her life. She came to this city a few years ago, since which time she had been making her home with Miss Sydenham. Her only near surviving relatives are two brothers who went West many years ago.

MRS. LOUISA S. MARTIN.

Mrs. Louisa S. Martin, widow of John F. Martin and a resident of North Plainfield for the past twenty-two years, died early Wednesday morning following a long illness from paralysis. The funeral took place this afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Seader, of 102 Manning avenue, with whom she had been residing. The service was in charge of Rev. John Y. Brock, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, assisted by Rev. J. O. McKelver, pastor of the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church. Burial was in the family plot in the cemetery at Somerville.

Mrs. Seader was born at New York State seventy-six years ago, but had lived in New Jersey most of her life. She resided in Raritan for many years and came from that place to North Plainfield. She was an earnest Christian woman and resided her membership in the Reformed church of Raritan, with which she affiliated when a young woman.

Mrs. Martin is survived by five sons and four daughters, as follows: John L. and Theodore Martin, of North Plainfield; Louis A. Martin, of Plainfield; George P. Martin, of Dunellen, and Joseph J. Martin, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Mrs. Mary D. Chamberlain, Mrs. Dora M. Seader, Mrs. Jennie M. Seader and Mrs. Anna C. Stiles, all of North Plainfield.

C. ALBERT AUSTIN.

C. Albert Austin, the eleven months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilding Austin, of East Third street, died Wednesday afternoon. The funeral will be held at the parents' home this afternoon and burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

CALLS FOR TAX NOW FROM MOTORBOAT OWNERS

Forms covering the tax on motorboats having been received, Internal Revenue Collector Charles V. Duffy announces that the owners of such craft must immediately pay the tax, which took effect October 4, but was not collected because of delay in the receipt of the blanks. The tax applies to all yachts, pleasure boats, power boats, sailing boats over five net tons and on the use of all motorboats with fixed engines.

The term motorboat is used to include every vessel propelled by machinery and not more than sixty-five feet in length, except tugboats and towboats propelled by steam. Boats used exclusively for trade for national defense or built according to plans and specifications approved by the Navy Department are exempt.

The tax on motorboats of not more than five net tons is forty-one and two-thirds cents per month. Boats of more than that weight will be taxed on their over-all length. If they are not over fifty feet the tax will be at the rate of four and one-sixth cents a foot a month. If between fifty and 100 feet the monthly tax per foot will be eight and one-third cents. The monthly rate on boats over 100 feet will be sixteen and two-thirds cents per foot.

The return must be made to the collector of internal revenue in the district in which the person required to make the return resides, or in the district where the boat is kept.

Owners of boats, whether taxable or not, must apply for one of the forms and make a return to the revenue officer.

INTERNAL REVENUE YIELDED $3,400,000,000 FOR YEAR.

Internal revenue collections for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1918, will amount to $3,400,000 and for the following fiscal year to $3,425,000,000 on the basis of existing revenue laws, according to an estimate of Commissioner of Internal Revenue Daniel C. Roper, contained in his annual report submitted to Congress this week.

Christmas Trees to Cost Third More Than Last Season

The high cost of living as finally hit the Christmas tree. The price of trees in past years has remained more or less the same, but due to the scarcity of freight cars, caused by the Governmental commandeering of cars for the transportation of military equipment, Christmas trees this season have taken a decided jump in price. A Plainfield dealer is authority for the statement that the increase will be about a third over that of last year.

The Christmas tree growers, realizing this freight car stringency, have not taken out as many trees this year as formerly. In a letter to a local dealer, E. K. Chapman, of Portland, Me., known to dealers as the "Christmas tree king," stated that he was only shipping half as many trees as at this time last year. Holly is also scarce this season for the same reason.

For the first time in forty years Christmas trees are being transported in box cars, whereas they have always previously been carried to destination in gondolas, or flat cars.

At the same time, the price increase, for which the local dealers are of course in no way responsible, is not expected to affect the retail sales.

Modify Ruling For Voluntary Enlisting

A modification of the ruling on registrants who have been notified to appear for examination before the local draft boards has been made, according to information received by local officials today. If a registrant obtaining from the local draft officials a certificate stating that he will not be needed for the next quota he may be accepted for the army or navy. The order is as follows:

"Between now and December 15 it is desired to afford registrants as wide an opportunity as possible to enlist in both the army and navy. Therefore any registrant, even through he may be called by the local board to report for physical examination, may enlist until December 15 upon presentation to the recruiting officer of a certificate from the local board that he will not be needed to fill any deferred percentage of the quota of the board."

RAPID BRIDGE BUILDING OVER OAK ISLAND TRACKS

With the government planning to employ thousands of men at its shipbuilding plant at Port Newark and the only open highway between Newark and the shipyards crossing a network of tracks at the Lehigh Valley Railroad, efficiency demanded the prompt elimination of the grade crossing. City and railroad officials got together and agreed on an overhead bridge with ramps at either end, emphasizing that speed was necessary.

As the engineers and draftsmen work on the plans for the bridge, lines were run, piles and other material were distributed and work started. Sunday afternoon five bents were in place.

The bridge, crossing the main line and yard tracks of the Lehigh Valley and the freight line of the Pennsylvania Railroad will be some 1,200 feet long, more than twenty feet wide and an additional five-foot sidewalk on either side. Steel girders are being used to carry the bridge over the tracks. There is a clearance above the tracks of twenty-two feet. The roadway provides space for street car tracks when the traction company's lines are extended that far.

The bridge, however, is a temporary structure to take care of traffic to Port Newark until a permanent bridge the Lehigh Valley is now building at Avenue B, a new thoroughfare, is ready. The temporary structure will be replaced by a permanent one later.

CONGRESSMAN CAPSTICK BACK AT HIS POST.

Congressman John H. Capstick, who has been ill at his home at Montville for the last six months, has so far recovered as to be able again to be at his post in Washington. In company with Mrs. Capstick, he left by automobile for the capital Monday.

Mr. Capstick was taken ill with pneumonia late last spring and was in Memorial Hospital, Morristown, for some time. On his return home other complications developed, which threatened to result seriously.

ASSESS CABARET TAX ON 20 PER CENT. OF THE CHECK.

Cabaret patrons are to have the patriotic privilege of helping to win the war by contributing one cent in every ten cents contained in twenty per cent. of their total bill for refreshment and entertainment. This tax went into effect November 1, but the question as to what proportion of the bill rendered to a patron should be charged with the tax was left to be decided by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. His ruling in the matter was rendered yesterday.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

The Newark District Exemption Board has certified back to the Plainfield Board the names of James M. Cullen and Clifford A. Hall, both of this city, as being eligible for military duty.

Rev. H. Cowley-Carroll, the new rector of St. Stephen's P. E. church, assumed charge for the first time at the services last Sunday. He came to this city from Olean, N. Y., where he had been stationed for the past three years as rector of St. Stephen's church, that city. Mr. Carroll and his family, which consists of his wife and two sons, are now occupying the rectory on Woodland avenue.

Fred Van Ness, of East Second street, was fined $5 in the city court on a charge of driving his automobile in a reckless manner at the corner of Front and Somerset streets. His machine rammed a car belonging to Fred VanEps, of Norwood avenue, damaging it slightly.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will hold an important meeting in the Post rooms next Tuesday night. Officers for the coming year will be elected and there will be other business transacted which occurs only once each year. Building Inspector T. O. Doane, who has been commander of the Veterans' Organization for the past three years, has announced his intention of retiring from the office.

Typographical Union, No. 299, Monday night nominated the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Henry Dressell; vice president, William Higgins; secretary-treasurer, Harry Thomas, and sergeant-at-arms, George Rockefeller.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Evergreen Avenue School gave an informal tea party at the school building Monday afternoon. It was attended by a large number of members and other parents of the children who spent the social hour with the teachers connected with this school.

An entertainment for the benefit of the Charity Organization Society will be given in the Plainfield High School, Saturday afternoon and evening, December 15. While primarily intended to the children, the affair may be fully enjoyed by adults and their presence will be appreciated. Tickets are now on sale at Miller's drug store, Park avenue and Fourth street.

Under the auspices of the Woman's League of St. Joseph's church, a "500" and euchre party was given in Columbus Hall, Tuesday night. Mrs. James E. Bailey was in charge and a large attendance was noted. The proceeds from the affair will be applied to the Knights of Columbus war fund. A unique feature of the party was the awarding of provisions as prizes for the winners of the card games and a table reserved exclusively for amateur players.

A committee of three persons has been appointed by the Business Men's Association to investigate the charge that a certain merchant had been guilty of inserting fraudulent advertisements in a local newspaper. It is alleged that the merchant in question gave specific prices for certain articles that were not to be had when called for but instead gave a substitute that was distinctively inferior. Advertising of this kind is prohibited in this State by law and if the committee appointed learns that there is basis for the charge, the proper legal steps will be taken against the offender.

At the monthly meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, Mayor Calkins appointed the following men special policemen, all of whom are now acting as guards at the local plant of the Standard Aero Corporation: Frank Ingraham, Thomas Clark, John Mottley, Frank Smith, John Lyons and Alexander MacDonald.

Privates Allan J. Goetter and Alva Brownlee, of this city, who have been with battery F, 112th Field Artillery, at Anniston, were this week ordered to the 438th Engineers Depot, at Hoboken, N. J. It is believed the two young men are slated for early transportation to France. Mr. Brownlee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brownlee, of Putnam avenue, and is a former Plainfield High School boy.

The wide-awake North Plainfield Home Defence League is completing plans for a Christmas entertainment and dance to be held in Dehele's Auditorium on Thursday night, December 20. The program will be composed of a dozen or more splendid numbers and favors will be distributed from a good Christmas tree to the 100 members of the organization. Each one will be of an appropriate nature and the opening of the packages will create a lot of fun. The non-commissioned officers of the league will be in charge.

Frederick Warren Butler, of Watchung avenue, returned to Princeton this week after a visit with his mother. He recently completed the eight weeks' course of training at the Princeton aviation school and passed all examinations, mental and physical. He expects to be sent to one of the training fields in the South within the near future.

The annual parish meeting of the Church of the Holy Cross on Monday night resulted in the following election of officers: Wardens, Dr. J. H. Carman and Herbert E. Langford; vestrymen, D. C. Anderson, F. B. Ball, C. E. Murray, F. L. Sill and J. A. Van Mater.

Patrolman Charles Wicht, of the local police force, has been confined to his home on Leland avenue for the past three weeks suffering from water on the knee. The complaint came as a result of an accident which the officer had a long time ago when he fell from a bicycle and badly injured one leg.

Grace P. E. church elected the following officers at the annual parish meeting Monday night: Warden, Howard Fleming; vestrymen, Howard Tracy, C. Ames Brooks and C. V. Cox. Deputies to diocesan convention, Howard Fleming, George S. Clay and George L. Babcock; alternates, Howard Tracy, W. H. P. Veysey and Charles A. Dall.

The street committee of the Common Council has granted the Newark Paving Company an extension of time to complete its contract for street work in this city. The concern has been greatly hampered by labor conditions and other causes which made a longer period necessary. The Public Service Corporation now has a large gang of men at work on Watchung avenue installing the new double tracking and the stretch from Fourth street to the railroad bridge will be completed this week.

Editorial Briefs

COMMENT EXPRESSED BY NEWSPAPER MEN IN THIS AND OTHER STATES ON CURRENT TOPICS.

Training the Officers.

(From the Washington Post.)

It will require 10,000 deck and engineer officers to man the merchant fleet which the United States is building, and the shipping board is proceeding to make provision for these men. A recruiting service is now in operation to train men for commissions' berths and classes are being graduated at periods after a course of instruction which makes them competent to command.

The training of men to operate the merchant fleet is fully as important as the building of the fleet itself, and in making timely provision for the necessary officers the shipping board is displaying wise foresight. Every contingency in connection with the fleet should be considered and provided for, so that as fast as the ships are put into commission they will be ready to begin the important work for which they were designed.

Let Them Eat Corn, Too!

(From the Brooklyn Eagle.)

Steaks and chops and eggs and butter in the internment camps for alien enemies needlessly flaunt in the world's face our National prosperity. Mr. Hoover should speak for intelligent economy.

More Sugar to Sicily.

(From the New York Herald.)

With the arrival of sugar from Cuba, which has a big crop, and the harvesting of the domestic cane and sugar beet crops, the present scarcity will be speedily relieved.

Sugar is now such an important commodity of household consumption and such a great factor in a variety of industries that one wonders how the world got on without it before the Crusaders brought back those "sweet sticks" from the East.

It is reported that the fleet yield in Michigan and other States will be thirty per cent. larger than last year, a welcome increase in view of the present stringency. The period of scarcity and high prices has one happy result in teaching habits of economy in the use of the article while will prove permanently beneficial.

More Rejections In Last Quota of Drafted Men

A smaller percentage of rejections will be made from the last fifteen per cent. class in former contingents of troops sent to Camp Dix, according to information available, it finally that the number of men to be sent in the last 6,500 sent to the cantonment will not exceed 500, a number smaller than proportions who failed to come up to the standard of the army in former shipments of troops.

The papers necessary to formally discharge the men from the army have not been entirely filled out, and until that has been completed the selectees who will be sent to their homes will be required to remain in camp and take the regular daily work. As fast as their papers are completed detachments of the rejected men will be shipped back to their homes.

Defective teeth is the principal factor in the rejections from the last quota. Flat feet, heart trouble and slight physical deformities overlooked by the draft board physicians have caused a share of the discharges, but bad molars, as in the examination of former drafted quotas, are chiefly responsible for rejection.

"The draft boards seem to know better the requirements of the army," stated Lieut.-Col. Ekqurzel, division surgeon, adding that the previous experience of the physicians in having selectives turned back to them seemed to have served the purpose of acquainting them with the faults the army surgeons are most careful to scrutinize.

To catch up with the older men within a period of ten days is the goal set for the newest of the National Army men who arrived in the cantonment last week. That is, to attain a sufficient knowledge of the usual movements to take their places in the ranks of the more experienced soldiers and be able to perfect their close order drilling. So far as rifle and bayonet work goes it will be weeks before the rookies are seasoned.

The squads have been placed in charge of drill masters and the new men are doing eight hours of work on the drill field in order to cover the ground and not retard the development of the companies as units. With few exceptions the selectives who have been assigned from the Depot Brigade to their permanent organizations have been uniformed and enter into their training with a new enthusiasm.

Colonel Marcus B. Stokes, commander of the 311th Regiment, paid close attention to the drills of the regiment yesterday morning. Col. Stokes has been directing the practice on the rifle range for the past week and has been unable to get a line on the progress being made by the regiment as a whole, until yesterday when he followed closely the movements of the men of the green troops on the parade grounds.

The great initial contributions to the National Army are making fast strides in the effort to cover the lost ground and there is little doubt but that they will soon be ready to be put into the sounds of veterans and then acquire the finish to their drill and learn the rifle work.

Officers have been ordered to report to the base hospital and undergo the psychological test. The test is one that determines the mentality of the men of the army, to measure their powers of perception and insight.

Highest tributes was paid by Colonel Stokes to the men who executed the drill on Franklin Field Saturday. Several companies of men who volunteered to make the trip to Philadelphia drilled on the gridiron before the game. Their work was the source of much applause and received favorable criticism from the corps of army officers who were in the stands.

"I feel almost as proud of them," said Colonel Stokes, "as I do of the men who brought the football victory home. Their drilling was excellent and the fact that they were not a picked body of men, but those who responded at large to the request from their officers as to the number who wanted to go to Philadelphia, is creditable to the regiment as a whole. The men had organized cheering, too, they flaunted banners from their block of seats during the game, giving color to the scene, and every section added a fine spirit to the event, one of which we are proud and upon which the men should be congratulated."

Brigadier-General Mallory, acting commander of the camp, who occupied a box with Colonel Stokes, said practically the same thing concerning the exhibition. There was only a small number of Camp Meade soldiers there, the majority of the men who were granted leave to attend the game failing to show up.

The profit from the game was about $2,600, half to go to each of the teams and to be used for the promotion of camp athletics. This was the last football game of the season so far as Camp Dix teams are concerned and the stage is being cleared for the opening basketball games in the inter-regimental contests. Lieutenant Anderson, of football fame, a star in the basketball game also, will lead the quintet that is to represent the 311th and will issue a call for candidates soon.

Preparations are being made for the celebration of Christmas by the men who do not leave for their homes. Christmas trees are to be erected in each of the Y. M. C. A. buildings and these are to be appropriate exercises arranged throughout the camp. While it is indicated the great majority of the men will be allowed to go to their homes for the holiday, the pleasure of the few remaining will not be allowed to go unnoticed by the Y. M. C. A. men who are promoting the plans.

How many men will be in camp by Christmas? This is the question that has been asked. It was expected that more of the selectives yet in civilian life would arrive early this week, but no definite information has been received as to the time for their departure for the camp. The barracks are ready for a proportion of them. The delay in a measure is due to the slowness of the transfers from the Depot Brigade, which still has nearly fifty per cent. of the last quota that was received.

It is expected that they will be sent in large numbers to their permanent organizations within the next week, and that movement will facilitate the handling of new men yet to come. It is not likely, however, that all of the remainder of the next forty per cent. quota will have been sent to the cantonment by the big holiday.

Less Restrictions On Sea Fishing to Aid Food Problem

Through investigation during the past ten months of the High Cost of Living Commission, which has reported to Governor Edge on the subject of State control of the fishing industry, New Jersey finds itself in immediate co-operation with the Federal Food Administration in the latter's request to all seaboard States to increase the source of food supply by removing the restrictions surrounding the catching of fish.

A bill providing State control of fisheries with the object of getting fish into the hands of consumers at absolute cost of handling and distribution, on the theory that the people own the fish, has already been prepared at the Governor's direction and furnished to the conference committees of the Legislature. This measure, it is understood, provides for the removal of many restrictions placed on fishing, particularly with reference to seines off the coast, and in other ways coincides precisely with the Federal Food Administrator's idea that as a war measure all State restrictions on salt water fisheries should be removed and laws suspended for the duration of the war, particularly restrictions on purse seining, torching, night fishing traps and all closed seasons.

Governor Edge expressed gratification today that the research of the Food Commission in New Jersey had made it possible for this State to put into effect what the Federal Government urges through James F. Fielder, Food Administrator for New Jersey, and that it will not be necessary to go over the ground again to see where co-operation is possible. With the idea that it may be practicable to do away with certain closed seasons and other restrictions that were not contemplated in the legislation proposed by former Senator Colby's food commission, thus co-operating with the Federal Food Administration, Governor Edge has asked the State Fish and Game Commission to go over the statutes regulating fisheries and suggest what additional legislation may be enacted at the forthcoming session in the interest of food conservation.

"It is not a question of throwing down the bars and exhausting the supply," stated the Governor, "but rather a question of necessity of co-operating with the Federal Government in one of the emergencies brought about by the war. Of course, our proposed State control of fisheries is of a permanent nature, but if there are other restrictions and closed seasons which may be lifted temporarily in furtherance of the work of the Food Administration, it is up to the State to take action of a temporary character. Restrictions believed necessary may be easily re-established at the conclusion of the war. It should be remembered, too, that the restrictions which the Food Administration refers to have to do with salt water fish."

Local Zionists Will Observe 'Hanukah,' Dec. 9

In over 150 cities in the United States, Zionists will celebrate the Jewish Feast of the Maccabees known as Hanukah, with a Zion Flag Day for the benefit of the Jewish National Fund on Sunday, December 9. In many cities, special editions of Jewish newspapers will be issued, devoted to making propaganda for the Zionist cause.

The Festival of Hanukah commemorates the victories of the Maccabees, the family of Jewish heroes, who, by resisting the invasion of the Syrians 2184 years ago, established the practical independence of the Jewish state in Palestine.

The records of the remarkable strategy of the Jews of that period, who were able to wrest a victory from a vastly superior force, are to be found in the Book of the Maccabees and in the historical works of Josephus Flavius.

The Syrians, then at the height of their power, expected to find in the Jews a weak and defenceless people, incapable of organized resistance. The process of subjugating the Jews had been going on for some time. The Syrians sought to impose their political and religious control upon the Jews. While they were meek and unresisting in the face of the political control of the Syrians, the Jews balked when they sought to have them accept the Hallenic religion in place of the ancient Jewish religion. They began their resistance when the Syrians pressed into the Temple at Jerusalem and desecrated the holy places.

The actual revolt started in the town of Modin by the priest Mattathias, the father of the Maccabees. Mattathias was a country-bred Jew, powerful in physique, and of great determination. When a company of Syrian soldiers attempted to force the Jews of Modin to sacrifice upon the heathen altar, Mattathias slew the captain, and with a large number of Jews withdrew to the mountains. There they were joined by other Jews, and for a number of years waged guerilla warfare against the Syrians. Several armies were sent against them, and met defeat. Finally, after Mattathias had passed away, and several of his sons were slain in battle, the Jews, under Judas Maccabaeus, re-entered Jerusalem, rekindled the lights in the Temple and re-established the supremacy of the Jews in their own land.

The Jews commemorate this victory by lighting candles the seven days of Hanukah. The holiday is a festive one. In the homes, games are played, gifts are exchanged, and special dainties are prepared for the children. Emphasis is placed upon the moral victory wrested from the Syrians, the victory of the true religion over the false, the victory of the "Jewish God over the heathen idols."

A large committee is at work in Plainfield making arrangements for the Zion Flag Day on December 9. Committees will offer for sale in the Jewish neighborhood miniature Zionist flags, the proceeds of which are to go to the National Fund. The funds collected will be used for the maintenance of the National Fund colonies and farms in Palestine and for otherwise providing relief by employment for the Jews in the Holy Land.

DRAFT BOARD PREPARING TO SEND OUT QUESTIONNAIRES

The Plainfield District Exemption Board is preparing to send a copy of the questionnaire to every drafted man in the district, following out instructions from Washington.

The blanks must be filled out and returned within seven days after they are received. If this is not done delinquents will eb advanced in line so as to be the next ones to go to camp.

War Time Burdens Aided by Behman Show

With war imposing its burdens of heartache and sorrow upon the citizens of the United States in ever-increasing measure there has come to the producers of entertainment of every sort a new duty that is not least of those imposed by the great conflict upon the patriotic citizens of this country. Who shall say that taking the minds of some thousands of the country's people from thoughts of grief and numbing care and returning them to their more serious tasks refreshed is not an action well worth while to the welfare of the nation?

Such is the part the burlesque producers of the country, at least the more progressive of them, will play in the forthcoming events which will dominate the mental and physical activities of the United States. The "The Barrel of Death" has been seen in all the leading theatres of the country and comes to this city who would charm the thoughts o any man away from his cares and troubles as well as those of his country and send him back to his work the better able to perform it for a few hours spent wholly away from it.

Ametta Pynes, with Jack Singer's Behman Show, at the Plainfield Theatre, Tuesday, Mat. and Night, December 11.

Big "Thriller" on Vaudeville Program

With "The Barrel of Death" as the big attraction, vaudeville returned to the Plainfield Theatre today for the remainder of the week and the new bill of six acts promises to be one of the best of the season. "The Barrel of Death" is a marvelous bicycle offering which defies all laws of gravitation and gives the spectators a succession of thrills. The company presenting it is headed by the "Mile a Minute Girl," who creates a sensation by her fearlessness and daring. "The Barrel of Death" has been seen in all the leading theatres of the country and comes to this city highly recommended.

The other five numbers on the program, which will be continued tomorrow, are made up by De Corcia Brothers, scenic posing act; Conrad, "wire and singer of his own songs;" Carrolton and Company, in the dramatic sketch, "The Bet;" the Hudson Sisters and Babe Smith, comedy singing, talking and dancing, and Allman and Sykes, comedians.

The Pathe News Review continues to be a pleasing feature at all Plainfield performances and a new one will be displayed on the screen today and tomorrow. It shows a number of occurences of great interest that have been recorded in the newspapers during the past two weeks and also presents several new views of Uncle Sam's fighting forces. There will be other Pathe films for the lovers of the "silent drama."

Behman Show, Which Comes to the Plainfield Theatre Next Tuesday, Matinee and Night, No Doubt Save of Providing Entertainment of Just This Type Has Been Allowed to Obtrude.

Jack Singer, producer and owner of the offering, believes that in it he has furnished the acme of war time amusement.

In the cast will be found Harry Lang, Vic Casmore, George Douglas and Jack Honan, all tried and true comedians of the burlesque stage, and Ameta Pynes, Lucille Mannion, Fred Florence, Blanchard and Chapman and Marie Sjarrow, Mr. Singer's new discovery.

Then, of course, there is the chorus, made up of young women such relaxation be found as is provided in the light, frothy entertainment, bedecked with attractive girls and tuneful airs which makes up burlesque?

"Benny" Rosenson Honored by Friends

Benjamin Rosenson, son of Mrs. I. Rosenson, of 720 Richmond street, was accepted for national service during the past week and after passing all necessary examinations was given a position in the Quartermasters' Corps. He is now located at Fort Slocum, receiving his preliminary training and from which point he will be transferred to one of the units being organized for duty in the field.

Mr. Rosenson has been employed as secretary to F. C. Chamberlain, of the Calco Chemical Works at Bound Brook and the office staff of this concern gave the young man a delightful farewell dinner. It took place at the works and Mr. Chamberlain gave a splendid address in which he extended congratulations to Mr. Rosenson on the step he had taken. In behalf of the office staff he presented the Plainfielder with a handsome pair of puttees. A second gift of a comfort kit came from the young women in Mr. Chamberlain's office. The recipient made an appropriate address of thanks in each instance.

Mr. Rosenson was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1914. During his scholastic course, he enjoyed a wide local reputation for excellence in athletics. A diversion he has kept up until the present time. He was a member of both the baseball and basketball teams for several years and part of the time acted as captain. Since leaving school he has played on the T. A. B. basketball team and this season has been one of the stars of the Plainfield Five, which plays games with strong outside teams every Wednesday night at Saengerbund Hall. His absence in the city will be very noticeable, especially in athletic circles and in the work of the Y. M. H. A., where he was active for a long time. The latter organization recently presented him with a beautiful gold wrist watch.

BAUER BECOMES REGISTER; DEPUTY NOT APPOINTED.

Edward A. Bauer was sworn in as register of deeds and mortgages of Union county by Judge James C. Connolly the present week. Mr. Bauer assumes the duties formerly performed by Register Frank H. Smith, who has been sworn in as State Banking Commissioner, having been named by Governor Walter E. Edge.

Numerous floral tributes, one fro mthe office staff and another from friends of Mr. Bauer, graced his desk. The entire office staff was present, as well as many friends of the new register when the oath was administered. Judge Connolly was one of the first to congratulate Mr. Bauer.

No announcement has as yet been made as the choice of a deputy register for the office, the matter being in the hands of the Republican County Committee for its decision.

A new aspect was presented in the deputy race today, when announcement was made that Clifford B. Gehring, freeholder-elect from Rahway, was out of the running.

Mr. Gehring points to his successful race for the freeholder position and the heavy vote cast in his behalf and takes the view that he is not justified in seeking another position until he had filled the one to which the city of Rahway has elected him.

The practical elimination of Mr. Gehring leaves the race open to William L. B. Helmstadter, a receiver of taxes in Rahway, and Harold S. Buckler, also of Rahway, a clerk in Sheriff James E. Warner's office.

All Plainfield Mourns First Son to Die a Hero

Daniel Arthur Compton, Killed in France, Will Be Honored by Memorial Service in Friends' Meeting House Tonight

The brief cablegram message which came to this city last Sunday bringing news of the death on a French battlefield, of Daniel Arthur Compton, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Compton, of 317 East Third street brought Plainfield into closer contact with the war than at any time since hostilities were declared against Germany on April 6. The demise of the young man was the first that has occurred within the list of local volunteers and the circumstances bring a still deeper tinge that the youthful hero was an absolute volunteer, serving his country without pay. The official statement sets forth that interment will take place in Paris but every effort is being made to have the body brought to Plainfield and as the lad was not an enlisted soldier it is believed this can be accomplished.

The meagre facts of the young Plainfielder's death were first conveyed to Richard Williams, of Dorrow avenue, local representative for the ReconstructionUnit of the American Friends Service Committee, in which Daniel Arthur Compton had been performing his work. It befell Mr. William's duty to break the sombre news to the father and mother, who only six weeks previously had bidden farewell to their son, as he started out to serve his country. Complete information could not be given them, as the cold official communication came by way of Headquarters at Philadelphia and simply stated that he had fell victim to the enemy. It was intimated that he had been engaged in ambulance work but this is not certain as the boy was not listed for any such occupation. If he was on an ambulance it was probably as a litter bearer, offering himself to be of help in this department because he saw he was needed. The Reconstruction Unit to which he belonged was intended only for work behind the lines, the membership being made up of Friends whose denominational belief placed them in non-combatant service.

Daniel Arthur Compton, was the son of Ephriam and Anna C. Compton and had always lived in Plainfield. He first attended the Bryant school going from there to the Grammar and High school departments. He left the High school after finishing the Sophomore year, to enter Herr's school for a business course. His first employment was with John J. Praed, the Park avenue tailor, from whose place he went to the Rate Department of the New Jersey Central, at the Jersey City offices.

The young man had made splendid progress with the Railroad company and was in line for deserved advancement when he determined to lend his aid to the government. As one friend clearly defines it, "His sacrifice of a fine position to follow the call for service in Europe shows the quality of his training and character, and his recognition of a higher duty than to one's self."

The boy was very fond of athletics being especially proficient as a swimmer and possessed all the buoyancy of youthful spirits. It was some time in September that he decided to do something for his country and as he was too young to enter the regular branches of non-combatant work he made application to

A Tribute

"Daniel Arthur Compton sleeps tonight in the 'Bivouac Of The Dead.' France, with gentle hands, has laid, broad across his silent heart, the Wampum-Belt of a brave American Gentleman, who died on her far-flung battle lines, in defense of the Doctrines of Jesus Christ.

"The choice of service was his, and in accordance with his prerogative as a man, and his Birthright as an American, he choose the highest and most noble—the service of Mercy, the Red Cross of Geneva.

"He might have sold that Birthright—even as did Esau of old, and live—A sluggard's life of ease, and die—a slacker's unmourned death. But, true to every color in the Flag of his Country, he joined the ranks of the gallant young Crusaders who left our City, and it was his fate to be the first amongst them to 'Kiss the Cross,' and silently march away.

"We who 'Only Stand And Wait' but in that waiting also serve, can do no less than give to them who have won the Palm, in the red arena of war, the full tribute of our praise.

"Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Compton and the City of Plainfield have lost a worthy Son. And the United States of America has added another name to its long, bright Roll of Honor.

"Palmam qui meruit ferat

"J. WATSON."

"Baby" Blizzard Hits the City

A blustering "baby" blizzard of the type that has been hampering rescue work at Halifax struck Plainfield last night. In consequence, railroad and trolley service was practically put out of commission, automobiles were stalled all over the city and telephone, telegraph and fire alarm wires were broken down. Scores of persons were marooned for the night in the North avenue railway station, while many others were compelled to remain in blocked trolleys until an early hour this morning. No trains came in from the East until 9 o'clock and those from Philadelphia and points west and Somerville were from three to four hours late up to noon.

The snow came down with such blinding forces that it was almost impossible to see more than a few feet ahead, making vehicular traffic very dangerous. One collision occurred between two automobiles belonging to Barry Brothers and narrowly escaped injuring Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Hetfield, who were being taken to their home after the Red Cross meeting. The two machines came together head-on at Park avenue and East Ninth street, neither driver seeing the other until too late. Both cars were badly damaged. Charles Barry and Clarence Higgins, the drivers, suffered a severe shaking up.

A Union trolley car, which left the city on an eastward trip at about 11 o'clock, managed to get to a point on East Second street, between Berckman street and Johnston avenue, where it gave up the struggle. The conveyance was filled with people living in Scotch Plains and Westfield most of them preferring to remain in the warm car to taking a chance on walking. They were not rescued until nearly 8 o'clock this morning. Several of the women passengers became hysterical through the night and were given "first aid treatment" by Miss Eleanor Schenck, of Scotch Plains, a graduate nurse, who was one of the marooned party.

The snowfall amounted to about fifteen inches on the level and drifted badly when a high wind sprang up about midnight.

Richard Burke Among First to Help at Halifax

While Plainfield people through the medium of the newspapers were viewing at long distance, the horrors following the frightful calamity at Halifax, Nova Scotia, last week, Richard Burke, Jr., of 440 East Fifth street was in the midst of the terrible scene. As a Naval fireman attached to the U. S. Auxiliary cruiser, "Old Colony", he was in the Halifax harbor only a mile away from the ill-fated munition ship, "Mont Blanc" when the latter blew up following a collision with a Belgium Relief vessel. The "Old Colony" was to have docked that same day directly next the berth held by the "Mont Blanc" but arriving in the outer bay just at sundown the night before, was held outside for the usual government inspection before being allowed in town. The cruiser was badly shaken by the force of the explosion but suffered no damage.

The entire crew was immediately ordered ashore for relief work and this detachment was the first to begin the rescue of the helpless men, women and children caught beneath demolished buildings.

An idea of the scenes that greeted the eyes of Mr. Burke and his comrades may be gleaned from the following letter received from him Wednesday morning by his mother, Mrs. Richard Burke, also of 440 East Fifth street.

Halifax, N. S.
Dec. 1917

Dear Mother,

Just a few lines to let you know I am allright as I know by this time you must have heard of the terrible disaster at Halifax and fear that I might have been in it. Well, I wasn't exactly in it but was not very far away as we were to dock the next morning along side the ship that blew up. Our arrival in the harbor just at sundown is all that kept us from getting in the midst of the fearful explosion. We are at the dock now and our ship is being used as a hospital as all the places in town are full of wounded people.

Immediately after the fearful concussion, we launched our life boats, and went to the scene of the wreck, are, being the first ones on the job. We were out all day going into wrecked buildings to bring out people either dead or alive. These we took to our ship and at the present time have about 100 on board. Many of them were killed outright and some of the others may yet pass away. They say that there must be at least 2,000 dead in the city.

I am sure you cannot imagine how terrible it all is as fully half of the town was blown up. There is one woman dead on our ship with her lifeless baby still held in her arms just as we found them in their demolished home. The party from our ship went into what had once been a school and there in their seats, just as they had been sitting, at their lessons, were the bodies of the children, crushed without a moments warning. Many of the victims were killed outright in the streets through pieces from the munition ship landing squarely on their heads and crushing their skulls. It will be at least a week before they can find all the people as scores of them are still under buildings. We went along one street and it seemed that everywhere we looked there were women and children dying. It certainly was a most awful sight but the sailor boys did splendid work, sticking to their task and even exertion themselves harder than the army men stationed in the town. I tell you, the people here think now there is nobody like the U. S. Sailor boys. The fire which started after the explosion is still burning and furnishes a terrible but wonderful spectacle. We had to stand watch all last night with orders to shoot anyone who came near our ship and believe me we would do it too. I guess I will get a little sleep tonight as things are fairly quiet.

Well, as it is getting late and I have had no sleep since Wednesday I will close with best wishes to all at home and kind regards to my friends in Plainfield.

Your loving son,
Dick

Previous to his enlistment, Mr. Burke, who has lived in this city practically all his life, was employed by Borough Mayor William L. Smalley at his Park avenue meat market. Directly after war was declared on April 6 the young man entered the naval service and in the seven months that he has been in the navy he has received two promotions. He is now rated as a first class fireman and in this canacity has crossed the Atlantic half a dozen times on auxiliary cruisers. He is a brother to Miss James McDonough, of East Fifth street and "Jack" Burke, who left Plainfield about nine years ago and is now a successful ranchman near Alpaso, Texas.

Wife Hysterical As Husband Departs With Selected Men

Eleven more selected men from the Plainfield district left for Camp Dix, Wrightstown, yesterday morning as the next five per cent. of the quota of 203 ordered out by the Government. The contingent left the North Avenue station on the 9:20 train amid a big send-off from a crowd of relatives and friends. A touching commotion was caused by one young woman who was married recently and whose husband was numbered in the group, becoming hysterical at the last moment. She fainted several times and finally had to be taken to the station for the application of restoratives.

The eleven men were called before the Exemption Board Wednesday afternoon to receive final instructions from Chairman W. R. Codington. Each one received as a gift from the Business Men's Association a kit of tobacco and a pen knife, while from the local Chapter of the Red Cross they received a package containing the following articles: A sleeveless sweater, a muffler, a helmet, wristlets and a comfort kit.

After the official list of eleven men had been announced, it was found that James M. Cullen, son of Frank Cullen, the South Second street grocer, was in Washington and might not return in time to go with the contingent. As a precaution, Lisle A. Boechling, of 1022 West Front street, employed at the local postoffice as a clerk, was designated to take Mr. Cullen's place. He was in readiness to go but the original man showed up in time.

The contingent was made up of the following: Sylvester L. Beatty, Clarence S. Giles, Walter DeNitzio, Charles E. Green, William Armerding, Dominick Marro, David Schwartz, James M. Cullen, Charles Trano Arthur Wyckoff and Clarence Coles.

Mrs. Frederick Hoffmeister, of Jackson avenue, Netherwood, is still in a precarious condition at Muhlenberg Hospital, to which she was taken four weeks ago after receiving frightful burns through her clothing igniting from a coal grate flame. It is seldom that a patient suffering from burns remains in practically the same state for so long a period and the physicians are still undecided as to the outcome of her injuries.

Taft Addresses Large Audience

MORE THAN TWELVE HUNDRED PEOPLE DEFY STORM TO ATTEND RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE RALLY.

The "opening gun" in the Red Cross Christmas Membership Campaign for 6,000 new members in the Plainfield district was "fired" at the Plainfield High School last night, when more than 1,200 people braved the storm to attend a rally meeting. The big feature of the affair, aside from the Red Cross spirit, was the presence of former President William Howard Taft, chairman of the Red Cross, who gave a most stirring address on the wonderful work being accomplished by the greatest relief organization in the world.

President Taft has been heard in Plainfield on three previous occasions, but never did he make such a remarkable impression. His speech was replete with graphic views of America's relief needs at the front, of the amount of work already done and remaining to be done, of what it means to have every man, woman and child aiding in the Red Cross undertakings and numerous other details that arouse his hearers to a high pitch of enthusiasm. There was just enough unctuous humor in the address to lighten the sordid accounts of Red Cross succor, and when the former chief executive of the United States returned to his seat the rapturous applause continued for several minutes.

Another splendid address was given by George O. Tamblyn, executive secretary of the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross. Charles W. McCutchen, of North Plainfield, presided as chairman and introduced both speakers. Henry W. Rowley, baritone soloist, led the audience in singing patriotic songs. Instrumental music was furnished by the Dutch Arms Band.

The Christmas membership campaign will actually began next Monday morning and will continue to December 24, inclusive. It is honed to have at least 6,000 new names enrolled in the local chapter of the Red Cross by that time, the Plainfield district including North Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Watchung, South Plainfield and New Market. Former Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, is acting as canmaign manager; George L. Babcock will be in charge of the office at 241 Park avenue; Dr. James M. Joy will be publicity manager, and W. H. Baxley, E. R. Ackerman, and C. B. Tyler will form a speakers' bureau. The general campaign committee is composed of George L. Babcock, W. H. Baxley, F. J. Hubbard, Samuel Rothberg and Francis L. Sill. There is also a Christmas membership committee which will include E. R. Ackerman, George L. Babcock, Rev. B. M. Bogan, W. H. Baxley, Mayor Leighton Calkins, Louis K. Hyde, F. J. Hubbard, James R. Joy, C. W. Mettchen, Mrs C. W. Mettchen, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Samuel Rothberg, Francis L. Sill, Mayor W. L. Smalley, Cornelius R. Tyler, Mrs. Frank D. Warren and O. T. Waring.

Will Prosecute on False Value Charge

At a special meeting of the Business Men's Association last night, the members voted unanimously to take legal action against Syman Hirsch, the West Front street ladies' tailor, for alleged misrepresentation of values. The matter was brought to the attention of the association by Mrs. Paul E. Wisch, of Mercer avenue, who asserted that Mr. Hirsch had a suit in his window bearing a price tag marked "$13.98," but that when she attempted to purchase it for this amount, he declared she must pay $30. After considerable discussion, Mrs. Wisch claims Mr. Hirsch reduced the price to $25, but refused to go below that figure.

When the transaction was brought to the attention of the Business Men, a committee was appointed to make a full investigation. Its report was submitted last night and after a two-hour discussion the vote was taken to begin prosecution. The case will be taken before Judge William C. DeMeza in the city court for a preliminary hearing, and Mrs Wisch stands ready to press her complaint. The case will be handled for the Business Men's Association by its legal representative, Martin B. Stutesman, assisted by Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield.

The New Jersey statutes embody a law which makes it a misdemeanor for any person to falsely advertise or misrepresent values of articles offered for public sale. It will be noted that the Business Men's Association will press the complaint against Mr. Hirsch. It is stated that at least two other local merchants have been arrested about for the same reason and their cases are now being considered.

Contractor Files Protest Against City Hall Delay

Den. J. Galbraith, Losing Money by Tie-up, Tells Mayor He Will Seek Reimbursement From Citizens

Still another phase to the City Hall tie-up complication was added this week when Den. J. Galbraith, plumbing contractor on the job, made known to Mayor Calkins by means of an open letter that he would hold the citizens of Plainfield responsible for financial loss incurred through the present stoppage of work and any that might occur, through further delay, in the future.

In his communication, Mr. Galbraith intimates that he was not consulted in the proceedings which changed the general contract, taking it from the P. F. Kenny Company in favor of P. F. Kenney as an individual. He did not acquiesce in the new agreement, he says, and therefore should not be compelled to stand any financial loss. Beside Mr. Galbraith, there are two other individual contractors on the City Hall who are being affected in a similar manner. These are Ryder & Graves, who are doing the electrical work, and A. J. Miller, installing the heating apparatus. Mr. Galbraith's letter in full is as follows:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield:

Leighton Calkins, Mayor.

Honorable Sir:—

In all cases where several contractors are encaged in work upon a building, there exists a dependence of one upon another in the matter of a proper opportunity of each to complete his work speedily and profitably. In my contract for the plumbing work of the municipal building between the several contractors is emphasized by the form of single document which all were required to sign, and in which the time for the completion of the building was fixed.

Since no material change can be made in any one of the contracts without affecting the interests of the other contractors, it is my opinion that the consent of all should have been obtained and their interests safeguarded before the city entered upon a completely new agreement for the completion of the general construction work of the building.

I wish, therefore, to notify you formally, that I have not acquiesced in the new agreement referred to, and am not willing to accept any consequences of it that may be to my disadvantage; and that I shall hold the city responsible for losses I have suffered and in the future may suffer as a result of the situation which has been brought about by the change made, as well as for the general injury consequent upon the failure of the city to have the building ready for the completion of the plumbing work within the time originally designated.

Respectfully submitted,
DEN. J. GALBRAITH.

Pleasing Programs For C. O. S. Benefit At P. H. S. Tomorrow

A delightful Christmas entertainment for children, for the benefit of the Charity Organization Society, will be given at the High School Auditorium tomorrow afternoon and evening, December 15. The programs for the five performances are different so that all the children and grown-ups should go to both and enjoy the added features which are offered. The price is extremely low; only twenty-five cents a ticket.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Maxwell Perkins will present a Christmas sketch, Punch and Judy will delight both young and old, a trick man will perform and moving pictures for the children will be shown.

The doors will be opened at 2 and a sale of ten-cent grabs and dressed dolls at reasonable prices makes it advisable to be early.

The evening performance will offer a remarkable film of the latest war pictures, and a fun-maker in one of George Ade's "Fables." The trick man will be on hand with a new group of tricks, and prizes will be awarded for the posters, which were made by school children.

Let all the fathers and mothers go with the children and thereby not only have a happy time themselves, but help the C. O. S. in its work in the town for the coming winter.

The following people are generously sending groups of children otherwise unable to go. Anyone who wishes to secure such groups can do so by telephoning Miss Corey, 1010.

Five Men Appointed To Fire Department

Five new men were added to the city fire department during the past week to take the places of a similar number of appointees who left the service during the past few weeks. The newcomers are: Frank Reynolds, Victor Crook, Edward Murphy, Harry Mowrey and Herbert Reinman, all have been retained at headquarters with the exception of Mowrey, who has been placed at number three house to succeed Arthur Erber, the latter being transferred up town. Reynolds was formerly assistant driver in the North Plainfield department, leaving the service on the other side of the brook only a short time ago.

The new men take the place of Frank Ingraham, James McDonough, William C. Ryder, William Mahon and Clinton Conover, all of whom left to take other positions. Conover was the last to go, tendering his resignation last Saturday in order to begin work the following Monday at the Century Rubber Works on North avenue. The department now has practically its full quota and the serious shortage which resulted through the loss of so many men has been overcome.

New Christmas Club Begins December 24

The opening of the Plainfield Trust Company's Christmas Club has been one of the annual events to which Plainfield eagerly looks forward. This year the date has been set for December 24th and every preparation has been made for operating the club on a larger scale than ever.

The company's spacious, airy building enables it to conduct the Christmas Club under ideal conditions and with the new coupon system which will do away with the long waits, the success of the new club is assured. The little coupon book which can be carried in the pocket or hand bag will be found much more convenient than the old form of card. The 1918 club will have four classes providing for weekly payments of 50 cents, $1, $2 and $5.

The Plainfield Trust Company's 1917 Christmas club amounted to over $315,000, and the effect of the distribution yesterday of this large amount of money is being felt throughout the entire city.

In addition to the regular club checks, the Trust Company has sent checks to the six successful contestants which was held last February, as follows: Mrs. P. R. Beckman, 83 Fairview avenue; Mrs. F. W. Leitheuser, 712 East Second street; R. P. Johnson, 153 Westervelt avenue; George C. M. Smith, 51 Crane place; Mrs. C. L. Langdon, 648 Belvidere avenue, and Gerdinand L. Drechsler, 317 Monroe avenue. The advertisements submitted showed real merit and were judged by a committee consisting of Messrs. H. W. Webb, president of the Merchants' National Bank of New Haven, Conn.; Ledyard Cogswell, Jr., vice president of the New York State National Bank of Albany, New York, and DeWitt Hubbell, secretary and treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company. Thousands of Christmas club members from the New England States, New York and New Jersey competed for the one hundred and twenty-seven cash prizes. The first prize of $100 was awarded to Mrs. Frederick Johnston, of Watertown, N. Y.

Record's Sporting Editor First and Second All-Scholastic Football Teams For Union County

FIRST TEAM.		Second TEAM.
M. Snyder, Plainfield		Salzman, Battin left end
Pennell, Battin		Bauer, Rahway left tackle
Taylor, Battin		Olson, Rahway
	left guard
Kline, Plainfield		Jacobson, Battin
	centre
Hammann, Plainfield		Simon, Battin right guard
Glacken, Battin		Johnston, Plainfield right tackle
Husbands, Battin		Mossman, Rahway right end
T. Snyder, Plainfield		Jones, Rahway
	quarterback
Ruby, Battin		Mills, Plainfield left halfback
Moore, Pingry		Gallaway, Roselle
	right halfback
Schmidlin, Battin		Dix, Westfield
	fullback

After weighing the merits of the players of nine Union County High School football teams, the record's sporting editor has chosen the twenty-two best players, and has placed them on the first and second teams according to their ability. The selections for the first team are identical with those of last Sunday's Newark Call, and they may be regarded as authoritative, inasmuch as the Call is the recognized judge.

Battin, rated even for State honors with Trenton, has six men on the first team, of which Ruby and Schmidlin are all-State men. Plainfield "placed" four, and Pingry one. Rahway has fared best on the second team, having four; Battin, three; Plainfield, two, and Westfield and Roselle one each.

The selections follow:

Ends: Roy Husbands, of Battin, and Mart Snyder, of Plainfield, loom out as the best combination for this wing positions. Husbands has played as a defensive end, and offensive quarter for Battin, and he hasn't had as much chance to develop in one position as most players have, but he can deliver the goods at end just the same, and he is one of the best in this section of the State. Mart Snyder is known for his speed in getting down under punts, and is a sure catcher of forward passes. We rank him a trifle above Salzman, of Battin, and Mossman, of Rahway.

Tackles: Battin furnishes both first team tackles, Glacken and Capt. Pennell. The Elizabeth captain has been Battin's mainstay in the line, and Glacken makes a good mate for him. Johnson, of Plainfield, and Bauer, of Rahway, are given the positions on the second team.

Guards: John Hammann, of Plainfield, and Taylor, of Battin, are the choices for the guard positions. Hammann has shown up well in every game Plainfield High School has played this season, especially in the North Side encounter. Taylor has earned his spurs, and is rightfully conceded the left guard position. Simons, of Battin, and Olson, of Rahway, also come in for commendation.

Centre: There can be no doubt of Morris Kline's right to the first team position. He has been the backbone of the local's line, and he cannot be praised too highly. Jacobson, Battin's centre, is given the second team job.

Quarterback: "Polly" Snyder is elected pilot of the team. His great open-field runing, and has ability to elude tackler after tackler has drawn the attention of experts, and the Newark Call has placed him a director of one of the northern New Jersey teams. He can play either full or quarter, and he is used at quarter to make way for Schmidlin. The choice for the second team quarter is a hard one to make. Jones, of Rahway, and Coen, of Westfield, are both good men, and Jones is given the preference because of his aggressiveness.

Halves: The great Ruby, of Battin, is unanimously given one of the halves, and George Moore, of Pingry, is given the choice for the other over Plainfield's idol, Mills. Moore has been practically the whole Pingry team, and his worthiness can be recognized when he is placed above Mills. Gallaway, of Roselle, is lightly superior to such stars as Church of Battin; Hand, of Plainfield; Morris, of Cranford, and Brown, of Rahway.

Fullback: Carl Schmidlin, Battin's "maneater," is a wonder, and when the "steam-roller" into any line, it is bound to give way. Everyone who has seen him play says there is no one else in sight for the first team. Dix, of Westfield, is accorded second choice.

The teams are easily rated—Battin, Plainfield, Roselle, Rahway, Pingry, Cranford, Westfield, Scotch Plains and Summit.—in the order named. Roselle and Battin were both undefeated, but Roselle has not met the calibre of opponents that either Plainfield or Battin have. Rahway is placed above Pingry for the same reason.

Ray Vincent Enlists In Ordnance Department

Local enlistments reported during the past week include that of Ray Vincent, of East Second street, who for the past three years has been employed at Knight Fawcett's Queen City Laundry on Fillmore avenue. He was assigned to the Ordnance Department and left yesterday for Fort Slocum. He will be placed in the laundry division as this is the work in which he is an expert of the kind which the government great ly needs.

Mr. Vincent is a native of Springfield, Mass., where he conducted a laundry of his own for several years. Deciding to make a change, he sold the place to other parties and took a position in New York. He gave this up to come to Plainfield and from the time he first made his home here was greatly liked by all with whom he came in contact. He was a member of the Quillers' Club, which gave him a farewell reception at the Washington Hotel, Saturday night, previous to his departure for Springfield Sunday morning. He spent the forepart of the week with relatives in that city, after which he returned to Plainfield Wednesday night. Mr. Vincent will be greatly missed from his immediate circle of friends who extend best wishes for his safe return after useful service for the government.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Margaret McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCarthy, of Orchard place, to Harry Gould, of West Third street. The wedding date has not been set.

Irving Pratt Promoted To a Corporalship

Recent promotions announced from Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga., give that of Irving Pratt, of this city, who has been advanced from private to corporal in the 325th U. S. Infantry. He has also been cited for meritorious work and the possibility is that the young Plainfielder may be advanced another step before a very great while.

Previous to his becoming a member of the National Army, Corporal Pratt was employed at the State Trust Company. Through his position there and the fact that he was one of the most active members of the Probasco Bible Class at the First Baptist church, he had made hundreds of acquaintances who are pleased to learn of his success. After first leavine Plainfield, he was stationed at Wrightstown as a member of the 311th Infantry and was planning to come home for the Thanksgiving furlough when his transfer took place. He was keenly disappointed at not being able to pass the holiday in town; but, like the true soldier, put aside his individual desires for the good of the service. There is a possibility now that he may get to Plainfield for the Christmas leave of absence.

Corporal Pratt is the youngest son of the late Rev. Dr. Pratt, whose home was on Putnam avenue, and a brother to Dr. C. Howard Pratt, of East Fifth street.

EDWARD MOHS ENLISTS

Edward Mohs, son of former sheriff Frank Mohs, of Watchung avenue, the bronzen, yesterday enlisted in the Engineers Corps. He will be assigned to duty this week.

Lieutenant Hibbard Writes From France

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Hibbard, of East Seventh street, received a letter this week from their son, Lyman C. Hubbard, who has been in France for nearly a year. It was the first news that had come from him since the recent activities in which the American Expeditionary Forces have been taking part about Cambrai and they were consequently greatly relieved to learn that although his command had been at the front all had returned in safety.

Mr. Hibbard went abroad as a member of the Yale ambulance unit and for six months did splendid service in this branch. For bravery under fire, he was awarded the Croix de Guerre and mentioned in the official French communications. After completing his ambulance service, Mr. Hibbard expressed his desire to try for a commission and unlike many of his associates was not compelled to return to America for examinations. Because of his splendid record and the field service he had secured he was permitted to remain in France, eventually receiving a commission as second lieutenant in the artillery division.

In the letter to his parents, the young officer mentions the fact that his company was included in the first division sent to the front with the Stars and Stripes. The primary purpose was to locate their guns at certain vantage points, a feat which was accomplished in safety and with absolute distinction. The men of this particular unit are underging strict army life, living in the open despite "atrocious" weather. It has been raining nearly every day since the present activities began and the mud is "knee deep" everywhere, but the Yankee boys keep their fires going and maintain that same optimistic spirit that governs the troops still in comfortable caps at home. Lieutenant Hibbard has kept in touch with affairs in Plainfield and declares it has been a great source of satisfaction to himself to note the patriotic spirit that pervades the breasts of the local boys. As he puts it himself, he is more than glad to realize "that there are no slackers in the home town, and that each and every one in Plainfield is anxious to do his bit."

Fuel Commissioner Stops Newark Men Buying Coal Here

Official sanction of John J. Kenney's appointment as a member of the Union County Fuel administration had no sooner been given to chairman John English, of Elizabeth, than the Plainfield man was on the job. As a result, the practice several Newark men had of coming to this city for coal and taking it back in auto truck loads for peddling purposes in Essex county was immediately stopped. Newark has been very short of fuel and householders have been put to all sorts of extremes to get even a small quantity to ward off the severe cold of the past week.

A ruling of Federal Commissioner Garfield prohibits coal being taken from one county to another for retail purposes and it was the enforcement of this law that gave Mr. Kenney the opportunity to protect Plainfield from outside schemes. The local dealers were given to understand that the coal purchased by the Newark men was intended for distribution within this district and were unaware that Government instructions were being violated. Up to the present time, Plainfield has been fairly well provided with coal, far more so than nearby communities, but there is no telling how long it will be before the pinch is felt here, consequently Mr. Kenney proposes to take no chance. He did a little "sleuthing" on his own account to lay hold of the Newark men who were coming here and made it plain to them that the continuance of the practice would result in their arrest. It is said that the dealers took the coal back to their home city and peddled it by the bushel at a rate which, if sold by the ton, would amount to eleven dollars.

Mr. Kenney stated to a Record reporter yesterday that he would gladly receive any complaint against coal dealers using unfair methods or charging exorbitant prices in the distribution of coal. These complaints, however, must be made in person as no attention will be paid to telephone or call communications, although these methods may be used to pass information.

"If we hear of extortionate rates," said Mr. Kenney, "prior to the fixing of prices by the State Administrator, we will resort such violations to him, and men will be recommended to wholesalers and consequently favored by them."

The Test of An Undertaker

Like doctors, lawyers, and other professional men, the undertaker has a reputation to maintain. The up-to-date funeral director nowadays attends conventions, studies his trade publications and keeps abreast of the improvements of the times.

Just as an experiment, sometimes, ask any live, up-to-date undertaker about the Norwalk Vault. A leader won't wait to be asked; he will tell you at the first opportunity a dozen reasons why the Norwalk has been accepted throughout the country as the very foundation of the modern, sanitary burial. "OVER THE TOP"

For 6,000 new members in Plainfield by December 24 in the big Red Cross Christmas Membership Drive.

TEN REASONS

FOR JOINING THE RED CROSS TODAY.

1. The Red Cross is the only national relief organization in the United States authorized by Congress to give aid to the army and navy.
2. It is the most direct way for any individual to care for his brother, son, or husband in the army or navy.
3. At the present time it has the confidence of the American people to the extent that five million people have become members.
4. Its funds are so administered that more cents out of your dollar go to relief work than through any other relief organization in America, for it is directed by business men of national reputation—all of them volunteers—who are able to keep the expenses of administration at a minimum.
5. It is preparing to care for not only American boys, but, as far as possible, the soldiers of the Allies.
6. It is providing food, shelter, and clothing for the widows and little children of the millions of disabled and dead soldiers of the allied armies.
7. It is going to undertake on a vast scale to make maimed American soldiers and sailors economically independent.
8. By its vast organization and transportation facilities, it is able to apportion and distribute hospital supplies among the allied armies effectively and promptly, according to their needs.
9. It is the most distinctively AMERICAN organization in the country, overlooking race, creed, and color, recognizing only need.
10. It stands squarely back of the President, the army and navy, and the ideals of democracy symbolized by the flag.

What Is Your American Red Cross?

A NATIONAL VOLUNTEER RELIEF ORGANIZATION

President Wilson heads it.
Congress authorizes it.
The War Department audits its accounts.
Pershing in France approves it.
It is working for your Army.
It is working for your Navy.
It is working for your Allies
It is working for YOU.

What Is It Doing?

IT IS PROVIDING—

Fifty movable Base Hospitals, completely equipped with the best physicians, surgeons and nurses in the country.
Ambulance companies.
400 Sanitary Training Detachments to train men for the army medical corps.
Huge supply depots strategically situated to receive and distribute supplies of every kind to our soldiers and sailors.
Information Bureaus to provide prompt means of communication between enlisted men and their families.
Refreshment Units to care for troops in transit.
Home service for families of soldiers and sailors.

LET A GREATER RED CROSS BE YOUR CHRISTMAS GIFT TO OUR FIGHTING MEN

The $100,000,000 War Fund

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE WITH IT

Since the War Fund became available the Red Cross has sent commissions to France, Russia, Italy, Roumania and Salonica.

The French Commission has a staff of 864 persons, 517 serving without pay.

We are sending supplies to 3,423 French military hospitals.

We serve 30,000 soldiers daily at our canteens in France.

We are caring for thousands of French and Belgian children and refugees.

We have established warehouses in France with a capacity of 100,000 tons.

We have established a sanitarium with 1,000 beds for tuberculosis patients.

We are carrying on extensive relief work in Belgium.

We operate an ambulance service which transports 1,000 refugees a day.

We are carrying on repair work in devastated towns.

We have sent 3,000,000 pounds of milk for Russian babies.

We have given $1,000,000 to the families of sick and wounded French soldiers.

We have given $1,000,000 to the British Red Cross.

AND WE HAVE ONLY JUST BEGUN!

Be ready to join when the canvasser calls. Members more than money the aim.

Don't forget the boys "Over There" and make your Christmas a Red Cross Christmas.

ACCOMMODATIONS NEEDED FOR CONTAGION CASES.

In the last monthly report issued by the Board of Health, mention is made of the absolute need of better facilities to care for cases of contagious disease. It is pointed out that the recent epidemic of diphtheria now subsided, shows conclusively that immediate action is necessary in this direction as the accommodations at Muhlenberg Hospital are decidedly limited. The isolation ward there can care for only eight patients at a time and these must be all of the same kind of disease. If diphtheria patients come first the remainder must also be diphtheria, but if the first are scarlet fever no diphtheretics can be received. This is due to the danger of cross infection which would undoubtedly result fatally.

The suggestion of the Board of Health will meet with the commendation of the entire community. No time is to be lost in providing a ward that will amply provide for both scarlet fever and diphtheria as these ailments are the most common of the contagion class. During the recent outbreak mentioned the small building maintained at Muhlenberg Hospital was crowded to more than double its capacity with diphtheretic patients and several scarlet fever cases which came later had to be refused. In one instance, the inability of the Board of Health to provide accommodations for a little child taken sick at a rooming house made it necessary to place six different families in quarantine. It wrought a great hardship on innocent people and deprived a number of dependents from the income of the breadwinners. If there had been a contagion ward, suitable for two kinds of diseases, this exigency could have been overcome.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital have signified their willingness to do everything possible to bring about the erection of a suitable building such as the Board of Health would require. Some time ago the hospital officials offered the necessary ground on their premises for a site and plans for a structure were drawn. It was found that a frame building meeting all the requirements could be put up at a cost of $3,000 and a brick building at $5,000, but the price was considered more than could be spent at the time and the project was turned down by the Board of Health. The failure to go ahead with the project shows that it was "penny wise and pound foolish," but there is still a chance to "make good." By all means, let the contagion ward be built and let it be so constructed that the reception of one child suffering from diphtheria will not bar out ten others affected with scarlet fever. The epidemic that has just been overcome is apt to occur again at any time and the same trouble will be experienced.

WHERE THE "PINCH" OF WAR RELIEF IS FELT.

In their anxiety to lend every possible aid to the war relief work, Plainfield people are beginning to neglect the home charities, heretofore the beneficiaries of a most commendable philanthropic spirit. While all the local institutions have every degree of worthiness, the needs of the Charity Organization Society stand out most prominent. The men and women composing this body of relief agents have performed noble sacrifices in the past but their task is becoming more and more difficult every day. Not only have their contributions been greatly curtailed through diversion to other channels but applications for assistance have increased to an almost unprecedented extent. The Society is caring for a larger number of poor families than ever before and with the high price of clothing and foodstuffs the problem of supply is becoming a difficult proposition.

Beside the Charity Organization, there can be mentioned the Children's Home, Muhlenberg Hospital, The King's Daughters, Day Nursery and Infirmary and the Community Christmas plan, all of which have felt the effects of war relief compelling Plainfield citizens to lessen their contributions. The officials in charge of the home institutions give up their own time in behalf of the city's poor and make the simple request that they not be overlooked in the generosity that is now so prevalent for outside purposes. It is natural for people to respond to the clarion voice of war's demands but our own dependents are equally as deserving and would appreciate an exemplification of the old adage that "charity begins at home." If each and everyone of us made it a point right now to lay aside an odd nickel or dime every day for the Plainfield institutions, their financial pressure would be greatly relieved.

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When the men folks wore "home made" hickory shirts!

When Green brook had enough water at practically all seasons of the year to furnish power for big mills like those of French, Randolph and Cadmus!

When the engine companies of the city and borough completed their "outfits" by the addition of a janitor; "Jake" Sutphen at No. 1's; "Eph" Carman at No. 2s' and John Green at No. 3's!"

When the rail fence around the Martin properties time is to be lost in providing a ward tht will amply "grand stand" for the young fellows to watch the "passing show!"

When drovers came through town with flocks of sheep and herds of cattle destined for nearby slaughter houses and the small boys earned an odd dime by helping to keep the animals in line!

Kendall Urges More Pay For School Ma'ams

That it is necessary to pay teachers, janitors and other employes of the schools in New Jersey larger salaries at the present time as compared with ten years ago because of the increased cost of living, is one of the points brought out in the annual report of Calvin N. Kendall, New Jersey commission of education, for the year ending June 30, last, which was submitted to the State Board of Education this week. While referring to the vastness of school operation and the necessarily great cost to the commonwealth Commissioner Kendall says that the cost of the schools based on the number of pupils present was twenty-six cents an hour for each child. "While the aggregate cost is large, in terms of the actual individual child, twenty-six cents seems a moderate cost per day, particularly in view of the very high cost of living, which affects the child's welfare as well as the lives of individuals."

It is pointed out in the report that the cost of fifty articles of table supplies has increased 67½ per cent. between July 1, 1916, and June 30 1917, and yet there are still 500 teachers in the State who received less than $500 a year. Continuing along the same lines, the Commissioner states:

"The public should understand that moderate and in many cases inadequate as are teachers' salaries the increase in the expenses of schools is chiefly because we are paying teachers more money than ten years ago, but it is a matter of doubt whether teachers' salaries have increased proportionately to the increased cost of living."

The report valuation of school properties increased during the year from $69,000,000 to $94,000,000, Commissioner Kendall shows.

The commissioner asserts that "teachers and school officials of the State have responded splendidly and loyally to the demands of the war situation. There have been so far as the Department of Public Instruction knows no evidence of disloyalty or sedition in the schools of the State. Their support of the government is apparently positive and patriotic, as it should be. Teachers and school officials have generously and wholeheartedly responded to the various calls of the nation and the State for extra services. There have been many of these services.

"Teachers and school officials did no small amount of work in promoting the sale of Liberty Bonds," Commissioner Kendall declared. They have responded to the demands for food conservation. Instruction for girls in school kitchens was modified to meet war conditions. Thousands of women in the various communities were given the use of these kitchens for canning and preserving during the summer. The amount of Red Cross work already done and now going on in the schools is enormous. The manual training shops and vocational schools have made their contributions to war work. Teachers and school officials regard these activities as real parts of the legitimate work of the schools, as indeed they are. There has been much teaching of the causes of the war and of the necessity that each should do his part, not merely his bit, in winning the war. As the result of serious teaching in the schools children and youths in large numbers are aware of the tremendous issues involved in the war. Perhaps, it is not too much to say, that both teachers and pupils have a new consciousness of their civic obligations; a new desire to take an unselfish part in the work of these heroic and critical times.

"As the war goes on, the schools I am sure, may be depended upon to take on still greater obligations. Much can be done after school hours. It is true that the regular ordinary work of the schools may not go on with its accustomed regularity, but who can doubt that if the boys and girls are doing productive work for our country and for our soldiers and sailors this humane work will be of as great value to their spirits and their lives as the ordinary classroom activities. Every teacher and school official in times like these should give his whole heart and mind and devotion to the country's noble cause. There is no room in American schools for failure to support the government heartedly and wholeheartedly. Any teacher or school official who feels otherwise should at once resign and get out of the schools. Better no school at all than a school—an institution of the State supported by the State—which does not stimulate its pupils to robust service to country, to democracy, to the welfare of men and women and children.

"No high school teacher should fold the cloak of so-called 'academic freedom' about him and talk or teach opposition to the efforts of our government to win this righteous war. I am quite sure that such freedom would not be tolerated by any body of teachers, board of education or other school officials in New Jersey. These are not ordinary times. The teacher, the superintendent, the principal, the commission, the commissioner, are the servants of the State. The servant is not greater than his master. The very life of the master—the country—is involved in this crisis. I know of no disloyalty in this State. The attitude of New Jersey's teachers is positive and and absolutely loyal. There is no excuse for its being otherwise.

"America has entered the war on the side of the Allies to safeguard this country and to resist the encroachment of a high centralized autocratic government upon civilization. The contest is one between autocratic government and democratic government. The soldier fights to make the world safe for democracy The teacher works to make democracy safe for the world. A democracy in order to be safe for the world must be an educated democracy."

Recruiting Office Accepts Two Men

John J. Griffin, chief officer in charge of the Naval recruiting station established at the local postoffice building on Watchung avenue, reports today that fourteen young men had applied for enlistment since Monday morning when the station here last Sunday. Of this number only two were accepted, the others being rejected because of physical defects and other reasons. Mr. Griffen, who has been in Uncle Sam's service for nearly twenty years, is a petty officer holding the rating of chief water-tender. He states that the naval and marine corps branches will still receive recruits after the December 15 limit fixed for army enlistments. The navy is especially in need of firemen, cooks and mess attendants, the last two offering unrivalled opportunities for colored men. Landsmen are also wanted for the Quartermasters' Aviation, a division which any young man handy with tools or the least bit of mechanical ability can fit into. The recruiting office will remain open today and tomorrow and also Saturday evening Sunday from 9 until 5 o'clock. Mr. Griffen and his men can be found in the Civil Service rooms in the basement between those hours.

The two men accepted at the station are Joseph L. Goff, of 120 Front street, Dunellen, and Wilfred Reasner, colored, of East Sixth street. The men applied but who were rejected are: John A. Jones, William J. McCarthy, George Taylor, Joseph A. Sutton, Herbert Brighton, J. Walmsley, Maurice H. Basken, Theodore Watts, Thomas L. Mattell, Edward Matteli and Edward Dainbridge, all of this city, and Martin J. Mulligan, of Bound Brook.

ATLANTIC CITY GETS EDUCATIONAL CONVENTION.

Commissioner Calvin N. Kendall, of the Department of Public Instruction, received a telegram Tuesday from President E. Finegan, of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association, announcing that Atlantic City has been definitely agreed upon as the place for holding the annual convention, which begins February 25.

Besides the main meeting, there will be fifteen or twenty auxiliary conventions of various educational bodies which have associated themselves with the department. The conventions will represent many phases of educational work.

It is anticipated that the meeting of the department will be the most important in the history of that body, because of the many complex and far-reaching questions arising from the war situation. Dr. Kendall said today that he believed the meeting would be of great benefit to the schools of Jew Jersey because of the interest it will arouse and the opportunity that will be given school authorities to get in touch with the most approved modern methods.

Commission Accepts Meeker Resignation

Meeting behind closed doors at Trenton, yesterday, the State Highway Commission accepted the resignation of Robert A. Meeker, of this city, as State Highway engineer. No statement was made by the Board after the action had been taken but it is definitely known that general regret was expressed by the members. The resignation will take effect April 1 next and the Plainfield man will be succeeded by W. D. Thompson, formerly of Connecticut, a close friend of State Engineer George Goethals and associated with the latter in the Panama Canal work.

Mr. Meeker has been State Highway engineer for nearly eighteen years and his work was always of the most satisfactory nature. When Colonel Goethals took the State engineering office last year, he had Mr. Meeker's salary raised from $4,000 to $7,000 per annum, declaring that the place was worth the increase. Recently it become known that there was a little friction between Colonel Goethals and Mr. Meeker but no one anticipated the resignation.

The New Jersey State Association of County Engineers has passed resolution pointing to Mr. Meeker's services to the State and calling upon the Highway Commission to retain him.

Delegations from this association, headed by J. L. Bauer, engineer of Union county; George D. Cooper, Monmouth county engineer, and Garwood Ferguson, Passaic county engineer, and H. F. Harris, Mercer county engineer, called upon Governor Edge yesterday to endeavor to have him interfere in the controversy in favor of Meeker but Governor Edge said the matter was entirely in the hands of Goethals and the Highway Commission and he could do nothing.

Edward Bodin Ordered To Fortress Monroe

Edward F. Bodin, son of Francis E. Bodin, of Watchung, has been ordered to Fortress Monroe, Va., January 4, to enter the Artillery Officers' Training Camp. He is now a first-class gunner, attached to the Fouth Company, N. Y. Coast Artillery Company at Fort Hamilton, New York.

Mr. Bodin is one of sixteen North Plainfield township boys who have enlisted in the country's service, most of them being from Watchung. One of the latest to go is Douglas Demler, who was accepted last week and has been sent to Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala., as a member of the Heavy Field Artillery.

EDWARD J. DAWE WILL BE BURIED HERE SUNDAY

The funeral of Edward J. Dawe, a former well-known Plainfield resident, who died at his home on Broome street, New York, Wednesday, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of his sister, Mrs. Edward Bowman, of 313 West Second street, this city. The service will be in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson and burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Dawe was a native of Mitchell, Ontario, but came to Plainfield when a young man. He was a machinist by trade and worked for some time at the Scott Press Works. He was also proficient as a musician. In this capacity he played the cornet as a member of the old Plainfield Cornet band. Beside Mrs. Bowman, Mr. Dawe is survived by three sisters and three brothers. These are: Mrs. Mary Edwards, of California; Mrs. Emma Frazee, Mrs. Alice Tilley and Joseph, James and Albert Dawe, all living in the city or borough.

NOTES FROM THE PARK AVE. BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Swafield occupied the pulpit of his new charge for the first on Sunday last, preaching two forceful and eloquent sermons morning and evening. There were large audiences at both services, weather considered. At the Bible School service at 9:45, the attendance was especially good for so early an hour on such difficult travelling. Superintendent William N. Runyon gave a splendid talk introducing Dr. Swafield, whom he called upon for closing prayer.

Dr. Swafield's subjects for the coming Sunday are: Morning, "The Pre-eminence of Christ;" evening, "The Translation of Enoch."

The Bible School is arranging a delightful Christmas service to be held in the church auditorium Sunday morning, December 23, consisting of exercises by the main school and primary department and a Christmas address by Pastor Swafield. "Christmas giving" will be the main thought this season. The evening service will partake of the Xmas character.

Miss Lillian Drake will lead the Young People's Association meeting at 7 o'clock Sunday evening; topic, "Self-Control."

MORGAN STITES HIT BY AUTO.

Morgan Stites, of Linden avenue, the borough, while crossing Somerset street, Tuesday night, was knocked down by an automobile owned by the Goldstein Plumbing Company and driven by Charles Winn. He was bruised and cut. Winn was held in $500 bail.

BACK FROM HUNTING TRIP.

Postmaster Counsel Charles A. Reed returned Tuesday from a North Carolina hunting trip.

FALL BREAKS ARM.

Mrs. Arthur L. Otterson, of Evergreen avenue, fell on the ice Tuesday, and fractured her left arm.

Enlistment Takes "Frat" President

With the patriotic spirit dominant, Abraham Lincoln Fraternity convened in its regular weekly session last night with President C. Ivan Hill in the chair. There was much patriotic speech-making, prayers and cheering in honor of Mr. Hill, who recently enlisted in the navy and is awaiting to be called to active service.

The meeting was opened with the recitation of a poem, "The Navy Blue," by Harry W. Swivel. President Hill read his farewell address appealing for the co-operation of the members to stick together in spite of the fast decreasing membership. His topic was "Lincoln's Name Shall Never Die—Should Ours?"

Harry W. Swivel then offered prayer for the members who are in the service of Uncle Sam.

Upon motion, the prayer be offered will be read at each meeting.

Arthur L. Grisley, chairman of the committee on the study of French, gave a favorable report and a most interesting talk on the subject. The study of French by the "Frat" will probably be in full swing by the first of the year.

The meeting came to a close amid rousing cheers for the retiring president.

Capt. Lightfoot Leaves to Begin Active Service

Captain Clarence Lightfoot, who recently received his commission after passing all examinations and training at Fort Myer, left for Camp Mead, Annapolis, Md., Wednesday, after spending the preceding week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ardern, of Chatham place, the borough. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lightfoot, who has been with him at Fort Myer since he left Plainfield after receiving his call for duty as a member of the Reserve Corps. Captain Lightfoot will remain at Annapolis only a short time as he is destined for assignment to an important post in the artillery service in the near future.

Previous to the declaration of war, Captain Lightfoot lived in Chatham place and was employed at the Pond Tool Works, where he was supervisor of the blueprint and specification room. He had had considerable military training and was on the reserve corps roster for several years. After receiving his commission, Captain Lightfoot went to San Antonio, Tex., for an inspection trip, returning from that point for his visit here. A large number of friends enjoyed the opportunity of meeting him again while here with most enthusiastic wishes for success in his military life and early return to Plainfield.

WAR TAX RULING ON COUNTY RECORDS

Announcement was made at the office of the County Register this week, concerning the effect the war tax will have on papers recorded after December 1. Bonds, debentures, or certificates of indebtedness issued on and after that date by any person, corporation, partnership or association, will be taxed five cents for each $100 of representative value. Each renewal will be considered as a new issue and will be taxed accordingly.

Deeds or writings whereby any lands, tenements or other realty sold shall be granted, assigned, transferred or otherwise conveyed to or vested in, the purchaser, or purchasers, in excess of $100 and below $500, exclusive of lien or other encumbrance, shall be taxed fifty cents. For each additional $500 or fractional part there shall be the same tax.

A tax of twenty-five cents is to be levied for the granting of power of attorney, provided that no stamps are required upon any papers necessary to be used in the collection of claims from the United States or from any State for pensions, back pay, bounty, property lost in the military or naval service or upon powers of attorney in bankrupt cases.

CALLS ATTENTION TO TAX ON AMUSEMENTS.

Collector of Internal Revenue Charles V. Duffy, of the Plainfield district, desires to call attention to the fact that under the war revenue act of October 3, 1917, all outdoor parks, ovals and amusement places where athletic games, rushy and soccer football games, or any form of amusement to which the charge for admission is more than ten cents, is subject to the tax on admission of one cent for every ten cents or fraction thereof.

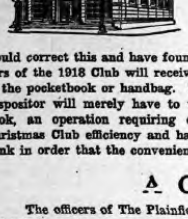
This tax also applies to all dance halls where dances and basketball games, skating and other forms of amusement and entertainment are carried on, where the charge for admission is ten cents or more.

This tax became effective November 1, 1917, and must be paid by the owner of the hall, park or oval as the case might be. Said owner will be required to file a sworn statement monthly, in duplicate, accompanied by a certified check for the amount of tax due the Government. The Internal Revenue Bureau intends to hold the owner or lessee of all aforesaid parks or ovals and dance halls for the amount of tax due.

PASTOR GOING TO FRANCE.

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of the Watchung Avenue Presbyterian church, North Plainfield, it was announced this week, has been released by his congregation and will leave January 1 for France to take up Y. M. C. A. work.

New System for the Christmas Club



The Plainfield Trust Company is the home of the Christmas Club. It has operated it for six years and each succeeding year it has handled more people and more money with less delay and less difficulty.

NO MORE LONG WAITS

The present card system, however, has involved more or less waiting in line during rush hours, so the officers of the Company have been searching for some plan that would correct this and have found it in the new Coupon System. Instead of a card, members of the 1918 Club will receive a small coupon book which can be conveniently carried in the pocketbook or handbag. This book will be handed in with each payment and the despositor will merely have to wait until the coupon is stamped and detached from the book, an operation requiring only a few seconds. This method is the "last word" in Christmas Club efficiency and has been installed at considerable additional expense to the bank in order that the convenience of members may be catered to in every possible way.

A CALL TO THRIFT

The officers of The Plainfield Trust Company would like to see every member of the 1917 Club enrolled in the new Club and the old members will be doing their friends a real service by inducing them to join. Thrift has been urged upon this nation as a patriotic duty and the Christmas Club provides a method of saving that is both practical and easy. Never before have wages been so high. Never before has the necessity for providing for the future been so great. The 1917 Christmas Club had nearly seven thousand members. The 1918 Club should have ten thousand. You will want to be one of them.

The New Christmas Club Will Open On Monday, December 24th, 1917

AND MEMBERS MAY BE ENROLLED NOW IF THEY SO DESIRE

There will be Four Classes in the 1918 Club as follows:

Class 50—Pay 50c each week and receive a check for $25, with interest at 2%
Class 100—Pay $1 each week and receive a check for $50, with interest at 2%
Class 200—Pay $2 each week and receive a check for $100, with interest at 2%
Class 500—Pay $5 each week and receive a check for $250, with interest at 2%

The knowledge that a tidy little sum will be coming to you from the Christmas Club at the close of the year may mean much to you in the months to come and it will be worth some sacrifice and effort on your part, so keep the matter in mind, and either come to this office yourself or let someone else attend to the matter for you.

Ban On Christmas Only a Bad Dream

Community Committee Will Dispense Holiday Cheer As Usual Despite the War.

The Boy had a bad dream the other night. He was all worked up over it. Any fellow would be. When he woke up he had to be assured at once that there was no danger of his vision being true phophesy. Otherwise, for a Plainfield youngster around holiday time this year, life would hardly be worth living.

You see it was this way with the Boy. He has lived in Plainfield several years, seven I believe. In fact he has never lived anywhere else. His father doesn't live here any more. Pneumonia removed him from his little family when the boy was five years old. His mother lives pretty much all over Plainfield. One has to when one supports four small children by day's work as a washwoman.

Yet not since the Boy can remember has he missed having a real, merry Christmas, with nuts and candy, a toy or two and warm mittens and things. The Community Christmas Committee knew that the Boy's mother had no pennies to spare for such luxuries, so they had never failed to put him and his sister and brothers on their list.

But this fall the Boy began to hear dreadful rumors. People were being told by some big fellow in Washington that while the war lasted nobody, not even rich folks, must spend any money or wear any clothes or eat any food that they could possibly get along without. To eat sugar was almost wicked, one was told. His mother had stories almost every night of how the rich folks she worked for weren't giving parties or going to theatres. All this didn't impress the Boy so much at first. He had spent most of his life getting along without these things. But when his mother told one night of a family who were not going to give any Christmas presents this year a lump bunched right up in his throat and would not down.

Now when one eats with a lump in the throat and goes to bed soon after, there is danger of "seein' things at night." The Boy did. He dreamed that the big fellow in Washington had sent for all the boys and girls in the country and when they got there he scowled terribly and told them there would be no Christmas this year and that if he heard of any boys or girls writing to Santa Claus about it he would have them sent right over to the Kaiser, who would doubtless have them cooked and fed to his soldiers.

He awoke in a terrible state, a state that immediately roused the household. The dream was told then and there. Fortunately the mother had read about the plans of the Community Christmas Committee and was able to comfort him.

In fact the Committee has this week got well under way its campaign for making it impossible for any such dream to come true in Plainfield. It was agreed at the organization meeting a week ago that the war should not in any way interfere with the usual Christmas gifts to the list of some thousand boys and girls and their families who are unfortunate enough to be unable to buy the things that make up a merry Christmas. Miss Mabelle C. Phillips, executive secretary of the Charity Organization Society, who supplies this list, testified that war conditions made the Christmas donation to these people more necessary than ever. Increased cost of living, she said, had more than offset war wages.

It was decided, too, not to bar candy, in spite of the sugar saving propaganda. It is held that sugar is an essential food of childhood and that the proteges of the Committee must have their usual allowance of good candy, made of real sugar. Toys, caps, stockings and other garments, with coal and flour where needed, are included in the Committee's plans.

Leslie R. Fort was elected chairman of the Committee again this year. The other officers are: Vice chairman, R. S. Rowland; treasurer, DeWitt Hubbell; secretary, Walter C. Dobbins; chairman purchasing committee, Miss Ethel Millar; chairman alms house committee, Mrs. Norman W. Currie; chairman publicity committee, Garret Smith; chairman finance committee, Richard A. Claybrook; vice chairman, Robert Pentecost; chairman distribution committee, Charles R. Banks; chairman Bonnie Burn committee, Mrs. W. H. Murray.

The Committee hopes to raise $1,000 at least. There will be no direct appeal made. Generous citizens who like to know that no child in Plainfield will miss his Christmas Day cheer, are requested to send their contributions to DeWitt Hubbell at the Plainfield Trust Company.

Last year 254 families, including 933 children, were visited by the automobiles of the Committee. Besides the minor gifts, 29½ tons of coal and 60 25-pound sacks of flour were distributed.

MONTHLY REPORT FOR BONNIE BURN.

On November 1 there were 149 patients in Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, 91 male and 58 females. During the month 44 patients were admitted, 26 males and 18 females. These are classified as follows: incipient, males 3, females 8; moderately advanced, males 5, females 6; far advanced, males 18, females 4. The largest number of patients present during the month was 175; smallest number, 147.

the Philadelphia headquarters of the Friends Reconstruction unit. He was accepted after the usual preliminaries and sailed from Philadelphia on the steamship "Rochambeau" on October 29. That was the last his parents saw or heard of him until the word was brought Sunday that he had given his life for his country. The young man was a member of the local Friends Meeting and at the services last Sabbath his name was frequently mentioned.

Beside his father and mother, the lad is survived by a younger brother, Leslie I. Compton and one sister, Ruth R. Compton, living at the parental home.

A memorial service for Mr. Compton will be held in the Friends' meeting house on Watchung avenue tonight at 8 o'clock. Relatives, friends and all persons interested are invited to attended.

George Fisher, of Manson place, who was recently able to be about after a long illness, has suffered a relapse and is again confined to his bed.

H. Russell Voorhees, of Carlton avenue, was discharged recently from Muhlenberg Hospital after undergoing treatment for three weeks following an operation.

James Hart, of Gresham road, left the forepart of the week for a two weeks' trip to New Orleans and adjacent cities in the interest of the Lucy Manufacturing Corporation, with which he is connected.

Clifford Cole, of the firm of Cole & Hich, the local undertakers, left Wednesday for Fort Slocum, following his enlistment in the ordnance department. It is understood that Mr .Cole is to be a member of the embalming division.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Martin, of Martine avenue, returned home Sunday after a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Martin's parents at Utica, N. Y.

Mrs. Fred Zweifel, formerly of Grant avenue, returned home recently after a four months' stay at Mt. Pocono, Pa. She and Mr. Zweifel have taken an apartment at the Varian place on West Seventh street for the winter.

Miss Mary Reynolds, of Raritan, spent the past week-end as the guest of Miss Marion Harrington, of West Fourth street.

Joel N. Pennington, of Grant avenue, left this week for Washington, D. C., where he has secured an excellent government position as electrician in a munition plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Henry, of 920 West Fourth street, are the parents of a baby daughter, who arrived at their home a few days ago.

John Linbarger, of Brooklyn, returned to his home in that city Wednesday after a week's visit at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. P. A. McVey, of Evergreen avenue.

Otto Neuman, of 602 Washington street, is still a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital following his reception there last week suffering from a badly crushed hand. The accident occurred at the Pond Tool Works and resulted in the amputation of three of his fingers. It is possible that he may be able to return home in a day or two.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Biddle, of Leland avenue, are the parents of a daughter born to them this week. Mr. Biddle is a teacher of history at the Plainfield High School.

Benjamin Rosenson, of Richmond street, who recently enlisted in the quartermasters' corps, left this week for Jacksonville, Fla., where he will be stationed for the present.

William Brown, of Watchung avenue, is able to be about again after three weeks' treatment at Muhlenberg Hospital following a bone grafting operation performed by Dr. W. H. Anthony.

Among the local enlistments reported during the past week are those of James MacDonald, of Jeorl street, the borough, who goes to the quartermasters' department, and Ralph N. Adams, of 940 West Fourth street, who was accepted at the Newark recruiting office for the marine corps.

William Ashton, chief engineer at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past fifteen years, underwent an operation at the institution Monday morning. It gives every indication of having been successful and Mr. Ashton is now making rapid recovery.

Charles V. Smith, of Greenbrook road, the borough, returned this week after an extended visit to the Isle of Pines in the West Indies. He returned by way of Cuba to Florida and thence home by rail. The trip was made in the interests of his merchandise business.

Frank McCarthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin McCarthy, of West Fifth street, left this week for Fort Slocum, where he will be assigned to duty as a member of the ordnance department. Mr. McCarthy is a cousin to John McCarthy, of Lee place, who is now a member of the National Army in camp at Greenville, South Carolina, and previous to his enlistment was employed by William Messler, the Plainfield avenue meat dealer.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Mary Helen Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Nelson, of Somerset place, to Walter Gunton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gunton, of Martinsville. No date has been set for the wedding.

MRS. D. LEWIS MOORE.

A number of friends from the city and borough were among those who attended the funeral of Mrs. D. Lewis Moore, a former North Plainfield resident, who died in Philadelphia Monday. The service took place at the Delmar Apartments, where she and her husband had been making their home since leaving here. Burial was in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore resided for several years at 40 Willow avenue. They left North Plainfield about six months ago and had been in Philadelphia ever since. While residing locally Mrs. Moore was a member of the First Presbyterian church, where she was active in the various departments. Beside her husband, the deceased is survived by two daughters.

MRS. GIDEON BARNES.

The body of Mrs. Anan Barnes, wife of Gideon A. Barnes, was brought to this city from Dover, yesterday morning and buried in the family plot in the North Plainfield cemetery. The gathering of mourners included a number from this vicinity who had been friends of the family during a long residence on Washington avenue, at the present site of the Park Club. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes removed from here twenty years ago, since which time they have been making their home in Dover and where the latter passed away last Monday.

Mrs. Barnes was a native of Germany but came to Plainfield when only a girl. She leaves beside her husband, three sons and a daughter. They are Milton, Lewis and Fred Barnes and Miss Addie Barnes.

MRS. FRANCES FOWLER.

Mrs. Frances Fowler, widow of Charles Fowler, died last night at the home at Oak Tree, which she had maintained as a summer residence for many years. She was in her eighty-seventh year and was ill only a week. She had been residing most of the time lately in Brooklyn. She was a native of Boston and a member of an old New England family. She is survived by two sons, Harry S. Fowler, of this city, and Frederick T. Fowler, of South Orange.

The funeral was held at the Oak Tree home Tuesday and was in charge of Rev. Thomas E. Potterton, of Brooklyn. Burial was in the family plot in Mt. Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

Miss Maude Van Boskerck, who has given a number of delightful musical affairs in Plainfield the past year or more, conducted a most enjoyable musical at Tyrell Inn, Wednesday night, for the benefit of the Plainfield-North Plainfield Chapter of the Red Cross. The artists were Jean Baptiste Toner, a distinguished pupil of Mark Hambourg, Carreno, and de Pachmann, who gave a wonderful demonstration at the piano and Henry Parsons, of New York, who rendered several solos in excellent baritone voice. An appreciative audience was present and a substantial sum was contributed for the Red Cross fund.

The residence owned by Albert DeeNoyers, located on upper Watchung avenue, just over the borough line in North Plainfield township and occupied by J. I. Little, was badly damaged by fire late last Sunday night. The borough department responded to an alarm and did splendid work in checking the flames, although hampered by the severe cold and lack of pressure in the hydrant streams. The damage is placed at about $1,000 and is covered by insurance. It is believed the flames originated through sparks flying from an open fire-place. The house was completed only about a year ago.

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, who has been pastor of the First M. E. church since April, 1906, has informed the congregation that he will not seek reappointment at the coming Conference to be held at the Centenary church, Newark, next April. It is the belief of the pastor that a change would be beneficial for himself and the congregation alike as it is not the custom for Methodist ministers to remain at one church for too long a period. Dr. Anderson succeeded Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea and has been pastor of the First M. E. congregation for the longest period of any incumbent preceding him. The previous longest term was that of Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, now of Roselle, who remained with the church for eight years.

Howard Hollinshed, of the Norton-Harjer Ambulance Corps, which has been doing splendid work on the French front, described his experiences before a large and deeply interested audience in the parish house at Holy Cross church, Tuesday night. Mr. Hollinshed was twice wounded in the fighting about Verdun and received the French war cross for bravery. A portion of his address was devoted to a vivid recount of the terrific bombardment of Verdun by the German army and the success of the French in repulsing the attack. A silver offering was received after the talk for the benefit of the Red Cross. During his stay here Mr. Hollinshed was the guest of Richard Campbell, of Rockview avenue, the borough.

At the morning service in the First Presbyterian church, Sunday, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring received a purse of gold in honor of the completion of twenty-five years as pastor of the congregation. The presentation was made by Eugene M. Cave in behalf of the officers and members of the church. Dr. Herring came to Plainfield from New York in 1892, succeeding Rev. K. P. Ketcham; who had acted in the same capacity for twenty-two years.

Former President William Howard Taft, who spoke at the Red Cross "drive" meeting in the Plainfield High School, last night, was the guest at dinner last evening of Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, the borough. While at the table Mr. Taft occupied an oak chair built purposely for the occasion by Christopher Stahl, on an order from Mr. McCutchen.

The first of two exhibits of facsimilies of great schools of paintings was held at the Public Library Tuesday afternoon. The attendance was quite large. The second exhibit will take place tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock and a cordial invitation is extended to all interested.

Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield Public Schools, retired from the presidency of the School Masters' Club at the annual meeting in New York. Saturday night, and in appreciation of the services rendered by him during his one year term, he was presented with a beautiful silver mounted ebony gavel.

The letter carriers attached to the Plainfield postoffice are securing signatures of local citizens to a petition asking the government to grant them an increase of pay. The men now receive a salary that was put into effect in 1907 and as living has increased fully fifty per cent., the carriers believe they should be given a chance to properly meet the increased expense of maintaining a home.

The Daughters of Isabella will hold a card party and social tonight at the home of Mrs. Jeffrey Thompson, of 310 Central avenue.

Harold Scribner, Walter Bock, Charles King, Robert Bremble and Lenox Angleman, the five East End boys who were apprehended by the police last week on a charge of taking a quantity of bric-a-brac and other articles from a vacant residence on Belvidere avenue, owned by J. R. Hill, will be arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court tomorrow morning. The case was put over in order to give the police more time to learn all the circumstances.

The Somerset County Board for the Equalization of Taxes met in the North Plainfield Council rooms yesterday for the purpose of hearing complaints from North Plainfield borough and North Plainfield township. Although the taxes in the former district are unusually high this year there were only a few claimants for reductions.

The Union Building and Loan Association at its regular meeting this week paid off the fifty-second series amounting to $23,200. Each shareholder who paid in $63.50 received $100 in return. A new series to be known as the ninety-eighth will be opened at the next regular meeting in January, and applications for membership should be made to M. C. Van Arsdale, treasurer, or J. V. E. Vanderhoef, secretary, in the meantime.

Damage to the extent of $500 was occasioned at the North avenue plant of the Standard Aero Corporation, Monday night, by a fire which started while employes were testing out a rudder apparatus. Fumes from gasoline became ignited in some way and the blaze spread to the fuselage, or frame, of the aeroplane and quickly ran along the linen wings. The men in the shop fought the blaze with hand extinguishers and no call was sent to the local department. The damage was quite large in comparison with the amount of fire as the materials destroyed were all in a finished state.

The members of the Gesang and Turn Verein met in Saengerbund Hall last night, and completed preliminary plans for the usual holiday observances. These will include a Christmas tree and entertainment for the children and the customary New Year's reception for the old folks.

Henry V. Kinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Kinney, of Pearl street, the borough, who was recently Watchtown as captain of the North Plainfield selectives, was transferred this week to the Signal Corps of the 28th National Guard division stationed at Fort Hancock, Augusta, Ga. Mr. Kinney was exempted by the Somerset county board but voluntarily became a member of the National Army.

One of the first Christmas celebrations to take place locally will be conducted by the North Plainfield Home Defense League in Debele's Hall next Thursday night. It will be for members only and the proceedings will have a personal touch. The program will include the warding of gifts that will tread on the sensibilities of the recipient followed by a vaudeville performance furnished by amateur and professional talent. Sergeant J. M. Lewin is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Epworth Rally at Grace M. E. Tonight

The Epworth Leagues of the Plainfield group will hold a rally tonight at Grace M. E. church, the borough. A very fine program has been arranged. The speakers of the evening will be the Rev. Samuel Jones, of Elizabeth, and the well known young people's leader, John E. Fisher, of New York, president of the Elizabeth District Epworth League.

The members of the following Leagues will be present: Grace church, First church, Monroe Avenue, Plainfield; Dunellen, Westfield, Scotch Plains, New Dover, Bound Brook, East Millstone, Mt. Horeb, Somerville, and Raritan.

Everybody will be cordially welcomed.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles S. Wilson, of West Front street, are the parents of a baby daughter who arrived at their home the past week.

Card Players Vie For Coveted Sugar At Red Cross Affair

One of the most successful affairs yet given locally for the benefit of the Red Cross took place in Columbus Auditorium, Monday night, in the form of a card party and dance under the auspices of St. Mary's auxiliary to the Plainfield-North Plainfield chapter. Although the thermometer was flirting with the zero mark, 200 persons braved the weather to attend. Fully half as many tickets had been sold additionally and had the atmosphere been not quite so frigid, the gathering would have been a record breaker.

Mrs. J. H. Greene, chairman of the auxiliary, was in charge of the card playing which began promptly at 8:30. Miss Mae Birmingham and Edwin Sullivan served as "callers" for the progressive moves. Euchre and "500" were enjoyed and the different players engaged in keen competition for the prizes offered numbering twenty in all. A unique feature of the awards was the inclusion of provisions, canned goods and sugar. The "highly valued" sugar was the envy of all and the lucky winner of the scarce commodity was the center of attraction during the remainder of the evening.

Following the award of prizes, dancing was taken up and continued until a late hour. Music for the occasion was furnished by Squires' orchestra. The proceeds from the affair amounted to a substantial sum, and will be used in the purchase of supplies for St. Mary's Auxiliary. A similar undertaking, such as was given Monday night, has been planned by the organization for some time in the New Year, possibly in February.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the gathering was composed of Mrs. Edward Feiring, chairman; Mrs. Wilbur Schaefer, Mrs. A. F. LaBook, Mrs. F. J. Pietz, Mrs. George Mohl, Mrs. P. S. Kiely, Mrs. J. J. Varley, Mrs. D. J. Galbraith and Miss Elizabeth O'Keefe.

MANY EX-PROBATIONERS IN COUNTRY'S SERVICE.

Major Charles W. Irwin, of this city, who is probation officer for Union county, placed on the wall of his office this week a roll of honor showing on which the name of every one who has come under his supervision and has enlisted for the war will be placed. Thus far it gives the names of thirty-six former probationers who have joined the service. Thirteen are in the regular army, six are in the navy and seventeen have been drafted.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Burrell, of Philadelphia, who have been visiting Mrs. Burrell's sister, Mrs. Fred Thompson, of Belmont avenue, the borough, have returned to their home.

LOCAL MEN FAVORED IN SPECIAL ASSIGNMENTS.

Eugene McGarry, of Stebbins place, Edward O'Loughlin, of New street, and Joseph Gallagher, of Dunellen, are among the young men from this district who have been included in the Government's assignment of New Jersey recruits to special camps and training schools. All three went away from Plainfield as members of Troop D and after reaching Anniston were transferred to other units. Their most recent selection means that they are to be prepared for skilled work in a new division.

According to the bulletin given out this week, Gallagher, who has been listed as "Ordnance Sergeant," will go to the Ordnance School at Peoria, Ill., for the customary eighty-four days' course. McGarry and O'Loughlin have been doing special duty with the divisional headquarters troop under the rating of private and are now to go to the motor section of the 104th ammunition train.

YOUR CHRISTMAS GIFT SHOULD BE A

New Edison Phonograph

1. Because it is the latest and greatest triumph of the mighty genius of its inventor, Thomas A. Edison.

2. Because it is the only Phonograph whose tone the music critics unanimously declare cannot be distinguished from the living tone of the artist.

3. Because the music is transmitted through a permanent diamond instead of needles that must be constantly changed.

4. Because it plays all other records and plays them better through its superior acoustics.

5. Because when you have invested your money for an Edison it will pay daily dividends in pleasure and culture for all time.

Home Defensers Quickly Respond To "Riot Call"

For the first time since its organization last March, Plainfield's Home Defense League was subjected to a test "riot" call" Wednesday night, which proved satisfactory beyond the most liberal expectations of the commission. No use was made of the alarm whistle located at the Pond shop, the telephone alone being relied upon. The first message was sent out by Lieutenant Charles Langdon at precisely 7:30 and exactly twenty-five minutes from that time a full squad of ten men and a corporal was on duty at the triangle in front of the Crescent Avenue church. The demonstration is considered all the more gratifying from the fact that automobiles were practically useless as a means of conveyance, the trolley car service was not of the best and the evening trains, which bring home many of the League members, were from ten minutes to half an hour late.

Lieutenant Langdon was stationed at police headquarters on Sycamore street and as fast as the men reported they were made up in temporary squads and sent out, each succeeding detachment relieving the one which went ahead. The league has a complete membership of 124 officers and men. It was impossible to reach all of them by telephone in the short time that the call was worked but a total of seventy-three responded to the alarm. Captain J. Whitney Baker was the first to arrive on the scene after the call was made. David Attwood, a private, was the second to appear, one moment later, and Mayor Calkins came third, exactly sixty seconds after him. From then on the men came in at one minute intervals in the following order:

D Fred Carpenter, Dr. George Herring, R. T. Phillips, Howard Huntington, N. E. Lewis, Howard Sammitt, Commissioner R. F. R. Huntsman, D. C. Adams, Jr., H. R. Stockton, John Doughty, H. W. Brower, Luther Aver, Charles C. Randolph, George Andrews, George W. Neff, Leslie R. Fort, W. F. Manning, Harry Gauntlett, John J. Carty, George D. Blair, George E. Leighs, F. M. Masker, William Shafer, Michael Caffrey, Howard Craig, Ralph S. Fitch, H. O. Benwood, Charles Kibler, Arthur Seidler, George Van Bosterk, Sam Winn, Charles B. Morse, James R. Blake, C. U. Lucky, Guy Hillman, Edward Waring, Francis Osborne, J. H. Mellick, Albert F. La Rock, A. D. Beers, R. B. Schoonmaker, E. C. R. Laidlaw, J. S. Higham, James L. Pope, Paul R. Collier, Lewis Williams, George F. Murphy, Charles Frost, Edwin O. Lent, William B. Gresham, Joseph Matthews, Lewis H. Matlack, Joseph Edgar, P. A. McVoy, J. I. Taylor, P. E. Matthews, Lewis T. Matlack, Walter Hetfield, Arthur Otterson, T. R. Van Boskerck, A. B. Davies, Henry De-Forest, C. J. Rasberry, H. C. Kasmeirer, C. W. Collins, John Garretson, and last but not least, H. H. Foster.

When the men returned to the station for roll call and dismissal Commissioner R. F. R. Huntsman took occasion to congratulate the league on the promptness with which the "riot call" was answered. It demonstrated forcibly, he said, what a complete working unit had been developed from the raw material of last spring and that Plainfielders could feel the sense of security in the event of any internal troubles at any time during the war. It was plainly to be seen that Mr. Huntsman felt every bit of the enthusiasm that he conveyed in words to the men who were putting aside all persons' affairs to serve their fellow-citizens in time of need.

Captain Baker also complimented the men and added the information that all drills would be suspended until January 9. He further stated that an invitation had been received from Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson for the league to attend service at Grace Episcopal church next Sunday night, a special request being that a detail of twenty men be in uniform. Captain Baker explain that inasmuch as this league had voted to attend religious services in a body only once a year he was of a necessity compelled to refuse the invitation.

The new overcoats for the league members, arrived this week and the gathering at the station Wednesday night gave the commission an opportunity to distribute the garments. The coats are of standard military design, exactly the same as those used by the regular army and gave complete satisfaction. When the men had tried on their respective "cold protectors" and found that the fit in every instance was up to the mark Captain Baker gave one of his "heart to heart" talks on attendance. He stated in tones that meant business that after the first of the year the leaguers who did not show up for duty or drills would be dropped from the ranks. The weeding out process is to be thorough, he said, as the commissioners and officers detest "dead wood" and propose that none of it shall remain in Plainfield's splendid organization.

Mayor Calkins Answers Letter

Mayor Leighton Calkins has written the following letter to Den. J. Galbraith, plumbing contractor on the City Hall, in answer to the latter's communication printed in the Record last week, in which he asserted he would hold the city responsible for loses incurred by the tie-up of the job:

December 18, 1917.

Mr. Den. J. Galbraith,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:

Your letter of November 30th addressed to The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, N. J., Leighton Calkins, Mayor, was received in due course and has been submitted to the City Hall Building Committee and to the corporation counsel.

Preliminary to answering, permit me to say that so far as concerns the officials of the city, there is not the slightest disposition to dispute any legal claim which you or any other person may have against the city in connection with the City Hall building or any other subject. On the contrary, all claims against the city which the Council has the legal right to pay are promptly met, and whenever the legality of any claim is doubtful, the city is glad to facilitate in every proper way an adjudication by the courts and to promptly carry out its finding.

So far as concerns the contention raised by your letter of November 30th, we are unable to see any legal basis therefor. In the first place, the original contracts all distinctly provide that changes may be made. In the second place, no change has been made in the P. F. Kenny Company's original contract or in that of any other independent contractor which could injuriously affect you. The original contract provided that under given conditions the contractor could be removed and the work finished by such methods as the owner deemed advisable. You signed that provision as well as the other contractors. The P. F. Kenny Company was removed pursuant to the plain terms of that provision and the Common Council has proceeded in strict accordance with the original contract in its attempt to complete the building. It has done its utmost to finish the building within the time originally specified, but has been prevented by strikes. The contracts all provide that delays caused by strikes and other obstacles beyond the control of the contracting parties, shall extend the period allowed for completion. The delays have occurred without fault of the city and to its great injury. The suggestion you make that when one independent contractor is removed for default, the others must be consulted before the city can proceed to finish the removed contractor's work, is certainly novel, but it is contrary to the plain terms of the contract which you yourself executed. When you entered into that agreement, you took the business chances involved. You knew there might be delay in completing the building and that you might lose money. If you made money you would expect to keep it and if you lose money, and we hope you will not, the city officials will not be justified in making good your loss out of the public treasury without due authority of law.

Regretting greatly the circumstances which have so unjustly delayed the completion of our municipal building, to the injury of all concerned, I am,

Very truly yours,
LEIGHTON CALKINS,
Mayor and Chairman City Hall Building Committee.

Blaze in Voehl Building Causes $1,500 Damage

Damage amounting to $1,500 was caused by a fire discovered at midnight last night by Patrolman Kelly in the building at 127 West Front street, owned by Jacob Voehl. The flames originated in some unknown way in the kitchen of the restaurant conducted by Sotirios Cocolos and spread to the stairway leading to the second floor, where five Greeks were sleeping. The men were cut off from the lower floor by the burning stairway and had to be taken out by the firemen by way of the windows and ladders. The department used hydrant and chemical streams for nearly half an hour before the blaze was put out.

The damage to the building is placed at $1,000 and the other $500 is placed on the restaurant owner. It is covered by insurance in each instance.

Christmas Day in the Little Church at Home

By J. Watson

Through the stained-glass windows of The Little Church at Home the snow-reflected sunlight comes softly flowing, tinting with rose-gold and amber, its time and weather stained walls of native oak. One long slanting ray of lustrous purity falls full upon the emblem of the Christians' faith and hope, causing it to gleam radiantly against the Holy Altar's purple background. All the gracious beauty of the sun-bathed outside world seemed to have been concentrated there, beneath the humble roof of our Little Church that day.

From the belfry tower, richly mellow and sonorously sweet, comes the sound of the church bell calling. Today it seems as though its deep-throated voice held a new note of exquisite melody. It may have been that the spirit voices of the children of the skies were singing in its heart, their beautiful hymns of praise and glory, in honor of the natal day of God's great Son and our Redeemer. The clean sweet odor of the balsam, the fir and the pine, mingling with the fragrant breath of winter flowers, lends to the air within the church a perfume gratefully refreshing.

As the last rich note of the bell rolls away down the beautiful Washington valley, the voices of the choir slowly, gently rise, till at last, full-volumned and melodious, the Christians' song of greeting to their God rolls onward and upward to join the procession of love that marches past the Throne of Grace.

You who have knelt in The Little Church at Home, on some long past Christmas Day, may have heard in its choir there the voice of a mother, sister or wife, and the echo of it will come to you again, love-laden on the wings of memory. Perhaps, to you who read, there was some one voice whose music was sweeter to your ears than all the melody that flows from the heart of the golden-throated thrush.

Stepping lightly down the aisle, her cheeks abloom with the glow of winter roses, her russet hair a silken net, where still were clinging captured arrows of the morning sunlight, comes a little, little girl, demure and dainty. By her side walks, with faltering steps, an old, old man; the weight of many, many years have stooped his shoulders so that the little maid could easily reach his hand, for the old, old man was very, very blind. It may be that our preacher accepted that silent suggestion, for the text of his sermon that day was, "And a Little Child Shall Lead Them." Never did God give to afflicted man a fairer or truer guide to the sanctuary of His home, than was the little maid with the russet hair.

Far away in my Northland home tonight, in a silent City of the Dead, shaded from the north winds' icy breath by the Wachung's lofty mountain range, beneath a robe of snow, sleeping the sleep of innocence as pure, lies the Little Maid With The Russet Hair. Sometime, on the farther shore of the River of Life, that flows through the Valley of The Shadow of Death, I hope to see that little guide again.

Our Little Church at Home is not a masterpiece of structural beauty. It has no lofty towers of gleaming marble, nor high-flung spires or minarets of glittering gold, far reaching to the skies. It is but a plain little edifice, nestling there amidst the pines, the spruce and the silver maples. And it is built of wood that grew on the hillsides, and in the valley, within the sound of its own melodious bell.

Tonight, we pathfinders through the tropic jungles of the Darien, dwell where the soft winds, incense laden from the spice isles of the blue Caribbean Sea, sway the fronds of the stately royal palms, but all the gorgeous plumage of the hills and gardens of the Panama delta shall be forgotten and in their stead our home-sick eyes shall see, through a mist of unshed tears, the lights agleam across the snow of the windows in the Little Church at Home.

And life, as sweet, as sweet shall be,
When I am HOME again.

Panama,
Christmas Day, 1915.

Christmas Rush At Post Office Reported Normal

Although thousands of Christmas packages, letters and postal cards are pouring in and out of the Plainfield postoffice today, Postmaster Hoagland reports that the situation is well in hand and the normal holiday rush is all that is apparent at this time. It was generally believed that the tranmission of mail matter this year would break all records because of so many local boys being in the Government service, but the greater part of the influx due to this cause was cared for from two to three weeks ago. Relatives took the precaution to start presents and communications well ahead of time, thus relieving the postal authorities of that share of the burden before ordinary Christmas mail was received.

The biggest rain the present season has been in the parcels post, which has nearly doubled last season's record. Owing to the almost complete roads brought about by the storm of last week, New York and Newark merchants hit upon the postoffice as a substitute for their wagon service. As a result thousands of small parcels have been received for Plainfield delivery since last Friday. On Sunday night alone there were ninety sacks of this class of matter received, while each succeeding day has brought a proportionate equivalent. The extra men provided have taken care of the increased amounts and deliveries are being made on time.

The facilities of the new postoffice have been a big factor in aiding Postmaster Hoagland and the members of his staff get Santa Claus' mail to its destination on time. The office is relieved entirely of the trouble of transporting sacks to and from the North Avenue railroad station and the up-to-date equipment of the big building has facilitated sorting.

The failure of nearby township officials to make provisions for breaking the roads hampered the work of the rural mail carriers since last week's big snow. In addition to this all the suburban men report that householders made no attempt to clear a passage from the road to the mail box and a lot of time was lost in this manner. The men have worked up to the limit of hours every day this week but by change of horses managed to clear up the routes before returning.

The Christmas rush will be at its height tomorrow and Sunday, when the last pouches of outside mail will arrive. The extra men will work Saturday and Sunday night and if any Plainfielder loses out on a Yuletide greeting it will be though no fault of Postmaster Hoagland. The latter makes one request that has been mentioned in the newspapers many times recently and that is, be sure you have the right amount of postage on your letters and cards. A great deal of difficulty has been experienced through people forgetting the new rates that have been in effect since early in November. Keep in mind that Christmas postal cards going out of town must have a two-cent stamp and letters intended for anywhere else outside of the Plainfield delivery call for a three-cent stamp.

NEW VICE PRESIDENT FOR PLAINFIELD TRUST.

The board of directors of The Plainfield Trust Company, at a meeting held yesterday, elected H. H. Pond as vice president, to succeed J. H. Case, whose resignation was acted upon at that time. The fact that Mr. Case is now deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the Trust Company recently entered the Federal Reserve System, made his resignation necessary as an officer of a Reserve Bank is not permitted to hold an official position in a member bank.

Mr. Pond, who takes his place, was secretary and treasurer of the Trust Company for three years prior to 1913, when he accepted the position of vice president of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank of New York.

The board also elected Arthur M. Harris, vice president and treasurer of the New York banking firm of Harris, Forbes & Company, as a director. Mr. Harris succeeds Frank H. Smith, who resigned on December 1st when he received the appointment of Commissioner of Banking and Insurance of the State of New Jersey.

County Committee Fails to Agree on Judge Endorsement

At a lively meeting of the Union County Republican Committee in Elizabeth, last night, Walter L. Hetfield, of this city, was unanimously endorsed for appointment as prosecutor but the members were unable to agree on the county judgeship question. Frank H. Smith, banking commissioner, held out for Senator Carlton Pierce, while opposing forces led by Peter J. Olde, of Elizabeth, A and V. W. Nash, Jr., of this city, refused to give up their claims for William Newcorn, of Plainfield. In consequence the committee fixed upon January 3 as the date for a special meeting when a selection will be made. It was evident throughout the meeting last night that the two factions are strongly opposed to each other and in the event of dissatisfaction at the wind-up a serious split may occur within county circles. This is not desired by the leaders in view of the senatorial fight which is coming next year.

It was stated today that if Governor Edge accepts the endorsement of Mr. Hetfield and names him as prosecutor, the latter would appoint Donald McLean, of Elizabeth, as his assistant.

$125,000 Received On Last Tax Payment Day

The customary rush on the last day allowed by law for the payment of the year's taxes ended at Collector Townsend's office late last night with a total in hand of more than half a million dollars. Payments yesterday reached the sum of $125,000, while on the day previous the collector and his men took in $83,354.22.

The payments this year show fewer delinquencies than for a long time as most of the people seemed to be well supplied with money despite the high cost of living. There is still over $100,000 to collect and a good part of this will come in during next week, but it will be subjected to the penalty of interest.

No Need For "Hysteria" Over Fuel Question Here

Commissioner Kenny Says Coal Shipments Will Be Ordered Direct From the Mine If Necessity Demands

Following an investigation of conditions at local coal yards, John J. Kenny, of the Union County Fuel Commission, declared today that Plainfield dealers were beginning to receive further shipments and that there is no need for "hysteria" in sending in orders. Mr. Kenny said that if any of the yards ran out entirely and customers absolutely had to have coal, the commissioners would order shipments direct from the mine and they would have to be sent directly to Plainfield immediately. He further stated that the commission has practically decided to fix a price of $8.90 per ton for stove and nut grades and $8.75 for all others. This decision, however, must first be ratified by the State commissioner.

Administrator John K. English and members of the fuel commission met Tuesday with dealers from twelve municipalities in the county, at the headquarters in the Elizabeth Chamber of Commerce, and while a number of things were decided upon to help relieve the situation, their exact nature will not be given out until Mr. English has had them sanctioned by State Administrator Jenkinson.

One of the things discussed was relative to the price to be charged for coal. Mr. English said this morning that he did not see how the dealers could stay in business after they had explained to him Tuesday the small profit they made. It is practically certain that there will be an increase, but how much is not known. It will vary somewhat to correspond with conditions. If it is sold at the yard and the consumer pays for the carting, as they will have to do in Plainfield and Fanwood Township, nearly every case, it will be less per ton than if it is delivered.

It was decided at Tuesday's session that dealers in Plainfield should be allowed to continue selling coal in North Plainfield, provided the State administrator has no objection. It had been ruled that coal could not be sold from one county into another, but in this case North Plainfield is practically a part of Plainfield, and there is no dealer in Somerset county nearer than seven miles. The entire list of regulations adopted has been submitted to Mr. Jonkinson for approval.

The order for lightless Thursdays and Sundays went into effect in Plainfield last night, and those who fail to obey the regulations will bear the result. Their names are to be secured by the police, but Mr. English does not yet know whether or not they will be haled into court or before Administrator Jenkinson.

On those two nights there are to be no more lights than are necessary for the safety of pedestrians. Street signs are tabooed and interior lights are to be cut. The order was fully obeyed in Plainfield last night.

Twelve men were present Tuesday, representing as many different towns in the county. They included: D. J. McGovern, Enterprise Coal & Supply Co., and Benjamin T. Smith, Mulford Coal & Lumber Co., Elizabeth; Arthur Goodenough, of Wadley & Goodenough, Plainfield; Stephen Brothers, Summit; Fred W. Moore, Linden Borough; Bachman & Vechte, Roselle; C. J. Farren, Roselle Park; William Tuttle, Westfield; William W. Mooney, Cranford; Elmer Sickley, Scotch Plains, and George Compton, Hillside. Railway, Union, Fanwood and New Providence sent no representative and Fanwood Township, nearly every case, it will be less per ton than if it is delivered. New Providence Township, Linden Township and Mountainside have no dealers.

Woman Overtaken By Death While On Christmas Errand

On her way to the home of a daughter in Plainfield, to whom she was to make Christmas presents, Mrs. Mary Cranmer, 52 years old, wife of Van Cranmer, of 159 East Jersey street, Elizabeth, Monday afternoon was attacked by a stroke of apoplexy in North Broad street and died Tuesday morning in the General Hospital. Mrs. Cranmer left her home about noon to visit Mrs. George Weckoff, her daughter, of 1257 Arlington avenue this city. In front of 1483 North Broad street she was stricken and fell to the snow, where she was found some time later. Dr. R. A. Stern, of Hillside, pronounced it a case of apoplexy, and the ambulance was summoned.

Mrs. Cranmer lived at Elizabeth twenty-seven years, and was a native of this State. She was a member of the Lady Knights of Pythias and attended the Fulton Street M. E. church. She leaves her husband, a son Hartman; three daughters, Mrs. Walter Dodd, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Weckoff, of Plainfield, and Mrs. A. A. Stroop, a resident of Ohio, and fifteen grandchildren.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

Arthur M. Harris, of Central avenue, a member of the New York banking firm of Harris, Forbes & Co., will leave within the next two weeks for France to engage in Y. M. C. A. work. Mr. Harris has been interested in the local Y. M. C. A. for many years and has been prominent in Red Cross undertakings and other relief work.

Two trolley poles on Grant avenue, near West Front street, which were among the first ones put down in Plainfield in 1892, were snapped off short by the weight of the snow and too much traffic last Saturday. Since the switch at Watchung avenue and West Fourth street has been taken up while the double-tracking is going on, cars have been going through Grant avenue from Front to Fourth street, and it is the unexpected rejuvenation of the old line was too much for the antiquated wire supports. The trouble caused a delay of several hours.

Francis E. Hammond, of West Seventh street, this city, who has been assistant general passenger agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, since 1905, has been promoted to the management of the general baggage and railway mail service of the same road. The change goes into effect January 1 and Mr. Hammond's headquarters will be at the Lehigh Valley offices in New York city.

Harry B. Wier, of Leland avenue, returned this week from Halifax, N. S., to which place he was called by the death of his father, Lewis Wier, one of the victims of the terrible explosion of two weeks ago. The elder Wier was a school teacher and died from shock after the impact. The funeral took place at Halifax last Thursday.

The Plainfield Trust Company, acting as executor for the estate of Catharine Webster, notified the Common Council Monday night that the estate had purchased the tract on Park avenue, between Arlington place and Randolph road, belonging to Clifton & Campbell, where an Old Ladies' Home will be erected in accordance with the provisions made by Miss Webster in her will. As the proposed home is to be a charitable institution, the executors ask that no taxes be levied on the property. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

Mrs. Joseph C. Blimm, of Darrow avenue, slipped on an icy sidewalk while on her way to a Red Cross "first aid" meeting of St. Mary's Auxiliary, Friday night, receiving a broken arm and numerous severe bruises. She will be incapacitated for at least a month.

Chester Lewis, a member of the regular army, who claimed to have been stationed at San Antonio, Tex., and who was arrested in this city last week for overstaying a furlough, was taken to Governor's Island by federal authorities Tuesday. Lewis had been loitering about town for several days and when picked up by the police told conflicting stories as to what he was doing in Plainfield and why he did not return to his station. He finally stuck to the assertion that he had spent all his money and was unable to pay carfare back to Texas.

John T. Brown has been appointed chairman of a committee by St. Mary's T. A. B. Society to complete arrangements for a social and dance to be held in T. A. B. Hall, New Year's Eve. The proceeds from the affair will be applied to the smoke fund maintained by the society for its members now in the service.

The thaw which commenced early this week resulted in large icicles forming on the front of several West Front street business buildings Wednesday, and the masses of ice grew so large that pedestrians below were threatened in the event of their falling. The police discovered an especially bad one overhanging from the roof of the Bogem building and secured the services of Captain George Feiring, of the fire department, to chop it down. Another one almost as large as that at the Boehm building formed on the Babcock building and the police had to rope off a portion of the sidewalk until the ice could be dislodged.

The Men's Club of Grace Episcopal church has commenced the formation of "first aid" classes to instruct its members in the handling of wounded men as they are taken from ships and carried to hospitals. Each class will consist of fifteen members and the course will comprise ten lessons of one or one and a half hours each. The meetings are to be held once each week and a charge of five dollars is to be made as an entrance fee.

The American Six Band, which conducted a fair and bazaar in Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall on East Front street last week, met with such bad weather that a large number of articles at the various booths were left remaining because of the poor attendance. The Juniors recognize the hard luck that befell the band men and have donated the use of the hall for a continuation of the fair tomorrow night. Some splendid bargains and Christmas presents will be offered and a dance will follow the disposal of the goods. Professor Scott's orchestra will furnish music during the entire evening.

The volunteer chorus choir of twenty voices of Hope chapel will render the cantata, "The Nativity," at the usual service next Sunday evening, beginning at 7:45. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. D. W. Steelencer, will deliver a short address appropriate to the service. At the morning service the pastor will preach his annual Christmas story-sermon.

The Netherwood Residents' Association, which early in its existence adopted the policy of meeting only four times a year, and making certain that there would be plenty of important business to transact will hold its next regular session on Monday night, January 7. There is a great list of committee suggestions to be acted upon and when it has all been cared for, the officers will provide a program that will undoubtedly prove a winner. The details have not yet been announced but advanced indications show unusual originality in their get-up.

At the morning service in the Church of the Holy Cross next Sunday, a tablet will be unveiled in memory of Miss Ida W. Davis, who was an active worker in the parish for more than twelve years. The rector, Rev. H. St. George Purcell will be in charge and a special invitation is extended to all former friends of Miss Davis who are not members of the church.

"Turkey Night" at Plainfield Theatre

When Manager Shannon, of the Plainfield Theatre, makes up his mind to do a thing he has the faculty of doing it right. He determined this week to have a "Turkey night" at his playhouse on Christmas eve and even the high price of the Jersey birds did not daunt his purpose. He went all the way through the slush and snow to Flemington, where he purchased ten of the finest gobblers ever produced in Hunterdon county. One of them weighs twenty-six pounds and can be seen in all his stateliness at Smalley Brothers' market on North avenue.

It is Manager Shannon's intention to present the patrons of his house with these turkeys next Monday night. They will be given away absolutely free and all attending either evening performance will have a chance to be one of the lucky ones. A twenty-six pound turkey is a Christmas gift that no one could sniff at, especially when "Mike" Shannon includes his personal holiday greeting with the present. The performance at the theatre for the first half of next week, including Christmas, will be high class vaudeville and feature pictures.

A new bill was presented yesterday afternoon for the first time and gave absolute satisfaction to the patrons. The program is headed by a military musical novelty entitled, "Seven Military Boys and a Girl." It is replete with music and song, backed up by special scenery and electrical effects. A second headline feature is a playlet entitled, "The Broadway Camille." It features Both-well Brown, a character actor and impersonator who has a wide reputation. The company also includes James Leonard and "Jim" Anderson.

Others on the card for the last half of the week are: Minnie Ray and Company in the comedy skit, entitled, "Her Third Trip;" Mint and Coco, comedians; Miller Brothers, dancers, and Addis and Stewart, singing and dancing.

James Harrison Suffers Severe Injury to An Eye

James Harrison, of Watchung avenue, who holds a supervising position in the foundry of the Pond Tool Works, met with an accident at the plant Monday morning, which almost caused him the loss of one eye. A large wooden splinter flew from a core box and struck him on one side of his right optic, embedding itself deep in the cornea. He was hurried to the office of Frank C. Ard, where the offending particle was removed after nearly an hour's work by the specialist. It is believed that the eye will respond to treatment and the sight will eventually be unimpaired although it will be several weeks before the injured man can return to work.

Mr. Harrison came to this city from Worcester, Mass., a little more than a year ago and has become highly popular throughout the city. He enjoys the distinction of being the "father" of Worcester Lodge of Elks, which he organized twenty-three years ago. He holds No. 1 membership card and acted as exalted ruler for the organization for the first two years of its existence. He had planned to go to Worcester for the Christmas holidays and will leave for that city tomorrow, granted the doctor decides that his eye injury is not too serious to subject to the cold

County Budget For 1918 Calls For $863,747.72

Presented by the finance committee at a special meeting of the Board of Freeholders Monday afternoon, the budget for 1918 calls for the expenditure of $863,747.72, as against $801,232.90 for the current year. Of this amount $710,000 will have to be raised by taxation, an increase of $40,000 over the budget for the present twelve months. A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held at the Courthouse in Elizabeth on the afternoon of December 31, when those who have objections to any part of it may voice them to the board. It will probably be adopted at the first meeting in January.

The increase of $40,000 in the amount to be raised by taxation is due partly to the fact, according to Freeholder Charles N. Smith, that the board is now compelled by law to plan for its expenditures a whole year in advance, instead of for six months. Freeholder Smith, who is chairman of the finance committee, said that it really represented the most economic basis upon which the county could be run if all departments and institutions were to be maintained in their present state of efficiency.

Nathan R. Leavitt, county collector, explained to the board the various items, where they had been increased or been made smaller, and why such action had been taken. Owing to a provision in the new Pierson law, it is mandatory to have a sinking fund for every bond issue and that caused an increase of $38,000 in that appropriation, bringing the total to $80,242.48. The sum set aside for fighting tuberculosis was $115,000, an increase from $76,000, is justified, in the opinion of the board, because of the increased facilities at Bonnie Burn, and the added cost of maintaining the institution.

A cut of $10,000 was made in the election appropriation and of $15,000 in the fund for the repairing of county roads. Other deductions of varying amounts were made in the appropriations for the re-indexing of record books, widows' pensions and for stationery.

Increases were found necessary in the jail fund, for mosquito extermination, maintenance of public works, tax board and surrogate's office. Improvements and changes in the county engineer's department caused a jump of $3,500.

The only new item provided for amounts to $8,000 and is for the establishing of the county prison farm, a project launched several months ago. The site has already been secured near Bonnie Burn, and with the appropriation it will be possible to put the scheme for employing the county's prisoners into effect.

Freeholder George C. Teller, director of the board, made a number of suggestions at the meeting, the most important of which was for the investigation of the legality of continuing the salary of Colonel William B. Martin as county clerk. He said that he did not wish the impression to be gained that he was unpatriotic, or that he had any ulterior motives in the suggestion, but that he wished to know whether it was right for the Board of Freeholders to continue paying Colonel Martin when he was unable to fulfill the duties of his office.

Colonel Martin is at present at Anniston, Ala., in the federal service, but has retained his office as county clerk and received the salary that goes with the position. Mr. Teller was doubtful of the right of the board to continue paying him, inasmuch as it was not compulsory for public officials to serve in the army, and have him pay others to do his work. The matter is to be taken up by the legal committee of the board with County Attorney Francis J. Blatz.

If, it was also suggested by Mr. Teller that when the committees were arranged for the ensuing year, two new ones be created to take care of added work. He said that the establishing of a farm for county prisoners would cause many matters to come up that could be better handled if there was a separate committee. The second suggestion was that a committee be appointed to have charge of all engineering work. The county engineer's office and engineering department as a whole have grown to such proportions that in his opinion they warranted added attention.

The annual report of the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission was presented and gave in detail the work that has been accomplished during the past year. A communication was also read from the secretary of the board of directors of the Rahway Hospital, asking that the board include that institution with others in the county to which financial aid was given, and asking for an annual appropriation of $5,000. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

When the meeting adjourned it was until December 27, when the year's business will be cleared up.

PERSONAL

John Duffy, of Liberty street, is confined to his home with a severe attack of pleurisy and bronchitis, which first became apparent last Friday. He is under the care of Dr. A. H. Dundon.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Alice Lindsley, of First place, to Leon T. Richards, of New York city. No date for the wedding has been set. Miss Lindsley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindsley, of Chaumont, N. Y., and is teacher of domestic art in the Plainfield High School.

Mrs. Charles L. Ryder, Sr., of Grant avenue, is confined to her home oy illness and will probably be confined to her room for another week. She is under the care of Dr. R. F. VanHorn.

Mrs. E. J. Cooley, of East Sixth street, received word this week that her son, Benjamin B. Cooley, who recently underwent an operation at Fort Ontario, Oswego, N. Y., continues to improve rapidly and will shortly be about as usual. Mr. Cooley is a member of the Medical Corps.

James Hart, of Gresham road, returned Wednesday after a business trip to New Orleans and other points in the South. He reports bad weather below the Mason-Dixon line and a great congestion of railroad traffic.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Nichols, former residents of this city, who have been residing at Grand Junction, Col., are at present visiting relatives at Clinton, Mo., and may possibly come to Plainfield later. Mrs. Nichols was formerly Miss Lillian Fritts, daughter of the late Dr. John T. Fritts.

Miss Sarah Carney, of Central avenue, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past ten weeks, because of injuries received in an automobile accident at Third street and Central avenue, has so far recovered that she may be able to leave the institution in time to spend Christmas at home.

Ray W. Fuller, of Arlington avenue, who recently enlisted in the aviation corps, has been transferred from Fort Slocum to San Antonio, Tex.

Clifford Cole, of the firm of Cole & Hich, was transferred this week from Fort Slocum to Jacksonville, Fla., where he will be located for the present as a member of the Quartermasters' Corps.

Charles Walden, of Washington street, who has been employed by J. C. Blimm, the grocer, for many years, has resigned to take a position at the Standard Aero plant.

Dr. Arthur B. Crane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh B. Crane, of East Second street, has been seriously ill with pneumonia during the past week at his home in Washington, D. C., the crisis of which is expected to occur today.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Harding Jr., formerly of this city, but now of Washington, D. C., are the parents of a baby daughter, born to them at Georgetown University Hospital last Saturday. Mr. Harding holds a position in the office of Secretary McAdoo.

Local relatives have received word from Charles Wendell and Albert Brynlarski, who went abroad as members of the Medical Corps now stationed at a rest camp in England. It was first reported that they had landed in France but this proved to be erroneous. The young men write that neither became ill on the voyage over and that their first stop of importance was at Birmingham, Eng.

Mrs. C. E. Herring, wife of Rev Dr. Herring, left Wednesday for Indian Orchard, near Springfield, Mass., for a visit with relatives. She will remain until after the holidays.

Charles M. Eoff, of Martine avenue, returned home a few days ago after an ineffectual attempt to bring a new automobile overland from Pittsburgh. He was caught in the heavy snow storm of last week and returned to Pittsburgh from the Western Pennsylvania mountains hoping to go on after the storm subsided. He started out a second time but the roads were so heavy he gave up the attempt at Lancaster and returned to Plainfield by train.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Edith Gertrude Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan R. Lee, of Manning avenue the borough, to Howard F. Titus, of Dunellen. No date has been set for the wedding.

William W. Lawrence, a former resident of this city, who has recently been living in Brooklyn, has enlisted in the ordnance department and has been sent to the training school at Rock Island, Ill. Mr. Lawrence is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Warnuock, of Craig place, the borough.

Miss Ethel E. Humphrey, of Park avenue, a member of the Visiting Nurses' Association, left today for Rome, N. Y., to spend the Christmas vacation with relatives.

Lieutenant Edward A. Carty, of Orchard place, left recently after a furlough at home for Newport News Va., where he is at present stationed in the Machine Gun Division of the Forty-eighth Infantry.

Last Sad Rites For J. Wiswall Drayton

Grace Protestant Episcopal church was thronged with a gathering of relatives and friends yesterday afternoon, when the last sad rites were conducted over the body of James Wiswall Drayton, one of Plainfield's most widely known young men who died Tuesday morning in Muhlenberg Hospital following a brief illness. The service was conducted by the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson and was accentuated by its extreme simplicity. Numerous floral tributes from associates indicated that deep feeling held for the deceased.

At the close of the obsequies the body was placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery, where it will remain until spring. The casket was borne by Gilbert Fletcher, W. L. Perrin, Jr., George Alcorn, Albert Vail, Andrew McClellan and John McClellan. With the exception of the last two, who were uncle and cousin to the deceased through marriage, the bearers were close friends of Mr. Drayton, who had commuted with him on the 7:22 train for many years.

Mr. Drayton's death came as a great surprise as it was not generally known that he had been ill. In reality he had been ailing for nearly a year with uraemic trouble and in the hope of overcoming it had lived on a small farm on Rahway road all last summer. With Mrs. Drayton and the children he returned to town in September, since which time the family had been residing at 821 Second place. On Tuesday of last week the uraemic trouble became quite acute but it seemed as though the attack would pass over when pneumonia developed. His condition became such that it was deemed advisable to place him in Muhlenberg Hospital, but although he was given all the attention that medical skill could devise, he was unable to withstand the combined attack of the two maladies. Death ensued shortly before 11 o'clock on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Drayton was born in Jersey City on July 2, 1872, and came to Plainfield with his parents when he was only three years old. He had made his home here since that time. After completing his education in the local schools, he entered the insurance business in New York, where for many years he was in the employ of Lee & Depew, a widely-known firm. About a year ago he took a position with the Standard Aero Corporation and had been appointed shipping clerk several months before his fatal illness began. He was a member of Grace P. E. church but had no lodge affiliations. Mr. Drayton had acquaintances by the hundreds and was greatly liked by everyone for the democracy that was one of his characteristics. He showed uniform courtesy to everyone and the friends that he readily made were always kept.

Mr. Drayton is survived by his wife, who was Miss Sadie Hand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hand, and three children, John Hand Drayton, Charles Gilmore Drayton and Samuel Wiswall Drayton. There are also surviving two brothers, J. Gilmore Drayton and William H. Drayton, both of New York.

Whitney Baker Now Home Defense Captain

Mayor Calkins this week appointed A. W. Ransome a member of the Home Defense League Commission, enlarging the commission from four to five members. The other commissioners are M. S. Ackerman, chairman; R. F. R. Huntsman, secretary-treasurer; Henry S. Fullerton and Dr. C. B. Lufburrow.

Mr. Ransome has been captain of the league since its organization by the Mayor last March, and its present remarkable efficiency is due in no small measure to his experience and knowledge of military affairs. It is for the purpose of retaining the benefit of that experience that Mayor Calkins has appointed Mr. Ransome a commissioner, now that he finds that his business will not permit him to devote the time required of captain, in the detail of drill and other training.

The commission held its twenty-third regular meeting in the Mayor's office Tuesday night, and promoted First Lieutenant J. Whitney Baker to be captain, and Second Lieutenant Charles S. Langdon to be first lieutenant.

It was announced that medals or other suitable prizes for the members of the winning squad, in the recent inter-squad revolver target practice, would be awarded soon after the first of the year.

SECURES ABSOLUTE DIVORCE.

Chancellor Walker has granted a decree of absolute divorce to Mrs. Bessie H. Waters from her husband, Vernon H. Waters, of this city. The decree also gives Mrs. Waters the custody of her two children. Previous to her marriage the petitioner was Miss Bessie Ross, of Bound Brook, and is now residing at 541 Church street, that borough. Mrs. Waters was represented in the action by Attorney Robert Newton Crane.

Has Your Boy a Bicycle?
He has? Then it's safe to say he is as attached to it as an Arab is to his horse. Does he need new tires—a new lamp—wouldn't he be tickled with one of those new little hand horns?
These are some of the practical hints for Christmas giving. Let him start the new riding year right with bright, new, shining equipment from stem to stern.
There's nothing that we know of—and we've a pretty good memory of our own boyhood—that will please the youngster more—because he loves his wheel. It's more to him than a mere piece of mechanism—it's his steed that carries him wherever he wills; and it can stand an awful lot of petting and "dressing up."
Make Christmas mean even more to him than usual by giving him a new outfit of bike accessories.
Come in and look over our stock—it's worth while.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, DEC. 21, 1917.

THE NOMINAL CANDIDATES FOR COUNTY OFFICES.

By endorsing Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield for appointment as prosecutor in Union county and William Newcorn for judge of the Court of Common Pleas, the Republican City Committee has struck a responsive cord in the breast of every Plainfielder. No better selections could have been made in this immediate area and it might be difficult to find the equals of the two men in any other part of the county. Mr. Hetfield is thoroughly acquainted with the duties of the prosecutor's office. He served a full term as assistant to C. Addison Swift when the latter was acting in this capacity and since then he has been in close touch with legal affairs at the Elizabeth court house. As a practicing attorney, Mr. Hetfield early displayed natural propensities. He followed his studies under the tutelage of his father, the later Walter L. Hetfield, who occupied a distinct position in the New Jersey bar. After the first few years of practical experience that either make or break the rising barrister, the younger Hetfield reached the stage of prominence that showed he had made no mistake in adopting the law as his life calling. No better proof of this is needed beyond the fact that Charles A. Reed, himself a thirty-third degree light in the legal profession, selected him as a partner. It is said that a lawyer never fully completes his education in his own "game" but if there is anything in broadening out, Mr. Hetfield has profited by the close affiliation with the elder practitioner. The younger man has acquitted himself credibly in many cases and in the position of county prosecutor he would be able to serve the citizens as he has served his clients.

There is another feature of the Plainfielder's candidacy for appointment at the hands of Governor Edge. Since the time he was able to cast his first vote on Election Day he has been an untiring and effective worker for the "Grand Old Party" in his home town and the county. In the past few years the responsibilities of Plainfield Republicans have been upon his shoulders and the recent notable victories show how he has marshalled his working forces. If results are to be taken into consideration, in naming the appointee to succeed Prosecutor Stein, Mr. Hetfield is the man who should come first by every right and title.

In the case of Judge Newcorn, there is little need of recounting the merits of his candidacy. He is an able and experienced lawyer. He has put aside private business affairs times without number to work for party principles and he has every qualification to occupy such an important seat as a justice in the Union county tribunal. It is unfortunate that Senator Carlton Pierce entered the race at the time he did. He certainly has made an enviable record in the Upper House of the New Jersey Legislature and is a gifted lawyer, but the Plainfield aspirant was a party worker long before the Cranford man had really become known in the county Republican ranks. Furthermore, Mr. Pierce is a member of the New York bar and as such has had little or no actual experience in New Jersey legal transactions. This is a decidedly important factor when it is realized that the statutes of the two States, both civil and legal, show a wide variance.

Mr. Newcorn has served in the State Legislature. He has presided over Plainfield's District Court for a term of five years and has represented plaintiffs and defendants in some of the most important cases in New Jersey courts. His experience extends beyond the pale of his own county to the Supreme Court at Trenton and Chancery chambers in this and other States. The Republican City Committee recognized all this when it endorsed him for appointment and Governor Edge should consider the wishes of the Plainfield people who did so much for him and the party he represents when he asked for the highest executive position in the State. With Walter L. Hetfield as prosecutor and William Newcorn as judge the Union county courts would be all that the citizens expect it to be. We trust that Governor Edge will weigh the facts carefully before making his decision.

HOME DEFENSE LEAGUE'S SPLENDID SERVICE.

When the Plainfield Home Defense League was organized last March one of the duties outlined for the members was the instant response to what might be termed a "riot call." It was natural to presume that an emergency such as this might occur at any time, but although it has not come about as yet the business men who offered themselves for the protection of their home town will be "on the job" whenever they are needed. This was forcibly demonstrated by the test call which was given Wednesday night. Within one minute after Lieutenant Langdon had sent his first command over a telephone wire, a member of the organization was by his side. Twenty-five minutes later a full squad was on the street in charge of a corporal and patroling a specified area. In the face of bad roads, poor trolley and train service, and practically no means of conveyance but their own feet, seventy-three officers and privates out of a possible 124, reported to Captain J. Whitney Baker inside of an hour.

Such a record as this is worth more than the passing notice demanded by the news feature of the trial summons. The men who make up the membership of the league are representative citizens. Each one has his own home, his own business and his personal pleasures but they are thrust aside for the community in which they live. All through the past summer these men have drilled with dogged perseverance, acquainting themselves with the manual of arms and all that goes to train a soldier for field work. With the actual hostilities of this great war, more than 3,000 miles away, it seemed foolish to the non-thinkers and stay-at-homes to prepare for any turbulance here, but as "eternal viligance is the price of liberty," the Home Defensers knew that if one is prepared for an emergency, it can easily be met. The "riot call" sent out Wednesday night shows how thoroughly the men have been trained and what a splendid system of mobilization has been worked out by the commission. A mob of ordinary proportions that might have over-awed the police could have been subjected within an hour and before the night had passed the Home Defense League, with its well-trained, well-equipped and capably officered unit, could have quieted any disturbances that might endanger the lives and property of innocent people. It is doubtful if any similar body of volunteers in the State could measure up to the standard of the Plainfield defensibles.

Enthusiasm ran high early last year when the Home Guard idea was first gotten under way. The large cities and small communities all formed their own organizations and for a time the individuals within the ranks were bubbling over with enthusiasm. They were not quite so energetic after the first few weeks of drilling. Many of them gained the impression that they were placed on the membership roll to participate in jollification and it was a severe shock to learn that the promoters meant business. Resignations followed each other quickly and by the time real cold weather and arduous guard duty became their lot there were very few of the original volunteers remaining. Almost every bit of interest has ceased to be exhibited in Home Guard units in various parts of the State, but in Plainfield the effect has been just the opposite. At the present time the league is stronger than ever before and the men making up its complement have recognized the need of just such an organization as they have constituted. They have filled the vacancy caused by the mustering in of Company K and Troop D and to some extent have given even better service than these contingents.

Beside guarding the water plant, the league has furnished emergency patrols to the city on several occasions, notably in helping the Draft Exemption Board, for services at the voting places on Election Day, on circus day and "Taft" day. This organization, as a special police reserve which can be called out by the Mayor in any emergency, is acquiring all the proficiency of a crack military battalion. The city has thus acquired a second line of defense of inestimable value, and those who have contributed to the project may well feel that their generosity has not been wasted but has brought them real and substantial insurance against possible trouble. The security of the community is an assured thing.

YOUR HELP NEEDED BY THE RED CROSS.

Only three more days remain before the Red Cross Christmas membership drive in Plainfield comes to an end. A total of 6,000 new names is desired to be registered at that time and from indications the figure will easily be reached. It is not the intention of this community, however, to cease its labors because someone on the outside has seen fit to measure its limitations. In matters of this kind, Plainfield knows no limit. Every fund that has been started has gone beyond the mark, every campaign that has been launched has extended over the set line and any enterprise of a charitable nature gets absolute and undivided support. The big drive is still on and when the close is announced next Monday night it will show Plainfield to be one of the most enthusiastic Red Cross units in the United States.

Speaking of the Red Cross movement, Henry P. Davison, chairman of the American Red Cross Council, made the following remark which we reprint for the benefit of those who have not yet felt the worthiness of their part in the big campaign:

"For our country's sake, for our boys' sake, most of all for our own sake, you need to join and be one in the great task of humanity which President Wilson has outlined as the scope of Red Cross service."

It is expected that 15,000,000 members will have been enrolled in the organization before Christmas Day dawns. There are now only 5,000,000 Americans enlisted in the Red Cross army—only one out of every twenty citizens of the republic are associated with this great constructive work of relief and humanity.

The chairman of the Red Cross War Council points out what effect enrollment in the organization will have on the enlisted men in the following words:

"A few days ago the country read of the Red Cross trains and personnel that were mobilized instantly for the relief of Halifax. But our organization is enlisting today in the task of universal emergency. American people have enlisted for the period of the war, and we shall see it through to victory, but victory is based on 'morale.' 'Morale' means the spirit with which the men go into the fight. Our boys are going in with the consciousness that the American people are behind them to care for their dear ones; to supply them with the necessary comforts of life; to renew them in body and mind if they are crippled; to aid the stricken countries to recover from the devastation which they have witnessed, and with this knowledge the efficiency of our armies is increased a hundredfold."

The Red Cross has two great missions to serve. It is greatly needed, too, to accomplish the work of reconstructing and rehabilitating the countries that have been wasted by war. It is one of the vanguard organizations of our best civilization.

There's another phase about this plan of having the firemen knit socks when they are not fighting flames, shining brass or fixing automobile machinery. Supposing the boys get so interested in helping the soldiers that when a still alarm comes over the telephone Chief Jennings will have to say: "I'm awfully sorry your house is on fire, ma'am, but I cannot help you out because my men are all busy knitting and the excitement might make them drop a stitch."

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When "Steve" Hope was janitor of the Bryant School?

When we had the kind of winter "Charlie" Johnson talks about?

When the folks at home used a carpet covered brick to hold the door back?

When thousands of people all over the country wore "chapeaus" with the imprint "made-in-Plainfield?"

When furnaces were still a luxury but the family derived an immense amount of pleasure by sitting around the kitchen stove on cold winter nights; the "kids" popping corn in the frying pan and the old folks munching apples seasoned with salt, brought in pans full from the barrel in the cellar?

"Jack" Kreger Near Victim of German U-Boat

How it feels to be on a vessel directly in the path of a German torpedo rushing toward you at a speed of forty knots an hour and escape being hit by a bare four feet is thrillingly described by "Jack" Kreger, of East Fourth street, in Plainfield this week, on a few days' furlough from his duties in the United States Navy. He declares that the sensation of expecting to sail high in the air and then drop back in the icy waters of the Atlantic after the death-dealing missile had exploded is anything but pleasant, yet the American boys look upon it as a matter of fact occurrence, and accept the "thrill" as a part of an ocean trip.

Mr. Kreger entered the naval branch of Uncle Sam's service last spring and after the usual preliminary training at the Newport training school was placed on one of the auxiliary cruisers acting as convoy for transports. The vessel made a trip to France in November, and was on the return journey when the torpedo experience described took place. The incident, if it might be termed as such occurred at midnight and although there was only the light of the stars to go by the deadly war machine could be seen traveling through the water. The lookout gave the danger signal and the ship's officers began maneuvering the cruiser to avoid being hit, the best known method being to run in a zigzag course. The torpedo shot by with only a few feet separating it from the stern of the big vessel. Although a determined search was made absolutely no trace of the U-boat discharging the missile could be found.

While in France, Mr. Kreger, in company with the members of his ship's crew, were permitted to visit the camp of the American soldiers. More than 100,000 of Uncle Sam's men are undergoing intensive training at this point, and the sight was one of a life time. The day the Plainfielder was there baseball teams representing the infantry and artillery were playing a championship game and all hands stopped to watch proceedings. While Kreger was standing on one side of the side lines, he was approached by a young man in uniform who exclaimed:

"Hello, Kreger, how is everybody in Plainfield?"

The man addressed had difficulty in recognizing his questioner, but a close scrutiny showed him to be Edward Taylor, of Dunellen, who enlisted early last summer. He has undergone a great change in appearance, his face being bronzed by the sun and his weight greatly increased by the active outdoor life. Taylor stated that Kenneth Phillips, of Madison avenue, who was transferred from Camp Dix, was also one of the American boys at the big cantonment, but though Kreger made an effort to see him he could not be located. Taylor said that the troops now in France are in fine fettle and anxious for the orders to come that will take them to the front.

"Kiddies" Will Be Elks' Guests

Jolly old Santa Claus, that fat, good natured fellow who takes good care of the children at Christmas time, has again appointed Plainfield Lodge of Elks to represent him in Plainfield this season. The members of the organization have received a special telegram from the North Pole, telling them to exercise unusual care in looking out for every boy and girl as the work among the soldiers in Europe is keeping old Santa himself so closely confined that he must leave some of his errands to other people.

Accordingly the Elks have prepared to give the Plainfield "kiddies" who otherwise might be overlooked, just as Merry a Christmas as the little man with the reindeers could give himself. The program will be put in operation at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when all the poor children of the city are to assemble at the Plainfield Theatre where a film program of movies and vaudeville will be given for their entertainment. Manager "Mike" Shannon, who is one of the most enthusiastic of the Elks and who has a great liking for youngsters, has taken great pains to provide just the things that juveniles prefer most. The big feature he has secured is a five-reel picture called "Told at Midnight," in which little Marie Osborne, the child actress, will be seen in the principal part. Miss Osborne is known as "little sunshine," and she never fails to live up to the title when posing in a picture play. It is certain that her performances tomorrow will delight the small critics and her list of admirers will be increased by more than a thousand.

Beside "Told at Midnight," there will be funny pictures, the kind with "Happy" Hooligan," "Lonesome Luke," fat policemen and all the other comical "jiggers" only for laughing purposes. Between reels comedians will do and say just the things that kids like to see and hear, and after the show is over the Elks will take care of their guests with a substantial gift. They won't tell just now what it will be but everybody knows it will be just the thing the kids want.

The theatre performance is only a part of what the Elks will do to help out Santa Claus. They will visit many a home between now and Christmas and will leave coal, food and clothing to those who need it. These same Elks know that Christmas can't be very merry if there is no warm fire in the house or something to eat and that is why they give the things that are needed most. The high cost of living has made a big calling list for them, but they hope to cover every part of the city and borough before sending back word to Santa Claus that they have done just what he wanted them to do.

While everybody in Plainfield Lodge takes part in the Christmas work, the committee appointed to arrange and take charge of all the doings is composed of William H. Pope, chairman; F. H. Bird, Capt. William C. Smith, Clarence W. Mundy, Walter Apgar and William R. Townsend.

Schools Close For Christmas

Plainfield's schools closed today for the usual Christmas vacation and the pupils will not reassemble until Wednesday, January 2. The laying aside of books and lessons this morning was accompanied by the Yuletide exercises that are numbered among the pleasantest memories of grown-ups who have gone through the same formalities many a time. In the kindergartens and the primary grades, the programs consisted mostly of cantatas, recitations, addresses and singing, but in the High School and grammar grades they were more elaborate.

The program at the High School was in charge of Principal Lindsey Best, who took occasion to extend best wishes for a Merry Christmas to the pupils assembled in the auditorium. A splendid address with a Christmas flavor was given by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of this city, and the entire school sang patriotic songs and carols, with instrumental accompaniment.

During the exercises three gifts were made to the school. These were a beautiful reproduction of the "Spirit of '76," a Red Cross flag and a service flag. The picture was presented in behalf of the pupils by Miss Margaret Rice and was received for the school by Monroe O'Donnell. The Red Cross flag was presented by Harold Loiseaux and was received in behalf of the school by Miss Winifred Eaton, president of the Junior Red Cross chapter. Principal Best presented the service flag to the school in behalf of the 154 graduates or undergraduates of the P. H. S. who are now serving their country in either the army or the navy. This number is one of the largest held by any High School in New Jersey and at that does not cover every boy in the service as the list has not yet been completed.

Before the exercises concluded, the school insignia and leaders badges were awarded the pupils who had become entitled to them for meritorious work during the term.

"Phozzy" Firstbrook Goes to Greenwich For Further Laurels

George E. Firstbrook, one of the best known newspaper men in the metropolitan district, who began his career with one of the local newspapers, has assumed the city editorship of the Greenich Connecticut Press. This paper is published by a company of which Ralph L. Morrow, for editor of the Plainfield Daily Press for ten years, is the managing head. Mr. Firstbrook, during the past year, has been city editor of the Montclair Herald, resigning from this position to go to Connecticut. He entered upon his new duties on Monday of this week.

Mr. Firstbrook is a born newspaper man and the citizens of Greenwich will profit by his entrance to the Press staff. With Mr. Morrow, the town will have a news team second to none in the New England States. Plainfielders remember the days when "Phozzy" unearthed more nature fakes and sensational happenings than even the far-famed correspondent of Winsted, Conn. Transplated to an entirely new field, like the Nutmeg State, rich with journalistic possibilities, Mr. Firstbrook will give the natives plenty of topics for discussion during the present winter. Beside this, there is a chance that the Winsted live wire may have to look to his laurels if he wishes to remain on the front page of the New York World.

Since first leaving Plainfield, in 1903, Mr. Firstbrook has worked at various times for the Newark News, the Newark Star, the Elizabeth Times, the Hoboken Inquirer, the Philadelphia Press, the Asbury Park Press, the Westfield Standard and the New York Mail. For the last paper he acted as sporting writer and traveled over the country in 1909 with the New York American League baseball team. His copy was used in the Mail under his own name and gave metropolitan fans the best "diamond" dope they have had in recent years.

STANDARD PLANT WILL HAVE ELIZABETH PROTECTION

On recommendation of the apparatus committee, the Board of Fire Commissioners of Elizabeth Tuesday night granted fire protection to the plant of the Standard Aero Corporation, which is just across the city line in Linden township. Under the rules of the board, this service will be charged for at the rate of $50 per hour of actual running time of each piece of apparatus.

Commissioner Patterson, chairman of the apparatus committee, reported that he and Chief Gerstung had made a survey of the scene with the object of determining the number of fire hydrants and the amount of water available in the vicinity. He said the company agreed to put in extra hydrants at its own expense.

Red Cross Drive Nearing 5,000 Mark

The report at Red Cross campaign headquarters, last night, showed the membership drive totals to be $4,453. It is now definitely certain, that the full 6,000 new members desired will be secured by tomorrow night and with two more days remaining after that it is possible the number may reach 8,000.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

MRS. FRED W. DUNN.

Following an illness of only two days with pneumonia, death came early Wednesday morning to Mrs. Laura W. Dunn, wife of Fred W. Dunn, at her home at 628 East Front street. She contracted a heavy cold and almost before her family appreciated its danger, it had passed into a threatening stage. Everything possible was done to allay the progress of the disease, but medical skill proved of no avail. News of Mrs. Dunn's death gave a great shock to her hundreds of friends, as it was not generally known that she was even indisposed.

The funeral service will take place at the family residence tomorrow afternoon and will be private. It will be in charge of Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, to which the deceased belonged and of which her father, the late Lewis E. Barkalew, was one of the charter members.

Mrs. Dunn was a native of Plainfield, and had resided here all her life. She was a woman of beautiful Christian character and endeared herself to a large circle of friends in Plainfield and vicinity, who will sincerely mourn one whose example as wife, mother and Christian was of the highest and most enduring character.

At the death of her fater six years ago, Mrs. Dunn's mother made her home with her and is among the surviving relatives. Beside her husband, who was one of Plainfield's leading merchants for many years, Mrs. Dunn leaves two daughters and a son. These are Mrs. Henry N. Pelley, Miss Lorraine W. Dunn and Wesley J. Dunn, all of this city.

Following the funeral service tomorrow, the body will be placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery and interment will take place when weather conditions become favorable.

WILLIAM W. SCHENCK.

William W. Schenck, aged fifty-five years, died Wednesday at his home, 148 East Second street, following an illness of two years. He was a native of Somerville, but had lived here practically all his life. He was employed by various local concerns as teamster. He is survived by his wife, one son, John Schenck, of Bridgeport, Conn.; also two brothers and three sisters living out of town.

The funeral was held at the late home on East Second street at 12:30 this noon and was in charge of Rev. C. S. Gillespie, of Grace M. E. church. Burial was at Somerville.

MRS. MARY DUNN.

Mrs. Mary Dunn, widow of Frank Dunn, a well-known resident of Flemington for many years, died Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Fisher, of East Second street. She had been ill but a short time with complications. The funeral was held this morning in St. Mary's church, Flemington, and burial was made in the cemetery at that place.

Mrs. Dunn was born in Ireland seventy-seven years ago but came to this country when only a child. She had made her home in Flemington for sixty years, coming to Plainfield following the death of her husband last fall. Beside Mrs. Fisher, she leaves two other daughters and two sons. These are Mrs. Charles Fagan, of this city; Mrs. John Kaine, of Ringoes; John Dunn, of New York, and Daniel Dunn, of Flemington.

WILLIAM WALLACE FURNISS.

William Wallace Furniss, the three months' old son of Dr. and Mrs. C. Clinton Furniss, of Chatham place, the borough, died Monday. The funeral took place Tuesday and the body was placed in the receiving vault at Fairview cemetery, Westfield, for interment later.

MRS. SARAH A. BREADY.

Mrs. Sarah A. Bready, widow of John K. Bready, died Friday night at her home on West Sixth street, near Central avenue. The funeral was held at the late residence Tuesday morning and later in the mortuary chapel of C. Oliver Blair, in Philadelphia. Burial was in Kest Laurel Hill cemetery, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Bready came to Plainfield from the Ogden City and had become widely acquainted. She leaves one son, Harry Campbell, living in Ohio; a daughter, Miss Mayme Bready, of this city; two brothers and a sister, living in Philadelphia.

CORNELIUS VAN HERWERDEN.

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, the funeral of Cornelius Van Herwerden, a well-known Plainfielder, whose death occurred Saturday morning after a long illness, was held at the late home at 1312 South avenue, Monday afternoon. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, of New York, former pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, to which the deceased belonged. The floral tributes included numerous set pieces from city officials friends of the family and the Masonic fraternity. Because of waste conditions, burial was deferred for the time being, the body being placed in the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Van Herwerden was born in Holland in 1843 but came to America when but seventeen years of age. With is parents he located at Flushing, L. I., and after completing his education entered business in New York. Twenty-five years ago, Mr. Van Herwerden removed to Plainfield, making his home in the Netherwood section, where he died. He had practically retired from business, but after being here a short time became interested in real estate and developed several pieces of property on South avenue and East Seventh street. Much of the growth of these two thoroughfares below Leland avenue is due to his efforts. He built twenty or more fine dwellings which induced other Plainfielders to follow suit, although on a small scale.

For the past five or six years Mr. Van Herwerden had suffered from an incurable complaint, which affected him head and throat. He underwent several operations and subjected himself to arduous treatment in the hope of obtaining relief but without success. In 1912 Mr. Van Herwerden was elected a member of the Common Council and served during 1913 and 1914. He made an excellent record and would have been returned by his constituents but owing to his physical ailment was forced to retire from official life. For the past six months he had been failing steadily and had been confined to the house most of that time. His trouble was aggravated by mental distress, which followed the death of his wife a little more than a year ago. The loss of her companionship weighed upon his mind to no small extent.

Mr. Van Herwerden's only fraternal conection was with the Lodge of Masons at Flushing, L. I. His near surviving relatives are one daughter, Mrs. Alyda Legare, ho had been living in California, but who came to Plainfield to make her home with her father after the death of her mother, and one son, Jan Van Herwerden, of Berkeley avenue, Netherwood, who is president of the Rahway National Bank. The latter was also a member of the Plainfield Common Council, serving in 1903 and 1904. Edward W. Bok, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, is a nephew of the deceased and was one of those in attendance at the funeral Monday.

DR. MARTIN G. BENEDICT.

The body of Dr. Martin G. Benedict, head master at the Wardlaw School, who met death some time Saturday, through inhallation of gasoline fumes at his garage on West Seventh street, was taken to Delhi, N. Y., Sunday. It was accompanied by C. D. Wardlaw, of the Wardlaw School, who remained for the funeral service and interment which took place Monday. Burial was in the family plot in the cemetery at Delhi.

Dr. Benedict was sixty-one years old and came to this city last September, following his acceptance of an appointment to the Wardlaw School. He was instructor in Latin and mathematics at the institution, subjects in which he stood as one of America's foremost scholars. Long experience in educational work had given him an inimitable manner of imparting knowledge, that was alike a pleasure to himself and to his pupils. He was held in the highest esteem by the faculty and student bodies of the school, all of whom were greatly shocked by his untimely demise.

Dr. Benedict made his home at the Varian anartments at 107 West Seventh street. Saturday morning Mrs. Benedict left for a shopping trip to New York and the doctor decided to put his automobile away for the winter while she was absent. When he did not return at lunch time, no special notice was taken, but when he did not return in the evening his wife became alarmed. A hurried search disclosed his body in the garage. Dr. F. W. Wescott, who was called in his official capacity as county physician, declared that death had ensued many hours phevious to discovering the lifeless form. The physician stated that the fumes of carbon monovide gas generated by the automobile motor had caused suffocation. The garage was closed tightly because of the cold and the fumes had little chance to escape.

It is a co-incidence that Nat Wills, the widely-known actor, met death in exactly the same manner in the garage of his home at Cliftwood, last week. Mr. Wills went to get his machine while his wife waited for him at the house but when he failed to appear in a few minutes, she went to see what caused the delay. The body of the actor was found in front of the car while the motor was running at full speed. He had evidently bent over the hood after starting up the motor and received the full effect of the deadly gases.

Dr. Benedict was born at Delhi, N. Y., and was graduated from Colgate University. For some years he was professor of pedagogy in Penn State College and later became principal of a high school at Utica, N. Y. He resigned this position to become principal of St. Johnsbury Academy, St. Johnsbury, Vt., coming from that place to Plainfield. He leaves his wife, a son, in China, and a sister and brother in Delhi, N. Y.

MRS. MARGARET S. COOLIDGE.

Mrs. Margaret S. Coolidge, a native of this vicinity practically all her life, died Tuesday night at her home at 195 New street. Her demise was caused by the infirmities of age as she had passed her ninetieth birthday. The funeral was held at the late residence this morning at 11 o'clock, and was private. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, and burial was made in the family plot in the old Presbyterian cemetery, Westfield.

Mrs. Coolidge was twice married and is survived by two daughters and two sons. These are Mrs. E. H. Dunn, of Somerville; Mrs. Laura C. Vaughan, of Woodhaven, L. I.; Joseph E. Meeker, of Marion place, this city, and Louis C. Meeker, of Dunellen. There are also surviving ten grandchildren, twelve great grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild, making five generations of the family at the time of Mrs. Coolidge's death.

MRS. ABIGAIL J. SPRINGER.

Mrs. Achsah J. Springer, a resident of Fanwood for the past year, died suddenly at her home on Farrell street, that borough, some time during Monday. She was left to herself during the day as the members of her family all go to business in New York city to Fanwood and was thoroughly enjoying life in the suburb when she fell victim to the fatal attack. She leaves two daughters, with whom she resided, the eldest being Mrs. L. C. Bevaure.

The body was sent to Groveport, O., Tuesday afternoon, and the funeral service took place there yesterday. Burial was in the family plot in Asbury cemetery, Groveport.

Court Orders Bank to Return Runkle Bonus

Should the Court of Errors, in the almost certain event of appeal, sustain Vice Chancellor Lane in an opinion filed Tuesday, the Logan Trust Company of Philadelphia will have to relinquish a $7,000 bonus it took to itself in a loan transaction involving the hypothecation by Harry G. Runkle, Daniel Runkle and Mrs. Mary Runkle Helberg, of this city, of their respective interests, to the extent of $73,000, in the estate of the late William Runkle, of Orange. Harry Runkle was William Runkle's brother, Daniel Runkle and Mrs. Helberg are Harry Runkle's children.

When the suit against the trust company was argued recently before him, Vice Chancellor Lane remarked that if there was any way under the law by which he could deprive the Logan Trust of the $7,360 bonus he would do it, saying the transaction could not be "to severely condemned."

At the argument it was contended by V. Claude Palmer, of Mt. Holly, in behalf of the defendant institution, that inasmuch as the contract was made in Philadelphia, the issue of usury would have to be determined in accordance with the law of that State. And in Pennsylvania, Mr. Palmer said, the courts have established the rule that the defense of usury is personal to the debtor and can't be set by any other person than the debtor, and by him only within a limited time. In the case at bar the transaction was attacked by McCarter & English in behalf of a subsequent assignee.

On the point raised by Mr. Palmer the vice chancellor says: n his opinion: "I am far from convinced that the courts of Pennsylvania have gone to the extent of holding that in a case such as this, where a creditor is endeavoring to enforce in a court of equit yan equitable assignment cognizable only in equity, the creditor will be permitted, as against those in privy with the debtor, to recover more than the amount actually advanced, plus legal interest. And I am unwilling to hold that its courts can be stirred to enforce a contract which is illegal and against its public policy. But, be that as it may, it seems to me to be clear that, assuming the contract to have been made in Pennsylvania, but to be enforced in this State, and requiring for its enforcement the action of this court, the question as to by whom the defense of illegality can be set up is governed by the lex fori (law of the forum).

"The result is that the claim of the Logan Trust Company will be reduced by $7,000, and an order advised directing the distribution of the sum of $7,360, with the accumulations reserved by the executor under a prior order, to the creditor next in order of priority."

The affidavits and other papers in the case disclosed that while the Logan Trust Company appeared to have loaned Runkle $73,000, all that he got out of the transaction was $66,025.25, certain deductions from the full amount having been made as follows: Bonus, $7,300; "legal services" in connection with the loan, $430; general disbursements, $980.85; year's interest in advance, $4,380; year's premium on an insurance policy on Mr. Runkle's life, $2,257.20; payment to a Mr. Quaal for introducing Mr Runkle and arranging the loan, $3,000; payment to a Mr. Peterson, who figured in the deal as a broker, $3,000; premium paid to a surety company, $286.70.

UNION COUNTY'S TRANSFER TAX

State Comptroller Newton A. K. Hughes has announced that a total of $1,418,350.79 has been received by the State treasury as the tax imposed on the transfer of property of resident decedents. The total amount refunded to the various counties is $70,818.06, of which Union county's share is $1,951.66. The tax collected from Union county was $79,633.15.

"BILL" SMITH AT JACKSONVILLE

William A. Smith, who resigned his position as assistant manager at Swift & Company's local branch to enlist in the Quartermasters' Department, was transferred last week from Fort Slocum to Jacksonville, Fla. He will probably be stationed at the latter point all winter. Cards received from him yesterday state that the days at Jacksonville are very warm, but the nights are real cold. The sudden changes do not affect him, however, he says, as he got used to this sort of thing by going in and out of the beef house ice boxes on warm summer days.

"Close Up" Leaves From Driver's Diary Reveal

Risks Encountered by Ambulance Men in Field Work

A few American newspaper men of the "draft dodger" type took it upon themselves recently to criticise the American Red Cross Ambulance Field service. These long distance observers who had no actual experience on which to base their assertions declared in printed articles that driving an ambulance or acting as litter bearer was only a subterfuge to escape real service at the front and that the young men who enlisted in it were involved in practically no danger, that they had better accommodations than the boys in the trenches and were given undue publicity because of being connected with the great relief organization. More than once since these misinforming "revelings" have been published have they been given the lie, the authentic accounts coming from the European battlefields compelling the writers to "eat" their miserable words.

Plainfield has been represented in the Red Cross field service by one of the most brilliant young men who have yet left the city. He is Clemence A. Bechtel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bechtel, of Carlton avenue, who has many times barely escaped with his life while succoring the wounded on the French front. Even the infantry men in the first line of trenches have undergone no more hazards than he. Time and again soldiers and comrades nearby were killed before his very eyes, shells with their death-dealing shrapnel burst only a few feet away from him and on one occasion his detachment was forced to seek shelter in a "bomb proof" which disclosed twenty-one dead men in the morning after a night of constant fire. For heroism displayed in the face of almost seeming death, the young Plainfielder was cited by a French officer for the "Croix de Guerre" or, War Cross, an honor that does not fall to the lot of a man who puts personal safety before that of a wounded and helpless soldier. Ten other young men in the same ambulance unit as "Clem" Bechtel also received the war cross and his particular section also received a "Section citation." So far as known this was the greatest record of any division of the American Red Cross field service reported up to October last.

So much heroism is displayed on the present battlefields by American boys that it is a hard matter to tell about it in the ordinary chronicling of the cable news, but a dairy sent to this city by Mr. Bechtel gives a vivid idea of what some of our lads are doing. His viewpoint was from that of an official car or chiefly in the zone which the German gunners swept with shell fire while he was helping to pick up wounded. It is so vitally interesting that we have secured permission to revrint the most interesting parts. There will be no one will entertain the belief after reading it that said ambulance service has fully, if not more, thrills than actual fighting. For military reasons, the names of the towns mentioned have been deleted, but otherwise the diary is given as he wrote it previous to completing his enlistment and being sent to an aviation training camp in Egypt, following successful examinations taken for this branch of service in Paris. The dairy is as follows:

I will start the day we left Paris after receiving our training at camp.

Friday, June 29—Left S—— for Paris at 8 a. m. Had the day to ourselves. Jimmie, Hosky and I spent the day with Mr. Sedgewick. (Jimmie and Hosky are the two boys I came over with, and Mr. Sedgewick is the author of the editor of the Atlantic Month.) Left Paris on the 6:15 train for D——. Managed to ride first class and had a good sleep on the floor.

Saturday, June 30—Arrived at D—— about 6 a. m. Cameons (large motor trucks) met us and took us to quarters. Some quarters! An old storehouse full of hay and rats. Had no work, so looked the town over. It is a very beautiful city, and has many old landmarks. Section 61 is here, and their cars are ready for them. Our cars are here also, twenty Flat ambulances, and Vermerel staff car.

Sunday, July 1—Found find baths today. 1:50 a swim. Had dinner in a restaurant on the property of the Duke of Burgundy, and then went out to see the town.

Monday, July 2—Section 61 left at 5 a. m. I was up to see them off. They are going to the Vosges section. Hope we do not go there, as it is very quiet. I had the good fortune to be chosen to drive the staff car for the French lieutenant. Drove about town in the afternoon. Had a swim about 5, but did not eat any dinner, as I was feeling "rocky."

Tuesday, July 3—Washed the car today and drove out to the aviation and artillery schools. Had dinner in town with Mr. Pearce, our section leader. Met the lieutenant later and did the movies.

Wednesday, July 4—Received orders to move on to T——. Got away in a divine rain. An English lady gave us a large bouquet for the staff car, and saw us off in all the rain. We made C—— about 6 p. m., and were quartered in private houses. Had a fine blowout at the Hotel de la Poste, and the champagne flowed like water. Sure had a good old Fourth, if we never see another.

Thursday, July 5—Got under way about 7 for T——. Arrived there at 10:30 a. m. Everything fine with the exception of Brown's car, having burned out bearings. The lieutenant gave me a pass to go around town (the only one given out). Mr. Pearce and I took a long ride and found the country very beautiful. We leave for B—— tomorrow. It looks as though we were going to the Verdun section. Am glad of that for we will see real action.

Saturday, July 6—Left T—— about 8 a. m., arriving at B—— about 10. Put up in the regular army barracks. Saw the anti-aircraft guns shooting at a German plane on our way in. Leave here tomorrow for N——.

Sunday, July 8—Orders changed: do not go until 4 a. m. tomorrow. The lieutenant secured a new car to replace Brown's. Read until 2 a. m.

Monday, July 9—Got away about 4 a. m., arriving at N—— at 6:45. Quarters rotten. An old barn, full of shell holes and rats. Some of the boys are covered with vermin. The French call them "totos," and take them as a joke. Suppose we will do the same soon, nevertheless, we got Jimmie a gasoline bath tonight. Raining hard.

Tuesday, July 10—More rain. Mud a foot deep. Drove the lieutenant up front today. Have orders for ten cars to go to B—— tomorrow, as the Germans are starting something. The big guns roared all night.

Wednesday, July 11—Went out to B—— at 10:30 with ten cars and parked next to the Field Hospital to await calls. The lieutenant took me out to C—— today. The town is a total wreck. Not a house standing. Saw the trench lights today. Only ten cars carried forty-two "blesses" (wounded) today, mostly gas cases.

Thursday, July 12—Went out front today. The lieutenant made me put on my "cask" (helmet) and swing my gas mask over my shoulder. A German plane dropped a bomb about two hundred feet from us, but it did not go off. German planes over all day. The A. A. guns were busy, but did not hit them.

Friday, July 13—This should have been an unlucky day, but things were very quiet. Drove to B—— this p. m.

Saturday, July 14—French holiday. Had a quart of champagne for each man given us by the army. Also some cigars, but they looked like grenades, so we passed them up. Drained hard tonight and my bed almost floated away.

Sunday, July 15—Two of our cars came together head-on last night. Both of them were badly smashed up. The boys were unhurt. It sure is tough driving without lights. A spider helped himself to part of my face last night, and had to go to the hospital and have it dressed. Had the experience of my life this p. m. The lieutenant had to go to one of the posts (Poste de Secoms of section 17, which we are relieving). The post is about one hundred yards from the trench French. We arrive by this means in front of all the artillery. The famous 75's were banging away and I could hear the big fellows whistle on their way. A big German shell broke about one hundred yards from us, and the dirt and gravel flew like mad. The gunners told us they were trying to locate the battery. I don't know if I was scared or not.

A Monday, July 16—The boys came in from B—— today, with sad news. A chap named Craig, from Boston, with American Field Service 2, had his leg blown off about 5 o'clock last night, and died soon after. Came to the core, and was laughing and joking with our boys while in the ambulance. Another fellow was cut about the face with shrapnel. Our boys on duty had to run for the dugouts, as the Germans started to shell the town. Things are becoming real now, and we say good-bye to one another when he go out. At 6 p. m. the boys were again chased from post. One Frenchman killed, and nine wounded. We were paid today, our francs. Eighty cents for sixteen days.

Tuesday, July 17—The French attack was put on at 3 a. m. and was a howling success. We were rushed all day. Carried many German prisoners. Had a long talk with a German lieutenant who had a ball through his shoulder. He said, "Germany had enough food, but none to waste." Did not know the U. S. had soldiers on French soil, nor did he know of the draft. Ten of our ambulances carried fifty-four blesses in twenty-four hours.

Wednesday, July 18—Rained all day. The troops and guns have been passing in a never-ending stream. Rumored that the big attack will be put on the end of the month.

Thursday, July 19—Gas bombs came in to J—— today and we had to wear the mask on all day. I took a German helmt from a lieutenant this p. m. He was captured at Hill 304, and one of our boys brought him in shot through the chest. I told him he would not need the helmet where he was going.

Friday, July 20—I just missed it today. Was coming back from B—— and had just gone through the village of F——, when a German aviator dropped four bombs, killing ten and wounding nineteen. Went back to see the scene. The men had been eating in a large tent. One of the bombs landed square in front of it. The tent looked like a sieve, but I was surprised to see the small hole the bomb made (about two feet in diameter).

Saturday, July 21—Asked Mr. Pearce to try to secure my transfer to aviation. I hope it can be arranged before my time in this service is up. Dreamed of flying all night, and when I awoke, wondered if I eve would see the good old U. S. again However, the Germans have to b downed, and England and France have given her best sons, so why should I think of myself. At 3 p. m. the French started a terrific bombardment. Continued until 10 a. m. Looks as though they were going over.

Sunday, July 22—Received my first mail from home today. Ye Gods, but it was great to hear from the folks. Everything fine at home and I am way-up today. German planes over us all day, and the sky has been dotted with bursting shrapnel from the anti-air craft guns. Went out front today, and it was great. Just the backs of firecrackers only a little louder. Saw the burial of the aviators' victims.

Monday, July 23—Looked over the quarters of A. F. S. 17 this morning. They are much better than ours. We hope to take their place in a few days, nevertheless, we got on repose. Went up to B——, and helped the boys all night.

Tuesday, July 24—Went over the car this morning, and found the magneto in poor shape. Tinkered around and had her hitting fine by night. Wrote a few letters and turned in early. Understand we are going to J—— tomorrow. Hope so as the d—— rats are becoming too friendly.

Wednesday, July 25—Moved to J—— this morning. Have taken over four posts. They are nearer the front than any posts in the Verdun section, and are known as P 1, 2 and 3, and B 1. Took four cars to R——, and two to P 2. Whenever there are any wounded, the cars at P 2 bring them to the "Freage" at B——. On the way in they stop at R—— and send another car up to take their place. We are also taking care of the evacuation work from the Freage. It rained hard all day. I had turned in, and had just made the first turn, when Mr. Pearce awakened me to drive him to P 2. We started about 10 p. m., and although the rain had ceased, the roads were in bad shape. We made R—— all right, as we went by way of C——. I shall never forget the trip from there on. The Frittzes were shelling the roads, as there were troops and ammunition going up. We passed no less than six 88 cameons in the ditch, and came within a hair of riding a dead horse. Things were so bad that I had to walk ahead with my hand on the mud guard, shouting directions to Mr. Pearce at the wheel, and then run ahead to stop artillery wagons, so that we could "looping it up" in the dark. A big cameon hit us a slap in the back, as she backed out of a ditch, but did no damage to our car. Finally arrived at P 2, having taken one hour and forty-five minutes for what is ordinarily a two hour trip, though

Government Takes Over Coal Output

Government control of every ton of coal mined in the United States becomes effective through an order made public yesterday by Dr. Harry A. Garfield, fuel administrator. This order went into effect December 24 and will remain in force until further notice.

This is the most drastic action yet taken by the fuel administrator. In this order Dr. Garfield requires that every contract for the purchase and sale of coal and coke shall contain a provision that it shall be subject to immediate cancellation at the request or order of the Fuel Administrator, and that coal or coke deliverable under such contracts shall be subject to requisition by the government.

It must be provided also in such contracts that in the event of such cancellation and seizure neither of the parties shall have any cause of action against the other or against the United States.

Contest Arises In Make-up of Fire Board

Inside information as to the probable make-up of President Francis J. Blatz's councilmanic committees to be announced at the reorganization meeting New Year's night, reveals the fact that a contest has developed for the chairmanship of the Fire Board. Councilman Charles C. Graves, who has been a member of this organization since his entrance to the Council, is anxious to succeed John H. Cose, the present incumbent. Councilman Thomas S. Hyian, who has been chairman of the street and one of the leading figures in the City Hall commission, is also anxious to be the head of the Fire Board and both men are pushing their claims. Only in the game Councilman Sminck indicated that he would like the position if no one else sought it particularly but he has since stepped aside for the other man.

Mr. Graves is well versed in local fire department affairs, having served as a volunteer and call man for nearly twenty-five years. He has also devoted much of his time to this branch of city service since becoming a member of the fire committee and his friends are urging that he be given the place. When President Blatz was asked about the matter yesterday he said he had no information to give out at this time.

If it should come to pass that Mr. Hylan gets the Fire Board chairmanship, rumor has it that G. Herbert Condict might take his place as chairman of the street committee. Rumor also has it that Mr. Sminck may succeed Juan A. Babcock as chairman of the finance committee and Theodore Martin is likely to be chairman of the police committee.

The 1917 Council will hold its last meeting next Monday night to wind up the year's business, and the first regular meeting of the new body will take place Tuesday night.

Few Changes In County's Official List

Outside of a number of changes in the personnel of the Board of Freeholders the new year will witness but few new faces at the courthouse. A majority of the officialdom of the county will remain intact for at least a portion of the year, the first to step out being County Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein and his assistant, Martin P. O'Connor. Their duties will terminate the middle of March. The next change to occur will be when Judge James C. Connolly, who has presided over the Court of Common Pleas for a number of years, will relinquish that office on April 1.

The Board of Freeholders will convene for the first session of 1918 on New Year's Day, when the work of organization will take place. There have been quite a number of changes made in the county governing body, changes that have placed but one lone Democrat on the board for the ensuing year. The Republicans will number twenty-one against the single Democratic representative. The Township of Union has a representative this year, making the total membership twenty-two Last year it was twenty-one.

Several familiar faces will be missing from the board meetings. Samuel P. T. Wilbur, of Plainfield, long active on the roads committee, will step out after thirteen years of service; Elias P. Applegate was not a candidate for re-election, having made an unsuccessful try for sheriff; Bradford Jones, of New Providence, failed of re-election, opposition developing because of the prison farm project; Peter H. Meisel drew out of the race for re-election; John Woodruff and Noah Woodruff were equally unsuccessful in being returned, and William H. Randolph, of Rahway, also did not aspire to be re-elected. The new member from Union is Frederick Doll.

Of the new membership, David H. Trembly, of Rahway, will represent the minority, being a Democrat. Mr. Trembly will have a great amount of committee work. He will have to represent the minority on the most important committees.

Of the holdovers, Charles Affleck, of Westfield; James O. Brokaw, of Elizabeth; James F. Buckle, of Plainfield; John N. Cady, of Summit; Elston Darby, of Mountainside; Clifford B. Gehring, of Rahway; John Z. Hatfield, of Fanwood; Thomas F. Haviland, of Elizabeth; Henry Krouse, of Roselle; William F. Marsh, of Elizabeth; William I. McMane, of Summit; Charles A. Smith, of Westfield; William J. Thompson, of Clark Township, and Director George G. Teller, of Kenilworth, all Republicans, will be on deck.

The new Republican members will be: Elias H. Bird, of Plainfield; Dr. Henry P. Dender, Springfield; David J. Farren, Roselle Park; D. Leeds Miller, Jr., Hillside; Percy Honeyman, New Providence; Frederick Doll, Union, and Ernest J. Gommel, Elizabeth.

Although not an active candidate for the position of directorh George G. Teller, present director, it is believed, will be re-elected to preside over the board.

The position of county physician must be filled by the board. The present incumbent is Dr. F. W. Westcott. Dr. W. A. Reiter, of Summit, is a candidate for the position. He is being supported by the members from Summit.

YOUNG MOTHER DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS.

Mrs. Olive Moore Swody, wife of Frank Swody, died yesterday morning at her home, 11 Grandview avenue, the borough. She had been ill only ten days with pleuro-pneumonia. Mrs. Swody was a young woman and had lived in North Plainfield only a short time but had a wide acquaintance locally. She leaves beside her husband, a little daughter two and a half years old, her mother and a brother residing in Elizabeth and another brother living in Harrisburg, Pa.

The funeral will be held at the late home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

HOME FOR HOLIDAYS.

Miss Hazel Hodge, daughter of Mrs. M. Hodge, 1046 Hillside avenue, has returned home for the holidays. She has been attending the Combs Conservatory of Music, Philadelphia, where she is pursuing the piano course under the personal direction of Gilbert Raynolds Combs, founder and director of the institution.

SELECTED MEN DISCHARGED.

James M. Cullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cullen, of South Second street, and Clarence Giles, of West Sixth street, who went to Camp Dix with the last contingent of Plainfield selectives, were discharged the past week and returned home. Both failed to pass the final rigid physical examination.

New Year's Greeting to Nation's Chief

"While Our Starry Flag Welcomes the Sun"

RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED TO HIS EXCELLENCY—WOODROW WILSON President of The United States

(By J. Watson)

With hearts firm and strong, we are marching along
Up the pathway of hope jewelled years
Not in our wake, leaving heartache, or wrong—
Or the red trail of blood-lust and tears.

We are marching along, to the lilt of a song—
Unsullied by rancor or hate.
Each step that we take, in the daylight we make—
To the glory of GOD, and our STATE.

With hearts clean and strong we are marching along
Bearing malice and envy, to none
But, with pride in our race, look the world in the face
While our STARRY FLAG welcomes the sun.

But if tyrannic hands reaches out to our land
And seeks it's bright future to kill
Then for FREEDOM and RIGHT we will take up the fight
And STAY till the last heart is still.

Hope Chapel To Observe Anniversary

Just thirty years ago next Tuesday, Hope chapel, the flourishing West End denominational branch of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, opened its doors for the first time. A total of twenty-seven officers and scolars were present at the Sunday-school gathering on that day and from this small beginning the present big organization has developed. The thirtieth anniversary will be fittingly celebrated at a special service in the chapel next Monday night in the form of a "Watch Night" gathering.

The exercises will begin at 10 o'clock and it will include a stereopticon lecture by Rev. D. W. Skellenger. His subject will be "From Before the Bars to Behind the Bars." The officers of the church and Sunday-school are making an effort to have all the original members who are still living to be at the service and make brief addresses. Of the twenty-seven about half are still on the roll. Refreshments are to be served as the New Year is ushered in.

The late Henry C. Squires was the first superintendent of the chapel. His first teachers included H. Raymond Munger and Miss Jessie Munger, who are still active in the work. Miss Lillian Neuman, now of Trenton, was primary teacher and visits the Sunday-school whenever she is in town over Sunday. The original scholars on the roll included George E. Firstbrook, Mrs. Walter L. Hetfield, Fred H. Firstbrook, William J. Firstbrook, Walter I. Firstbrook, Mrs. Mowinkle and Mrs. Charles Delahunt. Mr. Squires was succeeded as superintendent by G. Herbert Condict, who has had much to do with the splendid work of recent years.

The chapel has had only four pastors since its organization. The first was Rev. D. Kennedy Newell, now of Chicago, who served from 1891 until 1901; Rev. L. R. Howard, now in Illinois, who occupied the pulpit from 1901 to 1911; Rev. F. L. Greene, from 1911 to 1916, and Rev. D. W. Skellenger, the present pastor.

The first building was a small frame structure, which served as a place of worship for Bethel chapel and stood at East Fifth and Washington streets. It was moved down to the location at 646 West Fourth street, which the Crescent Avenue congregation purchased as a site for its new branch. The membership of the chapel grew so quickly that numerous additions had to be made to the building until the original structure was almost obliterated. Only the front entrance of the Sunday-school department is all that remains of it today. A memorial church was added to the chapel in 1900, this standing to the east of the Sunday-school building but being so connected as to turn the two structures into one whenever room is needed.

The congregation of the chapel recently voted to become independent of the Crescent Avenue church and plans are being completed to take this step. A site has been purchased at Grant avenue and Sixth street, where a fine church and Sunday-school department combined are to be erected in the near future.

Asks for Changes At New Sewer Beds To Cost $35,000

According to a statement made by Consulting Engineer George Fuller at a meeting of the Joint Sewage Commission, Wednesday night, an appropriation of $35,000 will be made to bring about certain improvements at the newly built disposal beds in Middlesex county. It was stated by Mr. Fuller that the changes have been made necessary because of the great amount of solids that are received at the tanks and which cause obnoxious gases. The preliminary plans to care for this trouble call for piping changes in the final tanks, 5,400 square feet of new sludge beds; pumping facilities for taking sludge from sludge beds; pressure pipes at preliminary tanks connected with the pipe and pump connection for delivery of final effluent out to gas vents to break up sludge; changes in piping and conduits for removal of gas lifting sludge from preliminary tanks and sludge beds; screens for breaking up solid matter.

In the event of the commission deciding to have the improvements made as recommended, Plainfield's share of the expense will be about seventy per cent.

Dix Men to Be Home for New Year's

Selected men at Camp Dix who were unable to secure leaves of absence over Christmas will be permitted to go off duty tomorrow afternoon and not report back until 10 o'clock next Wednesday night. The order has created an immense amount of satisfaction among the soldiers as it will make certain that everyone was given time off during the holiday season.

According to the original plan of the camp commandants, twenty per cent. of the men were to be allowed home for Christmas. A government order coming later cut the allotment down to five per cent., causing "blue gloom" to settle over the entire cantonment. Late last Saturday night, however, another change came through and practically two-thirds of every company were given furloughs. As it was then too late for many of the boys living at great distances to get away, those remaining behind were informed they could have a four and a half days' vacation at New Year's.

There are remaining at Camp Dix now only about thirty Plainfielders and all but a few of these were home at Christmas. They were royally entertained by relatives and friends as it is probable that they will not get another leave of absence before moving South or going abroad. Only a few of the Plainfield boys at Anniston secured furloughs as the five per cent. rule was maintained at that place. Among those who were in town for the holiday were: J. N. Rhodes, James Murphy, Carl Nielson, Robert Jorgensen, Gabriel Olsen, Harold Storr, Frank Terry, Edward Anderson and John Rinehart, from the privates' rank; Lieutenants J. M. Charles and A. R. Phillips, of the officers'.

MISS BAKER BRIDE OF THOMAS J. HEALY

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Grace Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baker, of West Front street, to Thomas J. Healy, of this city, formerly of Buffalo, N. Y. The ceremony took place in New York city last Saturday and was attended only by the necessary witnesses. The couple will make their home in Brooklyn, where the bridegroom is now employed.

Mr. Healy came to Plainfield from the Curtis Aeroplane Works at Buffalo a year and a half ago in order to take a position of chief inspector at the Standard Aero Corporation's factory on North avenue. He remained in this capacity until about three weeks ago when he resigned to go to Brooklyn. During his residence here Mr. Healy made his home at the Hotel Kensington. His bride is a native of this city and has a wide circle of friends.

Railroad Change In Effect Today

First McAdoo Order Will Eliminate All Competition--Baltimore & Ohio Trains Will Use Pennsylvania Terminal in New York

Without formalities of any kind and without the slightest interruption of traffic all the railroads of the United States will be taken over by the government at noon today for the period of the war.

William G. McAdoo, as director general of railroads will assume complete control, and the action will mark one of the most important steps ever taken in the economic history of the nation. He will utilize the existing railroad organizations in establishing a complete continental transportation system.

Director General McAdoo will issue his first official order today wiping out competitive conditions and providing for complete pooling of traffic, equipment, terminals and trackage facilities, and for the retention of present officers and employes.

The immediate result will be the rerouting of traffic over shortest lines, regardless of the company with which shipments originate, and the common use of terminals to effect maximum efficiency. Without anticipating wonders under the new scheme, officials look forward to material improvement in the present traffic congestion within a few weeks.

Speedy movement of freight will be the first aim of the director general. But problems whose solution must press close on the heels of actual transportation questions are the equitable reimbursement of roads for the use of their property on the basis of pre-war earnings, increased wages for railroad employes, financing of necessary improvements, building of additional lines or facilities and the tangled priority situation.

Before most of these questions can be settled special legislation will be necessary, and to urge this President Wilson is preparing a message to be delivered to Congress soon after it convenes after the holiday recess next Thursday. Legislation already has been drafted.

The legislation, however, and problems dependent on it, can await the deliberation of Congress, while Mr. McAdoo must get into action today with powers already conferred on him by President Wilson. First he will confer with the Railroads War Board of railroad presidents, whose services and advice, he said yesterday, would be retained under the new administration. Then he will organize a corps of assistants and advisers, largely of experts of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in whose building he will maintain headquarters for railroad supervision.

In addition Mr. McAdoo feels that a great increase in railroad efficiency will be accomplished through government control. By the routing of cars over the lines operating as a unit the effect of the so-called car shortage can be minimized, freight can be handled with much greater speed and congestion can be relieved all over the country, especially at seaboard terminals.

But all this, Mr. McAdoo realizes, is easier said than done. In a formal statement issued last night, as his first utterance since his appointment as director general of railroads, he called for the assistance and cooperation of every citizen in the work that is to be undertaken.

"This new task is of great magnitude and difficulty," he said. "It cannot be done in a moment, and it cannot be done at all unless the people of the United States, as well as the officers and employes of the railroads, give to the railroad director their intelligent and patriotic support. I earnestly seek the cooperation and assistance of every good citizen in this great work."

The pending demand of the four railway brotherheods for a forty per cent. wage increase will be considered probably in a month or two along with the more sweeping question of higher wages for all employes, including those unorganized. The director general's advisers will suggest that a board of managers be appointed to thresh out general wage matters for his final consideration. A sharp reduction of high salaries now paid railroad presidents may help in a small way to provide funds for wage increases.

One effect of the new order will be to give a number of railroad terminal facilities which they do not now have in big cities. The Baltimore and Ohio probably will enter New York city at the Pennsylvania station.

English's Order To Dim Lights Must Be Obeyed

Union County Fuel administrator John K. English has received an invitation from State Fuel Administrator Richard Jenkinson to attend a dinner to be given to all the county administrators of the northern part of the State at the Essex Country Club tonight. Dr. Jenkinson has decided that that is the best means by which he can secure an idea of the coal situation. One of the most important things to be discussed will be connection with the lighting problem. The order to put the dimmers on Thursday and Sunday nights went into effect over a week ago, but did not receive recognition from everybody and a method will be devised to force them to comply.

The first ones to have what will probably be stringent measures taken against them will be those who failed to heed the order last night. In one or two cases where the county administrator has received word that an effort is being made to obey nothing will be done, but Mr. English will probably return from the dinner Saturday with knowledge of just what he can do to punish the delinquent ones.

Not only Plainfield, but the entire county is affected by the war measure of conservation. The principal streets of Elizabeth, Summit, Rahway, Westfield and other municipalities were darkened last night.

Mr. English received a communication yesterday morning from Mr. Jenkinson which should set at rest the fears of individuals that they will freeze before they get any more coal when their present limited supply runs out. The letter was the result of an order from the national headquarters giving him power to divert coal however consigned, except railroad fuel, for domestic consumers whenever it becomes necessary to prevent actual suffering. The order gives the State administrator power in such cases, if necessary, to "temporarily close industries, theatres, public halls and similar places."

Mr. Jenkinson's letter follows, in part:

"This authority is invested in me and I shall have to rely upon my county fuel administrators to aid me in discharging this important duty. All orders for diversion must come from this office and will be granted only on the most thorough examination and explicit information. This power is dangerous and must be exercised with the utmost regard to the rights of the people. I would urge that before recommending any cases to me for action that you exert every effort to alleviate conditions as we have done in the past."

Captain Fallon to Tell Amazing Story At P. H. S. Tonight

It is an amazing story of the world war that Captain David Fallon, M. C., who will be heard at the Plainfield High School Auditorium tonight, tells, but it is the story of his own experiences as a soldier in Gallipoli and in the trenches of Belgium and Northern France.

Captain Fallon wears the military cross, which was bestowed upon him at Buckingham Palace by King George for conspicuous bravery. The feat for which he received the cross ended his active career as a soldier. In order to secure information regarding the location of the German masked batteries, he entered the enemy's lines, was detected and bombed, and lay for three days and nights, terribly wounded, in a shell hole, before rescue came—but he secured the desired information.

The military cross is not the only decoration that Capt. Fallon is entitled to wear. For "conspicuous bravery in the field" on the Northwest Frontier in India, he received the India medal, which contains an embossed likeness of the late King Edward, who, curiously enough, is denominated "Kaiser."

THOMAS W. MORGAN.

Thomas W. Morgan, a former resident of this city, died at his home in New York, Wednesday. The body will be brought to Plainfield on the 2:17 train this afternoon in charge of his son, William H. Morgan, and interment will be made in Hillside cemetery. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong will conduct the service at the grave.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Happenings of the Past Week Tersely Told For Busy Readers.

Plainfield Council, United Commercial Travellers, observed the tenth anniversary of its organization last Saturday night by holding a dinner in its rooms in the Babcock building. About twenty-five of the forty-three members were present. most of the absentees being out of the city on business. Senior Councilor Ostrum, of Dunellen, acted as toastmaster. When the menu reached the coffee and cigars numerous appropriate addresses were made. One of the principal speakers was Grand Councilor Reese, of Wilmington, Del., who came to Plainfield especialy for the occasion.

Under the direction of Charles R. Banks, chairman of the distributing committee of the Community Christmas Committee, two hundred bags containing toys, candy, games, canes, books and stockings were distributed among as many children in the city and borough Sunday afternoon, and in addition thirty-four lots of coal in half-ton lots were given to needy families. The distribution was made by means of automobile and several sleighs, the owners generously donating their use for the purpose. Mr. Banks was assisted by Mr. Banks and Miss Mabelle Phillips. Mr. Banks playing the part of "Santa Claus."

Hot ashes placed in a wooden box on the second floor of the frame dwelling in the rear of 157 North avenue, and occupied by Thomas Costa, started a bad blaze last Saturday night. A telephone alarm brought the fire department to the scene in a very short time and the flames were checked as they were spreading about the entire structure. The damage is placed at $150, covered by insurance. David T. Kenny, of the borough, is the owner of the building, which was occupied for many years by "Ted" Cleavley, now of Jersey City.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association gave a novelty dance in the clubhouse on West Front street, Monday night that was largely attended. Prizes were awarded for the couples who showed themselves to be the most expert dancers. Eddie Mark's Jazz orchestra furnished music.

The young people of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church will present a Christmas entertainment tonight in the form of a cantata entitled "Elsie's Christmas Party." All persons interested are invited to attend.

Beside distributing baskets containing dinners for the poor of the city last Monday, the local Salvation Army will spread more Yuletide cheer next Monday night, when a big Christmas tree will be lighted at their hall on East Second street. One hundred and fifty children will be the guest of Captain Crispell and his associates. A fine program has been arranged for the occasion and the young folks will receive the customary gifts. Because of a lack of help, Captain Crispell announces that it will be impossible to collect the money from the Christmas boxes stationed about town until some time between January 1 and 15 and makes a request that no one be allowed to take the money without showing proper credentials.

Forty soldiers and sailors who were off for the Christmas furlough, a large number of them being Plainfielders, were entertained Tuesday afternoon by the Misses Ernestine Wilson and Irene Doane at the latter's home at 56 Norwood avenue. The affair was in the nature of an informal reception and included dancing and music.

ADD NEWS BRIEFS.....C.

Employes of the Public Service and the local division trolley lines enjoyed their annual Christmas tree and entertainment at The Dunellen Car barns last night. The men had their wives and families as special guests and a most enjoyable time was had by everyone. Superintendent George Luhr, who has always been a big factor in making these entertainments a success, was present last night and besides distributing presents, sang "Where the River Shannon Flows."

The New York City Brass Choir, composed of young women, assisted by Charles F. Underhill, leader, provided the Christmas entertainment last night at the First Baptist church.

In accordance with its annual custom, Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., met at Masonic Hall, Christmas noon, and held a social session during which a toast was given to the grand commander of the State.

The first class in elementary hygiene and home nursing which has been in progress at the Plainfield headquarters of the Red Cross, has completed the course and examinations will be held this afternoon.

James J. McCann, automobile license agent for the Plainfield district, announces that all automobile owners and drivers must procure their licenses before next Monday night as his office will not be open on New Year's Day. Anyone found running a car without the proper credentials after midnight Monday will be arrested and punished.

Peter McKinnon, piper for Clan MacKenzie, No. 204, O. S. C., has enlisted in an aviation corps of the Canadian Army and will report at Toronto during the coming week. He was the guest of honor at the meeting of the Clan, Monday night, when an entertainment and refreshments were enjoyed.

Local Men Slated For Transfer Soon

Unit commanders at Camp McClellan have this week prepared for the exodus of non-commissioned officers who have been recommended for assignments to the third officers' training camps. Between now and January 5 orders will be issued transferring 1.7 of the divisional quota to the selected site for the instruction of men seeking commissions, the original plan to conduct these schools in National Army camps having been abandoned. Many New Jersey corporals and sergeants have applied for removal to the training camp and large numbers of applications have been approved.

The following 113th infantry commissioned and non-commissioned officers have been assigned to the divisional schools for a week's training: Bayonet school, First Lieutenants Mathew J. Connors, of Newark, and Basil Bowles, of Elizabeth; Second Lieutenant John H. Nimon, of Jersey City, and Sergeants Lee Egbert and Richard D. Shannon, of Newark; Thomas Keigle, of Trenton, and Cassare Marsicano and Frank Brinster, of Bayonne. Field fortification class: Captain Harry O. Warren, of Elizabeth; Second Lieutenants Ernest J. Hegeler, of Newark; Ellis J. Carman, of Plainfield; George W. Van Arx, of Jersey City, and Sergeants Christopher Meincke, of Elizabeth; John Halsted, of Jersey City, and Walter Hanzo and Benjamin Tait, of Newark.

Gas defense department: Captain Arthur S. Jenkins, of Newark; Captain J. Bayard Kirkpatrick, of New Brunswick; Second Lieutenant William H. Morrow, of Newark; First Lieutenants Albert I. Littell, of Plainfield and Augustus Urban, of Jersey City, and Sergeants Ralph V. Peckham and Robert Pritchard, of Newark; William Schwartz and Frank Morstone, of Jersey City, and Corporal John B. Stevenson and Albert D. Hennecy, of Trenton.

First Lieutenant Mathew Connors has been named instructor of the bayonet section; Captain Harry O. Warren is teaching the field fortification class, and Captain Arthur S. Jenkins is in charge of the Gas Defense Department.

Colonel John D. Fraser and Chaplain Warren H. Coon, of the 113th Infantry, have returned to camp after enjoying leaves of absence in the North.

Company tests by Divisional Inspector Major R. C. Kelley are slated to be held in the 113th Infantry the latter part of this week when the various units will be put through a program of bayonet, gas, field, fortification and bombing work.

Fort Predicts A Full Year of Trade Activity

Former Governor J. Franklin Fort, now a member of the Federal Trade Commission, in an interview yesterday said the business prosperity would continue at least another year without cessation. "Extraordinary activity is in prospect for some time to come," he asserted, "with at least reasonable profits.

"Some people are fearful of war conditions affecting business adversely," he continued, "but I am not one of them. Within the coming year more than fifteen billions of dollars will be expended under government supervision. A very large percentage of it will go into the hands of the working men and of the manufacturers. Working men will be employed at high wages; manufacturing plants will be operated to their fullest extent. There will be lots of money in circulation, so I am confident we shall have a prosperous year. I believe, too, that prosperous conditions will continue even after the war."

SECORA ASSAULT CASE OFF FOR PRESENT TERM.

In an endeavor to bring to a finish the October term of the Common Pleas Court Wednesday, Judge Connolly presiding, Prosecutor Stein postponed the case of the State vs. Anna Kremple and Anna Secora, charged with assault and battery upon George York, sergeant-at-arms of the Plainfield District Court, until the January term. This action was taken although Attorney William R. Wilson announced he was ready to proceed and had present Frank Secora, over whom a question had arisen at a previous session of the court as to his physical condition. Mr. Stein said the case would occupy too much time Wednesday and he desired to try a shorter one so that the October term could be adjourned Wednesday afternoon.

Income Tax Man Coming Here to Aid in Returns

It will require a small army of men to take the income tax returns of persons subject to the new law, Collector of Internal Revenue Charles V. Duffy, of Newark, yesterday announced that 50 officers will start from his headquarters on January 1st and on January 2nd every one of them will be on the job in the county assigned to him, to meet the people and help them make out their income tax returns. The officer assigned to this county is due to arrive here on January 2, 1918, and to remain until January 26, 1918, both dates inclusive. He will have his office in the Post Offices named below, where he will be found every day of the dates stated from 9:00 to 4:30: Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Rahway.

"It will be well for every unmarried person whose net income for 1917 is $1,000 or over, and every married person living with wife or husband, whose net income for 1917 is $2,000 or over, to call on the income tax man and learn whether or not they have any tax to pay," Collector Duffy said yesterday. "The person subject to tax who doesn't make return in the time prescribed is going to regret it. The Government will get after all income tax slackers.

"There's hardly a business man, merchant or professional man who won't have to make return of income. Farmers, as a class, will have to pay the tax. The safe thing to do is for every person who had a total income of $1,000 or $2,000, as the case may be, and who is not sure about what deductions the law allows him, to play it safe by calling on the income tax man.

"The man in the field will have forms for everybody and persons who expect to call on him need not trouble themselves to write to my office for forms."

Sixteen Public Markets Were A Civic Success

Speaking of the success of public markets in New Jersey during the past year, Alexis L. Clark, chief of the bureau of markets of the State Department of Agriculture in his weekly Market News Bulletin issued this week, says:

"No State ever took up with public markets so enthusiastically as New Jersey did this past season. Reports from all municipalities have now been received by the Bureau of Markets of the State Department of Agriculture. These show that sixteen farmers' retail market places were established during the year and that six other cities are seriously considering the subject. Many obstacles have been encountered and in some cases the benefits that should have been secured have been mostly lost. None of them, however, was a decided failure, and most of them proved their value to those interested."

Reviewing the year's experience the bureau finds that "apparently the most important advantage they afford is a stimulus to more economic methods among the retail distributors. They do not on the whole offer lower prices to consumers. Retail merchants find that it is necessary for them to follow the lead of the farmers and consequently prices are found much the same in all parts of the city. A very small farmers' curb market will, however, absolutely insure reasonable prices over a comparatively large district. In such a market place the relation of the supply of any given product to the demand from day to day is perfectly reflected in the prevailing price."

It is also noted that whereas farmers have been slow to appreciate any particular value in such markets, numbers of fruit and vegetable growers living within easy hauling distance of large villages and cities are showing much interest in the subject and are planning to make their growing methods conform to retail demands for next year.

"In Plainfield a very informal market was arranged for and the growers there, realizing from their experience in the Elizabeth market and in their own the opportunities for direct selling, are this winter urgently requesting the city commissioners to establish a more permanent place with proper marketing facilities.

A most unusual meeting was held last week in Newark at the office of the Woman's large manufacturing and business firms sent representatives there. These men were purchasing agents of food supplies for the employes of the respective concerns. Reports were made showing carloads of flour, potatoes, etc., distributed, saving of ten to twenty-five per cent. and the women delegates were assured by some of the buyers that similar results could be secured under certain conditions by groups of women. The bureau stated that its position was to encourage more economic distribution methods and the thought was expressed that perhaps a secondary benefit other than that of direct saving would be the inducing of more economic practices in retailing by this sort of competition.

Doubtless food prices must become extremely burdensome and present selling services proven uneconomic before this practice will be taken up to any great extent by our women folks.

Christmas Affairs At Baptist Church

The senior departments of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school enjoyed their annual Christmas entertainment in the Sunday-school rooms last night. Superintendent William N. Runyon was in charge and the program provided reflected credit on the originality of the entertainment committee.

The exercises were divided in two parts, the first was a sketch, "The Master of Men," in which the spirit of giving served as a theme. The second part was a pantomime entitled "The Good Samaritan," and had Armenian relief exemplified in a novel way. Members of the Sunday-school interpreted all the parts. The usual gifts were distributed at the close of the program.

The primary department of the school will enjoy its usual Christmas party this afternoon. It will be in charge of Mrs. Harry C. Runyon and will include recitations, songs and a child's play. Refreshments of ice cream and cake are to be served in conclusion. Mrs. Runyon will be assisted in caring for the children by the members of the Sunday-school teaching corps.

The entertainment committee is composed of: Harry C. Runyon, Miss Florence Hawkins, Mrs. Ada M. Cuming, Fred Mills, Miss Ethel Gaskill, William F. Doane and Mrs. Harry C. Runyon.

SUMMIT PHYSICIAN SEEKS DR. WESTCOTT'S PLACE

Announcement of Dr. Walter A. Reiter, city physician of Summit, that he is a candidate for the appointment as county physician makes it practically certain that there will be at least one contest when the Union County Board of Freeholders meets on New Year's Day to organize. Dr. Frank W. Westcott, of Fanwood, is a candidate to succeed himself. The appointment is made each year.

Dr. Reiter points to his record durin gthe infantile paralysis epidemic of a year ago, when he worked day and night trying to conquer the disease in that part of the county without receiving any pay. He also says that the job should not be especially for one man. He is indorsed by the Summit city government.

Dr. Westcott has been county physician for the past twenty-two years, being appointed each successive time.

DR. SWAFFIELD'S RECEPTION PLANNED FOR JANUARY 6

The congregation of the Park Avenue Baptist church has completed arrangements for the installation and reception of its new pastor, Rev. Dr. Swaffield. It will take place at the church on Friday night, January 4 and all persons interested are invited to attend. A number of local clergymen will take part in the program Dr. Swaffield is now occupying the parsonage at 111 East Ninth street.

The services at the church next Sunday will be as follows: 9:45 a. m., review lesson in Bible school; 11:00 a. m., morning worship, pastor's topic, "Things Shaken and Unshaken in 1917;" 7:00 p. m., Young People's Association service, Emily Van Winkle, leader; 8:00 p. m., service in charge of the pastor, topic "The World's Last Great Prayer Meeting."

TWO PLAINFIELDERS PROMOTED TO SERGEANTCIES.

Howard Armstrong and Elmer Terry, Plainfield selected men at Camp Dix, who were recently promoted to the rank of corporal, secured another davancement this week. Both young men were made sergeants and designated for membership in the officers' training school which is to be started at Camp Dix next week. The promotions of Messrs. Armstrong and Terry have met with extreme satisfaction on the part of their friends here as in both cases it was due to meritorious work.

PERSONAL

William Ahern, who is studying agriculture at the Penn State College, State College, Penn., has been spending the Christmas holidays at the home of his mother, Mrs. A. E. Ahern, of North avenue. He will return to his studies next week.

Mr. and Mrs. James T. MacMurray, of Boston, spent Christmas with Mrs. MacMurray's father, Seaman Williams, and sister, Mrs. William Pope, of Sandford avenue. Mr. MacMurray went back to Boston Monday, but Mrs. MacMurray will remain here until next week.

Dr. and Mrs. P. B. Cregar, of Grant avenue, spent the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Cregar's parents at Lewisburg, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Rhodier, of Buffalo, spent Christmas with relatives in town. Mrs. Rhodier will remain at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, of West Fourth street, until the latter part of next week.

Donald Craigie, of the Hotel Kensington, returned Wednesday, after a week's stay at his former home in Buffalo, where he passed Christmas with relatives.

Daniel McCormack, of East Second street, left this week for Camp Dix at Wrightstown, where he has been appointed to the position as secretary at one of the Knights of Columbus buildings.

George H. Fisher, of Manson place, who has been very ill for several months, continues to remain in a serious condition. His son, George Fisher, Jr., is at present in France with the American Expeditionary Force.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gow, former residents of this city, who have been living at Winthrop Beach, Mass., since last September, spent the Christmas holidays in town as the guests of local friends. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gow have been enjoying splendid health since removing to Massachusetts, but they assert that though their new environment is most agreeable, "There is no place like Plainfield after all." Mr. Gow holds an executive position with the Meade-Morrison Manufacturing Company at East Boston, of which James T. MacMurray is manager.

Miss Adelaide Sierra Fritz, daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Fritz, of Dunellen, and Robert Fahn, of Somerset street, the borough, were married Christmas noon at the home of the bride's mother. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. St. George Burrill rector of the church of the Holy Cross, North Plainfield. Miss Lucille Fritz, sister of the bride, and Kenneth Dealaman, of Dunellen, were the attendants. Following a wedding trip the young couple will make their home in this city.

Lieut. James M. Charles, a member of the former "Troop D," who has been in charge of the military police at Anniston, Ala., is at his home on Belvidere avenue for the Christmas furlough.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Mary Mildred Bickwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Bickwell, of South avenue, to Samuel Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Harper, of East Third street. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Sarah Nevins, of Fairmount avenue, returned Wednesday, after spending a week with relatives at Lancaster, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kane, formerly of Plainfield, but now residing at 25 Cottage place, Newark, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Claire, to Ernest A. Kammerer, of Newark. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Charles L. Ryder, Sr., of Grant avenue, was able to be out today for the first time after an illness of two weeks.

"Ted" Budenbach, of Carlton avenue, is preparing for an extended business trip to South America. He will sail from New York about the first of February and will go direct to Rio de Janiero, after which he will visit other important cities in Brazil.

Miss Annie E. Lincoln, of West Fourth street, has returned home after a stay at Philadelphia, to which place she was called by the death of her only brother.

Roy Swackhamer, of West Front street, who has been employed at the Saurer plant on West Front street, left Wednesday for his former home at German Valley, where he will conduct a garage business which he purchased recently.

Elmer Hunting, of West Fourth street, who recently passed examinations for entrance to the aviation corps, has been spending the present week at the home of his parents. He expects to leave for the Texas training camp shortly after the first of the year.

Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Conover, of East Second street, will leave next week for Freehold, where Mr. Conover will assume the pastorate of the First Baptist church at that place. He will preach his farewell sermon at the Temple Baptist church in this city next Sunday.

Martin Welsh, of West Third street, one of the best known members of the local police force, and Miss Catherine Kane, of Central avenue, were married in St. Mary's church last Thursday night. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Mahoney and was witnessed by a small gathering of relatives and friends. Miss May Troy and Stephen Waldron, both of this city, were the attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Welsh will make their home on John street after the first of the year.

Mrs. C. N. Mundy and daughter, Virginia, of Brookline, Mass., have been visiting Mrs. Mundy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Addis, of Orange street.

Miss Jane Caroline Jane Martin, of Brooklyn, and William Edward Touchon, of Bergen street, this city, were married Saturday night at the parsonage of the Temple Baptist church, Rev. E. C. Conover officiating. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Edson Gardner, son-in-law and daughter of the bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Touchon will make their home on Bergen street.

Herman Overland, of Munter avenue, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for two months following injuries received in a motorcycle-automobile collision at East Second and Washington streets, was able to leave the institution to spend Christmas at home, but afterward returned for further treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Brown and son, Thomas Brown, of West Fourth street, are spending the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Brown's parents at High Bridge. They will remain until after New Year's.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Helen Irene Schomp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Schomp, of New Market, to Emile Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Nelson, also of New Market. No date has been set for the wedding. Mr. Nelson was a former member of the Plainfield High School student body.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Irwin, of Woodland avenue, announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Mable C. Trenbath, to Guy H. Bentschler, of Dunellen, who is supervising principal of the Dunellen schools.

Lehigh's Plan to Aid Coal Shortage

Solid trainloads of coal running direct from the mines to destination is the plan adopted by the Lehigh Valley Railroad in doing its part to relieve the shortage in New York and other large cities. The first trainload, fifty cars, containing more than 2,000 tons of domestic sizes of anthracite—the kind the ordinary householder burns—has just completed its run from the Pennsylvania fields to Perth Amboy, where Lehigh Valley coal for New York and New England is dumped into barges for delivery.

The coal was part of a day's product of three collieries, the nearest 150 miles from New York, all of them adjacent to Hazleton, Pa. As soon as the trainload made up it was rushed away on its journey, going straight through to Perth Amboy without stopping for classification or other yard work.

Bringing such quantities of coal through to the larger centres without delay, it is believed, will assist greatly in relieving any existing fuel shortage.

Colgate Solicits Pledges of Support

In an effort to construct a firm foundation on which to erect his campaign for the United States Senatorial nomination, Colonel Austen Colgate has formally announced his candidacy to individual Republicans of Essex county and is asking their pledges of support. Republican workers in all sections of the county have received letters during the last week soliciting their support and requesting advice from them. With strong support in his own county it is figured that the colonel can extend his campaign into other counties with greater confidence.

Stress is laid on the fact that the colonel comes from the northern section of the State, and the statement is made that South Jersey now has a United States Senator (Senator Frelinghuysen, whose home is in Somerset county), "and in addition is practically in complete control of all State affairs."

The letter of Colonel Colgate follows:

"Fellow Republican—I am a candidate for the Republican United States Senatorial nomination, the election for which will be held next September, and I am writing you at this time to enlist your early support. It would be a source of great satisfaction to me to have you and the other Republican leaders of our own home county of Essex united behind me in this campaign.

"There seems to be a considerable amount of sentiment in the Republican party to the effect that the next United States Senator should come from North Jersey, because of the prominent position we occupy by reason of population, great manufacturing establishments and other large business interests.

"South Jersey has a United States Senator, and in addition is practically in complete control of all State affairs. The contention that North Jersey is entitled to representation certainly appears to be a sensible and logical conclusion. Our own county of Essex is presented with an opportunity. May I not count on your undivided allegiance?

"I feel sure that you are familiar with my years of service as an Assemblyman and Senator, representing our own county in the State Legislature. Should I be nominated and elected to the United States Senate, I propose to represent the people of the whole State in the same conscientious manner.

"It would please me to have your views on this matter, and I trust you will find it convenient to communicate them to me.

"Hoping to have the pleasure of seeing you personally in the near future, I remain, your very truly,

"AUSTEN COLGATE."

Enlistment Denied Men Waiting Next Draft Call Quota

Two young men who have been certified to be ready for the next call from the draft list called upon Secretary Lapsley, of the local Exemption Board, Saturday, to ascertain if there was any way they could enlist, as they were somewhat weary of waiting for the next Government call. The men, it appears, had made the rounds of the recruiting offices in New York city and Brooklyn, and were turned down when they admitted they were under call for the next quota.

Secretary Lapsley was unable to aid them, as the Government will not accept men for enlistment who are a part of the quota to be called for in the next call. The men certified for the next call must wait until the Government issues a call for them, which may possibly be some time after the new year. In some instances men gave up their work feeling that the Government call would be issued immediately. In the case of the two men who called on the local board they have been out of work for some time and are getting anxious to get in the war in some way or other.

World Will Owe America, Lane Says

All nations will be America's debtor for leadership in scientific as well as political thought as the result of the war, Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane stated in a personal preface to his annual report.

"Our status in this war," he said, "gives us a place of moral ascendancy from which, if we are great enough to be humble, we can become real masters of men, conquerors of the invisible kingdom of man's mind."

He pointed to the war use of peace machinery in his department, the chemists, "who have met America's needs as ably as Germany's did," and the geologists who construct dry, mudless trenches for the Sammies. When submarine shipping destruction seriously cut down pyrite imports from Spain, new mines located in Georgia and Alabama promised a yield of 30,000 tons monthly, more than fifteen ships could bring from Europe. The gas helmet of mine-saving crews developed into the gas masks for American troops at the front.

Secretary Lane's preface contained no general recommendations except a suggestion to Congress that pending leasing bills be passed to release water power and petroleum resources for the war.

Frank M. Dunham Quits Tax Office

Frank M. Dunham, of West Fifth street, who has been clerk to the Board of Assessors and assistant to Tax Collector William R. Townsend since the latter's entrance to the office, has tendered his resignation to take effect next Monday. He will leave within a short time for a trip to Florida, but what his plans will be after that he has not yet announced. His successor will be named by Mayor Calkins at the Common Council meeting Monday night.

Mr. Dunham is one of Plainfield's best known citizens and has rendered invaluable service as assistant tax collector. He entered the office twelve years ago when Robert L. Lee was collector, succeeding David Pope, who had held the position up to that time. Mr. Dunham was previously employed in the office of the old Plainfield Gas Company, since absorbed by the Public Service Corporation. At the completion of Mr Lee's term as collector, Mr. Dunham served under John W. Murray, Jr., who preceded the present incumbent, William R. Townsend.

Peace Again Reigns Among Westfield Clinks

The Westfield Clinks have buried the hatchet and have smoked the pipe of peace. Tuesday night, at their regular meeting, the recent squabble that resulted over the opposition of certain members to attending the Gypsy Smith revival services was discussed, and it is said that at times the remarks became rather heated. Only the diplomacy of J. B. Wilson, presiding in place of Chief Clink Andrew A. Smith, saved the day on several occasions, it is reported.

Charles Denman explained that his opposition had been based merely on the fact that the invitation to attend the services had not been brought before the organization in regular procedure, and after the meeting he was presented with an Elks' pin. John Niland, who made the presentation speech, lauded Mr. Denman, and the other members crowded about him to assure him there was no acrimony as a result of his recent stand. The Westfield Clinks number many Plainfielders among their members.

Manager Clark Is Proving a Hustler

E. W. Clark, who recently assumed the management of the Boice, Runyon Company's Lumber and Coal business on Park avenue, has already introduced several innovations that are stimulating affairs at the big yard. Mr. Clark has had a wide experience in the building supply trade and the knowledge he has gathered will prove beneficial to local contractors and other customers. Previous to coming to Plainfield two years ago he was head of the sales department of a large coal and lumber concern at North Branch. He acted as salesman for the Boice, Runyon Company for two years and became of the enterprise he displayed in handling his work, he was appointed manager by the board of directors to succeed C. D. Rice, resigned. Through the uniform courtesy which he has extended to everyone, Mr. Clark has made hosts of friends in Plainfield and in his managerial capacity can be counted upon to add to the firm's trade.

During his connection with the concern, Mr. Rice beside acting as manager, also served as secretary and treasurer. The latter two positions will after January 1 be filled by J. V. E. Vanderhoef, for eighteen years head of the furniture department in the Woodhull-Martin store. Mr. Vanderhoef is one of Plainfield's best known business men and his addition to the staff of the Boice, Runyon concern is considered an excellent move on the part of the latter firm.

Jersey Women Fill Positions Left by Men Called to Colors

The great war now raging, which has drawn so many thousands of men and youths from numerous lines of endeavor has had the result of their positions being filled in a host of industrial plants in New Jersey by members of the female sex, so it is stated in the annual report of the State Department of Labor submitted to Governor Walter E. Edge. This condition of affairs has greatly added to the responsibilities of this particular branch of the government of the commonwealth, in that the lives of the operatives must be protected to an extent surpassing that rendered to the male sex, who were more accustomed to the work that is now in the hands of the fair one while the report adds that the ten-hour law for women in this State had suffered in contrast with the shorter working day for them in other States and that the enactive of amendments to the statute that would permit of a better enforcement of the law was much desired.

While it is necessary that women should take places left vacant by men who have responded or been called to the colors of the United States, the report goes on to say that the justification for the entrance into the State's industrial world of members of the fair sex is that the great issue now is the battle against the common foe. Women workers should not be subjected to overstrain or any other kind of hardship because of the prevailing abnormal conditions. It is stated in the report, while reference is made to what has been learned among the workers in Great Britain, that, be that reasonable requirements of effort and proper working days the maximum limit of production. Seven suits out of nine that were started during the past year over the fact that employers had violated the ten-hour law have been settled while the remainder are pending, it is said in the report.

Increased obligations have been placed upon departments of labor in all parts of the United States because of the unusual condition of things, Commissioner Lewis T. Bryant remarks in the report, while he refers to his department being prepared for the work of greater demands. He says that the past year has set a new value upon industrial efficiency.

Commissioner Bryant continues by declaring that the range of the State's industries, always of the most varied scope, have become more extended during 1917, that shipping and munitions of war, chemicals, high explosives, aircraft and the large number of supplies that expedite the progress of the council of national defense, have become a part of this State's contributions to the world war, while he enters further into the subject by asserting that probably 50 per cent. of all of the manufacture of explosives for the entire country takes place within New Jersey, and that another problem of great magnitude is presented in this manner. Two hazards are the result of this situation, the commissioner says, one to the persons engaged in munitions factories and the other to persons residing or having their places of employment in the vicinity. He refers to safeguards that are in force in Pennsylvania covering the making of explosives, and the consequent reduction of danger from this channel.

The report then says:

"Because fire is the greatest of normal industrial hazards, it remains in all circumstances the first concern of factory safety. Fire protection and fire prevention are the natural basis of welfare work. Whatever else may be done for the good of industrial workers all is in vain if the risk of death and injury from fire is permitted to be made subordinate, while the concern of property owners is as great as that of the manufacturing firms or employes."

Plans for the creation of a negro welfare and employment bureau to meet the situation created by the exodus of negroes from the South, the establishment of a system making more thorough the operation of the workmen's compensation law, inspections of factories, enforcement of the law regarding the employing of children and the establishment of the system of cooperative buying through which firms purchasing foodstuffs in large quantities and re-sold them to their employes are among the other subjects developed in the report.

Recruiting Officer Tells of Good Pay and Chances in Navy

J. J. Griffin, United States Navy recruiting omcer, who has been in Plainfield during the past week to receive recruits, said yesterday that a great many young men are not aware of the great increase in pay and the wonderful opportunities awaiting those who enlist in the navy to serve Uncle Sam in this time of war. Whereas the lowest paid man in the service, an apprentice seaman, formerly received $17.60 per month, he now receives nearly twice as much, or to be exact, $32.60.

A new rating, open for young men and one which offers splendid chances for men between the ages of 18 and 35, is known as "Landsman for Quartermaster in the Aviation Corps."

"This rating," said Mr. Griffin, "is particularly adapted for the young man without a trade and who is still a clever fellow and handy. All that is required for the rating is a good general knowledge of mechanical principles. While this rating pays but $32.60 at the time of enlistment —the same monthly sum paid to apprentice seamen—it very frequently opens up unusual chances for the men qualified to force ahead; and, of course, with promotion comes substantial increases in pay. Of course, this sum, is absolutely clear money, as food, clothing and medical attention, as well as other extras, are furnished free."

Mr. Griffin explained that cooks are sorely needed in the naval service today. In fact, an officer assigned to a United States warship "somewhere on the Atlantic coast," he said, called on him and asked his assistance in securing at once, if possible, 300 skilled cooks. "For this branch of the service, it is not at all necessary to be a 'French nastry' cook," said Mr. Griffin, smilingly. "What we want are men who can cook good, plain, wholesome food and make it palatable."

Mess attendants are in almost as great demand as cooks. Colored boys are preferred for this rating, and they receive $41 a month.

First-class machinists are in great demand, and the pay for ratings of this nature is as follows: Chief machinist's mate, $87 a month; first-class machinist, $66.60, and second-class machinist, $52.

Firemen, first-class, get $46.50; second class, $41, and third class $36.20. A boilermaker on his first cruise gets $77.50.

There are many openings for wireless operators. These men must have some experience. They will start as "landman for wireless operator" at a good wage. The chances in this branch are much better than in corresponding positions in the merchant service, for men can rise to the rating of electrical gunner.

Recruiting Officer Giffin is a Spanish-American War veteran, having joined Company H, of the Twelfth Infantry, United States Regulars Following his honorable discharge from there he re-enlisted in February, 1899, this time in the Fifth Cavalry Regiment, and was sent to Manitte, Porto Rico. He was later sent, via San Francisco, to the town of Pasaig, P. I. Having received another honorable discharge, he later joined Troop D, Sixth Cavalry, at Fort Meade, S. D. While stationed at that garrison the regiment quelled the Ute uprising. His regiment made a march of sixty-two miles in about twelve hours, which is set down in army annals as a record march, and gathered up the Indians, marching them back to Fort Meade. Shortly after this Mr. Griffin was promoted to corporal.

Once more honorably discharged, Griffin could not resist the call to service, and at Worcester, Mass., in 1907, he enlisted in the navy, and was assigned to the U. S. S. Missouri, when that vessel was one of those that circumnavigated the globe. He was with Admiral Mayo at Vera Cruz in 1914. On November 11, 1915, he was appointed to the Newark naval recruiting station, and not long after that visited Plainfield for recruiting purposes.

Edge Act Held to Be Constitutional

The Edge direct road tax act, imposing a tax of one mill on the dollar upon all real and personal property upon which municipal taxes are collected, is held constitutional in an opinion filed yesterday in the Supreme Court by Justice Bergen.

This is the result of attacks made upon the act in suits by Charles P. Gillen, of Newark; Charles H. Johnson, of Passaic, and James Bowen, of Jersey City, to test the constitutionality of the law, which provides plans and machinery for constructing a $15,000,000 system of highways in New Jersey.

The court holds the act is not unconstitutional because its classification making it applicable to such property on which municipal taxes are levied and collected does not include property which is subjected to taxes assessed and collected by the State for its own use. It is held that the main stem railroad property and value of remaining property, including the franchise of railroad companies divided by law for the purpose of taxation into first and fourth class railroad property, is not subject to the Edge tax act, but such exclusion is not in violation of the constitution. Second class railroad property on which municipal taxes are levied is held to be included in the classification of the road act.

Opinion says the statute includes within its classification all property not otherwise segregated in classes for purpose of taxation based upon characteristics of property and not upon the status of the owner, although he may have an irrepealable contract with State exempting him from local taxes and, therefore, the court says, property of society for useful manufacturers in Paterson is within the classification established by the road act, although the tax for municipal purposes may not be collectable because of its contract with the State.

Shares of capital stock of banking associations and trust companies are also held to be within the classification provided by the Edge law.

It is expected the fight will be taken to the Court of Errors and Appeals.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, DEC. 28, 1917.

"TEAM WORK" IN THE COMING YEAR.

In common with everyone else, official Plainfield will complete the present year at midnight next Monday and the following day will start off on a new twelve months. It might be said that the trying difficulties that have beset the Mayor and Common Council since January 1, 1917, will be duplicated in 1918, perhaps increased, but it remains for the citizens to lend their undivided support to their representatives. Their success will mean the community's success and in these days of National distress conditions are so abnormal that every man and woman must back up the city officials as well as the federal authorities. If they do Plainfield will merge at the beginning of 1919 in better condition than many municipalities that are facing troubles of various kinds.

When the Council organizes next Tuesday night it will show more strange faces than have been seen at one time in many a year. Beside the four new men who are to come in through last November's election another is to be added to succeed Charles A. Loizeaux, called away last summer to serve his country. Who this successor will be has not yet been made known, but as the choice is left to the other councilmen the citizens can rely on good selections being made. Levis M. Booth, who has been representing the Second ward in the Council for the past four years and who was defeated for nomination at the polls last September, has been mentioned for the appointment but as he has decidedly strong convictions on the excise question which he wants his colleagues to agree to if he becomes a candidate, it is probable that he will not be named.

The new councilmanic members will be John S. Dahl, for the Second ward; Chauncey L. Hight, from the Fourth ward; Lesie R. Fort and Peter J. McDonough, at large. While none of them have served before, all have had experience in the business or professional world and are in a position to give excellent service to the citizens. Mr. Fort is probably the best known through his connection with the Daily Press for five years. He acted as secretary for his father, former Governor John Franklin Fort, when the latter was in office and through his community activities has kept closely attached with State and civic affairs. He is every inch a hustler, has an aggressive policy that counts when real action is needed but is always alive to the interests of constituents. Mr. Dahl is a contracting carpenter who understands real estate and tax problems, and Mr. McDonough is the head of the Plainfield Ice and Supply Company, one of the largest concerns of the kind in this section of the State. Mr. Hight is an expert electrican and electrical supply man. With this brief resume it may be surmised that each one will have a peculiar accomplishment which will fit him for intensive service in behalf of the citizens who place them in office.

The City Hall problem will be one of the most important matters which the Council will have to deal with but it is only one of many. There is important street work to be done, increased responsibility in financial preparations and city legislation to care for difficulties produced by the war. In the readjustment of committees these matters will have to be given full consideration and it is fortunate that President Francis J. Blatz has been deliberate in selecting his chairman and assistants for each particular branch of city work. In 1918, just as in 1917, or any other year that has passed, there will be times when the councilmen will need the absolute confidence of the community and we trust that it will be given as heartily and unidividely as Plainfield knows how. Team work is what counts whether it is in reference to the federal or civic government and if it were not for team work, President Wilson would not be making such splendid progress in preparing to crush the foreign enemy.

The councilmen who are to retire from office are: Elias H. Bird, who transfers his work from the city to the county as a member of the Board of Freeholders; Charles A. Loizeaux, forced to retire from the local field because of his entrance to the United States Army; Levis M. Booth, mentioned previously; John H. Cose, who entered the county shrievalty race in preference to seeking renomination, and Juan A. Babcock, forced to retire from office because of pressing business interests that demand his full consideration. All of these men have proven themselves worthy public servants, especially Mr. Booth, Mr. Cose and Mr. Babcock, who will complete four years of councilmanic work next Monday night. Mr. Babcock has been chairman of the finance committee for the past year, this position being one of the most important in the entire municipal service. He acquitted himself in a most creditable manner and will leave an enviable record behind him. Mr. Cose did yeoman service as chairman of the fire committee during the past two years and Mr. Booth gave the citizens many hours of his valuable time as the head of the committee on public affairs.

Mayor Calkins will enter upon the second year of his second term next Tuesday. He has given every attention to his position and with a full realization of his responsibility to the citizens has sought to discharge executive duties in a manner best calculated to suit the best interests of all. That he will continue his excellent record in 1918 is a matter of common knowledge but to repeat our previous statement, "it is team work that works." With united people behind him, Plainfield can count upon a happy and successful New Year.

HELPING THE GOVERNOR OUT OF A PREDICAMENT.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Elizabeth Daily Journal, waxes quite indignant over the so-called attempt of certain politicians to dictate to Governor Edge in the appointment of a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas to succeed the present incumbent, James C. Connolly. Were it not for the fact that the Journal is fully aware of the procedure in these matters the editorial printed in its columns recently might be accepted as a justly indignant rebuke but as it is it only puts the author in the primary class of political writers. This is the way the article reads:

"It would be a most unfortunate thing if politics should actually reach out, as there is some indication may happen, and attempt to lay hands on the very important office of the Union County Common Pleas Court judgeship. It would be a misfortune if a political organization should attempt to dictate to the Governor who should fill that position in Union county.

Moreover, it would be an insult to the good judgment, the integrity and interest in the common good of Governor Edge for the Republican county organization to interfere in the appointment of a judge, as some members of it are evidently inclined to do. He can find out all that is needed to be known about the character and ability of candidates without such interference. The action contemplated would only injure the county in the eye of the Governor and the entire State as well.

It would be a gross mistake if the men of better judgment in the county organization do not do all in their power to nip such a baneful political move in the bud.

You will notice that the article talks about "nipping the baneful political move in the bud." The time to have done the nipping is long since passed. It was way back early in the present year when Governor Edge bent a willing ear to Union county politicians who promised him support in his proposed 1918 Senatorial campaign if he would give Mr. Pierce the judgeship appointment. Mr. Pierce in return for a promise to this effect was to leave the way clear for Assemblyman William N. Runyon to become State Senator. This idea was carried out until it came time to give the Republican parties official sanction to a successor to Mr. Connolly and there is where the trouble started. The "big boys" who take it upon themselves to give advice to Governor Edge and everybody else forgot that Plainfield had a man who was in every way fitted to preside over the Common Pleas court and whom the people want to see in the place. This is William Newcorn, who refused to be pushed aside because someone had undertaken to reward Senator Pierce for political services. The Plainfield G. O. P. workers did a whole lot for Governor Edge when he was elected the State's chief executive and would undoubtedly do so again when he runs for the United States Senatorial nomination but as matters have developed he is in a bad predicament.

Governor Edge would like to name Mr. Pierce for the county place but he knows it will bring a hornet's nest about his ears if he does. The Plainfield supporters of the Republican party, and they are sufficient to swing the whole county in the right column, have made it known they will shift their strength to Colonel Austin Colgate if Mr. Newcorn is not named for the judgeship. This Governor Edge does not want and that is why the present controversy came to a head at the Union County Republican meeting last week. Certain factions held out for Mr. Pierce, while another faction, made up of Elizabeth men as well as those from Plainfield, were determined that Mr. Newcorn should remain in the race until the Governor selected either one or the other.

The matter of recommending a man to be named as Common Pleas judge is not a new idea as the Journal would have us believe. It is done with respect to this responsible office the same as with any other and the Journal knows it as well as anybody else. As we said before, the recommendation was really made when Mr. Pierce's strength was promised for a return later. Everything might have gone along smoothly if it had not been that the Plainfielders were justly entitled to consideration and had the temerity to stand up for their rights when the judgeship was discussed at the county gathering. The big politicians must fight it out among themselves or put the whole proposition squarely up to Governor Edge and let him take the consequences in the primaries next fall.

The wise ones know what a split would occur in Union county Republican circles if such a thing as this is done and Plainfielders know there is some tall secret "confabbing" going on with the idea of reaching a point agreeable to all sides before the special meeting called for January 3. It is one best bet at this time that the way will be cleared for the Governor without embroiling him in a local factional fight but which ever man is named it will be on a political "recommendation."

PLACING THE BLAME FOR HIGH COST OF COAL.

Announcement comes from the office of Union County Fuel Administrator John K. English, following recent investigations of the commission, of which John J. Kenny, of this city, is a member, that among the recommendations to be made to State Commissioner Jenkinson is one permitting coal dealers an increased rate for their commodity over what is now being charged. This will prove somewhat disappointing to Plainfielders who have been paying in the neighborhood of $8 a ton for coal.

The decision was reached—if, indeed, it was reached—after a conference with practically all the dealers of the county, and is not, therefore, the result of snap judgment. If the recommendation for an increase in price has gone forth, it is safe to say that such an increase is asked in fairness to Plainfield dealers. The Union county administrator is quoted as saying he failed to see how the dealers were able to make a fair profit on the price now being charged. This means that they, too, are being forced to pay unusually high prices for their supply, and it is natural that they are not in business for the fascination of it.

If coal is to be cheaper we will have to go further back than the local dealers. There will have to be some reorganization at the source of supply. And even so with the extra demands as a result of the war, it is safe to predict that prices anywhere near normal will not obtain until after the war, even with the conservation campaign a success. The best we can do is to pay the price, grin and bear it, and get along with as little as possible, with the thought in mind that it is a war-time exigency.

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS—

When most everybody got a tippet for Christmas?

When the old style big copper pennies and two-cent pieces were in circulation and would induce a "kid" to run an errand that would now call for an exactment of a nickel or dime?

When boys and girls received invitations to surprise parties which read at the bottom, "Please bring sugar" or "Please bring lemons?"

When capacity crowds thronged the Crescent Rink on holidays and "Nate" Guttman's band not only played music inside the building, but gave a free concert out front?

When one of the best coasting places in town was down the hill from the old freight house opposite the North avenue station and the sleighs would run up Sycamore street almost to East Fifth street?

When the Kickapoo Indian medicine companies came to Reform Hall and mixed in the selling of pills and blood remedies with scalped dances and stage coach robberies?

When many a famous case was tried in Judge Nash's court room on Park avenue, where the Manning building stands now, and Amos Moffett served as constable?

When the biggest event of the local bicycle season was the Irvington-Milburn road race and thousands of people from this vicinity journeyed to the course?

When nearly every house in town had a woodshed just back of the kitchen door and father and son frequently adjourned thither for, not "heart to heart" talks, but the kind of punishment that hurt the old gentleman as much as it did the boy only not in the same place?

Mr. Galbraith Gives Reply to Mayor's Letter

The Record is in receipt of a communication from Den. J. Galbraith, addressed to Mayor Leighton Calkins and replying to the letter from His Honor printed in this newspaper last week. The Mayor's communication was the result of a previous one which Mr. Galbraith sent to this office and which stated he would hold the city liable for any damage he might undergo as plumbing contractor through the tie-up on the City Hall. Mr. Galbraith's letter is as follows:

Dec. 27, 1917.

Leighton Calkins,
Mayor and Chairman City Hall Building Committee.
Plainfield, N. J.

Honorable Sir:—

Replying to your letter of the 18th inst: As a contractor, nothing could be more disastrous to a people at war than to have a body of producers at home confronted with the prospect of loss in their commercial transactions. Building contractors (outside the war order contracts) are willing to sacrifice their profits and efforts for a principle. It is not the loss of mere profit that deters men, but the fear of actual loss of their working capital—ruin and not loss is what men fear. Municipal governing bodies should not be so parsimonious as to insist upon the contractors shouldering the entire loss that the war conditions have imposed, conditions that could not be foreseen or anticipated and therefore not provided for by the contractors on work taken on prior to the declaration of war. Cities anticipate new building operations to provide revenue in taxables for the natural increase in the expenses of the various departments, and if not encouragement is given the building contractors, who are the means of producing this added valuation, certainly building operations will cease.

The Federal Government finds it good policy to give out all their building contracts on a cost plus a profit percentage basis, amounting to many millions of dollars.

Municipal bodies should be more liberal in their building operations, as the entire community receive the benefit of the new improvements—a community prosperous in every other line.

As the plumbing contractor for the City Hall, your letter appears to misconstrue the real facts. The city contracted with me to have the building completed in 300 working days from September, 1916, thus my work would have been completed before October, 1917, when the city entered into a form of new contract with P. F. Kenny individually to complete the general contract by December 31, 1917, which extended the time limit. No legal extension of time was made to the original contract, and no strike occurred until after October, 1917, which was under the new general contract for the completion of the building, which new agreement is different from original general contract in time limit, payments, and no bond, etc., therefore no incentive for the early completion of the job.

As a taxpayer, in the new memo. agreement with P. F. Kenny, the city agreed to pay him $2,000.00 on accepting his proposal, obviously before he could have rendered any value for it, also he is not under any bond to secure the performance of the agreement. It appears to me the city fathers took a sporting chance with the taxpayers' money, and some one needs a stimulating shock, if this building is to be completed and furnished for $150,000, as originally promised by the City Fathers.

Respectfully submitted,
DEN. J. GALBRAITH.

SOCIETY CELEBRATES.

The German Beneficial Society observed the twenty-four anniversary of its organization by conducting a reception and entertainment in Saengerbund Hall last night. It was attended by a large number of members and their friends.

DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT.

Edward R. Musgrave, a former well-known Plainfield resident, died yesterday at his home in Inwood, Long Island. The body will be brought to this city tomorrow afternoon following a funeral service at his late home and burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Many Mishaps In Night Ride To Sing Mass

In spite of the bad roads and opposing weather conditions, the soloists of St. Mary's church choir braved the long automobile journey to Camp Dix Christmas eve to enable 1,000 selected men retained at camp over the holiday to attend a high mass at midnight. It was a disheartening and uncomfortable trip in several ways, but the appreciation displayed by the soldiers more than repaid the singers for their trouble.

The mass was celebrated in Knights of Columbus Hall No. 2 by Rev. Father Kirk, of Jersey City, who is chaplain of the 309th Field Artillery. He was assisted by Rev. Father Joseph S. McDonald, chaplain of the 308th Field Artillery, and a former curate of St. Mary's church, this city. The soloists who sang the mass were Miss Mary Donnelly, Miss Florence McCarthy, Albert P. LaRock and Richard O'Neill. Miss Mary Smith, organist of St. Mary's church, acted as accompanist, using a piano in place of an organ which was found to have had its mechanism too greatly disrupted by unskilled military hands. Preparations for the reception of the Plainfield party had been made in advance by Rev. Father McDonald and he and the worshipers poured out their gratitude to the soloists after the service.

The start from Plainfield was made about 9 o'clock and owing to the bad roads various delays were occasioned before New Brunswick was reached. There is very little snow south of that point but it was not until five minutes before midnight that the auto party arrived at the big cantonment. All the centries had been notified of their coming and they were passed through the line so quickly that they reached the hall promptly on time. Despite chilled bodies and numbed hands, the quartet sang splendidly and Miss Smith executed her part of the service with her usual efficiency. Only a few moments were spent at the camp at the close of the mass as the soloists were due back in Plainfield for the 5:30 high mass in St. Mary's church. It was well that they lost no time as various troubles developed before the barracks had been left far behind. In addition to a drizzling rain, the roads became very heavy, causing the gasoline supply to run low and a lot of time was wasted trying to get it replenished at Bordentown. Sleepy garage workmen refused to answer knocks at their doors and the journey had to be resumed to Trenton where the precious "gas" was secured after several failures. Soon after this, a side chain broke, wrapping around the axle and causing another half hour delay. This was overcome, although a demolished mudguard showed something of what had happened, but before New Brunswick was reached Miss Smith found that her valuable lynx muff had dropped from the car. Only a few minutes were spent in trying to locate it when it was realized it was a hopeless task and the party decided to push on to Plainfield. The rain continued, at times falling heavily and it made going very slow, but St. Mary's church was finally reached with only five minutes to spare, exactly the same time as the party had left at Camp Dix. The second mass was accomplished as though nothing had happened, although the members of the party were in anything but the best of physical shape. The mental taking is one long to be remembered but now that it is over everyone taking part is glad that it was done.

Rev. Father McDonald came back to Plainfield with the party and assisted at the services in St. Mary's church all through Tuesday morning. Besides those already mentioned as taking the trip, Mrs. A. P. LaRock and Miss Sadie Hanrahan were also included. The journey was made in Mr. LaRock's car.

Miss Smith has placed advertisements in the New Brunswick, Trenton and Bordentown papers in the hope of securing the return of the lost muff but so far has received no information as to its whereabouts. Anyone knowing of the finding of such an article on the road to Camp Dix would confer a favor by advising her to that effect.

Safe in England After Memorable Trip, Charles Wendell Writes His Impressions

Charles Wendell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wendell, of 515 Madison avenue, who was sent abroad recently as a member of the 165th Ambulance Corps, has written an interesting letter to Herbert Reynolds, of Watchung avenue. It was penned at a resting camp in England on December 2 and reached Plainfield only yesterday. Mr. Wendell entered the service with Albert Brynjarski, of Duer street. Previous to enlistment both young men were employed as pharmacists in the drug department of the local United Cigars Store at Front and Somerset streets. They went across the Atlantic in the same transport and were together in the English camp when Mr. Wendell wrote. Several portions of the letter were deleted by the censor but aside from these and personal mention the letter is as follows:

Dear "Hub:"

After a voyage across the Atlantic, we are now giving England the "once over" thoroughly as we are to be here only one week. We had a wonderful trip over and it certainly was a great experience for me because of the eventfulness of it all. We had every kind of weather imaginable while we were on the water—hot, cold, very cold, clear and stormy. On going on deck one day we found it snowing and the following day in the afternoon we saw rainbows. Some combination, isn't it? At one period of the voyage we encountered a two days' storm that was unmistakably rough. The waves were all of forty feet high and broke all over the second deck. How the boat did pitch and rock and me, poor boy, was sleeping in a room with three others in the bow. You can imagine how we got the full benefit of the rocking. No one was allowed on deck while the storm lasted but in spite of all the tossing, the two Plainfield landlubbers, Al and myself, were not a bit seasick, neither did that detestable complaint get us for a victim all the way over. We count ourselves mighty lucky.

I had a glimpse of Scotland and Ireland on the way over and both appeared to be very pretty, especially the latter. Without admitting any personal interest in the fact, I discovered on arriving in England that the saloons or "public houses," as they call them here, are opened only in the evenings from 6 until 9:30 o'clock. It is absolutely impossible to buy anything in these places to take out, this measure having been adopted by the Government to prevent excessive drinking. The same closing conditions are much the same with respect to the purchase of food. The canteens in camp are opened one hour and a half in the morning and a couple of hours in the evening. We can get a cup of coffee or cocoa for an English penny (.02) but of course there is no sugar in it. We can also buy some little cookies for two cents in American money, but when our shopping list includes "Bull Durham," then is when a real American yell goes up. A bag of this tobacco can be had at home for six cents but over here it costs us eleven pence or twenty-two cents. Bread is passed out at the public places at a penny a slice. I mention these few things in order to give you an idea of the prices over here.

Going back to the trip over I might say that it took us three weeks in all and as far as we could see we were safe all the time. There was a freighter near us, however, that was torpedoed. She was hit way up in the bow, but managed to make port. As far as we could learn no one was killed.

At the present time we are in a dandy big camp that is situated amid pretty surroundings. The men billeted here are both English and American soldiers. There are also a few German prisoners but they are only kept to do some of the work. They are paid for what they do but out of this money must take care of their own board and buy their own clothing just the same as civilians. From personal observation, I would say they received good treatment and get more money than even a British soldier. "Tommy Atkins" himself thinks we Americans are in the millionaire class because we receive "five bob" (five shillings) a day. I was talking to a Scotchman last night who had returned after service directly on the firing line. He told us some very interesting stories, and also sang several British patriotic songs in which he was joined by two English soldiers. We returned the compliment by bellowing out a few of the wartime melodies the Plainfield boys warble. It tickled the Britishers immensely because their idea of a "coon" song is "Way Down In Old New Hampshire" or something like that. I wish I could tell you some of the stories these men told us about the war but if I mentioned any in this letter they would probably be taken out by the censor. You can rest assured, however, that we have a bigger job on our hands than some of the people in the States have any idea. From the way things look here I think England has got most of her young men in the army. All you can see when you go down to the city is old men beyond the age of service, returned soldiers with arms or legs gone or crippled in some other way, and women and children. The women seem to be taking the places of the men in all kinds of work. One of the biggest surprises I have received as yet occurred the other night when, with several of the boys of our unit, I went down to a public house to get a glass of ale. There behind the bar was a young woman serving in the capacity of bar-tender or as they call it here, a "Bar Maid." I sure was stupefied! Another thing which seems queer to us is the way the English people have of doing everything left-handed. They even salute with the left hand and in driving they guide their horse to the left instead of the right as we do. If we happen to be walking down the road and a wagon approaches us, the driver swings to his left to let us go by. It took us some time to get used to this but I guess we are all right now.

There are a lot of other things in this country that would be of interest to you if I described them, but lack of time prevents me at this writing. However, I want to mention the peculiar railway "carriages" which would bring a big laugh from an old commuter like yourself. You used to make fun of the Jersey Central coaches that carried the men to Singer's from the Elizabeth station, but they would seem like a Pullman palace car compared with what you have to journey over the rails in England. About two trips in the ordinary second class carriage and you would never say a thaing about the Jersey Central again. Some other time I will tell you more of the conveyances.

Remember me to all the boys on North avenue, the folks at the United Drug store and best wishes to "Art" McGinley. As soon as I get a chance I will write you again but the next time it will be from some other point.

Yours, as ever,
CHARLIE.

Asks For Helpers To Aid in Filling Out Questionaires

Chairman W. R. Codington, of the local Exemption Board, yesterday issued an appeal for citizens to volunteer their services in aiding registrants prepare their questionnaires. Plainfield lawyers have been generously giving many hours of their time to the cause but they have been almost swamped by the number of applicants seeking their services. All that is necessary for qualifying a citizen for aid in this work is a fair education and ability to answer ordinary questions. Those who can respond are asked to present themselves at Judge Codington's office at Park avenue and Second street for further instructions.

At the present time the questionnaires are being returned very slowly. Less than 150 of those already sent out have been filed up to today but a part of the delay has been due to the congestion of the mails over the Christmas rush. Relatives of registrants are asked to forward questionnaires, if they are not in Plainfield, and any man subject to draft not receiving one should communicate at once with the Exemption office.

Among the citizens in addition to lawyers who have been aiding registrants the past week are: George F. Murphy, George M. Holstein, Howard Lapsley, Walter Marder, M. J. Whelan, Roy W. Lord, Charles L. Hoff, W. F. Merrill, Charles H. Detwiller, E. J. Carpenter, Angus MacKenzie, E. H. Bird, Isaac Post and E. E. Iremonger.

The lawyers of the city who have volunteered to aid registrants in filling out the questionnaires have come to the conclusion that they have undertaken a tremendous task which is growing in alarming proportions as the work proceeds. The first few days showed but little of the great work that was before the associate advisory boards.

Judge James C. Connolly, head of the County Legal Advisory Board, who has given considerable of his time in an endeavor to keep the wheels moving, came to the conclusion early in the game that the task was a gigantic one. It has now been discovered by the large number of lawyers who have freely and willingly given up valuable time to be of assistance to the registrants.

An idea of the task imposed can be judged from the fact that it takes on an average about forty-five minutes to complete the answers to the questionnaire, that is, from a man who is considered fairly intelligent and can grasp the questions. In the cases of foreigners, those particularly who cannot speak English, the task is a stupendous one.

After wading through the multitude of questions asked by the Government, it became apparent that not only lawyers, but a few judges, and one or two lawmakers thrown in for good measure, were a necessary adjunct to completing the work. Many of the lawyers were themselves "stumped."

Books of instruction were not received early enough for the lawyers to study up the matter. Consequently the first day's rush of those in need of assistance was handled with difficulty. There was much exchange of opinion, reference to higher authority and discussion before some difficulties were straightened out and the work could proceed in something like routine.

It also came to light that the questions contained on the list are arranged in such an indefinite manner and give so little space for material of explanation or simple reply that much confusion is caused, not only to the registrants, but to the local advisers as well. The latter are working hard, sacrificing law practice and giving up valuable time to aid the young men to conform to the War Department's requirements.

In most cases the legal advisory boards are working overtime to handle the applicants for assistance. Very few men required to fill the questionnaire attempt to answer the queries without the help of law advisers. All day, and in the evenings, too, the advisory board's offices at the City Hall at 149 North avenue are thronged with young men, anxious parents and relatives, seeking to have the questionnaire and procedure explained to them.

The foreign-born eligibles procide a weighty problem for the lawyers. The questions are so often misunderstood and answered incorrectly that frequent changes are necessary in the answers. It is not infrequent to spend more than an hour with one individual, explaining what the whole thing is about.

There is the additional difficulty of having wives, mothers, fathers and others classed as dependents being present to make affidavit as to the truth of the dependency claim. Besides, most of the men concerned work in such capacities as to make it necessary to take time off, without pay, to visit the advisory boards. In most cases a second trip is necessary, when it is explained that the dependents claimed must be present to vouch for the truth of certain statements. Between attending courts, otherwise looking after their practice and assisting the men eligible for military service the lawyers are having a difficult time of it.

All questionnaires have to be received by the draft boards proper within seven days of being sent out, so the board members have a considerable volume of work to look forward to in so far as deciding and classifying the registrants is concerned. Questionnaires will continue to be sent out until all men registered have received one as far as possible.

Failure to return a questionnaire within the proper time will place the registrant in class 1, the first class to be called in report for physical examination as to fitness for service.

"The Traitor's Mess of Pottage"

Editor, The Record:

When Judas Iscariot, self-executed, died in the field of Aceldama, the world was filled with grief. And now, even after nearly two thousand years, it still grieves that the loathsome spawn of his breed did not die with him.

Even as Judas of old, betrayed and destroyed, the physical existence of the greatest friend mankind has ever had, so too have we within our borders, far too many of his venemous breed, ready as he was, for a traitor's mess of pottage, to betray and destroy the physical existence of our national life.

The fundamental principles of our form of government follows, as nearly as erring human hearts can, the humanitarian ideas of life and liberty, that Christ came into the world to demonstrate.

The Master Christian came not into the world on an errand of blood, but a mission of love. He came to lead men away from the dark paths of envy and hate, into the broad light of a freer and purer life; founded on justice, honor, and truth.

Judas, as a guest at the table of our Lord, foreswore his salt, and with hate in his heart, placed upon the cheek of Christ, the deadly poison of a perjurer's kiss of fealty.

Jesus Christ planted in the hearts of men the seed of an idea that all the forces of hell could not prevail against.

The winds of the east bore them away across the hills and plains of Judea, and along the banks of the Jordan and the Nile till at last, seventeen hundred years later, they burst into full flowered bloom, amongst the hard-won homesteads of Lexington and Concord.

The flowers of freedom shone clear and white as the robe of Christ, on their natal day. But its sunset saw them flecked with blood, even as the robe was, of the silent figure on the Cross.

But the flowers of faith lived on, and our fathers of Lexington and Concord, wove the red flower, and the white, into the fabric of their flag, with the Star of Bethlehem, as the guiding light above.

Christ's message: "The Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh away," was interpreted by our fathers to mean that, to God, and God alone, were they responsible for their actions; and the right of ownership, and control of their bodies, was a God-given right, that was greater than any human power to deny, or curtail.

Greater than all other blessings we have and hold, that right today. A right that was sanctified on Calvary, and consecrated at Valley Forge.

The steady growth of the American governmental principle of individual, political and religious freedom, has long been viewed with grave alarm by the self-appointed, self-annointed, vice-regents of God.

Royalty, and publicity, are incongruous. Royalty cannot answer in a logical or convinced manner, satisfactory to an enlightened public, the question of why? or from whence, comes the so-called right Divine of any one particular family, to occupy the positions of rulers over millions of intelligent human beings.

The raw, cold, clear light of sense and reason, shows the royal claimant to be—not a being endowed with the grace and power of Divinity—but a pitiful egotist, strutting across the stage of life, clad in the tawdy tinsel trappings of a monte-bank.

The utter shame of it all, lies in the fact that out of the patched and all too lean pocket of the poor comes the money that supports the imperial pauper in idleness and luxurious comfort.

The great and ever growing menace to the continuity of the royal illusion in the Republican idea of self-government, and the greatest, and most dangerous of all, is the United States. And, it is to crush and destroy these free people, that the kings have sought the aid of the scum of human life.

The Americans of today have had ample proof placed before them—in the recent revelations of apprehend agents of royalty—of how deep and far-reaching have been the ramifications of their plots.

The liberality of our naturalization laws have been used to their full limit to aid and abet the dark forces of treason. The perjured oath of fealty flows glibly across the perjured lips of the spawn of Judas. The privileges of the citizens' papers have given them free entry into our Councils of State. Citizenship places within their reach, sources of information and data, that no agent, or spy, of a foreign state, should ever have access to.

Justice, untempered by mercy, should be the allotter portion of any person who demonstrates by word or deed, that his oath of felty to the people and government of our country, was the oath of a perjurer and potential traitor. Honor and loyalty, or the Federal prison, or deportation should be the only choice of the alien applicant for the right of the franchise. And under no consideration whatsoever should any man, who had rendered compulsory military service, or was liable for such, under the law of his native land, be eligible for citizenship in the United States.

I have heard a man boast that his papers of citizenship were obtained by fraudulent means. That, not being a believer in the doctrines of the Christian faith, his oath of fealty, sworn on a Christian Bible was neither legally or morally binding. That he belongs to a low standard of humanity, is self-evident, but nevertheless, although keeping within the law, our homes would be safer, and our atmosphere cleaner and sweeter if the diseased parasite, was classed and treated as undesirable.

We have within our borders many, many thousands of splendid men and women, who were born the subject of king or prince. It may be that when they came and sought a home amongst us, that they brought with them but little of the world's treasure of silver or gold. But they came, and offered, that which was infinitely more precious, the unappraisable treasures of clean, honest hearts, and skillful, willing hands. And into this article, no question of their loyalty to the land of their option, enters.

As freely as they helped to develop the culture, happiness and natural wealth of our land, just as freely will they help to the uttermost, in the defence of that which they have so splendidly helped to create. And in their hearts, as in our own, will be found the full measure of scorn and contempt for the perjured wretch who bartered his soul for a traitor's mess of pottage.

J. WATSON.

COUNTY CLERK MARTIN WILL GIVE UP HIS PAY.

At a meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders yesterday afternoon, a letter was received from Lieutenant-Colonel William B. Martin, now stationed at Camp McClellan, in which he stated he would drew no salary as county clerk after January 1, 1918. Colonel Martin explained in the communication that when he first went out of the office there was a possibility that the war might not last and consequently it would only be a short time before he would return. Now, however, it seems as though hostilities will continue for an indefinite period and it was his conclusion that he should accept no salary from Union county.

Colonel Martin pointed out that as a matter of fact the duties of county clerk are being cared for by a man whom he appointed in his place and who he pays. He would have appeared in person before the Board, he said, but could not because of his military duties.

Despite Colonel Martin's determination to take no money, the Board of Freeholders are not fully decided as to what could be done with the Colonel's salary, which is $6,500 a year.

OBITUARY

Personal Mention of Plainfielders and Others Who Have Heeded the Summons of Death During the Past Week.

THOMAS H. RODDY.

Death came in Muhlenberg Hospital last Saturday afternoon to Thomas H. Roddy, formerly of Arlington avenue, but more recently of the Stillman building on West Front street. He had been ailing for more than a year with Bright's disease and had been undergoing treatment at the institution at various times during that period. A few months ago he recovered sufficiently to return to his old position at the former Potter Press Works, where he had been employed for nearly thirty years. A few weeks ago, however, the old malady reasserted itself and he was forced to again return to Muhlenberg. The trouble continued to become more acute and for several days previous to the end it was realized that a fatal termination could not be averted.

The funeral was held in St. Mary's church Wednesday morning and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Rev. Father Bozan said high mass of requiem and took occasion to speak of Mr. Roddy's exemplary life and the many years of service he had rendered St. Mary's parish as a faithful member of the church choir. There was a great profusion of flowers, several of the contributions being large set pieces. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Those who acted as pallbearers were: James Kyle, Joseph Griffen and Edward Gobill, representing the A. O. H.; John Cline, Peter Thompson and Peter Markey for Court Plainfield, I. O. F.

Mr. Roddy was born in England in 1868 but came to this country before he had reached his majority. He located in Plainfield about thirty years ago after entering the Potter Press Works as a machinist, his trade having been acquired in England. He was an expert in his particular branch and was considered one of the most faithful and efficient men in the big shop. During the illness that prevented him from working, his mind kept reverting to the fact that his services were especially needed in this time of National stress and he really went back to his place before he was in proper condition. While in the other employes at the plant he was held in the highest esteem and numbered practically everyone of his associates as a close friend.

Mr. Roddy possessed an excellent singing voice and acted as bass soloist in St. Mary's choir for ten years. He resigned when it became apparent that his illness was becoming serious and the exertion of practice nights was too great a strain. Beside being a member of St. Mary's church and the Holy Name Society, Mr. Roddy was a member of Division No. 4 A. O. H., and Court Plainfield, I. O. F. His only near surviving relatives are his widow, who was Miss Annie Hirzins, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hirzins, and two sons, Maurice and James. Maurice joined the Aviation Corps only a few weeks ago and his whereabouts were unknown until Monday, when a card was received from him stating that he was located at the aviation training camp at San Antonio, Tex. By the time a telegram reached him it was too late for a trip to Plainfield to attend the funeral service. The young man is a skilled cartoonist and was taking a special course in this branch of art work at a New York school when the spirit of patriotism induced him to put aside his studies for the national cause. The deceased also leaves one brother James Roddy, whose home is in Hoboken.

ANDREW J. CONWAY.

A death which occurred under unusually sad circumstances and caused universal feelings of regret throughout the city was that of Andrew J. Conway, which occurred late last Friday night at his home on Terrill road. He fell a victim to pneumonia which followed a slight cold contracted while at work in the local plant of the Standard Aero Corporation. At the same time he was battling for his young life, his eldest daughter, Anna, was in a critical state with the same disease. Although her father passed away it was believed she would succumb but a fortunate turn for the better came Sunday and since then she has been improving rapidly. At the present time her complete recovery is assured.

The funeral of Mr. Conway took place in St. Mary's church, Monday morning, and the gathering of relatives and friends was very large. It included many residents of Westfield, in which town the deceased had a very large acquaintanceship accumulated through his seventeen years as professional golfer and superintendent for the Westfield Golf Club. The flowers, many of them large set pieces, were ample evidence of the esteem in which the young man was held. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following friends since boyhood days, acting as pall-bearers: Harold Sharkey, Arthur Thorne, Charles Montross, Joseph Green, Charles Wahl and Emil Kraemmer.

Mr. Conway was the sone of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Conway of East Second street, and was born in this city thirty-one years ago. The family lived for a long time on upper North avenue and as a boy Andrew became known to practically everyone in the East End of town. After leaving school he secured employment on the Westfield golf course as a caddie. This position taught him the rudiments of the "ancient and honorable" game and in his spare moments he practiced with the clubs at his command. It was only a short time after he had made his first "put" that the members of the club noticed that he had the makings of a good player and became interested in his development. Within a year he had become what might be termed a "boy wonder." He mastered all the fine points of swinging the brassy or lofter, could send gutta-percha from one green to another with a record number of strokes and beat "bogie" whenever he pleased.

The trustees of the Westfield club realized Mr. Conway's talent as an instructor and appointed him professional for the organization when he was still in his teens. He also became superintendent of the course, a position requiring more than passing knowledge of landscape work as well as understanding the needs of golfers. When the Japanese professionals came to this country for championship tennis games a few years ago, they played on the Westfield course and remarked after the conclusion of the tournament that the tennis facilities and the golf course were among the best kept of any they had seen in this or any other country. The same opinion was expressed by many accomplished who frequently played on the courts of the Westfield people. Mr. Conway himself occasionally took part in his matches and he was known throughout the metropolitan section as one of the best golf players in the East. Last spring he decided to try a different line of work for a short time and to that end entered the Plainfield shop of the Standard concern. He had made excellent progress in his department when the fatal illness overtook him.

Beside his parents, Mr. Conway is survived by his wife and five children, also six sisters and four brothers. The children are: Anna, Eleanor, Andrew, Dorothy and Mildred. The surviving sisters are: Mrs. James Devine, of Fanwood; Mrs. B. A. Doyle, of Cranford; Mrs. Morris Powers, and the Misses Margaret, Mary and Alice Conway, all of this city, and the brothers are John M., William, David and James P. Conway, all of Plainfield. John is a foreman at the Hall Printing Press Works and James is a member of the local police force as patrolman.

CHRISTOPHER KELLY.

Christopher Kelly, one of the best known residents in the "Maple Grove" section of Clinton avenue, in Piscataway township, died at his home last Saturday after an illness from an infection that developed gangrene. The funeral was held in St. Mary's church, this city, Monday morning, and was conducted by Rev. Father Walter Hennessy. Many relatives and friends from this vicinity, Bayonne, New York and Brooklyn were in attendance. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers; Jeremiah Ten Eyck, of South Plainfield; William Dougherty, of Bayonne; Frank Martin and Charles Ward, of Piscataway township.

Mr. Kelly was a native of Ireland, where he was born in 1836, but had lived in this country more than fifty years. Most of his life was spent in the Clinton avenue section, where he died and where he had one of the best kept, best conducted farms near Plainfield. His accountancyship was very wide, extending beyond the confines of Plainfield to Dunellen, South Plainfield and the entire suburban district.

Surviving Mr. Kelly are his wife, two daughters and four sons. They are: Mrs. William Dougherty, of Bayonne; Miss Mary E. Kelly, of Brooklyn; Christopher J., Francis P. and Charles A. Kelly, living at the arental home on Clinton avenue, and Joseph E. Kelly, of North avenue this city.

JOHN R. WINANS.

John R. Winans, a veteran of the Civil War and resident of this city for the past thirty years, died last Saturday night at his home, 324 West Second street. He had been ill only one week. Mr. Winans, who was seventy-six years old, was a native of Bound Brook and the funeral took place at the home of a relative in that town this afternoon. Burial was in the Bound Brook cemetery.

Mr. Winans was a mason by trade and at various times had worked for local contractors. His enlistment in the War of the Rebellion was with Company K, Eleventh Connecticut Infantry. His only near surviving relatives are cousins residing in Bound Brook.

JOHN GILBERT TAYLOR.

John Gilbert Taylor, aged forty-three years, a resident of this city for a number of years, died in Muhlenberg Hospital last Sunday morning, following an operation performed on Saturday for appendicitis. He had been ailing with the trouble for a long time but had tried to overcome it by medical treatment instead of resorting to the knife. His condition became acute late last week and the operation deemed an absolute necessity. Complication developed immediately afterward which made it impossible to save his life.

The funeral was held at the late home at 1159 South Second street, Wednesday afternoon, and was in charge of Rev. D. W. Skellenger, pastor of Hope chapel, where Mr. Taylor and his family attended religious service. The floral tributes included a large set piece from the employes of the clerical department of the Jersey Central offices in Jersey City. The deceased was employed there for many years. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Taylor's only near surviving relatives are his wife and one daughter, Miss Laura Taylor, residing at the parental home.

WILLIAM NESTER.

The funeral of William Nester, whose death occurred at Bonnie Burn last Saturday, was held in his late home on East Third street, Monday afternoon. The service was in charge of Rev. E. C. Conover, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, and was largely attended. Burial was in the cemetery at Scotch Plains.

Mr. Nester was the son of Mrs. William Nester, of Scotch Plains, and had lived in this vicinity all his life. He was a carpenter by trade. Beside his mother, he is survived by a wife and five children.

PATRICK J. RYAN.

While joking with his physician, following an attack of heart trouble, Postmaster and former Mayor Patrick J. Ryan, of Elizabeth, suffered a second stroke shortly before noon Tuesday and died instantly. He had seemingly rallied from the first attack and his death was not expected.

Mr. Ryan was born in New York in 1845 and came to Elizabeth in 1860. He was engaged in the dry goods business until 1871, when he was appointed clerk of the public market. Two years later he became overseer of the poor, which department he reorganized and placed on a plane of efficiency. In 1902 he was elected councilman-at-large and reelected. He became Mayor the following year upon the death of Dr. William A. M. Mack. He was then elected to the office in 1904 and re-elected in 1906.

After engaging in the real estate business for several years with his brother and later the firm name of P. J. & W. H. Ryan, he was appointed postmaster by President Wilson five years ago. He was president of the board of managers of the State Hospital at Morris Plains, treasurer of the Monument Inn Point Conl Co., treasurer of the board of managers of the General Hospital and was connected with various lodges and societies. He was a member of St Mary's Catholic church.

Mr. Ryan is survived by a widow, Mrs. Mary Ryan, and five sons and two daughters. The funeral services were held this morning at 1 o'clock in St. Mary's church.

Military Reserve Plans Are Announced

Acting adjutant General Frederick Gilkyson yesterday gave out Circular No. 8 of his department, containing regulations which are to govern the new State Militia Reserve, which is to be formed out of the Home Guard organizations of the State in recognition of their patriotic spirit shown informing throughout the State at the inception of America's entrance into the world conflict. The regulations allow for a maximum number of men to a company in the Militia Reserve is to be 110 men and the minimum sixty-one. The minimum of separate platoon is to be 27. hTere is to be a captain, first lieutenant, second lieutenant, first sergeant, mess sergeant and supply sergeant, four other men of this rank, 12 corporals, 2 cooks, 2 buglers and 84 private in a maximum company. In a minimum company there is no mess sergeant, only 6 corporals and 42 privates. A platoon shall consist of a second lieutenant, 2 sergeants, 3 corporals and 21 privates.

It is expressly stated that the Militia Reserve will not be called for service by the Governor except in an emergency, and then only for duty within the State, which latter service will be voluntary upon the part of the members.

State armories will be used for the units of the reserve under regulations prescribed by the quartermaster general. Any male citizen of the United States, or person who has legally declared his intention to become a citizen, between 18 and 64 and minors under 18 with parental consent, may be accepted for enlistment in the *Militia Reserve. An en*listed man will not be discharged, unless by order of the Governor, by court martial sentence; on account of disability; civil sentence to prison; change of residence to another State or enlistment in the regular branches of the government service; a member of the Reserve changes his residence in the State, he shall be transferred to a unit of the Reserve in his new location, if there be such there. If there is no unit in the locality, then the man may be discharged by order of the Governor.

When an enlisted man absents himself without leave, he may be dropped from the rolls as a deserter but only with express order of the Governor. He may be re-instated by the same process. A soldier moving to another State and seeking discharge from the Reserve must show that his removal is bona fide and his discharge justified.

Quarterly returns of the strength of all Reserve units are to be submitted to the Adjutant General's office after March 31, June 30, September 30 and December 31 of each year.

Miss Edith Pearson, of East Second street, has been entertaining Miss Helen Lawson, of Brooklyn.

Soldiers Intended Porker As Bed Mate For Everett Colby

The six Hooverites who are visiting the American Expeditionary force in France awake one Sunday morning recently at reveille after spending the night in haylofts and barracks, somewhat better acquainted with conditions under which the American soldiers are living. To begin with, this was to have been the story of how Everett Colby, of Llewellyn Park, slept with a pig. Mr. Colby and the other representatives of Herbert Hoover wanted to sleep and eat under exactly the same conditions as the doughboys. Thereupon the press officers in charge of the arrangements "framed it up" on the New Jersey man. They happened to know that in a certain village where in militiamen were quartered there were presented ideal advantages for roughing it. Ten soldiers were billeted in a certain barn owned by an old villager who obstinately refused to allow the Americans to disturb his pig, which had been occupying the same bayloft with them for some time. The press officers arranged to have one soldier move for the night to give Mr. Colby accommodations next to the pig. Then, the following morning, the correspondents were to interview the Jerseyman on his impression of the pig and the pig on the impression of his fellow lodger. But the pig's owner had been left out of the calculations. The night was cold so the villager moved the pig into his own quarters where there was fire.

So the world will never know what Mr. Colby thought of the pig and vice versa.

Teller to Remain Freeholders' Head

Although there will be several special meetings before the end of the year to finish up old business, the next important session of the Board of Chosen Freeholders will be held at the Elizabeth courthouse at noon on New Year's Day, for the purpose of organizing for the coming year. That there will be no contests as in past years is certain, as it has been practically agreed who will get the different positions. George C. Teller will undoubtedly be re-elected director of law and clerk. He took the place as head of that body last year, when there were several aspirants for the berth, but this year he is understood to have no opposition. Benjamin King, of Rahway, will likely be picked as clerk again.

The passing of seven members in favor of others who won their seats on the county board at the last election will of necessity cause a number of changes when the committees are formed. There will probably be an engineering committee and a prison farm committee in addition to the old ones.

Those who go out of office this year include Elias F. Applegate, of Elizabeth, and Samuel P. T. Wilbur, of Plainfield, both of whom were candidates for the surrievalty nomination; Peter Meisel, of Springfield, who also aspired to be sheriff; Bradford ones, of New Providence; William Randolph, of Rahway; John Woodruff, of Roselle Park. Ernest G. Gommel was elected to fill Applegate's place and Dr. H. P. Dengler and Elias H. Bird secured Meisel's and Wilbur's berths without opposition. All the others who will retire were defeated at the polls in their attempts to get re-elected. Percy Honeyman won out over Jones in New Providence. David Trembley over Randolph in Rahway, J. G. Miller over John Woodruff in Union and D. J. Farren over Noah Woodruff in Roselle Park. The latter borough changes its representative for the first time in years.

No Dearth of Salt, Fielder Declares

There is no shortage of salt in the United States. This was the statement made yesterday by State Food Administrator Fielder. Any attempt to advance the price at retail is nothing more or less than a gouge on the public, Mr. Fielder stated.

Consumers are urged not to hoard salt, for an abnormal demand because of freight inconvenience, although the salt works of the country can easily produce eight times the present normal demand.

Mr. Fielder is determined that there shall be even justice as regards distribution of the more essential foodstuffs. Particularly is the want on discovering whether there is any evasion of the law governing the selling and hoarding of sugar. In his desire to have co-operation in respect to a campaign of conservation where candies and other sweets are concerned, Mr. Fielder states it is not a pleasant task to ask one particular line of business to momentarily hold back its output, but under existing conditions it would seem that no other course is open than to conserve all around.

State Commission Proposes Plan to Cut Living's Cost

Municipal purchase and sale of food to the people of the State is proposed in bills which accompany a report submitted to Governor Edge by the commission on the high cost of living.

Particular attention is given in the report to the possibility of supplying fodo fish at reasonable prices, and to this end the commission has recommended full State control of fisheries, except shell fish. Much of the fish now sold in this State is caught in New Jersey waters, but is sold through New York and Philadelphia establishments. This means that the people now at not only paying middlemen, but are paying freight charges two ways.

It has been adduced that fish are caught off the South Jersey coast, shipped to Philadelphia, where it is resold and shipped back for instance to Atlantic City. Similar conditions have been found in northern New Jersey."

The provisions for the handling of other food through official hands contemplates bringing the consumers of the large centersl n closer touch with the various farmers' exchanges which have sprung up through the State. This is expected to provide better returns for the producer and to enable the consumers to obtain farm and sea supplies at a considerable reduction from prices which they have to pay when the articles are sold through the intervention of a commission man and a retailer. It is expected to bring about the elimination of two profits. In the case of fish it means in many cases the cutting o.ut of three profits between the fisherman and the kitchen

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATION AT LOCAL POSTOFFICE.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for Union county to be held at the Plainfield Postoffice on January 26, 1918, to fill the position of rural carrier at Plainfield, and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other postoffices in the above-mentioned county. The examination will be open only to male citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a postoffice in the county and who meet the other requirements set forth in Form No. 1977. This form and application blanks may be obtained from the offices mentioned above or from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C. Applications should be forwarded to the Commission at Washington at the earliest practicable date.

GOETHALS URGES VEHICLE TUNNEL UNDER HUDSON.

A tunnel for vehicles will be built under the Hudson River from Manhattan to New Jersey at a cost of $12,000,000 if a plan outlined to New York and New Jersey officials by General George W. Goethals is accepted.

General Goethals is in favor of immediately constructing the tube of sufficient height to accomodate trucks, with a roadway above for motor cars. He says that motor vehicles could operate under the river without endangering the public health by poisonous gases which their exhausts give off.

Cleopatra's Dinner Shown In Pictures Coming Next Week

In these days of economy, food conservation, and the "clean dinner plate," it is interesting to note how man's appetite has decreased, or perhaps it were better to say, how it has been refined through the ages. What did Cleopatra serve to Antony and the Roman guests at that great banquet at Tarsus which is so splendidly reproduced in William Fox's film, "Cleopatra."

Roman historians have left us a record of that celebrated feast. So to begin with there were marine hedgehogs. Oysters and mussels followed by field fares with asparagus, preceded by fattened fowls with pasties of roe rib, boars' ribs, ducks and hares. In those days there was no trust to raise the price of meat and there was no better show of magnificence than a great variety of roast-dishes. Little is told of the deserts. Our historian only speaks of March pastries, but a glance at the list of the menu is enough to convince us that even the mighty appetite of Antony had to succumb to such an array of rich dishes. Of course, there were wines, red and white, served in beautiful cups after being mixed with spices in the great bowls by the "master of the revels," the glorified bar-tender who took his duties most seriously. The table service at this feast was worthy of its contents and can be seen during the engagement of Theda Bara as "Cleopatra" at the Plainfield Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, January 2 and 3, for it was of gold and silver encrusted with precious stones and was so famous for the splendor of its design that, as the historian says, it was the envy of all women present. Apparently women of nineteen centuries ago had something in common with modern housewives.

Big Laughing Show For New Year's Day

Go to the Plainfield Theatre New Year's Day, afternoon or night, and you will laugh till your sides ache. In that occasion will appear the popular burlesque aggregation, Barney Gerard's "Follies of the Day," in an entirely new book, entitled "Oh, You Shakespeare!" Mr. Gerard, the author and producer, has hit upon another new theme which is sure to prove as successful as "What Does the Public Want?"

Mr. Gerard, who is looked upon in burlesque as one of the progressive authors and producers, has hit upon an excellent theme in the book he has provided for this year's edition of "Follies of the Day." The theme deals with a compact made between a character who is known as "Burlesque," and is portrayed by Miss Gertrude Hayes; "A Tired Business Man," portrayed by John Williams, and Shakespeare, the Bard of Avon, portrayed by Fred Collins. These three characters meet mysteriously in a dark setting during the prologue of the play. The "Tired Business Man" and "Burlesque" lament the absence of new ideas on the stage and they wish for a new idea when Shakespeare appears carrying a bundle of manuscrips, and tells them he can comply with their wishes. It is then the compact is made by the terms of which Shakespeare agrees to produce a burlesque show. From this faint idea it may be gleaned that the entire make-up of the show is Gerard's own. The book is by Davy, in the comedy skit, "The Woman Hater," and Macvitie and Rose in the comedy sketch, "Waiting For His Pants." There will also be comedy and dramatic pictures and the Pathe News Weekly.

Vaudeville will hold the boards at his opposing ace he is in furnishing new ideas for his book each season. The three featured stars, George P. Murphy, Miss Gertrude Hayes and Chester Nelson, have been furnished with unusually bright lines and situations that should show them before their many admirers in better form than ever. A youthful chorus of rare beauties, said to be new faces in burlesque, has been carefully selected by Mr. Gerard and they are no small portion of the bright breezy entertainment.

During the action of the play there is introduced travesties and burlesques on the following successes: "Experience," the famous morality play; "The Easiest Way," well-known on the stage and screen and the spectacular success of last season, "The Wanderer," which enjoyed such a lengthy engagement in New York city.

All in all, "Follies of the Day" is presenting this season the biggest show since its first edition, produced ten years ago.

"At Rocky Pass" at Plainfield Theatre

"At Rocky Pass," a novel offering featuring singing and dancing of the breezy, rocky mountain type, proved a big winner at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday as the feature number of the new six-act program for the last half of the present week. It was presented by a company of seven capable people who kept the audience delightfully entertained for twenty minutes with a series of up-to-date songs and choruses and different styles of dancing. The production has a beautiful setting that includes several electric transformations.

Closely seconding "At Rocky Pass" in popularity on the bill is Davis and Stafford, two black-faced comedians who have been seen in Plainfield on previous occasions. They are offering as a song and dance number their specialty with the Bon Ton burlesquers of last season entitled "We're in the Jail House Now." The manner in which they deliver this comedy song and execute dance movements is a positive scream. The number is pronounced to be one of the best the Plainfield Theatre has had this season.

The remainder of the program that will continue today and tomorrow is made up of Charles Ledinger, "the Bounding Rube," in a trampoline novelty; Austen and Stuart, the Englishman and the actor; Cole and Denahy in the comedy skit, "The Woman Hater," and Macvitie and Rose in the comedy sketch, "Waiting For His Pants." There will also be comedy and dramatic pictures and the Pathe News Weekly.

Vaudeville will hold the boards at the theatre next Monday and for this occasion Manager Shannon has booked a special New Year's Eve program. Legitimate attractions will be offered Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and vaudeville will return Friday and Saturday to round out the week.

Ban on Movies Underway in State

A State-wide movement looking toward the enactment of a motion picture censorship law was launched at Trenton, this week, at a meeting in the Senate chamber of representatives of the leading religious bodies in the State. A committee was appointed to consider the form the proposed law shall take. One of the questions to be determined was the establishment of a State censorship. If such a board is incorporated in the measure, and it becomes a law, the Governor will have the power of appointment.

Among the bodies taking the initiative in the movement are the Trenton Diocese Federation of Catholic Societies, the Holy Name Societies of the Diocese of Newark, the Episcopal Dioceses of New Jersey, the Southern District of the Methodist Conference of New Jersey, and the Baptist and Jewish organizations. The Newark Diocese of Holy Name Societies advocated a similar law in the session of 1916, but at that time it was not placed on the statute books.

Should such a law be placed upon the statute books there would be more or less of a rigid censorship over films promoted in this State. Pictures of an immoral character would be eliminated entirely, while Sunday movies would, no doubt, cease. It was decided at the meeting that the question of whether or not a board should be provided for by the Legislature, should be left to the discretion of a committee composed of the following clergymen and laymen:

The Rev. William Best Eddy, rector of St. Michael's P. E. church, Trenton, who is chairman of the committee; Francis J. Smith, of Beverly, secretary of the Trenton Federation, secretary of the committee; Rabbi Solomon Foster, of Newark; Rev. Leon K. Williman, of Asbury Park M. E. church; Attorney Peter J. Backes, of Trenton, president of the Trenton Federation; Rev. Father Michael P. Corcoran, of Newark, chaplain of the Holy Name Societies of the Newark Diocese; Cannon Wells, social service secretary of the Episcopal Dioceses of New Jersey; Rev. Judson Conklin, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Baptist church, Trenton; Rev. Father William Petry, of Atlantic City; Rev. Heber D. Ketchum, pastor of the State Street M. E. church, Trenton; Rev. Father William P. Cantwell, pastor of St. Mary's R. C. church, Perth Amboy; Rev. George H. Neel, of the Bridgeton M. E. Conference District, and the Rev. Father Joseph F. J. Fitzpatrick, of the Newark Diocese.

The committee will be requested to file a report with the allied organizations at a meeting to be held at the State House, at an early date, on their findings. Upon the committee's recommendation for or against a motion picture board will depend upon what action will be taken by the associated interests.

It was the consensus of opinion at the meeting that New Jersey should have a motion picture board of review similar to those operating in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Kansas and many other States throughout the Nation.

Miss Ulric's Love Of Music and Drama

There is something strangely paradoxical in the love of Lenore Ulric for music. Since a very little girl the harmony of sound has shared in her heart with her passion for the theatre. Before she was knee high she would instantly stop the most absorbing play whenever the strains of a piano floated to her from any source whatsoever. And even after the melody stopped she would sit still as one in a dream until somebody would recall her attention to other things. Such a manifestation in a child of three or four years naturally interested Miss Ulric's parents with the belief that they had a musical genius in the family. As her years increased her love of music grew proportionately, and it happens now as in that yesteryear that this girl who has won so great a success in her portrayal of the heroine of "Tiger Rose" at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, can do nothing else when there is a beautiful melody in the air. It will therefore be a somewhat puzzling thing for the reader to learn that, despite every effort at training, Miss Ulric has never been able to achieve a decent rendition of any musical composition. Her feeling for music is intense, but she cannot play. She has never been able to learn the mechanical side of the art, although she is thoroughly familiar with all the works of the great masters, and finds her greatest happiness and relaxation in attending a concert or opera.

In her picturesque characterization of Rose Bocion in "Tiger Rose" she reaches the height of her joy in the beautiful performance during that scene in which Pierre La Bey (Pedro De Cordoba) plays for her a melody. So realistic that the girl takes it up instinctively, in humming the accompaniment to Pierre's violin Miss Ulric displays a voice of rare sweetness and adds an additional note of charm to her performance. But when it comes to the piano, or the violin, or the playing of any other musical instrument, it is obvious that Miss Ulric will never find an adequate expression of life through music.

"Doesn't is seem a strange, strange thing to you that it should mean so much to me and that I should yet be unable to learn to play?" she questioned an interviewer, who reminded her that she should be satisfied with her great medium of expression through her histrionic genius.

"Oh, I am grateful for that!" she exclaimed; "I am very grateful. I do not love the theatre less because of my love of music. I think I love it more because it affords me an outlet for this other great love as well as that I feel for it. I know too that no love of anything beautiful is ever lost. So I know that my absorbing passion for music is expressed somehow through this other art that is so akin. Nevertheless I sometimes stand by a wonderful musical instrument knowing what dreams it contains; what moods; what harmony of sound; what divine fire for the one who knows how to touch it aright, and it seems to me that the heart of me shall break because my own fingers cannot learn to obey my soul."

Editorial Briefs

COMMENT EXPRESSED BY NEWSPAPER MEN IN THIS AND OTHER STATES ON CURRENT TOPICS.

Right Direction.
(From the New York World.)

"From Detroit to Berlin" is the label on the army trucks that are attracting attention in their run to the seaboard. Nothing like starting in the right direction.

No Time for Loafing.
(From the Trenton Times.)

Governor Townsend, of Delaware, says that every able-bodied man must work, and "if the names of any idlers are furnished me I will see that they art put to work at some useful occupation." That is under*taking a big contract, but in these* days, when help is needed in every direction, it is necessary that drastic methods shall be resorted to.

The young loafer who refuses to work should be conscripted into the army or navy, where something can be found for him to do, even if he is physically unfit for service in the ranks, and the man of maturer years can help. If he is rich, or in comfortable circumstances he can at least make his money work for him.

The women of the country, who are knitting sweaters, stockings, mittens, bands and helmets, making dressings, engaging in Red Cross, Liberty Bond, Food Conservation, Home, Garden Thrift Certificates and other activities of the war, are settin ga good example; and if Governor Townsend can make the idle men of Delaware work, the other Governors will not be slow in following his lead.

Strange, Eh?
(From the Charleston News.)

The Senate seems much more eager to investigate Messrs. Baker, Daniels and Hoover than to investigate La Follette.

Weeding Them Out.
(From the Washington Post.)

National Guard officers who were taken into the Federal service and who are unable to qualify for their positions, in a physical or military sense, are to be relieved of their commands.

Under the National Defense act when the militia of the various States is taken into the Federal service, the officers must be taken also. The reason for this provision is obvious. It manifestly would be unfair for National Guard officers to work for years in building up the militia only to be succeeded by Regular Army officers when the time came for active service. To guard against this, the provision was inserted in the bill making it obligatory that the officers be taken with the men.

But once the National Guard officers are mustered into the Federal service, they must stand upon the same ground as regular officers, and must be able to pass the usual tests. If they are physically unable to stand the rigors of a field campaign, or if they show a lack of ability to enforce discipline and command the respect of their men, they must give way to others, just as a regular officer must stand or fall according to his merits. The War Department has full authority to make any changes it sees fit among the officers who came into the Federal service with the National Guard.

The Trouble.
(From the Dallas News.)

At this distance it looks as if it is no trouble to get heads for the various Russian movements, but impossible to get brains.

The Public Disappointed.
(From the Camden Post-Telegram.)

It must be admitted that Federal control of the fuel situation has been disappointing. In the face of the fact that more coal has been mined and delivered in 1917 than in any previous year, there is a very serious shortage and actual distress in many ensuing centers, particularly in the East. There is a strong suspicion that Dr. Garfield, eminent though he may be as a pedagogue and publicist, is a misfit as Federal Fuel Administrator. Would it not have been better if the President had selected for that position a man with practical knowledge of the coal industry and of known executive ability?

The policy of regulation and red tape applied to the coal producers has not been successful. Why not change the policy, give the operators freedom, appeal to their loyalty and see if their output be not increased?

The people trustingly followed the Fuel Administrator's advice last summer, depending upon his promise of an ample supply before cold weather set in. They have been disillusioned, their confidence in the U. S. Fuel Administration has almost vanished.

New Stamp Revenue.
(From the New York World.)

The three-cent stamp added more than $5,000,000 to the post receipts for the month of November. With every letter carrying a bullet, the pen may become mightier than the sword after all.

Bright Congressman.
(From the Philadelphia Record.)

Congressman Wood, of Indiana, who wants a law passed to make unlawful the purchase of Liberty Bonds for less than par, is the same bright person who a year ago made charges of a White House leak by which important news filtered out to stock market speculators. Liberty Bonds are securities which must find their level, like all offerings of stocks and bonds. It is not to their discredit that they are now slightly below par. Their safety as an investment is in no way affected by this drop. Mr. Wood's proposed law would have the effect of denying to a Liberty Bond purchaser a market at a time when it might be absolutely essential to him to realize on his investment. It would deprive him of his personal rights, and would beyond doubt be illegal.

"Slave" of Baseball.
(From the New York World.)

A baseball player who was "sold" for $50,000 by a club which originally "bought" him for $750, thinks he ought to have $10,000 of the purchase price. Have the "slaves" of organized baseball any property rights? It will be interesting to learn what amount of tax on profits will be paid to the Government for his lucrative transaction.

Brains Twisted Again.
(From the Albany Journal.)

We are inclined to suspect that the consumption of vodka has been resumed in Russia.

Now the Seatless Street Car.
(From the Philadelphia Telegraph.)

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, has found it rather repugnant of Senatorial dignity to be compelled to ride in the Washington street cars hanging to a strap while many passengers are enjoying seats.

He therefore proposes that the seats shall be taken out, providing seatless street cars along with wheatless days and meatless days, and so forth. Two objects are sought —to provide more standing room and create a truly democratic situation by putting all riders on the same level.

Both objects would be attained by removing the seats, but the scheme will not be popular with any but those who rarely or ever get a seat, and possibly with some managers who have frankly proclaime that it is the strap hanger who enables the company to pay dividends. If that be the fact the more strap hangers the more dividends, and that is what the business is carried on for.

The number of persons who are rarely or never lucky enough to get a seat is large, however, and they may feel like backing Senator Norris in his reform. If so he will have considerable support, not only in Washington, but in all the large cities of the country.

Competition.
(From the Washington Post.)

The railroads are now being charged with stifling water competition. That's an indictment that'll never be brought against Mr. Bryan.

Vehicular Tunnel in Sight.
(From the Jersey Journal.)

Governor Edge is apparently eager to push the Hudson River vehicular tunnel proposition at the same time that he is assisting South Jersey get behind the movement for a bridge between Philadelphia and Camden. Already, the bills covering these two projects and a third bill providing for the raising of the money by a new direct State tax have been drawn up and are ready for introduction in the Legislature when it convenes next month.

General Goethals estimates that the combined cost of the bridge and tunnel will be about $24,000,000 and that New Jersey's share of this cost will be $12,000,000. Jersey City, which will furnish the western terminus of the tunnel, is vitally concerned and looks for an early solution of this big problem.

It is needless to say that these bills will be among the most important that will be offered at the coming session and that they will be the signal for a very thorough discussion of the entire system of financing these vast State road, tunnel and bridge undertakings.

Ukrainia Looms.
(From the Boston Transcript.)

In the prevailing anarchy in Russia, the one portion of the country which hangs together and keeps its head is the Ukraine—that vast and naturally rich southwestern or southeastern region which is owned by an Austrious race, essentially Russian, but speaking a separate dialect, which in some sense makes it a section apart from Russia of the north and east. The Ukrainians seem to have a very definite notion of what they want and they have a responsible government of their own which is in the main obeyed. They will not let the Bolshevik troops pass through their territory to attack the Cossacks, and they are standing pat thus far on protection of their own firesides.

Perhaps the new Ukrainian republic will turn out to be a power with which the Germans will have to reckon. Its borders are likely to extend with the demonstrated weakness of the anarchist control at Petrograd. All Russia may eventually make the discovery that it is Ukrainian. The difference, in any case, is slight. If allied with the new and formidable Cossack power, the Ukrainian Government might go far toward restoring peace to the whole distracted nation.

Sugar Probes.
(From the Washington Post.)

Sugar probes conducted in the domestic bowl have convinced numerous Washington families that there's nothing in it.

"Speed Up."
(From the Trenton Times.)

State Comptroller Buchee has notified some of the employes in his department that they must "speed up" in their work, if they expect to retain their places. Both Democrats and Republicans have been placed on the anxious seat, which indicates that no partisility is to be shown because of political leanings.

If reports are true, there is occasion for prodding up some of the auditors. Creditors of the State have been complaining because they cannot get their accounts settled, though the bills in some instances were passed several months ago by departments or institutions that incurred the debts.

Mr. Buchee is a successful business man and realizes the importance of prompt settlements, if the credit of the State is to be preserved. The admonition given to "speed up" or beware to give way to accountants who will, ought to be productive of results. Labor may be scarce, but it can be found to put in six or seven hours a day, at salaries ranging from $1,200 to $2,200.

His Gift.
(From the New York World.)

The Kaiser's Christmas present to the German people is another cordial invitation to them to die for the Hohenzollerns.

An Incentive to Church Union.
(From the Auburn, Maine, Citizen.)

Fuel saved in churches, like fuel saved in other edifices, helps to increase the supply available for the health and comfort of our populace, and if certain prejudices are eliminated and genuine *cooperation en*ters into the scheme there is no question that many hundreds of tons of coal could be saved during the period of cold weather by a combination or union of churches. If small congregations could unite in one union service, or if the larger congregations could agree to hold services in the same heated building at different hours on Sunday, there could inquestionably be a substantial saving of fuel.

Sugar Shortage May Continue a Month

The local sugar situation does not indicate that conditions will materially improve till probably some time in February. Hope to the contrary had been aroused by the fact that 10,000 pounds are being distributed systematically this week in Jersey City. In commenting on this subject, Herman Hersh, of L. F. Hersh & Brother, stated that 10,000 pounds for a city the size of Jersey City was a mere drop in the bucket.

"Our customary purchase of sugar," said Mr. Hersh, "is 20,000 pounds weekly, but at the present time we are actually receiving less than one-tenth of that amount. I do not see any indications of relief till some time in February, when the new crop begins to move.

"At present there is only one refinery working in New York and vicinity, and that concern is handicapped by receiving only a very limited amount of raw material. And in the distribution of sugar the Government demands are satisfied first, then come the manufacturers of condensed milk, and lastly the general consumer. We were fortunate in getting sugar originally purchased for Russia, but the allotment to us was so small that it afforded only temporary relief.

"The West is better off in some respects than we are, as it has beet sugar on hand to meet emergencies. Such sugar would help the situation in the East very materially, but the committee appointed by the American Refiners, which acts under instructions of the Pure Food Commis*sion, rarely* allows beet sugar to leave the West.

"However," continued Mr. Hersh, "wholesalers and retailers, with very few exceptions, are doing their best to handle the situation with fairness and dispatch. We must all be on our guard to prevent profiteering by unscrupulous sellers as well as hoarding by customers who are in position to buy large quantities and pay well for it."

OFFICIAL PICTURES TO SHOW WAR PREPARATIONS.

To aid in spreading the gospel of Americanism at home, the Congressional Committee on Public Information has created a division of pictures and weekly illustrations for sermons, school lectures and Chautauqua speakers. Official stereopticon slides showing America's participation in the war are now in the course of preparation for general distribution. The pictures are de*scriptive of what progress* has been made thus far in preparing America for the world struggle.

The division hopes the display of the slides will help combat the propaganda persistently circuated by enemy sympathizers.

Facts Concerning the Production

It represents the co-ordinated playing of 30,000 people.

It tooks months to make and represents the expenditure of huge sums for the erection of Egyptian and Roman cities.

It portrays the world's first naval battle—the battle of Actium—and the first great naval conflict ever filmed.

80 vessels were especially constructed for the naval battle scenes, and later burned to the water's edge.

Miss Bara wears fifty distinctively different costumes. Before and during the production ten seamstresses were constantly working on Miss Bara's costumes.

To match each costume the Siren of the Nile wears a complete set of jewels—fifty sets of dazzling baubles.

2000 people who do not appear on the screen were active in the work of production—carpenters, masons, painters, hostlers, ship builders and the like.

3000 horses were used in the battle and desert scenes.
